And they ſet down the Ark of God;] When they came to David, they ſet down the Ark in the Place where he was, to ſignify that God would be with him, and accompany him; and that the People might thereby be excited to follow him, who had the Token of the Divine Preſence with him.

And Abiathar went up,] To the Top of the Mount Olivet.

'Till all the People had done paſſing out of the City.] From the Mount he could behold, when the People, who would follow David, were come out of the City. And then, I ſuppoſe, he came down, and deſired that the Ark and the King might move up the Hill alſo.

Ver. 25. And the King ſaid unto Zadok,] The Talmudiſts have a fancy that the King ſpake to Zadok, not to Abiathar, becauſe he had removed Abiathar from the High-prieſthood: Upon this account, that he conſulting by Urim and Thummim, God gave no Anſwer; but when Zadok inquired, God did anſwer. Whereupon David underſtood the Spirit of God was departed from Abiathar, and therefore turned him out of his Office. Which is notoriouſly falſe; for he was not turned out till the Reign of Solomon.

Carry back the Ark into the City:] For he did not think it decent to have it wander about with him he knew not whither; as Abarbinel obſerves: And perhaps he thought God might be angry with him, ſhould he let it be carried out of its place: As if he truſted in the Ark, which was but the Token of his Preſence, more than he did in God himſelf, who had preſerved him him in the Perſecution of Saul, when he had no Ark with him.

If I find favour in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me again, and ſhew me both it, and his Habitation.] It was not for the Honour of the Ark, as I ſaid, to take it out of the Place which he had made for it; which he calls God's Habitation, becauſe there he dwelt by this ſpecial Token of his Preſence in it. And if he had a Favour to him, he knew he could preſerve him without the Ark, as well as with it; and bring him again to worſhip him in his proper Place.

Ver. 26. But if he ſay, I have no delight in thee; behold, here am I, let him do to me as ſeems good in his ſight.] He was very ſenſible of his own ill Deſervings; and humbly ſubmits to whatſoever Puniſhment, even the heavieſt, that God would think fit to inflict upon him.

Ver. 27. And the King ſaid alſo unto Zadok the Prieſt,] He is frequently called by Joſephus, the High-prieſt: Particularly in Lib. 7. Antiq. Cap. 6. where he ſaith David made him Ἀρχιερέα μετ' Ἀβιαθάρη, φίλος γὰρ ἦν αὐτῷ, High-prieſt together with Abiathar: for he was his Friend. But hereby we are only to underſtand that he was the Sagan, as the Jews call the Vicar or Deputy of the High-prieſt; who is called the Second Prieſt, 2 Kings xxv. 18. See Selden de Succeſſ. in Pontif. Ebræor. Lib. 1. Cap. 4.

Art thou not a Seer?] A very wiſe Man, or a Prophet, who could not but diſcern in what ſtate things were likely to be, and that he might ſerve David better by ſtaying in Jeruſalem than going along with him.

Return into the City in peace, and your two Sons with you, Ahimaaz thy Son, and Jonathan the Son of Abiathar.] This was another Reaſon for ſending back the Ark: for as it was not fit to keep it with him, and the Prieſts and Levites alſo to attend it, ſo they might do him more Service elſewhere than in his Camp.

Ver. 28. See, I will tarry in the Plain of the Wilderneſs,] He put an intire Confidence in them, that they would not betray him, by acquainting them where he meant to reſt a while, to wait for Intelligence from them.

'Till there come word from you to certify me.] What Abſalom deſigned; and accordingly he intended to ſteer his courſe.

Ver. 29. Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the Ark of God again to Jeruſalem; and they tarried there.] Mention being made both here, and alſo ver. 33. of Zadok before Abiathar, it ſeems to intimate ſome Preference to him, and to juſtify what Joſephus ſaith, that he was the King's Friend; and being conſtantly with him was more honoured than Abiathar.

Ver. 30. And David went up the Aſcent of Mount Olivet, and wept as he went up, and had his Head covered, and went barefoot:] Dejected, as Salvian gloſſes, into the Condition of a Servant; or rather in the Habit of a Mourner. For covering the Head was a Token of Shame and Confuſion, and great Trouble; and ſo was going barefoot. Which was uſed on the great Faſt, or Day of Expiation, as we find in Codex Joma, Cap. 8. tho' the Doctors ſay, they might put on Woollen or Linnen Socks, but no Leathern Shoes. And this was obſerved alſo in Funerals, as Buxtorfius ſhews in his Synagoga Judaica, Cap. 49. which was a Cuſtom in the days of Ezekiel, xxiv. 17. Nor were the Heathen Strangers to it; but in times of great Calamity went barefoot, as that excellent Perſon Ezekiel Spanhemius obſerves in his Notes upon Callimachus his Hymn ad Cererem, ver. 125.

And all the People that were with him, covered every Man his Head, and they went up, weeping as they went up.] Going bare-foot alſo, it is moſt probable, as the King did; whoſe Example they followed.

Ver. 31. And one told David, ſaying, Ahitophel is among the Conſpirators with Abſalom.] This touched him very nearly, becauſe he was a very wiſe Man, and one whom he took for his Friend, Pſalm lv. 13.

And David ſaid, O LORD, I pray thee, turn the Counſel of Ahitophel into Fooliſhneſs.] He prays that he might give fooliſh Counſel; or that it might be contemned and looked upon as fooliſh; or that it might miſcarry in the Execution.

Ver. 32. And it came to paſs, that when David was come to the Top of the Mount, where he worſhipped God,] Looking towards the Ark in the Houſe of God; which he could ſee from the Top of the Mount.

That Huſhai the Archite came to meet him,] There was a City in the Tribe of Ephraim called Archi, Joſh. xvi. 2. where this Perſon, in all likelihood, was born and bred, and coming to Jeruſalem, became one of David's Privy Council: Being famous for Wiſdom; otherwiſe Abſalom would not have ſo readily entertained him, and admitted him into his Secrets.

With his Coat rent, and Earth upon his head:] Which were Expreſſions of great Sorrow. Joh. Braunius hath demonſtrated, the Garment called Ketonah was round, like our Surplices, with Sleeves to put the Hands and Arms into it. Which was worn by great Perſons, not only among the Jews, but the Ægyptians, Tyrians, and Aſſyrians, he obſerves, (Lib. 2. de Veſtitu Sacerd. Hebr. Cap. 2. Sect. 13, 14.) which may incline us to a Belief, that Huſhai was no mean Man, but a Perſon of Quality.

Ver. 33. Unto whom David ſaid, If thou paſs along with me, then thou wilt be a burden to me.] For he was not provided with Maintenance for his own Family; and Huſhai being no Soldier, but a Counſellor, could not be ſo uſeful to him in the Field, as he might be at the Court.

Ver. 34. But if thou return to the City, and ſay unto Abſalom, I will be thy Servant, O King;] So he was to call him, becauſe he had taken upon him that Title.

As I have been thy Father's Servant hitherto, ſo will I now alſo be thy Servant:] He would have him pretend he would be as faithful to him as he had been to David; and it was very well known he had done him good Service. This was not honeſt; but it was according to the Policy practiſed in thoſe days, and indeed in all Ages. Which Procopius Gazæus approves ſo far as to ſay, that a Lye which is told for a good End, is equivalent to Truth. But I dare not juſtify ſuch Doctrine; though what Huſhai undertook to do, was not to get Money, or to do others hurt, but to preſerve a good King, and a Prophet, and a Friend.

Then mayeſt thou for me defeat the Counſel of Ahitophel.] God he thought had ſent this Man, in anſwer to his Prayer (ver. 31.) if he would but follow his Direction.

Ver. 35. Haſt thou not with thee there, Zadok and Abiathar the Prieſts? therefore it ſhall be, that whatſoever thou ſhalt hear out of the King's Houſe, thou ſhalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the Prieſts.] Whom he looked upon as truſty Perſons, and faithful to his Intereſt; and ſo they proved.

Ver. 36. Behold, they have there with them their two Sons, Ahimaaz Zadok's Son, and Jonathan Abiathar's Son: and by them ye ſhall ſend unto me every thing that ye can hear.] They were not with their Fathers in Jeruſalem; but lay cloſe in a Place not far off, ready to carry any Meſſage that was ſent by them. See xvii. 17.

Ver 37. So Huſhai David's Friend came into the City, and Abſalom came into Jeruſalem.] Where Huſhai, I ſuppoſe, waited for his coming: having got thither before him, and ſo ordered his Affairs, that it was not known he had been to offer his Service to David: Or, thoſe that knew it, out of reverence to him, and affection to David, did not diſcover it.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſe 1. AND when David was a little paſt the Top of the Hill,] viz. Mount Olivet, xv. 30.

Behold, Ziba, the Servant of Mephiboſheth met him with a couple of Aſſes ſaddled, and upon them two hundred Loaves of Bread, and an hundred Bunches of Raiſins, and an hundred of Summer-fruits, and a Bottle of Wine.] They put their Wine into Bottles, or Bags; ſome of which were large Veſſels, and contained a great deal of Wine. Such no doubt was this, which had Liquor in it, proportionable to the reſt of the Preſent.

Ver. 2. And the King ſaid unto Ziba, What meaneſt thou by theſe? And Ziba ſaid, The Aſſes are for the King's Houſhold to ride on,] For his Wives and Children, if they were weary with travelling on foot; as they now did.

And the Bread and Summer-fruits for the young Men to eat,] For the Refreſhment of the King's Attendants.

And the Wine, that ſuch as be faint in the Wilderneſs may drink.] This argues great Conſideration of David's Condition: To which he ſuited his Preſent; which in a Wilderneſs came very ſeaſonably, and was very noble; perhaps the Bunches of Raiſins were intended for David's own Support.

Ver. 3. And the King ſaid, And where is thy Maſter's Son?] He deſired, I ſuppoſe, to know whether this Preſent was from himſelf, or from Mephiboſheth.

And Ziba ſaid unto the King, Behold, he abideth at Jeruſalem: for he ſaid, To-day ſhall the Houſe of Iſrael reſtore me the Kingdom of my Father.] This ſeems to be a Fiction, but well contrived: for the Family of David being ſo broken, he might think it probable the Crown would fall to him.

Ver. 4. Then ſaid the King to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that pertained unto Mephiboſheth.] We read ix. 2. that Ziba was but a Servant (ſee there) but now David makes him a Freeholder; giving him a great Eſtate: Which, if he ſaid true, was forfeited to the King for Treaſon, as it had been before in the time of Iſhboſheth, and thereupon given to Mephiboſheth. But in this David ſeems to have been too credulous, and raſhly condemned Mephiboſheth before he heard what he could ſay for himſelf; but he imagin'd, perhaps, that Ziba durſt not tell ſo notorious a Lye, which might ſhortly be diſproved. And beſide, a Man that comes to relieve another who is in great diſtreſs, eaſily wins his good Opinion.

And Ziba ſaid, I humbly beſeech thee, that I may find grace in thy ſight, my Lord, O King.] He pretends to value the King's Favour more than the Gift he had beſtowed upon him.

Ver. 5. And when King David came to Bahurim,] A City in the Tribe of Benjamin (xix. 16.) into the Territories of which David was now come; though not as yet into the Town itſelf, as appears from ver. 14. The Targum calls it Almoth, which is of the ſame ſignification with Bahurim; the one importing young Men, and the other Youth.

Behold, thence came out a Man of the Family of the Houſe of Saul, whoſe Name was Shimei the Son of Gera: he came forth, and curſed ſtill as he went.] Out of an inveterate Hatred to David; whom he looked upon as the great Enemy of his Family.

Ver. 6. And he caſt ſtones at David,] In contempt of him: Or, as ſome fancy, to reproach him with the Adultery he had committed; for which he deſerved to have been ſtoned.

And at all the Servants of King David:] This ſhews it was done only in contempt of them; as if they had been a Company of Dogs.

And all the People, and all the mighty Men were on his right hand, and on his left.] He was under ſuch a ſtrong Guard, that Shimei's Rage was little leſs than Madneſs; for he could not hurt David, but might have been immediately killed himſelf.

Ver. 7. And thus ſaid Shimei when he curſed, Come out, come out,] As much as if he had ſaid, get thee out of the Kingdom, from whence thou deſerveſt to be expelled. So the Words are in the Hebrew; Go out, go out: The doubling of which Words expreſs his vehement Deteſtation of him.

Thou Man of Blood, thou Son of Belial:] So they called all thoſe that made their Will their Law. But R. Levi Ben Gerſom thinks he hath reſpect in theſe laſt Words to the Adultery committed with Bathſheba; as in the firſt, he might have to the killing of Uriah.

Ver. 8. The LORD hath returned upon thee all the Blood of the Houſe of Saul,] This was perfect Railing: For David had ſhed none of their Blood; but he maliciouſly imputes to him the Death of Abner, and of Iſhboſheth.

In whoſe ſtead thou haſt reigned,] In effect, he calls him an Uſurper.

And the LORD hath delivered thy Kingdom into the hand of Abſalom thy Son: and behold, thou art taken in thy Miſchief, becauſe thou art a bloody Man.] He ſtill vomits out the ſame Reproaches, with a moſt wicked Spirit, which the Greeks call ἐπιχαιρεκακία; rejoicing in Iniquity; to ſee Abſalom ſo proſperous in his horrid Rebellion.

Ver. 9. Then ſaid Abiſhai, the Son of Zeruiah, unto the King, Why ſhould this dead Dog curſe my Lord the King?] See iii. 8.

Let me go over, I pray thee, and take off his Head.] There was admirable Diſcipline obſerved in this ſmall Army, none of which durſt ſtir without David's Order, or Leave. And this, according to human Reaſon, was a juſt Motion which Abiſhai made: He being very near of kin to David, as Shimei was to Saul, and therefore a fit Perſon to ſtop the mouth of ſuch a mad Dog, by cutting off his Head.

Ver. 10. And the King ſaid, What have I to do with you, ye Sons of Zeruiah?] He ſpeaks this with ſome Indignation; and reflects upon Joab, as well as Abiſhai, who had been the Occaſion of theſe Reproaches.

So let him curſe, becauſe the LORD hath ſaid unto him, Curſe David.] God neither bid him curſe David, nor excited him to it; but finding his Heart full of Malice and Rage, gave him an Opportunity to vent it, as a Puniſhment unto David. Unto which the good King humbly ſubmits; looking upon it as coming from the hand of God, who delivered him up to this Contempt. And in this, David's Virtue was admirable: For it is not an eaſy thing to ſtifle all Motions to Revenge, when it is eaſy to take it, and there is an high Provocation to it. It is an Obſervation indeed of Cicero's (Orat. de Aruſpicum reſponſis) that perditi hominis profligatique maledictis, nullius gloria dignitaſque violatur; by the Reproaches of a wicked, profligate Fellow, no Man's Glory or Dignity is hurt or violated. But David doth not ſcorn theſe Curſes, out of meer Greatneſs of Spirit, as coming out of the mouth of a baſe Wretch, not worthy to be regarded; but acknowledges the Juſtice of them, and bears them with a ſingular Patience, out of Humility and Reverence to God, who had ſo ordered it.

Who ſhall then ſay, Why haſt thou done ſo?] He doth not mean, who ſhould aſk Shimei ſuch a Queſtion, but who ſhould take upon him to find fault with God, who had juſt reaſon to ſuffer this? Tho' Grotius thinks David excuſes Shimei in theſe Words. For ſpeaking concerning the Reſpect that is to be uſed to Kings, in not giving them publick Reproaches; he excepts thoſe which are given by a Prophet, who had a ſpecial Command from God for it. Upon which account he ſaith, when David was openly upbraided by Shimei as a Murderer, he had no Excuſe to make for him but this, that perhaps God had commanded him to do it; ſhewing that this alone could make it lawful to ſpeak evil of the King, if God, in a ſpecial manner enjoined it. Lib. de Imperio Summar. Poteſt. circa Sacra, Cap. 9. Sect. 19.

Ver. 11. And David ſaid unto Abiſhai, and to all his Servants, Behold, my Son, which came forth of my Bowels, ſeeketh my Life: how much more may this Benjamite do it? Let him alone, and let him curſe; for the LORD hath bidden him.] His Paſſion ſeems not to have been at all ſtirred by this impotent Railer, and endeavours to quiet the Spirits of others; calmly reaſoning himſelf and them, with admirable Conſideration, into an humble Patience: For what were the Revilings of a Stranger, to the murderous Intentions of a Son? And how could he withſtand God, who inflicted this Puniſhment upon him for his Sins?

Ver. 12. It may be the LORD will look upon my Affliction, and that the LORD will requite me good for his curſing this day.] He durſt not be confident, being conſcious of his ill Deſervings; but he had ſome hope, that God would be as gracious to him, as this Man was malicious.

Ver. 13. And as David and his Men went by the way,] Taking no notice of him.

Shimei went along on the ſide of the Hill over-againſt him, and curſed as he went, and threw ſtones at him, and caſt duſt.] Neglect of him made him more outragious; which gave David occaſion to exerciſe the greateſt Patience, under ſo long a Vexation.

Ver. 14. And the King, and all the People that were with him, came weary,] Not only with their Journey, but with Grief.

And refreſhed themſelves there.] At Bahurim, ver. 5.

Ver. 15. And Abſalom and all the People of the Men of Iſrael came to Jeruſalem, and Ahitophel with him.] As ſoon as David was got into the Wilderneſs, he took poſſeſſion of Jeruſalem, and the King's Palace.

Ver. 16. And it came to paſs that when Huſhai the Archite, David's Friend, was come unto Abſalom,] Among others, that came to welcome him to Jeruſalem.

That Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, God ſave the King, God ſave the King.] He not only owned his Authority, but with great affection ſeemed to deſire its Countenance. Which was an egregious piece of Flattery and Diſſimulation.

Ver. 17. And Abſalom ſaid, Is this thy Kindneſs to thy Friend? why wenteſt thou not with thy Friend?] Abſalom had not ſo little Senſe, as not to conſider, that no Man ought to forſake a Friend in his diſtreſs: Though at the ſame time he did not reflect, how he had not only forſaken, but forced away his own Father. So that one might have ſaid to him, Is this thy Duty to thy Father?

Ver. 18. And Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, Nay, but whom the LORD and this People and all the Men of Iſrael chooſe, his will I be, and with him will I abide.] The Voice of the People he pretends to look upon as the Voice of God; and that he was bound to prefer the publick Good before his own private Obligations or Affections.

Ver. 19. And again, Whom ſhall I ſerve? ſhould I not ſerve in the preſence of his Son? As I have ſerved in the preſence of thy Father, ſo will I be in thy preſence.] He gives a ſecond Reaſon; that he ſhould not offend againſt David, in giving good Counſel to his Son.

Ver. 20. Then ſaid Abſalom to Ahitophel, Give counſel among you what we ſhall do.] I ſuppoſe Ahitophel was made Preſident of the Council (as we now ſpeak) who required the reſt to deliver their Opinions after he had delivered his.

Ver. 21. And Ahitophel ſaid unto Abſalom, Go in unto thy Father's Concubines, which he hath left to keep the Houſe,] It appears, by this, he was a profane Politician, who did not regard by what means, how wicked ſoever, he compaſſed his ends. The Hebrews think alſo, that by this

Counſel

Counſel Ahitophel gratified his own Revenge, becauſe David had lain with his Grand-daughter, as I before noted.

And all Iſrael ſhall hear that thou art abhorred of thy Father,] That he and his Father were become irreconcilable Enemies. For Ahitophel involved him in a greater Sin than that for which he killed Amnon: It not being ſo foul a Crime to lie with his Siſter, as it was to commit Inceſt with his Father's Wives.

Then ſhall the Hands of all that are with thee be ſtrong.] When they were poſſeſſed with an Opinion, that the Father and Son could never come to an Accommodation. Which might have been hoped between ſuch near Relations; and then the People had been in an ill Condition; for David might not have been reconciled to them, tho' he was to his Son. But after this deteſtable Crime, there was no likelihood that they would ever be Friends again.

Ver. 22. So they ſpread Abſalom a Tent upon the top of the Houſe, and Abſalom went in to his Father's Concubines, in the ſight of all Iſrael.] Who were ſtrangely depraved, in that none of them ſhould cry out againſt ſuch abominable Wickedneſs.

Ver. 23. And the Counſel of Ahitophel which he counſelled in thoſe days, was as if a Man had inquired at the Oracle of God:] It was ſo ſure and ſafe, that it was commonly followed, without any doubting of the Succeſs. Such was this Counſel which he now gave; for there was no greater Danger to him and all Iſrael, than for Abſalom to repent, and ſubmit to his Father: therefore he endeavoured, as I ſaid, to make them irreconcilable, by doing his Father the higheſt Injury. Such was this to which he adviſed, as we learn by Jacob's Reſentment of it in his Son Reuben, and many other Examples, for which I refer to Grotius. He made the Breach therefore thus wide, that it might never be healed: For if it had, David might have called him and others, in due time, to an account for their Treaſon.

So was all the Counſel of Ahitophel, both with David and with Abſalom.] While David was in proſperity he gave him faithful Counſel; but now in his Diſtreſs as wiſely conſulted his Ruin. For as Procopius Gazæus obſerves, accommodavit ſe rebus præſentibus. He was one of thoſe who complied with the preſent State of things; and now, with great reaſon, adviſed to make haſte to diſpatch David; fearing leſt natural Affection ſhould work a Reconciliation, and he ſhould be puniſhed for his Perfidiouſneſs.

CHAP. XVII.

Verſe 1. MOreover, Ahitophel ſaid unto Abſalom, Let me now chooſe out twelve thouſand Men,] Out of the whole Multitude of the Iſraelites that followed Abſalom: A thouſand choice Men, I ſuppoſe, out of each Tribe; for he knew it would take up too much time to gather all the Forces of Iſrael together, and give David an Opportunity to eſcape.

And I will ariſe and purſue after David.] It ſeems he was a Soldier, as well as a Counſellor: Or at leaſt, he thought his Counſel ſo ſure of being ſucceſsful, that he undertook himſelf to put it in execution. He was afraid alſo, that if Abſalom ſhould command them himſelf, natural Affection might make him ſpare his Father, and not take away his Life; or perhaps work an Agreement between them; and ſo leave him in danger, as I ſaid before, to be called to an account for his Rebellion.

This Night] The next, I ſuppoſe, after David went away: For Speed was the main thing on which he depended.

Ver. 2. And I will come upon him while he is yet weary] With a long March.

And weak handed,] Before he had got more Forces together.

And I will make him afraid:] Strike a Terror into him, by this ſudden Attack, and in the Night, when he was ill provided.

And all the People that are with him ſhall flee,] Finding how unable they were to reſiſt ſuch a Force.

And I will ſmite the King only.] And ſpare all the People, whom he would not purſue.

Ver. 3. And I will bring back all the People unto thee:] By this means he doubted not to make an end of the War preſently: And to bring all Iſrael to be his Subjects.

The Man whom thou ſeekeſt, is as if all returned:] By ſmiting David, with whom alone was his Quarrel, the whole Nation would come in to him: There being no other, to whom they ſhould ſubmit, when he was dead.

So all the People ſhall be in peace.] Thus they ſhould have a Peace without War; by taking and killing him, which would preſerve both the People which were with Abſalom, and thoſe with David. They ſhould all be ſaved, and he alone deſtroyed.

Ver. 4. And the Saying pleaſed Abſalom well, and all the Elders of Iſrael.] For it was very ſound Advice: It being dangerous to deliberate long about ſuch wicked Deſigns, which muſt be executed ſpeedily: So Tacitus well obſerves, Scelera impetu, bona fide conſilia mora valeſcunt; Wicked Counſels prevail by ſudden Violence, but good by Delays.

Ver. 5. Then ſaid Abſalom, Call now Huſhai the Archite alſo, and let us hear likewiſe what he ſaith.] It was a Proverb, it is likely, before Solomon's time, that in a multitude of Counſellors there is ſafety; by which Abſalom reſolved to govern himſelf. But the Providence of God is chiefly to be here noted: who made Abſalom irreſolute and doubtful, even in that Counſel which was approved by all the Elders of Iſrael, and was evidently the wiſeſt that could be given.

Ver. 6. And when Huſhai was come to Abſalom, Abſalom ſpake unto him, ſaying, Ahitophel hath ſpoken after this manner:] Relating what he had ſaid, ver. 2, 3.

Shall we do after his ſaying?] Follow his Advice.

If not; ſpeak thou.] He gives him full liberty to ſpeak freely, if he were of another Opinion: which he might deliver without offence, either to him or any body elſe.

Ver. 7. And Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, The Counſel that Ahitophel hath given, is not good at this time.] He confeſſed him to be a Man of extraordinary Judgment; but no Man is wiſe at all times: And he thought now he was in an Error, for the following Reaſon.

Ver.

Ver. 8. For (ſaid Huſhai) thou knoweſt thy Father, and his Men, that they be mighty Men,] Old Soldiers, who are aware of the Danger wherein they are, and will provide againſt it, that they be not eaſily ſurprized.

And they be chafed in their Minds,] So extremely provoked and exaſperated, that it would be dangerous to fall upon them with ſo ſmall an Army as Ahitopel propoſed. For ſuch deſperate Perſons would ſell their Lives at a dear rate.

As a Bear robbed of her Whelps in the Field:] All Men know that a Bear is a very fierce Creature: And good Authors, particularly Ariſtotle, obſerves, that She-Bears are fiercer than the Male, eſpecially when they have Whelps to take care of, as the ſame Philoſopher writes, Lib. 6. Hiſt. Animal. C. 18. But moſt of all inraged, when their Whelps are killed, or taken away from them; which is mentioned often in Holy Scripture, Prov. xvii. 12. Hoſea xiii. 8. where Kimchi obſerves, that they bring forth their Whelps wrapt up in a very thick Skin, which it coſts them a great deal of pains to free them from; and therefore grieves them more, when they find they have laboured in vain. See Bochart in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 3. Cap. 9.

And thy Father is a Man of War, and will not lodge with the People.] Of ſuch Experience in warlike Affairs, that as his Men would defend him ſtoutly, and with great Fury, ſo when all was done, it was probable Ahitophel would not know where to find him; for great Captains having diſpoſed their Force to the beſt advantage, and ſet their Guards, oftentimes retire themſelves from the Camp, and lodge in ſome ſecret Place.

Ver. 9. Behold he is hid now in ſome Pit, or in ſome other Place:] Some Cave, or other lurking-place; as he was in the days of Saul, who was never able to catch him.

And it ſhall come to paſs, when ſome of them] That is, of Abſalom's Forces.

Be overthrown at the firſt,] As might well be ſuppoſed, if David's Men ſhould come on a ſudden upon them, out of an Ambuſh, and put the firſt Ranks into diſorder, if not make a Slaughter among them.

That whoſoever hears it, will ſay, There is a Slaughter among the People that follow Abſalom.] This News would preſently be ſpread through the whole Army, and Fear make them think the Slaughter greater than it was.

Ver. 10. And he alſo that is valiant, whoſe Heart is as the Heart of a Lion, ſhall utterly melt:] For Men are apt to conjecture of Succeſſes by the Beginning; and it is a great Encouragement to Men to fight when they proſper at the firſt Onſet; and mightily diſheartens thoſe that are beaten. Lions are not only very ſtrong, but very furious Creatures; and therefore valiant Men are ſaid to have the Hearts of Lions, and the Faces of Lions, (1 Chron. xii. 8.) and the Army of Locuſts to have the Teeth of Lions (Joel i. 6.) But no Men are ſo terrible, but they may be terrified, when they are ſuddenly and unexpectedly ſurprized by Men as terrible as themſelves, and far more incenſed and juſtly enraged.

Voſſius thinks that the word Lebi, which in Hebrew ſignifies a Lion, comes from the word Leb, which in that Language ſignifies the Heart; as much as to ſay, Cordatus, an hearty Creature, full of Courage: Whence the Greeks call a valiant and generous Man, θυμολέοντα and λεοντόθυμον. See him, Lib. 3. de Orig. & Progr. Idol. Cap. 52. and Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 3. Cap. 2.

For all Iſrael know that thy Father is a mighty Man, and they that be with him are valiant Men.] Who would purſue any Advantage with the greateſt Courage and Reſolution.

Ver. 11. Therefore I counſel, that all Iſrael be generally gathered unto thee, from Dan even to Beerſheba, even as the Sand that is by the Sea in multitude,] He means all the fighting Men throughout the Country, which were very numerous. In which Advice, his chief Aim was to gain time for David to raiſe an Army by the help of his Friends; for all Iſrael could not preſently be gathered together, and put into Order of Battle.

And that thou go to Battle alſo in thy own Perſon.] Which would encourage the People to fight valiantly, when he was at the head of them; and would win him great Glory, in owing his Victory to his own Conduct, and not to other Mens.

Ver. 12. And ſo ſhall we come upon him in ſome place where he ſhall be found; and we will light upon him as the Dew falls upon the ground:] He compares the Multitude of their Soldiers to the Drops of Dew, which cover the Face of the whole Earth; ſo that if David was in the Field, he could not eſcape, but he would fall into the hands of ſome or other of them.

And of him, and of all the Men that are with him, there ſhall not be left ſo much as one.] For his Army would be ſo large as to ſpread itſelf over all the Country, and ferret David and his Men out of all their Holes, by ſearching every one of them. This Counſel was very plauſible to one who relied upon the Greatneſs of an Hoſt; and Huſhai was alſo ſo cunning as to ſpeak as if he would accompany him.

Ver. 13. Moreover, if he be got into a City, then ſhall all Iſrael bring Ropes to that City, and we will draw it into the River,] He repreſents a further Advantage of ſuch a Multitude; that if David quitted the Field, and got into the ſtrongeſt of their Cities, encompaſſed with high Walls, and a deep Ditch, they were enow to begirt it round, and by Ropes put about the Walls, draw them down and all the Houſes of the City, into the Ditch that run about it. There was no ſuch thing, that we read of, practiſed in War; therefore ſome by Chabalim (which we tranſlate Ropes) underſtand Troops, or Bands of Men, who by Machines drawn with Ropes, could batter down Walls and Houſes: or rather, this is a bragging hyperbolical Speech, that they ſhould be ſo numerous as to be able to do this, if there were no other way to reduce the City.

Until there be not one ſmall Stone found there.] Much leſs any Man remaining there.

Ver. 14. And Abſalom and all the Men of Iſrael ſaid, The Counſel of Huſhai is better than the

Counſel

Counſel of Ahitophel:] For ſo it would naturally ſeem to Men that had a bad Cauſe, and were cowardly, having nothing but their Numbers to depend upon.

For the LORD had appointed to defeat the good Counſel of Ahitophel, to the intent that God might bring evil upon Abſalom.] But the chief Reaſon was, that God blinded their Eyes, and infatuated their Judgments, that they could not diſcern what was beſt, but take that courſe which would ruin Abſalom. Such is the wonderful over-ruling Providence of God, in more Caſes than we are aware of; for, as St. Hilary ſpeaks, concerning the Rage of Hereticks, Si quantum audet impietas, tantum conſuleret prudentia, difficile eſſet veritatis cauſam agere. If Wickedneſs were as wiſe and prudent in Counſel, as it is bold and daring in Attempts, it would be hard to maintain a good Cauſe.

Ver. 15. Then ſaid Huſhai to Zadok and Abiathar the Prieſts, Thus and thus did Ahitophel counſel Abſalom and the Elders of Iſrael; and thus have I counſelled.] He acted the part of a true Friend to David, but not of a truſty Servant to Abſalom, whoſe Counſels he betrayed.

Ver. 16. Now therefore ſend quickly, and tell David,] Carry him this Intelligence with all ſpeed.

Saying, Lodge not this Night in the Plain of the Wilderneſs, but ſpeedily paſs over;] The River Jordan.

Leſt the King be ſwallowed up, and all the People that are with him.] For fear Abſalom ſhould change his Reſolution, and incline again to the Counſel of Ahitophel; who being a Man of great Authority, might perſuade him his Advice was the trueſt.

Ver. 17. Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz ſtaid in Enrogel,] A Place near Jeruſalem (Joſh. xv. 7, 8.) which the Targum tranſlates the Fuller's Well; becauſe, as Kimchi ſays, the Fullers there trod their Cloth with their Feet; for he derives Rogel from the word Regel, which ſignifies a Foot.

(For they might not be ſeen to come into the City.)] Their Fathers charged them to ſtay in this Place, becauſe it would have been difficult to ſend them out of the City, without being diſcovered.

And a Wench went and told them:] Pretending, perhaps, to go thither to ſcour ſome Cloaths.

And they went and told King David.] After a little ſtop in their way, as it here follows.

Ver. 18. Nevertheleſs, a Lad ſaw them, and told Abſalom:] Some of whoſe Troopers, who were ſcouting thereabouts (as Joſephus underſtands it) diſcovered them before they had gone two Furlongs.

But they went both of them away quickly, and came into a Man's Houſe at Bahurim,] They ſuſpected they were diſcovered, and therefore turned out of the publick Road (as Joſephus explains it) and made haſte to this Village, and perhaps to that Man's Houſe where David refreſhed himſelf, xvi. 5, 14.

Which had a Well in his Court, whither they went down.] For at that time of the Year, their Wells in many Places are dry, or had little Water in them. And it would not be eaſily ſuſpected that they would ſtay in an open Court.

Ver. 19. And the Woman took and ſpread a Covering over the Well's mouth, and ſpread ground Corn thereon;] Corn newly thraſhed out, which ſhe pretended to dry in the Sun.

And the thing was not known.] By this means they lay undiſcovered.

Ver. 20. And when Abſalom's Servants] Who were ſent to purſue them.

Came to the Woman of the Houſe,] For ſome had informed them that they had turned this way.

They ſaid, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan?] They were known Perſons, being the Sons of the moſt eminent among the Prieſts; or, perhaps, they deſcribed them to her, ſo that ſhe could not but know whether two ſuch Perſons came thither, or paſſed that way.

And the Woman ſaid unto them, They be gone over the Brook of Water.] Which came, I ſuppoſe, from the Fountain of Enrogel. It ſeems to have been a common Opinion in thoſe days, that theſe officious Lyes, for the ſafety of innocent Perſons, had no hurt in them; for we find many Inſtances of them, which cannot be juſtified. See upon Joſh. ii. 5.

And when they had ſought them, and could not find them, they returned to Jeruſalem.] For the Woman told them, as Joſephus ſays, that they made no ſtay at her Houſe; but after they had aſked for a little Drink, made haſte away; tho' if they purſued them ſpeedily, ſhe believed they might overtake them.

Ver. 21. And it came to paſs after they were departed, they came up out of the Well, and went and told David,] As ſoon as the Purſuers were returned back to Jeruſalem.

And ſaid unto David, Ariſe, and paſs over the Water; for thus hath Ahitophel counſelled againſt you.] And they did not know but he, by his great Wiſdom, might over-rule the Counſel of Huſhai (with which, no doubt, they alſo acquainted David) and perſuaded Abſalom to hearken to his; and then David was in extreme danger.]

Ver. 22. Then David aroſe, and all the People that were with him, and they paſſed over Jordan: by the Morning-light there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.] By this it appears, that they paſſed over in the Night, either at the Fords, or in Boats; and that not one of them miſcarried in the Paſſage, or ran away from him.

Ver. 23. And when Ahitophel ſaw that his Counſel was not followed,] Soon after Ahimaaz and Jonathan were gone to David, it publickly appeared, that the Counſel of Ahitophel was rejected, and Huſhai's entertained.

He ſaddled his Aſs, and aroſe, and gat him home to his Houſe, to his City, and put his Houſehold in order,] Settled his Affairs, and diſpoſed of his Eſtate.

And hanged himſelf,] Being confident that David would get the better of Abſalom; and that then he ſhould be put to death for his Treaſon; which made him chooſe to be his own Executioner. So we underſtand it; though ſome of the Jews will have it that he died of Grief, being choaked with a Quinſey. For it is not likely, they think, ſo wiſe a Man as he would hang himſelf: But being being full of Anguiſh, Anger and Vexation (ariſing not meerly from his Pride, which enraged him to ſee any Man's Counſel preferred to his; but to the Foreſight, as I ſaid, of Danger, if David prevailed, as he was ſure he would) theſe Paſſions caſt him into ſo violent a Diſtemper, that he was ſtrangled by it. And ſo ſome interpret the Word απήγξατο, in Matth. xxvii. 5.

And died, and was buried in the Sepulchre of his Father.] Where perhaps he would not have had the Honour to be interred, if he had been executed by David.

Ver. 24. Then David came to Mahanaim:] A Place in the Tribe of Gad. See Chap. ii. 8. of this Book.

And Abſalom paſſed over Jordan, he and all the Men of Iſrael with him.] As ſoon as he had gathered them together; which required ſome time: During which, David had Opportunity to ſtrengthen himſelf, by gathering an Army alſo. Which was after the Death of Ahitophel (who ſaw what Delays were made by gathering Iſrael together, and what the Conſequence would be) and after Relief was ſent him by ſeveral Perſons: Particularly by Shobi of the Children of Ammon, ver. 27. Who were Neighbours to this Part of the Country of Iſrael, though at a good Diſtance from Mahanaim.

Ver. 25. And Abſalom made Amaſa Captain of the Hoſt inſtead of Joab: which Amaſa was a Man's Son whoſe Name was Ithra, an Iſraelite] By Religion; though by Birth an Iſhmaelite. See 1 Chron. ii. 27. Abarbinel thinks the quite contrary, that he was an Iſraelite by Birth, but had lived long in the Land of the Iſhmaelites. And by the Son of a Man he underſtands an Illuſtrious Perſon.

That went in to Abigail the Daughter of Nahaſh,] That is, he married one of the Daughters of Jeſſe; who is here called Nahaſh. For, as Kimchi obſerves, many Perſons had two Names: And this ſignifies a Serpent. From whence it is, that when Iſaiah ſaith, xiv. 29. out of the Serpents root (or the root of Nahaſh) ſhall come forth a Cockatrice, or Baſiliſk; the Chaldee Paraphraſe expounds it, out of the root of Jeſſe ſhall come forth the Meſſiah. Who was typified by the brazen Serpent in the Wilderneſs.

Siſter to Zeruiah, Joab's Mother.] So Amaſa was Couſin-German to Joab: and David was Uncle to them both. Abſalom, one would think, ſhould not have truſted in ſuch an Office, ſo near a Relation of David: But he himſelf was much nearer; and he took Amaſa to be as ambitious as himſelf.

Ver. 26. So Iſrael and Abſalom pitched in the land of Gilead.] Waiting an Opportunity to fight David.

Ver. 27. And it came to paſs when David was come to Mahanaim, that Shobi the Son of Nahaſh of Rabbath of the Children of Ammon,] This was a Comfort to David to ſee himſelf honoured in his Diſtreſs, by one of a ſtrange Country; which he had made his Enemy, by the terrible Execution he had made among them, xii. 26, &c. But it is thought, that this Shobi the Brother of Hanun, abhorring the baſe Affront which he put upon David, was preſerved by him; and made King of the Country in the room of Hanun. And ſhewed his Gratitude for ſo great a Kindneſs, by coming to his Relief, and perhaps to his Aſſiſtance in his extreme Neceſſity.

And Machir the Son of Amiel of Lodebar,] Who bred up Mephibosheth the Son of Jonathan, 'till David ſent for him, ix. 5.

And Barzillai the Gileadite of Rogelim,] Who was a Man of great Wealth (xix. 32.) and of as great Goodneſs: For he maintained David while he was in thoſe Parts.

Ver. 28. Brought Beds, and Baſins, and earthen Veſſels,] All manner of Houſhold-ſtuff, which they now wanted.

And Wheat, and Barley, and Flour, and parched Corn, and Beans, and Lentiles, and parched Pulſe,] All ſorts of Proviſion, which were neceſſary for the Suſtenance either of Man or Beaſt. And they brought it of their own Accord, without aſking, which was a Token of their affectionate Loyalty. The Word Kali is twice repeated among theſe Proviſions, and is firſt joined with Wheat, Barley, and Flour. And properly ſignifies toſtas fruges, parched Corn, as we well tranſlate it. And in the latter end of the Verſe, after Beans and Lentiles, it muſt ſignify, as Bochart obſerves toſtum aut frictum aliquod legumen, viz. frictum cicer, ſome parched or fried ſort of Pulſe, to wit, fried Vetches: Which grew plentifully in Judæa; as it was common among both Greeks and Romans in their Food, as Bochart ſhews in his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 1. Cap. 7. where he obſerves that it is called Kali by the Arabians to this day. And here we may learn, by the way, from this Story, and the Preſent made him by Abigail, and by Ziba, what was the ordinary Victuals uſed in thoſe Days. Grain and Pulſe made up a great Part of it, which were the common Food of the ancient Ægyptians. And the Romans, in their beſt Times, when they moſt of all applied themſelves to Agriculture, did ſcarcely live upon any thing elſe: Whence came the Illuſtrious Names of Fabius, Piſo, Cicero, and Lentulus.

Ver. 29. And Honey,] Milk and Honey in thoſe Times were reckon'd the greateſt Delicacies, and were the Food of Kings and great Perſons; as the ſame Bochart obſerves, Lib. 4. Cap. 11.

And Butter, and Sheep, and Cheeſe of Kine for David and for the People that were with him to eat:] The making of Butter, I have obſerved elſewhere, was early known in thoſe Countries; and ſo was Cheeſe. For, as the Author now mentioned, obſerves, though theſe Words Saphoth Lachar be very variouſly interpreted, yet the Chaldee and Syriac, as well as all the Hebrews, underſtand by Saphoth Cheeſe made of Cow's Milk: From the Hebrew and Chaldee Word Saphar, which ſignifies to ſtrain; Cheeſe being made by preſſing the Whey out of the Curds. See Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 33. Here is no mention of any Fleſh-Meat but Sheep, which were very plentiful in thoſe Countries: And ſo was Fiſh alſo, but we never read any mention of its being eaten, 'till the latter Times. For it is ſuppoſed by Learned Men, that the Ancients deſpiſed it, as too light and delicate for ſtrong Stomachs. Whence they obſerve that Homer never ſpeaks of it, nor any Grecian Writer of the Heroick Times.

For they ſaid, the People are weary, and hungry, and thirſty in the Wilderneſs.] Where there was Scarcity of Proviſion, and therefore they needed Refreſhment, when they were come out of it. Which moved theſe good People to bring them Beds to reſt themſelves in, after their Journey; and all theſe good things which this rich Country afforded to ſatisfy their Hunger: And it is highly probable, Bottles of Wine were not wanting, to make their Entertainment more noble.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſe 1. AND David numbred the People that were with him,] And found them ſufficient to make a conſiderable Army.

And ſet Captains of thouſands and Captains of hundreds over them.] Formed them into Regiments and Companies (as we now ſpeak) and ſet proper Officers and Commanders over them.

Ver. 2. And David ſent forth a third part of the People under the hand of Joab,] Who was the General of the whole Hoſt: But now David intended to command in chief himſelf (as we read in the End of this Verſe) and therefore committed only a third part of the Army to the Conduct of Joab.

And a third part under the hand of Abiſhai the Son of Zeruiah, Joab's Brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite:] Order and Diſcipline is of more Force in a Battel than great Numbers: Therefore David diſpoſes his little Army, for ſo it was in Compariſon (Joſephus ſaith but four thouſand Men) into three Bodies, under three eminent Commanders: Who were to ſuccour one another as they ſaw Occaſion.

And the King ſaid unto the People, I will ſurely go forth with you my ſelf alſo.] Which he thought would be a great Encouragement to them, and make them fight the more valiantly.

Ver. 3. But the People anſwered, Thou ſhalt not go forth: for if we flee they will not care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us:] They did not think it adviſeable that he ſhould hazard himſelf: For which they give a good Reaſon, That if they ſhould be routed, and half of them ſlain, Abſalom would not think himſelf a Conqueror as long as David was alive: Who might raiſe new Forces, and give him Battel again. And, as Joſephus adds, they might poſſibly think the King had another Army to guard his Perſon.

But now thou art worth ten thouſand of us:] Whoſe Perſon therefore ought not to be expoſed to Danger.

Therefore now it is better that thou ſuccour us out of the City.] By ſending them, if there were need, a freſh Supply of Men, which he kept with him as a Reſerve in the City: And Proviſion alſo, with Counſel and Advice, as Occaſion required.

Ver. 4. And the King ſaid unto them, What ſeemeth you beſt, I will do:] He ſubmitted to their Opinion; for it was not a Time now to oppoſe the Senſe of his People.

And the King ſtood by the Gate-ſide, and all the People came out by hundreds, and by thouſands.] Whom Joſephus ſaith, he exhorted to be faithful and couragious, remembring what he had done for them, νικὴν αὐτοῖς ἐπευξάμενος, praying God to make them victorious.

Ver. 5. And the King commanded Joab, and Abiſhai, and Ittai, ſaying, Deal gently for my ſake with the young Man, even with Abſalom.] If they got the better, he prayed, or rather required them, to ſpare Abſalom's Life: Though he did not deſerve it, yet becauſe David deſired it, whoſe Affection was wonderfully great to him, as his Son; and in hope perhaps to reclaim him and bring him to Repentance. He conſidered him alſo as a raſh young Man, and therefore an Object of his and their Pity.

And all the People heard, when the King gave all the Captains charge concerning Abſalom.] So that no private Soldier might voluntarily kill him.

Ver. 6. And the People went out into the Field againſt Iſrael: and the Battle was in the Wood of Ephraim;] Joſephus ſaith, that Joab drew up his Men, ἐν τῷ πεδίῳ μεγάλῳ in a large Field, which had a Wood behind it. Which is called the Wood of Ephraim, not becauſe it belonged to the Tribe of Ephraim; for they had no Poſſeſſions on this ſide Jordan, where the Battle was fought: But the Gileadites gave it that Name in Memory of the great Slaughter Jephthah made of the Ephraimites hereabouts, mentioned Judges xii.

Ver. 7. Where the Men of Iſrael were ſlain before the Servants of David.] They who fought for Abſalom, being called the Men of Iſrael, it looks like an Argument that David's Army was principally gathered out of his own Tribe of Judah. But it will appear from xix. 11. that this is not true: And therefore by Iſrael we are to underſtand the Tribes on the other ſide Jordan, who purſued David into the Land of Gilead: Where he had got together a ſmall Army.

And there was a great Slaughter that day of twenty thouſand men.] For the Fight was obſtinate, as Joſephus thinks; both Sides having great Reaſon to ſtand ſtoutly to it. Lib. 7. Antiq. Cap. 9.

Ver. 8. For the Battel was there ſcattered over the face of all the Country:] Thereabout; both in the Field and in the Wood.

And the Wood devoured more People that day than the Sword devoured.] Some think the Wood is ſaid to devour them, becauſe they fell into Pits, or ſtumbled upon Stumps of Trees, or preſſed one another to Death, as they came into ſtrait Places; or were killed by wild Beaſts. But the moſt ſimple Meaning is, that there were more ſlain in the Wood than in the Field. That is, more in the Flight, than in the Fight: So Joſephus, ὡς φεύγοντας πεσεῖν πλείονας ἢ μαχομένους. For they could not run away ſo faſt in the Wood, as in the open Field. Many alſo being weary, it is likely got into lurking Places, and were there killed by wild Beaſts.

Ver. 9. And Abſalom met the Servants of David;] In his Flight through the Wood, he chanc'd to meet ſome of David's Soldiers; who would not kill him, nor ſo much as ſtop him, much leſs ſeize him: For ſo it ſeems they underſtood David's Commandment, that they ſhould not meddle with him. But though they let him go, yet God met with him, and put a ſtop to his Flight, as it here follows.

And Abſalom rode upon a Mule,] Full ſpeed, as faſt as it could carry him.

And the Mule went under the thick Boughs of a great Oak, and his Head caught hold of the Oak,] His Neck, I ſuppoſe, ſtuck faſt between the Boughs of this Oak.

And he was taken up between the Heaven and the Earth, and the Mule that was under him went away.] He hung there, having nothing to ſupport him: And his Neck was ſo wedged between the Boughs, by the ſwift Motion of the Mule, that he was not able to diſengage himſelf. I do not ſee any Colour for their Opinion, who think he hung by his Hair, which being very long, was wrapt about the Boughs of the Tree: Nor is it probable he was without a Helmet, which covered his Hair. And beſides, it is ſaid afterward, that Joab ſmote him while he was yet alive, in the Middle of the Oak, ver. 14. Which had been no Wonder, if he had only hung by his Hair; which would not have killed him: Whereas when Joab came to him, he was only not quite dead, but very near it. Yet that great Man Bochartus, in his Epiſtle about the Weight of Abſalom's Hair, ſuppoſes it to have been ſo thick, and ſo ſtrong, that the Weight of his whole Body could not break it when he hung thereby. Though in his laſt Work he ſaith, Hæſit inter ramos arborum, & jumento prætergreſſo pependit inter cælum & terram. He ſtuck between the Boughs of Trees, and his Beaſt going from under him, he hung between Heaven and Earth. Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 11.

Ver. 10. And a certain Man ſaw it, and told Joab, and ſaid, Behold, I ſaw Abſalom hanged in an Oak.] But not dead.

Ver. 11. And Joab anſwered to the Man that told him, And behold, thou ſaweſt him, and why didſt thou not ſmite him there to the ground, and I would have given thee ten Shekels of Silver, and a Girdle?] A Military Belt, which was much eſteemed, 1 Sam. xviii. 4.

Ver. 12. And the Man ſaid, Though I ſhould receive a thouſand Shekels of Silver in my Hand,] In ready Money (as we ſpeak) paid down before-hand.

Yet would I not put forth my Hand againſt the King's Son: for in our hearing the King charged thee, and Abiſhai, and Ittai,] It was a Thing notoriouſly known, not only to him, but to all the Army.

Saying, Beware that none touch the young Man Abſalom,] Do him no Hurt; but leave me to puniſh him.

Ver. 13. Otherwiſe, I ſhould have wrought falſhood againſt my own Life:] Not only been falſe and diſobedient to the King, but brought his own Life in danger; and therefore not have been true to himſelf.

For there is no matter hid from the King, and thou thy ſelf wouldſt have ſet thy ſelf againſt me.] He knew the Genius of Joab ſo well, that he was ſure he would have been as forward as any, both to inform the King of what he had done, and to have him puniſhed for diſobeying his Sovereign. Joab alſo knew this to be ſo true, that he doth not rebuke him for this bold Saying.

Ver. 14. Then ſaid Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee.] Loſe Time in ſuch Diſcourſe.

And he took three Darts into his Hand,] From the Hebrew Shatim, which we tranſlate Darts, comes the Latin Word Spatha: Which was a ſort of Weapon among the ancient Gauls, as Bochartus ſhews, called by the Chaldee Giſæ; from whence the Latin Geſum: Which Feſtus ſaith, was grave jaculum, an heavy Dart, being made all of Iron. See his Canaan, Lib. 1. Cap. 42.

And thruſt them through the Heart of Abſalom, while he was yet alive in the midſt of the Oak.] Not through that Part which is ſtrictly called the Heart (for then he would have died immediately, and there would have been no need of his Soldiers falling upon him, as we read they did in the next Verſe) but through the midſt of his Body; which did not kill him out-right, but there was ſtill ſome Life remaining in him.

Ver. 15. And ten young Men that bear Joab's Armour,] Who waited upon his Perſon, as General of the Army.

Compaſſed about, and ſmote Abſalom, and ſlew him.] Surrounded him, and thruſt their Spears or Swords through him; and ſo put an end to his Life. Joab, I ſuppoſe, thought himſelf not ſafe, as long as Abſalom was alive. For ſome unquiet People, he thought, who were deeply ingaged in this Rebellion, would move new Diſturbances to ſet him on the Throne. Therefore he did not as David commanded, but as he imagined he ſhould have commanded. Kimchi hath a Conceit that ſome of Abſalom's Crimes are legible in his Puniſhment: For he was thruſt through with three Darts, having ſtolen the Heart of the King, and then of the two hundred Men that followed him out of Jeruſalem; and then of all Iſrael. And as he committed Inceſt with his Father's ten Concubines, ſo ten young Men compaſſed him about, and killed him.

Ver. 16. And Joab blew the Trumpet,] Sounded a Retreat.

And the People returned from purſuing after Iſrael: for Joab held back the People.] This was done like a good Man: For he knew the People were drawn into this Rebellion, and would return to their Duty, now they had none to head them. Thus Cæſar after the Defeat of Pompey, and the ſcattering of his Army, cried Miles parce civibus, Soldiers, ſpare your Fellow-Citizens.

Ver. 17. And they took Abſalom, and caſt him into a great pit in the Wood,] They would not bring his Body to be diſpoſed of by his Father's Order, leſt it ſhould too much move his Paſſion.

And laid a great heap of Stones upon him:] So that after a ſort, he was ſtoned: As the Law ordered a rebellious Son to be, Deut. xxi. 20, 21. Adricomius, in his Deſcription of the Holy Land, ſaith this Heap remained to his days; and all Travellers, as they went by it, were wont to throw a Stone to add to the Heap, in deteſtation of his Rebellion againſt his Father.

And all Iſrael fled every one to his Tent.] See 1 Sam. iv. 10.

Ver. 18. And Abſalom in his Life-time had taken and reared up for himſelf a Pillar, which is in the King's Dale:] This Dale is mentioned, Gen. xiv. 17. and was not far from Jeruſalem: There he thought to perpetuate his Memory

(which had better been forgotten) by a very magnificent Structure; as Raſi, and ſeveral other Jewiſh Doctors fancy: And ſome that have been in the Holy Land, tell us of ſuch a Noble Fabrick in the Valley of Jehoſaphat. But this is a ſuppoſititious Monument, as Wagenſeil obſerves upon Sota, Page 221. For Joſephus, who is more to be believed than theſe later Authors, ſaith, that it was only a Pillar, Lib. 7. Antiq. Cap. 9. where he calls it, στύλον λίθου μαρμαρίτου, a Pillar of Marble; which he ſaith, was two Furlongs from Jeruſalem: In a Place where the King's Horſes run Races, as ſome ſay, and other Exerciſes uſed to be performed.

For he ſaid, I have no Son to keep my name in remembrance:] We read before, xiv. 27. that he had three Sons and one Daughter: But, as Kimchi and other Hebrew Doctors ſay, they were all dead; ſo that he had no Hope to make his Name ſurvive him, by any other Means but this.

And he called the Pillar after his own Name, and it is called unto this day, Abſalom's Place.] In the Hebrew the Word which we tranſlate Place is Jad, which ſignifies an Hand. As much as to ſay, his Work: Though Kimchi obſerves, that this Word ſometimes is the ſame with Makom, a Place, as in Iſaiah lvi. 5. And when this Book was written, it bare Abſalom's Name: Though it is likely it did not laſt very long; for ſuch Works of Vanity are commonly ſhort-liv'd. Of which the moſt famous Inſtance we meet with in Hiſtory is recorded by Pliny, Lib. 37. Natural. Hiſt. Cap. 6. where he ſaith, Demetrius Phalereus had as many Statues erected to him in Athens as there are Days in the Year, viz. 360, which is more, he thinks, than ever Man had. But they were all thrown down, and broken in pieces, nondum anno hunc numerum dierum excedente, before a Year was expired.

Ver. 19. Then ſaid Ahimaaz the Son of Zadok, Let me now run and bear the King tidings, how the LORD hath avenged him of his Enemies.] By this it appears Ahimaaz did not return to Jeruſalem after he carried Intelligence to David, but ſtaid with him, and was in this Battel; for the Prieſts bore Arms as well as other Men: And particularly performed the Office of Trumpeters to the Army, 2 Chron. xiii. 12. And here it is obſervable what ſtrict Diſcipline was kept in thoſe Days: That no Man durſt ſtir to carry the News of what had been done, without the Leave of the Commander in chief.

Ver. 20. And Joab ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not bear tidings this day, but thou ſhalt bear tidings another day:] Some Reward, no doubt, was wont to be given to him that brought good Tidings, eſpecially of a great Victory: Which made him ſo deſirous to be the Meſſenger.

But this day thou ſhalt bear no tidings, becauſe the King's Son is dead.] Which he knew would be unwelcome News to David, and procure no Good to Ahimaaz.

Ver. 21. Then ſaid Joab to Cuſhi,] An Ethiopian by Birth, as ſome think, but had embraced the Jewiſh Religion: And it is probable, was one of thoſe ten young Men who attended on Joab, and was preſent when Abſalom was killed; and helped perhaps to diſpatch him, ver. 13.

Go tell the King what thou haſt ſeen.] He mentioned, it is likely, the Particulars: Which he would not put in Writing, but have him deliver by Word of Mouth. For he himſelf would not relate what he had done to Abſalom.

And Cuſhi bowed himſelf unto him, and ran.] It was a great Honour to be a Meſſenger of ſuch good Tidings, as the Defeat of the King's Enemies.

Ver. 22. Then ſaid Ahimaaz the Son of Zadok, yet again to Joab, But howſoever, let me, I pray thee, alſo run after Cuſhi.] We cannot tell what made him ſo earneſt to carry Tidings, unleſs it was hope of Reward, and Confidence that his own Swiftneſs would make him the firſt Meſſenger of good News. For Joſephus ſaith, he told Joab he would relate nothing to the King, but περὶ μόνης τῆς νικῆς, only concerning the Victory: ἡσυχάσειν δὲ περὶ τῆς Αβσαλώμου τελευτῆς, but ſay not a Word about the Death of Abſalom.

And Joab ſaid, Wherefore wilt thou run, my Son, ſeeing thou haſt no tidings ready?] Concerning the Particulars of the Fight, which he had not Time to acquaint him withal. He calling him my Son, it ſignifies he had a great Affection to him, and therefore had denied his firſt Requeſt: For Joab knew the King better than Ahimaaz did; who had a mind to run, becauſe he imagined the King would be pleaſed to hear he was out of danger: Whereas Joab knew the King loved Abſalom ſo dearly, that no body would be acceptable to him that could not aſſure him he was ſafe.

Ver. 23. But however, ſaid he, let me run.] He did not underſtand Joab's Kindneſs, and therefore preſſes him again to grant his Deſire.

And he ſaid unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the Plain, and over-ran Cuſhi.] There were two Ways from hence to the Place where David was: One over the Mountains, which was the ſhorter Way; the other by the Plain, which though the longer, according to the Proverb, proved the neareſt. Or, as Joſephus underſtands it, Ahimaaz ran a more compendious Way, which he alone knew, ἐπιτομετέραν ἐμβαλὼν τῶν ὁδῶν; γὰρ μόνος αὐτὴν ἐπιγίνωσκεν.

Ver. 24. And David ſat between the two Gates:] The Gate was a very large Place, where publick Meetings uſed to be; and had an inward and an outward Door, between which David ſat to hear News.

And the Watchman went up to the roof over the Gate unto the Wall,] Over the Gate there was a Watch-Tower, from whence they might ſee round about, whether any were coming, and from what Quarter.

And lifted up his Eyes, and looked, and behold a Man running alone.] Whom he ſpied at ſome diſtance; but could not diſcern who he was.

Ver. 25. And the Watchman cried, and told the King. And the King ſaid, If he be alone, there is tidings in his Mouth.] He took it for a Sign that he was a Meſſenger ſent from Joab, and that he brought good News: For if they had been routed, there would have been more than one ſeen running away.

And he came apace, and drew near.] So that, in a little time, he could diſcern who he was.

Ver.

Ver. 26. And the Watchman ſaw another Man running, and the Watchman called unto the Porter, and ſaid, Behold, another Man running alone. And the King ſaid, He alſo brings tidings.] More News than the former.

Ver. 27. And the Watchman ſaid, Methinks the running of the foremoſt is like the running of Ahimaaz the Son of Zadok.] Who was remarkable, it ſeems, for his ſpeed in Running.

And the King ſaid, He is a good Man, and comes with good Tidings. He was one true to the King's Intereſt, and therefore he concluded, would not bring bad News.

Ver. 28. And Ahimaaz called, and ſaid unto the King, All is well.] He was in haſte to let the King know the good Succeſs they had in the Battel, and therefore ſeems to have ſaid at a Diſtance, before he came up to him, Peace; which is the Word in the Hebrew, ſignifying all Happineſs and Proſperity.

And he fell down to the Earth upon his Face before the King,] When he approached nearer to him.

And ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which hath delivered up the Men that lift up their hand againſt my Lord the King.] Like a truly religious Man, he aſcribes the Victory they had got unto the LORD; who ſtill ſhewed his Mercy unto David, and continued to be his God, i. e. his Benefactor.

Ver. 29. And the King ſaid, Is the young Man Abſalom ſafe?] He would not expreſs his Joy 'till he heard that Abſalom was preſerved.

And Ahimaaz anſwered, When Joab ſent the King's ſervant, and me thy ſervant,] This ſeems to ſignify that Cuſhi was one belonging to the Court.

I ſaw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was.] He diſſembled his Knowledge of Abſalom's Death; and perhaps in this ſaid true, that he did not know the particular Manner of it; though it appears plainly (from ver. 20.) that he knew he was dead.

Ver. 30. And the King ſaid unto him, Turn aſide and ſtand here: and he turned aſide, and ſtood ſtill.] He would not have him go away 'till Cuſhi came, ſuppoſing he might find more of the Truth, by examining them both together.

Ver. 31. And behold Cuſhi came,] Not long after Ahimaaz had delivered his Meſſage.

And Cuſhi ſaid, Tidings, my Lord the King: for the LORD hath avenged thee this Day of all them that roſe up againſt thee.] He ſaid no more than Ahimaaz had done; thinking it would be unacceptable News to mention Abſalom's Death.

Ver. 32. And the King ſaid unto Cuſhi, Is the young Man Abſalom ſafe? And Cuſhi anſwered, The Enemies of my Lord the King, and all that riſe againſt thee to do thee hurt, be as that young Man is.] This was a decent manner of Speech to inform him that he was dead.

Ver. 33. And the King was much moved,] So that we do not find he enquired after the Manner of his Death, nor after any of the Particulars of the Victory.

And went up to the Chamber over the Gate,] See xix. 8.

And wept:] Being extreamly diſturbed, he retired as far as he could from all Company, ἐπὶ τὸ ὑψολότατον τῆς πόλεως (as Joſephus ſpeaks) to the very higheſt Part of the City, where he bewailed his Son, knocking his Breaſt, and tearing his Hair (as the ſame Author's Words are) καὶ παντοίως αὐτὸν αἰκιζόμενος, afflicting himſelf all manner of Ways.

And, as he went up, he ſaid,] When he came into the Chamber, it was not ſo eaſy to know what he did, or hear what he ſaid, becauſe he ſhut up himſelf privately: But as he went up the Stairs, he thus bemoaned the Loſs of his Son.

O my ſon Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon Abſalom! would God I had died for thee, O Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon!] No Words can be more paſſionate: And it is likely his Wiſh, that he had died in Abſalom's ſtead, was only the Effect of exceſſive Love to him, and Grief for him, which made him vent himſelf in Expreſſions which were not conſiderate. But Pellicanus (in which he follows St. Auſtin) thinks this was a deliberate Wiſh, becauſe Abſalom died impenitent, and might have lived to be a better Man; but if David had died, he had good Hope of his own Salvation. But I take this not to be well grounded; for if David had died, in all likelihood his Son would not have been ſorry for it, but triumphed in his good Succeſs, and proved a wicked Tyrant over a baſe People. The Stupidity of the Jewiſh Doctors is inconceivable, who fancy Abſalom would have cut his Hair, by which he hung, with his Sword, had he not ſeen Hell gaping for him, if he fell down; which made him chooſe to die in the Oak: But his Father, by his Lamentation over him, crying ſeven Times, my Son, my Son, delivered him from the ſeven Gates of Hell, and brought him into Paradiſe. See Bartoloccius in his Kirjath Sepher. Tom. 2. p. 128, &c. 162.

CHAP. XIX.

Verſe 1. AND it was told Joab, Behold, the King weepeth and mourneth for Abſalom.] For Joab was now come to the City himſelf, to give the King an Account of the Fight: And it is likely Ahimaaz, or Cuſhi, informed him how heavily the King took the News of his Son's Death.

Ver. 2. And the Victory] That is, the Joy for the Victory.

That day was turned into mourning unto all the People: for the People heard ſay that day, how the King grieved for his Son.] They had ſo great a Regard to their Prince, that when they heard of his Affliction, they were afflicted with him: And inſtead of triumphing, they alſo made Lamentations.

Ver. 3. And the People gat them by ſtealth that day into the City,] Not by the Gate where David was, but by ſome ſecret Way, that he might not ſee them: Juſt like Thieves, who are afraid to be diſcovered and puniſhed for what they have done.

As People being aſhamed ſteal away when they flee in Battel.] As if they had loſt the Day, and not been victorious.

Ver. 4. And the King covered his Face,] Such was the Cuſtom of deep Mourners (as Kimchi here obſerves) that they might neither ſee, nor be ſeen. As being aſhamed (ſaith R. Levi) any ſhould behold their rueful Looks.

And the King cried with a loud Voice, O my Son Abſalom, O Abſalom my Son, my Son!] It is obſerved by many learned Men, that the Oriental People expreſſed their Paſſions with greater Vehemence than we are wont to do in theſe Parts of the World. Where crying out aloud with a doleful Voice, called howling in Scripture, is not uſual; but was common among the Jews, as we ſee before in David, iii. 32. and at the laying the Foundation of the Temple after the Captivity, when they that wept with a loud Voice, drowned the Voice of thoſe that ſhouted for Joy, Ezra iii. 12, 13.

Ver. 5. And Joab went into the Houſe of the King,] It ſeems by this, that David was removed before Joab came, from the Top of the Gate, and gone to his Houſe, where he was wont to reſide.

And ſaid, Thou haſt ſhamed this day the Faces of all thy Servants,] Making them hang down their Heads, as if they had committed ſuch a Crime, that they were aſhamed to look Men in the Face.

Which this Day have ſaved thy Life, and the Lives of thy Sons, and of thy Daughters, and the Lives of thy Wives, and the Lives of thy Concubines:] Of all that was dear unto him.

Ver. 6. In that thou loveſt thine Enemies, and hateſt thy Friends;] In whoſe Preſervation he ſeemed to take no pleaſure, but only to grieve for the Loſs of a Rebellious Son.

For thou haſt declared this day, that thou regardeſt neither Princes, nor Servants:] Neither himſelf, nor Abiſhai, nor Ittai, nor any of the great Officers and faithful Soldiers, who had adventured their Lives for him.

For this day I perceive, that if Abſalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then it had pleaſed thee well.] This was ſpoken by Joab too ſharply, and inſolently: Yet it was ſomething neceſſary at this Time to awaken David out of a ſtrange Lethargy, which made him take notice of no body, but behave himſelf as if he had no Concern for any Perſon in the World, but for Abſalom alone, who was gone out of it.

Ver. 7. Now therefore ariſe, go forth, and ſpeak comfortably to thy Servants:] He wiſhes him to go and ſhew himſelf to his People, and acknowledge their good Service, praiſe their Courage, and congratulate their happy Succeſs: Giving the Honours and Largeſſes that were due unto them, or promiſing them Rewards proportionable to their Merits.

For I ſwear by the LORD, if thou go not forth,] Unto the People, and declare how ſenſible he was of their Services.

There will not tarry with thee one Man this Night;] He reſolved, and confirmed it with the moſt ſolemn Oath, that he would lead his whole Army away from him, and leave him alone. David ſeems to have anſwered nothing to all this Diſcourſe, which moved Joab to conclude with theſe harſh Words.

And that will be worſe unto thee than all the Evil that befel thee from thy Youth until now.] For during the cruel Perſecution of Saul, as well as in this Exile, he had a good Company of faithful Perſons with him. Joſephus expreſſes this Threatning very well, τότεσοι πικρότερον, ϰ᾽ ἀληθες ποιήσω το πένθος, I will make thee weep for ſomething (as we ſpeak) and more bitterly than ever.

Ver. 8. Then the King aroſe, and ſat in the Gate:] Where the Concourſe of People uſed to be about Buſineſs. For the Gate was a ſpacious Place, and the ſame Thing with the Exchange, or the Forum among the Romans. The Market for Commodities was held here, as we learn from the Prophecy of Eliſha, who foretold Corn ſhould be ſold at ſuch a Rate the next Day in the Gate of Samaria, 2 Kings vii. 2. which was a very large Place, ſince Ahab aſſembled there four hundred falſe Prophets, 1 Kings xxii. 10. In theſe Gates alſo there was ſome Building, wherein were Seats for the Elders and Judges: For Boaz having a Cauſe to be heard, went up to the Gate, and ſat down there, Ruth iv. 1, 2. And ſo many publick Aſſemblies being held here, it makes it probable that the Chamber over the Gate (mentioned in the foregoing Chapter) where David went to weep, was the Place where the Privy Council were wont to meet.

And they told unto all the People,] That were in the City and elſewhere.

Saying, Behold the King doth ſit in the Gate: and all the People came before the King:] To congratulate to him his Safety, and to receive the Tokens of his Favour.

For all Iſreal had fled every Man to his Tent.] 'Till the People heard the King appeared publickly, and no longer bewailed Abſalom.

Ver. 9. And all the People were at ſtrife through all the Tribes of Iſrael,] Who ſhould be forwardeſt to bring back the King: Blaming one another's Slackneſs in it.

Saying, the King ſaved us out of the Hand of our Enemies, and he delivered us out of the Hand of the Philiſtines, and now he is fled out of the Land for Abſalom.] They call to mind what Benefits they had received by his Means, in their Deliverance from many Enemies; eſpecially the Philiſtines, who had grievouſly oppreſſed them: And alſo their great Ingratitude to him in driving him out of Jeruſalem, and forcing him to flee over Jordan, for the ſake of Abſalom.

Ver. 10. And Abſalom whom we anointed over us, is dead in Battle:] We do not read of his being actually anointed: But they choſe him for their King, and obeyed him as if he had.

Now therefore why ſpeak ye not a Word of bringing the King back?] They ſpake this to their Elders; who ſeem to have been dubious what to do, 'till they heard the Senſe of the People.

Ver. 11. And David ſent to Zadok, and to Abiathar the Prieſts,] By their Sons, whom he had with him.

Saying, Speak unto the Elders of Judah,] The Prieſts were Men of great Authority, eſpecially the High-prieſt and his Deputy; and moſt proper to be employed to deal with the Elders.

Saying, Why are ye the laſt to bring the King back to his Houſe?] That which made them ſo cold, was, I ſuppoſe, the Senſe of their Guilt in joining with Abſalom: Who began his Conſpiracy in Jeruſalem it ſelf, and perfected it in Hebron, both Cities of Judah. Whoſe Revolt was the baſer, becauſe he was of their Tribe, and had long ſhewn his great Kindneſs to them (1 Sam. xxx. 26, &c.) the Conſcience of which made them afraid to bring him again to Jeruſalem.

(Seeing the ſpeech of all Iſrael is come to the King, even to his houſe)] Theſe laſt Words, even to his houſe, ſeem to be but a Repetition of what was ſaid before, to his Houſe, viz. at Jeruſalem: The other Words being a Parentheſis.

Ver. 12. Ye are my Brethren, ye are my Bone, and my Fleſh:] That is, he had much Kindred among them.

Why are ye then the laſt to bring the King back?] He expreſſes the greater Kindneſs to them, leſt they ſhould be ſo deſperate as to defend Jeruſalem againſt him.

Ver. 13. And ſay unto Amaſa, Art not thou of my Bone and of my Fleſh?] That is, his Siſter's Son: Whom he bids them particularly court; for, being General of Abſalom's Forces, he might through Shame and Fear be very loth to look his Uncle in the Face.

God do ſo to me and more alſo, if thou be not Captain of the Hoſt before me continually in the room of Joab. He ſolemnly promiſes to prefer him to the higheſt Command of the Kingdom: For now he thought it a fit time to depreſs Joab; who was grown inſufferably inſolent and imperious. For he had ſlain Abner moſt perfidiouſly in cold Blood; and killed Abſalom againſt the King's Command; and now lately inſulted him in his Sorrow: Threatning, (if we may believe Joſephus) τὴν βασιλείαν ἑτέρῳ παραδῶναι, that he would depoſe him, and deliver the Kingdom to ſome other Perſon. This Promiſe David endeavoured to perform, bidding Amaſa take upon him to aſſemble all the Men of Judah (xx. 4.) yet leaving Joab (ver. 7.) the Command of his own Legion. Which he took ſo heinouſly, that he killed Amaſa; and was Captain of the Hoſt again, more out of Fear, than any Favour David had for him: For if Amaſa had lived, David would have humbled him. For Amaſa had a great Intereſt in Iſrael, over whom he had commanded in Chief; eſpecially in the Tribe of Judah, whoſe Heart he bowed to receive David again, as it here follows.

Ver. 14. And he bowed the Heart of all the Men of Judah, even as the Heart of one Man,] Either this Diſpoſition was wrought in them by Amaſa; or the kind Words delivered from David by Zadock and Abiathar, overcame them.

So that they ſent this Word unto the King,] By ſome meſſenger of their own.

Return thou and all thy Servants.] Aſſuring him they were ready to receive him, and return to their Obedience.

Ver. 15. So the King returned and came to Jordan:] Began to return back, and came as far as Jordan: Which parted the Country where he was from the Land of Canaan.

And Judah] That is, the Elders of Judah.

Came to Gilgal, to go to meet the King, to conduct the King over Jordan.] This was an Expreſſion of their great Affection, to come thus far to attend him, and to furniſh him, I ſuppoſe, with Accommodations in his Journey: For Gilgal was near Jordan; on the other ſide of the River.

Ver. 16. And Shimei the Son of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, haſted and came down with the Men of Judah, to meet King David.] Hoping David would receive him kindly in ſuch good Company.

Ver. 17. And there were a thouſand Men of Benjamin with him,] He was nobly attended, to ſhow how powerful he was, and what an Intereſt he had in his Country: And yet came to implore the King's Mercy. Perhaps he was a Captain of a Thouſand in his own Tribe: Who came with him to intercede for his Pardon.

And Ziba the Servant of the Houſe of Saul, and his fifteen Sons and his twenty Servants with him,] See ix. 10.

And they went over Jordan before the King.] They were ſo officious as to go further than the Men of Judah, to the other ſide of Jordan, where the King was: Before whom they paſſed over.

Ver. 18. And there went over a Ferry-boat.] Prepared, as many ſuppoſe, by the Men of Judah. Joſephus will have it a Bridge; compoſed perhaps of many Boats joined together.

To carry over the King's Houſhold, and to do what he thought good: To carry over what he pleaſed to order.

And Shimei the Son of Gera fell down before the King, as he was come over Jordan;] As ſoon as he landed.

Ver. 19. And ſaid unto the King, Let not my Lord the King impute Iniquity to thy Servant, neither do thou remember that which thy Servant did perverſely in the Day that my Lord the King went out of Jeruſalem, that the King ſhould take it to his heart.] Reſent it ſo deeply as to be reveng'd of him.

Ver. 20. For thy Servant doth know that I have ſinned:] He profeſſes himſelf ſenſible of the Crime he had committed, and was ſorry for it.

Therefore behold, I come the firſt this Day of all the Houſe of Joſeph, to go down to meet my Lord the King.] To ſhew by his Example, what the reſt ſhould do: And, as the Hebrew Doctors gloſs upon it, they would all ſee in him an Inſtance either of David's Clemency or Severity; and accordingly behave themſelves. He was not properly of the Houſe of Joſeph, but of a Tribe near of kin to it: So that at this Time, it ſeems, they looked upon themſelves as Members of the ſame Body; being deſcended from the ſame Mother: And they continued ſo 'till the Kingdom was rent. For Benjamin is placed between Ephraim and Manaſſeh (the two Sons of Joſeph) in Pſalm lxxx. 2. and they marched under the ſame Standard, Numb. ii. 18, 19, &c.

Ver. 21. But Abiſhai the Son of Zeruiah anſwered and ſaid, Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, becauſe he curſed the Lord's Anointed?] He would have gone and done Execution upon him, at that Time when he curſed (xvi. 9.) and now he imagined there could be no Reaſon to ſpare him.

Ver. 22. And David ſaid, What have I to do with you, ye Sons of Zeruiah,] It ſeems Joab joined with his Brother: Who thought to govern all the King's Motions as they pleaſed. But he bids them, in a diſdainful manner, ſtand aſide, and not meddle in this Matter.

That ye ſhould this day be Adverſaries unto me?] Hinder me from following my own Inclinations, and ſet my People againſt me. For by following this Advice, he might have alienated the Hearts of of all Iſrael from him, and made them fear the the like Puniſhment for their Revolt.

Shall any Man be put to death this day in Iſrael?] In a time of univerſal Joy, he would not have any Family have Cauſe to make Lamentation. It was accounted an ill Omen among other Nations, if any Man was put to death on the King's Birth-day: And this was a ſecond Natalis Imperii, Birth-day of David's Empire; which he would not have ſullied with any Cloud of Sorrow.

For do I not know that I am this day King of Iſrael?] He had Power to puniſh, or to pardon, as he pleaſed: And being reſtored to his Kingdom, would not enter upon it with Blood.

Ver. 23. Therefore the King ſaid unto Shimei, Thou ſhalt not die: and the King ſware unto him.] That he would not put him to death. But this did not oblige him not to give ſuch a Charge as he did to Solomon, to do Juſtice upon him for any new Diſobedience. Nothing is more glorious than Mercy and Clemency, as the Heathens themſelves were ſenſible. Cæſar ſaith in a Letter of his to Oppius and Cornelius (which is among Cicero's Epiſtles) Hæc nova eſt vincendi ratio, &c. This is a new way of conquering, to ſence our ſelves by Mercy and Liberality, L. 9. Epiſt. ad Atticum.

Ver. 24. And Mephiboſheth the ſon of Saul.] That is, his Grand-ſon.

Came down to meet the King, and had neither dreſſed his Feet,] But wholly neglected himſelf, as they uſed to do in a Time of publick Sorrow. For the not dreſſing his Feet ſignifies (as Schickard and others underſtand that he had not cut the Nails of his Toes; but let them grow, as he did his Beard. It may be underſtood of his not waſhing his Feet; the Neglect of which made Men very ſordid. For in thoſe Countries, they lying upon Beds when they eat (as Scaliger obſerves in his Sixth Book de Emend. Temporum) put off their Shoes, and waſhed their Feet, ne pulveroſis pedibus ſtrata inquinarent, leſt they ſhould defile the Carpets, with their duſty Feet. Beſides, in hot Weather the Smell of their Feet without waſhing was offenſive.

Nor trimmed his Beard,] He not only let the Hair grow, but took no care to put it in good Order. For the Words in the Hebrew are, he had not done any thing to his feet, nor any thing to his beard.

Nor waſhed his Clothes.] His Shirt, nor any of the Linnen which he wore. As for their woollen Garments, they were not wont to waſh them.

From the day the King departed, until the day he came again in peace.] This long-continu'd Mourning argued him to be really afflicted for the King's Exile.

Ver. 25. And it came to paſs, when he was come to Jeruſalem to meet the King,] It is manifeſt from the foregoing Verſe, that he came down from ſome other Place to Jeruſalem to meet the King: But could not meet him ſooner, as others had done, becauſe Ziba had got his Eſtate, and, it is likely, would not furniſh him with an Aſs, no more than he had done when David fled away.

That the King ſaid unto him, Wherefore wenteſt thou not with me, Mephiboſheth?] As Prudence, as well as Gratitude obliged him.

Ver. 26. And he anſwered, My Lord, O King, my Servant deceived me; for thy Servant ſaid, I will ſaddle my Aſs, and ride thereon, and go to the King; for thy Servant is lame.] He had ordered an Aſs to be made ready for him to carry him to David: Inſtead of which, Ziba ſaddled it for himſelf; and went with that falſe Story, which is mentioned xvi. 3.

Ver. 27. And he hath ſlandered thy Servant unto my Lord the King; but my Lord the King is an Angel of God:] To diſcern between Truth and Falſhood.

Do therefore what is good in thy ſight.] And therefore he ſubmits himſelf intirely to his Judgment, and truſted to his Kindneſs.

He had great Reaſon ſo to do, as he confeſſes in the next words.

Ver. 28. For all my Father's Houſe were but dead Men before my Lord the King: yet dideſt thou ſet thy Servant among thoſe that did eat at thy own Table:] The undeſerved Benefits he had received from David made him abſolutely reſign himſelf to his Will and Pleaſure.

What right therefore have I yet to cry any more to the King?] He did not challenge any thing as his Right, nor thought it decent to trouble the King further with his Complaints.

Ver. 29. And the King ſaid unto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou any more of thy matters?] As if he had ſaid, Enough, Enough; I deſire to hear no more of the Injuries done me by the Houſe of Saul.

I have ſaid, Thou and Ziba divide the Land.] Some of the Hebrew Doctors underſtand this, as if he now parted the Eſtate formerly given to Mephiboſheth, between him and Ziba; partly out of Shame, leſt he ſhould appear too raſh and haſty of Belief, in giving all to Ziba, and partly out of Suſpicion that the too great Wealth of Mephiboſheth might make him ambitious. But they acknowledge this Sentence to be unjuſt, Ziba making no Defence for himſelf. And ſome of them ſay, a Voice from Heaven was heard thereupon, ſaying, that God would make the like Diviſion of David's Kingdom, between Reboboam and Jeroboam. But if we carefully attend to the Words, they carry another Senſe in them; being as much as if he had ſaid, My firſt Grant ſhall ſtand; when he decreed that Mephiboſheth ſhould be Lord of the Land, and Ziba ſhould manage it for him, ix. 10. See Selden de Succeſſionibus, Cap. 25. Fol. 89, 90. where he makes out this very clearly.

Ver. 30. And Mephiboſheth ſaid unto the King, Yea, let him take all, foraſmuch as my Lord the King is come again in peace unto his own houſe.] Nothing could be more generouſly ſpoken, nor ſignified greater Affection, than that he was content to be a Beggar, now that the King was reſtored to his Kingdom.

Ver. 31. And Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim,] A Place in Mount Gilead.

And went over Jordan with the King, to conduct him over Jordan.] Meerly to bring him on his Way ſo far, and then return.

Ver. 32. Now Barzillai was a very aged Man, even fourſcore years old,] Which was a great Age in David's Days, Pſal. xc. 10.

And he had provided the King of Suſtenance, while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a very great Man.] And had a very large Heart, which moved him to ſupply the Wants of David, and all his Family and Attendants, as long as he ſtayed at Mahanaim, which was a conſiderable time. Pliny relates, that Craſſus denied any Man to be rich, who was not able to maintain a Legion, Lib. 33. Natural. Hiſtor. Cap. 10. where he mentions one that entertained all Xerxes's Army at a Feaſt: But here was a far more rare Example of Virtue in Barzillai, who maintained not a proſperous Prince in all his Glory, but a diſtreſſed Prince in his Exile, when no hope appeared of a Reward.

Ver. 33. And the King ſaid unto Barzillai, Come over with me, and I will feed thee with me at Jeruſalem.] Entertain him at his own Table, as a ſingular Friend.

Ver. 34. And Barzillai ſaid unto the King, How long have I to live, that I ſhould go up with the King unto Jeruſalem?] He excuſes himſelf, by ſeveral Reaſons, for not accepting the King's Kindneſs; and the firſt is, becauſe as he was unfit for travel ſo far, ſo for ſo ſhort a time as he had to live, it was not prudent to change his Dwelling.

Ver. 35. I am this day fourſcore Years old, and can I diſcern between Good and Evil?] Theſe general Words are explained by the Particulars which follow.

Can thy Servant taſte what I eat and drink? can I hear any more the Voice of ſinging Men, and ſinging Women?] His ſecond Reaſon is, that the King's Kindneſs would be ill beſtowed upon one that had no Reliſh left of any of the Pleaſures of a Court.

Wherefore then ſhould thy Servant be a burden unto my Lord the King?] A third is, that inſtead of doing the King any Service, he ſhould prove a Burden to him; for old Men muſt have ſome to wait on them, and take care of them.

Ver. 26. Thy Servant will go a little way over Jordan with the King:] Expreſs his dutiful Affection to him as far as he was able.

And why ſhould the King recompenſe me with ſuch a reward?] Since he had but done his duty to his Sovereign, he did not expect to be ſo highly rewarded for it.

Ver. 37. Let thy Servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in my own City, and be buried by the Grave of my Father and of my Mother:] He beſeeches him for a fourth Reaſon, not to preſs him to go further; but ſuffer him to enjoy that which old Men naturally deſire; to die in the Place where they have lived; and to be buried with their Anceſtors.

But behold thy Servant Chimham, let him go over with my Lord the King, and do unto him what ſhall ſeem good unto thee.] That he might not ſeem rude in refuſing the King's gracious Offer, he deſires him to tranſlate his Kindneſs to his Son, and beſtow upon him what he pleaſed.

Ver. 38. And the King anſwered, Chimham ſhall go over with me, and I will do unto him that which ſhall ſeem good unto thee:] He would not have it left to his Choice what he ſhould do for Chimham; but deſires the good old Man to ſay what he would have for him, and it ſhould be done. We do not read what Barzillai aſked, or what David did for him: But there being mention made in Jer. xli. 17. of the habitation of Chimham, and that near to Bethlehem, it is a very reaſonable Conjecture of Grotius, in his Annotations on that Place, that David having a Patrimony in the Field of Bethlehem, the Place of his Nativity, Jus ibi habitandi, & fructus quoſdam ſuos faciendi dedit Chimhamo, he beſtowed it upon Barzillai's Son; and from thence this Place took the Name of Chimham, which remained 'till the Days of Jeremiah.

And whatſoever thou ſhalt require of me, that will I do for thee.] He promiſes withal, that when Barzillai was gone home, if he had any Occaſion to petition him, his Requeſt ſhould be granted.

Ver. 39. And all the People went over Jordan: and when the King was gone over, the King kiſſed Barzillai, and bleſſed him;] They parted with great Kindneſs, and the King prayed God to requite what Barzillai had done for him

And he returned to his place,] With great Satisfaction, that he had ſeen his Sovereign in his way to be reſtored to his Kingdom.

Ver. 40. And the King went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went with him:] As one of his near Attendants.

And all the People of Judah conducted the King, and alſo half the People of Iſrael.] That is, the Elders, and great Men both of Judah and Iſrael. To gratify his own Tribe, David marched on, not expecting the coming of all the great Men of Iſrael, who were making themſelves ready to wait upon him.

Ver. 41. And behold, all the Men of Iſrael came to the King, and ſaid unto the King,] When the other half of the Iſraelites were got together, they thus expoſtulated with the King.

Why have our Brethren, the Men of Judah, ſtolen thee away, and have brought the King, and his Houſhold, and all David's Men with him, over Jordan?] That is, why did they make ſuch haſte, and not expect our Conſent and Aſſiſtance, who were as zealous as themſelves to bring the King back? They ſeem to take it ill, that not only David and his Family, but all his Men, i. e. his Soldiers and Guards, ſhould be brought over Jordan; as if they would force their way, whether the Iſraelites would or no.

Ver. 42. And all the Men of Judah anſwered the Men of Iſrael, Becauſe the King is near of kin to us:] Being of their Tribe, which juſtly required they ſhould be more forward than others in his Service.

Wherefore then be ye angry with us?] For our Affection to him.

Have we eaten at all of the King's Coſt, or hath he given us any Gift?] We get nothing by it, but have only done our Duty, and teſtified our great Affection. Abarbinel thinks theſe Words, given us any gift, import Expiation and Pardon; as in Gen. xviii. 26. Numb. vi. 26. And are as much as if they had ſaid, hath he granted us a Pardon for what we did in the Buſineſs of Abſalom? Whereby they ſuggeſted, that the Iſraelites were the principal Actors in that Rebellion, and needed an Act of Oblivion, though they did not.

Ver. 43. And the Men of Iſrael anſwered the Men of Judah, and ſaid,] The Words are not as before, all the Men of Iſrael: Which is a ſign ſome of them were cooled, though moſt of them continued violent.

We have ten Parts in the King,] By the King is here meant the Kingdom: Ten Parts of which they ſay were theirs (whereas they were eleven Tribes beſides Judah) becauſe Simeon being intermixed with Judah, it is likely now came along with them.

We have alſo more right in David than you:] As David was a private Perſon, Judah had more Intereſt in him than the reſt, becauſe he was of their Tribe: But as he was a King, the Iſraelites had more, being the far greater part of his Subjects.

Why then did ye deſpiſe us, that our Advice ſhould not be firſt had in bringing back our King?] They looked upon it therefore as a great Neglect, if not Contempt of them, that they had not the Precedence in this Buſineſs.

And the Words of the Men of Judah were fiercer than the Words of the Men of Iſrael.] More vehement: or, they were too hard for them in their Argument. David did not think fit to interpoſe; which made the Men of Iſrael think he favoured Judah, and thence aroſe a new Rebellion.

CHAP. XX.

Verſe 1. AND there happen'd to be there] When this Contention fell out between the Men of Iſrael and Judah.

A Man of Belial, whoſe Name was Sheba the ſon of Bichri, a Benjamite,] Who perhaps was of kin to Saul, as Shimei was (xvi. 5.) and one of the Commanders in Abſalom's Army next to Amaſa. For ſo Victorinus Strigelius underſtands the Hebrew Words, Iſch Bichri, to ſignify unus ex Proceribus, a Noble Man, of great Power and Authority among the People: like Catiline at Rome.

And he blew a Trumpet, and ſaid, we have no part in David, neither have we Inheritance in the Son of Jeſſe:] As much as to ſay, let the Men of Judah have him to themſelves. He cares not for us, and we care not for him.

Every Man to his Tents, O Iſrael.] He wiſhes all the Men of Iſrael, ſince David expreſſed no more Regard to them, to go to their Homes, and trouble themſelves no further in bringing him back.

Ver. 2. So every Man of Iſrael went up from after David, and followed Sheba the Son of Bichri:] Inſtead of going home, they followed their ſeditious Incendiary: Taking it in ſnuff (as we ſpeak) that the King did not expect 'till they, who were the Majority, came to conduct him: But relied ſolely on the Men of Judah, as if they were able, without the reſt of Iſrael, to reeſtabliſh him in his Throne.

But the Men of Judah clave unto their King from Jordan even to Jeruſalem.] Not a Man of them ſtirred from him, but conducted him from Jordan to Jeruſalem. And we muſt not think that all the Men of Iſrael forſook him: But a very great Number of them. For Shimei in all likelihood, and his thouſand Men, ſtuck to him, though of the ſame Tribe with Sheba; otherwiſe David would have puniſhed him, when this Rebellion was quelled.

Ver. 3. And David came to his Houſe at Jeruſalem, and the King took the Women his Concubines whom he had left to keep the Houſe, and put them in ward,] Shut them up cloſe under a Guard, and fed them. Nobody came to them, but only to bring them daily Proviſion for their Suſtenance.

But went not in unto them:] Never lay with them: But looked upon them as become impure to him; having been defiled by his Son.

So they were ſhut up unto the Day of their Death, living in Widowhood.] They were not fit for any body elſe, being Royal Wives: And therefore he did not give them a Bill of Divorce, but ſhut them up cloſe, that no Man might enjoy them. And indeed it was not prudent to let them be ſo much as ſeen abroad: Which would have renewed the Remembrance of Abſalom's Filthineſs.

Ver. 4. Then ſaid the King unto Amaſa, Aſſemble me the Men of Judah] He makes good his Promiſe to Amaſa: Which was a great Encouragement to others in the Tribe of Judah, to ſtick faſt to their King. And by this means alſo the ſeditious Iſraelites might be the ſooner brought to Reaſon; when they ſaw their old General in the Field againſt them.

Within three Days,] Becauſe the Buſineſs required ſpeedy Diſpatch.

And be thou here preſent.] To receive his Orders.

Ver. 5. So Amaſa went to aſſemble the Men of Judah; but he tarried longer than the ſet Time which he had appointed him.] He was not treacherous unto David (as the Jewiſh Doctors in the Sanhedrim ſay Joab repreſented him, and made it the Reaſon of his killing him) but he found difficulty in the Buſineſs: Becauſe the People had an high Opinion of Joab, and would not eaſily be brought to ſerve under a new General. This Amaſa, it is likely, was loth to report to the King, becauſe it would diminiſh his Authority, and repreſent him as uncapable to ſerve the King in the Office wherein he had placed him.

Ver. 6. And David ſaid to Abiſhai,] He perſiſted in his Reſolution to depreſs Joab; but employed his Brother, who was the next great Commander in the Army. Whom he doth not create Captain of the Hoſt; but for fear this Delay ſhould prove prejudicial, bids him take ſuch Forces as he found ready in Jeruſalem, and purſue Sheba.

Now ſhall Sheba the Son of Bichri do us more harm than did Abſalom:] If he had Time to gather an Army: The People being highly incenſed by the Provocation the Men of Judah had given them.

Take thou therefore thy Lord's Servants,] The Guards that attend David, and the ſtanding Forces, which were always kept on foot.

And purſue after him, leſt he get him fenced Cities, and eſcape us.] So that they muſt be put to the trouble of laying a long Siege to the Place where he was.

Ver. 7. And there went out after him Joab's men,] A Body of Men whom he particularly commanded.

And the Cerethites and the Pelethites, and all the mighty Men:] See upon viii. 18.

And they went out of Jeruſalem to purſue after Sheba the Son of Bichri.] For David thought himſelf ſafe enough in the Love of the City of Jeruſalem, and the reſt of the People thereabouts.

Ver. 8. And when they were at the great Stone which is in Gibeon,] The Place of Rendevouz (as we now ſpeak) appointed by Amaſa for the Men of Judah. Which was, as Joſephus ſaith, an hundred Furlongs from Jeruſalem.

Amaſa went before them:] As their Commander in chief.

And Joab's Garment that he had put on,] As ſoon as Amaſa arrived at the Army, Joab alſo came there as a Voluntier, of his own accord: Or rather, was there before with Abiſhai. Yea, Joſephus takes it, as if David had ſpoken thoſe Words (ver. 6.) unto Joab, telling him it was not ſafe to delay, and therefore bids him take ſuch Forces as they had ready, and go with his Brother Abiſhai. Ἰωβὸς δὲ οὐκ ἔτι μέλλειν ἔκρινεν, ἀλλὰ τὸν τὲ ἀδελφὸν καὶ τὰς ἑξακοσίας παρέλαβε, &c. He reſolv'd not to ſtay to gather more Forces: But with his Brother, and ſix hundred Men, and all the Force they had in Jeruſalem, marched out to purſue Sheba.

Was girded unto him, and upon it a Girdle, with a Sword faſtened to his Loins, in the Sheath thereof.] He had no Armour on, but ſuch a Garment as Soldiers wore, cloſely girt to him: And upon it a Belt, in which a Sword hung by his Side. Yet Joſephus ſaith he had a Breaſt-Plate, θώρακα ἐνδεδυμένον, as well as μάχαιραν περιζωσάμενον, begirt with a Sword.

And as he went forth] To meet Amaſia, πολλὴν δύναμιν ἀναγόντα, who led numerous Forces to that Place, as the ſame Author ſpeaks.

It fell out.] He had hung it ſo, that it might drop out of the Sheath when he pleaſed. And it fell out juſt as he went to ſalute and embrace Amaſa: Who ſeeing him ſtoop to take it up, imagined it was only to put it into the Sheath again.

Ver. 9. And Joab ſaid unto Amaſa, Art thou in health, my Brother?] He enquired in a friendly manner of his Welfare.

And Joab took Amaſa by the Beard with his right hand to kiſs him.] This is the Cuſtom ſtill among the Eaſtern People, the Indians: Who take one another by the Chin, or the Beard, when they would give an hearty Salute; and ſay Bobba, i. e. Father; or Bii, i. e. Brother, as the Author of the Voyage to the Eaſt-Indies relates, at the end of Peter de Valle his Travels, page 410.

Ver. 10. And Amaſa took no heed to the Sword that was in Joab's hand:] Which he thought he had put into his Sheath; and did not obſerve that he held it in his Left Hand, which it ſeems he could manage as well as the Right.

So he ſmote him therewith in the fifth rib,] See iii. 17.

And ſhed out his Bowels to the ground, and ſtrook him not again, and he died:] He gave him ſuch a Wound, that his very Bowels guſhed out; and there was no need to give him a ſecond Stroke.

And Joab, and Abiſhai his Brother, purſued after Sheba the Son of Bichri.] Hereupon Joab immediately, without any Order, reſumed his Command, and Abiſhai durſt not oppoſe him, but yielded it up to him. For his Authority was ſo great among the Soldiery, that none of Amaſa's Men durſt ſtir to avenge his Death; the Cerethites and Pelethites, and all David's Guards ſubmitting to him: And beſides, all Amaſa's Men were not yet come up, but followed by degrees, as appears by the reſt of the Story.

Ver. 11. And one of Joab's Men ſtood by him,] By the Command of his Maſter; who knew this would make ſome Diſorder among Amaſa's Soldiers.

And ſaid, He that favoureth Joab, and he that is for David,] He cunningly joins theſe two together, as if their Intereſt was inſeparable.

Let him follow after Joab.] He was grown ſo inſolent, becauſe David durſt not puniſh him; that as it made him venture upon this bloody Fact, ſo he preſumed, that though the Sight of Amaſa's dead Body might ſtop the March of thoſe that came by it; yet upon the Declaration his Officer made, that now he was become General of the Army, their Love to him was ſuch, that they would make no ſcruple to follow him.

Ver. 12. And Amaſa wallowed in Blood in the midſt of the High-way:] He ſeems not to have been quite dead, though ſenſeleſs: But had ſo much Life, that he rolled to and fro in his own Blood, which was a doleful Sight.

And when the Man ſaw that all the People ſtood ſtill,] Joab was deceived in his Meaſures, for the People hated this Fact, as much as they loved him. And therefore as many as ſaw it, would move no further till the Body was removed out of the way: ſo that they who were behind, went without any ſtop after Joab.

He removed Amaſa out of the High-way into the Field, and caſt a Cloth upon him, when he ſaw that every one that came by him ſtood ſtill.] This was a prudent Officer; who expected no Orders, but of his own accord removed that out of ſight, which hindered their Purſuit of Sheba.

Ver. 13. And when he was removed out of the High-way, all the People went on after Joab, to purſue after Sheba the Son of Bichri.] They that were behind, it is likely, did not know that Amaſa was killed, and ſo marched on without any Scruple.

Ver. 14. And he went through all the Tribes of Iſrael] That is, Sheba rambled about the Country, from one City to another; to excite the People to take up Arms againſt David. But Joſephus refers this to Joab, that he followed Sheba from place to place, till he came where he was Unto Abel, and Beth-Maachah,] Or rather unto Abel Beth-Maachah: For they were one and the ſame Place, as appears by the next Verſe. And ſo Joſephus, who ſaith it was a ſtrong City well fortified in the Tribe of Napthali, in the northern Parts of Judæa; upon the Borders of that Part of Syria, where Maachah was, x. 8. In this City Sheba at laſt ſettled himſelf, and reſolved to defend it: Being unable, I ſuppoſe, to raiſe ſuch an Army, as to keep the Field.

And all the Beerites:] Among whom he had been before he came hither, and got ſome conſiderable Forces among them. For they were of the City Beeroth (it is probable) and the Parts adjacent: Which was in the Tribe of Benjamin, of which he was a Member, and perhaps dwelt in this City, Joſh. xviii. 25.

And they were gathered together, and went alſo after him.]. Unto Abel Beth-Maachah.

Ver. 15. And they came] That is, Joab and his Men purſued him thither.

And beſieged him in Abel of Beth-Maachah, and they caſt up a Bank againſt the City,] Raiſed Fortifications round about it, from whence to batter it.

And it ſtood in the Trench:] That is, Joab's Army had advanced ſo far, that they had filled up the Trench: And there ſtood at the very Foot of the Wall.

And all the People that were with Joab battered the Wall, to throw it down.] Some battered it with Engines from the Forts: While thoſe at the Bottom of the Wall undermined it, to throw it down. So Joſephus.

Ver. 16. Then cried a wiſe Woman of the City,] A Woman of great Underſtanding, who alſo could ſpeak well. Many ſuch there were in Iſrael, it appears by her of Tekoah, and Abigail; and the Mother of King Lemuel.

Hear, hear; ſay I pray you unto Joab, come near hither, that I may ſpeak with thee.] She prays thoſe that were at the Bottom of the Wall, to ſtop their Proceedings a while: And deſires Joab to come and hear what Propoſitions ſhe had to make to him.

Ver. 17. And when he was come near unto her, the Woman ſaid, Art thou Joab? and he anſwered, I am he.] She was unwilling to treat with any one, but him who had Power to agree to what ſhe propounded.

Then ſhe ſaid unto him, Hear the Words of thine handmaid. And he anſwered, I do hear.] He did not deſpiſe her becauſe ſhe was a Woman; but, as became a wiſe Man, gave her a favourable Audience, and attended to what ſhe ſaid.

Ver. 18. Then ſhe ſpake, ſaying, They were wont to ſpeak in old time, ſaying, They ſhall ſurely aſk counſel at Abel: and ſo they ended the matter.] According to this Tranſlation of the Words, ſhe praiſes the City of Abel as famous, Time out of Mind, for Wiſdom, and giving ſound Advice: And now ſhe would have him believe, was not without Perſons of great Prudence, and Fidelity alſo (as it follows in the next Verſe) who would not willingly offend their King. But there is another Tranſlation in the Margin of our Bibles, which I take to be more literal; by referring the Word Bariſhonah not to old Time, but to the beginning of the Siege. As if ſhe had ſaid, when the People ſaw thee lay ſiege to the City, they ſaid ſurely they will aſk us if we will have Peace; and then we ſhall ſoon come to an Agreement, and make an end. Whereby ſhe ſecretly remembers Joab of a Rule in the Law, Deut. xx. 10. which commands them to offer Peace to the Cities of other Nations, when they came to beſiege them; and therefore much more to a City of their own, as Abel was. To this purpoſe R. Solomon Jarchi; and it agrees well with what follows, that they were a peaceable People, and faithful to their Prince: And therefore would not have refuſed to yield, upon Summons, to him. R. Levi Ben Gerſom gives another Senſe of them; that Sheba and his Company, when they firſt came into the City, aſked if they would follow him, and ſaid no more: To whom the Men of the City anſwered, we are peaceable and faithful: That is, we cannot join with thee and rebel againſt King David. But there is a late Writer, who thinks the Words will bear this Senſe: This was a common Saying in old Time, if any one aſked whether Abel was a place of Juſtice and Judgment, or a Den of Thieves; the Anſwer was, they are an upright People. And therefore ſhe aſks Joab why he went about to deſtroy a City ſo famous for Virtue. Thus Mayerus in his Annotations on Seder Olam Rabbi, Cap. 14.

Ver. 19. I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Iſrael:] She ſpeaks in the Name of the whole City: which was of a peaceable Temper; and had been faithful to David in the Time of the late Revolt.

Thou ſeekeſt to deſtroy a City, and a Mother in Iſrael:] A great City, which had many Towns depending on it; and therefore called a Mother.

Why wilt thou ſwallow up the Inheritance of the LORD?] Do an Injury to the Publick; by depopulating a Part of the Country, which is God's peculiar.

Ver. 20. And Joab anſwered and ſaid, Far be it, far be it, that I ſhould ſwallow or deſtroy.] Do you the leaſt Hurt, if I can avoid it. He diſclaims any ill Intentions twice, ſaith R. Solomon; as if he had ſaid, far be it from me, far be it from the King to deſign any ſuch Thing.

Ver. 21 The Matter is not ſo:] You are not rightly informed.

But a Man of Mount Ephraim,] He is ſaid before (ver. 1.) to be of the Tribe of Benjamin: But he lived, I ſuppoſe, in Mount Ephraim.

Sheba, the Son of Bichri by name, hath lift up his Hand againſt the King, even againſt David: deliver him only, and I will depart from the City.] And leave all Sheba's Party at liberty to go home, without any Puniſhment.

And the Woman ſaid unto Joab, Behold, his Head ſhall be thrown unto thee over the Wall.] She had reaſon to be confident that both the Citizens and Soldiers would be glad to ſave themſelves, by giving up him, who had brought them into imminent Danger.

Ver. 22. Then the Woman went unto all the People in her Wiſdom,] Deſired they would all meet in the common Hall; where ſhe told them what Terms ſhe had made for them with Joab: unto which they immediately conſented.

And they cut off the head of Sheba, the Son of Bichri, and caſt it out to Joab:] It ſeems his Party was not ſtrong in the City; or ſeeing it likely to be taken, they were glad to accept of the Conditions the Woman had made for them.

And he blew the Trumpet, and retired from the City, every Man to his Tent:] Raiſed the Siege, and went home.

And Joab returned to Jeruſalem unto the King.] To give him an Account of his good Succeſs.

Ver. 23.

Ver. 23. Now Joab was over all the Hoſt of Iſrael:] Now that David was reſtored to his Kingdom, and eſtabliſhed in it, he ſettled all the great Officers who were to govern under him: And continued Joab in the chief Command of the Army, which was ſo much at his devotion, that he found it dangerous to diſplace him.

And Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada was over the Cerethites, and over the Pelethites:] As he was alſo before (viii. ult.) being a very valiant Man (xxiii. 20.) whom Solomon made Commander in chief of the whole Army (as now he was Captain of the King's Guards) after the Death of Joab

Ver. 24. And Adoram was over the Tribute:] Treaſurer, or Receiver of the King's Revenue. Which Office was non ſettled before; becauſe in the Beginning of his Reign, it is likely David had no great Revenue.

And Jehoſhaphat the Son of Ahilud was Recorder:] See upon viii. 16.

Ver. 25. And Sheva was Scribe, and Zadok and Abiathar were Prieſts:] It is uncertain whether Sheva be the ſame with Seraiah mentioned viii. 17. Or, Seraiah being dead or diſplaced, this Man came in his room. Concerning theſe Prieſts, ſee viii. 17.

Ver. 26. And Ira alſo the Jairite] He had his Original in the Country of Jair the Gileadite, on the other ſide Jordan (Numb. xxxii. 41.) who is not mentioned before, but now was made a great Officer.

Was a chief ruler about David.] The Hebrew Word Cohen (as hath been often obſerved) ſignifies any Miniſter, either Sacred, or Civil: A Prieſt, or a Prince. Inſtances of the laſt are many, and the Targum thus expounds it here, Rab le David, a Prince, or great Man about David. And ſo the Prieſt of On, Gen. xli. 50. and the Prieſt of Midian, Exod. ii. 26. ſignify the Prince or Ruler of On, and of Midian. As in Job xii. 19. We, following the Chaldee, tranſlate it, God leadeth Princes away ſpoiled.

CHAP. XXI.

Verſe 1. THen there was a famine in the days of David, three years, year after year,] The Jewiſh Doctors commonly ſay this Famine was before the Rebellion of Abſalom. But Abarbinel will have it, that Things are related here in the Order wherein they were done; ſo that this was after that Rebellion was ended.

And David inquired of the LORD,] For what Sin ſo grievous a Puniſhment was inflicted: Suſpecting (as Abarbinel thinks) God might ſtill puniſh him for thoſe Sins he committed in the Matter of Uriah.

And the LORD anſwered, It is for Saul, and for his bloody Houſe,] God ſoon comforted him, by letting him know that this Puniſhment was upon the account of Saul and his Family, who had been deeply engaged in Blood.

Becauſe he ſlew the Gibeonites.] When he ſlew the whole City of Nob (ſaith the ſame Abarbinel) where the Gibeonites lived, and ſerved as Hewers of Wood and Drawers of Water to the Prieſts, whom Saul then cut off, 1 Sam. xxii. 18, 19. But the ſame great Man hereupon enquires, why God did not ſend this Famine rather for the Slaughter of the Prieſts, than of the Gibeonites? Of which he gives this Account, that the Slaughter of the Prieſts was puniſhed before, by the Slaughter of Saul and of his Sons, in the Battle with the Philiſtines, 1 Sam. xxxi. and now he was puniſhed in the Sons of his Concubines, and all Iſrael ſuffered with them by Famine, becauſe they did not hinder him from mudering the Gibeonites, by remembring him of the Oath which was made to them; nay, perhaps, they approved of what he did, being glad to ſee the Land rid of Foreigners. But why this Judgment was not executed before, may ſeem ſtrange, till we conſider, as he obſerves, that the Counſels of God are profound; and he hath excellent Reaſons, why he puniſhes Sinners not now, but hereafter: And knows which of their Children are moſt worthy to be puniſhed, and bear the iniquity of their Fathers. And the longer he ſtays before he ſtrikes, the more evident it is, that he doth not forget what the evil Men have done, though he doth not preſently declare his Anger againſt it. He obſerves alſo, that the Gibeonites being Drawers of Water, God put the Iſraelites in mind of their Offence, by with-holding Rain from them: Juſt as his refuſing to anſwer Saul by Urim, was a ſuitable Puniſhment for his murdering the Prieſts who conſulted God by that Oracle.

Ver. 2. And the King called the Gibeonites, and ſaid unto them (now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Iſrael, but of the remnant of the Amorites, and the Children of Iſrael had ſworn unto them: and Saul ſought to ſlay them in his Zeal to the Children of Iſrael and Judah)] Which tranſported him to violate a ſolemn Oath: As many ſince have done, under pretence of the publick Good.

Ver. 3. Wherefore David ſaid unto the Gibeonites, What ſhall I do for you?] He asks them what Satisfaction they deſired, for the Wrong that had been done them. Which may ſeem ſtrange, unleſs we ſuppoſe, as Joſephus doth, that God told him when he conſulted him, not only for what Crime he ſent this Puniſhment, but that he ſhould take, δικὴν ἣν αὐτοὶ θέλωσιν, ſuch a Revenge for it, as the Gibeonites would have. Beſides, they had never made any Complaint to David of the Injury which had been done them: Who might therefore be the kinder to them, and give them leave to name the Recompence that ſhould be made them.

And wherewith ſhall I make an atonement, that ye may bleſs the Inheritance of the LORD?] Pray to God to be pacified alſo; and to reſtore Plenty unto Iſrael again.

Ver. 4. And the Gibeonites anſwered unto him, We will have no Silver nor Gold of Saul, nor of his Houſe; neither for us ſhalt thou kill any Man in Iſrael.] Except thoſe that they afterwards mentioned. For they ſeem to have been People truly proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion; who deſired nothing but equal Juſtice; that Men ſhould ſuffer as they have done: And therefore Saul having not taken away their Money, but their Lives; they deſired only that the Lives of ſome of his Family might pay for it.

And

And he ſaid, What you ſhall ſay, that will I do for you.] If they had deſired Money, or any thing elſe that was in his power, they might have had it.

Ver. 5. And they anſwered the King, The man that conſumed us, and that deviſed againſt us that we ſhould be deſtroyed from remaining in any of the Coaſts of Iſrael,] He intended, if not to kill, yet to baniſh them all: Which had been worſe than Death; for it would have deprived them of the Liberty of worſhipping the true God.

Ver. 6. Let ſeven Men of his Sons be delivered unto us,] Some imagine, that at the firſt they demanded all the Houſe of Saul to be delivered up unto them: But upon cooler Thoughts they demanded only ſeven Perſons.

And we will hang them up unto the LORD] To appeaſe his Anger, and vindicate his Honour. Some think this was a barbarous Cuſtom in thoſe Days (which certainly prevailed in future Times) to hang Men up, to appeaſe the Anger of their Gods, in time of Famine. Which Johannes Geuſius fancies the Gibeonites had formerly uſed, and now propounded it to David as a Means to make the Earth more fruitful, De Victimis Humanis, Pars 1. Cap. 14. p. 310, &c. and P. 2. Cap. 14. p. 312. which he imagines to be the Reaſon why it is obſerved (ver. 2.) that the Gibeonites were not of the Children of Iſrael, but of the Remnant of the Amorites: To ſhew whence this horrid Superſtition proceeded; of which ſome Tang ſtill remained amongſt them. The Vulgar here tranſlates it, ut crucifigamus eos, that we may crucify them. Which miſled Serrarius and ſome others into this Error, that Crucifixion was a Puniſhment anciently among the Jews: Which Caſaubon, Selden, and ſeveral other great Men have ſhewn to be falſe.

In Gibeah of Saul,] To make the Puniſhment the more remarkable and ſhameful: This being the City where he lived, both before and after he was King, 1 Sam. x. 26. xi. 4.

Whom the LORD did chooſe.] This aggravated his Guilt, that he was ſo highly favoured by God, and yet obeyed not his Commands: But ſpared the Amalekites, whom God commanded him to deſtroy; and killed theſe poor Gibeonites, whom he was bound by the Oath of God to preſerve.

And the King ſaid, I will give them.] This ſeems to be contrary to the Divine Law, Deut. xxiv. 16. that the Son ſhould not die for the Father's Fault. To which ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors thought it ſufficient to anſwer, It is better that one Letter ſhould be taken out of the Law, than that the Name of God ſhould be publickly profaned: That is, that one Precept, rather than an Oath, ſhould be broken. But there is no need of this; for, as Abarbinel judiciouſly obſerves, the Law in Deuteronomy is to be underſtood of Proceedings in Human Courts, not of the Divine Judgments; for God viſits the Sins of the Fathers upon the Children unto the third and fourth Generation, Exod. xx. 5.

Ver. 7. And the King ſpared Mephiboſheth the Son of Jonathan, the Son of Saul, becauſe of the LORD's Oath that was between them; between David and Jonathan the Son of Saul.] Not meerly his Affection to Jonathan, but his Dread of breaking the Oath he had made to him, moved him to preſerve Mephiboſheth; leſt he himſelf ſhould incur the ſame Puniſhment which Saul fell under, for breaking the Oath made to the Gibeonites.

Ver. 8. But the King took the two Sons of Rizpah the Daughter of Ajah,] Who was a Concubine of Saul, as we read afterwards, ver. 11.

Whom ſhe bare unto Saul, Armoni and Mephiboſheth,] After whoſe Name perhaps Mephiboſheth the Son of Jonathan was called.

And five Sons of Michal the Daughter of Saul, whom ſhe brought up] In the Hebrew, whom ſhe bare, i. e. which were born: According to an uſual manner of ſpeaking among the Hebrews; of which ſee Dr. Hammond upon Luke xvi. Note b.

For Adriel] It is plain from hence, that by was born is meant, as we tranſlate it, was brought up. For Michal was not the Wife of Adriel, but was given to Phaltiel, 1 Sam. xxv. 44. Merab her elder Siſter being married to Adriel, 1 Sam. xviii. 19. by whom ſhe had theſe five Sons, whom Michal brought up, and therefore they are called her Children. Thus the Jews ſay, in the Gemara Sanhedrin, Cap. 2. Merab brought them forth, and Michal educated them. And the like we read (as they alledge for the Proof of this) Gen. xxx. 3. L. 23. See Selden De Uxore Hebr. Lib. 1. Cap. 6. Kimchi alſo here alledges the Words of the Women in Ruth iv. 17. There is a Son born to Naomi; who was not the Mother of it, but only laid it in her Boſom, and became Nurſe to it, as is ſaid in the precedent Verſe. Thus alſo Raſi, Ralbag, and a great many other Jews, following the Chaldee Paraphraſe. And we have an Example of this in the Heathen Writers. For Agamemnon and Menelaus are called Sons of Atreus, becauſe their Father being dead, he took care to bring them up. So Euſtathius on the Second Book of the Iliads. Pliſthenes (who was their Father) being dead, the Youths being bred up by Atreus, αὐτῷ παῖδες ἐκλήθησαν, they were called his Children.

The Son of Barzillai the Meholathite.] This laſt Word is intended to diſtinguiſh him from the other Barzillai the Gileadite: For this was of the Tribe of Benjamin, to which Abel Meholah belonged.

Ver. 9. And he delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites, and they hanged them in the hill before the LORD:] In a conſpicuous Place, where they might be ſeen by all that paſſed by. David did not command his Officers to hang them up, but delivered them to the Gibeonites, that they might diſpoſe of them as they pleaſed.

And they fell all ſeven together, and were put to death in the days of harveſt, in the firſt days, in the beginning of barley-harveſt.] That is, ſay the Jews, on the ſixteenth of Niſan, a little after the Paſſover.

Ver. 10. And Rizpah the Daughter of Ajah took ſackcloth, and ſpread it for her upon the rock,] It is probable, ſhe both made a Tent of it to dwell in, and ſpread it upon the Ground to lie upon.

From the beginning of Harveſt, until water dropped upon them out of Heaven,] From the ſixteenth of Niſan (as the Hebrew Doctors underſtand it) 'till

'till the ſeventeenth of Marcheſvan; that is, from the middle of our March to the middle of October; when God ſhewed he was reconciled, by ſending Showers down upon the Earth; which might be, for any thing we know, in the middle of Summer. And indeed Abarbinel thinks this Opinion of their Doctors is not true; but that the plain Meaning is, they hung from the beginning of Harveſt, 'till God was intreated for the Land, and was pleaſed to ſend them Rain; for want of which, they ſuffered by Famine. And he thinks it probable, that not long after they were hung up, they had plentiful Showers by the good Providence of God, though it was Summer-time; whereby it appeared God was appeaſed: But by their hanging there ſeveral Days, it is manifeſt this was not a Legal Puniſhment (and therefore David committed it to the Gibeonites, and did not execute it by his own Officers) but an extraordinary one, inflicted by thoſe who were not bound by that Law, Deut. xxii. 24. which in this caſe was violated.

And ſuffered neither the Birds of the air to reſt on them by day, nor the Beaſts of the field by night.] She had Servants no doubt to attend her, who kept a conſtant Watch Day and Night, to fright away the Birds and Beaſts.

Ver. 11. And it was told David what Rizpah the Daughter of Ajah, Saul's Concubine, had done.] Which did not diſpleaſe him, nor the Gibeonites neither (as far as appears) but was accounted a laudable thing; which excited David to the Imitation of her. I obſerved before, that Saul had but one Wife, and we read of no more than this one Concubine; which ſhews his Moderation in ſome things, which was praiſe-worthy.

Ver. 12. And David went and took the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his Son, from the men of Jabeſh-Gilead, which had ſtolen them from the ſtreet of Beth-ſhan, where the Philiſtines had hanged them, when the Philiſtines had ſlain Saul in Gilboa.] See 1 Sam. xxxi. 10. This noble Act of Rizpah moved David to do ſome Honour to the Carcaſes of her Sons, and to the whole Houſe of Saul: And for that End he ſent for the Bones of Saul and Jonathan, to inter them and thoſe Children of Saul's with their Anceſtors. Which piece of Generoſity demonſtrated that he had no perſonal Enmity to the Family of Saul.

Ver. 13. And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his Son;] From under the Tree where they were buried in Jabeſh, 1 Sam. xxxi. 13.

And they gathered the bones of them that were hanged.] Which ſeems to have been done ſome time after they were taken down, when nothing but their Bones remained; and then they had all ſeven an honourable Interment, as it here follows.

Ver. 14. And the bones of Saul, and of Jonathan his Son] Together with thoſe now mentioned.

Buried they in the Country of Benjamin in Zelah,] Which was in that Tribe, Joſh. xviii. 28.

In the Sepulchre of Kiſh his Father;] It was accounted very deſirable to be buried with their Parents; as appears by old Barzillai, xix. 37.

And they performed all that the King commanded:] They that were employed in this Buſineſs, gave them a ſolemn Burial, with all the Mourning that was uſual in the Funerals of Kings; as the Hebrew Doctors expound it.

And after that God was intreated for the land.] When Satisfaction was given to the Gibeonites for the Injuries done to them, God reſtored Plenty to the Country.

Ver. 15. Moreover, the Philiſtines had yet war again with Iſrael,] That is, after all the Wars before-mentioned in this Book with the Philiſtines, they again diſturbed David's Repoſe in the latter End of his Reign. Some indeed will have theſe Wars to have been preſently after the War with the Ammonites was ended; before the Rebellion of Abſalom. But Abarbinel, I think, well reſolves, that the Hiſtory of this War is not miſplaced, but that it fell out not long after the Famine before-mentioned.

And David went down, and his Servants with him,] It is not ſaid where this Battle was fought (as the Place of the other three following is mentioned) but it is likely to have been near to the Country of the Philiſtines; unto which David went down; for it lay low, towards the Sea-ſide.

And fought againſt the Philiſtines; and David waxed faint.] Being in his declining Years; or rather of a great Age, and much worn out by various Troubles and Afflictions.

Ver. 16. And Iſhbi-benob, which was of the Sons of the giant] That is, of Goliath; who by way of Eminency is called the Giant; though Bochartus thinks the Hebrew Word Rapha ſignifies any Giant; and ſo theſe Words ſhould be tranſlated, of the Race of the Giants, i. e. of the Anakims who fled into this Country, particularly to Gath, when Joſhua expelled them from Canaan, Joſh. xi. 22.

(The weight of whoſe ſpear weighed three hundred Shekels of braſs in weight)] This is to be underſtood of the Head of his Spear, which weighed half as much as that of Goliath, 1 Sam. xvii. 7.

He being girded with a new Sword,] The Word Sword is not in the Hebrew; nor is there any thing remarkable in his having a new Sword; therefore it ſhould be tranſlated, with a new kind of Weapon, or rather, with a new Belt; which had been beſtowed upon him as a Reward of ſome great Exploit which he had done; or as a Token of ſome new Honour, or Command conferred upon him in the Army. See xviii. 11.

Thought to have ſlain David.] Being ſtronger than he; and having him at an advantage, when by ſome Accident, he was ſeparated from his Army; as Joſephus underſtands it.

Ver. 17. But Abiſhai ſuccoured him.] Came in ſeaſonably to his Relief.

And ſmote the Philiſtine, and killed him.] The Words leave it doubtful whether he was ſlain by Abiſhai, or by David. Our Tranſlation ſeems to incline to the former: but if David was not the Perſon that killed him, I do not ſee how that can be verified, which is ſaid in the End of this Chapter, that all theſe Giants fell by the hand of David and of his Servants; for he ſlew none of them, unleſs it were this.

Then

Then the Men of David ſware to him, ſaying, Thou ſhalt go no more out with us to battle,] They had adviſed this before, when they went to fight with Abſalom, xviii. 3. But now they peremptorily decreed it, and ſolemnly confirmed it with an Oath.

That thou quench not the Light of Iſrael.] Leſt he ſhould be killed, and thereby they ſhould loſe the Glory of having ſuch a King reign over them; for good Kings are called the Light of their People (1 Kings xi. 36. xv. 4.) becauſe by their wiſe Government, Conduct and Courage, they made their People happy and illuſtrious.

Ver. 18. And it came to paſs after this, that there was a Battle again with the Philiſtines at Gob:] Which was alſo called Gezer, as Abarbinel thinks, 1 Chron. xx. 4. Or, they were ſo near one another, that the Battle was in the Confines of both.

Then Sibbechai the Huſhathite] One of David's Worthies, 1 Chron. xi. 29.

Slew Saph, which was of the Sons of the Giant.] One of the ſame Race of the Rephaims; who ſeem to be deſcended from the Anakims.

Ver. 19. And there was again a battle in Gob with the Philiſtines,] This was a Place, it ſeems, very proper for Armies to draw up in; for here they fought twice.

Where Elhanan the Son of Jaare-Oregim a Bethlehemite,] He is ſimply called the Son of Jair, 1 Chron. xx. 5. and is reckoned among David's Worthies, 1 Chron. xi. 26. and there ſaid to be the Son of Dodo; who, I ſuppoſe, was his Grandfather.

Slew the Brother of Goliath the Gittite,] The Word Brother is ſupplied out of 1 Chron. xx. 5. where his Name is ſaid to be Lahmi.

The Staff of whoſe Spear was like a Weaver's beam.] 1 Sam. xvii. 7.

Ver. 20. And there was yet a battle in Gath,] In the Territory belonging to it.

Where was a Man of great ſtature,] The LXX tranſlate it, a Man of Madon: who was born, that is, in a Place called by that Name.

That had on every hand ſix Fingers, and on every foot ſix Toes, twenty-four in number;] If we may believe Tavernier (in his Relation of the Grand Signior's Seraglio, p. 95.) the eldeſt Son of the Emperor of Java, who reigned in the Year 1648, when he was in that Iſland, had ſix Fingers on each Hand, and as many Toes on each Foot; all of equal length.

And he alſo was born to the Giant.] Was one of the Rephaim of that Country.

Ver. 21. And when he defied Iſrael,] In imitation of the great Giant Goliath, confiding, as he did, in his monſtrous Strength.

Jonathan, the Son of Shimea, the Brother of David, ſlew him.] We read of this Brother of David in 1 Sam. xvi. 9. where he is called Shammah. But this Son of his is not reckoned among David's Worthies, 1 Chron. xi.

Ver. 22. Theſe four were born to the Giant in Gath,] Here Rapha ſeems to ſignify Goliath, the moſt famous Giant; if one of them had not been his Brother.

And fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his Servants.] The firſt of them was ſlain by David (Abiſhai aſſiſting) the reſt by the great Men, who were about him. See ver. 17.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſe 1. AND David ſpake unto the LORD the words of this Song, in the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of his Enemies,] It is commonly thought David penned this Pſalm, towards the End of his Life, after all the Victories mentioned in the foregoing Chapter. Thus Raſi, in the Time of his old Age, and Kimchi, in the Concluſion of his Day: But Abarbinel, who contends earneſtly that all things fall out in the Order wherein they are related in this Book, is of a quite different Opinion here; and will have it that he compoſed this Song in his Youth, in the midſt of all his Straits and Difficulties; out of which when God delivered him, he ſung this Song of Praiſe unto him. So that by the Words, in the Day that the LORD delivered him, he thinks is meant, that every time he received any Deliverance from God, his uſual Method was to acknowledge it thankfully in the Words of this Song; which was compoſed at firſt for his own private Uſe: But in the End of his Days, he thought fit to communicate it to others; and therefore put it into the Book of Pſalms, that it might ſerve for the uſe of thoſe which might be in the like Straits, and receive the like Mercies. And then alſo he reviewed it, and made ſeveral Alterations in it; which, little and great, amount, as he obſerves, to ſeventy-four in Number. And this he did, as he thinks, to make his Meaning plainer; and that the People might not miſtake it. And there is ſome ground for part of what he ſaith; for the xviiith Pſalm is directed to the Chief Muſician; which ſhews it was then intended for publick Uſe: Whereas here is nothing ſaid of that, and therefore it is probable it remained for ſome time a piece of private Devotion.

And out of the hand of Saul.] He may be thought to be comprehended under the Name of his Enemies: But they (as the ſame Abarbinel obſerves) were properly the People of other Nations, who made War upon him; of whom he ſpeaks in Pſal. cxxxix. 21, 22. Do not I hate them that hate thee? &c. I account them mine Enemies. Now though Saul cruelly perſecuted David, yet it did not become David to call him his Enemy, and one that he hated: For he loved Saul, and therefore doth not number him among his Enemies; but in a particular manner, to diſtinguiſh him from them, adds, and out of the hand of Saul.

Ver. 2. And he ſaid, the LORD is my Rock, and my fortreſs, and my deliverer,

Ver. 3. The God of my Rock, in him will I truſt: he is my Shield, and the horn of my Salvation, my high Tower, and my Refuge, my Saviour: thou ſaveſt me from violence.] This great Heap of Metaphors, as Strigelius obſerves, is a large Paraphraſe upon the firſt Commandment; declaring God alone to be his Confidence: In whom he placed all his Strength, Safety, Security and Happineſs. The Conſequence of which is, that we ſhould love God with all our our Heart, and Soul, and Strength (as Moſes adds after that Precept, Deut. vi. 4, 5. x. 12.) and therefore David adds that, when he reviewed this Pſalm; and begins it thus; I will love thee, O LORD, my Strength, &c. Pſalm. xviii. 1. See my Paraphraſe upon that Pſalm; where I have ſufficiently explained theſe Verſes.

Ver. 4. I will call upon the LORD, who is worthy to be praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine Enemies.] See in that Pſalm; where there are the very ſame Words. Upon which the forenamed Strigelius piouſly obſerves; that as the Πανοπλία of a Soldier doth him no Service, unleſs he put it on, to defend himſelf and offend his Enemy, ſo no Protection, or Help from God is to be expected (who is ſo powerful as before deſcribed) unleſs we apply our ſelves unto him by Prayer and Praiſes.

Ver. 5. When the Waves of Death compaſſed me about, and the Floods of ungodly Men made me afraid.] Theſe Words in this Verſe differ from the Words in Pſalm xviii. but the Senſe is the ſame: That he was in a ſinking Condition, and ſaw no way to eſcape; being over-power'd by Troops of ungodly Men, who like a Torrent threatned to ſweep him away.

Ver. 6. The Sorrows of Hell compaſſed me about, and the Snares of Death prevented me.] He was ſo intangled in their Snares, that he had no more Power to help himſelf, than a dead Man bound Head and Foot in his Grave. For ſo the Word Sheol, which we tranſlate Hell, here ſignifies.

Ver. 7. In my Diſtreſs I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God,] He did not deſpair when he was at this plunge; but made his Addreſſes to him who is Omnipotent: Moſt earneſtly beſeeching him to deliver him, as he had often done.

And he did hear my Voice out of his Temple, and my Cry did enter into his Ears.] There is very little Difference between theſe Words and thoſe in Pſalm xviii. The Meaning of which is, that God gave him a gracious Anſwer from his Sanctuary, or from Heaven (of which the Sanctuary was a Type) and ſhewed that he was ſenſibly touched with his Affliction.

Ver. 8. Then the Earth ſhook and trembled:] The Terror which God ſtruck into his Enemies, is compared to an Earthquake: Which makes every body tremble, as it did the Jaylor, Acts xvi. 29.

The Foundations of Heaven moved and ſhook,] In Pſalm xviii. the Words are, the Foundations of the Hills: Which explains what he here means by Heaven, viz. Mountains lifted up to Heaven. Or, he repreſents the Dread which fell upon his Enemies, by the Conſternation which an Earthquake cauſes, when it is accompanied with Thunder, Lightning, and Hail from Heaven, in a great Tempeſt. We do not read that there were literally ſuch Storms, Tempeſts and Earthquakes for David's Deliverance: But if there were, it need not ſeem ſtrange, when prophane Hiſtory informs us of God's interpoſing after this manner, in ſome Caſes. For Strigelius obſerves out of Livy, that in the eighth Year of the ſecond Punic War, when Hannibal and the Romans were drawn up in Battel and ready to fight (upon which the Fortune of the City of Rome depended) there fell ſuch a Shower of Rain and Hail, as confounded both Armies: So that being ſcarce able to hold their Arms, they retreated unto their Camps. And on the next Day, in the very ſame Place, the like Tempeſt parted them: And as ſoon as they came into their Camps, there was a wonderful Serenity and Tranquillity.

Becauſe he was wroth.] Highly diſpleaſed at their Enmity to David.

Ver. 9. There went up a Smoke out of his Noſtrils, and Fire out of his Mouth devoured: Coals were kindled at it.] Theſe are very high Metaphors, to expreſs the moſt flaming Degree of Anger; and the dreadful Effects of it.

Ver. 10. He bowed the Heavens alſo and came down: and Darkneſs was under his feet.] The Divine Majeſty appeared in a glorious Cloud, deſcending from Heaven: Which at the bottom was all dark; but above, bright and ſhining, with an amazing Luſtre.

Ver. 11. He rode upon a Cherub,] To ride, in the Hebrew Language (as Maimonides obſerves) is to rule, to govern, to manage with an abſolute Power, that on which one is ſaid to ride; and to diſpoſe of it as he pleaſes. More Nevochim, P. 1. Cap. 70. And therefore to ride upon a Cherub, or to make the Clouds his Chariot (which is the very ſame, becauſe Angels were wont to appear in bright Clouds) is to ſend his Heavenly Miniſters whither he thinks good, to execute his Pleaſure.

And did fly:] Made haſte to ſuccour and relieve David, when he was in great Diſtreſs.

And he was ſeen upon the Wings of the Wind.] A rapid Wind ſhewed that he was preſent to overturn all Oppoſition. See 1 Sam. v. 24.

Ver. 12. And he made Darkneſs Pavillions round about him, dark Waters, and thick Clouds of the Skies.] This is ſtill a Deſcription of the Angelical Powers, who ſurrounded him on all ſides as his Miniſters; ready to be imployed, which way he thought fit to ſend them. For Andreas Cæſarienſis truly obſerves in his Commentary on the Revelation, that whenſoever we read in the Sacred Books of Clouds, or thick Darkneſs, we are always to underſtand, ὑπηρέτας τῶν θείων πραγμάτων, ſome Miniſtry ready to ſerve in Divine Affairs.

Ver. 13. Through the Brightneſs before him were Coals of Fire kindled.] Thoſe Heavenly Miniſters going forth from his Glorious Preſence, ſent Hail-ſtones and Lightnings (as in the Days of Joſhua, x. 11.) in the Face of his Enemies.

Ver. 14. The LORD thundered from Heaven, the moſt High uttered his Voice.] Thunder is called the Voice of God, in Pſalm xxix. Which he ſent forth in ſuch terrible Cracks accompanied with Flaſhes of Fire, that quite daunted his Enemies.

Ver. 15. He ſent out Arrows, and ſcattered them; Lightning, and diſcomfited them.] Theſe were the Weapons whereby they were vanquiſhed; Lightnings were the Darts and Arrows that made them turn their Backs and run away.

Ver. 16. And the Channels of the Sea appeared, the Foundations of the World were diſcovered at the rebuking of the LORD, at the blaſt of the Breath of his Noſtrils.] This is the Deſcription of a great Earthquake, which rent it in ſunder, and made such Breaches in it, that the very Bottom of it was discovered. And this was the Effect of God's just Indignation against his Enemies.

Ver. 17. He sent from above, he took me:] He sent his Angels to rescue and protect David.

He drew me out of many Waters.] Delivered him from innumerable Dangers compared to Waters breaking out upon a Country, to overflow it.

Ver. 18. He delivered me from my strong Enemy,] First from Goliah, afterwards from many others, as we read in the foregoing Chapter xxi. 16, 17, &c.

And from them that hated me:] The Philistines, the Syrians, and other Nations; whose Hatred to him made them set themselves against him, to destroy him.

For they were too strong for me.] Their Forces were more numerous than his, and would have overpowered him, if the LORD had not been his Helper.

Ver. 19. They prevented me in the Day of my Calamity: but the LORD was my Stay.] When he was in a weak Condition, unable to defend himself, Saul suddenly came upon him, and had destroyed him, if the LORD had not been his Support. See 1 Sam. xxii. 9. xxiii. 14, 26. xxiv. 2, 3, &c.

Ver. 20. He brought me forth also into a large Place:] When his House, for instance, was beset by Saul's Officers, who watch'd to kill him, as he came out in the Morning; he escaped by the help of his Wife, and got to Samuel and Ramah, where he was at liberty to go whither he pleased, 1 Sam. xix. 11, 18.

He delivered me, because he delighted in me.] In many other Straits he afterwards delivered him: Because he had a Kindness for him, and resolved to make him King of Israel.

Ver. 21. The LORD rewarded me according to my Righteousness: according to the Cleanness of my Hands hath he recompensed me.] God knew also that he was innocent of what he was accused; and had no design to do Saul any hurt, 1 Sam. xxiv. 11, 12, &c. xxvi. 23.

Ver. 22. For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.] He took no unlawful Courses to preserve himself: But when Saul fell into his hands, he would not hurt him; because he was God's Anointed. See there 1 Sam. xxiv. 11, 12, 13. and xxvi. 19, &c.

Ver. 23. For all his Judgments were before me:] He made God's Commands the Rule of his Actions.

And as for his Statutes, I did not depart from them.] In Psalm xviii. the Words are, I did not put away his Statutes from me: That is, bid them stand aside, and give way to his Interest; but strictly observed them.

Ver. 24. I was also upright before him, and kept my self from mine Iniquity.] This is still spoken with respect to Saul. For though he offended afterwards grievously against God's Laws, yet he chose rather to suffer any thing than do Saul any harm: And nothing could tempt him to that Iniquity, unto which he was invited by fair Opportunities. 1 Sam. xxiv. 4. xxvi. 8, &c.

Ver. 25. Therefore the LORD has recompensed me according to my Righteousness: according to my Cleanness in his eye-sight.] According to David's Prayer; which is very remarkable, 1 Sam. xxvi. 23. where he desires God to deal with him as he had dealt with Saul: With whose Blood he would not defile his Hands, when it was in his power to take Revenge.

Ver. 26. With the merciful thou wilt shew thy self merciful, and with the upright Man thou wilt shew thy self upright.] This is the common Method of God's Providence, to do good to those that do good to others: And to do them Justice, who do not swerve from the Rules of Righteousness when they are injuriously treated by their Neighbours.

Ver. 27. With the Pure thou wilt shew thy self pure:] Faithfully keep his Promises to those who are faithful to him.

And with the Froward thou wilt shew thy self unsavory.] Declare how much he distastes and abhors those that take deceitful Courses to bring about their Ends. In Psalm xviii. the Words are, with the Froward thou wilt shew thy self froward; that is, he insnares those in their own Devices, who perversely take crooked Ways to compass their Designs: which unexpectedly end in their Destruction.

Ver. 28. And the afflicted People thou wilt save: but thine Eyes are upon the haughty, that thou mayst bring them down.] He is wont to deliver poor helpless People, who humbly depend on him, and not on any unlawful Means for Safety: But he contrives Ways to lay those low, who (proud of their Power) insolently oppress them.

Ver. 29. For thou art my Lamp, O LORD: and the LORD will lighten my Darkness.] David himself was an instance of this; whom from a despicable, God raised to an illustrious Condition: and when he concluded he should perish (1 Sam. xxvii. 1.) advanced him to Royal Splendor and Greatness.

Ver. 30. For by thee I have run through a Troop: by my God I have leaped over a Wall.] Now he seems to celebrate the wonderful Works of God, after the Persecution of Saul was over, and he was made King. When numerous Enemies assaulted him; but he broke and scattered them all. And particularly (which seems to be meant by the last Words) he scaled the highest Walls, whereby his Enemies thought themselves securely defended. See Chap. v. of this Book, ver. 6, 7, &c.

Ver. 31. As for God, his Way is perfect;] By the Way of God, here seems to be meant his Counsels, Proceedings and Methods of his Providence: Which for the present may appear to us perplexed: but in the issue will be seen to be perfectly just, and agreeable to his Promises; as it here follows.

The Word of the LORD is tried:] The Experience of all good Men tells us, that he never failed to be true to his Word: which is freer from all Deceit, than the most refined Gold is from Dross.

He is a Buckler to all them that trust in him.] So that none can hurt those that put themselves under his Protection, with a pious Confidence in him.

Ver. 32. For who is God, save the LORD?] For none can defeat his Intentions, or resist his Will.

And

And who is a Rock ſave our God?] There are none ſo powerful, as to be able to hurt thoſe whom he will protect; or to defend thoſe whom he will deſtroy. Of this word Rock, ſee Deut. xxxii. 4, 31.

Ver. 33. God is my Strength and Power:] What great Men would Scipio and others have been, if they had been poſſeſſed with ſuch a Senſe of God, as to have acknowledged that all their Courage, and Conduct, and mighty Victories were owing to his Power. But no Warrior was ever like to David, who had God in all his Thoughts, and acknowledged all his great Acts to be performed by the Divine Aid.

And he maketh my Way perfect.] Removed all Obſtacles out of his way, to the compleating of his Conqueſts. See v. 10.

Ver. 34. He maketh my Feet like Hind's Feet:] This is commonly thought to relate to the Swiftneſs of Hinds; and ſo I have taken it in my Paraphraſe on the Pſalms: But Bochartus hath made it probable, that it hath reſpect to the Firmneſs of their treading; which is very remarkable, as he ſhews in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 3. C. 17.

And ſetteth me upon my high Places.] He was enabled to purſue his Enemies with great Celerity, and without tripping: Even unto ſuch Places, as for their Height and Craggineſs were thought inacceſſible.

Ver. 35. He teaches my Hands to war: ſo that a Bow of Steel is broken by mine Arms.] He aſcribes all his Strength and Dexterity to God: Who enabled him to wreſt the ſtrongeſt Bow out of his Enemies hands, and break it in pieces.

Ver. 36. Thou haſt alſo given me the Shield of thy Salvation:] And when he was in great Dangers, God protected him: As he did in the Battel mentioned in the foregoing Chapter (ver. 16, 17.) when Iſhbi-benoth had ſlain him, if Abiſhai had not ſtept in for his timely Succour.

And thy Gentleneſs hath made me great.] Theſe wonderful Deliverances he could aſcribe to nothing but the tender Mercy of God to him, when he was unworthy of his Favour.

Ver. 37. Thou haſt enlarged my Steps under me: ſo that my Feet did not ſlip.] When he was in great Straits, and beſet with Difficulties, God opened a wide Paſſage; and made all things ſucceed according to his Deſire. For that ſeems to be meant by his Feet did not ſlip, but he went on ſmoothly.

Ver. 38. I have purſued mine Enemies and deſtroyed them: and turned not again till I had conſumed them.] He got compleat Victories over the Philiſtines, Moabites, Syrians, and Ammonites. See Chapter viii. and x. of this Book.

Ver. 39. I have conſumed them, and wounded them, that they could not ariſe:] Gave them ſuch a Blow, that they were not able to renew the Fight.

Yea, they are fallen under my Feet.] Submitted themſelves unto him and ſerved him. See x. 19.

Ver. 40. For thou haſt girded me with Strength to the Battel: them that roſe up againſt me, haſt thou ſubdued under me.] This was remarkably fulfilled in the Rebellion of Abſalom; when he was in a feeble Condition, and had but few Followers: But God gave them Courage to fight, and ſuch Succeſs in the Battel, that they routed his Army; and all Iſrael was brought under his Obedience. See Chapter xviii.

Ver. 41. Thou haſt alſo given me the Necks of my Enemies, that I might deſtroy them that hate me.] This alſo was literally fulfilled, when Sheba raiſed a new Rebellion; and his Head was thrown over the Wall of Abel to Joab, Chap. xx.

Ver. 42. They looked, but there was none to ſave.] In Pſalm xviii. it is, they cried: Which may ſignify that they ſought for Help from their Allies and Confederates: But to no purpoſe.

Even unto the LORD, but he anſwered them not.] And it was too late, when other Help failed them, to ſeek for Help from God: For he had deſerted them, and would not hear their Prayers.

Ver. 43. Then did I beat them as ſmall as the Duſt of the Earth,] In Pſalm xviii. the Words are, as the Duſt before the Wind. He ſo entirely vanquiſhed them, that they had no more Power than the ſmall Duſt of the Earth; which is toſſed up and down with every blaſt of Wind.

I did ſtamp them as the Mire of the Street, and did ſpread them abroad.] In the forenamed Pſalm, I did caſt them out as the Dirt in the Street. That is, made them as contemptible as the Dirt in the Street, which every one tramples under his Feet.

Ver. 44. Thou haſt alſo delivered me from the ſtrivings of the People, thou haſt made me the Head of the Heathen:] The firſt part of theſe Words relates to the Union of the People of Iſrael and Judah under his Government, after long Contentions between them, v. 1, 2, &c. The other part to the Enlargement of his Kingdom by ſubduing his neighbouring Heathen People under him, Chap. viii. 10.

A People whom I have not known ſhall ſerve me.] Such as the Syrians of Zobah, and Rehob, and Iſh-tob, and Maachah: Of which David, it is likely, had no knowledge, 'till they came to help the Ammonites, x. 8.

Ver. 45. Strangers ſhall ſubmit themſelves unto me: aſſoon as they hear, they ſhall be obedient to me.] The very Report of his Victories, made ſome heartily ſubmit themſelves unto him: And others diſſembled their Hoſtility, and offered him their Service, x. 19.

Ver. 46. Strangers ſhall fade away,] Fall as withered Leaves do from the Trees.

They ſhall be afraid out of their cloſe Places.] Diſtruſting their ſtrong-holds, that they came creeping out with Fear, to ſurrender up themſelves into his hands.

Ver. 47. The LORD liveth, and bleſſed be my Rock:] To him he deſires all the Praiſe may be aſcribed; in whoſe Eternal Power alone he ſtill confided.

And exalted be the God of the Rock of my Salvation.] He deſires again the LORD might be magnified with the higheſt Praiſes: Who had not only preſerved him from periſhing, but exalted him to be King of Iſrael. For ſo the laſt Words are in the Hebrew, exalted be God, the Rock of my Salvation. Who ſafely preſerved and delivered him; and now advanced him moſt graciouſly to the higheſt Dignity.

Ver. 48. It is God that avengeth me, and that bringeth down the People under me,] He did not avenge himſelf, but left it to God to plead his Cauſe: Who not only puniſhed thoſe that were injurious to him, but brought many Nations under his Empire.

Ver. 49. And that bringeth me forth from mine Enemies: thou alſo haſt lifted me up on high above them that roſe up againſt me:] In theſe Words David made ſome ſmall Alteration, when he inſerted this Hymn into the Book of Pſalms for publick Uſe. Of which, Abarbinel endeavours to give a Reaſon; but he ſeems too curious in his Obſervations. The plaineſt and moſt certain of which is this: that the firſt part of theſe Words reſpect the Nations whom he ſubdued; who were properly his Enemies: And the latter the Children of Iſrael, when they roſe up againſt him to dethrone him.

Thou haſt delivered me from the violent Man.] After he had delivered him from Saul, who violently perſecuted him a long time.

Ver. 50. Therefore will I give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the Heathen, and I will ſing Praiſes unto thy Name.] He reſolved to make his thankful Acknowledgements unto God, every where: So as to make thoſe Nations whom he had ſubdued ſenſible that he aſcribed all his Victories unto him. In honour of whom he would ſing this perpetual Song.

Ver. 51. He is the Tower of Salvation for his King:] As he was a King by God's Appointment, and not by Uſurpation; ſo he truſted in him for the Support of his Authority.

And ſheweth mercy unto his Anointed, unto David, and to his Seed for evermore.] And he hoped the ſame Mercy which had promoted him to this Dignity, would be continued to him and to his Poſterity 'till the coming of the great King Meſſiah: Whoſe Kingdon ſhall have no End. See vii. 12, 13.

CHAP. XXIII.

Verſe 1. NOW theſe are the laſt Words of David:] He ſpake other Words recorded in the next Chapter, and in the next Book, before he died: But theſe were the laſt Words that he ſpake by the Holy Ghoſt, as Abarbinel expounds them. Who obſerves, that after he had compoſed the Book of Pſalms, and added the Hymn mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, unto it; then he ſpake theſe Words; after which the Influence of the Holy Spirit reſided on him no more. The Chaldee Paraphraſe (which was always highly eſteemed by the Jews) takes theſe Words, as if they were a Prophecy of the Meſſiah: For ſo it expounds them; Theſe are the Words of the Prophecy of David, which he propheſied of the Conſummation of all things, in the Day of Conſolation, which is to come.

David the Son of Jeſſe ſaid,] He remembers his low Condition, when God was pleaſed to make choice of him to be a King.

The Man who was raiſed up on high,] From feeding his Father's Sheep, to rule the People of Iſrael.

The Anointed of the God of Jacob,] The Chaldee hath it, anointed by the WORD of the God of Jacob.

The ſweet Pſalmiſt of Iſrael, ſaid,] Who was inſpired to compoſe many delightful Hymns in the Praiſes of God.

Ver. 2. The Spirit of God ſpake by me, and his Word was in my Tongue.] He would not have thoſe Hymns, nor what he ſpake now, looked upon as human Compoſitions: But as proceeding from a Divine Influence, conferred upon him by the Holy Ghoſt.

Ver. 3. The God of Iſrael ſaid, the Rock of Iſrael ſpake to me,] By Nathan, or by Samuel.

He that ruleth over Men muſt be juſt, ruling in the Fear of God: Or, as we render it in the Margin, Be thou Ruler over, &c. which the Chaldee expounds of the Meſſiah in this manner, The faithful God ſpake (ſo he interprets the word Rock) I will conſtitute to me a King, he is the MESSIAH, who ſhall ariſe, and reign in the Fear of the LORD. But this relates firſt to David, the Type of Chriſt; who was taught to rule juſtly, and in the Fear of God: That is, in the exact Obſervance of all the Divine Laws. Or, as Abarbinel interprets it, When he that rules Men is juſt, then the Fear of the LORD will rule and have dominion in the Earth: For all the People are apt to tread in the Steps of their King. So that when he that rules is juſt, it is as if he did not rule, but the Fear of the LORD ruled in the Earth.

Ver. 4. And he ſhall be as the Light of the Morning when the Sun ariſeth,] The Dominion of the juſt (as the ſame Abarbinel interprets it) ſhall be as the Morning Light when the Sun ariſeth, and the Light continually increaſes.

Even a Morning without Clouds;] Which hinder the Rays of the Sun from piercing through unto the Earth.

As the tender Graſs ſpringing out of the Earth by clear ſhining after Rain.] We have in this Tranſlation quite tranſpoſed the Hebrew Words, where they run thus, from Splendor and from Rain, Graſs out of the Earth. The Senſe of which Abarbinel thinks is this; it ſhall be ſuch a Morning, in which there is ſometimes Sun-ſhine, and ſometimes Showers of Rain, to make Graſs ſpring out of the Earth.

Ver. 5. Although my Houſe be not ſo with God; yet he hath made with me an everlaſting Covenant, ordered in all things and ſure:] Which he thus interprets; Although the Kingdom of a juſt Man, by little and little grows and increaſes; and ſometimes is clouded, and ſometimes the Light ſhines upon it: The Kingdom of David ſhall not be ſo, but God hath made a perpetual Covenant, &c.

For this is all my Salvation, and all my Deſire, although he makes it not to grow.] Or, as he interprets it, This is all my Salvation, and my Deſire, that he would not make it grow or ſhoot up (for that ſuppoſes it to be buried) but that, as was ſaid before, it may always remain in an equal manner ordered and conſerved.

It muſt be acknowledged, that there are no Words ſo obſcure in this Book, as theſe two Verſes. The Senſe of which Ludovicus de Dieu ſeems to me to have moſt clearly opened. The Stability and Perpetuity of his Kingdom, ſaith he, David amplifies by a Compariſon from three natural Things, which are very grateful to Men, but not conſtant and ſtable; in a ſettled Order, and ſure. For the Sun ariſes, but goes down again; and the Morning may be clear, but Clouds afterwards ariſe; and the tender Graſs ſprings up, but withers away. Not ſo, ſaith he, is my Kingdom before God. It is flouriſhing, like all theſe, but perpetual: For he hath made an everlaſting Covenant with me; though ſome Afflictions have befallen me; and he hath not made all my Salvation and Deſire to grow. So he makes the firſt Caph of Similitude to ſtand for three; and to be repeated thrice, in this manner.

Stability

The God of Iſrael ſaid, the Rock of Iſrael ſpake concerning me; the juſt Man ruleth among Men: He ruleth in the Fear of God. And as the Sun ariſeth, with a ſhining Light; as the Morning is without Clouds, by reaſon of its Splendor; as from Rain the tender Graſs ſprings out of the Earth: Yet (or truly) ſo is not my Houſe with God. Becauſe he hath made an everlaſting Covenant with me; diſpoſed in all Things, and well kept and preſerved in that Order. Although he doth not make all my Salvation and Deſire to grow (that is, though ſome Adverſities happen to me and my Family) yet that always remains, which in the Covenant of God made with me, is in all Things orderly, diſpoſed, and preſerved.

Ver. 6. But the Sons of Belial ſhall be all of them as Thorns thruſt away, becauſe they cannot be taken with Hands.] The Kingdom of impious Men ſhall not be like the Kingdom of the Houſe of David: Being ſo far from being like to Graſs, which is uſeful, that they are rather like Thorns, which are rejected as hurtful and pernicious. That is, ſuch wicked Men are not fit for human Society.

Ver. 7. But the Man that ſhall touch them, muſt be fenced with Iron, and with the Staff of a Spear.] If any body will meddle with them, it muſt be at his peril. For ſo the word Jimmale (which we tranſlate fenced) ſignifies, ſhall be filled, with the Iron and the Staff of a Spear. Spears are never uſed to cut down Thorns; but Iron gives one a ſore Wound, like that which a Man receives from a Spear, when it runs into his Body, Iron and Wood withal. So the ſame de Dieu very judiciouſly.

And they ſhall be utterly burnt with fire in the ſame Place.] Therefore Men burn them with Fire, in the ſame Place where they grow: And ſo wicked Men are deſtroyed, where they think themſelves moſt ſecure. Which the Targum applies to the Judgment of the great Day, ſaying, Their Puniſhment is in the hand of Man; but they ſhall be burnt up utterly, when the Houſe of the great Judgment appears: That they may ſit on the Throne of Judgment, to judge the World.

Ver. 8. Theſe be the Names of the mighty Men, whom David had;] Now follows a Catalogue of thoſe valiant Men, who help'd to raiſe David to his Dignity, and preſerve him in it: Being continually with him in all his Wars. There is a Liſt of them in 1 Chron. xi. very different from this in ſeveral Things. But Abarbinel thinks that it creates no Difficulty, if we do but obſerve, that there he diſtinguiſhes them into three Claſſes: Thoſe that had always been with him; and they that came to him to Ziklag, a little before he was made King of Judah; and they that came to him to Hebron, after he was made King of all Iſrael: All whoſe Memories were fit to be preſerved. But here, in this Book, the Divine Writer intended only to mention the moſt excellent Heroes, who were always with him in his Wars: And for whoſe ſake he compoſed the precedent Song of Praiſes to God.

The Tachmonite that ſat in the Seat,] Or, as it is tranſlated in the Margin, Joſheb-boſhebat the Tachmonite: For ſo he is called in 1 Chron. xi. 11. Iſhobeam; which may well be thought the ſame Name abbreviated. He ſat in the ſeat (as we tranſlate it here) in the Council of War; next to Joab: being, it is thought, his Lieutenant-General. For that he was one of the Sanhedrin, who ſat in the Seat of Judgment, as ſome would have it, is not probable: Though it is likely theſe were Men of great Wiſdom, as well as Valour: And this Man being called a Chachmonite, Abarbinel thinks it was becauſe he was a Man of Learning, being given to Study as well as Fighting: For in Hebrew the Word Chacham ſignifies a wiſe Man: As this was, no queſtion, in Military Affairs, if not in Affairs of State, and other ſorts of Wiſdom.

Chief among the Captains,] The principal Commander, as I ſaid, under Joab. Who is not here mentioned, though he was a great Man, inferior to none of theſe: But had ſtained himſelf by the baſe Murder of two great Perſons, Abner and Amaſa. Which ſome take to be the Reaſon, why he had not the Honour to be put into the Number of thoſe Worthies who ſerved David.

(The ſame was Adino the Ezrite)] It is thought he had two Names, and was of the Family of the Ezrites: Though Abarbinel will have his Name to have been Adinohaezri.

He lift up his Spear] Theſe Words are ſupplied out of 1 Chron. xi. 11.

Againſt eight hnndred, whom he ſlew at one time.] In that Place of the Chronicles it is ſaid he killed three Hundred: That is, after the Slaughter he made in one Battle, of eight Hundred; but killed in another (as Kimchi underſtands it) three Hundred.

Ver. 9. And after him was Eleazar the Son of Dodo the Ahothite, one of the three mighty men with David,] He was a Benjamite, for Ahoah was one of his Sons, 1 Chron. viii. 4.

When they defied the Philiſtines] As Goliath had done the Iſraelites, 1 Sam. xvii. 1.

That were there gathered together to battle,] In Paſdammim, as we read, 1 Chron. xi. 17. which in the ſame with Epheſ-dammim, 1 Sam. xvii. 1.

And the Men of Iſrael were gone away.] Fled from before the Philiſtines, as it is explained 1 Chron. xi. 13.

Ver. 10. He aroſe, and ſmote the Philiſtines until his hand was weary,] With the Slaughter that he made.

And his hand clave unto his Sword:] Being all beſmeared with Blood; which drying by the Heat of it, made the Sword cleave to his Hand.

And

And the LORD wrought a great Victory that day;] Like that of Shamgar, Judges iii. ult. and of Samſon, xv. 13. where I have ſhewn theſe are not incredible Stories; God inſpiring Men with wonderful Courage, and ſtriking a Terror into their Enemies. There were Men in ancient Times of prodigious Strength, mentioned by Pliny, Lib. 7. Nat. Hiſtor. Cap. 20.

And the People returned after him only to ſpoil.] They that fled rallied again, when they ſaw the Wonders he did: And followed after him, not to fight, but only to partake of the Spoil.

Ver. 11. And after him was Shammah the Son of Agee the Hararite:] Who is not expreſly mentioned in the Book of the Chronicles; but plainly implied to be engaged in this great Action. For it is ſaid, 1 Chron. xi. 14. that they ſet themſelves, &c. that is, Shammah and Eleazar: who joined in this Enterprize. But this Place in Samuel teaches us, that Shammah the Son of Agee had the chief hand in it: And therefore it is aſcribed to him.

And the Philiſtines were gathered together into a troop,] Or, as we tranſlate it in the Margin, for Forage. For ſo Ralbag interprets the Hebrew Word Chajja (which Kimchi takes to be a City) that they came to get ſome Suſtenance out of the Field.

Where was a piece of ground full of Lentiles:] In the Chronicles it is, full of Barley. In which there is no Difficulty, one Part of the Field being ſown with Lentiles, and the other Part with Barley.

And the People fled from the Philiſtines.] Fearing to defend the Place.

Ver. 12. But he ſtood in the midſt of the ground and defended it, and ſlew the Philiſtines:] So that they could neither burn the Corn, nor carry it away, nor tread it down.

And the LORD wrought a great Victory.] By his Hand: Who was one of the three moſt mighty Men, though not particularly named in the Book of the Chronicles. It being the manner of the Scripture, as the Jews obſerve, to propound that briefly in one Place, which hath been at large explained in another: As this Action of Shammah is here in this Book.

Ver. 13. And three of the thirty chief] Or, as it is in the Margin, three Captains over the thirty. Not the three before-mentioned, but the three that follow: Who were not ſo great as the firſt three; but yet greater than any of the Thirty whom they commanded.

Went down, and came to David in the Harveſt-time,] Or rather, as the Hebrew Words are, at Harveſt. That is, ſaith Abarbinel, the Philiſtines came to deſtroy the Fruits of the Earth, that they might famiſh the Iſraelites: Whereupon David raiſed an Army to protect and defend them in reaping of their Harveſt, when they went about it.

Unto the Cave of Adullam,] A Place where he had hid himſelf under the Perſecution of Saul, 1 Sam. xxii. 1. and where he now fortified himſelf againſt the Philiſtines: Who in the Beginning of his Reign came with great Forces againſt him. For it is plain from 1 Chron. xi. 15. that there was a Rock, or Stronghold there.

And the Troop of the Philiſtines pitched in the Valley of Rephaim.] See 2 Sam. v. 17, 18.

Ver. 14. And David was then in the Hold,] As in the Place above-mentioned; near Adullam, 1 Sam. xxii. 4.

And the Gariſon of the Philiſtines was then in Bethlehem.] They had poſſeſſed themſelves of this Place, and put a Gariſon into it.

Ver. 15. And David longed, and ſaid, O that one would give me drink of the Waters of Bethlehem which are by the gate.] The Weather being very hot (as it uſed to be in Harveſt-time) David was very thirſty, and ſaid to ſome about him, how glad he ſhould be of a Draught of the Waters of Bethlehem: Where he was born, and had lived a long time; and therefore had been accuſtomed to them, and knew how very pleaſant and refreſhing they were. But he did not ſpeak this, as Abarbinel obſerves, to the end that any Men ſhould venture their Lives, to fetch him ſome of this Water.

Ver. 16. And the three mighty Men brake through the Hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew Water out of the Well of Bethlehem, that was by the Gate, and brought it to David:] This they did without David's knowledge; and the fore-named Author obſerves three wonderful Things in this Action. Firſt, That three Men could break through the whole Hoſt of the Philiſtines: And when they had ſo done, durſt ſtay to draw Water out of the Well: And then carry it away with a high Hand, through the ſame Hoſt, and bring it to David. To which he might have added a fourth Thing, that they attempted this at the very Gate of Bethlehem: Where, no doubt, the Gariſon of the Philiſtines kept the ſtrongeſt Guard.

Nevertheleſs he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the LORD.] Not in that Place, where it was brought to him: But kept it (as Abarbinel thinks) till he had Opportunity to go to the Altar, and there poured it out unto God. Some fancy that now was the Feaſt of Tabernacles, when they uſed to draw Water, and pour it out: And David made uſe of this for that purpoſe. See 1 Sam. vii. 6. There are myſtical Senſes which the Jews pleaſe themſelves withal, about this Water, with which I ſhall not trouble the Reader.

Ver. 17. And he ſaid, Be it far from me, O LORD, that I ſhould do this: is not this the Blood of the Men that went in jeopardy of their Lives? therefore he would not drink it.] He looked upon it no longer as Water, but as the Blood of thoſe Men who fetcht it with the Peril of their Lives: And the Blood of every thing belonged to the LORD; and was proper to be offered unto him. Some carry this ſo far to another Senſe, that they imagine David hereby ſhewed, it was not material Water he longed for; but the MESSIAH, who had the Water of Life. Who he knew ſhould be born at Bethlehem: Which the Philiſtines therefore ſhould not be able to deſtroy.

Theſe things did theſe three mighty Men,] They all joined in this hazardous Exploit: But now follows what they did ſingly.

Ver. 18. And Abiſhai the Brother of Joab, the Son of Zeruiah, was chief among three;] The chief of thoſe three mighty Men before-mentioned. See 1 Chron. xi. 20.

And he lift up his Spear againſt three hundred, and ſlew them, and had the name among three.] That

That is, was moſt eminent and famous of thoſe three.

Ver. 19. Was he not moſt honourable of them? therefore he was their Captain:] That is, no doubt he was worthy to be the Leader of them.

Ver. 20. And Benajah the Son of Jehoiada, the Son of a valiant Man of Rabzeel,] He was deſcended from valiant Anceſtors; whom he far excelled. Rabzeel was in the Tribe of Judah, Joſh. xv. 21.

Who had done many Acts,] As Abiſhai alſo had done (for he ſuccoured David when a Giant had like to have killed him) but their greateſt Acts only are here mentioned.

He ſlew two Lion-like Men of Moab:] The Hebrew Word Ariel, ſignifies a Lion of God, that is, a great Lion. And it was the Name among the Moabites for a very valiant Man; who at this day among the Arabians is called Aſſedollabi, a Lion of God, as Bochartus hath obſerved out of a great many Authors in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. L. 3. Cap. 1.

He went down alſo and ſlew a Lion in the midſt of a pit, in time of Snow.] This Action was the greater, becauſe in the time of Snow Lions are fiercer for want of Prey, and are then alſo fulleſt of Heat and Vigour. But it is not likely that Benajah went to encounter this Lion meerly to ſhew his Bravery; but, as ſome think, this was a Lion that had done much Miſchief to the Country: Which moved him to expoſe himſelf to this Combat with it. But Bochartus doth not think this likely; for he needed not have hazarded his Life, but have called others unto his Aſſiſtance to deſtroy this ravenous Beaſt. He thinks therefore that in a deep Snow, the Lion took ſhelter in a Cave (for ſo the Word we tranſlate Pit ſometimes ſignifies) and that Benajah being abroad in that ſnowy Seaſon, came into the ſame Place, to defend himſelf from the Severity of the Weather: Where he was neceſſitated to enter into a Combat with the Lion; whom he found there, and came with open Mouth to devour him: He compares him to Alexander the Great, upon whom a Lion of great Bigneſs running, he gave him ſuch a Wound as killed him. So did Lyſimachus with another. See Hieroz. P. 1. Lib. 3. Cap. 5. Abarbinel obſerves three great Things in this Action. Firſt, That he ſlew a Lion, which is the fierceſt of all wild Beaſts. Secondly, He ſlew him in a Pit, where he could not turn himſelf as he pleaſed. And Thirdly, In a Time of Snow, when his Hands and Feet were cold and numb; which hindred their vital Operations.

Ver. 21. And he ſlew an Ægyptian, a goodly Man:] A Perſon of great Stature. See 1 Chron. xi. 23.

And the Ægyptian had a Spear in his hand;] See there.

And he went down with a Staff,] Such as Men uſed to walk with.

And plucked the Spear out of the Ægyptian's Hand, and ſlew him with his own Spear.] This ſhews him to have been both a fearleſs Perſon, and of great Skill and Dexterity, in managing a Combat either with Man or Beaſt.

Ver. 22. Theſe things did Benajah the Son of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three mighty Men.] Who the third was is not ſaid plainly, either here, or in the Book of the Chronicles. Abarbinel thinks he might poſſibly join with the other two, but did no mighty Matter by himſelf; and ſo is not mentioned. But perhaps Adina, the Son of Shiza, might be the third: Becauſe it is ſaid, 1 Chron. xi. 42. that he was a Captain of the Reubenites, and thirty with him. Which ſeems to ſignify that he was above the Thirty, as Abiſhai and Benajah were.

Ver. 23. He was more honourable than the thirty, but he attained not to the firſt three:] Was not comparable to Ahino, and Eleazar, and Shammah: Who were like Lions; as theſe were like Lions Whelps, as Strigelius gloſſes.

And David ſet him over his Guard,] See Chapter viii. 18.

Ver. 24. And Aſahel the Brother of Joab was one of the thirty;] Now follow the Names of Thirty valiant Men, but not equal to the Worthies before-named. Aſahel ſeems to have been the Chief of the Thirty: And ſo ſome tranſlate the Words, he was above the Thirty; and ſo might be the laſt of the three of the ſecond Order of Worthies.

Elhanan the Son of Dodo of Bethlehem,] Concerning whom we find nothing recorded but this, That he was born and bred (it is likely) in the ſame Place with David.

Ver. 25. Shammah the Harodite, Elika the Ancorite,] The firſt of theſe is called Shammoth in 1 Chron. xi. 27. and he is ſaid to be an Harorite. Which is a very ſmall Variation, Reſh being put in the place of Daleth, as is very common in Scripture, according to the various Pronunciation of Words in divers Parts of the Country. There is a greater Difference in the Name that follows, and in many others: It being common, as Abarbinel obſerves, for Men to have two Names. But it is plain the ſame Perſons are here mentioned, that are in the Book of Chronicles: Though there (as he notes) are more added. For the Author of that Book reckons up all the chief Commanders in the Army; ſo that, though they were not heroical Perſons in themſelves, yet being great Commanders over others, Ezra thought fit to mention them. But here, in the Book of Samuel, the Prophet only numbers thoſe that were of themſelves great Heroes, not minding the chief Commanders in the Army, who were not ſo.

Ver. 26. Helez the Paltite, Ira the Son of Ikketh the Tekoite,] None of the memorable Acts of theſe, or of the following Worthies, are recorded; therefore all that I can ſay of them is this: That when God intended to raiſe a King to a great Height, as he did David, he raiſed up the Spirits of ſeveral great Men to aſſiſt him. Thus he did with Alexander the Great, who had Clitus, Parmenio, Antigonus, Ptolemæus, Seleucus, Craterus, and other brave Men to accompany him in all his Enterprizes: But David (it may be truly obſerved) in a leſs Kingdom, had far more.

Ver. 27. Abiezer the Anethothite, Mebunnai the Huſhathite,

Ver. 28. Zalmon the Ahothite, Maharai the Netophathite,

Ver. 29. Heleb the Son of Baanah a Netophathite, Ittai the Son of Ibai out of Gibeah of the Children of Benjamin,

Ver. 30.

Ver. 30. Benajah the Pirathonite, Hiddai of the Brooks of Gaash,

Ver. 31. Abi-albon the Arbathite, Azmaweth the Barhumite,

Ver. 32. Eliahba the Shaabonite; of the Sons of Joshen, Jonathan.

Ver. 33. Shammah the Hararite, Ahiam the Son of Sharah the Hararite,

Ver. 34. Eliphelet the Son of Ahasbai, the Son of the Maachathite, Eliam the Son of Ahitophel, the Gileonite,

Ver. 35. Hezrai the Carmelite, Paarai the Arbite.

Ver. 36. Igal the Son of Nathan of Zobah, Bani the Gadite,

Ver. 37. Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Beerothite, Armour-bearer to Joab the Son of Zeruiah,

Ver. 38. Ira an Ithrite, Gareb an Ithrite,

Ver. 39. Uriah the Hittite: thirty and seven it all.] Here are only thirty and six named; therefore Joab is supposed, by Abarbinel, to be the other: Who was the Head of them all.

CHAP. XXIV.

Verse 1. AND again the Anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel,] Because they had followed Absalom, says Abarbinel, and afterwards Sheba the Son of Bichri: For which they had not been yet sufficiently punished. But it is more likely, it was for their Luxury, now that Plenty was restored to them, after the sore Famine that fell upon them upon the score of the Gibeonites.

And he moved David against them,] Or, David was moved; that is, by Satan, as it is expounded in the first Book of the Chronicles, xxi. 1. But Abarbinel thinks it is as if he had said, the Anger of the LORD which was kindled against Israel, moved David, &c. That is, the same Sin which made God angry with Israel, was the Cause that David was seduced in this Thing, that they might be punished.

To say, Go number Israel and Judah.] To give Command that an Account should be taken of the Number of all the People.

Ver. 2. For the King said to Joab the Captain of the Host] Accordingly it no sooner came into his Heart, but he gave Orders about it to the principal Commander of his Army.

Which was with him,] Who always, when they were in War, attended on him.

Go now through all the Tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beer-sheba,] From one End of the Country to the other. For Dan (as I have before observed) was the utmost Bounds of it in the North, as Beer-sheba was in the South.

And number ye the People, that I may know the Number of the People.] Joab was to take proper Officers with him, to assist him in this Business: So that there might be an exact Account given. See ver. 4.

Ver. 3. And Joab said unto the King, Now the LORD thy God add unto the People (how many soever they be) an hundred fold, and that the Eyes of my Lord the King may see it:] It appears by this, that Joab was a great Courtier, as well as a great Captain: Who knew how to divert the King from what he did not like; if good Words and Wishes would have done it.

But why doth my Lord the King delight in this thing?] For which he thought there was no Reason; and as it would be troublesome and chargeable, so there might be much Danger in it; as he expresses it in 1 Chron. xxi. 3.

Ver. 4. Notwithstanding the King's word prevailed against Joab, and against the Captains of the Host:] Who joined, it seems, with Joab to divert the King from this Purpose: In which he was fixed and immoveable.

And Joab and the Captains of the Host went out from the Presence of the King, to number the People of Israel.] It is most likely that their inferiour Officers went with the Captains; to expedite the Business.

Ver. 5. And they passed over Jordan,] They went first into the Eastern Part of the Country: and so by the Northern Coasts to the West; and then to the South.

And pitched in Aroer,] These Words seem to import, that they pitched their Tents in the Field; and thither summoned the neighbouring Towns to come in to them: Which was very troublesome, and at last proved grievous; as appears by the Book of Chronicles.

On the right side of the City, that lieth in the midst of the river of Gad, and towards Jazer.] We no where read of such a River: Which in the Margin is translated the Valley of Gad. But Jazer was a Town in that Tribe, Numb. xxxii. 35.

Ver. 6. And they came to Gilead, and to the Land of Tathtimhodshi;] It is in vain to seek after this Land; which is not mentioned in the Book of Joshua, but it is likely was near to Gilead; and had been lately recovered, some think, from other People, and now inhabited by the Israelites. See the Margin of our Bibles.

And they came to Dan-jaan, and about to Zidon.] Not to the City of Zidon, for that was not in their power; but to the Coast about it.

Ver. 7. And came to the Strong-hold of Tyre,] To the Territory near it.

And to all the Cities of the Hivites, and Canaanites:] Who lived in those North-West Parts of the Country.

And they went out to the South of Judah,] Having taken account of all the Towns upon the Sea-Coast (which was in the West) they turned to the South, into the Tribe of Judah.

Even to Beer-sheba.] Which was in the utmost Limits of the Country on that Side.

Ver. 8. So when they had gone through all the Land,] But not numbered all the People: For the Work grew so tedious, that they omitted Levi, and Benjamin; as we read, 1 Chron. xxi. 6.

They came to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.] They could not well dispatch it in less Time; an Account being to be taken of every City and Village in the whole Country.

Ver. 9. And Joab gave up the number of the People unto the King:] All the Officers brought in their particular Sums to Joab: Who cast them up, and they amounted in all to the Number following.

And

And there were in Iſrael eight hundred thouſand valiant Men that drew the Sword;] They did not, it ſeems, reckon Women, and Children, and old Men; nor ſuch as were not fit for War.

And the Men of Judah were five hundred thouſand Men.] There is a great Difference between this Account and that in the Chronicles. For there (1 Chron. xxi. 5.) the Men of Iſrael are ſaid to be three hundred Thouſand more than are here mentioned; and, on the contrary, the Men of Judah are ſaid to be thirty Thouſand leſs. Of the former of which there is a plain Account, that in this Book the ſtanding Legions are not numbred: Which were very well known, they ſerving under twelve Commanders ſo many Months, 1 Chron. xxvii. 1, &c. But in the Book of the Chronicles all theſe are taken into the Number there mentioned. For the Jews obſerve in Halicoth Olam, that there being twenty-four Thouſand who waited every Month (which makes in all two Hundred eighty-eight Thouſand) allowing a Thouſand Officers (as we cannot well allow leſs) to every twenty-four Thouſand, there will be the twelve Thouſand wanting; which added to the two Hundred eighty-eight thouſand, make juſt three Hundred Thouſand: Which added to the eight Hundred Thouſand here mentioned, make up the eleven Hundred Thouſand mentioned in the Chronicles. The like Account Bochartus gives of the next Difficulty, that if twenty-four Thouſand Legionary Soldiers be added of the Tribe of Judah to the four Hundred and ſeventy Thouſand, it comes near to five Hundred Thouſand, Hieroz. Pars I. Lib. 2. Cap. 38. But others think there is no need of this; it being uſual in Scripture to mention a round Sum; either of Men or of Years, when ſome were wanting. So that though there were no more than four Hundred and Seventy Thouſand, yet they might be ſaid to be five Hundred Thouſand. Or, as they ſay in Halicoth Olam, the Tribe of Benjamin (who were Neighbours to Judah) are reckoned here in this Book, who were omitted in the Chronicles. 1 Chron. xxi. 6.

Ver. 10. And David's Heart ſmote him, after that he had numbred the People:] When he ordered it, he was poſſeſſed with other Thoughts; and did not ſeriouſly reflect upon what he had done, till God touched his Heart with a Senſe of his Guilt after the Sin was committed.

And David ſaid unto the LORD, I have ſinned greatly, in that I have done:] It is made a great Doubt by Interpreters what this Sin was, and wherein the Heinouſneſs of it conſiſted. The common Opinion is, That as there was ſomething of Vanity and Oſtentation in him, when he had a mind to know how populous his Country was, ſo it quite made him forget the half Shekel that was due upon ſuch Occaſions, by the Appointment of the Law, Exod. xxx. 12. And this was no ſmall Sin, not to pay God his Dues, in ſuch Plenty and Abundance as they now enjoyed. But if that was the Meaning of Moſes, it cannot well be thought that David was either ignorant or unmindful of it, having made the Law his Study day and night. Bertram therefore thinks his Fault was, that he numbred thoſe who were under twenty Years old, contrary to the Order in the Law, Exod. xxx. 14. xxxviii. 26, &c. But I ſee no Foundation for this; but rather the quite contrary is aſſerted in the Book of the Chronicles. Therefore Dr. Lightfoot fancies David had a covetous Project in his Mind, to lay a Capitation-Tax (as we now ſpeak) upon every Poll throughout the Kingdom. But ſuch Conjectures being without ground, ſome reject all other Interpretations, and rely upon this; that the numbering of the People was a thing contrary to the Fundamental Promiſe made by God to Abraham, that his Seed ſhould increaſe ſo, as to be like the Stars for Multitude: Which is given as a Reaſon why the Number of the People was not taken exactly, 1 Chron. xxvii. 23. and ſeems to imply, that there was a general Notion received among the Jews, that ſince God promiſed to increaſe them beyond Number, none ought to go about to take the Number of them, for this might ſeem to favour of Infidelity, and Miſtruſt of God's Promiſe. But thoſe Words on which this Reaſon relies (in 1 Chron. xxvii. 23.) only give a Reaſon why David did not number all from twenty Years old, and under: Which if he had gone about to do (i. e. reckon the whole Nation) it might have ſeemed to croſs the Promiſe: But ſince it was only thoſe who were above twenty years old, whom he ordered to be numbred, I cannot look upon it as a Contempt or Miſtruſt of God's Word: But, after all, I think we muſt content our ſelves with what Ralbag ſays (whom Abarbinel after the Examination of other Opinions follows) that David being the Anointed of the LORD, and the ſweet Singer of Iſrael, made Fleſh his Arm, and confided in the Number of his People: In which ſuch a King as he ſhould not have placed his Confidence, but in the LORD his God whom none can reſiſt, and can ſave by few as well as by many. Unto which Abarbinel adds, that the Greatneſs of a Sin is not always to be meaſured by the Sin it ſelf, but by the Quality and Dignity of him that committeth it: As Moſes and Aaron were puniſh'd for a ſmall Sin, which excluded them from the good Land: Which was not proportionable to the Sin, but to the Condition of the Offenders, who ſhould have given a better Example to the People. Thus he.

And now I beſeech thee, O LORD, take away the Iniquity of thy Servant, for I have done very fooliſhly.] Since he condemned himſelf, and begg'd pardon, he hoped he might eſcape the Puniſhment which he deſerved. But he was deceived; becauſe not only he, but his People had offended, and upon other accounts deſerved to be puniſhed.

Ver. 11. For when David was up in the Morning, the Word of the LORD came unto the Prophet Gad, David's Seer, ſaying,] The Words ſeem to import that David was not touched in Conſcience, 'till Gad came and told him how angry God was with him. He is called David's Seer; becauſe he was his Domeſtic Prophet, (who is the ſame with a Seer, 1 Sam. ix. 9.) with whom he was wont to adviſe in all difficult Caſes, 1 Sam. xxii. 5. and kept a Record of his memorable Acts, 1 Chron. xxix. 29.

Ver. 12. Go, and ſay unto David, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things; chooſe one of them, that I may do it unto thee.] Now it had been a proper Time, as Abarbinel obſerves, for David to have fallen down before God, and deprecated his Diſpleaſure in thoſe Words, ver. 10. I have ſinned greatly in what I have done, &c. But he ſaw the Sentence was paſſed upon him abſolutely; and therefore he ſubmits unto it.

Ver. 13. So Gad came and told him,] That he was ſent by God with a Meſſage to him.

And ſaid unto him, Shall ſeven Years of Famine come unto thee in thy Land?] In the Book of the Chronicles only three Years of Famine are propounded; which is far more likely than ſeven: For it better agrees with the three Months Flight before his Enemies, and the three Days Peſtilence. And therefore not only Grotius, but Bochartus alſo here read three years, following the LXX, who have ἔτη τρία, whom moſt of the Ancients follow, as Bochartus obſerves in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 38. Yet Joſephus here hath ſeven Years: And many think that Gad at firſt propounded ſeven Years; but afterwards at David's Prayer ſhortened them to three. Other Solutions are in every Interpreter, who adhere to this reading of ſeven Years. See Buxtorf's Vindic. Verit. Hebr. P. 2. Cap. 2. and Cap. 8. p. 523.

Or wilt thouflee three Months before thine Enemies while they purſue thee? or that there be three Days Peſtilence in the Land?] Theſe were the three ſore Judgments wherewith God commonly afflicted them for their Sins; who now was ſo gracious, as to give him his Choice which of them he would ſuffer: For one of them was peremptorily reſolved.

Now adviſe, and ſee what anſwer I ſhall return to him that ſent me.] There ſeems to be no great need to take Time to conſider which of theſe to chooſe; the laſt being the ſhorteſt, and an immediate Stroke from the Hand of God, who is full of tender Mercy and Compaſſion. But in this Gad expreſſes the Clemency of God, who would not haſtily inflict any Puniſhment upon him.

Ver. 14. And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait: let us now fall into the Hand of the LORD (for his Mercies are great) and let me not fall into the Hand of Man.] He ſeems to leave it to God to ſend either Famine or Peſtilence (for both come from God's Hand) and deſires only that Men might not be the Inſtruments of his Puniſhment. For as they are wont to be cruel, ſo they make no Diſtinction between good and bad, but deſtroy all alike. This is admirably expreſſed by the Son of Sirach in Ecclus. ii. 17, 18. They that fear the LORD will prepare their Heart, and humble their Souls in his ſight, ſaying; We will fall into the Hands of the LORD, and not into the Hands of Men; for as his Majeſty is, ſo is his Mercy.

Ver. 15. So the LORD ſent a Peſtilence upon Iſrael,] The Symptoms of which were very diverſe, if we may believe Joſephus. For ſome, he ſaith, died ſuddenly in intolerable Pain: Others waſted away and left nothing to be buried but Skin and Bones, their Bodies being conſumed by the Diſeaſe: Others were ſuddenly choaked, or ſtruck blind, &c.

From the Morning.] From that Time when Gad delivered the Meſſage, and David made his Choice; which was in the Morning, as we read before, ver. 11.

Even to the time appointed:] There are thoſe who by the time appointed underſtand to the End of three Days mentioned by Gad, as the Time appointed by the LORD for the Continuance of this Plague. But this is quite contrary to what follows, that God repented him of the Evil; and commanded the Angel that ſmote the People to ſtay his Hand. Therefore the LXX tranſlate it better, ἕως ὥρας ἀρίς-ου, 'till Dinner-time: And ſo Procopius Gazæus. Certain it is, that Moed ſignifies ſome part of that Day when the Plague began: And that muſt be either Noon, or the Evening. But, as Bochartus hath obſerved, the Morning and Evening are the Parts of the Day moſt oppoſite in Scripture (of which he gives many Inſtances) and therefore ſo he here underſtands it, that it continued from Morning to the Evening. For Moed properly ſignifies an Aſſembly: And therefore the Time Moed he thinks is the Time when the People met for Evening Prayer; about the Ninth Hour of the Day. Which Prayer, before the building of the Temple, was made at the Tabernacle, or in their Synagogues. And therefore the Tabernacle is frequently called Obel Moed: And the Synagogues are called in Pſal. lxxiv. 18. Moade El. So that he makes account this Peſtilence laſted no more than Nine Hours: Which was the eighth Part of three Days.

And there died of the People from Dan to Beer-ſheba, ſeventy thouſand Men.] If it had raged three Days, and in every Nine Hours had killed ſo many, above the third part of thoſe who had been numbred, would have died by this Plague. But, as Kimchi here obſerves, by the great Mercy of God, the Time was contracted. It is a frivolous Obſervation of ſome of the Jews, that becauſe it is not ſaid ſeventy Thouſand Anaſhim, but only Iſch, which commonly ſignifies a ſingle Perſon, that Abiſhai died of this Plague who was worth ſeventy Thouſand of the common People. Nor doth the Obſervation of Grotius ſeem to be altogether true; who in his ſecond Book, De Jure Belli & Pacis, Cap. 21. Sect. 17. ſaith, Hæc pœna erat non populi, ſed Davidis; this was the Puniſhment not of the People, but of David: Quoting that Saying of an ancient Chriſtian Writer (Quæſt. ad Orthodoxos) Πικροτάτη τιμωρία τῶν ἡμαρτηκότων βασιλέων, ἡ τιμωρία τοῦ λαοῦ, the bittereſt Puniſhment of delinquent Kings, is that which is inflicted upon their People. But it is certain the People here had alſo offended: For it is ſaid in the very Beginning of this Chapter, that God was angry with Iſrael. And as for what David ſaith, ver. 17. Theſe Sheep what have they done? it is ſpoken out of his great Affection to them; whoſe Offences he did not know ſo well as his own: And therefore deſired they might be ſpared, and he puniſhed.

Ver. 16. And when the Angel ſtretched out his Hand upon Jeruſalem to deſtroy it, the LORD repented him of the evil, and ſaid unto the Angel that deſtroyed the People, It is enough; ſtay now thine Hand.] God did not change his Mind, but only

ly revoked that which he had decreed upon a certain Condition; which was, that three Days Peſtilence ſhould come upon the Country, unleſs David and the People repented; which he ſeeing they did, (1 Chron. xxi. 16.) he ſhortned the Time, and would not let the Angel proceed above an eighth Part of it.

Ver. 17. And David ſpake unto the LORD, when he ſaw the Angel that ſmote the People, and ſaid, Lo, I have ſinned, and I have done wickedly: but, theſe Sheep, what have they done?] Like a good Man he reflected only on his own Sin, in numbring the People; but did not think of theirs in depoſing him lately, and ſetting up Abſalom (which Theodoret, Procopius Gazæus, and others think was the Crime for which they were puniſhed) which he had forgiven, but God thought fit to puniſh; who by their Silence may be thought to have approved the Fact of David. And beſides, the Loſs of ſo many People was a Puniſhment of the King himſelf, as was before obſerved.

Let thy Hand, I pray thee, be againſt me, and againſt my Father's Houſe.] That is, againſt his Kindred, who did not diſſuade him from the Vanity of numbering the People, but perhaps encouraged him in it.

Ver. 18. And Gad came that day to David, and ſaid unto him,] By the expreſs Command of the LORD, 1 Chron. xxi. 18, 19.

Go up, rear an Altar to the LORD in the Threſhing-floor of Araunah the Jebuſite.] This Threſhing-floor was on the Mount Moriah; the Place where Abraham offered up his Son, and where the Temple was built by Solomon. See 2 Chron. iii. 1. Of which Eupolemus, an Heathen Writer, takes notice, ſaying, that God ſhewed David by an Angel the Place where the Temple ſhould be built. See Euſebius's Præpar. Evang. Lib. 9. Cap. 30. The Jews will have it, that it was here Abel and Cain offer'd their Sacrifices, (ſee Selden Lib. 3. de Synedr. p. 199, and 431.) Nay, that it was the Place where Adam was created; according to a Saying of their Doctors, Adam was created out of the Place of his Expiation. See G. Vorſtius upon Pirke Elieſer, p. 163.

Ver. 19. And David, according to the ſaying of Gad, went up as the LORD commanded.] That is, he went the next Moment after he received the Command.

Ver. 20. And Araunah looked, and ſaw the King and his Servants coming on towards him; and Araunah went out, and bowed himſelf before the King, on his Face upon the Ground.] As the Manner was, and ſtill is, in the Eaſtern Countries.

Ver. 21. And Araunah ſaid, Wherefore is my Lord the King come up unto thy Servant?] It may be he thought it too great an Honour; and therefore deſired to know the Meaning of it.

And David ſaid, To buy the Threſhing-floor of thee, to build an Altar unto the LORD, that the Plague may be ſtayed from the People.] By offering a Sacrifice to appeaſe his Anger; as he himſelf had ordered, 1 Chron. xxi. 26, 27.

Ver. 22. And Araunah ſaid unto David, Let my Lord the King take and offer up what ſeemeth good unto him: Behold, here be Oxen for Burnt-ſacrifices, and threſhing Inſtruments, and other Inſtruments of the Oxen for Wood.] For when the Angel appeared there, he was threſhing Wheat, which he offered likewiſe to David for a Meat-offering, 1 Chron. xxi. 20, 23. And the Inſtruments of the Oxen were their Yokes, and ſuch as they drew after them to preſs forth the Corn.

Ver. 23. All theſe things did Araunah, as a King, give unto the King:] The Words in the Hebrew are, theſe things gave Araunah the King unto the King. From whence ſome infer, that before the taking of Jeruſalem he was the King of the Jebuſites; or, a Man of the greateſt Authority among them, like a King; or was deſcended from the Blood Royal of the Jebuſites, as Dr. Lightfoot expreſſes it. But neither the Greek, nor the Syriack, nor the Arabick Copies have the word King: Nor was it in many of the Vulgar 'till Sixtus's Correction; nor in the Chaldee Paraphraſt in the Time of Kimchi, who cites it thus; Araunah gave to the King what the King aſked of him. And, as Bochartus obſerves, Araunah (or Ornan) being mentioned fourteen times in the Holy Books, it is a wonder he ſhould not be ſtiled a King, but only here. Hieroz. P. 1. L. 1. Cap. 38. But it is likely he was a very rich Man, as Joſephus reports; whom the King ſpared when he took the Fort of Zion: Either becauſe he was a Lover of the Iſraelites; or had done ſome good Office unto David.

And Araunah ſaid unto the King, The LORD thy God accept thee.] He thought himſelf abundantly ſatisfied, if God pleaſed to grant David's Requeſt; which he beſeeched him to do: for no doubt he was a Proſelyte, earneſtly deſiring the Happineſs of the Nation, into which he was incorporated.

Ver. 24. And the King ſaid unto Araunah, Nay, but I will ſurely buy it of thee at a Price: neither will I offer Burnt-offerings unto the LORD my God of that which coſt me nothing.] Whence is that of Solomon, Prov. iii. 9. Honour the LORD with thy Subſtance; which the Greek thus tranſlates, Τίμα τὸν Κύριον ἀπο τῶν δικαίων πόνων. Honour the LORD out of thy honeſt Labours, that is, out of that which thou haſt acquired by thy honeſt Induſtry.

So David bought the Threſhing-floor, and the Oxen, for fifty Shekels of Silver.] In the Chronicles we read, according to our Tranſlation, that he gave him ſix hundred Shekels of Gold by weight, which Bochartus thus reconciles; that in one Place he ſpeaks of Shekels of Gold, and in the other of Shekels of Silver. Whoſe Proportion is Twelve-fold; ſo that fifty Shekels of Gold are in Value as much as ſix hundred Shekels of Silver. He quotes a Place out of Plato in his Hipparchus, which proves that Gold and Silver held this Proportion. And then he thus tranſlates this Place in Samuel, he bought the Floor and the Oxen Beceſeph for Money, viz. for fifty Golden Shekels. So the word Ceſeph often ſignifies Money in general, of whatſoever Metal it be; as appears from this very Hiſtory, wherein David tells Ornan that he will buy the Field of him, Beceſeph Malo, which we tranſlate, At its full Price, 1 Chron. xxi. 24. And then it follows, he gave Ornan Shikle Zahav, Shekels of Gold, Miſhkall Sheſh Meoth, in Value ſix hundred Vulgar, or Silver Shekels. See Hierozoi- con, P. 1. L. 2. Cap. 38. where the word Miſhkall he acknowledges commonly ſignifies Weight; yet here denotes Value: As in the 2d of Sam. xii. 30. The Deſign of Ezra being to ſhew that the fifty Shekels he gave for the Floor and Oxen, were not Silver (which were moſt common) but Shekels of Gold; every one of which was worth Twelve of Silver: So that thoſe fifty Shekels were equivalent to ſix hundred Silver ones.

But there is a ſhorter Way of ſolving this Difficulty, by ſuppoſing, that for the Threſhing-Floor and the Oxen he gave only fifty Shekels of Silver: But all the Ground about it (out of which, the Courts of God's Houſe were afterwards made) coſt him ſix hundred Shekels of Gold.

Ver. 25. And David built there an Altar unto the LORD, and offered Burnt-offerings, and Peace-offerings.] Burnt-offerings were Prayers to God that he would remove this Plague: And Peace-Offerings were Acknowledgments of God's Goodneſs, who had already given David Hopes of this Mercy.

So the LORD was intreated for the Land, and the Plague was ſtayed from Iſrael.] As plainly appeared by God's ſending Fire down from Heaven to conſume the Sacrifices: And the Angel alſo, who appeared with a flaming Sword over Jeruſalem, being commanded to put it up into his Sheath, 1 Chron. xxi. 26, 27. From hence David concluded God would be more placable in this Place than any other; and therefore took Counſel to build the Temple here.

A COM-

A COMMENTARY UPON THE FIRST BOOK OF THE KINGS.

THESE two following Books contain the Hiſtory of the Kings of Iſrael and Judah, from the Beginning of Solomon's Reign down to the Captivity of Babylon: For the Space of near Six Hundred Years; taking into the Account the Hiſtory of the two foregoing Books. It is highly probable that they were compoſed by Ezra, who extracted them out of the publick Records: Which were kept of what paſſed in that Nation; as we read of the Book of the Acts of Solomon, in this very Book, xi. 41. And frequently, of the Books of the Kings of Iſrael, and of the Kings of Judah; and of the Book of Jehu, in which was written the Acts of Jehoſhaphat, 2 Chron. xx. 34. And Iſaiah we read wrote the Acts of Uzziah firſt and laſt, 2 Chron. xxvi. 22. Out of which, and ſuch like Books, Ezra compoſed this brief Hiſtory. In which there are ſeveral things that Heathens themſelves have taken Notice of, as Huetius obſerves in his Demonſtratio Evangelica, *Prepoſ.*4. Where he anſwers the trifling Objections, which ſome have made againſt the Antiquity of theſe Books.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. NOW David was old and ſtricken in years;] For he was Seventy Years old, as we learn from 2 Sam. v. 4, 5.

And they covered him with Cloaths, but he got no Heat.] His Blood was ſo chill'd, that he could not be warm in his Bed: Much leſs when he was up. Dr. Lightfoot thinks he was ſtruck with a dead Palſy.

Ver. 2. Wherefore his Servants] His Phyſicians, it is moſt likely, that attended him.

Said unto him, Let there be ſought for my Lord the King] Thoſe are the Words of the Prime Phyſician, in the Name of the reſt.

A young Virgin, and let her ſtand before the King,] Or miniſter unto him in the Day-time: For the very Sight of a beautiful Virgin very much excites the Natural Spirits.

And

And let her cheriſh him, and let her lie in thy Boſom,] Become his Wife, and in the Night lie in the ſame Bed cloſe to him.

That my Lord the King may get Heat.] For nothing more effectually procures Heat and healthful Concoction, than the Application of a young Body, even of a Puppy, to the Stomach all night: As Galen obſerves in his Fifth Book of the Power of ſimple Medicines. For συμφυλότερα, καὶ οἰκειότερα πολὺ, this Warmth is nearer of kin to us, and more proper than any other that can be invented: As Victorinus Strigelius hath taken notice.

Ver. 3. So they ſought for a fair Damſel throughout all the Coaſts of Iſrael, and found Abiſhag the Shunamite, and brought her to the King.] She being young, ſprightly, and willing to be taken into his Bed: For his other Wives were grown too old to put any Life into him.

Ver. 4. And the Damſel was very fair,] Of an amiable Countenance.

And cheriſhed the King, and miniſtred to him: but the King knew her not.] Did not enjoy her as his Wife; but ſhe remain'd ſtill a Virgin: Being his Bedfellow only to keep him warm.

Ver. 5. Then Adonijah the Son of Haggith exalted himſelf, ſaying, I will be King:] Taking advantage of his Father's Age and Weakneſs (who he thought could not oppoſe it) he reſolv'd to take poſſeſſion of the Kingdom: But the Crown, as the Jews fancy, would not fit his Head.

And he prepared himſelf Chariots and Horſemen, and fifty Men to run before him.] Juſt as Abſalom had done when he began to conſpire againſt his Father, 2 Sam. xv. 1.

Ver. 6. And his Father had not diſpleaſed him at any time, in ſaying, why haſt thou done ſo?] This was one of David's great Faults, extraordinary Indulgence unto his Children: Of whom he was ſo fond, that he ſeems to have overlooked their Errors, and never to have chidden them for any thing they did amiſs. And now in his old Age this Wickedneſs was more apparent; he growing naturally more remiſs, careleſs and ſluggiſh.

And he alſo was a very goodly Man;] And ſo the more likely to draw the People after him. For a noble Aſpect was always a Qualification for the Royal Authority; as appears by the Hiſtory of Saul, David, and Abſalom.

And his Mother bare him after Abſalom.] He pretended to the Crown, becauſe Abſalom being dead, he was next to him in order of Birth. See 2 Sam. iii. 3, 4.

Ver. 7. And he conferred with Joab the Son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the Prieſt:] Whom, it is likely, he knew to be two diſcontented Perſons: The former upon the account of David's putting Amaſa in his place; and the other becauſe he ſaw Zadok in greater Favour than himſelf.

And they following Adonijah, helped him.] Furthered him in his Deſign: As a means to ſecure themſelves with the next Heir.

Ver. 8. But Zadok the Prieſt, and Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the Prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the mighty Men which belonged unto David, were not with Adonijah.] The three firſt of theſe are well known to have been great Favourites of David: And therefore Adonijah knew would not be for his Turn. The two next, it is likely, were Perſons of Note, who were perfectly in David's Intereſt: And Shimei poſſibly may be the Perſon whom Solomon preferred to a great Office, iv. 18. though Abarbinel thinks he was Shimei who curſed David. See upon the next Chapter, ver. 8. the mighty Men here mentioned are thoſe named in 2 Sam. xxiii. and his Guards who had ſerved under David ſo long, and done ſuch mighty Acts in his Reign, and under his Conduct, that Adonijah had no hope of drawing them into his Party.

Ver. 9. And Adonijah ſlew Sheep, and Oxen, and fat Cattle,] Of the Hebrew word Meri, which we tranſlate fat Cattle, ſee upon 2 Sam. vi. 13.

By the Stone of Zoheleth which is by Enrogel,] The Hebrew word Zohel ſignifies a ſlow Motion, as Bochart obſerves in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 1. Cap. 9. From whence this Stone had its Name; The Fullers here preſſing out the Water, which dropped from the Cloaths that they had waſhed in this Well, called Rogel. Joſephus ſaith the King's Gardens lay near this Well: Which, out of him, is alſo affirmed by Procopius Gazæus.

And called all his Brethren the King's Sons,] Whoſe Names are mentioned in 2 Sam. iii. 4, 5. and more largely in 1 Chron. iii. 4, 5, &c.

And all the Men of Judah the King's Servants.] Except thoſe before mentioned, ver. 8. and again excepted, ver. 10. But all the reſt of the Family of David, and the principal Perſons of the Tribe of Judah, with the High-Prieſt, and the Captain of the Hoſt being preſent, there ſeemed to be nothing wanting to the making of him King; but only his anointing. For this ſeems to have been a Fœderal Feaſt; wherein they ſware Allegiance to Adonijah.

Ver. 10. But Nathan the Prophet and Benaiah, and the mighty Men, and Solomon his Brother he called not.] It was a Feaſt, I ſuppoſe, upon a great Sacrifice: Unto which none came, but they who were invited.

Ver. 11. Wherefore Nathan ſpake unto Bathſheba the Mother of Solomon, ſaying, Haſt thou not heard that Adonijah the Son of Haggith doth reign,] It ſeems they were ſo bold as to proclaim him King.

And David our Lord knoweth it not?] For it was ſecretly contrived between him, and Joab, and the reſt: Without the Privity of David or of Bathſheba.

Ver. 12. Now therefore come, let me I pray thee give thee Counſel, that thou mayeſt ſave thy own Life, and the Life of thy Son Solomon.] Whom he knew they would endeavour to cut off: As the Perſon deſigned by David to be his Succeſſor.

Ver. 13. Go, and get thee in unto King David, and ſay unto him, Didſt not thou my Lord, O King, ſwear unto thy Handmaid, ſaying, aſſuredly Solomon thy Son ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my Throne. Why then doth Adonijah reign?] We do not read any where elſe of this Oath; but no doubt he had ſolemnly ſworn to her, that he would make her Son his Succeſſor: God himſelf having deſigned him to that Honour; as appears from 2 Sam. vii. 12. Where

God

God promiſes by Nathan to ſet upon his Throne a Son that ſhould proceed from him. Which plainly ſignified, none of his Sons already born were to be the Perſon. But more plainly, 1 Chron. xxii. 8, 9, 10, &c. he declares that God told him Solomon ſhould reign after him, and build him an Houſe; and thereupon he commanded all the Princes of Iſrael to be aſſiſtant to him, ver. 17. And ſee xxviii. 5, 6. All this, I doubt not, was known to Adonijah; which made his Crime the greater, in ſetting himſelf againſt the Decree of Heaven: And he himſelf confeſſes as much in the next Chapter, ver. 15.

Ver. 14. Behold, while thou yet talkeſt there with the King, I alſo will come in after thee, and confirm thy Words.] Which he knew would quicken the King to give ſpeedy Orders about this Matter.

Ver. 15. And Bathſheba went in unto the King, into the Chamber:] Being the King's Wife, ſhe had the Privilege to come into his Bed-Chamber, without aſking Leave, as Kimchi obſerves. Whereas Nathan did not appear before the King 'till they told him he was there to wait upon him, ver. 23.

And the King was very old;] And could not diſcern who it was that entred into the Chamber.

And Abiſhag the Shunamite miniſtred unto the King.] And informed him, it is likely, that Bathſheba was come into the Room to ſpeak with him.

Ver. 16. And Bathſheba bowed, and did obeiſance to the King:] Firſt bowed her Head, and then her Body: As the manner was even for their Wives, as well as other Perſons.

And the King ſaid, What wouldeſt thou?] She had ſignified, I ſuppoſe, to Abiſhag, that ſhe had ſome Petition to make to him.

Ver. 17. And ſhe ſaid unto him, My Lord, thou ſweareſt by the LORD thy God unto thy Handmaid, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy Son ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my Throne:] David ſware this, as Abarbinel thinks, when Abſalom his eldeſt Son rebelled againſt him. And the rather, becauſe Nathan had told him (as I obſerved before) a Child ſhould proceed from him that ſhould ſit upon his Throne: who therefore was then unborn. But all the reſt, except Solomon, were born before this Promiſe, and therefore he concluded were none of them deſigned by God to be his Succeſſors.

Ver. 18. And now behold Adonijah reigneth; and now, my Lord the King thou knoweſt it not.] This ſhe ſaith, that ſhe might not ſeem to accuſe David of breaking his Oath: And that ſhe might aggravate the Crime of Adonijah, in preſuming to uſurp the Throne while his Father was alive, and without his Knowledge.

Ver. 19. And he hath ſlain Oxen and fat Cattle, and Sheep in abundance, and hath called all the Sons of the King, and Abiathar the Prieſt, and Joab the Captain of the Hoſt: But Solomon thy Servant hath he not called.] She very ſubmiſſively calls her ſelf his Handmaid, and her Son his Servant: The more to win upon his Affection unto thoſe that humbly depended upon his Pleaſure.

Ver. 20. And thou, my Lord, O King, the Eyes of all Iſrael are upon thee, that thou ſhouldſt tell them who ſhall ſit upon the Throne of my Lord the King after thee.] This ſhe ſaid all Iſrael expected from the King, that ſhe might free him from all Fear of ſuch a Rebellion as Abſalom raiſed; the People not being joined to Adonijah, but continuing in Suſpence, 'till the King had declared his Mind about his Succeſſor. Thus Abarbinel. And this Power of naming a Succeſſor continued for ſome time after him, as appears by the Story of his Grandſon Rehoboam: Who though no great Man, yet took upon him this Authority of nominating a Succeſſor, and made one of his youngeſt Sons, viz. Abijah, King after him. See 2 Chron. xi. 20, 22, &c. But this Cuſtom did not laſt long; not being in uſe among their Neighbours: As the Story of the Moabites ſhews, 2 Kings iii. 27. Yet it was the Manner of excellent Princes among the Romans to appoint their Succeſſor, whom the People gladly received. So Auguſtus did: And M. Aurelius commends Nerva for ſo doing.

Ver. 21. Otherwiſe it ſhall come to paſs, when my Lord the King ſhall ſleep with his Fathers, that I and my Son Solomon ſhall be accounted Offenders.] Guilty of Death for aiming at the Kingdom.

Ver. 22. And lo, while ſhe talked with the King, Nathan the Prophet alſo came in.] To confirm what ſhe had ſaid, according to his Promiſe, ver. 14.

Ver. 23. And they told the King, ſaying, Behold, Nathan the Prophet.] Whereupon Bathſheba, it is likely, withdrew, as if ſhe ſuppoſed he had ſome private Meſſage to deliver unto David.

And when he was come in before the King, he bowed himſelf before the King, with his Face to the Ground. The Prophets themſelves, as well as other Men, gave the profoundeſt Reverence to the King (as Maimonides obſerves) that they might teach all his Subjects their Duty. Nor was the High-Prieſt excepted. See Schickard de Jure Regn. Cap. 4. Theorem 13. The Hebrew Word is us'd for Religious Worſhip, in Pſalm xlv. 12. xcv. 6. But very often, only for Political, and that very anciently, in Gen. xxiii. 7. Ruth ii. 10. 2 Sam. xvi. 14. and many other Places.

Ver. 24. And Nathan ſaid, My Lord, O King, haſt thou ſaid Adonijah ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my Throne?] He knew very well he had given no ſuch Order; but he ſaid this to awaken the King, to conſider how preſumptuous Adonijah was.

Ver. 25. For he is gone down this Day, and hath ſlain Oxen, and fat Cattle, and Sheep in abundance, and hath called all the King's Sons, and the Captain of the Hoſt, and Abiathar the Prieſt, and behold they eat and drink before him, and ſay, God ſave King Adonijah.] By this time Nathan had received perfect Intelligence, what was the Deſign of that great Feaſt; and they had not only conſulted to raiſe Adonijah to the Throne, but actually proclaimed him King. Which was more than Bathſheba had told him.

Ver. 26. But me, even me thy Servant, and Zadok the Prieſt, and Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, and thy Servant Solomon hath he not called.] For he knew they they were all faithful to King David; and would follow his Directions.

Ver. 27. Is this thing done by my Lord the King, and thou haſt not ſhewed it unto thy Servant, who ſhall ſit upon the Throne of my Lord the King after him?] In a matter of this Importance, he could not believe the King would act without his Advice: Whom he was wont to conſult on other occaſions; and who had acquainted him with the Mind of God concerning Solomon.

Ver. 28. And King David anſwered and ſaid, Call me Bathſheba:] Who was withdrawn, as I ſaid, into another Room, upon the coming in of Nathan: Or ſtood at a diſtance in the Room where they were.

And ſhe came into the King's Preſence, and ſtood before the King.] To underſtand his Pleaſure.

Ver. 29. And the King ſware and ſaid, As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my Soul out of all diſtreſs,] Unto whom he was ſo much indebted, that it could not be thought he would take his Name in vain: But ſhe might truſt him now that he ſo ſolemnly ſware again to her.

Ver. 30. Even as I ſware unto thee by the LORD God of Iſrael, ſaying, Aſſuredly thy Son ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my Throne in my ſtead; even ſo will I certainly do this day.] He had not forgotten his former Oath, which he now renews; and reſolves immediately to put in execution.

Ver. 31. Then Bathſheba bowed her Face to the Earth, and did reverence to the King,] Moſt humbly acknowledged his Goodneſs; by a lower Reverence than ſhe made before, ver. 16.

And ſaid, Let my Lord the King live for ever.] There could be no higher Expreſſion of Love and Thankfulneſs, than to deſire never to ſee Solomon on the Throne, if it were poſſible for David always to enjoy it.

Ver. 32. And King David ſaid, Call me Zadok the Prieſt, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada. And they came before the King.] They were ſuch truſty and reſolute Perſons, that he knew would not fear to execute his Commands.

Ver. 33. And the King ſaid unto them, Take with you the Servants of your Lord,] His conſtant Guards, the Cerethites and Pelethites. See ver. 38.

And cauſe Solomon my Son to ride upon my own Mule,] The reſt of David's Sons were wont to ride upon Mules, when they went abroad, 2 Sam. xiii. 29. And Abſalom rode upon a Mule, when he was hanged in the Oak, xviii. 9. But David had a Mule peculiarly reſerved for himſelf alone; on which Solomon being ſet, it was the Beginning of his Royal Authority: For no private Perſon whatſoever, as Abarbinel obſerves, might ride upon the King's Mule. He alſo further notes, that David ordered him to ride upon a Mule, and not upon an Horſe, becauſe an Horſe is prepared for Battel (Prov. xxi. 31.) but a Mule is a quiet Creature: Signifying the Peace, Tranquillity, and Security, which they enjoyed in Solomon's Reign. But the firſt is the more pertinent Obſervation: For it was capital (as Maimonides obſerves) to ride upon the King's Horſe or Mule; or ſit in his Throne; or uſe his Scepter, &c. without the King's Order. As on the contrary, to have the Honour to ride upon his Horſe, by his Order, was accounted the higheſt Dignity among the Perſians, as appears by the Story of Mordecai in the ſixth of Eſther.

And bring him down to Gihon.] A Fountain on the Weſt-ſide of Jeruſalem, which divided it ſelf into two Streams, as ſome ſay, and made two Pools: That of Siloam, and that of Solomon mentioned by Joſephus, Lib. 6. De Bello Judaico, Cap. 38. But Kimchi, and Abarbinel alſo, take them only for different Names for one and the ſame Rivulet; which was called Gihon, and alſo Siloam, as the Targum hath it. Hither they were ordered to bring down Solomon, for it is a Maxim among the Jews, that they do not anoint a King, but near a Fountain: Though they have no Authority for it, that I know of, but from this Chapter: Where we read of Adonijah's going to Enrogel, ver. 9. and Solomon's being brought to Gihon; which was a Fountain, or Brook near Jeruſalem: For thereabouts a great Number of People uſed always to be; whom they would have to obſerve it. The Jews give another Reaſon for it, in the Talmud; that it might be a Signification and good Omen of the Perpetuity of the Kingdom: Which ſhould continue like a Fountain, which runs perpetually. See Schickard in his Jus Regium, Cap. 1. Theor. 4. But from what is ſaid here of Solomon, we cannot ſafely make a general Concluſion that all Kings were anointed at Fountains. For Saul the firſt King was not; and in the Hiſtory of David, who was anointed three times, there is no mention of it.

Ver. 34. And let Zadok the Prieſt, and Nathan the Prophet, anoint him there King over Iſrael:] One of them poured out the Oil, and the other anointed him, as the forenamed Schickard thinks it probable. Or, as others will have it, Zadok (as Vicar of the High-prieſt, who in his Abſence performed all his Offices) did both: And Nathan the Prophet was Witneſs of the Divine Revelation and Promiſe that Solomon ſhould ſucceed in the Kingdom. For Abarbinel is of opinion, that no King was anointed but by the Authority of a Prophet: Which is hard to be proved out of Scripture, as Carpzovius obſerves. See ver. 39.

And blow ye with the Trumpet, and ſay, God ſave King Solomon.] Proclaim him to be the King of Iſrael. The Hiſtory of Abſalom ſhews that he was proclaimed King by the Sound of the Trumpet, 2 Sam. xv. 10. And when God proclaimed his Law, and himſelf the King of Iſrael, the Sound of the Trumpet preceded with great Vehemence, Exod. xix. 16. And hence many Places in the Pſalms are explained, which ſay, God went up with the Sound of the Trumpet, when, after the manner of Kings, he triumphed over his Enemies, xlvii. 5. xcviii. 6.

Ver. 35. Then ye ſhall come up after him, that he may come and ſit upon my Throne;] Attend upon him to Jeruſalem, and give him actual Poſſeſſion of the Throne.

For he ſhall be King in my ſtead, and I have appointed him to be Ruler over Iſrael, and over Judah.] To have the ſame Authority over all the People that David had.

Ver. 36.

Ver. 36. And Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada answered the King, and said, Amen:] Gave his Consent in the Name of all the reſt: And I ſuppoſe ſware Allegiance to him.

The LORD God of my Lord the King ſay ſo too.] They all ſaid the ſame, ver. 47. Nothing doubting God would eſtabliſh his Authority.

Ver. 37. As the LORD hath been with my Lord the King, even ſo be he with Solomon, and make his Throne greater than the Throne of my Lord King David.] He knew David loved his Children ſo paſſionately, and deſired their Happineſs ſo much, that he was aſſured he ſhould not offend him with this Wiſh. In the Targum it is, As the WORD of the LORD hath helped my Lord the King, &c.

Ver. 38. So Zadok the Prieſt, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, and the Cerethites, and the Pelethites,] This (and in ver. 43.) is the laſt Time that the Cerethites and Pelethites (whom Procopius Gazæus here calls Funditores & Sagittarios, Slingers and Archers) are mentioned in the holy Scriptures: For we read no more of them after the Death of David. Which makes it probable, that in their room, David himſelf in the Concluſion of his Reign had appointed thoſe Troops, which we read of in 1 Chron. xxvii. to attend upon him every Month under their ſeveral Commanders: Which is the Conjecture of Corn. Bonaventura Bertram de Republ. Judaica. Cap. 10. p. 133. And theſe are they he thinks who guarded Joaſh, 2 Kings xi. 4, &c. called Ceri, or Cerim, i. e. Ariates (not much different from Crethi) and Ratzim, which he tranſlates Curſores. But I leave this to better Judgments.

Went down, and cauſed Solomon to ride on the King's mule, and brought him to Gihon.] According as King David had ordered, ver. 34.

Ver. 29. And Zadok the Prieſt] Here the anointing of him is attributed to the Prieſt alone. And indeed the Unctions which are ſaid to be made by a Prophet, as Samuel anointed Saul and David, were private, but not publick: Which was always done by the Prieſt, as Fortunatus Scacchus hath endeavoured to ſhew in his Third Myrothecium, Cap. 49, and 50. It muſt be confeſſed that the Prophet anointed Saul in Gilgal, when he was publickly declared King. But then they offered Sacrifice, which could not be without the Prieſt: And the Iſraelites made a Covenant with David, when they anointed him in Hebron; which muſt be by feaſting upon a Sacrifice offered by the Prieſt. Yet a great many of the Jews are confident that no Man, no not the High-prieſt, could anoint a King, but only a Prophet, as Samuel did David, and Nathan (Abarbinel here affirms) did Solomon, and Ahijah did Jeroboam.

Took an Horn of Oil] A Veſſel of Oil, as the Arabick tranſlates it: Which Veſſel was made of an Ox's Horn, as Bochartus obſerves, L. 2. Hierozoicon, Cap. 37. P. 1. They commonly made Cups of ſuch Horns; whence the Greek Word κεράσαι to mingle Wine with Water. See Fortunatus Scacchus, Myrothec. 1 Cap. 48.

Out of the Tabernacle, and anointed Solomon:] This made his Unction more ſolemn, and his Perſon more ſacred; becauſe anointed with holy Oil. Though the Jews are generally of Opinion, that it was not neceſſary to anoint their Kings with this holy Oil made by Moſes. And indeed they all agree there was no Neceſſity of anointing them at all (the Son being ſufficiently anointed by the Unction of his Father) unleſs there aroſe a Controverſy about the Succeſſion of the Crown. Thus Solomon was anointed becauſe of the Function of Adonijah, Joaſh becauſe of Athaliah, and Jehu becauſe of Joram. See Selden L. 2. de Succeſſ. in Pontif. Cap. 9. and Schickard his Jus Regium, Cap. 1. Theorem 4. Fortunatus Scacchus alſo hath ſpent a whole Chapter, of a good length, to ſhew that private Unction might be made with any Oil: But a publick, by Oil taken from the Tabernacle. Whence it is ſaid of David, with my holy Oil have I anointed thee. Yet he thinks that this Oil preſerved in the Tabernacle for that Purpoſe, was not the ſame with the Oil made by Moſes; where-with the High-prieſt alone was anointed. This he confirms by no contemptible Arguments, in his Myrothecium 3. Sacror. Elæochriſm. Cap. 48.

And they blew the Trumpet, and all the People ſaid, God ſave King Solomon.] After the Unction followed the Acclamation of the People. See ver. 34.

Ver. 40. And all the People came up after him,] From Gihon unto Jeruſalem.

And the People piped with Pipes, and rejoiced with great joy,] To ſee a King ſettled by David's Appointment: which they hoped might prevent all Conteſts about the Succeſſion.

So that the Earth rent with the ſound of them.] An hyperbolical Expreſſion, to ſignify the very loud Noiſe the People made with their Shouts and their Pipes: Which were Inſtruments that had their Name among the Hebrews, from the many Holes that were in them: As the Illuſtrious Spanhemius obſerves upon Callimachus his Hymn ad Dianam, ver. 244. where he notes great Variety of them.

Ver. 41. And Adonijah and all the Gueſts that were with him, heard it as they had made an end of eating:] But, perhaps, were not yet riſen from the Table. See ver. 49.

And when Joab heard the ſound of the Trumpet, he ſaid, wherefore is this noiſe of the City, being in an uproar?] By this time Solomon was got into Jeruſalem; from whence they could hear the Shouting, and the Sound of the Trumpet and Muſick. Which Joſephus ſaith was accompanied with a great Feaſt: Which is agreeable to 1 Chron. xxix. 21, 22. Joab was moſt concerned to enquire what the matter was; for if the City was in an Uproar, as he ſeems to ſuſpect, it was his Buſineſs, as Captain of the Hoſt, to ſuppreſs it.

Ver. 42. And while he yet ſpake, behold Jonathan the Son of Abiathar the Prieſt came,] He had been employed by David to bring him intelligence (2 Sam xv. 27.) and it is likely was now left in Jeruſalem by his Father's Order, to bring him News of what paſſed there.

And Adonijah ſaid unto him, Come in, for thou art a valiant Man, and bringeſt good tidings.] Or rather, thou art a virtuous Man: For ſo the Word we here tranſlate valiant is rendred in Prov. xii. 4. And ſo the Targum in this Place, thou art a Man that feareſt to ſin: And being a good Man, he hoped brought good Tidings, like himſelf.

Ver. 43. And Jonathan answered and said to Adonijah, Verily our Lord King David hath made Solomon King.] He tells him (according to his Character) he would not flatter him, but tell him the plain Truth: That David had not only declared Solomon should succeed him in the Throne; but actually made him King: and related the whole History of his Proceedings, in the following Words.

Ver. 44. And the King hath sent with him Zadok the Priest, and Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, and the Cerethites, and Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride on the King's Mule.

Ver. 45. And Zadok the Priest and Nathan the Prophet have anointed him King in Gihon:] By Authority from God, which Nathan I suppose pronounced; and then Zadok anointed him.

And they are gone up from thence rejoicing, so that the Earth rang again: This is the noise that ye have heard.

Ver. 46. And also Solomon sitteth on the Throne of the Kingdom.] He was in actual Possession of the Kingdom: Though his Father was alive. For to sit upon the Throne was proper to the King: and none else, on pain of Death, might be placed there. So Valerius Maximus speaks of the Persians, Lib. 5. Cap. 16.

Ver. 47. And moreover, the King's servants came to bless King David, and said, God make the name of Solomon greater than thy name, and make his Throne greater than thy Throne:] See ver. 37.

And the King bowed himself upon the Bed.] Worshipped God, and prayed it might be so.

Ver. 48. And also thus said the King, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which has given one to sit on my Throne this day, mine Eyes even seeing it.] He gave a solemn Thanks to God for the Happiness of seeing Solomon begin his Reign, with such Affection of his People, as they expressed by their Joy at his Inauguration. Jonathan, it appears by this, had been a diligent Observer of every thing that had been done in this Matter: For he omits nothing; but gives them a full and faithful Account.

Ver. 49. And all the guests that were with Adonijah were afraid and rose up, and went every Man his way.] They rose from Table where they were sitting, and departed every Man to his own Home in great haste; that it might not be known they had been with Adonijah: Who wanted those Marks of Royalty which were bestowed on Solomon: For he neither rode on the King's Mule, nor was he anointed; nor sat on the Throne of the Kingdom: Nor do we read of any Forces that he had with him to maintain his Title. Yet Fortunatus Scacchus thinks Adonijah wanted none of the Marks of Royalty (insomuch that Bathsheba told David he reigned, ver. 18.) but this one alone. Which Defect threw down all the Regal Majesty of Adonijah, scattered all his Forces, and translated the Possession of the Kingdom to Solomon, as soon as he was consecrated, by this holy Unction, Lib. 3. Myrothec. Cap. 47. p. 571.

Ver. 50. And Adonijah feared because of Solomon, and arose, and went and caught hold of the horns of the Altar.] He thought he had committed a Crime worthy of Death, by usurping the Kingdom without his Father's Consent, and against the known Design of God: And therefore he fled to the Altar for Safety and Protection. It being a privileged Place; not by the Appointment of the Law, but by the Custom of all Nations. It is a Question to what Altar he fled; whither to that at the Tabernacle in Gibeon; or to that newly built in the Threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite. Some think to this last, which was neareſt; and it is expresly said of Joab in the next Chapter (ver. 29.) that he fled to the Tabernacle of the LORD; which is not said here.

Ver. 51. And it was told Solomon, saying, Behold, Adonijah feared King Solomon: for lo, he hath taken hold of the Horns of the Altar, saying, Let Solomon swear to me to-day, that he will not slay his servant with the sword.] He offered to surrender himself, and make no Opposition, if he might but be secured of his Life: Which he humbly begged by taking Sanctuary at the Altar. These Words, to-day, signify that he desired him from henceforth he would not punish him for what was past.

Ver. 52. And Solomon said,] He did not swear unto him, as he desired, but only declared.

If he will shew himself a worthy Man, there shall not an hair of him fall to the Earth:] He gave him a full Pardon for what was past; on condition he behaved himself as became a good Subject for the Time to come.

But if wickedness be found in him, he shall die.] If he did any thing (as Abarbinel glosses) which shewed that he had still a rebellious Mind, this Pardon should signify nothing: Because he had broken the Condition of it.

Ver. 53. So King Solomon sent, and they brought him down from the Altar; and he came and bowed himself to King Solomon:] He owned him for his Sovereign.

And Solomon said unto him, Go to thine House.] There to lead a private Life; and not go abroad with such an Equipage as he had done, ver. 5.

CHAP. II.

Verse 1. NOW the days of David drew nigh, that he should die;] As he himself was sensible.

And he charged Solomon his Son, saying,] After the Example of Abraham, the Father of the Faithful, Gen. xviii. 19.

Ver. 2. I go the way of all the earth:] And so was unable to govern any longer.

Be thou strong therefore, and shew thy self a Man.] In Wisdom and in Courage.

Ver. 3. And keep the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his Statutes, and his Commandments, and his Judgments, and his Testimonies,] Under these four Words are comprehended all the Laws of Moses: Statutes, being such Constitutions as had not their Foundation in Reason, but in the Will and Pleasure of God: As not to sow two Seeds of different kinds together, &c. (See Drusius and Grotius upon Numb. xix. 2. and Masius upon Joshua xxiv. 25.) Commandments, were moral Duties,

Duties which had a manifeſt Reaſon, as not to ſteal, &c. Judgments were the Laws belonging to Civil Government, in Things between one Man and another: Such as are mentioned Exod. xxi. and the following Chapters. And Teſtimonies were ſuch Laws, as preſerved the Remembrance of ſome great Things; and teſtified to them the Loving-kindneſs of the LORD; as the Sabbath, the Paſſover, and all the reſt of the Feaſts.

As it is written in the Law of Moſes,] Which their Kings were bound not only to read, but to write a Copy of it with their own Hands, for their own Uſe; that they might learn to fear the LORD, &c. Deut. xvii. 18, 19.

That thou mayeſt proſper in all that thou doſt, and whitherſoever thou turneſt thyſelf:] Or, that thou mayeſt do wiſely, &c. as it is in the Margin. For there is no Policy like true Religion and Piety.

Ver. 4. That the LORD may confirm his word which he ſpake concerning me, ſaying, If thy Children take heed to their ways, to walk before me in truth with all their heart, and with all their ſoul, there ſhall not fail thee (ſaid he) a Man upon the Throne of Iſrael.] To engage him to keep the Charge of the LORD, he repreſents unto him the gracious Promiſe which God had made him, to perpetuate the Kingdom in his Family without interruption (2 Sam. vii. 15, 16. Pſalm cxxxii. 12.) provided his Children ſincerely and heartily ſerved God, in faithful Obedience to his Commands.

Ver. 5. Moreover, thou knoweſt alſo what Joab the Son of Zeruiah did unto me,] After he had given him his general Charge, he proceeded to direct him to do ſome particular Pieces of Juſtice and Kindneſs. And firſt of all bids him remember how Joab had uſed him: How inſolently, for inſtance, he had treated him in his great Affliction, and threatned a new Rebellion (2 Sam. xix. 7.) and lately had ſet up Adonijah to reign, while he was yet alive. Or this may refer to what follows.

And what he did to the two Captains of the Hoſts of Iſrael, unto Abner the Son of Ner, and Amaſa the Son of Jether, whom he ſlew,] For this was a great Diſhonour to David, who had given Abner ſafe Conduct; and paſſed his Word to Amaſa that he ſhould be Commander in chief of all his Forces: And therefore he might ſay it was done to himſelf. But it is an idle Conceit of the Jews in Talkut, and in other Books: Which refer theſe Words, what he did to me, unto his ſhewing the Letter which David wrote him concerning Uriah, unto the great Commanders in the Army (2 Sam. xi. 15.) and thereby expoſed the King as a Murderer of one of his beſt Subjects. D. Kimchi mentions this upon this Place.

And ſhed the Blood of War in peace; and put the Blood of War upon his girdle that was about his loins, and in his ſhoes that were on his feet.] This was an high Aggravation of his Crime, that he did not only ſhed that Blood in Peace (ſpeaking to them in a friendly manner when he ſhed it) but after he had done, he was not at all aſhamed of it, but appeared with their Blood upon his Belt, and in his Shoes: As if he thought it a Glory to him, that he had ſlain them in a Battle with them.

Ver. 6. Do thou therefore according to thy wiſdom, and let not his hoar head go down to the grave in peace.] It was not ſafe to give any countenance to ſo bold a Man as Joab, who was of great Authority among the Soldiers: In a new Kingdom, and a young Man being King. Therefore if there was a fair Occaſion, and he could do it prudently, he adviſes Solomon to cut him off. For David had not remitted his former Crimes (nor could he by the Law) but only deferred the Puniſhment of a Man who was very powerful, and very ſerviceable in his Wars. Though Abarbinel is of opinion, he was not cut off for thoſe old Crimes: But the new one in following Adonijah would not be forgiven; becauſe he had deſerved ſo ill before on other accounts. But ſome move a Doubt, how Solomon being but a Youth could cut off Joab; which David durſt not do, when he moſt flouriſhed. Which will eaſily be reſolved, if it be conſidered that now it was a Time of Peace, when Joab was leſs neceſſary: And Solomon's Reputation grew continually (ver. 12.) and ſo he was more reſpected than Joab; who now declined in his Intereſt, by reaſon of his Age.

Ver. 7. But ſhew kindneſs unto the Sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be of thoſe that eat at thy table:] As Mephiboſheth had done: Who, it is likely, was now dead, for otherwiſe he would not have forgotten him. David's Gratitude here is very remarkable; which extended it ſelf to all the Sons of Barzillai: Who only deſired him to be kind to Chimham, 2 Sam. xix. 37.

For ſo they came to me, when I fled becauſe of Abſalom thy Brother.] That is, ſuch Kindneſs they ſhewed to David, inviting him to Barzillai's Houſe, who ſuſtained him in his great Diſtreſs, 2 Sam. xix. 32.

Ver. 8. And behold, thou haſt with thee Shimei the Son of Gera, a Benjamite,] Theſe Words, thou haſt with thee, are underſtood by Abarbinel as if David had ſaid, I ſee that thou art very familiar with Shimei; whom thou loveſt and adviſeſt withall. But that he might not truſt him, he remembers him how bitterly he was curſed by him in his Diſtreſs: And therefore might do as much by Solomon, as if he ſhould fall into the like Trouble. And he thinks Solomon being young, might the more eaſily be drawn in to hearken to ſuch a crafty Man's Counſel; becauſe he did not follow Adonijah: for he takes him to be the Shimei mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 8. But the plain Senſe of his having Shimei with him, is, that he was in his power, being one of his Subjects.

Which curſed me with a grievous curſe, in the day when I went to Mahanaim:] 2 Sam. xvi. 5, 6, 7.

But he came down to me at Jordan, and I ſware to him by the LORD, ſaying, I will not put thee to death with the Sword.] 2 Sam. xix. 18, 19, &c.

Ver. 9. Now therefore hold him not guiltleſs: For thou art a wiſe Man, and knoweſt what thou oughteſt to do unto him; but his hoar head bring down unto the grave with Blood.] His Intention was not, as Abarbinel gloſſes, that he ſhould put him to death for his curſing him: But he admoniſhes Solomon not to truſt him, nor follow his Advice, but if (ſaith he) he do to thee, as he did to me, that is any ways offend thee, do not forgive him as I did. But bring down his hoar Head, &c. that is, though he be an old Man, let not that move thee to Clemency towards him: But puniſh him according to his Deſerts. And David knew his Humour ſo well, that he did not doubt he would give Solomon Occaſion to cut him off, and that he was ſo wiſe as not to ſpare him. In ſhort, he did not bid him cut him off for curſing him; but only that he ſhould cautiouſly obſerve him: And if he committed any new Offence worthy of Death, not pardon him as he had done.

Ver. 10. So David ſlept with his Fathers, and was buried in the City of David.] The Author before-mentioned is a little too conceited in his Interpretation of the firſt Part of theſe Words: Which he will have to ſignify not that David died (which is the common Import of this Phraſe) but that his Soul reſted in the other World, with thoſe juſt and good Men that had been before him. But he obſerves well enough, that the latter part of this Verſe informs us he was not buried in the Sepulchre of his Father (as Saul was, 2 Sam. xxi. 12, &c.) for that was in Bethlehem: But he being a great King, was buried in the chief City of the Kingdom; which he himſelf had founded, and where was the Throne of the Houſe of David, Pſal. cxxii. 5. He tells alſo out of Joſephus's Antiquities (ſee Lib. 7. Cap. 12.) that there was a great Vault over his Sepulchre, in which was hid an immenſe Treaſure: Unto which no body knew the Way, but thoſe that underſtood the Artifice wherewith it was built. Out of this Vault they took in the Time of Antiochus ſo much Money as made him withdraw his Army from them. Which Procopius Gazæus alſo mentions. And Herod took out of it a great many Talents for the building of the Temple: But in following Times there was no Man to be found to whom the Secret was communicated, how to open it; ſo that no more Money was taken out from that Time. What Credit is to be given to this, I ſhall not determine, but ſuſpect its Truth.

Ver. 11. And the Days that David reigned over Iſrael, were forty Years: ſeven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty three years reigned he in Jeruſalem.] The very ſame Account is given in 1 Chron. xxix. 27. But in 2 Sam. v. 5. it is ſaid he reigned ſeven Years and ſix Months in Hebron (and the ſame is ſaid before, Chapter ii. ver. 11.) which, with the three and thirty Years in Jeruſalem make forty Years and an half. To ſolve this Difficulty (as ſome of the Jews eſteem it) they have deviſed this Conceit: That David had a Leproſy ſix Months, to puniſh him for his Adultery with Bathſheba: All which time he being as a Dead Man, it is not accounted to his Reign. But they did not conſider that the ſix Months was part of his Reign in Hebron, before he committed that Adultery in Jeruſalem. Which ſhews that this is a frivolous Fancy; and the true Account of this Matter is, that the Scripture is wont to reckon only compleat Years (as Kimchi obſerves upon that Place of Samuel) and therefore omits the ſix Months, being but a Part of a Year. See vi. 38.

Ver. 12. Then ſat Solomon upon the Throne of David his Father, and his Kingdom was eſtabliſhed greatly.] This Abarbinel thinks may refer to the ſecond ſolemn Inveſtiture of Solomon by all the Eſtates of the Realm. Who confirmed that which had been done by a few (though by David's Order) at Gihon, 1 Chron. xxix. 22, 23.

Ver. 13. And Adonijah the Son of Haggith came to Bathſheba the Mother of Solomon; and ſhe ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably? And he ſaid, Peaceably.] She had ſome Reaſon to diſtruſt him: Becauſe by her Means he had loſt the Kingdom.

Ver. 14. He ſaid moreover, I have ſomething to ſay unto thee: And ſhe ſaid, Say on.] He did not pretend to come to make her a Viſit; but about ſome Buſineſs.

Ver. 15. And he ſaid, thou knoweſt that the Kingdom was mine,] By right of Primogeniture. And that all Iſrael ſet their faces on me, that I ſhould reign:] The Kingdom, he pretends, was his by the Inclination of the Generality of the People to him, as David's Succeſſor.

Howbeit the Kingdom is turned about, and become my Brother's: for it was his from the LORD.] Leſt he ſhould imagine he meant any Harm, or was inwardly diſguſted at his being diſappointed of the Kingdom, he calls Solomon his Brother; and intitles God to the Change: and therefore would not have her think he affected another Change; which would be to oppoſe the LORD.

Ver. 16. And now I aſk one petition of thee, deny me not: And ſhe ſaid, Say on.] In the Hebrew the Words are, turn not away my Face: Which ſignify, that he ſhould be very much aſhamed, if ſhe did not grant his Petition.

Ver. 17. And he ſaid, Speak I pray thee to Solomon the King (for he will not ſay thee nay) that he give me Abiſhag the Shunamite to wife.] Both he and ſhe ſurely were not ignorant, that it was unlawful for any Man to marry his Father's Wife: But they thought, becauſe David knew her not, the Marriage was not compleated.

Ver. 18. And Bathſheba ſaid, Well; I will ſpeak for thee to the King.] For ſhe did not underſtand the Drift of this Deſire: But was only forward to do Courteſies to a Man, fallen from very great Hopes.

Ver. 19. Bathſheba therefore went unto king Solomon, to ſpeak unto him for Adonijah: and the King roſe up to meet her, and bowed himſelf unto her,] For the high Honour to which he was advanced, did not make him forget the Honour due to a Parent: Unto whom he was alſo much indebted for his Preferment to the Kingdom.

And ſat down in his Throne, and cauſed a ſeat to be ſet for the King's Mother;] In the Hebrew it is, a Throne to be ſet for her: It being a Seat in the form of a Throne, though not ſo glorious as the King's.

And ſhe ſat on his right Hand.] Which was the moſt honourable Place, next to himſelf, Pſalm xlv. 9. cx. 1.

Ver. 20. Then ſhe ſaid, I deſire one ſmall Petition of thee; I pray thee ſay me not nay.] It is likely it was the firſt Petition ſhe had made to him; and, as ſhe thought, would coſt him nothing: Which made her call it, a ſmall Petition.

And

And the King said, Ask on, my Mother, for I will not say thee nay.] If the Thing were fit, and safe to be granted.

Ver. 21. And she said, Let Abishag the Shunamite be given to Adonijah thy Brother to wife.

Ver. 22. And King Solomon answered and said unto his Mother, And why dost thou ask Abishag the Shunamite for Adonijah? ask for him the Kingdom also;] He gently reprehends her Ignorance: For it is as if he had said, Do you call this a small Petition? You had as good ask the Kingdom for him.

(For he is my elder Brother)] And hath that Pretence to the Kingdom: Unto which he would add this.

Even for him, and for Abiathar the Priest, and for Joab the Son of Zeruiah.] Who were all in this Plot. So the Hebrew Words, in the Opinion of Lud. de Dieu, are better rendered by the Chaldee Paraphrast, than by any other Interpreter. Was not he, and Abiathar, and Joab in this Counsel? The LXX more plainly, with him are Abiathar the Priest, and Joab the chief Commander of the Army: That is, they are his Complices, and have laid their heads together to give him this Counsel.

Ver. 23. And King Solomon sware by the LORD, saying, God do so to me, and more also, if Adonijah have not spoken this Word] Made this Request, which he knew came originally from him.

Against his own Life.] For he looked upon it as a treasonable Design, to ask David's Wife might become his. For according to the Custom of the Hebrews, no Man who had been the Servant of the King, might serve any other Master; nor might any Man ride upon the King's Horse; nor sit on his Throne, nor use his Scepter: As they say in the Title Sanhedrin, Cap. 2. Sect. 2, 5. Much less might any private Person marry the King's Widow: who belonged only to his Successor. Therefore God gave David all the Wives of Saul, 2 Sam. xii. 8. All which the Gemara upon that Place (Cap. 2. Sect. 14.) applies unto this History of Adonijah; whose Desire to marry the King's Widow (which was not lawful for any private Person) was looked upon as an affecting the Kingdom. So Cocceius glosses upon that Place. And indeed Adonijah seems to have understood well enough, that Abishag was wholly in the power of Solomon; and did not return to her Father's House, after the Death of David: But remained with him in his Possession, as one of those Things that were appropriated to him. Which moved Adonijah (as Abarbinel observes) to desire her of Solomon; and not address himself to her, or to her Relations; but to him, because she belonged to the Crown. See Selden Lib. 1. De Uxor. Hebr. Cap. 10.

Ver. 24. Now therefore, as the LORD liveth, which hath established me in the Throne of my Father, and hath made me an House,] That is, a Royal Family.

As he promised,] In 2 Sam. vii. 12, 13.

Adonijah shall be put to death this day.] He repeats the Oath, to signify it was his unalterable Resolution he should not live; but be put to death, without delay: Which in such Cases is very dangerous.

Ver. 25. And King Solomon sent by the Hand of Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, and he fell upon him that he died.] For such Executions were there done not by mean Persons, but by Men of Eminence: Who at the King's Command cut off Offenders. See Judges viii. 20.

Ver. 26. And unto Abiathar the Priest the King said, Get thee to Anathoth, thine own field,] This was a City of the Priests (Josh. xxi. 18.) Where he commanded him to lead a private Life: Either in that Part of the Suburbs, which fell to his share; or in some Land which he had purchased, as Jeremiah afterwards did, Jerem. xxxii. 6, 7, 8.

For thou art worthy of Death: But at this time I will not put thee to death,] He seems now only to reprieve him; that he might keep him upon his good Behaviour; for if hereafter he gave just Cause, he might put him to death, as well as now put him out of his Office.

Because thou barest the Ark of the LORD God before David my Father,] He was faithful to him in the Rebellion of Absalom: When he brought the Ark from Jerusalem to accompany him, 2 Sam. xv. 24, 29.

And because thou hast been afflicted in all wherein my Father was afflicted.] Underwent all the Hardships that David endured, all the Time of his Exile under Saul, 1 Sam. xxii. 20, 21, &c.

Ver. 27. So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being Priest unto the LORD, that he might fulfil the word of the LORD, which he spake concerning the House of Eli in Shiloh.] Which might partly move Solomon to deprive him. See 1 Sam. ii. 31, &c.

Ver. 28. Then tidings came to Joab,] That Adonijah was put to death, and Abiathar banished.

(For Joab had turned after Adonijah, though he had not turned after Absalom)] The Reason of which, Abarbinel thinks, was, because Solomon was very young, and not fit, he thought, to manage publick Affairs: And his Mother also had a Blot upon her.

And Joab fled unto the Tabernacle of the LORD,] Which was at Gibeon. See the foregoing Chapter, ver. 51. This makes it appear that Joab had a hand in the Counsel before mentioned, ver. 22. as Solomon suspected.

And caught hold on the Horns of the Altar.] Which were four, at each Corner thereof: In Height, as the Jews say, five Hand-breadths; that is, a common Cubit. Here he thought to save himself, according to the Custom of all Nations, who fled to their Altars, when they were guilty of any great Crime, and were in great Danger. But Jewish Doctors say, Joab was mistaken in two Things. First, in fancying there was Security from thence for a wilful Murderer: And Secondly, in that he looked for Safety by taking hold of the Horns of the Altar, whereas the Refuge of the Altar (as Kimchi saith) was on the Top of it only. But I look upon this as frivolous; Rasi's Opinion is better: That as God appointed them Cities of Refuge whither the Man-slayer should flee, when they came into the Land of Canaan, Exod. xxi. 13. so while they were in the Wilderness, the Camp of the Levites served for that purpose. And the following Words, ver. 14. declaring declaring that if a Man committed a preſumptuous Murder, he ſhould be taken from the Altar and put to death: It not only confirms what he ſaith, but intimates, that even in the Land of Canaan the Altar continued a Refuge for thoſe that fled to it. But then this Queſtion ariſes, Why Joab (who, as the Jews fancy, was Preſident of the great Sanhedrin, and underſtood the Law) ſhould think to find Shelter here, being a wilful Murderer. To which the Jews anſwer, that he hoped hereby to ſave his Eſtate, which otherways would have been forfeited. So they ſay in the Gemara Sanhedrin, Cap. 6. N. 7. He hoped to be condemned by the Judgment of the Sanhedrin, and then his Goods would go to his Heirs: Whereas if he was cut off by the King, they would fall to him. See Cocceius there, Annot. 2. Others ſay, he hoped to obtain Burial by this means. But I take theſe to be meer Conceits. It is more probable, that, as Dr. Lightfoot conjectures, he hoped to obtain a Pardon, as Abiathar had done; by conſecrating himſelf to God and to his Service: As he did, he thinks, by this ſolemn Ceremony. For the laying hold of the Altar had a Vow in it for the future, as well as the Hope of preſent Safety. Which may be argued from the Name of the Altar: Which made that which touched it to be holy. See his Treatiſe of the Temple, Chap. 34. Sect. 3.

Ver. 29. And it was told King Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and behold he is by the Altar. Then Solomon ſent Benaiah the Son of Jehoida, ſaying, Go fall upon him.] Which Puniſhment, as Abarbinel obſerves, was not inflicted on him for killing Abner and Amaſa: Though the Remembrance of that innocent Blood which he ſhed moved him not to pardon the Faults he had newly committed: Firſt, in ſetting up Adonijah to be King while his Father was living, which was no better than Rebellion; being done without David's Order: And Secondly, in this new Attempt to pretend to the Kingdom, by adviſing him to beg Abiſhag for his Wife. Solomon did not puniſh him for the former, becauſe he had pardoned Adonijah: And therefore would not be ſevere againſt his Adherents. But he renewing his traitorous Deſigns, he thought fit to cut them both off: And Joab thought he deſerved no leſs, as appears by his flying to the Altar. Which was an Acknowledgment that he was guilty of that Crime which Solomon charged upon him; in being one of the wicked Counſellors of Adonijah: And therefore deſerved to die. Thus he.

Ver. 30. And Benaiah came to the Tabernacle of the LORD, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the King, come forth:] The forenamed Author thinks that Benaiah had a mind to bring him to Solomon, and try to get his Pardon; ſo far as to have him only depoſed from his Office, as Abiathar was.

And he ſaid, Nay, but I will die here.] Which he ſaid, that he might bring Solomon into the People's Hatred, for ſtaining the Houſe of God with Blood.

And Benaiah brought the King word, ſaying, Thus ſaid Joab, and thus he anſwered me.] This Interpreters generally take to be but the Repetition of the ſame Thing in different Words: But Abarbinel takes them for two diſtinct Anſwers of Joab; in which he refuſes to come from the Place where he was; and pronounces the Sentence upon himſelf, and deſires no Pardon. For thoſe Words, thus ſaith Joab, reſpect (he thinks) the Sentence which he pronounced on himſelf, that he would die: And thoſe Words, thus he anſwered, ſignify he would not come from the Altar.

Ver. 31. And Solomon ſaid to Benaiah, Do as he hath ſaid, and fall upon him; and bury him;] Kill him at the very Altar, where he reſolves to die: After which he would not deny him Burial ſuitable to his Quality, ver. 34. But many think, he did not kill him at the very Altar; but dragged him from thence, and then ſlew him. For what Need was there to defile the Holy Place with Blood? And ſo the Command is, Exod. xxi. 14. Though others are of opinion, that Solomon did think fit to have him killed at the very Altar; to let all Men ſee that no Place, though ever ſo Holy, ſhould ſecure any Man from the Hand of Juſtice.

That thou mayeſt take away the innocent Blood which Joab ſhed,] He means the Blood of thoſe two Perſons mentioned in the next Verſe: Whoſe Murder (as I ſaid before) was not the immediate Reaſon of Joab's Death: But the Words of Solomon are to be underſtood (Abarbinel thinks) as if he had ſaid to Benaiah, Do not imagine thou ſhalt offend God, by killing Joab at the very Altar, but rather perform an acceptable Service to him: By cutting off a Man who deſerves to die, not only upon the account of Adonijah; but of the innocent Blood which he ſhed heretofore. So the Buſineſs of Adonijah was the principal Cauſe of his Death: The other only the ſecondary; which he remembers, that he might warrant Benaiah to kill him in the Tabernacle.

From me, and from the Houſe of my Father.] The Crimes of Joab in killing thoſe two Men could not be puniſhed by the Houſe of Judgment, becauſe there were no Witneſſes of that Murder: But David might have done it by ſuch Proofs as ſatisfied him of his Guilt. Yet he omitted it, becauſe Joab was ſo potent in the Army: And ſo Solomon feared the Guilt might ſtick upon his Family if it were not wiped off by this Execution upon Joab.

Ver. 32. And the LORD ſhall return his Blood upon his own Head,] Make him alone bear the Puniſhment of his Iniquity.

Who fell upon two Men more righteous and better than he, and ſlew them with the Sword, my Father not knowing thereof; to wit, Abner the Son of Ner, Captain of the Hoſt of Iſrael, and Amaſa the Son of Jether, Captain of the Hoſt of Judah.] His Crime was the more heinous, becauſe it brought a Suſpicion upon David, as if it had been done by his Order: Which Calumny he laboured to wipe off, by the unfeigned Grief he expreſſed for Abner, 2 Sam. iii. 37.

Ver. 33. Their Blood therefore ſhall return upon the Head of Joab, and upon the Head of his Seed for ever:] Why doth he repeat what he ſaid before? Abarbinel anſwers, it is not a meer Repetition; but Solomon pronounces that the Curſe of David ſhould come upon him: So that Joab's own Death ſhould not not expiate the Guilt; but his Posterity should suffer for it in future Generations, according to what David said, 2 Sam. iii. 28, 29.

But upon David, and upon his Seed, and upon his House, and upon his Throne shall be peace for ever before the LORD.] He prays and propheſies that his Family and Kingdom might never ſuffer upon this Account: NOW that the Sin which had not been puniſhed in David's Life-time, had received a juſt Puniſhment from him.

Ver. 34. So Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and ſlew him;] He is ſaid to go up, becauſe Gibeon, where Joab was at the Tabernacle, was an high Place.

And he was buried] It is not ſaid who took care of his Burial; but it is likely Benaiah. (See ver. 21.) Becauſe Joab was a Man of Dignity, and one of the Royal Family.

In his own Houſe in the Wilderneſs.] He did not bury him in the Houſe, but in ſome Ground belonging to it, and accounted a part of the Habitation: Which was in the Wilderneſs. So they called thoſe Parts of the Country which were but thinly inhabited. And Abarbinel is of Opinion, that here Joab had built an Hoſpital, where he provided in ſeveral Rooms, a Bed, a Table, and a Candleſtick for poor Travellers.

Ver. 35. And the King put Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada in his room over the Hoſt; and Zadok the Prieſt did he put in the room of Abiathar.] It is evident that Zadok was a great Man before this; at leaſt the Vicar of the High-prieſt Abiathar. Who was, as ſome of the Jews fancy, deprived by David himſelf, or ſuſpended from his Office, upon his anointing Adonijah. But no ſuch Anointing is mentioned in the Story of Adonijah: Nay, it is moſt likely (as I before obſerved) that he wanted it: And therefore he remained High-prieſt, 'till now that Solomon removed him, and tranſlated that great Office from the Family of Ithamar to that of Eleazar (according to the Threatning againſt Eli, 1 Sam. ii. 30.) in which it continued 'till the Time of the Captivity; no Notice being taken of Jonathan the Son of Abiathar mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 42. and in 1 Sam. xv. 27. See Selden de Succeſſion. in Pontif. Lib. 1. Cap. 4, 5. and Grotius De Imperio Sum. Poteſtat. Where he obſerves (Cap. 10.) that the Sagan or Vicar of the High-prieſt, had rather a Hope, than a Right to ſucceed in the Office of High-prieſt. For Maimonides ſaith, the Sanhedrin choſe him out of the Family of Aaron; but here it is plain the King diſpoſed of that Office: For otherwiſe it could not be ſaid truly, that Solomon put Zadok in the room of Abiathar; by the ſame authority that he put Benaiah in the room of Joab. Bellarmin indeed, for fear Kings ſhould be thought ſuperior to the High-prieſt, ſaith, Solomon did this not as a King but as a Prophet. Lib. 2. de Pontifico, Cap. 29. But Solomon was not yet a Prophet; and all they who had Royal Authority in the Time of the Macedonians, and Romans, and the Poſterity of Herod, challenged to themſelves this Power of making an High- prieſt: Though they left to the Jews an αὐτονομία (the Government of themſelves by their own Laws) in other things.

Ver. 36. And the King ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him, Build thee an Houſe in Jeruſalem, and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither] It was fit to confine ſuch a turbulent Man as Shimei was; and not ſuffer him to go about whither he pleaſed, throughout the Tribes of Iſrael, where he might ſtir up Sedition. But it was very kind to confine him to ſuch a pleaſant Place as Jeruſalem, and the Suburbs of it: Which made Abarbinel renew his Conceit (from thoſe Words of David, thou haſt with thee Shimei) that Solomon had a great Love to him, and made him his Familiar. But it is more reaſonable to think that Solomon ſuſpected his Fidelity; and therefore would have him always in his eye, in the Royal City.

Ver. 37. For it ſhall be, that on the Day thou goeſt out, and paſſeſt over the Brook Kidron, thou ſhalt know for certain, that thou ſhalt ſurely die:] He mentions the Brook Kidron, becauſe that was in the way to Baharim; where Shimei dwelt: As appears by comparing 2 Sam. xv. 23. with xvi. 5. But Solomon's Intention was, that if he went out of Jeruſalem any way, to a greater Diſtance than Kidron was from thence, he ſhould die for it. For when he went to Gath after his Servants, he went directly the quite contrary Way; that City lying Weſtward of Jeruſalem, as Kidron did Eaſtward.

Thy Blood ſhall be on thine own head.] He ſhould be guilty, and no body elſe, of his Death: For it was in his power to preſerve his Life.

Ver 38. And Shimei ſaid unto the King, The ſaying is good:] He confeſſes the King's Kindneſs in this Injunction; and that he was beholden to him, for laying no greater Burden upon him.

As my Lord the King hath ſaid, ſo will thy Servant do.] Which he confirmed by an Oath, ver. 42. 43.

And Shimei dwelt in Jeruſalem many days.] Three Years, as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 39. And it came to paſs at the end of three Years, that two of Shimei's Servants ran away unto Achiſh the Son of Maachar King of Gath: and they told Shimei, ſaying, Behold, thy ſervants be in Gath.] Achiſh had been ſo great a Friend to David, that though David had conquered the Philiſtines, yet he ſuffered Achiſh ſtill to retain the Title of King, and to be only tributary to him: ſo that there was a friendly Correſpondence between his City and Jeruſalem; where Shimei might eaſily hear, by ſomebody or other, who had been at Gath, that his Servants were there.

Ver. 40. And Shimei aroſe, and ſaddled his Aſs, and went to Gath, to Achiſh, to ſeek his Servants:] In three Years time he thought Solomon might have forgotten his Injunction; or he preſumed he would not hold him ſtrictly to it: eſpecially ſince he did not go from Jeruſalem for his Pleaſure, but to recover what he had loſt; which he thought was pardonable. For theſe Servants, it is likely, were worth a great deal of Money: Wherewith he had purchaſed them.

And Shimei went and brought his Servants from Gath.] Where Achiſh would not protect them: being in Friendſhip with the Iſraelites.

Ver. 41.

Ver. 41. And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jeruſalem to Gath, and was come again.] If Solomon had not conſtant Spies about Shimei, to watch his Motions; yet ſuch a Journey as this could not be well undertaken ſo ſecretly, but ſome or other would obſerve it, and inform againſt him.

Ver. 42. And the King ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him, Did I not make thee ſwear by the LORD, and proteſted unto thee, ſaying, Know for certain, that on the day thou goeſt out, and walkeſt abroad any whither, thou ſhalt ſurely die? and thou ſaidſt unto me, the word that I have heard, is good.] He repeats their Agreement; and only adds that he made Shimei ſolemnly ſwear that he would ſtand to it, and did thankfully accept it.

Ver. 43. Why then haſt thou not kept the Oath of the LORD, and the Commandment that I have charged thee with?] He lay under a double Guilt of breaking his Oath to God, and of diſobeying the King's Command.

Ver. 44. And the King ſaid moreover to Shimei, Thou knoweſt all the wickedneſs that thine heart is privy to, that thou didſt to David my Father:] He knew upon what wicked Principles he curſed David, and what inward Hatred and Malice he had to him: And what villanous Deſigns againſt him, if he could have accompliſhed them.

Therefore the LORD ſhall return thy wickedneſs upon thine own head;] Upon which, if he reflected, he could not but ſee the Juſtice of God, in letting him fall into other Crimes, which deſerved Death.

Ver. 45. And King Solomon ſhall be bleſſed, and the Throne of David ſhall be eſtabliſhed before the LORD for ever.] To which Shimei wiſhed Confuſion: But the LORD turned his Curſes into Bleſſing, as David hoped, 2 Sam. xvi. 12.

Ver. 46. So the King commanded Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, which went out, and fell upon him, that he died:] He went out from the Preſence of the King, and carried Shimei along with him: And then did Execution upon him.

And the Kingdom was eſtabliſhed in the hand of Solomon.] By the Removal of theſe bad Men before mentioned: And by the Alliances he made, mentioned in the next Chapter, &c.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. AND Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh King of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's Daughter,] To be his Wife. Which was not unlawful, if ſhe was firſt made a Proſelyte to the Jewiſh Religion; as in all probability ſhe was. For though his Wives drew him in to worſhip ſtrange Gods; yet the Gods of the Egyptians are not reckoned among them, xi. 5, 6, &c. which is a Sign ſhe was not a Worſhipper of other Gods. Hitherto alſo Solomon loved the LORD, as it is ſaid, ver. 3. and was beloved of him, as his appearing to him in Gibeon ſhews, ver. 5.

And brought her into the City of David,] Unto his Palace at Jeruſalem: Which was after he had begun to build the Temple, as they ſay, in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 15.

Until he had made an end of building his own Houſe, and the Houſe of the LORD,] After which he built an Houſe on purpoſe for this Wife to dwell in, ix. 24. 2 Chron. viii. 11. But firſt he built God's Houſe, then his own, and then the Walls of Jeruſalem.

And the Wall of Jeruſalem round about.] If David incompaſſed it with a Wall, as ſome think is ſignified, 2 Sam. v. 9. Solomon made another Wall, and thereby made it ſtronger than David left it. Or elſe, he repaired the Wall which David had built and raiſed it higher.

Ver. 2. Only the People ſacrificed in high Places, becauſe there was no Houſe built unto the name of the LORD, until thoſe days.] This is a ſhort Account of the Happineſs of Solomon's Reign hitherto, that there was nothing in it blameable, but only the People's ſacrificing in high Places. Which having been ancient Places of Worſhip (in Groves or Woods, on the top of Hills) the People continued to reſort thither, to perform that Worſhip which God had appointed. So that there was no fault in the Worſhip it ſelf, but only in the Place of it. And he gives the Reaſon why the People took this Liberty, becauſe there was not an Houſe built, to be a ſettled Place for Worſhip: The Tabernacle alſo had been removed from Place to Place a long Time; and was not fixed 'till it came to Jeruſalem. Concerning high Places, ſee upon Deut. xii. 2. Cornel. Bertram indeed fetches the Original of them from the Cities of the Levites, where they kept Schools, and had Places for Prayer: And where he thinks the People at laſt ſacrificed in the higheſt part of the City: De Repub. Judaica, Cap. 15. But this Cuſtom ſeems, more likely, to have been derived from the ancient Patriarchs, and was imitated by the Gentiles as well as Jews.

Ver. 3. And Solomon loved the LORD, walking in all the Statutes of David his Father:] Following his Directions, who commanded him carefully to obſerve all God's Laws, ii. 2, 3.

Only he ſacrificed and burnt incenſe in high Places.] Which David his Father had never done (as far as appears by his Hiſtory) which renders Solomon's Fault the greater, in following the common Practice of all the Nations, rather than the Example of his pious Father.

Ver. 4. And the King went to Gibeon to ſacrifice there; for that was a great high Place:] Becauſe the Tabernacle was there, and the great Brazen Altar which Moſes made. For after Shiloh was deſtroyed, it was carried to Nob: And the Prieſts being there ſlain by Saul, it was carried to Gibeon, 2 Chron. i. 3. Where the Jews ſay, there was the greateſt Synagogue in all the Land.

A thouſand Burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that Altar.] It is not eaſy to apprehend how ſo many Sacrifices ſhould be conſumed upon an Altar, which was but five Cubits ſquare: For I ſuppoſe he ſpeaks of Moſes his Altar, which was of no larger Dimenſions. But Kimchi hath well obſerved, that we muſt not fancy they were all offered upon one Day: But during the Time he ſtayed at Gibeon before he returned to Jeruſalem. Yet if we ſuppoſe this was at ſome of the great Feſtivals, none of which laſted above ſeven Days, it muſt be acknowledged a wonderful thing, that ſo many ſhould be conſumed, ſumed, though offered both at Morning and Evening Sacrifice. The Jews therefore do acknowledge a Miracle herein, as there were many, they ſay, continually at the Temple: Which are diſbelieved, becauſe the Jews are accounted fabulous Writers: But if well conſidered, ſome of them at leaſt carry good Reaſon in them. For Inſtance, they ſay the Smoak of the Sacrifices went always directly up to Heaven in a ſteady Pillar, and was not blown about with every Puff of Wind, as Smoak commonly is. For if it had not been ſo, when there was a vaſt Number of Sacrifices offered, no Man would have been able to ſtand in the Court of the LORD's Houſe: The Fire alſo upon the Altar was exceeding quick and devouring, being Cœleſtial Fire, which diſpatched the Sacrifice ſooner than ordinary Fire would have done: So Dr Lightfoot obſerves in his Treatiſe of the Temple, Cap. 34. Sect. 1. From whence it was called Ariel, the Lion of God, becauſe it was ſo devouring. And therefore after the Return from their Captivity from Babylon (as L'Empereur obſerves out of the Gemara) the Altar was made larger; becauſe the Fire burnt more ſlowly, when they wanted that Heavenly Flame, which was ſtrong and powerful. Annot. in Cod. Middeſh. Cap. 1. Sect. 1. pag. 103.

Ver. 5. In Gibeon God appeared to Solomon in a dream by night:] Perhaps he thought he ſaw the Divine Glory ſhine round about him: Or elſe the Meaning is, God revealed himſelf in a Dream, as the Targum here expreſſes it, the LORD was revealed to Solomon by Night. When Men have often ſeen that repreſented to them, which they found true when they were awake. As Tully ſhews by many Inſtances; eſpecially out of Ariſtotle's famous Story of the two Men that travelled together to Megara: One of which being killed in his Inn, the other, who lay in a Friend's Houſe, had all the Fact repreſented clearly and diſtinctly to him, in his Dream, as if he had ſeen it done; ſo that he found out the Murderers in the Morning. See Lib. 1. De Divinatione, Cap. 24, 25, 26, &c.

And God ſaid, Ask what I ſhall give thee.] He heard a Voice ſpeaking to him, and bidding him aſk what he deſired, and it ſhould be beſtowed upon him. This Voice he took to be from God (as appears by his Anſwer) who herein ſhewed himſelf very gracious to Solomon, and alſo made a Trial of his Inclinations.

Ver. 6. And Solomon ſaid, Thou haſt ſhewn unto David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth and righteouſneſs, and in uprightneſs of heart with thee; and thou haſt kept for him this great kindneſs, that thou haſt given him a ſon to ſit upon his throne, as at this day.] Thankful Acknowledgments of Mercies already received (as St Chryſoſtome notes) invite new Bleſſings to be beſtowed upon us. Uprightneſs of heart, here aſcribed to David, doth not ſignify that he was without Fault (for the contrary is evident, that he was guilty of great Tranſgreſſions againſt the Moral Law) but it is ſpoken in Oppoſition to Saul, who was rejected for controuling the Orders of God.

Ver. 7. And now, O LORD my God, thou haſt made thy ſervant king, inſtead of David my father; and I am but a little child: I know not how to go out, or how to come in.] There are thoſe, particularly Raſi, who think he was but twelve Years old when he ſpake theſe Words; and therefore calls himſelf Naar a Child. But Abarbinel hath ſhewn that they ground this upon an uncertain Computation: And that if he was but a Child of twelve Years old now, he muſt have begun to reign when he was but ſeven or eight Years old: For he had ſat ſome Time upon the Throne, as appears by the foregoing Story, when he had this Dream. And his Father calls him a wiſe Man when he left the Throne to him, Chap. ii. 6, 9. And from many other ſtrong Arguments he concludes him to have been at leaſt Twenty Years old when he began to reign; and therefore calls himſelf here a Child, with Reſpect only to his Skill in managing publick Affairs; as is ſignified in the laſt Words, I know not how to go out, &c. i. e. to govern ſo great a People, for want of Experience. Thus Benjamin is called a Child, Gen. xlvi. 20. and Moſes calls Joſhua by the ſame Name (Exod. xxxii. 10.) though they were above Thirty Years old. And the Sons of Eli, when they miniſtred as Prieſts, 1 Sam. ii. 17.

Ver. 8. And thy ſervant is in the midſt of thy people which thou haſt choſen; a great people, that cannot be numbred or counted for multitude.] And conſequently great Abilities were required to do exact Juſtice to them all.

Ver. 9. Give therefore thy ſervant an underſtanding heart, to judge thy people, that I may diſcern between good and bad: for who is able to judge ſo great a people?] That is, without the Divine Guidance and Aſſiſtance, he thought it impoſſible to underſtand what was Law in all Caſes; ſo as dexterouſly to diſpatch Buſineſs, and decide all Differences. For young Men, as Ariſtotle obſerves, are unfit for Government; becauſe in them, τὸ βελευτικὸν ἀτελὲς, their conſultive Power is very imperfect, as he ſpeaks in the firſt Book of his Politicks, Cap. 7. And therefore in his Book ad Nichomachum, he will not ſo much as admit a young Man to the Lectures of Politicks; τῆς πολιτικῆς ἐκ εἴην ἀκροατὴς οἰκεῖος ὁ νεός. But this is not univerſally true, as we ſee not only in the Example of Solomon, who was extraordinarily accompliſhed by God in his Youth for the greateſt Things: But by ſome Examples among the Heathen, of young Men who managed the weightieſt Affairs with as much Prudence as they who were of the greateſt Experience. Witneſs Scipio, and Octavianus Auguſtus. But ſuch Perſons were rarely found: So that Solomon himſelf ſaith, Wo to the land whoſe king is a child, Eccleſ. x. 16.

Ver. 10. And the ſpeech pleaſed the LORD, that Solomon had asked this thing.] For it was a Token of a virtuous Mind, and a publick Spirit: That deſired above all Things the Honour of God, and the Good of his People.

Ver. 11. And God ſaid unto him, Becauſe thou haſt asked this thing, and haſt not asked for thy ſelf long life, neither haſt asked riches for thy ſelf, nor haſt asked the life of thine enemies,] Which are Things of which Men are naturally moſt deſirous.

But haſt asked for thy ſelf underſtanding to diſcern judgment;] As far tranſcending long Life, Wealth, and Victory over Enemies.

Ver. 12. Behold, I have done according to thy words: Lo, I have given thee a wiſe and underſtanding heart, ſo that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee ſhall any ariſe like unto thee.] For other wiſe Men gather their Knowledge by Study, and Obſervation, and other Helps (as Aberbinel here notes) but Solomon had his by Inſpiration: So that he went to Bed an ignorant Man, but awaked in the Morning like an Angel of God. At once, as his Words are, he who was like other Men, was made like the Son of God. For he had not only the Skill of Government imparted to him; but a general Knowledge of all other things, as the following Hiſtory tells us. Whence he fancies he calls himſelf Agur, Prov. xxx. 1. becauſe in him there was a Collection of all manner of Wiſdom and Knowledge, and this imparted from God. Which is the Reaſon, he imagines, why he does not call himſelf Oger, which is an active Word, but Agur, which is a paſſive: Becauſe he did not gather all his Wiſdom himſelf, but it was given him from the Hand of God.

Ver. 13. And I have alſo given thee that which thou haſt not asked, both riches and honour:] Theſe are abſolutely promiſed him: But here is no mention of long Life; for that depended upon the Condition of his ſtedfaſt Obedience to God, as it follows in the next Verſe.

So that there ſhall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days.] He promiſes he ſhould excel all the Kings that were in his Time, in Riches and Renown: Though there were richer in future Ages, as Alexander and others were.

Ver. 14. If thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my ſtatutes and commandments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.] This God himſelf mentions, in the firſt Place, (ver. 11.) as the greateſt Worldly Bleſſing; eſpecially when accompanied with great Riches and Honour: Which Solomon was not to expect, unleſs he continued obedient to God.

Ver. 15. And Solomon awoke, and behold, it was a dream:] He ſaw and heard all the foregoing things ſo clearly and diſtinctly in his Sleep, as if he had been awake; and did not know 'till he awoke, that all was done in a Dream; which was one Way of God's revealing himſelf to his Prophets. But Maimonides I think is here a little too curious; for from theſe Words, Behold it was a dream, he concludes this was an inferior Degree of Prophecy from what others had in Dreams. For they that propheſied in Dreams, do not call it afterwards a Dream; but ſimply ſay, it was a Prophecy. So when the Patriarch Jacob awoke out of a Dream of Prophecy, he did not ſay it was a Dream, but ſaith abſolutely, Surely God is in this place, &c. Gen. xxviii. 16. More Nevoch. Lib. 2. Cap. 45.

And he came to Jeruſalem, and ſtood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD,] Which was there in a Tabernacle which David pitched for it (2 Sam. v. 17.) though the Tabernacle which Moſes made remained at Gibeon; where Solomon had been to worſhip.

And offered burnt-offerings, and offered peace-offerings,] Giving Thanks to God, that he had been pleaſed to ſpeak with him, and reveal himſelf to him.

And made a feaſt for all his ſervants.] Upon the Sacrifices of Peace-Offerings it is likely, which he had offered: Whereby he endeared himſelf unto them. For nothing more wins Mens Affection than Bounty, Affability, Clemency, and ſuch like Virtues.

Ver. 16. Then came two women that were harlots, unto the king,] They kept an Houſe of publick Entertainment, as the Targum tranſlates it, and perhaps were alſo common Women: But then, the Jews ſuppoſe they were not Iſraelites, but Strangers; and ſo not comprehended in the Law, Deut. xxiii. 17.

And ſtood before the king.] As they uſed to do, who brought any Cauſe before a Court to be judged.

Ver. 17. And the one woman ſaid, O my Lord, I and this woman dwell in one houſe, and I was delivered of a ſon with her in the houſe.] This Caſe, as Abarbinel thinks, ſhould have been firſt brought into ſome of the inferior Courts, near the Place where they lived; and if they could not have determined it, then to the great Sanhedrin: And if they found it too hard for them, then they ſhould have brought it to the King: Who otherwiſe might have eaſily erred, no Inquiſition having been made into the matter, if a Divine Spirit had not directed him. But this Opinion of Abarbinel is grounded on another Fancy, that there was a great Sanhedrin in theſe Days, which cannot be proved.

Ver. 18. And it came to paſs that the third day after I was delivered, that this woman was delivered alſo:] Of another Son: Which being born ſo ſoon after the other, they could not be diſtinguiſhed by their Age.

And we were together; there was no ſtranger with us in the houſe, ſave we two in the houſe.] So that there was no Witneſs of what paſſed between them; but all relied on their own Credit: Which made the Caſe more difficult.

Ver. 19. And this woman's child died in the night; becauſe ſhe overlaid it.] Some Marks upon the Body, it is likely, diſcovered, that it was ſmothered: And Kimchi here notes, that if it had died of a Diſeaſe, it would have cried, and the Neighbours been called in, and the thing been known.

Ver. 20. And ſhe roſe at midnight, and took my ſon from beſide me, while thy handmaid ſlept, and laid it in her boſom, and laid her dead child in my boſom.] This made the Matter obſcure: For how ſhould ſhe know what her Companion did, when ſhe was aſleep?

Ver. 21. And when I aroſe in the morning to give my child ſuck, behold it was dead: but when I had conſidered in the morning,] When it was perfect Day; which it was not when ſhe aroſe to ſuckle the Child.

Behold, it was not not my ſon which I did bear.] There was ſome Reſemblance, it is likely, in the Features of the two Children; ſo that the Neighbours did not know the one from the other: But the Mother, who had carefully obſerved it, knew by ſome Tokens that this dead Child was none of her's.

Ver. 22. And the other woman ſaid, Nay; but the living is my ſon, and the dead is thy ſon: and this ſaid, No; but the dead is thy ſon, and the living is mine. Thus they ſpake before the king.]

One affirming what the other denied; but having no Evidence to make Proof of what they ſaid.

Ver. 23 Then ſaid the king, The one ſaith this is my ſon that liveth, and thy ſon is the dead: and the other ſaith, Nay, but thy ſon is the dead, and my ſon is the living.] From hence the Jews argue, that the Judges before they pronounced Sentence, were bound to ſum up the Evidence that had been given on both Sides: That it might be ſeen they had obſerved and underſtood their Allegations, and accordingly gave Judgment. For thus Solomon doth in this Caſe, where there was no more than he repeated; there being no Witneſſes on either Side.

Ver. 24. And the king ſaid, Bring me a ſword: and they brought a ſword to him.] As much as to ſay, here is nothing but affirming on one Part, and denying on the other, without any Proof: I muſt therefore try ſome other Way to decide this Controverſy.

Ver. 25. And the king ſaid, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.] For both pretended to it, and this he thought the beſt Way to end the Diſpute. For he knew the Woman, whoſe the Child really was, would be moved with ſuch tender Compaſſion to it, that ſhe would never ſuffer it to be divided: And ſo he ſhould diſcover the true Mother. Thus Interpreters commonly expound it. But Abarbinel thinks this would have been no extraordinary Proof of Solomon's Wiſdom above other Mens; nor have begot ſuch a Fear in the Iſraelites as this Judgment did. Therefore he thinks Solomon made a Diſcovery of the Truth, antecedent to this Experiment; by obſerving the Countenance, the manner of Speech, and all the Motions of the Women, whereby he diſcerned the Secrets of their Hearts, and penetrated to the Bottom of the Buſineſs; which this Command to divide the Child diſcovered to all.

Ver. 26. Then ſpake the woman whoſe the living child was, unto the king (for her bowels yearned upon her child) and ſhe ſaid, O my Lord, give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it: but the other ſaid, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.] Natural Affection clearly diſcovered the Truth, without any other Evidence.

Ver. 27. Then the king ſaid, Give her the child, and in no wiſe ſlay it: for ſhe is the mother of it.] As appeared by the Pity which her Love excited to it.

Ver. 28. And all Iſrael heard of the judgment which the king had judged, and they feared the king,] Very much reverenced, and ſtood in Awe of him.

For they ſaw that the wiſdom of God was in him, to do judgment:] That is, ſaith Abarbinel, the Wiſdom proper to God; which ſearches the Reins, and trieth the Hearts. Therefore they feared him, perſwading themſelves, they could not have a Thought of any evil Deſign againſt him, which he would not diſcover.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. SO king Solomon was king over all Iſrael.] Reigned with the full Conſent of all the Tribes of Iſrael.

Ver. 2. And theſe are the princes which he had,] The principal Officers imployed under him.

Azariah the ſon of Zadok the prieſt:] He was the Son of Ahimaaz the Son of Zadok; and therefore was Zadok's Grandſon, 1 Chron. vi. 8, 9. But ſuch are uſually called Sons in Scripture, as Raſi obſerves upon Gen. xx. 12. And Zadok, it is probable, in his old Age, bred him up in his Houſe, as his Child. It is not ſaid here what Office he had, unleſs we tranſlate the Word Prieſt, as we do in the Margin, chief Officer, or prime Miniſter of State. But this Abarbinel thinks is a Miſtake, and he takes him to have been one of the Scribes, together with thoſe two that follow in the next Words, Elihoreph, and Ahiah. For thus he thinks the Words ſhould be tranſlated, Azariah the ſon of Zadok the prieſt, and Elihoreph, and Ahiah the ſon of Shiſha were ſcribes; there wanting a Vau before Elihoreph, as is frequent in Scripture, Exod. i. 1, 2. And theſe three Secretaries had each their ſeveral Employments. One, he thinks, was in Matters of Judgment, the other in the Revenue, and the third was concerned in writing Annals, keeping the Records, and a publick Regiſter.

Ver. 3. Elihoreph and Ahiah, the ſons of Shiſha, ſcribes: Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud, the recorder.] Or Maſter of Requeſts. So Raſi underſtands the Word Hammasker: One that heard all Mens Cauſes, and brought them before the King.

Ver. 4. And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada was over the hoſt: and Zadok and Abiathar were the prieſts.] That is, the Principal, or High Prieſts. Kimchi thinks this was not that Abiathar whom Solomon ejected, and placed Zadok in his Room (ii. 35.) but another of that Name. But Ralbag takes him to be the ſame that was thruſt out of the Prieſthood; yet ſuffered to miniſter, when Zadok was not well, or could not attend: And Abarbinel approves of this Opinion. Or, perhaps, Solomon permitted him, upon his Petition, to come to Jeruſalem, not to officiate as High-prieſt, but to live upon the Altar (according to the Prediction, 1 Sam. ii. 36.) and he retained the Name and Title of High-prieſt, though Zadok only enjoyed the Office. L'Empereur thinks he is here joined with Zadok, becauſe in the Beginning of Solomon's Reign he did diſcharge the Office of High-prieſt: And after he was depoſed he retained the Title of that Dignity as long as he lived, becauſe of his precedent Function. Annot. upon Bertram de Rep. Jud. p. 420.

V. 5. And Azariah the ſon of Nathan was over the Officers:] That is, the twelve Officers mentioned below, ver. 7, 8, &c. who gave Accounts unto him, who was their Overſeer.

And Zabud the ſon of Nathan was principal officer, and the king's friend.] The Word Cohen ſignifies here, as it doth 2 Sam. viii. 18. Miniſter of ſtate, among whom Zabud was the chief: One whom the King intruſted with the Management of all Affairs, and with his moſt ſecret Counſels; he being always with him, as Abarbinel obſerves. Dr Hammond notes upon St Matthew ix. Annot. 2. that the King's Friend was an Officer of Nearneſs to the King: As Mr Selden obſerved before him in his Uxor. Hebr. Lib. 2. Chap 16. p. 201, 202. For Nathan having bred up Solomon (ſee 2 Sam. xii. 25.) it was eaſy for him to get his Sons preferred by him to the higheſt Dignities under him, when he came to be King: Eſpecially ſince he was very inſtrumental in placing him upon the Throne.

Ver. 6. And Abiſhar was over the houſhold:] Lord High Chamberlain (as we ſpeak in our Language) who took in, and diſplaced Officers in the Family.

And Adoniram the ſon of Abda was over the tribute.] Which was impoſed on the People, for the Support of the Goverment. Such Contributions were raiſed ſeveral Ways in ſeveral Kingdoms: But good and wiſe Princes took Care not to lay Burdens on ſuch things as were neceſſary for the Livelihood of the Poor; and that they were not too heavy upon any thing: As Solomon's were, if the Peoples Complaints were juſt, after his Death: But perhaps this Word Tribute, which we tranſlate levy in the Margin, may refer not to the levying of Money, but of Men. Concerning which we read in the next Chapter, ver. 13, 14. where Adoniram is ſaid to be over the Levy: And ſo he might be over both, of Men and Money.

Ver. 7. And Solomon had twelve officers over all Iſrael, which provided victuals for the king and his houſhold: Each man in his month made proviſion.] The Country being divided into twelve Parts, there were ſo many Perſons (called Nitzavium, becauſe there they were placed) conſtituted to buy Proviſions for the King and his Family; at the beſt Hand, and every thing in its proper Seaſon: To be ſent to the Place where the King reſided, by every one in his Month. By which means there was great Plenty for all that belonged to the Court; both for his Houſe, and his Stables of Horſes; for Domeſticks, and for all Foreigners that came thither about Buſineſs, or to hear his Wiſdom: Who were there entertained without any Grievance to his People.

Ver. 8. And theſe are their names: The ſon of Hur,] He tells only the Name of the Father, who it ſeems was more illuſtrious than the Son: Unleſs we tranſlate theſe Words, Ben-hur.

In Mount Ephraim.] And the Territory belonging to it: Which muſt be underſtood of the reſt of the Places mentioned in the following Verſes.

Ver. 9. The ſon of Dekar,] Or Ben-Dekar, as thoſe that follow may be tranſlated: Though it is probable, as I ſaid before, that the Fathers are named, not the Sons; becauſe they were very illuſtrious Perſons, and better known: Who managed perhaps this Affair by their Sons.

In Makaz, and in Shaalbim, and Bethſhemeſh, and Elon-beth-hanan.] It is not material in what Country theſe places were; and therefore I ſhall not enquire after them.

Ver. 10. The ſon of Heſed, in Aruboth: To him pertained Sochoh, and all the land of Hepher.] There were more Sochohs than one, as we find Joſh. vi. 35, 48. It is uncertain which are here meant. The Land of Hepher poſſibly may be the Portion given to the Daughters of Hepher, Joſh. xvii. 3, &c.

Ver. 11. The ſon of Abinadab, in all the region of Dor, which had Taphath the daughter of Solomon to wife.] Solomon had no Daughters marriageable when theſe Officers were made: But in Proceſs of Time this Man, and Ahimaaz mentioned ver. 15. had behaved themſelves ſo well in their Office, that Solomon did them the Honour to give them two of his Daughters to be their Wives.

Ver. 12. Baanah the ſon of Ahilud, to him pertained Taanach and Megiddo, and all Bethſhean, which is by Zartanah beneath Jezreel, from Bethſhean to Abel-meholah, even unto the place that is beyond Jockneam,] Theſe Places have been named in the foregoing Books: Where I have noted as much as I can find about them. Here the Author names the Perſon himſelf that was employed (as he doth in ſome of the following Verſes) and not meerly the Father. The Reaſon of which I cannot give, unleſs it were that he was a very noted Perſon.

Ver. 13. The ſon of Geber in Ramoth-Gilead: to him pertained the towns of Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh, which are in Gilead: to him alſo pertained the region of Argob, which is in Baſhan, threeſcore great cities with walls, and brazen bars.] Theſe Countries beyond Jordan are alſo well known, being often mentioned in the foregoing Books.

Ver. 14. Ahinadab the ſon of Iddo had Mahanaim.] And the Territory belonging to it, which was very fertile: But this ſeems to ſome not to bear proportion to the reſt, being not a twelfth Part of the whole Country. Therefore they follow the marginal Tranſlation to Mahanaim: That is, all the Territory from the Places before-named unto this Place.

Ver. 15 Ahimaaz was in Naphthali; he alſo took Baſmath the daughter of Solomon to wife.] As Ahinadab had married another of his Daughters, ſee ver. 11.

Ver. 16. Baanah the ſon of Huſhai was in Aſher and in Aloth.] This Man perhaps was the Son of Huſhai the Friend of David; and therefore preferred by Solomon.

Ver. 17. Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Parvah in Iſſachar.] It appears by this, and the foregoing and following Verſe, that ſome of theſe Officers had whole Tribes aſſigned them for their Province.

Ver. 18. Shimei the ſon of Elah in Benjamin.] Concerning this Perſon, ſee Chap. i. ver. 8.

Ver. 19. Gebar the ſon of Uri was in the country of Gilead, in the country of Sihon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Baſhan;] That is, in the reſt of the Country of Gilead before mentioned, ver. 13.

And he was the only officer which was in the land.] There is nothing in the Hebrew anſwering to thoſe Words he was: Therefore this doth not relate to the Officer before mentioned; but the Meaning is, as Abarbinel expounds it, that beſides all thoſe Officers before named, there was another who took Care of Strangers, who were going to Court, or coming from it: As the other twelve took Care of his Family, and all belonging to it. This Officer made Proviſion in that Country where the King then dwelt; and therefore is not named, becauſe he was not fixed and ſettled in his Office, as the other were; but choſen by the Citizens of that City, where the King reſided.

Ver. 20. And Judah and Iſrael were many, as the ſand which is by the ſea in multitude,] The

ſame

ſame Abarbinel thinks this and the next Verſes explain the Reaſon why this Officer was appointed: Firſt, becauſe Iſrael and Judah were ſo great a People; and Secondly, becauſe Strangers came from ſeveral Regions, to bring Preſents, or about other Buſineſs. And therefore it was neceſſary this Officer ſhould ſet a reaſonable Price upon all things ſold in the Market; that they might not exact upon any body, when they ſaw a Multitude of Buyers, which might tempt them to ſell their Commodities too dear.

Eating and drinking, and making merry.] In perfect Security; and being well pleaſed and highly ſatisfied.

Ver. 21. And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms, from the river to the land of the Philiſtines, and unto the border of Egypt:] The Bounds of his Kingdom were Euphrates on the Eaſt, the Country of the Philiſtines on the Weſt, and Egypt on the South. For ſo God promiſed that their Dominion ſhould be extended, from the river of Egypt to the great river, the river Euphrates, Gen. xv. 18. And accordingly David conquered ſo far, and Solomon maintained his Conqueſts.

They brought preſents, and ſerved Solomon all the days of his life.] This explains what went before: Which is not to be underſtood as if all thoſe Countries had no other King than Solomon; but that their Kings were Tributaries to him, and made him Preſents in token of their Subjection.

Ver. 22. And Solomon's proviſion for one day, was thirty meaſures of fine flour, and ſixty meaſures of meal,] By Meal is meant a coarſer ſort of Flour for inferior Servants: And the Meaſure here ſpoken of contained ten Ephahs. So here was Bread enough provided for near three thouſand Perſons, as ſome compute it.

Ver. 23. Ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the paſtures, and an hundred ſheep,] This and the foregoing Verſe Abarbinel thinks is added, to ſatisfy ſome Queſtions that ariſe about the Conſtitution of ſo many Officers: For why might he not be ſupplied out of the Neighbouring Cities and Towns? Which he ſhews here could not be; becauſe of the vaſt Quantity of Proviſion which was neceſſary for one Day. And it is obſervable, that Oxen are here mentioned in the firſt Place (both thoſe fatted at Home, and thoſe fatted in the Paſtures) being anciently eſteemed the moſt noble Meat: As appears by Homer's Heroes. Who, as Dioſcorides notes, never had any thing in their Feaſts, no not at Marriages, but fat Oxen. See Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 1 Lib. 2. Cap. 32. where he mentions the great Entertainments made by Agamemnon, Menelaus, Neſtor, Alcinous. Nor did they that courted Penelope, though the moſt voluptuous of all Men, eat any other Meat.

Beſides harts, and roe-bucks, and fallow deer,] Which were Meats highly eſteemed among the Jews, and mentioned next to the foregoing, Deut. xiv. 4, 5.

And fatted fowl.] Many reſtrain the Word Barburim to Birds, or Fowl, as we do: And ſome think they were Capons: Kimchi and others ſay, fatted Fowl out of Barbary; from whence they had the Name of Barburim. But the Name of Barbary was not known in Solomon's Time: And therefore Bochart thinks the Word ſhould be tranſlated, the choiceſt of all fatted things, Hieroz. P. 2. Lib. 1. Cap. 19. and ſo Gouſſet in his late Commentaries of the Hebrew Tongue.

Ver. 24. And he had dominion over all the regions on this ſide the river,] It might be objected to what was ſaid before, that all the Country of Iſrael could not afford ſuch a conſtant Supply of Proviſions: Which he prevents by this Obſervation, that his Dominion extended to a great many other Regions, from whence they might be furniſhed with more than his own Country afforded.

From Tiphſah even unto Azzah, over all the kings on this ſide the river:] This is an Explication of what is ſaid ver. 21. that he reigned from the River, that is Euphrates, to the Land of the Philiſtines: For Tiphſah is the ſame with the City Tapſaeus; where there was a Bridge, and a Ferry over Euphrates, as Strabo teſtifies in many Places (ſee Lib. 16. p. 747.) and the very Name implies as much, for פסח is tranſire, to paſs over, in the Hebrew Language.

And he had peace on all ſides round about him.] None of his Neighbours gave him any Diſturbance: So that the Iſraelites had nothing to divert them (as Abarbinel obſerves) from improving their Lands, and increaſing their Rents; whereby there was a greater Plenty of all things. Machiavel magnifies thoſe who by Force of Arms atchieved mighty things, and raiſed themſelves to a great Height of Glory: But Hermannus Conringius well corrects him with this Obſervation, that Solomon among the Jews, and Numa Pompilius among the Romans, got a more laſting Name in all future Age by the Art of Peace. For which he refers to Cicero, L. 2. de Officiis.

Ver. 25. And Judah and Iſrael dwelt ſafely, every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree, from Dan even to Beerſheba,] This he ſaith (the ſame Author thinks) to ſhew the great Plenty of Corn and Wine and Oil, as well as of Cattle and all other things: Vines and Fig-trees are particularly mentioned; becauſe they were planted in Judæa more than any other Trees: For the Sweetneſs of their Fruit, and the Benefits of their Shade.

All the days of Solomon.] That is, 'till the End of his Life. When ſome Adverſaries were ſtirred up againſt him: But for ſo ſhort a Time, in his old Age, that he had Peace the far greater part of his Reign, 1 Chron. xxii. 9.

Ver. 26. And Solomon had forty thouſand ſtalls of horſes for his chariots,] In 2 Chron. ix. 25. it is ſaid he had but four thouſand. But there is no Diſagreement between theſe two Places: For he ſpeaks here of his Horſes, and there of their Stall or Stables; there being ten in every Stable, which make forty thouſand, as Abarbinel obſerves. But this doth not ſatisfy Bochartus, who rather inclines to Jacobus Capellus's Opinion, that the Hebrew Word Arbaim here ſignifies four not forty, Hierozoicon, Lib. 2. Pars 1. p. 155, &c. But this is without Example, therefore others think that in the Chronicles the Author ſpeaks of thoſe Stalls for Horſes which he had in Jeruſalem for his conſtant Guard, which were but four thouſand: Whereas here he ſpeaks of thoſe which were diſperſed throughout his whole Kingdom.

And twelve thouſand horſemen.] Which were diſtributed, it is likely, in every Tribe; to keep them in Peace, and to be ready to oppoſe any Enemy that might invade them: Wherein Abarbinel thinks that Solomon did not offend againſt the Law in Deuteronomy, which commanded them not to multiply Horſes (xvii. 16.) becauſe he did it not out of Pride and Vanity; but to preſerve Peace, by keeping all his Neighbours in Awe. And he profeſſes not to truſt in them, Prov. xxi. 31.

Ver. 27. Theſe officers provided victuals for king Solomon, and for all that came to king Solomon's table, every man in his month: they lacked nothing.] This is repeated, to ſhew their Diligence, Exactneſs, and Care, which was remarkable: Eſpecially ſince they took Care of his Stable, as well as of his Houſhold, as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 28. Barley alſo and ſtraw] Barley was anciently Horſe Corn, as appears by many Places in Homer; which Bochartus hath obſerved in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 9.

For the horſes and dromedaries] The Hebrew Word Recheſh ſignifies ſwift Horſes, as Abarbinel thinks. See Eſther viii. 14. But others take them for Mules, as we tranſlate it in the Margin. Bochartus thinks it certain, that this Word imports a kind of Horſe, Micah i. 13. See Hieroz. P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 6. & 21.

Brought they unto the place where the officers were,] Or rather, where the Beaſts were. For there is no Word for Officers in the Hebrew.

Every man according to his charge.] Which laſted for a Month, every Year.

Ver. 29. And God gave Solomon wiſdom and underſtanding, exceeding much,] Knowledge of all manner of Things; and Prudence in the Adminiſtration of the Government.

And largeneſs of heart,] A Mind very comprehenſive of all ſort of Knowledge; and an Heart to do a vaſt deal of Good.

Even as the ſand that is on the ſea-ſhore.] As the Sand there incloſes a vaſt Body of Waters; ſo his Mind contained an Ocean of Knowledge, as the Lord Bacon ſomewhere ſpeaks.

Ver. 30. And Solomon's wiſdom excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the eaſt country,] Some, by theſe Eaſtern Sages underſtand the Chaldæans: Who were rather a Northern People, as Jeremiah deſcribes them (i. 14.) and were not famous for Learning in Solomon's Time; nor began to be ſo 'till the Reign of Nabonaſſar: Nor are the Tyrians here meant, as Pineda imagines; for they were a Weſtern People: But the Oriental Arabians; who were famous for Wiſdom in antient Times, as appears by the Book of Job. And in After-ages Porphyry reports (as St Cyril tells us, Lib. 10. contra Julianum) that Pythagoras travelled into this Country, to improve himſelf in Learning: Where were many of thoſe wiſe Men called Magi, as well as among the Perſians. Thus Conringius in his Supplementum 5. ad L. de Antiq. Academicis. But after all, Abarbinel takes the Word Kedem not to ſignify Eaſt, but antient Time. And ſo the Children of Keden are thoſe who were born in the Days of Old: When Men lived ſome Hundreds of Years; and ſo improved themſelves in Knowledge (eſpecially in Aſtronomical Learning) far more than it was poſſible for Men to do, after their Lives became very ſhort. This makes our Wiſdom defective, as was obſerved by Hippocrates in his Aphoriſms, Art is long, and Life is ſhort. But Solomon, by a ſpecial Gift of God, was more knowing than they who lived above ten Times as long as he did. But this is a forced Senſe, as appears by the next Words, concerning Egypt.

And all the wiſdom of Egypt.] Which Country was celebrated for Wiſdom in Moſes's Time, as appears from Acts vii. 22. and in after-times Macrobius calls Egypt, Matrem Artium, the Mother of Arts. But it was famous eſpecially for the Knowledge of the Motions of the Heavenly Bodies: For he ſaith (Lib. 1. Saturnal. Cap. 15.) Primos omnium Cœlis ſcrutari, & metiri auſos fuiſſe; that they were the firſt who attempted to ſearch and meaſure the Heavens: For which the great Serenity of their Air gave them Opportunity. As for their Civil Prudence, it is ſufficiently indicated in the Words of Iſaiah, xix. 11.

Ver. 31. And he was wiſer than all men;] Of that Age wherein he lived. But ſome extend this to all Men that were before him, or ſhould come after him. For in Midraſch Koheleth (upon Eccleſiaſtes vii. 24.) they thus gloſs, Wiſer than Col Adam, all Men (this is the firſt Adam), and than Ethan (this is Abraham), and than Heman (this is Moſes). But Maimonides diſcreetly confines the Words to the Men of that Age, whom he mentions, Ethan, Heman, &c. and will by no Means allow him to have been wiſer than Moſes. See More Nevochim, Pars 3. Cap. 4.

Than Ethan the Ezraite, than Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda,] If theſe were the Sons of Zerah the Son of Judah, mentinoned 1 Chron. ii. 6. then it is not true that Solomon is compared only with the wiſe Men of his Age: For theſe lived long before him. And the two former are thought to have been endued with the Spirit of Prophecy, being the Authors, as ſome think, of two Pſalms. For Pſalm lxxxviii is ſaid to be an inſtructive Pſalm of Heman the Ezraite, and the next (lxxxix) of Ethan the Ezraite. Of this Opinion is Dr Lightfoot. But it is more probable that other Men are here meant; for we read of Heman the Grand-child of Samuel, 1 Chron. vi. 33. who was alſo a Prophet, 1 Chron. xxv. 5. and in the ſame Time there was one Ethan a Levite of the Poſterity of Merari, 1 Chron. vi. 46. who is joined with Heman and Aſaph as principal Singers, 1 Chron. xv. 17. Now the forementioned Pſalms may more reaſonably be aſcribed to them; there being expreſs Mention of David and his Kingdom in one of them: and then Solomon is compared only with the wiſe Men of his own Time, and not with thoſe that lived before Moſes. They that think otherwiſe of theſe Men, were miſled by the Jews, who would have ſome Pſalms to have been compoſed before David. This they began to ſuppoſe (as a moſt learned Friend of mine, Dr Alix, hath obſerved to me) after the Times of the Apoſtles, as Juſtin Martyr affirms in his Apology, pag. 76.

The ſons of Mahol :] This confutes thoſe that make them the Sons of Zerah : Unleſs we ſuppoſe him to have had two Names, as it muſt be confeſſed was common among the Jews. And this laſt Name might be given him, becauſe he was a ſkilful Muſician: For Mahol ſignifies a Pipe.

And his fame was in all nations round about.] All the neighbouring Countries heard the Fame of his Wiſdom.

Ver. 32. And he ſpake three thouſand proverbs :] Being an excellent Moral Philoſopher, as well as a Natural. St Hierom thinks theſe are thoſe we read in the Book of the Proverbs, which doth not contain ſo many: But is more probable than what Joſephus affirms, that he wrote three thouſand Books of Proverbs: Which is an extravagant Conceit; for the Scripture mentions only three thouſand Proverbs, many of which we muſt confeſs to have been loſt, as other Compoſures of his are.

And his ſongs were a thouſand and five.] He was a great Poet alſo: For anciently wiſe Men were wont to give good Inſtructions in Songs; which made them to be more eaſily remembred. But none of theſe Compoſitions were thought to be divinely inſpired, but only the Song of Songs: Which was therefore joined to the Sacred Books. The reſt were not adapted to ſtir up a Senſe of Piety; as the Pſalms of David were: Who is therefore called the Sweet Singer of Iſrael, 2 Sam. xxiii. 1.

Ver. 33. And he ſpake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyſſop that ſpringeth out of the wall :] That is, of all ſorts of Plants, from the greateſt to the ſmalleſt. For Ezub (which we commonly tranſlate hyſſop) ſeems to be the ſame with the Ethiopian Word Azub, which ſignifies Mint; and is more agreeable to this Place, being more directly oppoſed to the Cedar than Hyſſop: Which hath a Stalk, and ſometimes of great Strength, as de Dieu and Job Ludolphus have obſerved. And for this Reaſon Hottinger (in his Smegma Oriental. p. 580.) takes it for the Wall-flower, which is leſs than Hyſſop. But Bochartus maintains Hyſſop to here meant; of which the Jews here reckoned four Sorts: And one of them may well be thought to grow upon Walls. Though there is no Neceſſity, he thinks, to put that Interpretation upon the Word Bekir, which we tranſlate on the Wall: Which may ſignify, as the Particle Beth doth in many Places, near or hard by the Wall. Of Jeruſalem, that is, which was incompaſſed with Mountains: And the Arabians obſerve that Hyſſop grew in the Mountains, eſpecially about Jeruſalem. See Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 50. From Solomon's great Skill in the Properties and Virtues of all Plants, Nachmanides makes bold to conclude that he wrote a Book of Medicine.

And he ſpake alſo of beaſts, and fowl, and creeping things, and fiſhes.] This ſhews the Vaſtneſs of his Learning: Which comprehended the whole Hiſtory of Animals, as well as of Plants; whoſe Nature and Qualities he underſtood. Some Jews fancy that Ariſtotle ſaw theſe Books, and publiſhed them in his own Name, in his Hiſtoria Animalium. It is a Rule given by thoſe who write Books of Civil Prudence, that they who apply themſelves to the Management of publick Affairs, ſhould not follow other Studies: Which by their Delight may draw their Minds too much from Buſineſs: But Solomon had ſo vaſt a Genius, that he purſued all manner of Knowledge, while he governed his Kingdom with great Prudence. For he compoſed a great Number of Songs, and diſcourſed of all ſorts of Creatures, both in the Sea and in the Land: Which belonged to contemplative, not to practical Studies. So that in his Days the Wiſh of Plato was fulfilled, that either Philoſophers might be Kings, or Kings be Philoſophers.

Ver. 34. And there came of all people to hear the wiſdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth, which had heard of his wiſdom.] It is a Conceit of Kimchi that Kings came from all Parts of the Countries round about, to hear his Wiſdom: And their People, when they returned, came to their Kings to learn what Solomon had ſaid. But this is not the literal Senſe of the Words; nor is it probable that any but the Queen of Sheba, came in Perſon to hear his Wiſdom: For they would have been mentioned, as ſhe is. Therefore the plain Meaning is, that People came from all the neighbouring Nations, being ſent by their Kings, who heard of his Fame: Nay, their own natural Deſires might carry them to him. For as Dion Pruſæus obſerves (Orat. de Regno, p. 6.) there is no Spectacle ſo grateful, as a wiſe and good King. All Men flock to ſee him, and partake, τῆς καλῆς διανοίας καὶ ἀγαθῆς, of his good and pious Mind. Eſpecially if he be mild and gentle, there is no Spectacle ſo ſweet and lovely: Inſomuch that they who ſee him, are loth to leave him (as he ſpeaks a little before) and they that hear him, ἐπιθυμοῦσιν ἰδεῖν, &c. are deſirous to ſee him, more than Children are to find their unknown Father.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. AND Hiram king of Tyre ſent his ſervants unto king Solomon;] That is, he ſent Embaſſadors to condole with King Solomon the Death of his Father (as the manner was) and to congratulate his Acceſſion to the Throne. Eupolemus calls this King Suron (as he is called Huram in the Book of the Chronicles) and makes mention of thoſe Letters which were ſent by theſe Embaſſadors. See Euſebius in his Præpar. Evang. Lib. 9. Cap. 33, 34.

(For he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father) for Hiram was ever a lover of David.] And therefore was deſirous to continue in Friendſhip with his Son.

Ver. 2. And Solomon ſent to Hiram, ſaying,] There were three Embaſſies paſſed between them, as Abarbinel obſerves: For Hiram began, and Solomon returned it; and then Hiram ſent to him again, ver. 8. But two only are mentioned in the Book of the Chronicles, 2. ii. 3, 11. For Ezra there (as he obſerves) minded only what concerned the building of the Temple:

And

And ſo omitted the firſt Embaſſy, which was no more than a Compliment.

Ver. 3. Thou knoweſt how that David my father could not build an houſe to the name of the LORD his God, for the wars which were about him on every ſide, until the LORD put them under the ſoles of his feet.] This was one Reaſon; but not the chief: For God commanded him to deſiſt, when he had it in Deſign.

Ver. 4. And now the LORD my God hath given me reſt on every ſide, ſo that there is neither adverſary, nor evil occurrent.] Nothing to make him fear any Diſturbance.

Ver. 5. And behold, I purpoſe to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God,] For his Worſhip and Service.

As the LORD ſpake unto David my father, ſaying, Thy ſon, whom I will ſet upon thy throne in thy room, he ſhall build an houſe unto my name.] This he ſpake by the Prophet Nathan, 2 Sam. vii. 13.

Ver. 6. Now therefore command them,] That is, his Servants who were ſkilled in ſuch Work.

To hew me cedar trees] Which were the moſt firm and durable, as well as moſt fragrant of all other.

Out of Lebanon,] Which was, if not all, yet a great Part of it within the Dominion of Solomon. Who therefore doth not aſk Trees of him which were his own; but only that his Servants ſhould hew and prepare them for his Uſe, which they underſtood better than the Iſraelites.

And my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants:] To aſſiſt them, as they ſhould be directed by them; and to receive the Timber from them, and convey it to Solomon, when it was prepared.

And unto thee will I give hire for thy ſervants, according to all that thou ſhalt appoint:] Pay them what Wages they pleaſed to demand for their Work.

For thou knoweſt there is not among us any that can skill to hew timber like the Sidonians.] Both Tyre and Sidon were now under one and the ſame King: And both of them very ingenious in Mechanicks: Eſpecially the Sidonians: Whom Homer calls πολυδίδαλους, excellent Artiſts in divers Things: For he aſcribes to them all the neater ſort of Work, both in his Iliads and his Odyſſey, as Bochartus obſerves in his Phaleg. Lib. 4. Cap. 35. By which Arts they grew very rich, in a Time of long Peace, which they enjoyed, as we learn from Judges xviii. 7. where the Sidonians are made the Example of thoſe that lived very ſecurely. But as for the Iſraelites they did not mind Manufactures, but applied themſelves wholly to Agriculture and feeding of Cattle. There had been moſt admirable Workmen among them, who knew how to cut and engrave precious Stones, to caſt and work up Metals, &c. but this was before they came into the Land of Canaan, in the Time of Moſes, when Bezaleel and Aholiab excelled in many different Arts, which were neceſſary for the Work of the Tabernacle. But the Scripture acquaints us, that they had their Skill by Inſpiration from God; and it doth not appear that they had any Succeſſors: So that in the Time of Solomon there were no profeſſed Artificers who could undertake the Work of the Temple.

Ver. 7. And it came to paſs, that when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, he rejoiced greatly,] Which demonſtrates a more than ordinary Friendſhip which he had for King David and the People of Iſrael.

And ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD this day, which hath given unto David a wiſe ſon over this great people.] If he was not become a Proſelyte to the Jews Religion (which one would have expected ſhould have been recorded if he had) yet he had a great Veneration for the God of Iſrael, who was properly called the LORD: And it is likely, he worſhipped him together with his own God.

Ver. 8. And Hiram ſent to Solomon, ſaying, I have conſidered the things which thou ſenteſt to me for: and I will do all thy deſire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir.] The Word which we tranſlate Fir, others think ſignifies Pine or Cypreſs. For Fir ſeems not ſo fit for this Work, being a light Wood, and not durable, and apt to take Fire. Their Conjecture is moſt reaſonable, who think it was a kind of Cedar: And therefore comprehended under that Name, ver. 6. where Solomon deſires of him only, that his Servants might hew him Cedar-trees.

Ver. 9. My ſervants ſhall bring them down from Lebanon unto the ſea:] The Mediterranean Sea; in which his City ſtood.

And I will convey them by ſea in flotes,] Some think they were tied together, and drawn in the Water by Veſſels; as the manner now frequently is: But they wanted not Veſſels wherein to convey them; for Diodorus Siculus ſaith, (Lib. 6.) that Sidon had in his Time, τειήρεις καὶ πεντήρεις πλείως τῶν ἑξακοσιων, more than an hundred Three Oar and Five Oar Veſſels belonging to it: And that City was but two thouſand Furlongs from Tyre, as Strabo ſaith.

Unto the place that thou ſhalt appoint me,] Which was at Joppa: A famous Sea-port in the Country of Iſrael, 2 Chron. ii. 16.

And will cauſe them to be diſcharged there, and thou ſhalt receive them:] When they were landed in that Place.

And thou ſhalt accompliſh my deſire, in giving food for my houſhold.] For living in barren Iſlands, they wanted Corn; though they had Plenty of Money; being great Merchants. And in after-times it appears, they were ſupported by Proviſions from Judea, Acts xii. 20.

Ver. 10. And Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees, and fir-trees, according to all his deſire.] That is, he agreed to give him all that he deſired: But the Trees were not yet cut down and prepared.

Ver. 11. And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thouſand meaſures of wheat for food to his houſhold, and twenty meaſures of pure oil:] In 2 Chron. ii. 10. it is ſaid twenty thouſand Baths of Oil. How Corim and Bathim differ I ſhall not examine; but that Place in the Chronicles plainly ſpeaks of what was given to the Workmen, who had other things beſides (there mentioned) to ſupport them in their Labours: But here the Prophet ſpeaks of what was given for the Uſe of Hiram's Family, as Kimchi and Ralbag ſolve this ſeeming Contradiction. Abarbinel hath another Solution. See Buxtorf, his Vindiciæ Hebr. Veritatis, Pars 2. Cap. 2. pag. 424.

Ver. 12. And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom, as he promised:] His Wisdom appeared more and more, in all his Transactions.

And there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and they two made a league together.] It was lawful in ancient Times, before the Law of Moses was given, to make Leagues with Strangers to their Religion, for their mutual Benefit: As appears by the Story of Jacob and Laban, Isaac and Abimelech (though some doubt whether he was an Idolater) and the Law of Moses made no Alteration, as Grotius observes, Lib. 2. de Jure Belli & Pacis, Cap. 16. Sect. 9. If Hiram therefore worshipped other Gods, Solomon might notwithstanding make a League with him (insomuch that Hiram calls him Brother, ix. 13.) he being none of the seven Nations of Canaan.

Ver. 13. And king Solomon raised a levy out of all Israel; and the levy was thirty thousand men.] To cut down the Trees, which Hiram's Servants were to hew.

Ver. 14. And sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month by courses: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home:] That they might not be tired with their Labour; nor neglect their own Families, while they were employed abroad.

And Adoniram was over the levy.] Took Care to raise them, and to see them disposed according to Solomon's Order. See iv. 6.

Ver. 15. And Solomon had threescore and ten thousand that bare burdens,] Viz. Porters, Carters, Seamen, and such like.

And fourscore thousand that were hewers in the mountains:] That is, Hewers of Stone, for Timber was hewed by Hiram's Servants in Lebanon. And these hundred and fifty Thousand were not Israelites, as the thirty Thousand before-mentioned were; but Strangers of other Nations, as may be gathered from ix. 21, 22. It may seem strange to some, that so many Men should be employed about the Building of so small a Place, as the Temple was: But they must consider that there were many other Works besides, which Solomon designed, and which he finished (ix. 15.) for which we read of no other Preparations of Materials, but what was now made.

Ver. 16. Besides the chief of Solomon's officers which were over the work, three thousand and three hundred which ruled over the people that wrought in the work.] In 2 Chron. ii. 18. they are said to have been three Thousand and six Hundred: For three Hundred were Overseers even of the three Thousand three Hundred, who were to oversee the rest. That is, superior Officers, who surveyed the whole, as Kimchi observes. Or, as Abarbinel takes it, there were three hundred Supernumeraries, who were employed in the more exquisite sort of Work: or when any of the other failed, were ready to supply their Places.

Ver. 17. And the king commanded, and they brought great stones, costly stones, and hewed stones, to lay the foundation of the house.] All Things being now prepared, Solomon himself seems to have been present at the laying of the Foundation of the House; which was not only very strong, but also very magnificent. For he caused Stones of great Bigness to be laid for the Foundation, and some of great Price (such as Marble, some think. See vii. 10.) and those also hewn and polished, not rough; that they might lie more regularly and even: Which shews the Nobleness of his Mind, in making that which was not exposed to open View, suitable to that which was seen.

Ver. 18. And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders did hew them,] It seems Solomon's Servants learned of Hiram's; or at least were directed by them to assist in the Work.

And the stone-squarers:] Or the Gibbites, as it is in the Margin, who are mentioned in Josh. xiii. 5. being Phœnicians, Inhabitants of Gabala, a Promontory mentioned by Pliny, (See Psal. lxxxiii. 7.) who were the most excellent Artists in those Parts.

So they prepared timber and stones to build the house.] Made all ready not only to lay the Foundation, but to build the House.

CHAP. VI.

Verse 1. AND it came to pass in the four hundred and fourscore year, after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt,] These Years are variously computed by the Jewish Doctors; with which I shall not trouble the Reader: But only observe, that they are plainly divided into two Intervals, by the Words of Jepthah to the Ammonites, Judges xi. 26. where he tells them the Israelites had dwelt in the Land of Canaan three hundred Years: Unto which if we add the forty Years wherein they wandered in the Wilderness, there were three hundred and forty Years past at that Time, since they came out of Egypt. And so the other Interval from thence unto the Building of the Temple, was an hundred and forty Years: Which is not hard to make out according to Sir John Marsham's Computation. See my Annotations on that Place of the Book of Judges.

In the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel,] But why did he not begin the Work sooner, according to the Command of his Father David, who left him all Things necessary, Gold, Silver, Brass, &c. for the Building of it; and also a Draught of it: So that he might have begun when he began to reign? To which Abarbinel answers, that Solomon would not make use of what his Father had prepared, but resolved to build the House at his own Cost and Charge; and put into the Treasury of the LORD's House that which David had dedicated to this Work, vii. 51. And therefore he stood in need of four Years Time, to gather so much Gold and Silver as was necessary to defray the Charges of this Work.

In the month Zif, which is the second month that he began to build the house of the LORD.] Either to lay the Foundation of it, or to build upon the Foundation before-mentioned.

Ver. 2. And the house which king Solomon built for the LORD,] For his Worship and Service: And wherein his Divine Presence might dwell among them, ver. 13.

The length of it was ſixty cubits,] Forty of which belonged to the Holy Place; and twenty to the moſt Holy.

And the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits.] The Length and Breadth of it was twice as big (Abarbinel and others obſerve) as the Tabernacle of Moſes: Which was in Length but thirty Cubits, and in Breadth but ten. Whereas the Temple was twenty Cubits wide through the whole, and ſixty long: Beſides the Porch. When it is ſaid the Height was thirty Cubits; it muſt be underſtood of the Holy Place: For the Holy of Holies was only twenty. See ver. 20. And ſo the Height of the Holy Place was three times more than it was in the Tabernacle: For his Temple was to reſemble an high Tower; having Chambers above it, in three Stories one above another, as the Jewiſh Doctors obſerve. See 1 Chron. xxviii. 11.

Ver. 3. And the porch before the Temple of the houſe, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the houſe; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof, before the houſe.] He gives no Account of the Height of it: But in 2 Chron. iii. 4. Ezra ſeems to ſay, it was an hundred and twenty cubits. Which Words Kimchi imagines relate to the Porch alone: But Abarbinel wonders how this could come into his Head; when this Height belongs to the whole Houſe. For if it belonged only to the Porch, then nothing is there ſaid of the Houſe it ſelf: And beſides, it immediately follows that he overlaid it with pure Gold. Which is not true of the Porch (for that was not overlaid with Gold) but only of the Houſe of God. Which from the Foundation to the Covering of it, was thirty Cubits high; and above that Covering were three Stories of Chambers, which were ninety Cubits: and ſo in all the Height of the Houſe was an hundred and twenty.

Ver. 4. And for the houſe he made windows of narrow lights.] Or, as it is in the Margin, broad within and narrow without. By which Means the Houſe was better ſecured from the Weather; and yet had Lights enough. See Caſaubon upon Athenæus, p. 363. where he obſerves the Greeks call ſuch Windows τοξικὰς, feneſtras longas & anguſtas, ad emittenda tela, quàm ad lucem admittendum factas, long, and narrow Windows made to ſhoot out Weapons, than to let in Light. And he tranſlates theſe Hebrew Words, feneſtras, proſpectus clauſas, viz. from the outward Part.

Ver. 5. And againſt the wall of the houſe] Or, joyning to it, it is in the Margin: For the Beams were not faſtened in the Walls of the Houſe, as we read in the next Verſe; but a wooden Wall, ſome think, went round the Houſe, unto which theſe Chambers were faſtened.

He built chambers round about againſt the walls of the houſe round about, both of the temple and of the oracle:] But not of the Porch where the Entrance into the Houſe was. It appears out of Ezekiel and Joſephus, as Peter Martyr obſerves, that there were Twelve of theſe Chambers on the South-ſide, and as many on the North; and Six on the Weſt.

And he made chambers round about.] In the Hebrew, he made Ribs: By which ſome underſtand Galleries. Which incompaſſed all the forenamed Chambers, as our Ribs do the Entrails of our Bodies. Without which there could not have been a convenient Paſſage to the ſeveral Chambers: Which were made to ſerve the Prieſts to lay their Garments in, and wherein they reſted, and eat of the Sacrifices, and other Uſes.

Ver. 6. The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits broad, and the middle was ſix cubits broad, and the third was ſeven cubits broad:] It appears by ver. 10. that they were but five Cubits high, and built over one another three Stories: Increaſing in Breadth, every Story, one Cubit, by the Contrivance which follows.

For without in the wall of the houſe he made narrowed reſts round about,] In the Margin we tranſlate it, Narrowings, or Rebatements. By which ſeem to be meant that the Wall to which they were adjoined, was thicker below, and above narrower: So that there was more Space to make the upper Chambers wider.

That the beams ſhould not be faſtened to the walls of the houſe.] But in that outward Wall which I mentioned before, made of Wood: For he would have no Holes made in the Wall of the Temple. See L'Empereur upon Codex Middoth, p. 147, 148. and Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, p. 40.

Ver. 7. And the houſe when it was in building, was built of ſtone, made ready before it was brought thither:] So fitted for their ſeveral Uſes and Places, that they might be joined together, without any other Labour, but putting them one by, or upon, another.

So that there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the houſe, while it was in building.] The Senſe is plain, that the Stones were laid without any Noiſe; there being nothing to be done but to join them together. But the Jews are ſo fooliſh as to fancy, that they were not hewn nor plained by any Inſtrument before they came thither; but a Worm called Samir, which God created on purpoſe, did the Buſineſs: And that the Stones of their own Accord came to the Temple: And there the Angels laid them in their Place and Order. See L'Empereur upon Codex Middoth, p. 183. Which Fable aroſe from ſomebody that did not underſtand the Word Samir, which ſignifies a very hard Stone called Smiris (as Bochartus hath obſerved) with which Stones might be cut and poliſhed as Diamonds are. See Hierozoicon, Par 2. Lib. 6. Cap. 11. An Emblem this was, as all Interpreters note, of that Peace and Quiet which ſhould be in the Chriſtian Church: Where all things ſhould be done without Contention. Utinam Deus hoc tandem aliquando elargiatur, ut omnes in domo ſuo idem dicamus & ſentiamus, as P. Martyr prays upon this Place.

Ver. 8. The door of the middle chamber] By which they were to go into the middle Row of Chambers.

Was in the right ſide of the houſe:] On the South-ſide, which in Hebrew is called the right ſide, becauſe when Men look toward the Eaſt, the South is on their right Hand. Some think there was the like Door in the North; but it is more likely, that one Door ſerved to carry them round to all the Chambers.

And they went up with winding ſtairs into the middle chamber,] That they might take up the leſs room.

And out of the middle into the third.] There was the like Pair of Stairs into the third Story.

Ver. 9. So he built the houſe and finiſhed it;] That is, the Walls of the Houſe.

And alſo covered the houſe.] He alſo covered the Top of it.

With beams and boards of cedar.] In the Margin, the Vaultings and the Ceilings of Cedar. That is, the Roof was an Arch within, which made it look more noble, though without it was flat.

Ver. 10. And then he built chambers againſt all the houſe, five cubits high:] The Word then is not in the Hebrew; and being omitted the Senſe is plain, that he gives an Account of the Height of theſe Chambers, as before (ver. 6.) of the Breadth. But it is very briefly; and we are to underſtand that thoſe below, and thoſe in the middle, and thoſe above, were every one of an equal Height, viz. five Cubits. So they were fifteen Cubits in all: Which was five leſs than the Height of the Houſe, for that was twenty Cubits. Otherwiſe there would have been no room for the Windows: Which, I ſuppoſe, were above all theſe Chambers, in the top of the Houſe.

Ver. 11. And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, ſaying,] By the Prophet Ahijah the Shilonite, as the Jews ſay, in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 20. For it is not ſaid, that God appeared to him now, as he did iii. 5. and ix. 2, 3. In which latter Place it is ſaid, God appeared to him the ſecond time: Which is a Proof (as Abarbinel notes) that now God did not appear to him, but ſpake to him by a Prophet.

Ver. 12. Concerning this houſe which thou art in building, if thou wilt walk in my ſtatutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments, to walk in them: then will I perform my word with thee which I ſpake unto David thy father.] 2 Sam. vii. 13. Here Abarbinel makes a Query, why this Prophecy is inſerted in the Middle of the Work, which might ſeem to have been more proper in the Beginning, or after it was ended: But Solomon laying the Foundation, and raiſing the Building very firm and ſtrong, which might laſt to many Generations, God would not have him preſume upon its Duration, unleſs he and the People of Iſrael were obedient to him: And therefore told him, he had better not proceed, nor be at any further Charge, unleſs he intended to be a good Man, and obſerve all his Laws. And the Continuance of this Houſe, and of God's Preſence among them, depending on this, plainly ſignified, that let him build it ever ſo ſtrong it ſhould be demoliſhed, if he proved diſobedient.

Ver. 13. And I will dwell among the children of Iſrael,] As he had done in the Tabernacle, Exod. xxv. 8.

And I will not forſake my people Iſrael.] But protect them in the good Land he had given them.

Ver. 14. So Solomon built the houſe, and finiſhed it.] God ſpake the foregoing Words, while he was building it, that he might deſiſt, if he did not intend to be obedient to him. But theſe Words import, that notwithſtanding this Admonition, he went on, to build the Houſe, as magnificent and durable as he intended; reſolving to keep God's Commandments.

Ver. 15. And he built the walls of the houſe within with boards of cedar,] He wainſcotted, as we now ſpeak, the whole Houſe with Cedar.

Both the floor of the houſe, and the walls of the ceiling:] Or, as we tranſlate it in the Margin, from the Floor of the Houſe, unto the Walls of the Ceiling. That is, from the Bottom to the Top.

And he covered them in the inſide with wood,] The Word them is not in the Hebrew. Which if we retain, it relates to the Walls of the Ceiling: That is to the top of the Houſe, which in the inſide were covered with Wood, ver. 9.

And covered the floor of the houſe with planks of fir.] Or, with another ſort of Cedar, which was a great deal firmer, and more laſting than Fir. See Chap. v. 8.

Ver. 16. And he built twenty cubits on the ſide of the houſe,] The Houſe here meant, is the moſt holy Place: For he had ſpoken of the other part of the Houſe, called the Sanctuary, in the foregoing Words.

Both the floor, and the walls with boards of cedar:] Or, as the foregoing Verſe, from the Floor to the Walls of the Ceiling.

He even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the moſt holy place.] Here he explains what he meant by the Houſe, in the Beginning of the Verſe. And this was moſt properly the Houſe of all the Parts of the Temple: becauſe here the Divine Glory inhabited, and from hence God gave Anſwer, when he was conſulted. It is called Debir: As the outward Houſe is called Hechal.

Ver. 17. And the houſe,] That is, the holy Place, as the next Words explain it.

That is, the temple before it,] The part of the Houſe, which was before the moſt holy Place. In the Hebrew the Words are before my Face: That is, before the Place where the Divine Glory appeared.

Was forty cubits long.] As long again as the moſt holy Place. See ver. 2. and 16.

Ver. 18. And the cedar of the houſe within was carved with knops,] Of an oblong Figure, like an Egg, as Foſterus thinks, comparing this Place with 2 Kings iv. Where there is the like Words, and there tranſlated Gourds.

And open flowers:] Not Buds, but Flowers, ſpread and full blown.

All was cedar, there was no ſtone ſeen.] This relates, I ſuppoſe, to the Knops, and Flowers, which were all of Cedar: And ſo doth not contradict 2 Chron. iii. 5.

Ver. 19. And the oracle he prepared in the houſe within, to ſet there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.] In the innermoſt part of the Houſe he fitted the moſt holy Place to receive the Ark of God. It ſeems to be called the innermoſt part, becauſe it was furtheſt from the Entrance into the Building. The Jewiſh Doctors have a Conceit, that this ſignifies a Room which he made under Ground (under the Floor of the Oracle) where the Ark might be hid, in caſe the Houſe ſhould be laid deſolate. And he made this Cave in very deep and winding Burrows, putting a Stone upon the Mouth of it, upon which the Ark ſtood. Here Joſiah they fancy hid the Ark, and the Pot of Manna, and the Rod of Aaron, and the holy Oil, where they were found after their Return from Babylon. For which Story there is no Foundation; and it contradicts what they all acknowledge, that there was no Ark in the ſecond Timple. It is far more reaſonable to think that by Debir, which we tranſlate Oracle, is here meant the Partition which ſeparated the holy Place from the moſt holy: Which Solomon is here ſaid to have prepared or eſtabliſhed, in the midſt of the Houſe, as the Words are in the Hebrew. This Gouſſet hath made probable: Though it appears from ver. 23. (where the Cherubims are ſaid to be within the Oracle) that this Word ſignifies not only the Partition which made the Separation, but the Place it ſelf, which was ſeparated thereby from the Sanctuary, to be God's Dwelling-place.

Ver. 20. And the oracle in the fore-part.] That is, in the innermoſt Part before-mentioned: Which is alſo called the fore-part, becauſe it was before him that entered into the Houſe.

Was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof:] It was a perfect Square.

And he overlaid it with pure gold,] Not meerly gilt it, but covered it with Plates of Gold: For the Gold amounted to ſix hundred Talents, as Ezra ſaith, 2 Chron. iii. 8.

And ſo covered the altar] Of Incenſe, which was before it in the holy Place.

Which was of cedar.] Or, he covered the altar with cedar, that the Gold might the better lie upon it.

Ver. 21. So Solomon overlaid the houſe with pure gold:] That is, the moſt holy Place (called the Oracle in the foregoing Verſe) which he made as ſumptuous as he could, for the Divine Reſidence.

And he made a partition, by the chains of gold,] The moſt holy Place was ſeparated from the Sanctuary by a Partition: Before which there was a Vail alſo; which hung upon golden Chains. Thus this Paſſage is to be underſtood, for the Partition it ſelf did not depend upon Chains.

And he overlaid it with gold.] That is, overlaid the Partition.

Ver. 22. And the whole houſe he overlaid with gold,] This is meant of the Sanctuary, which was overlaid with Gold, as well as the Oracle.

Until he had finiſhed all the houſe:] Some think the very Chambers, which were without the Houſe, were likewiſe made thus ſplendid. But I ſee no Ground to affirm it.

Alſo the altar that was before the oracle he covered with gold.] That is, the Altar of Incenſe; thence called the Golden Altar: which was in the upper End of the Sanctuary, near the Entrance in the Oracle. This he covered with Cedar, ver. 20. and now overlaid with Gold.

Ver. 23. And within the oracle he made two cherubims of olive-tree, each ten cubits high.] Theſe were different from thoſe made by Moſes; which were of ſolid Gold: And aroſe out of each End of the Mercy-Seat; being of one Piece with it, and looking one upon the other, Exod. xxv. 18, 19. But theſe were made of Olive-wood; or as it is in the Hebrew, of Tree of Oil. For many ſuch ſorts of Wood there were beſides Olive; as Pine, Cedar, &c. And theſe two are plainly diſtinguiſhed; Olive, and Oily-wood, in Nehem. viii. 15. Here it may be proper to note, that the Word Debir (which we conſtantly tranſlate Oracle) comes from Debar, which ſignifies to ſpeak; becauſe God, who dwelt between the Cherubims, declared his Mind from hence, when he was conſulted by the High-prieſt with Urim and Thummim: And it ſtill retained this Name, though we never read of any Anſwer by Urim and Thummim while this Temple ſtood, becauſe it had been the Place from whence God had been wont to ſpeak to the High-prieſt. I have obſerved elſewhere, that there might be the Uſe of Urim and Thummim in this Temple, though it be not recorded: But it is highly probable, that upon their rejecting the Government of God, and turning the Theocracy into an Human Government by Kings, God ceaſed to direct and govern them by that Divine Oracle. During the Reign of David indeed, there is ſome Footſteps of it, their new Government by Kings being not yet well eſtabliſhed: So that we may think there was a Mixture of the Theocracy ſtill with it, as may be gathered from 2 Sam. ii. 1. iii. 19, 23. xxi. 1. But after that, there is not the leaſt Glimpſe of it; but they enquired of God by the Prophets, 1 Kings xxii. 3. 2 Kings iii. 11, 29. xxii. 14. where the High-prieſt himſelf, being ſent by King Joſiah to enquire of God, went to Huldad the Propheteſs. Which is a Demonſtration, that the Anſwer by Urim and Thummim ceaſed, when God's Government was caſt off by them: To which that Oracle properly appertained.

Ver. 24. Aud five cubits was the one wing of the cherub and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermoſt part of the one wing to the uttermoſt part of the other wing, was ten cubits.] Whereas thoſe of Moſes were only ſo long as to cover the Mercy-Seat. Which was but two Cubits and a half in Length, Exod. xxv. 17.

Ver. 25. And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one meaſure, and one ſize.] So that they filled the whole Breadth of the Houſe; which was twenty Cubits.

Ver. 26. The height of one cherub was ten cubits, and ſo was it of the other cherub.] They ſtood upon their Feet, upon the Floor of the Houſe (2 Chron. iii. 13.) each being ten Cubits high, as was ſaid at the firſt, ver. 23. That is, half as high as the Houſe.

Ver. 27. And he ſet the cherubims within the inner houſe;] With their Faces toward the Sanctuary: So that they looked upon him that entered into the Oracle.

And they ſtretched forth the wings of the cherubims,] Or rather (as in the Margin) the cherubims ſtretched forth their wings.

So that the wings of the one touched the one wall, and the wings of the other touched the other wall:] That is, the South and North Walls of the Houſe. Whereas the Wings of thoſe Cherubims that Moſes made, ſtretched from

Eaſt

East to West: For they looked one upon the other over the Mercy-Seat.

And their wings touched one another in the midst of the house.] Where they must needs meet, being five Cubits long on each side (ver. 24.) and the House twenty Cubits wide.

Ver. 28. And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.] So that there were four Cherubims in the most holy Place of Solomon's Temple. Two lesser made by Moses of massy Gold; and two larger made by Solomon, overlaid with Gold. Those made by Moses were part of the Mercy-Seat, and inseparable from it: These of Solomon seem to have spread their Wings over it, being added only for the greater Ornament and Golry of God's House. So Abarbinel observes, that Solomon did not make a new Ark, which was the only thing made by Moses, which Solomon did not imitate and make more glorious. But this he durst not presume to open, and to take out the Book of the Law, and put it into an Ark of his own making. It being unlawful for him to touch it, and therefore he let it remain, with its Cover, the Mercy-Seat, and the Cherubims belonging to it: And only placed these new Cherubims over it, as a Covering to it, for the greater Beauty of the House.

Ver. 29. And he carved all the walls of the house round about with carved figures of cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers, within and without.] Both in the most holy Place, and in the Sanctuary.

Ver. 30. And the floor of the house he overlaid with gold, both within and without.] This hath the same Meaning with the foregoing Words: That the Floor of the whole House, both inner and outward Part, was overlaid with Gold, which made it wonderfully splendid and magnificent.

Ver. 31. And for the entrance of the oracle, he made doors of olive-tree:] Or some Tree that was oily. See Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, p. 87.

The lintel and side-posts were a fifth part of the wall.] These Words are very obscure: For the Words of the wall are not in the Hebrew; but only a fifth. Which may be understood to signify, that they held the Proportion of a fifth part of the Doors. But there are those who think, the Meaning is, that this Gate was the fifth in Number belonging to the House. The first they make Account was that which let into the Court of the People: The second, into the Court of the Priests: The third was the Door of the Porch: The fourth, of the holy Place; and this fifth of the Oracle. And accordingly they interpret those Words, ver. 33. the fourth.

Ver. 32. The two doors also were of olive-tree;] Or, as it is in the Margin, the leaves of the doors: Explaining what sort of Doors they were, viz. Folding Doors, as it follows, ver. 34.

And he carved upon them carvings of cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and spread gold upon the cherubims and palm-trees.] The Meaning seems to be, that he laid Plates of Gold upon the Doors of the House; and gilt the Cherubims, Trees, and Flowers.

Ver. 33. So also he made for the doors of the Temple,] That is, of the holy Place.

Posts of olive-tree, a fourth part of the wall,] See ver. 31.

Ver. 34. And the two doors were of fir-tree:] Or, of a kind of Cedar; as was before observed.

The two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding.] Whereby they took up less room, when they were opened.

Ver. 35. And he carved thereon cherubims, and palm-tres, and open flowers: and covered them with gold, fitted upon the carved work.] This was said before, ver. 32. therefore repeated, I suppose, to signify that both Sides of the Doors were thus carved and covered with Gold. I have not meddled with the mystical Signification of any of these things: In which Mens Fancies differ very much: Though in one thing they all agree; that by the Cherubims, which were so plentiful in every part of the House, the Hosts of Angels are represented, there attending upon the Divine Majesty, as his Ministers to execute his Pleasure.

Ver. 36. And he built the inner court] Which was that wherein the Priests officiated.

With three rows of hewed stone, and a row of cedar-beams.] That the People who were in the outward Court might see what the Priests did: The Wall which separated the Priests from the Court of the People being but three Cubits high (as most understand these Words) for the Cedar was not laid upon the top of the Wall; but was the facing of it, within-side. The Priests likewise from hence might speak and deliver any Message from God to the People.

I conclude this Account of Solomon's Works with an Observation of Abarbinel: That this Divine Writer doth not mention several things belonging to the House of God, as the Altar of Burnt-Offering, the Candlestick, the Table, the Laver (though they were ten times as many as Moses made. See 2 Chron. iii.) because his Intention was only to explain the great things which he did, and such as wrought in Men Admiration: Not things in which there was no Majesty, nor any great Cost bestowed upon them. Therefore he takes notice of the great and precious Stones (that is, Stones of great Price) wherewith he laid the Foundation of the House (ver. 17.) and the rest of the things mentioned in this Chapter; which were very chargeable, and which shewed the Greatness of his Mind, his Wisdom, Prophecy (as his Words are) and Riches: But other things, as the Court of the Temple, &c. he passes over compendiously. But this Observation is not altogether true; for though this Divine Writer does not take notice of every thing made by Solomon, in this Chapter; yet in the next, I think, he omits nothing, save only the Brazen Altar of Burnt-offering, which is not mentioned in this Book among Solomon's Works; but taken particular notice of in 2 Chron. iv. 1. where its large Dimensions are described. All other things, as the Lavers, the Candlestick, the Table, &c. are here mentioned in the following Chapter.

Ver. 37. In the fourth year was the foundation of the house laid, in the month Zif.] He repeats this this (which was ſaid ver. 1.) to ſubjoin in the next Words, how long the Houſe was in building.

Ver. 38. And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul (which is the eighth month).] As Zif was the ſecond.

Was the houſe finiſhed throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the faſhion of it:] Every thing was compleatly finiſhed, according to his Deſign; without any need of Addition or Alteration.

So was he ſeven years in building it.] And an half: But the leſſer Number is omitted, as is uſual in theſe Books, and in other Authors: Particularly half a Year is omitted in the Reign of David, who is only ſaid to have reigned forty Years. See the ſecond Chapter of this Book, ver. 11. And conſidering the Curioſity of the Work, and the Scarcity of Men of Skill, it is no Wonder that it was ſo long before it was perfected: But rather the Alacrity and Diligence of Solomon (as Abarbinel notes) is to be admired; who finiſhed this Work with all the Speed he could make; when he was almoſt as many more Years in building his own Houſe, which was not ſo coſtly and ſumptuous. An Account of which is given us, in the Beginning of the next Chapter: Where the Author tells us he built two Houſes, and ſets down the Dimenſions of one of them.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe 1. BUT Solomon was building his own houſe thirteen years, and he finiſhed all his houſe.] He did not begin to build his own Houſe 'till he had finiſhed the Houſe of God; that nothing might hinder that holy Work. This appears from ix. 10. where we read he was twenty Years in building both.

Ver. 2. And he built alſo the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon;] The fore-named Houſe was in Jeruſalem: Near to which he built another, in a cool, ſhady Mountain; which made it reſemble Mount Lebanon. And here he dwelt in Summer, as in the other in Winter. But it is not likely it was in Mount Lebanon; for that was in the very Extremity of his Kingdom; where he would not have ſet his Throne (as he ſeems to have done in this Houſe, ver. 7.) for that was too far diſtant from the uſual Place of his Reſidence. And for the ſame Reaſon he would not have there placed the golden Shields that he made; as we find he did, x. 17. It was therefore near to Jeruſalem (appears from xiv. 25, 26.) and called by the Name of the Foreſt of Lebanon: Juſt as many pleaſant and delightful Places in that Country were called Carmel. Becauſe it was in a lofty Place like Lebanon; and the Trees which grew there made it very ſhady and cool.

The length thereof was an hundred cubits,] Which was not longer than the Houſe of God, if we take in all the Courts belonging to it.

And the height thereof thirty cubits,] The Height of the firſt Story was ſo many Cubits: Upon which, in all likelihood, there was another of the like Height.

Upon four rows of cedar pillars,] Which ſupported the Building; and made four Walks under it.

With cedar-beams upon the pillars.] Upon which was laid the Floor of the next Story.

Ver. 3. And it was covered with cedar above, upon the beams that lay on forty-five pillars, fifteen in a row.] So there were but three Rows of Pillars in the ſecond Story, which were ſufficient for the Support of the Roof. And we may gueſs from hence that there were threeſcore Pillars below.

Ver. 4. And there were windows in three rows, and light was againſt light.] Directly oppoſite one againſt the other: Which we call thorough Lights.

In three ranks.]. Or, on three Sides of the Houſe, the South, the North, and the Eaſt; that it might have the freer Air. On the Weſt Side was the Porch, and ſo no Windows were there. Others interpret it, the Windows were exactly one under another in three Rows.

Ver. 5. And all the doors and poſts were ſquare, with the windows:] The Figures of the Doors and of the Windows were one and the ſame, viz. ſquare.

And light was againſt light in three ranks.] This is meant of the ſmaller Windows, that were over the Doors: Which it is likely were alſo ſquare.

Ver. 6. And he made a porch of pillars; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits:] This was for his Guard, and for People to walk in who came about Buſineſs, (as well as for State and Ornament) and therefore was covered to keep them dry in rainy Weather.

And the porch was before them:] That is, before the Pillars of the great Houſe, before ſpoken of.

And the other pillars, and the thick beams were before them.] That is, they were directly oppoſite one to the other. Or, if we follow the Marginal Tranſlation (according to them) the Senſe is, that it had its Pillars and Beams juſt like the great Houſe: And, it is likely, Rooms built upon thoſe Beams for his Servants.

Ver. 7. Then he made a porch for the throne where he might judge, even the porch of judgment:] So it was called, becauſe here he ſat to hear and determine the Cauſes that People brought before him. With whom he would not have his Houſe cumbred; but made this Porch without the Houſe, where he diſpatched ſuch Buſineſs.

And it was covered with cedar from one ſide to the other.] In the Hebrew, from floor to floor: That is, from the Ground to the Roof of the Porch.

Ver. 8. And his houſe where he dwelt, had another court within the porch, which was of the like work.] There was a Court between the Porch and the Houſe, which may be called the inner Court: And then another beyond the Porch, which may be called the outward. So that it ſtood between two Courts, which were both alike.

Solomon alſo built an houſe for Pharaoh's daughter] Near, I ſuppoſe, to his own Houſe; ſhe being a Perſon of the higheſt Quality, and his firſt Wife.

(Which he had taken to wife)] See iii. 1.

Like unto this porch.] Not for Figure, or Bigneſs; but for the Materials of which it was built.

Ver. 9. All theſe were of coſtly ſtones, according to the meaſure of hewen ſtones, ſawed with ſaws, within and without,] All the formentioned Buildings were poliſhed on both Sides: So that they appeared both within and without; that is, both on the Inſide which was toward the Palace of Solomon, and on the Outſide which was toward the great Court.

Even from the foundation unto the coping,] From the Bottom of the Building to the Top of it.

And ſo on the outſide toward the great court.] Not only on the Front of the Houſe, but on the Back-ſide of it, toward the great Court.

Ver. 10. And the foundation was of coſtly ſtones, even great ſtones; of ten cubits, and ſtones of eight cubits.] By coſtly Stones (mentioned here and in the foregoing and following Verſes) are not to be underſtood precious Stones; but Stones that being bigger and firmer, and better poliſhed than others, were of greater Price: As Bochartus explains it, both here and v. 17.

Ver. 11. And above were coſtly ſtones (after the meaſure of hewen ſtones) and cedars.] The Roof was finiſhed after the ſame Manner; with Stones, and Cedar Beams.

Ver. 12. And the great court round about] Viz. of Solomon's Palace.

Was with three Rows of hewen ſtone, and a row of cedar beams,] Juſt like the inner Court of the Houſe of the LORD, vi. 36. and ſo the following Words are to be underſtood.

Both for the inner court of the houſe of the LORD,] Or rather, as for the inner Court of the LORD's Houſe: For ſo the Particle Vau ſometimes ſignifies.

And for the porch of the houſe.] Of Solomon's own Houſe.

Ver. 13. And king Solomon ſent and ſet Hiram out of Tyre.] For though he was an Iſraelite by Birth, yet he dwelt at Tyre: And it is likely had the Privileges of that City, and ſo was one of King Hiram's Subjects. And therefore in 2 Chron. ii. 13. that King ſaith he ſent him to Solomon: That is, granted his Requeſt, that this Man might come and ſerve him. And accordingly Solomon ſent for him and fetcht him to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 14. He was a widow's ſon of the tribe of Naphtali,] She her ſelf was of the Tribe of Dan, 2 Chron. ii. 14. but her firſt Huſband was of the Tribe of Naphtali: by whom ſhe had this Son.

And his father was a man of Tyre,] When ſhe was a Widow ſhe married a Man of Tyre: Who is called Hiram's Father, becauſe he bred him up, and was the Huſband of his Mother.

A worker of braſs:] And in Stone, and Purple, and a great many other Things, as we read in the Place abovementioned. But Braſs is only mentioned here; becauſe he is going to ſpeak only of ſuch Works.

And he was filled with wiſdom and underſtanding, and cunning to work all work in braſs;] He had an excellent Genius to this Work; and beſides the Inſtructions of his Father, it is not improbable that God endued him with great Skill in contriving, and alſo working all manner of Work of this Sort.

And he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.] He preſently found him to be an excellent Artiſt; and ſo employed him in all his Buſineſs.

Ver. 15. And he caſt two pillars of braſs of eighteen cubits high a-piece:] In 2 Chron. ii. 15. it is ſaid he made two Pillars of thirty-five Cubits high: Which doth not contradict theſe Words, it being evident that there he ſpeaks of both the Pillars (as Abarbinel obſerves) which were thirty-five Cubits. But here he ſpeaks of them ſingle, which were each but eighteen Cubits. Both of them indeed made thirty-ſix Cubits; but one Cubit muſt be allowed for the Baſis of each, which is not conſidered in the Book of Chronicles. This ſeems a better Solution of this ſmall Difficulty than that of L'Empereur in his Preface to Codex Middoth, where he ſaith, one of theſe Writers ſpeaks of the common Cubit, and the other of the ſacred, which was double to the common. Each Pillar therefore he thinks was eighteen ſacred Cubits, but thirty-five common; to which one common Cubit muſt be added for the Baſis: But this Diſtinction of common and ſacred Cubits is not allowed by every body.

And a line of twelve cubits did compaſs either of them about.] So they were four Cubits in Thickneſs. See Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, p. 61, 62, 63. And L'Empereur's Preface to Benjamin Tudelenſis. Eupolemus a Heathen Writer takes Notice of theſe Pillars, and ſays they were as high as the Temple. Euſebius, Lib. 9. Præpar. Evang. Cap. 34.

Ver. 16. And he made two chapiters of molten braſs, to ſet upon the top of the pillars: the height of the one chapiter was five cubits, and the height of the other was five cubits:] This Account of them Ezra alſo gives, 2 Chron. iii. 15. Yet in 2 Kings xxv. 17. they are ſaid to be but three Cubits. But it is to be obſerved that it immediately follows in that Place, there was a wreathen work, and pomegranates upon the chapiters: Which in all made five Cubits; and are all here comprehended in the Word chapiter.

Ver. 17. And nets of chequer-work, and wreaths of chain-work, for the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars;] This curious Work encompaſſed the Chapiter, and contained, as it were, the Pomegranates afterwards mentioned; which might be ſeen through theſe Nets.

Seven for the one chapiter, and ſeven for the other chapiter.] Some think that each Chapiter was adorned with Leaves, and Flowers, and Fruit, in four Orders; which were bound about with three Chains. But it is very hard to explain this Work, which is ſo very breſly deſcribed. See Dr Lightfoot in the forenamed Place.

Ver. 18. And he made the pillars,] That is, he finiſhed them in this Manner. See the ſame Author, p. 63.

And two rows round about upon the one net-work, to cover the chapiters that were upon the top, with pomegranates: and ſo did he for the other chapiter.] There were two Rows of Pomegranates; which took up one of the five Cubits, whereof the Chapiter conſiſted.

Ver. 19.

Ver. 19. And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars, were of lily-work] In Imitation of Lilies.

In the porch,] Such as were in the Porch of the Temple.

Four Cubits.] The other four Cubits were of this Lily-work, except the Middle.

Ver. 20. And the chapiters upon the two pillars had pomegranates alſo above, over againſt the belly which was by the net-work :] This is very obſcure, becauſe ſhortly delivered. But the Meaning ſeems to be, that the Lily-work being above and below, at the Top and the Bottom of the Chapiters, the middle Cubit (called the Belly) was all covered with Pomegranates.

And the pomegranates were two hundred, round about upon the other chapiter.] In the Book of Jeremiah lii. 23. it is ſaid that there were ninety-ſix on a Side; but all of them, upon the Net-work, were an hundred in all: Which Abarbinel thus explains. The Pomegranates on the Net-work were towards the four Quarters of the World, being twenty-four towards each Quarter; which in all made ninety-ſix. And in each Angle, there being one great Pomegranate, they made up the Number an hundred.

Ver. 21. And he ſet up the pillars in the porch of the temple: and he ſet up the right pillar, and called the name of it Jachin, and he ſet up the left pillar, and called the name thereof Boaz.] It is generally thought that theſe Pillars were made and erected only for Ornament; becauſe they ſupported no Building, But Abarbinel's Conjecture is not improbable, that Solomon had reſpect to the Pillar of the Cloud, and the Pillar of Fire that went before them and conducted them in the Wilderneſs, and was the token of the Divine Providence over them. Theſe he ſet at the Porch or Entrance of the Temple (Jachin repreſenting the Pillar of the Cloud, and Boaz the Pillar of Fire) praying and hoping that the Divine Light, and the Cloud of his Glory would vouchſafe to enter in there; and by them God and his Providence would dwell among them in this Houſe.

Ver. 22. And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work :] This ſeems to have been ſaid before, ver. 19. but the next Words, So was the work of pillars finiſhed, ſhew that this was a new Addition, to crown all, after the Pillars were erected; as Abarbinel obſerves.

Ver. 23. And he made a molten ſea,] The Hebrews call any great Collection of Waters by the Name of a Sea. So the Lake of Geneſaret, and others, are called in the Goſpel: And here it ſignifies a great Veſſel, containing Abundance of Water. Which ſerved for the waſhing of the Sacrifices, and of the Prieſts and Levites; who waſhed their Hands and their Feet; not in it, but with Water drawn out of it by Pipes or Conduits.

Ten cubits from the one brim to the other: and it was round about,] Of a circular Figure.

And its height was five cubits :] Beſide the Height of the Oxen whereon it ſtood.

And a line of thirty cubits did compaſs it about.] For the Diameter being ten Cubits, this muſt be the Compaſs of it. This Sea was filled with Water by the Gibeonites; who were afterward called Nethinims.

Ver. 24. And under the brim round about there were knops compaſſing it,] They were in the Shape of an Egg; on the Top of every one of which was an Ox Head; from whoſe Mouth Water guſhed out: So Abarbinel gathers from 2 Chron. ii. 3. where they are called Oxen, from the Figure of their Head.

Ten in a cubit, compaſſing the ſea round about :] So there were three hundred of theſe Knops in all; the Sea being thirty Cubits round.

The knops were caſt in two rows, when it was caſt.] They were not carved afterward, but caſt at firſt when the Sea was molten. And there being two Rows of them, Abarbinel thence concludes there were ſix Hundred in all, one under another. From whence Water might flow out of the Sea, to waſh a great Number at a Time.

Ver. 25. And it ſtood upon twelve oxen,] Oxen were uſed not only for drawing the Plough, but for carrying Burdens upon their Backs; as they are ſtill employed among the Indians. Whence Solomon placed the Figure of theſe Creatures under his molten Sea, as the Supporters of it. There was ſo little Danger of their being worſhipped, that the Meanneſs of the Uſe to which they ſerved, had made ſome believe that Solomon made them in Contempt of the golden Calf, which the Iſraelites worſhipped in the Wilderneſs; and placed them under the Sea, that the People might ſee there was nothing worthy of Adoration in theſe Figures. Joſephus indeed thinks Solomon offended in making theſe Images: But this is confuted by the Glory of the LORD filling the Temple after it was finiſhed. Which ſhewed that he approved of all this Work; which it is likely was done by his Inſtruction: But ſome great Men think Joſephus is in the right.

Three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the weſt, and three looking toward the ſouth, and three looking toward the eaſt :] This ſeems to import that this Sea was ſquare (the Oxen looking towards the four Quaters of the World) whereas it is ſaid before, ver. 25. that it was round all about. And ſo it was (as the Jewiſh Interpreters, particularly Abarbinel and Ralbag, expound this) in the Brim of it, it was perfectly round, and ſo it continued in the two upper Cubits: But below the Brim (in the three lower Cubits) it was ſquare. And, as Kimchi thinks, in the two upper Cubits there were no Knops; but in the three lower, juſt above the Oxen that ſupported the Sea.

And the ſea was ſet above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.] Under the Sea, that they might not be ſeen.

Ver. 26. And it was an hand breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies :] In the Shape of Lilies: That is, not plain and ſtraight, but bending downwards, after the Manner of thoſe Flowers. See Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, p. 230, &c.

It contained two thouſand baths.] A Bath being of the ſame Bigneſs with an Ephah (Ezek. xlv. 11.) is thought to contain eight Gallons: So that this Sea contained five hundred Barrels; that is, it had thus much Water conſtantly in it. But if it had been filled up to the Brim, it would have held three thousand Baths, as we read 2 Chron. iv. 5. which Quantity they were not wont to put into it, lest with the Wind it should run over. Or, as the most learned of the Jews reconcile these two Places, these Words in the Book of the Kings are to be understood of moist Things; but those in the Chronicles of dry; which being heaped up, it would contain a third Part more than of Things liquid. With which some compare those Words of our Saviour, Luke vi. 38. Good measure heaped up, shaken together, and running over.

Ver. 27. And he made ten bases of brass;] Tables or Stands upon which the Lavers (mentioned below, ver. 38.) were to rest. See Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, p. 228, &c.

Four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth, and three cubits the height thereof.] They were made so broad that the Lavers might stand more firmly, being each four Cubits; but not so high, that the Priests might more easily reach to wash the Sacrifices in them, 2 Chron. iv. 6.

Ver. 28. And the work of the bases was in this manner: They had borders,] To keep up the Lavers from falling.

Ver. 29. And the borders were between the ledges:] It is not easy to apprehend what he means by Ledges; because, as P. Martyr observes, we have no such Work in these Days.

And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, and oxen, and cherubims:] Oxen are called Cherubims in Ezek. x. 14. Therefore the Meaning here is, that besides Lions and Oxen, there were other Cherubims (the Figures of Eagles perhaps) which adorned these Borders.

And upon the ledges there was a base above:] This is so darkly expressed, that I do not apprehend the Meaning; unless it be this, that the upper Ledge was over the Heads of these Animals; and the under Ledge was that upon which their Feet rested, as the next Words signify.

And beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions of thin work.] Under these Figures there was some other Work added (which was not cast together with them) and drawn very thin.

Ver. 30. And every base had four brazen wheels,] They run upon Wheels like a Coach, or Chariot; so might easily be removed from Place to place, as the Convenience of the Priests required.

And plates of brass:] Between the Wheels and the Bases. See Dr Lightfoot in the same Book, p. 226.

And the four corners thereof] For they were square, ver. 27.

Had under-setters:] In the Hebrew, Shoulders. Which were fitly so called, because as Burdens are born upon Mens Shoulders, so were the Lavers upon these; which supported them, when set upon the Bases, and kept them from falling when they run upon the Wheels.

Under the lavers were under-setters molten, at the side of every addition.] These were molten with the Bases, when they were cast.

Ver. 31. And the mouth of it,] The Bases seem to have been hollow at the Top; that the Feet of the Lavers might enter in, and be fastned there: And this he calls the Mouth of it.

Within the chapiter and above] Nothing of a Chapiter is mentioned 'till now: Therefore it is hard to know what is meant by it. Many take it for a smaller Basis, rising out of the greater; in which was the Mouth, or hollow Place before spoken of.

Was a cubit:] In Height. See ver. 35. where it is said, on the top of the base was a round compass half a cubit high.] Which seems to be meant of this Chapiter, which rose but Half a Cubit above the Base, the other Half being below it.

But the mouth thereof was round after the work of the base, a cubit and an half:] This was the Wideness of it.

And also upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, four-square, not round.] Through this hollow Place, called the Mouth, was round within; yet on the Outside it was square, and had Borders which were engraved.

Ver. 32. And under the borders were four wheels: and the axle-trees of the wheels were joined to the base, and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.] So that the Bottom of the Base was not far from the Ground.

Ver. 33. And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel:] Only the hinder Wheels and the fore Wheels were all of a Height.

Their axle-trees, and their naves, and their felloes, and their spokes were all molten.] Cast together with the Wheels.

Ver. 34. And there were four under-setters to the four corners of one base: and the under-setters were of the very base it self.] He mentioned the Under-setters before, ver. 30. Now he relates the Number of them; and that they were of the same piece with the Base itself; being cast together with it, and not made afterwards.

Ver. 35. And on the top of the base, there was a round compass of half a cubit high:] See ver. 31.

And on the top of the base, the ledges thereof, and the borders thereof were the same.] Cast all together at the same Time.

Ver. 36. For on the plates of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved cherubims, lions, and palm-trees, according to the proportion of every one, and additions round about.] In the Hebrew, according to the nakedness of every one: Which seems to signify that these Figures were as big as the void Space, in the Plates would admit.

Ver. 37. After this manner he made the ten bases: all of them had one casting, one measure, and one size.] They were cast in the same Mold; and all of the same Bigness and Shape.

Ver. 37. Then made he ten lavers of brass:] Which were to stand upon the Bases forementioned.

One laver contained forty baths:] See ver. 26. From whence it will appear that each of these Lavers contained ten Barrels of Water.

And every laver was four cubits:] Some think that they were of this Height. But these Words rather relate to the Diameter of them, which was four Cubits: And then their Compass was twelve Cubits.

Upon every one of the ten bases one laver.] The Bases being exactly fitted to receive them: For they were each four Cubits in Length and Breadth, ver. 27.

Ver. 39. And he put five on the right ſide] That is, on the South-ſide, ſee vi. 8.

Of the houſe,] That is, of the Court where the Prieſts miniſtred.

And five on the left ſide of the houſe :] That is, on the North-ſide of that Court.

And he ſet the ſea on the right ſide of the houſe eaſt-ward, over-againſt the ſouth.] That is, in the South-eaſt: So that as ſoon as the Prieſts entred (which they did at the Eaſt Gate) they might have Water to waſh their Hands and their Feet.

Ver. 40. And Hiram made the lavers, and the ſhovels, and the baſons: ſo Hiram made an end of all the work that he made king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD.] Theſe ſeem to have been the laſt Things that he made: And ſo he finiſhed all the Work, which he recapitulates, with the Addition of ſome others not mentioned before. Shovels, for Inſtance, or Beeſoms wherewith they cleanſed the Alter from the Aſhes, that they might not hinder the Fire from burning: And Baſons, wherein the Prieſts received the Blood of the Sacrifices that were offered.

Ver. 41. The two pillars, and two bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the two pillars: and the two net-works, to cover the bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the pillars:

Ver. 42. And four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters that were upon the pillars :] Being to ſum up all the Works he had finiſhed, he now adds the Number of Pomegranates that were upon the Pillars: Which had not been mentioned before.

Ver. 43. And ten baſes, and ten lavers upon the baſes:

Ver. 44. And one ſea, and twelve oxen under the ſea:

Ver. 45. And the pots,] Pots or Cauldrons were thoſe Veſſels, wherein they boiled thoſe Sacrifices which were divided between the Prieſt and the People that offered them. That is, Peace-offerings, that they might eat them before the LORD, and feaſt with him upon his own meat.

Shovels and baſons :] They are mentioned before, but here I ſuppoſe have a different Signification (though in the Hebrew the Words are the ſame) from what they had in ver. 40. And the firſt Word ſignifies Fleſh-hooks, wherewith they took the Meat out of the Pots: And the ſecond the Platters or Diſhes into which it was put, to be ſet before them.

And all theſe veſſels which Hiram made to king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD, were of bright braſs.] Or poliſhed Braſs: Or, the pureſt and fineſt that could be got. The Syriack and Arabick Tranſlators render it, Corinthian Braſs. But it is not credible, that it was known in the Days of Solomon.

Ver 46. In the plain of Jordan did the king caſt them in the clay-ground, between Succoth and Zarthan.] In the Hebrew the Words for clay-ground are, in the Thickneſs of the Ground. That is, the Earth was ſtiff, and glutinous, and upon that Account more fit to make Molds of all Kinds. And in a plain Country, ſuch Molds were more eaſily fixed than on the Sides of Hills, or ſteep Places.

Ver. 47. And Solomon left all the veſſels unweighed, becauſe they were exceeding many: neither was the weight of the braſs found out.] In the Hebrew, it was not ſearched, or enquired into; becauſe it would have been very troubleſome to take an exact Account of it.

Ver. 48. And Solomon made all the veſſels that pertained unto the houſe of the LORD:] He made them all new, except the Ark, the Mercy-Seat, and the Cherubims annexed to it.

The altar of gold,] That is, the Altar of Incenſe, which ſtood in the Holy Place before the Oracle.

And the table of gold, whereon the ſhew-bread was,] That is, all the Table-work: There being no leſs than ten, 2 Chron. iv. 7, 8 Upon one of which, in all Probability, which was more noble than the reſt, the Shew-bread was placed. Unleſs we ſuppoſe the Table which Moſes made was preſerved for that Uſe; and Solomon added the reſt for the greater Ornament of the Place. And (as Joſephus writes) the Gold and Silver Baſons were ſet upon them; together with a vaſt Number of Phials.

Ver. 49. And the candleſticks of pure gold, five on the right ſide, and five on the left, before the oracle,] He made ten Candleſticks inſtead of one which was in the Tabernacle of Moſes: Becauſe the Place was more capacious; and the Veſſels were not to be removed from Place to Place as they were before: And therefore there might well be more of them.

The flowers,] Which were wrought upon the Candleſticks.

The lamps, and the tongs of gold,] Wherewith to take Coals from the Altar of Burnt-offering.

Ver. 50. And the bowls, and the ſnuffers and the baſons, and the ſpoons, and the cenſers of pure gold;] The Uſe of theſe is viſible. The firſt being to keep Oil for the Lamps; the next to trim them: The Baſons (which were an hundred, as we learn from the Book of Chronicles) were to receive the Water of Sprinkling, and the Blood of the Sacrifices which was ſometimes brought into the moſt Holy Place. The Spoons ſerved to take up the Oil. The Cenſers were for offering Incenſe; though ſome tranſlate this Word, Diſh-pans, wherein the Incenſe was kept. There were other Cenſers of Silver, which received the Coals from the Altar upon all Days, but the Tenth of Tiſri (which was the great Day of Expiation) when the Golden Cenſer received them, and by it the moſt Holy Place was incenſed. On other Days it was not employed, but at the Altar of Incenſe; where the Coals were poured out of the Silver Cenſer (which received them from the Altar of Burnt-offerings) into the Golden, to burn the Incenſe: As the Talmudiſts ſay, both in Codex Joma and Tamid. Where they alſo ſay that the foregoing Word Capoth, which we tranſlate Spoons, ſignifies a Veſſel which contained the Incenſe that was to be offered upon the Coals in the Golden Cenſer. See Braunius in his Selecta Sacra, Lib. 2. Cap. 5. where he hath learnedly explained both theſe Words Caph and Machtah, which we tranſlate Spoons and Cenſers; where he hath demonſtrated, the latter ſignifies the Inſtrument that received the Coals from from the Altar of Burnt-Offering, and the former, that which had the Incenſe in it, to be poured upon them.

And the hinges of gold, both for the doors of the inner houſe, the moſt holy place, and for the houſe, to wit, of the temple.] This ſhews the vaſt Riches of Solomon, and his great Piety: Which made him ſpare no Coſt to beautify the Houſe of God, and the meaneſt thing belonging to it. Whereby the People, who were much taken with outward Splendor, were preſerved from Idolatry: For they could go no where and ſee a Place comparable to this of Solomon; there being then nothing in the whole World like to it for Riches and Glory.

Ver. 51. So was ended all the work that king Solomon made for the houſe of the LORD: and Solomon brought in the things which David his father had dedicated; even the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels did he put among the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD.] I obſerved upon vi. 1. that Abarbinel thinks he would uſe none of the things that were dedicated by his Father; but do all at his own Coſt and Charges. Yet others think theſe Words mean no more, but that all the remaining Silver and Gold, which David left, and was not ſpent in this Work, Solomon would not employ to his own Uſes; but religiouſly preſerved in the Treaſury of the Temple. Where the Altar of Burnt-offering, which Moſes made, and ſome other things, which are now of no Uſe (far better and larger being made) were alſo laid up; as the Tabernacle it ſelf was. For the Temple being built, there was no further Occaſion for the Tabernacle; and yet it was fit to preſerve it, as a Place that had been Holy to the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. AND Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael,] That is, the Judges in their ſeveral Cities.

And all the heads of the tribes,] Every Tribe had one or more principal Ruler in it.

And the chief of the fathers of the children of Iſrael,] The principal Perſons of every Family in thoſe Tribes.

Unto king Solomon, in Jeruſalem,] Where the Houſe of the LORD was now fixed.

That they might bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the city of David, which is Zion.] For thither David had brought it from the Houſe of Obed-Edom, and made a Tabernacle for it (2 Sam. vi. 12, 17.) until a fixed Houſe ſhould be prepared for it: Which was now built upon a neighbouring Mountain.

Ver. 2. And all the men of Iſrael] All the fore-named Perſons, with their Attendants: Which no doubt were numerous.

Aſſembled themſelves unto king Solomon, at the feaſt in the month Ethanim, which is the ſeventh month.] Here the Targum thus paraphraſes, in the Month which anciently was called the firſt Month, but now is the ſeventh: And called Ethanim, becauſe more ſacred Solemnities (which were the Support and Strength of their Religion and Government) were appointed in this Month than in any other. And among the reſt the Feaſt of Tabernacles; which is here meant, as Kimchi and Abarbinel and others think. And upon the Occaſion of this Aſſembly the Jews obſerve in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 15. that the Schekinah doth not dwell, but in the Congregation.

Ver. 3. And all the elders of Iſrael came,] All the fore-mentioned great Perſons were called Elders, and are here comprehended under that Name.

And the prieſts took up the ark.] The Ark had been carried by the Prieſts three Times before this: When they went over Jordan; when they incompaſſed the Walls of Jericho; and when David ſent it back, when he fled from Abſalom, 2 Sam. xv. 29, 30. It was the Office of the Levites to carry the Ark upon their Shoulders, except upon ſpecial Occaſions: And now they could not, becauſe it was not lawful for them to enter into the Holy Place, into which it was to be carried, and then into the moſt Holy. It is ſaid indeed, 2 Chron. v. 4. that the Levites took it up: But the Meaning is, that they took it up and carried it to the Temple, and then the Prieſts took it up (ver. 6.) and carried it into the Holy Place.

Ver. 4. And they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tabernacle of the congregation,] Together with the Ark, they brought up the Tabernacle. But the Queſtion is what Tabernacle, whether that made by Moſes which was in Gibeon, 2 Chron. i. 3. or that made by David which was at Jeruſalem, 2 Sam. vi. 17. I think the latter is never called the Tabernacle of the Congregation, as the former frequently is. But it may be probably thought that both of them were now carried into the Temple, and laid up there; to avoid all Danger of Superſtition and Idolatry: And that no Worſhip might be performed any where, but only at this Houſe of God, which he now dedicated to him.

And all the holy veſſels that were in the tabernacle.] Viz. the Altar of Incenſe, and the Table, and the Candleſtick, and every thing belonging to them: Which remained in the Tabernacle, when the Ark was removed from it.

Theſe did the prieſts and the levites bring up.] The Prieſts brought up the Ark; and the Levites carried the Tabernacle, and the Veſſels of the Sanctuary.

Ver. 5. And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Iſrael that were aſſembled unto him, were with him before the ark,] When it was brought into the Houſe of God, and ſettled there; for it is not likely ſuch a Multitude of Sacrifices as follow, could be offered in the way from Mount Sion to the Temple, as ſome were when David brought it from the Houſe of Obed-Edom to Jeruſalem, 2 Sam. vi. 13.

And ſacrificed ſheep, and oxen, that could not be numbred for multitude,] That is, a vaſt Number; which might have been told, but not eaſily; as was ſaid before of the Weight of the Braſs employed about the veſſels of the Houſe of God, vii. 47. See there. Here is no mention of Solomon's dancing before the Ark as David did; for all Holy Men were not alike moved by God; their Tempers and Conditions being very different. Solomon was now in a a State of great Tranquillity, and conſtant Pleaſure: But David had been diſturbed by the Stroke upon Uzzah, a little before his great Tranſport of Joy, at the ſafe Conduct of the Ark to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 6. And the prieſts brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, in the oracle of the houſe, to the moſt holy place,] Before the Glory of the LORD filled the Houſe, the Prieſts were permitted to enter into the Oracle: But afterwards none but the High-Prieſt might approach ſo near unto the Divine Preſence, which dwelt there: And he but once a Year.

Even under the wings of the cherubims.] Which Solomon had made. For the Cherubims made by Moſes were fixed to the Mercy-Seat, and inſeparable from it: And ſtood together with the Ark under theſe Cherubims.

Ver. 7. For the cherubims ſpread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark, and the ſtaves thereof.] For they were very large, ſtretching forth their Wings from one ſide of the Houſe unto the other, vi. 22, 24, &c.

Ver. 8. And they drew out the ſtaves, that the end of the ſtaves were ſeen out in the holy place before the oracle,] By the Holy Place is here meant the moſt Holy, where the Ark was under the Cherubims: Which covered both the Ark and the Staves. But the Staves were ſo drawn out that the Ends of them might be ſeen: Whereby the High-prieſt was directed in the Way he ſhould go juſt before the Mercy-Seat on the Day of Expiation; when he went between theſe two Staves to ſprinkle the Blood before God. See 2 Chron. v. 9. and Buxtorf in his Arca Fœderis, where he explains both this and the next Verſe, and gives a large Account of drawing out the Staves, p. 96, 97.

And they were not ſeen without:] In the Sanctuary.

And there they are unto this day.] And in this Poſture.

Ver. 9. There was nothing in the ark ſave the two tables of Stone, which Moſes put there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Iſrael, when they came out of the land of Egypt.] The very ſame Words, in a manner, are repeated, 2 Chron. v. 10. But it is commonly obſerved that both theſe Places ſeem to contradict the Apoſtle's Words, Heb. ix. 4. For it is ſaid here in theſe Books, that nothing was in the Ark ſave only the two Tables of Stone: But that there, the Pot of Manna and Aaron's Rod was alſo in the Aark. For ſo they generally interpret thoſe Words ἐν ᾗ in which, i. e. in the Ark στάμνῳ χρυσῇ, the Golden Pot containing the Manna, &c. Many learned Men have endeavoured to reconcile theſe Places ſeveral Ways, which Andreas Sennertus hath collected in a Treatiſe on purpoſe about it. Which might have been ſpared by this eaſy Obſervation, that the Prepoſition ἐν doth not always ſignify in, but by: And ſo the Place in the Hebrews is to be rendred, not in which, but by which. Bochartus hath given a great many Inſtances of ſuch Uſe of the Particle Beth in the Old Teſtament, Hierozoicon. P. 2. Lib. 2. Cap. 50. And indeed it is never ſaid there that the Pot of Manna was laid up in the Ark, but before the LORD and before the Teſtimony, Exod. xvi. 33, 34. and the ſame is ſaid of Aaron's Rod, Numb. xvii. 4. Which ſignifies no more than putting them by the Ark. See Huetius Demonſt. Evang. p. 322.

Ver. 10. And it came to paſs, when the prieſts were come out of the holy place,] That is, the Oracle, where they had ſet down the Ark.

That the cloud filled the houſe of the LORD.] In this Cloud was the Glory of the LORD (ver. 11.) which now filled the Temple, as it had anciently done the Tabernacle, when it was firſt erected, Exod. xl. 34. Only there the Cloud covered the Tabernacle without, and the Glory of the LORD ſhined within: But here the Houſe it ſelf was filled with the Cloud, out of which the Glory of the LORD broke; and after it had filled the whole Houſe, ſettled in the moſt Holy Place.

Ver. 11. So the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter, becauſe of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD hath filled the houſe of the LORD.] By this it appears that the Cloud filled the Sanctuary, as well as the moſt Holy Place: For in the Sanctuary the Prieſts miniſtred at the Altar of Incenſe. And it appears alſo by the next Verſe, that, at the firſt, nothing but a dark Cloud filled the Houſe, which was very aſtoniſhing: But afterwards the Glory of the LORD (as I ſaid) broke out, which was more amazing. Inſomuch that Moſes himſelf was not able to enter into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, when this Cloud and Glory firſt appeared, Exod. xl. 35.

Ver. 12. Then ſpake Solomon,] When he ſaw the Prieſts come out of the Houſe of God in great Conſternation, he uttered theſe Words which follow, with his Face turned towards the Altar, to compoſe and comfort them. This ſhews that the Cloud filled the Houſe before Solomon prayed: Whereas in 2 Chron. vii. 1, 2, 3. it appears, the Divine Glory did not fill it, 'till after he had prayed. Which Abarbinel reconciles with very good Reaſon. The Cloud, in which was the Glory of the LORD, or the Fire, came into the Temple before Solomon prayed: Which made him ſay here, the LORD dwelleth in thick Darkneſs. Which he beholding, prayed to God, who gave ſuch a ſenſible Token of his Preſence there. Now when he had made an End of his Prayer, then the Fire that was in the Cloud broke forth, and conſumed the Sacrifices on the Altar: And the Glory of the LORD filled the Houſe, as it is recorded in the Book of Chronicles.

The LORD ſaid that he would dwell in thick darkneſs.] As much as to ſay, be not afraid; but look upon this Cloud as a Token of God's Preſence and Protection: And that he owns this for his Houſe, where he intends to dwell, according to what he ſaid, Levit. xvi. 2. This Cloud is called thick darkneſs, becauſe it hindred the Sight of any other thing that was in the Holy Place; either the Altar, Candleſtick, or Table. Nothing was ſeen but the Glory of the LORD when it broke out: Which dazzled their Eyes, rather than enlightned them. And it is obſervable, that the better to repreſent this, the High-Prieſt when he went into into the most Holy Place was to fill it with a Cloud of Smoak, by the Incense he offered, which made the Place dark (Levit. xvi. 12, 13.) that he might not lose his Life by the Splendor of the Divine Glory.

Ver. 13. I have surely built thee an house to dwell in,] He turns his Speech from them to God; and expresses his Hope that he would be pleased to continue in this House: Which he perceived by this Glorious Cloud he intended to make his Habitation.

A settled place for thee to abide in for ever.] Not like the Tabernacle, which was a moveable Habitation; but a Place wherein he hoped he would settle, and never remove from it. From hence the Jews call this Beth-haolam, the Enternal House, or the House of Ages. Which was not like Gilgal, Shiloh, Nob, and Gibeon, (as Abarbinel explains it) which did not last long, though God for some Time dwelt there: They not being in the Place which the LORD had chosen to place his Name there: Which was in Mount Moriah.

Ver. 14. And the king turned his face about,] From the Court of the Priests, to the Court of the Congregation, having the Altar on his Back.

And blessed all the congregation of Israel:] In that Form, perhaps, which God himself prescribed, Num. vi. 23, 24, &c.

(And all the congregation of Israel stood.)] Both out of Reverence to God, and Respect unto the King.

Ver. 15. And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which spake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, saying,] He acknowledges the Goodness of God in his gracious Promise; and his Faithfulness in fulfilling it. Which Promise was made by Nathan, unto whom the Word of the LORD came about this Matter, 2 Sam. vii. 4.

Ver. 16. Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel to build an house, that my name might be therein;] He had often told them that they should worship him in the Place which he would choose; but he never declared his Choice of a Place 'till David's Time, 2 Sam. vii. 6.

But I chose David to be over my people Israel.] 2 Sam. vii. 8. to whom he shewed the Place which he would make his Dwelling, and where he would be worshipped.

Ver. 17. And it was in the heart of David my father, to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.] This is, as I said before, where God would dwell among them, and be graciously present with them. See 2 Sam. vii. 2.

Ver. 18. And the LORD said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart:] He accepted and commended his good Intentions, but would not let him put them in Execution. This Honour he reserved for his Son, as it follows in the next Words.

Ver. 19. Nevertheless, thou shalt not build the house, but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.] See 2 Sam. vii. 12, 13.

Ver. 20. And the LORD hath performed the word that he spake, and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.] He concludes as he began, with a thankful Acknowledgment of the Faithfulness of God in performing his Promise.

Ver. 21. And have set there a place for the ark,] The Token of God's Presence among them.

Wherein is the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers,] That is, the Tables of the Covenant: Which by a Figure are called the Covenant, because they contained it.

When he brought them out of the land of Egypt.] And told them that by the Tenure of this Covenant they were to hold the Land of Canaan.

Ver. 22. And Solomon stood before the altar of the LORD,] Having spoken the foregoing Words with his Face toward the People, and blessed them: Now he turned about again with his Face toward the Altar, to make a solemn Prayer to God.

In the presence of all the congregation of Israel,] Being advanced upon a Scaffold which he had made; of three Cubits high (as we read in 2 Chron. vi. 13.) so that all might see and hear him.

And spread forth his hands toward heaven: Which was a solemn Posture of Prayer among other Nations. And it is evident both from that Place in the Chronicles, and from ver. 54. of this Chapter, that when he had stood a while with his Face toward the Altar, he fell down upon his Knees, and spread forth his Hands toward Heaven.

Ver. 23. And he said, O LORD God of Israel, there is no God like thee in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants, that walk before thee with all their hearts:] He acknowledges the transcendent Excellencies of the Divine Majesty; and particularly again commemorates his Faithfulness to those who serve him sincerely.

Ver. 24. Who hast kept with thy servant David my father that thou promisedst him: thou speakest also with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thy hand, as it is this day.] This relates to that Part of God's Promise to David, that his Son should build him an House. See ver. 15, 16, &c.

Ver. 25. Therefore now, LORD God of Israel, keep with thy servant David my father that thou promisedst him, saying, There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit on the throne of Israel;] He looked upon that as an Earnest he would fulfil the other Part of his Promise to David, which he made at the same Time, concerning his Kindness to his Posterity, 2 Sam. vii. 12, 13.

So that thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me as thou hast walked before me:] He speaks like a wise Man, who was fully acquainted with the Mind of God: Whose Promise concerning the Inheritance of the Kingdom, he acknowledges depended upon this Condition, if they took heed to their way, &c.

that is, continued in the Faith and Worſhip of God, as David did. But if they proved Idolaters, then they made themſelves unworthy of this Privilege to the Seed of David (as Abarbinel ſpeaks) and loſt the Inheritance of the Kingdom, becauſe they were none of his Children. And therefore after Solomon and Jeroboam alſo turned away from God and followed Idols, (as he goes on) God might juſtly have taken the divided Kingdom away from their Children. And when all Iſrael forſook the LORD, and worſhipped the gods of the Nations round about them, he did forſake their Land, and would no longer dwell among them, nor continue the Kingdom to them.

Ver. 26. And now, O LORD God of Iſrael let thy word, I pray thee, be verified, which thou ſpakeſt unto thy ſervant David my father.] This is not an unneceſſary Repetition; but (as Abarbinel notes) God, when he ſpake to David of building the Temple by his Son, promiſed two things. Firſt, The Stability of his Kingdom in his Family, 2 Sam. vii. 16. and Secondly, That he would ſhew the greateſt Kindneſs and Friendſhip to them; ſuch as a Father doth to his Son, ver. 13. Solomon here begs of God in this Prayer both theſe Benefits: The firſt in the foregoing Verſe, and the other in this.

Ver. 27. But will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, the heaven, and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee, how much leſs this houſe that I have builded?] He would not have the People poſſeſſed with ſuch groſs Imaginations as were among the Heathens; who fancied their Gods were confined to their Temples. No, ſaith Solomon, the Heaven it ſelf, no not the higheſt Heaven, can comprehend his infinite Majeſty.

Ver. 28. Yet have thou reſpect unto the prayer of thy ſervant, and to his ſupplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer which thy ſervant prayeth before thee to day:] But he would have them know that God, who could be confined no where, was in a ſpecial manner preſent here, to grant the Requeſts of thoſe who piouſly made their Supplications to him, as he now did, in this Place.

Abarbinel obſerves upon ver. 39. that Solomon uſes three Words in this Verſe, which in ſome Places ſignify the very ſame thing: But being all uſed here together, he thinks have diſtinct Meanings. For the Word Rinnah (which we tranſlate Cry) he thinks ſignifies ſetting forth with a loud Voice the Praiſes of God: Concerning which their wiſe Men in Beracoth ſay, Let a Man firſt commemorate the Praiſes of God, and then let him pray. Then the Word Tepillah (which we tranſlate Prayer) he thinks ſignifies Mens judging and condemning themſelves before God for their Offences: Confeſſing they are unworthy to have their Petitions granted. And the other Word Techinah (Supplication we tranſlate it) imports Mens Petitions to God for what they want, and deprecating his Diſpleaſure, &c.

Ver. 29. That thine eyes may be open toward this houſe, night and day, even toward the place of which thou haſt ſaid, my name ſhall be there:] He prays that God would have a gracious Reſpect unto all that came to make their Petitions there. For as in the former Verſe (as Abarbinel obſerves) he prays God would hear his own Petitions: So in this, that he would hear all other pious Worſhippers.

That thou mayeſt hearken to the prayer which thy ſervant ſhall make towards this place.] He beſeeches God to hear him, if he looked towards this Place, in his Prayer; though he was not preſent at the Temple to prefer his Petition. For thus pious Men were wont to direct their Prayer, when they were far diſtant from it; nay, when the Temple was demoliſhed, Dan. vi. 10. And when they were at the Temple, they could only look toward the moſt Holy Place: For the People came no nearer than into the outward Court of the Temple, and the Prieſts no further than to the next Court to it. Save only when they went to order the Lamps, and burn Incenſe Morning and Evening, and renew the Shrew-bread: Otherwiſe they alſo ſtood and officiated at a Diſtance in the Court appointed for them, called the Court of the Prieſts. So both People and Prieſts ſtood in their ſeveral Courts, and worſhipped with their Faces toward the Temple, where the Ark and Mercy-Seat were. From whence came the Expreſſion of worſhipping the LORD toward his Holy Temple: That is, toward the Place where the Mercy-Seat was. And alſo the Expreſſion, of worſhipping towards his Footſtool: For if the Glory of the LORD ſat upon the Cherubims, under which the Ark ſtood; then it was his Footſtool. See Pſal. xcix. 5. and cxxxviii. 2.

Ver. 30. And hearken thou to the ſupplication of thy ſervant, and of thy people Iſrael, when they ſhall pray toward this place:] Here, as the ſame Abarbinel obſerves, he deſires, whether there was one, or many that prayed, he would hear them.

And hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place,] He directs the People's Mind up to Heaven, the Place where he dwells in the higheſt Majeſty and Glory: Of which the bright Cloud in the Temple was a Token and Reſemblance.

And when thou heareſt, forgive.] For Sins unpardoned would hinder his Bleſſing from deſcending on them; and therefore in the firſt Place he implores Forgiveneſs of them.

Ver. 31. If any man treſpaſs againſt his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to cauſe him to ſwear,] This ſeems to relate to ſuch as were accuſed of denying that which was ſaid to be depoſited with them by their Neighbour. Who were to purge themſelves by an Oath, there being no Witneſs to convince them.

And the oath come before thine altar in this houſe:] It was the Cuſtom of all Nations to touch the Altar when they made a ſolemn Oath: Calling God, that is, to witneſs the Truth of what they ſaid, and to puniſh them if they did not ſpeak the Truth.

Ver. 32. Then hear thou in heaven, and do, and judge thy ſervants, condemning the wicked, to bring his way upon his head, and juſtifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteouſneſs.] He deſires God to hear the Complaint of him who was defrauded, or unjuſtly accuſed: And ſhew who had Right on his ſide; by punishing the Offender, and acquitting the injured Person.

Ver. 33. When thy people Israel be smitten down before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee, and shall turn again to thee, and confess thy name,] Acknowledge him to be God alone, and renounce all false gods.

And pray, and make supplication to thee in this house:] Or, toward this House: Expecting Help from God alone.

Ver. 34. Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them back into the land which thou gavest unto their fathers.] Deliver them out of the Captivity into which their Enemies had carried them; and restore them to their own Country. The Jews think the SCHECHINAH was always in Captivity with them, and brought them forth from thence.

Ver. 35. When heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee;] As God is said to bring the Wind (Psal. cxxxv. 7.) so he doth the Rain out of his Treasures: Which when he shuts up, no Showers can fall, 'till he open them again.

If they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin, when thou afflictest them:] That had been the frequent Fruit of their Affliction in former Ages: Though as soon as God had delivered them, they revolted from him; as we read in the whole Book of Judges.

Ver. 36. Then hear thou in heaven and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, that thou teach them the good way wherein they should walk,] These Words are better translated in 2 Chron. vi. 27. (where the Hebrew Words are the very same with these here) When thou hast taught them the good way wherein they should walk. He doth not desire their Pardon, 'till their Affliction had taught them better Obedience.

And give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given to thy people for an inheritance.] He first desires their Amendment, and then that the Times and Seasons might be amended.

Ver. 37. If there be in the land famine,] Which arose sometimes from other Causes, besides want of Rain.

If there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locust, or if there be caterpillar;] These two Creatures, Locusts and Caterpillars, made great Desolations where they swarmed, Exod. x. 4, 5. Psalm cv. 34, 35. Mildew also, the Heathens themselves were sensible was a punishment sent from Heaven. And therefore Numa Pompilius (as Strigelius observes) ordained a solemn Festival called Rubigalia, in the Beginning of May, to pray for their Preservation from this Rubigo as they called it, which corrupted their Corn. See Pliny's Nat. Hist. Lib. 18. Cap. 29.

If their enemy besiege them in the land of their cities,] In their Gates: Whereby they were so straitned, that none could go in, or out.

Whatsoever plague, whatsoever sickness there be;] The Word Plague signifies some extraordinary Stroke by the Hand of God.

Ver. 38. What prayer and supplication shall] be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel,] Who in National Calamities were wont to beseech God's Mercies; with publick Fasting and prayer: Which if they neglected he intreats him not to reject the Supplications of any particular Person who besought his Favour for himself and Family.

Which shall know every man the plague of his own heart,] We are taught by Ezra in 2 Chron. vi. 29. to understand these Words of any private Trouble or Grief which any Man laboured under: For so the Words are there, when every one shall know his own Sore, and his own Grief. That is, shall make his secret Moan for any Affliction which lies heavy upon his Spirit.

And spread forth his hands towards this house:] That is, pray as Solomon now did to God. See ver. 22.

Ver. 39. Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive, and do, and give to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou knowest;] He would have the People know that God could not be deceived with Words; but have them expect an answer from him, according to the Sincerity of their Hearts, in their Professions of Repentance.

(For thou, even thou only knowest the hearts of all the children of men.)] This Sense begets in Men the greatest Awe of the Divine Majesty.

Ver. 40. That they may fear thee all the days that they live, in the land that thou gavest unto our fathers.] That they might learn by his great Goodness, to worship him alone religiously all their Days: And by that means possess in Peace and Plenty, the good Land he had bestowed upon them.

Ver. 41. Moreover, concerning a stranger that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country, for thy name's sake;] To become a proselyte to the true Religion, and worship God alone, tho' he was not circumcised, and thereby bound to keep the whole Law. Such Strangers came to pray at the Temple, though they might not offer any Sacrifices, except only a Burnt-Offering. And therefore we may observe, that in the New Testament the Greeks are said to come to a Feast, ἵνα προσκυνήσωσιν, that they might worship, not that they might keep the Passover, John xii. 20. and the like is said of the Eunuch, Acts viii. 22. See Selden Lib. 2. De Jure Nat. & Gent. Cap. 4, and 5.

Ver. 42. (For they shall hear of thy great name, and of thy strong hand, and thy stretched out arm)] All the stupendious Wonders he had done: Which declared him to be above all Gods; the most High, and Holy One.

When they shall come, and pray toward this place:] In the Court behind that of the Israelites: Which was made on purpose for the Religious uncircumcised Gentiles. Such, saith Victorinus Strigelius (whose Words I think fit here to transcribe) were Naaman the Syrian; Nabuchadnezzar, and his Son Evilmerodach; Darius the Mede; Cyrus the Persian; Cornelius, and the Æthiopian Eunuch mentioned in the Acts of the Apostles; and many such like Heathens: Who were Members of the true Church. By which means, and by the Dispersion of the Jews among other Nations, many many Heathens were called to the Acknowledgment of the only true God. See Joſephus his laſt Book of Antiquities, Chapter the ſecond.

Ver. 43. Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for:] He had the ſame Senſe with St Peter, that God is no reſpecter of perſons, but in every nation he that feareth God, and worketh righteouſneſs, is accepted with him, Acts x. 35.

That all the people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Iſrael,] By this it is evident that truly good Men in ancient Time deſired all the Gentile World might be incorporated with them: Unto which in our Saviour's Time the Jews were unaccountably averſe.

And that they may know that this houſe which I have builded, is called by thy name.] Hath thy glorious Preſence in it.

Ver. 44. If thy people go out to battle againſt their enemy, whitherſoever thou ſhalt ſend them, and pray unto the LORD toward this city which thou haſt choſen, and toward the houſe that I have built for thy name:] Some of the Jews wonder that Solomon ſhould mix his Prayer for Strangers with thoſe for the People of Iſrael, and not rather finiſh firſt what he had to deſire for the Iſraelites, and then pray for the Gentiles. If there be any thing in this, it was to ſhew that God made no Difference between them and pious People of other Nations. It is here remarkable, that they were not to make War without a Warrant and Commiſſion from God, upon the neighbouring Nations. Not to ſatisfy their Ambition and Vain-glory, but by his Command, or upon juſt and neceſſary Reaſons; which would warrant them to implore and expect God's Bleſſing upon their Arms.

Ver. 45. Then hear thou in heaven their prayer and ſupplications, and maintain their cauſe.] Shews the Juſtice of it, by making them victorious.

Ver. 46. If they ſin againſt thee (for there is no man that ſinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemy,] The Weakneſs of human Nature, and its Proneneſs to ſin, doth not excuſe wilful Offences againſt God; eſpecially Apoſtacy from him, which was the Cauſe of all their Calamities.

So that they carry them away captives into the land of the enemy, far or near;] A good Cauſe ſometimes miſcarries for the Iniquity of thoſe that are engaged in it.

Ver. 47. Yet if they ſhall bethink themſelves, in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent and make ſupplication to thee in the land of them that carried them captives, ſaying, we have ſinned, we have done perverſly, we have committed wickedneſs;

Ver. 48. And ſo return to thee with all their heart and all their ſoul, in the land of their enemies, which have led them away captive,] In theſe, and in the foregoing Words, ver. 47. he gives a full Deſcription of true Repentance. Which begins in the ſerious Reflection which Men make upon their paſt Lives, and their preſent Miſeries into which their Sins have brought them. Which begets an unfeigned Sorrow and Reſolution of Amendment, with earneſt Supplication for Mercy and Grace: Confeſſing themſelves unworthy of it, and condemning themſelves for their Sins, and the high Aggravations of them (expreſſed here by doing perverſly, and committing wickedneſs) which at laſt concludes in their quitting that wicked Courſe of Life, and their ſincere Converſion to the Service of God.

And pray unto thee toward the land which thou gaveſt unto their fathers, the city which thou haſt choſen, and the houſe which I have built for thy name:] The very looking towards this Place, with earneſt imploring the Mercy of God, and Deſire of his Helps, was to own him that dwelt here, and acknowledge him alone for their God. Which was a Means (as that excellent Perſon Dr Alix admoniſhes me) to keep them from Idolatry: All the Nations of the World turning their Faces towards the Eaſt, when they worſhipped; but the Jews to the Weſt, where the Holy Place was. And for this Cauſe, when the Temple and the holy City were deſtroyed, and the Ark of the Teſtimony was gone; yet good Men looked and prayed toward the Place where it was wont to be; as appears by the Prophet Daniel. And therefore Solomon much more ſuppoſes they would do ſo, when they were all ſtanding. Which may ſeem, as Mr Mede obſerves, to have been done out of the uſe of all Mankind, without any ſpecial Precept to that Purpoſe; which is no where to be found: Nature having taught Mankind, as in their Addreſſes to great Perſons, to look unto their Face: So in their Addreſſes to the Divine Majeſty, to look that way, or toward that Place, where his Preſence is more demonſtrated than elſewhere. From whence he concludes, that to worſhip toward the Place, where there is any Sign or Specification of his Preſence, is no Idolatry. See his Diſcourſe upon Pſal. cxxxii. 7.

Ver. 49. Then hear thou their prayer and ſupplication in heaven thy dwelling-place, and maintain their cauſe,] In the Hebrew, their right: Which they had forfeited by their Diſobedience, but he prayed they might be reſtored unto upon their Repentance.

Ver. 50. And forgive thy people that have ſinned againſt thee, and all their tranſgreſſion wherein they have tranſgreſſed againſt thee, and give them compaſſion before them that have carried them captive, that they may have compaſſion on them:] Treat them mercifully while they continued their Slaves; and give them their Liberty to return to their own Land. Solomon enlarges much upon this in the following Verſes, as a thing of the greateſt Importance. Becauſe he knew that they, as well as all Men elſe, were prone to offend God (ver. 46.) and might provoke him to expel them from this Land. Towards which the Jews now at this Day turn their Faces, when they pray to God: But to no Purpoſe; for it only demonſtrates they have ſo provoked God by a Crime more heinous than ever was committed, that he will have no Regard to their Petition.

Ver. 51. For they be thy people and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt out of Egypt, from the the midst of the furnace of iron:] Wherein they wrought with cruel Labour. See Deut. iv. 20.

Ver. 52. That thine eyes may be open unto the supplication of thy servant, and unto the supplication of thy people Israel, to hearken unto them in all that they call for unto thee.] He brings two Arguments for the Divine Compassion toward them. First, that it might not lose the Glory of what he had formerly done for them; and then that it might appear he dwelt in this House, and had Respect unto the penitent Prayers that were here made to him.

Ver. 53. For thou didst separate them from all the people of the earth, to be thine inheritance, as thou spakest by the hand of Moses thy servant, when thou broughtest our fathers out of Egypt, O LORD our God.] See Exod. xix. 5. Here he adds a third Argument; the peculiar Laws that he had given them; whereby they were distinguished from all People: In the Observance of which he beseeches him to preserve them. It was not a meer Angel that brought them out of Egypt, but the Divine Λόγος conducted them; to whom therefore this Prayer of Solomon's was directed. For the SHEKINAH or Divine Glory that settled in the Temple, and there was worshipped, was this Divine Person, and not an Angel personating God.

Ver. 54. And it was so, that when Solomon had made an end of praying this prayer and supplication unto the LORD, he rose up from before the altar of the LORD, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands spread up to heaven.] See Verse 22.

Verse. 55. And he stood, and blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying,] Now he turned about again, with his Face the other way, from the Altar to the People.

Ver. 56. Blessed be the LORD, that hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised: there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant.] He celebrates again the Faithfulness of God, which continued now, as it had done in the Days of Joshua. See Josh. xxi. 45. xxiii. 14.

Ver. 57. And the LORD God be with us, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forsake us:] Of which there was no Doubt, if they cleaved stedfastly unto him, as it follows in the next Words.

Ver. 58. That he may incline our hearts unto him, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his statutes, and his judgments, which he commanded our fathers.] This was the greatest Blessing he could ask for them; as the Means to preserve them in his Favour.

Ver. 59. And let these my words wherewith I have made supplication before the LORD, be nigh unto the LORD our God day and night,] Be ever acceptable to him.

That he maintain the cause of his servant,] That is, of Solomon, and his Successors.

And the cause of his people Israel at all times, as the matter shall require:] That is, according to his, and their Necessities.

Ver. 60. That all the people of the earth may know that the LORD is God, and that there is none else.] That by his signal Favours to the Israelites, all the World might be invited to acknowledge him to be God alone.

Ver. 61. Let your hearts therefore be perfect with the LORD our God, to walk in his statutes, and keep his commandments, as at this day.] When they were perfectly free from all false Worship, and served God alone; as he exhorted them to continue still to do, with Sincerity of Heart.

Ver. 62. And the king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifices before the LORD.] Which was a solemn Act of Worship; whereby they acknowledged him to be their God. And these Sacrifices seem to have been laid upon the Altar, before Solomon begun his Prayer; ready to be offered: And when he had done, Fire came from Heaven (as we read 2 Chron. vii. 1.) and consumed the Sacrifices. Which was another Token of God's Presence in this House; as the Cloud had testified, and hereby was further confirmed: For the Fire from Heaven declared how acceptable the Sacrifices were that were offered in that Place.

Ver. 63. And Solomon offered a sacrifice of Peace-offerings, which he offered unto the LORD,] Besides the Burnt-offerings before-mentioned.

Two and twenty thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep:] Which could not be all offered upon that Day, when he made his Prayer, but while the Feast lasted; which was in the whole fourteen Days, ver. 65. See upon iii. 4. The Heathen imitated these Sacrifices in their Hecatombs, which they offered of an hundred Beasts of a kind; as, suppose, an hundred Oxen, an hundred Goats, and an hundred Swine. They are described by Julius Capitolinus, in his Life of the Emperors Pupienus Maximus, and Balbinus; the last of which he saith, was so transported with Joy, being fuller of Fear, that he offered an Hecatomb; which was such a Sacrifice as this. An hundred Altars of Turf were raised in one Place, at them an hundred Swine, and an hundred Birds were killed. But if it were the Sacrifice of an Emperor, an hundred Lions, an hundred Eagles, and an hundred of other such kind of Animals were offered: But no such ravenous Creatures were ever offered to the true God.

And all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the LORD.] By this Prayer of Solomon, and by the Sacrifices, whereby all the People supplicated and gave Thanks to God, this House was set apart for God's Worship and Service. For then a Thing or Place is said to be dedicated, when it is first employed to that Use unto which it is hereafter designed. Concerning which see Selden, Lib. 3. De Synedriis, p. 204, &c.

Ver. 64. The same day did the king hallow the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD:] That is, the Court of the Priests, which he did not consecrate (for that was done before) but employed it to holy Uses, and, as it were, honoured it by religious Acts (as Mr Mede speaks upon Levit. xix. 30.) And so the Name of God is said to be hallowed or sanctified by us, when we use it holily, and reverently. Thus they explain it in the Gemara, he hallowed it, that is, he set up another Altar there, as L'Empereur observes upon Codex Middoth, Cap. 3. Sect. 1.

For there he offered burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of peace-offerings.] In the middle middle of the Court he erected ſeveral Altars, for the Reaſon following: And indeed the whole Court was little enough upon this Occaſion, as Dr Lightfoot acknowledges in his Book of the Temple, pag. 192, 193.

Becauſe the brazen altar that was before the LORD,] Near the Door of this Court.

Was too little to receive the burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.] Therefore by a ſpecial Licence from God, he ſet up other Altars; which were to ſerve only during this preſent Solemnity; when ſuch a vaſt Number of Sacrifices were to be offered. But afterward no other Altar was to be allowed, but that one brazen Altar where God by Moſes appointed all Sacrifices ſhould be offered; that they might be preſerved in the Worſhip of one only God. Therefore the Jews ſay theſe other Altars which Solomon erected were of Stone; which were ſoon pulled down again. But Fortunatas Schaccus hath ſaid a great deal to make it probable that he did not erect any Altars beſides the brazen; but ſacrificed upon the Ground, Myrothec. 2. Cap. 56.

Ver. 65. And at that time Solomon made a feaſt, and all Iſrael with him,] Such Solemnities were uſual among the Heathen, when they celebrated the Preſence of any of their Gods, as the illuſtrious Ezek. Spanhemius hath obſerved upon Callimachus his Hymn to Apollo, ver. 13. where he juſtly makes Account that they derived this Cuſtom from this famous Feſtival of King Solomon: Which Joſephus ſets out admirably. See Lib. 8. Archæolog. Cap. 2.

A great congregation, from the entring in of Hamath, unto the river of Egypt,] Hamath was the utmoſt Bounds of Judea to the North, called afterward Epiphania; and by the Inhabitants at this Day is called Hama. Sometimes the Bounds of this Kingdom this way, are ſaid to be the great River Euphrates; as by the River of Egypt, which was the South Bounds, is commonly underſtood Nilus. So Nahal is tranſlated by Jonathan and the Hieruſalem Interpreter upon Numb. xxxiv. 5. And indeed the Word Nilus comes from thence, for the Hebrew Word was anciently pronounced not Nahal, but Neel: From whence the Greek Νεῖλος, and the Latin Nilus, as Bochartus obſerves in his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 5. Cap. 15. But here the River of Egypt is that little Stream which diſcharges it ſelf into the Sea, by the Lacus Sirbonides, between Mount Caſius and Rhinocolura, the laſt Town of Paleſtine. It is called by Joſhua, xiii. 1. Sichor, the ſame with Nile, becauſe it was but a Branch from the Alveus Peluſiacus of that great River. See Gen. xv. 18.

Before the LORD, ſeven days, and ſeven days, even fourteen days.] It appears by 2 Chron. vii. 9. that the Feaſt of the Dedication of the Altar laſted ſeven Days; and then the other ſeven Days were the Feaſt of Tabernacles, which followed after the other.

Ver. 66. On the eighth day he ſent the people away:] So Ezra likewiſe ſaith, 2 Chron. vii. 10. but adds that it was the twenty-third Day of the ſeventh Month: Whereas the laſt Day of the Feaſt of Tabernacles (which was the eighth from the Beginning) was the twenty-ſecond. Therefore Solomon took his Leave of them on the laſt Day of the Feaſt, which was the two and twentieth Day of the Month; and they went Home the next Day. By this alſo it appears, theſe fourteen Days of Feaſting were not kept all together, without Intermiſſion: For the great Day of Expiation was on the tenth of this Month; ſeven Days before which, I ſuppoſe, the Feaſt of Dedication was kept; and then they reſted 'till the fifteenth, when the Feaſt of Tabernacles began.

And they bleſſed the king,] Gave him Thanks for his Kindneſs, and prayed God to make his Reign proſperous.

And went to their tents joyful, and glad of heart, for all the goodneſs that God had done for David his ſervant, and for his people Iſrael.] In the Book of Chronicles it is added, and unto Solomon: But that is here included in the Goodneſs of God to David, on whom God beſtowed ſuch a Succeſſor. With whoſe magnificent Entertainment they were abundantly ſatisfied; and rejoiced exceedingly, that God had done ſuch great Things for David and his Family; and made all Iſrael happy in the great Peace and Plenty which they enjoyed, together with God's holy Religion ſo glorioufly eſtabliſhed among them.

CHAP. IX.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs when Solomon had finiſhed the building of the houſe of the LORD, and the king's houſe, and all Solomon's deſire that he was pleaſed to do,] We are taught by Ezra, 2 Chron. vii. 11. to underſtand theſe Words in this Manner; Thus Solomon finiſhed the houſe of the LORD, &c. and concluded all with the foregoing Prayer, and the great Feſtival which he kept.

Ver. 2. That the LORD appeared to Solomon the ſecond time, as he had appeared to him in Gibeon.] When he appeared to him in a Dream: And ſo it is ſaid, 2 Chron. vii. 10. the LORD appeared to Solomon by night. Which he had done once before, and no more: For that which he ſpake to him, vi. 11, 12. was by a Prophet. See there.

Ver. 3. And the LORD ſaid unto him, I have heard thy prayer and thy ſupplication that thou haſt made before me:] This ſhews that the firſt Verſe is to be underſtood as I have there obſerved; for otherwiſe, we muſt ſuppoſe this Appearance of God to Solomon was eleven Years after he had finiſhed the Houſe of the LORD. Which is not likely; but it is more natural to think it was the very next Night after he had diſmiſſed the People.

I have hallowed this houſe which thou haſt built,] By the glorious Cloud which came into it and filled it; and by the Fire which, deſcending from Heaven to conſume the Sacrifices, teſtified his Acceptance of them.

To put my name there for ever,] Beſides thoſe viſible Tokens of his Preſence there, he now declares by Word of Mouth, that he owned this for his Houſe; and would always dwell in it, if they kept his Covenant, as the Targum here interprets it.

And

And mine eyes and my heart ſhall be there perpetually.] By his Eyes and his Heart he means his gracious Providence, and his tender Love and Affection ſhould always have Regard to what was done there; and it ſhould be moſt acceptable to him.

Ver. 4. And if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, in integrity of heart and in uprightneſs, to do according to all that I have commanded thee, to keep my ſtatutes and my judgments:] In all things relating to Religion, and Civil Government, which David commonly did: Though ſome Time, and in one Thing, he fouly miſcarried.

Ver. 5. Then will I eſtabliſh the throne of thy kingdom upon Iſrael for ever, as I promiſed to David thy father, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man upon the throne of Iſrael.] See 2 Sam. vii. 12, 13.

Ver. 6. But if you ſhall at all turn from following me, you and your children,] In the Hebrew the Words are, if in turning you turn from me: Which ſignifies more than their at all turning from him. Rather it ſhould be tranſlated, if they altogether turned from following him: That is, fell to Idolatry. For he did not intend to forſake them for every Offence; but only when they forſook him, as the next Words explain it.

And will not keep my commandments and my ſtatutes, which I have ſet before you, but go and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them;] There was a general Corruption of their Manners, when they fell to Idolatry.

Ver. 7. Then will I cut off Iſrael out of the land which I have given them;] This ſhews that he ſpeaks in the foregoing Words of a general Apoſtacy from him.

And this houſe which I have hallowed for my name, will I caſt out of my ſight,] No longer continue his gracious Preſence there; which he had promiſed, ver. 3.

And Iſrael ſhall be a proverb,] So that when Men would expreſs how unhappy any one was, they ſhould ſay, as miſerable as the Jews.

And a by-word among the people:] Who mocked at their Calamity.

Ver. 8. And at this houſe which is high,] Renowned for its Riches, and Splendor, and great Reſort unto it.

Every one that paſſeth by it ſhall be aſtoniſhed,] To ſee ſuch a marvellous Change: For Pliny teſtifies that Jeruſalem was the moſt famous City in the Eaſt, as Grotius obſerves.

And ſhall hiſs, and ſhall ſay, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and to this houſe?] Out of Scorn and Deriſion ſhall aſk what is the Matter, that this famous Place, which boaſted ſo much of the Favour of God, is laid in Ruin.

Ver. 9. And they ſhall anſwer, Becauſe they forſook the LORD their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and have taken hold upon other gods, and worſhipped them, and ſerved them: therefore hath the LORD brought upon them all this evil.] The Jews were forced to give this Account of their Calamity.

Ver. 10. And it came to paſs in the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houſes; the houſe of the LORD, and the king's houſe,] The former of which was ſeven Years in building, the latter thirteen, vi. 38. vii. 1.

Ver. 11. (Now Hiram the king of Tyre had furniſhed Solomon with cedar-trees, and fir-trees, and with gold, according to all his deſire)] See Chap. v. 8, 10. Where mention is made of theſe Trees, but nothing ſaid of Gold: But in the fourteenth Verſe of this Chapter we find that Hiram ſent him an hundred and twenty Talents of Gold. Which it is not likely he gave Solomon; who rather purchaſed ſo much of him for Wheat and Oil, and ſuch like Things which Hiram's Country wanted; tho' it abounded with Gold. For the Tyrians were great Merchants, fetching Gold from Ophir, ver. 27, 28.

That then king Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.] They were near, or adjoining to the Country of Galilee (as the Particle Beth frequently ſignifies) but were no Part of the Land of Canaan, when it was divided among the Iſraelites: For that could not be alienated, being God's Heritage. They were therefore Cities out of the Territories of Iſrael, as appears from Joſhua ix. 27. but had been conquered partly by Pharaoh, who gave them to Solomon, as Part of his Daughter's Portion; and partly by Solomon himſelf, who had Power to diſpoſe of them; eſpecially ſince at that Time they were not inhabited by the Iſraelites. See 2 Chron. viii. 2. and Grotius de Jure Belli & Pacis. Lib. 1. Cap. 3. Sect. 12. N. 3. Hotoman indeed, a famous Lawyer, thinks that Solomon did not give Hiram a Propriety, and perpetual Right in theſe Cities; but only the Poſſeſſion and Enjoyment of them, 'till the Debt was ſatisfied, which Solomon had contracted, by the Aſſiſtance which Hiram afforded him, in building the Temple. But his Ground is not ſolid: For as our Selden alſo hath ſhewn (Lib. 6. de Jure Nat. & Gent. Cap. 16.) the Kings of Iſrael might diſpoſe of thoſe Lands, which they had conquered, in a voluntary War, without the Conſent of the Senate. Bochartus alſo is of the ſame Mind, that theſe Cities were no Part of the Country of Judea: But Abarbinel confirms Hotoman's Opinion, that the Revenues of theſe Cities were given to him 'till the Debt was diſcharged.

Ver. 12. And Hiram came out from Tyre to ſee the cities which Solomon had given him, and they pleaſed him not.] Were not ſuitable to his Deſire, and the Genius of his People; for the Soil being fat and very deep (as is generally thought) it required great Labour to till it, and was not pleaſant to dwell in.

Ver. 13. And he ſaid, What cities are theſe that thou haſt given me, my brother?] Theſe are not Words of Contempt; for it is not likely that Solomon, who had been highly obliged to Hiram (and was in his own Temper very generous) would give him that which was of little Value. But his Meaning is, theſe Cities were not ſuch as would ſerve his Purpoſe; which made him return them to Solomon again (2 Chron. viii. 2.) who, no doubt, made him ſome other Recompence, which gave him better Satisfaction. Abarbinel thinks that Solomon having agreed to give Hiram ſo many Meaſures of Wheat and Oil, as are mentioned, ver. 11. with which he had ſupplied him every Year; now that this Work was ended, gave him this Country, out of which he might raiſe this Proviſion for his Houſhold himſelf. Which Hiram did not like, becauſe his People were addicted to Merchandize, not to Agriculture: But did not upon this Account break off Friendſhip with Solomon, as appears by the following Hiſtory.

And he called them the land of Cabul unto this day.] It is commonly thought that Hiram called them, by way of Contempt, Cabul; which ſignifies a dirty Country: Or, as Joſephus will have it, diſpleaſing. (as we tranſlate in the Margin of our Bibles) For Chabulon, he ſaith, in the Phœnician Language ſignifies as much as ὃν ἀρέσκον, that which doth not pleaſe, Lib. 8. Archæol. Cap. 2. But the LXX ſeem to have underſtood the Word better; who tranſlate it ὅριον, the Term or Bound: As if Cabul were the ſame with Gebul; Caph and Gimel being frequently changed, as Bochartus obſerves; who approves of this Signification of the Word. For Chabulon was that Tract of Ground which bounded the lower Galilee: Extending from Tiberias unto this Place, as Joſephus himſelf ſaith, Lib. 3. De Bello Judaico. Cap. 2. See Bochartus in his Canaan, Lib. 2. Cap. 4.

Ver. 14. And Hiram ſent to the king ſixſcore talents of gold.] It may be better tranſlated, and Hiram had ſent, &c. See ver. 11. where the Reaſon is given, why Solomon offered him ſo rich a Country. Which though he did not like, yet theſe Words, Abarbinel thinks, ſignify that notwithſtanding Hiram continued his generous Friendſhip with Solomon, and after that ſent him all this Gold; or, it was ſent him as his Share in their Traffick to Ophir, mentioned in the Concluſion of this Chapter.

Ver. 15. And this is the reaſon of the levy which king Solomon raiſed] That the raiſing of a great Tribute upon the People, and employing ſo many Men in his Works, might not ſeem ſtrange, he here ſhews the Cauſe of it; which was his great and numerous Buildings; ſuitable to the high Dignity to which God had advanced him. But Mr Selden hath ſhewn, by many Inſtances, that the Word Mas is uſed not only for pecuniary Tribute; but for corporeal Labour. And thus he interprets theſe Words, This is the cauſe of requiring the labour and work of ſo many men. Which when he had declared, viz. his great Buildings; then he proceeds, ver. 20. to relate, who they were that he employed in this Service, Lib. 6. De Jure Nat. & Gent. Cap. 14.

For to build the houſe of the LORD, and his own houſe,] Of which an Account hath been already given.

And Millo,] Which was a large and very beautiful Place (as Abarbinel takes it) near to Sion; where the Iſraelites were wont to meet, and take their Pleaſure: And becauſe it was full of People, was therefore called Millo; which ſignifies Fulneſs, or Repletion. Now David had built round about Zion, from Millo inward (as we read 2 Sam. v. 9.) but had left the Structure of Millo itſelf imperfect; which Solomon now compleated, with a particular Reſpect to Pharaoh's Daughter, whoſe Houſe was near to it, ver. 24. of this Chapter. In this Place ſome think there was a ſtrong Fortreſs built, which they gather from xi. 27, and 2 Chron. xxxii. 5. But others will have it to ſignify that deep Valley or Ditch (it may be called) which was between Mount Sion (the City of David) and Mount Moriah, on which the Temple ſtood. Therefore that there might be a convenient Paſſage from the King's Palace to the Houſe of God, Solomon joined theſe two Mountains, by a Bridge or a Cauſeway; which could not be done without filling up the Valley, or making great Arches; ſome think the one, and ſome the other.

And the wall of Jeruſalem,] Which was a great Structure. For there were three Walls, one within another, as Abarbinel and Joſeph Ben Gorian explain it: The inner Wall compaſſing the Houſe of God, and the Houſe of the King; the middle Wall compaſſing the Houſes of the Prophets, and great perſons (which explains 2 Kings xxii. 14.) and the third compaſſed the Houſes of all the People.

And Hazor,] Which had been a very eminent City, and the Head of ſome Kingdoms before the Conqueſt of Canaan, Joſh. xi. 10. and was given to the Tribe of Naphtali, Joſh. xix. 36.

And Megiddo,] A City in the Tribe of Manaſſeh, Joſh. xvii. 11.

And Gezer,] In the Tribe of Ephraim, Joſh. xxi. 21.

Ver. 16. For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and ſlain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city,] For the Iſraelites could not diſpoſſeſs the Canaanites, but they continued in Joſhua's Time, and after, to dwell in Gezer, Joſh. xvi. 10. Judges i. 29. And it ſeems David and Solomon did not expel them, but continued them under Tribute; 'till Pharaoh upon ſome Provocation (which is not recorded) utterly extirpated them, and burnt their City. This was done, I ſuppoſe, before the Marriage of Solomon with Pharaoh's Daughter; and was the very firſt Expedition that the Egyptians made out of their own Country, as Sir John Marſham thinks in his Can. Chron. Seculum 14.

And given it for a preſent unto his daughter, Solomon's wife.] It is likely he had begun to repair the City: And now upon the Marriage of his Daughter, reſtored it to Solomon, who perfectly rebuilt it.

Ver. 17. And Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether,] This is, having finiſhed the building of Gezer, he built the lower Beth-horon, which was in the Tribe of Benjamin (Joſh. xviii. 13, 14.) and Ezra tells us alſo (in 2 Chron. viii. 5.) Beth-horon the upper which was in the Tribe of Ephraim (Joſh. xvi. 5.) but not here mentioned: Either becauſe it was not of ſo great Conſequence, or did not need ſo much Reparation as the other.

Ver. 18. And Baalath,] There was a City of this Name in the Tribe of Dan, Joſh. xix. 44. But it is likely this was a City near Tadmor, where Baal had been formerly worſhipped: For Baal was one of the Gods of that People, it appears in the following Obſervation.

And Tadmor in the wilderneſs,] This Word Tadmor ſignifies in Hebrew as much as Palma in Latin. From whence it was called by the Romans Palmyra:

Palmyra: Which was one of the moſt ſplendid Cities in the Eaſtern Countries: Which gave Name to the Palmyrenæ Solitudines, mentioned by Pliny and Ptolomy. There have been lately, after Twelve Hundred Years Obſcurity, ſeveral noble Inſcriptions found in this Place by ſome that travelled into this Wilderneſs: But Bochartus hath one of far greater Antiquity of two Phœnician Gods, Aglibelus and Melachbelus, viz. the Summer and the Winter Sun: In his Geogr. Sacra, p. 2, called Canaan, Lib. 2. Cap. 8. p. 811. where he calls this Tadmor a City of Phœnicia.

In the Land,] Of Hamath Zoba (a part of Syria) as Ezra ſeems to expound it, 2 Chron. viii. 3, 4. which Country Solomon had conquered.

Ver. 19. And all the cities of ſtore that Solomon had,] Where he laid up Corn againſt a Time of need; or Arms and Ammunition, in caſe of War. Some will have them Cities where he kept his Treaſure, which is not likely.

And cities for his chariots, and cities for his horſemen,] Which he had in great Number, iv. 26.

And that which Solomon deſired to build in Jeruſalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.] So that whitherſoever he went, he had an Houſe for his Entertainment, in every part of his Country. Behold, ſaith Abarbinel, the Reaſon of the Tribute (ver. 15.) is given from all theſe Buildings: And after he had finiſhed them, he laid no further Tribute upon his People: Who murmured at theſe Impoſitions, as we find, after he was dead: But in theſe publick Buildings, a great Number of Hands were employed, whereby Idleneſs was expelled, Manufactures were learnt, the Poor were relieved, all the meaner People exerciſed, Cities adorned, Diſeaſes driven away, and no Place left for Envy and Sedition: While the Subjects found the Treaſure that was raiſed, employed for the Benefit of ſo many of them; as Bodinus diſcourſes in his Book De Republica, Lib. 11. Cap. 2. where he obſerves how Auguſtus having ſettled the Empire in Peace, kept the People in their Duty by this Means; repairing many Temples decayed by Time, or burnt by Fire: Laying out vaſt Sums upon the Chappel of Jupiter Capitolinus, and other publick Edifices; inſomuch that he gloried, he left Rome a Marble City, which he found a Brick,

Ver. 20. And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuſites, which were not of the children of Iſrael,] But by this Time were become, I ſuppoſe, Proſelytes to the Jewiſh Religion, as the Gibeonites were, or at leaſt renounced their Idolatry.

Ver. 21. Their children which were left after them, whom the children of Iſrael alſo were not able to deſtroy, upon them did Solomon levy a tribute of bond-ſervice unto this day.] He was able to have rooted them all out, as the Law required; but that Command did not take Place after they had ſubmitted, and made Peace with the Iſraelites (as thoſe Words ſuppoſe, Joſh. ix. 19.) And they ſeem now to have been in ſo poor a Condition, that Solomon did not lay any Tribute of Money upon them; but only of burdenſome Labour. Of theſe were the ſeventy-thouſand that bare Burdens, and eighty-thouſand that were Hewers in the Mountains; mentioned, v. 15. Thus Mr Selden, in the Place above-mentioned, explains theſe Words, they were not able utterly to deſtroy: Which was not for want of Power, but becauſe they had made a Covenant with them, and did not conſume them (as it is in 2 Chron. viii. 8.) But they would not receive them into Peace with them, 'till they became Proſelytes of the Gate: And when they had done ſo, they became Tributaries; and therefore ſuch Perſons, by vertue of their Covenant, Solomon now commanded to this Service. See Lib. 6. De Jure Nat. & Gentium, Cap. 14.

Ver. 22. But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon make no bond-men:] By this means he ſpared the Children of Iſrael, whom he did not employ in any ſervile Labours about his publick Works; but put them into nobler Offices, as it here follows. Yet this implies that his Royal Power might have laid ſuch Loads on them, if he had not deſigned to rule with great Gentleneſs over them.

But they were men of war,] Which was accounted an honourable Employment.

And were his ſervants,] Officers in his Court.

And his princes,] Governours of Provinces.

And his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen,] Commanders of his Guards.

Ver. 23. And theſe were the chief of the officers that were over Solomons work, five hundred and fifty, which bare rule over the people that wrought in the work.] In 2 Chron. viii. 10. they are ſaid to be but two hundred and fifty. For the Hebrew Doctors commonly ſay that there were of theſe Officers but two hundred and fifty Iſraelites: The other three hundred were Proſelytes. But the plaineſt Account of this is given by Abarbinel, that there were only two hundred and fifty ſet over thoſe that wrought in the Temple: The reſt were employed in looking after his publick Works in other Places. And it muſt be obſerved alſo, that there were far greater Numbers employed when the Temple Work was carried on with great Speed, as we read before, ver. 16.

Ver. 24. But Pharaoh's daughter came up out of the city of David, unto her houſe which Solomon had built for her: then did he build Millo.] There was not the like Neceſſity for building Millo that there was for building the Walls of Jeruſalem, and the Cities before-named: But he did it (as Abarbinel obſerves) in Honour, and for the Pleaſure of Pharaoh's Daughter; who was to remove unto an Houſe near to it. And the Reaſon ſhe did not continue in the Houſe where David had dwelt, we are told in 2 Chron. viii. 11. which was, becauſe it was a kind of holy Place, where it was not fit for her to remain; the Ark of God having dwelt there.

Ver. 25. And three times in the year did Solomon offer burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings upon the altar which he built unto the LORD,] The Meaning is not, that he offered Sacrifices no oftner; but that he never failed to keep the three ſolemn Feſtivals, which God commanded to be obſerved by every body, when he offered Sacrifices ſuitable to thoſe great Mercies which were then commemorated; and to the great Bleſſings God had beſtowed upon his Family.

And he burnt incenſe upon the altar that was before the LORD:] In the holy Place, before the Oracle. Where he could not burn it himſelf; but he gave it to the Prieſts at his own Charge, to be offered with a particular Reſpect to him. That it is likely he did every Day, Morning and Evening.

So he finiſhed the houſe.] This was ſaid before, but now repeated; becauſe after he had kept the three great Feſtivals there, it was not only conſecrated, but all Divine Offices had been performed in it; and there was nothing more to be added.

Ver. 26. And king Solomon made a navy of ſhips in Ezion-geber,] This Name Ezion-geber ſignifies Spina Viri; it lying in a rocky, ragged Shore, running out into the Sea like the Backbone of a Man. So Arianus (as Bochartus obſerves) in his Periplus deſcribes the inmoſt Part of the Sinus Arabicus (where Ezion-geber lay) as very dangerous, becauſe of the Rocks and Shelves. Which makes it leſs ſtrange, that the Ships of Jehoſhaphat were broken there in Pieces, in the very Port, before they put out to Sea, 2 Kings xxii. 48. Inſomuch that in after-times this Port was forſaken, and they frequented Elath. Joſephus will have Ezion-geber to be the ſame with Berenice, a City on the African Shore, over-againſt Syene; others have different Conjectures; when the Scripture plainly teaches us that it was a Port of Idumæa, not far from Aela upon the Red Sea; and not far diſtant from the Wilderneſs of Sin. For the Iſraelites removed their Camp from this Place to that Wilderneſs, as we read Num. xxxiii. 36.

Which is beſide Eloth,] Or, Elath, for it is called by both Names: And by the Greeks and Romans, Aela, and Ailat, and Elat, and Elana, &c. Which was a Port known in the Days of Moſes, Deut. ii. 8. belonging to the Edomites; and, as St Hierom ſaith, to the Egyptians: For it was ambigui juris, lying on the Confines of both Countries. Inſomuch that Sir John Marſham thinks Solomon and Hiram now built Ships there with the good Leave of Pharaoh; the Egyptians now not minding Merchandize, but were ſet upon conquering Countries: But David having conquered Edom, 2 Sam. viii. 14. I rather think became Maſter of this Port; where Solomon built a Navy of Ships in his own Right, and went thither himſelf to ſee it, 2 Chron. viii. 17. It continued in the Poſſeſſion of the Iſraelites about an hundred and fifty Years, till, in the Time of Joram, the Edomites recovered it, 2 Kings viii. 20. But it was again taken from them by Azariah, and left by him to his Son, 2 Kings xiv. 22. but loſt again by his Grandſon Ahaz, from whom the King of Syria took it 2 Kings xvi. 6. The Syrians held it a long Time, 'till after many Changes under the Ptolomies and the Seleucidæ it came into the Hands of the Romans; who quartered there the Tenth Legion, as St Hierom tells us. See Bochartus in the ſecond Part of his Geographia Sacra, called Canaan, Lib. 1. Cap. 44.

On the ſhore of the Red-ſea, in the land of Edom.] What the Hebrews call the Sea of Suph, other Nations call the Sea of Edom, from the Country which it waſhes, viz. Idumea; as appears from this Place. From whence the Greeks (not knowing the Reaſon of the Name) call it ἐρυθρὰν θάλασσαν, the Red-ſea: The Word Edom ſignifying Rubrum or Rufum, Red, or Yellow, as Bochartus and Ludolphus have obſerved.

Ver. 27. And Hiram ſent in the navy his ſervants, ſhip-men, that had knowledge of the ſea, with the ſervants of Solomon.] The Navy was Solomon's, who had Servants of his own on board the Ships, to go and traffick at Ophir: But they had no Skill in Navigation, and therefore Hiram ſent as many Tyrians as were neceſſary to man the Ships; they having been always bred at Sea.

Ver. 28. And they came to Ophir,] It is certain there was a Place called Ophir, or as the LXX call it σόφιρ (which Word Joſephus alſo uſes inſtead of Ophir) and by others called Ὀφρῆν, which was in Arabia Felix. But this cannot be the Place here meant, as Bochartus hath demonſtrated by many Arguments, in his Phaleg. Lib. 2. Cap. 27. This one is ſufficient, that it was a three Years Voyage to Ophir here mentioned; whereas the other was very near the Place where the Navy was prepared. And beſides, they fetched Ivory from Ophir, whereas there are no Elephants in Arabia; therefore we muſt ſearch for it ſomewhere elſe: And there is little doubt it was in India: But in what Part of it, is not ſo eaſy to be determined. The famous Bochartus thinks it was Taprobana; which is the ſame with that now called Zeilan or Seilan. For what the Ancients ſay of Taprobana, that the Moderns ſay of Zeilan; as he hath ſhewn in a very large Diagram of both Countries, in his Canaan, Lib. 1. Cap. 46. And indeed Grotius before him concluded, there was no better Way to gueſs where this Place was, than by conſidering what Commodities were brought from thence, and enquiring of Merchants (who have been in the remote Parts of the World) where not only Gold, and Silver, and precious Stones, but Ivory, and all the reſt that were fetched from Ophir, are to be found now. And in a Letter to his Brother, he deſires him to make this Enquiry for him. See Epiſtol. 483.

And fet from thence gold, four hundred and twenty talents,] It is ſaid in 2 Chron. viii. 18. that they brought four hundred and fifty: But we may well ſuppoſe that thirty Talents might be ſpent in the Charges of the Voyage to and fro; ſo that only four hundred and twenty came to Solomon's Coffers. Or rather, as Abarbinel thinks, Solomon gave the Servants of Hiram, who managed the Ships, thirty Talents for a Gratuity. Or as Laniado (who delights to contradict Abarbinel) the Jeruſalem Talent was bigger than that of Ophir: So that four hundred and fifty Ophir Talents made but four hundred and twenty Jeruſalem Talents. It is eaſy alſo to ſay, that there came of Gold refined only four hundred and twenty into Solomon's Treaſury; though the whole Maſs was four hundred and fifty.

And brought it to king Solomon.] It is no improbable Conjecture of Abarbinel, that Solomon at firſt trafficked in the Ships of Hiram; which Voyage brought him for his Share the hundred and twenty Talents mentioned, ver. 14. of this Chapter: Which Hiram is ſaid to have ſent to him, as the Profit (that is) of his Adventure. Which was ſo great that Solomon reſolved to build a Navy of his own: At which Hiram was ſo far from being offended, that like a true Friend he furniſhed him with Mariners to manage the Ships; and they brought him this great Quantity of Gold at their Return from their firſt Voyage.

The Imperial Laws forbid noble Men to exerciſe Merchandiſe as a Thing below them: And therefore it much leſs becomes a King, as Bodinus diſcourſes, Lib. 6. de Republ. Cap. 2. But we muſt not meaſure Antiquity by our own Times: And that Author well adds, that though he would not have Kings now to be Merchants, yet if he might have his Choice, Mercatorem eum malo quam Tyrannum, &c. I had rather a Prince ſhould be a Merchant than a Tyrant; and noble Men ſhould rather trade, than oppreſs and make a Prey of their Tenants.

CHAP. X.

Verſe 1. AND when the queen of Sheba] Joſephus thinks ſhe was Queen of Meroe, which was anciently called Saba. But a great many of his Countreymen more rightly underſtand this Matter; who ſay ſhe came from Aljemin; which was the South Part of Arabia Felix, near the Red-Sea; and ſo our Saviour calls her the Queen of the South, which is the Signification of Jemin in Hebrew; and in Arabick with the Addition of Al is called Aljemin.

Heard of the fame of Solomon, concerning the name of the LORD,] Theodoret thinks ſhe was a Religious Woman, as far as the Light of Nature guided her; and if we may believe the Hebrew Tradition, ſhe had ſome Tincture of revealed Religion from her pious Anceſtors: For they think ſhe was deſcended from Abraham by Keturah; one of whoſe Sons begat Sheba, 1 Chron. i. 32. Now ſhe came to hear of Solomon's Fame by the Ships that went to Ophir: For they ſailed by her Coaſt, and in all likelihood ſpread his Fame there; as they did in all other Places where they touched; proclaiming his Mgnificence, and eſpecially his Wiſdom, and his glorious Temple which he had built, for the Worſhip of his God. Whoſe Praiſe they ſet forth, as far above all Gods.

She came to prove him with hard queſtions.] To try whether he was ſo wiſe as Report made him; by propounding difficult Queſtions to him, which none but a Man divinely illuminated could reſolve; as Abarbinel underſtands it.

Ver. 2. And ſhe came to Jeruſalem] The Fable of Agatharcides is confuted by this, which ſaith the Royal Dignity among the Sabæans was but a kind of Captivity. For after the Inauguration of the King, it was forbid, by an ancient Oracle, that he ſhould ſtir out of his Palace upon Pain of ſtoning: But there he enjoyed himſelf in all manner of Pleaſure.

With a very great train,] Royally attended.

And with camels that bare ſpices, and very much gold, and precious ſtones:] Theſe Preſents which ſhe brought to Solomon, are a great Argument ſhe came from Arabia Felix; which abounded with ſuch Things; but none of them are in Meroe: Nor can Meroe be ſaid to be the Ends of the Earth; from whence our Saviour ſaith this Queen came; there being many large Countries in Africa beyond Meroe; but none beyond the Sabæans in Arabia, whoſe Country lay upon the Sea. See Bochartus in his Phaleg. Lib. 2. Cap. 26. Where he ſhews they abounded in Gold, having ſuch Plenty of it from Ophir, that they exchanged it for Braſs and Iron, &c. giving double, or thrice the Weight of them. And yet the Abyſſine Chriſtians (who ſay her Name was Marqueda) are very confident ſhe came from their Country; where it is as conſtant a Tradition that ſhe had a Son by Solomon; from whom their Kings are derived. So Ludolphus obſerves in his Notes upon the Confeſſion of Claudius King of Ethiopia; where he ſaith, this was the Faith of his Father the Iſraelitiſh King.

And when ſhe was come to Solomon ſhe communed with him of all that was in her heart.] Had the Liberty to propound whatſoever ſhe deſired to be reſolved about; either in Natural, I ſuppoſe, or Divine Things.

Ver. 3. And Solomon told her all her queſtions:] That is, anſwered them to her Satisfaction.

There was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not.] There was nothing ſo ſecret, which he did not reveal to her.

Ver. 4. And when the queen of Sheba had ſeen all Solomons wiſdom,] Had fully diſcovered the wonderful Variety of Wiſdom wherewith he was endowed.

And the houſe which he had built,] Both for God and for himſelf: The Magnificence of which was admirable.

Ver. 5. And the meat of his table,] Where it is likely ſhe was entertained while ſhe ſtayed at Jeruſalem.

And the ſitting of his ſervants,] At their Table.

And the attendance of his miniſters,] Who waited on him at his Table, and in his Chamber, and other Places.

And their apparel,] Which was different, I ſuppoſe, according to their ſeveral Offices; but all very ſtately.

And his cup-bearers,] Who filled out his Wine, and brought and delivered it to him: With ſuch Ceremony as made his Grandeur appear in that ſmall Thing.

And his aſcent by which he went up to the houſe of the LORD:] From his own Palace: of which L'Empereur gives an Account, upon Codex Middoth, p. 50. But the ancient Interpreters underſtand by the Word Olatho not his Aſcent; but his Burnt-offering, which he offered in the Houſe of the LORD. And it is very likely, ſhe ſaw the Service of God's Miniſters in his Houſe, as well as Solomon's in his own Houſe: And was made by Solomon to underſtand the Meaning of every thing that was done there. Which muſt needs put her into an Extacy of Admiration, as it here follows. And thus the LXX tranſlate theſe Words καὶ τὴν ὁλοκάυτωσιν αὐτῦ ἣν ἀνέφερεν ἐν οἴκῳ κυρίυ, whom P. Martyr, Victorinus Strigelius and others follow in theſe Words, Et holocauſta ejus, quæ in domo Domini mini offerebat, and his Burnt-offerings which he offered in the Houſe of the LORD.

There was no more ſpirit in her.] She was perfectly aſtoniſhed. For as he diſcourſed of all Sorts of Natural Things; ſo he was no leſs ſkilful in Political Government; and tranſcended in the Knowledge of Divine Matters, as his Books ſhew us; having all Things likewiſe in ſuch Order both in his Houſe, and every where elſe, that it was amazing. A very great Man of our own obſerves, that ſuch things as theſe, the Apparel, the Sitting and Attendance of his Servants, were juſtly admired by her as an Indication of Solomon's Wiſdom. For they are the Outworks which preſerve Majeſty it ſelf from Approaches and Surprizals. And whatſoever Prince departs from theſe Forms and Trappings and Ornaments of his Dignity and Preheminence, will hardly be able, at ſome Time, to preſerve the Body it ſelf of Majeſty from Intruſion, Invaſion, and Violation.

Ver. 6. And ſhe ſaid unto the king,] When ſhe had recovered her ſelf out of her Aſtoniſhment.

It was a true report that I heard in my own country, of thy acts, and of thy wiſdom.] They did not deceive her, who by their Reports of him, moved her to take this long Journey.

Ver. 7. Howbeit, I believed not the words, 'till I came, and mine eyes had ſeen it:] She thought they might magnify Things too much, as Travellers are wont to do; eſpecially when they ſpeak of their own Country.

And behold, the half was not told me: thy wiſdom and proſperity exceedeth the fame which I heard.] This was very extraordinary: For commonly Men find Things fall far ſhort of their Expectations.

Ver. 8. Happy are thy men,] His Subjects.

And happy are theſe thy ſervants, which ſtand continually before thee, and hear thy wiſdom.] Eſpecially thoſe that were about his Perſon, and miniſtred unto him, who had Opportunity every Day to hear his wiſe Sayings and Diſcourſes.

Ver. 9. Bleſſed be the LORD thy God,] One would think by this that ſhe became a Proſelyte before ſhe returned to her own Country; whither ſhe carried better Things than ſhe preſented to Solomon (which the next Verſes mention) the Treaſures of Heavenly Wiſdom. Philoſtorgius indeed ſaith, that in his Time the Sabæans ſacrificed to the Sun and Moon, and certain Dæmons of their own Country; and yet ἐκ περίτομον τὸ ἔθνος, &c. the Nation was circumciſed after the Jewiſh Manner on the eighth Day. Which Rite they received, one would think, from this Queen, and retained it a long Time, though they continued their old Superſtition. It is poſſible indeed that the Jews who lived among them, might perſuade them to it. For the ſame Philoſtorgius ſaith, ἐκ ὀλίγου πλῆθος Ἰουδαίων ἀυτοῖς ἀναπέφυται, no ſmall Number of Jews was mingled with them.

Which delighted in thee, to ſet thee on the throne of Iſrael; becauſe the LORD loved Iſrael for ever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgment and juſtice.] A moſt excellent Admonition both to the People and to the King; that they ſhould think themſelves highly obliged to God, who had given them ſuch a King; and he ſhould think God made him King to govern his People juſtly. This Senſe the wiſe Heathen had, that Governours were ſet over Men by God, for their Good: As Ariſtotle told Alexander in a Letter to him, wherein he exhorts him to keep him in Mind, that his Kingdom was given him by God for the Sake of Mankind, εἰς εὐεργεσίαν, ἀ πρὸς ὕβριν, that he might do them good, and not abuſe them.

Ver. 10. And ſhe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold.] Though we do not find that the Ancients ſpeak of any Mines of Gold in the Sabæans Country; yet they abounded with it, being near to that Ophir which I before mentioned, and is ſpoken of in the Book of Job, xxii. 24. xxviii. 16. (in an Age when they were not acquainted with the Indian Ophir, which was very remote from them.) And ſeveral other Places there were alſo near to them, who had Plenty of Gold, as Bochartus ſhews in his Phaleg. Lib. 2. Cap. 27. p. 159, &c.

And ſpices very great ſtore, and precious ſtones.] This Country was famous for Myrrh, Frankincenſe, and Cinnamon, (Joſephus adds Balſom alſo) as Bochart obſerves out of many Authors, in the ſame Book, Cap. 26. p. 149, 153. For their very Fires were made of Caſſia, and Cinnamon. Precious Stones alſo he ſhews were ſo common in this Country, that they adorned their Cups, and their Beds, and their Stools, &c. with them. See him, p. 150.

There came no more ſuch abundance of ſpices, as theſe which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.] For it ſeems the Jews maintained no Trade with this Country.

Ver. 11. And the navy alſo of Hiram that brought gold from Ophir,] This is meant of Ophir in India, mentioned ix. 28. From which Hiram's Navy is ſaid to bring Gold, though the Ships were Solomon's, becauſe Hiram's Servants had the Management of them.

Brought it from Ophir great plenty of almug-trees, and precious ſtones.] It is very uncertain what theſe Almug, or Algum, Trees were. (as they are called by a Tranſpoſition of Letters in 2 Chron. ii. 8.) Our famous Dr Caſtell thinks it was the Wood called Sanctulum; which is proper for all the Uſes mentioned in the next Verſe, and is ſtill in India. And R. D. Kimchi upon that Place in the Chronicles ſaith it was a Red-Wood which is now called Brezil. By which cannot be meant the Wood that comes from Brazil, for that Country was not known in his Days; but probably he calls it Brezil from the Hebrew Word Barzel, which ſignifies Iron; it being of ſuch a dark Colour. And ſuch a Wood there is now in the Kingdow of Java, as Gouſſet obſerves out of Thevet, and other Authors, in his Comment. Linguæ Hebr.

Ver. 12. And the king made of the almug-trees, pillars for the houſe of the LORD, and for his own houſe,] Or rather Rails (as we tranſlate it in the Margin of our Bibles) which were made on either Side the Cauſey which went up from the King's Houſe to the Houſe of the LORD. Compare this with 1 Chron. xxvi. 16, 18. and 2 Chron. ix. 11. and ſee Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, p. 125. where he only quotes Ralbag; who ſaith he made Battlements, i. e. Rails Rails on either Side, that Men by them might ſtay themſelves, as they went along the High-way of that Aſcent.

Harps alſo and pſalteries for ſingers: there came no ſuch almug-trees, nor were ſeen unto this day.] This Account of Almug-trees is mixed with the Story of the Queen of Sheba, becauſe ſhe is ſaid, ver. 5. to have admired the Aſcent (as we tranſlate it) which Solomon made to the Houſe of the LORD. Which appeared the more magnificent, becauſe the Rails thereof were made of this rare Wood. Which Abarbinel fancies was Coral, which grows in the very Sea, and they had never ſeen before; nor did any come after.

Ver. 13. And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all her deſire, whatſoever ſhe asked, beſide that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty:] By their mutual Preſents, which ſhe made to him (ver. 10.) and he at her Departure made to her, they teſtified their Friendſhip to each other; deſiring by theſe to be remembred. And Solomon deſired to know what would be moſt acceptable to her, among all the Rarities ſhe had ſeen, which he beſtowed upon her: Beſides, he generouſly added more Things of Value, which it is likely ſhe had not in her own Country.

So ſhe turned, and went to her own country, ſhe and her ſervants.] Accompanied, it is probable, with many of the Iſraelites, who went and planted themſelves there: From whom ſprung thoſe Jews, who, Philoſtorgius ſaith, were mixed with the Sabæans in no ſmall Numbers, as I obſerved, ver. 9. But the Jews, of whom he ſpeaks, were ſuch as ſettled there after the laſt Captivity; and it was not lawful for a Jew, while the Temple ſtood to ſettle in a Place, from whence he could not come three times a Year to worſhip at Jeruſalem.

Ver. 14. Now the weight of gold which came to Solomon in one year, was ſix hundred threeſcore and ſix talents of gold,] The Hiſtory of the Queen of Sheba being ended, he returns to give an Account of Solomon's Riches and Magnificence; which he had begun to ſet forth before. And firſt he relates what a vaſt Quantity of Gold was brought into his Country every Year; not only from Ophir, but from other Countries unto which perhaps the Queen of Sheba opened him a Paſſage.

Ver. 15. Beſides that he had of the merchantmen,] Who paid Cuſtom for the Goods they brought from ſeveral Countries; or, as Abarbinel thinks, the Men of Hattarim (as the Words are in the Hebrew) ſignify a certain Nation, viz. the Tartars (as they are now called) who brought Commodities from the North Country to the People of Iſrael, as others did from the South.

And of the traffick of the ſpice-merchants,] There is no Reaſon thus to tranſlate theſe Words, as the ſame Author thinks: But they ſignify in general all Sorts of Traders, who brought in Merchandize, by Sea or Land.

And all the kings of Arabia,] Who ſent him Preſents.

And of the governors of the countries.] Which David or he had conquered, and placed Governours there; who gathered his Tribute, and ſent it to him every Year.

Ver. 16. And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: ſix hundred ſhekels of gold went to one target.

Ver. 17. And he made three hundred ſhields of beaten gold; three pound of gold went to every ſhield: Theſe Targets and Shields ſeem to have been made for State and Pomp; to be carried before him, upon ſome ſpecial Occaſions. Though we do read in the Roman Authors of ſome great Captains to whom golden Shields were granted, as a Reward of their great Valour: And theſe perhaps might be intended for the ſame Purpoſe. But then we muſt not think that the Shields weighed but ſix hundred Shekels (which would have been ſo ſmall as to be of no Uſe) but that each coſt ſix hundred Shekels of Gold; as Fort. Scacchus obſerves, Myrothec. 3. Cap. 3.

And the king put them in the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon.] Where it is likely he kept his moſt precious Treaſure. See concerning this Houſe, vii. 2. which Joſephus ſaith the Queen of Sheba admired above all Things ſhe ſaw in Judæa: The vaſt Multitude of Cedar Pillars that were in it, making it look like the Foreſt of Lebanon: From whence ſome think it had its Name.

Ver. 18. And the king made a great throne of ivory,] We never read of ivory 'till about Solomon's Time; who, perhaps, brought Elephants out of India, and took Care to have a great Deal of Ivory brought with them. Inſomuch that we read of Ivory Palaces, Pſalm xlv. 9. whoſe Walls were overlaid with Ivory; which was more precious than Gold in ancient Time, as Pliny tells in many Places.

And overlaid it with the beſt gold.] Not intirely, ſo as to cover the Ivory (for then it might as well have been made of Wood) but here and there; as P. Martyr reaſonably conjectures. Which made the Throne appear more beautiful by the Mixture of Gold and Ivory; with which at due Diſtances it was ſtudded. In this Throne he ſat when he adminiſtred Juſtice, and gave Audience to Ambaſſadors, and the like.

Ver. 19. The throne had ſix ſteps,] Was advanced to a juſt Height, that he might be ſeen and heard by all.

And the top of the throne was round behind:] Making an half Circle over his Head.

And there were ſtays on either ſide of the place of the ſeat,] Like one of our great Chairs, which have Reſts to lean one's Arm upon, on either Side.

And two lions ſtood behind the ſtays.] As their Supporters.

Ver. 20. And twelve lions ſtood on the one ſide, and on the other upon the ſix ſteps:] Upon every Step a Lion ſtood reared up, on each Side, as if he was falling upon his Prey: Which many Interpreters think had a myſtical Meaning in it, as every thing elſe had belonging to his Throne; with which I ſhall not trouble the Reader. Grotius thinks he offended in making theſe Figures; and having once begun to tranſgreſs the Law, he grew ſtill worſe and worſe.

There was not the like made in any kingdom.] That is, in thoſe Times there was none to be compared with it; but in After-Ages there were perhaps more glorious. For Athenæus ſaith, the Throne of the Parthian Kings was of Gold, incompaſſed with four Golden Pillars beſet with precious Stones, Lib. 12. Deipnoſ. And the Perſian Kings he ſaith ſat in Judgment under a Golden Vine (and other Trees of Gold) the Bunches of whoſe Grapes were made of ſeveral Sorts of precious Stones.

Ver. 21. And all king Solomon's drinking-veſſels were of gold, and all the veſſels of the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon were of pure gold, none were of ſilver; it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon.] Who brought in ſuch Plenty of Gold, that it made Silver of leſs Value while he lived.

Ver. 22. For the King had at ſea a navy of Tarſhiſh, with the navy of Hiram:] Theſe Words are added to give a further Account how Solomon came to have Gold in ſuch Abundance: For he trafficked for it, in another Fleet, beſides that which went to Ophir. That Fleet, it is plain, was Solomon's, and ſailed out of his own Port Ezion-geber, ix. 26. though it was manned by Tyrians, becauſe they underſtood the Sea. Whereas this Navy here ſpoken of belonged to Hiram, and went out of his Port at Tyre; and Solomon had only the Liberty to trade in it to Tarſhiſh. Which was a Place wherewith the Tyrians had very ancient Commerce; and therefore Hiram was the chief in this Voyage, as Solomon was in that to Ophir.

Once in three years came the navy of Tarſhiſh, bringing gold, and ſilver,] It was not ſo far off, that they could not return in leſs than three Years: But, as Abarbinel ſuppoſes, they went thither in the End of one Year, and ſtayed there the next to vend and to buy their Commodities; and then returned in the Beginning of the third Year. Bochartus hath made it very probable that this Place was Tarteſſus in Spain, where Gold and Silver in ancient Times, if we may believe Strabo and others, whom he quotes, was plentiful. But I do not find any Proof that Ivory, Apes, and Peacocks, were the Commodities of that Country. See his Phaleg. Lib. 3. Cap. 7.

And Ivory,] The Hebrew Word Senhabim is of doubtful Signification: But the Word Sen, or Shen, certainly ſignifying a Tooth, Interpreters have ſuppoſed that habim ſignifies an Elephant; and both together import Elephants Teeth, i. e. Ivory. But it is hard to give an Account of this Word habim: Therefore Bochartus rather thinks that the whole Word Senhabim ſignifies an Elephant: Which beſt agrees with what follows, Apes and Peacocks; all three ſignifying living Creatures: And indeed Ivory itſelf in this Chapter, is ſimply called by the Name of Sen: Where he ſpeaks of Solomon's Throne, ver. 18. See his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 1. Cap. 20.

And Apes,] The Hebrew Word Kephim is both by the Ancients and Moderns tranſlated Apes: Which Creature Pliny calls Cephos; and ſaith they were ſeen but once at Rome in his Days, and that they came out of Ethiopia. So that if Tarſhiſh was in Spain, they that ſailed thither trafficked in Africk alſo before they came home. See Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 3 Cap. 31.

And Peacocks.] The LXX do not adventure to tranſlate the Hebrew Word Thuccijim: But The Chaldee, Syriack, Arabick, and Latin, tranſlate it as we do, Peacocks: And ſo do the moſt Learned among the Jews, as Bochartus ſhews in a long Diſſertation; where he probably gueſſes this Creature had its Name by a ſmall Tranſpoſition of Letters from Cuthajim; as much as to ſay a Bird of Cuth, or a Perſian Bird. Which Tranſpoſitions are ſo uſual, that we have an Inſtance of it in this Chapter: The Trees here called Almugim, being called in the Chronicles Algumim. See Hierozoicon, P. 1. L. 2. Cap. 23. where he ſhews how beautiful a Creature this is; which might well be brought from foreign Countries to Judæa, where there were none of them.

Ver. 23. So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth, for riches and for wiſdom.] The latter of which he begged of God; who graciouſly promiſed to add the former; which he did to Admiration.

Ver. 24. And all the earth ſought to Solomon, to hear his wiſdom, which God had put in his heart.] That is, the great Men of the neighbouring Countries came, as the Queen of Sheba did, to be acquainted with his Wiſdom; which they heard was a Divine Gift.

Ver. 25. And they brought every man his preſent, veſſels of ſilver, and veſſels of gold, and garments, and armour, and ſpices, horſes and mules,] This ſhews that he ſpeaks in the former Verſe, of the great Men of the Earth; who made theſe Preſents to him, when they came into his Country.

A rate year by year.] This ſeems to ſignify that they ſo highly prized his Wiſdom, that they courted his Friendſhip; and voluntarily ſent him a certain Preſent every Year, as a Token of the Continuance of it.

Ver. 26. And Solomon gathered together chariots and horſemen:] In a Time of profound Peace, he thought it a piece of Wiſdom to be ready for War, as a Means to preſerve the Peace. Though the ſureſt Way to enjoy the Happineſs wherein he lived, had been to obſerve ſtrictly the Commands of God.

And he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots and twelve thouſand horſemen,] Four hundred of theſe Chariots, Joſephus ſaith, were preſented from the Kings and Princes before-mentioned: And he had a thouſand of his own before. But what need was there for ſo many Stables for his Horſes as ſeem to be mentioned iv. 26. viz. forty thouſand? The Word is not Stables, but Stalls; every Horſe having a Stall, not a Stable to himſelf: And ſome Chariots had two, ſome four Horſes belonging to them. And yet even thus there were too many: Therefore we muſt ſuppoſe they did not always ſtand in one Place; but ſometimes in one Country, ſometimes in another. Where it was neceſſary there ſhould be Stalls for them, when he removed from City to City.

Whom he beſtowed in the cities for chariots, and with the king at Jeruſalem.] The former Part of theſe Words relates to the Chariots, which were kept in the Country, in the Cities Solomon built for them, ix. 19. and the latter to the Horſemen, which were always with the King in Jeruſalem; as Abarbinel underſtands theſe Words. Thus Solomon took Care they ſhould not be burdenſome to his People, by keeping them all in one Place: But they were diſtributed through the Country, only a great Body of Horſe in the Royal City.

Ver. 27. And the king made ſilver to be in Jeruſalem as ſtones,] As common as Pebles.

And cedars made he to be as the ſycomore-trees, which are in the vale in abundance.] Ordinary Things, like Willows, that among us grow numerouſly in low Grounds.

Ver. 28. And king Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt,] Here he again openly tranſgreſſed the Law of God (as Grotius obſerves) preſuming he had no need of thoſe Cautions, which were given againſt this by Moſes in the Book of Deüteronomy, xvii. 16.

And linen yarn:] Moſt think Byſſus, fine Linnen, is hereby meant; which was a great Commodity in Egypt.

The kings merchants received the linen yarn at a price.] It is acknowledged by all Interpreters that theſe, and the following Words in the next Verſe, are very obſcure.

Ver. 29. And a chariot came up, and went out of Egypt for ſix hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and an horſe for an hundred and fifty: and ſo for all the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means.] Theſe Words Bochartus ſeems to me to have cleared with the greateſt Perſpicuity, by taking the Hebrew Word Mikveh, not for Linnen Yarn, or fine Linnen; but for the Toll or Cuſtom that was taken for the Horſes that were brought out of Egypt. And thus he tranſlates the whole; Horſes were brought up to Solomon out of Egypt; and as for the Toll or Cuſtom, the Merchants of King Solomon hired it at a Price (that is, redeemed it of the King of Egypt for ſo much conſtantly) and a Chariot coming out of Egypt went out for ſix hundred Shekels of Silver, and an Horſe for an hundred and fifty; and ſo to all the Kings of the Hittites, and for th King of Syria, did they bring by their Hands. The Senſe of which Words is plainly this, that noble Horſes being found in thoſe Times in few Countries but Egypt, Pharaoh would not ſuffer them to be carried from thence without a great Tribute, which he exacted for them; which was ſix hundred Shekels for a Chariot, and a hundred and fifty for a Horſe. This muſt not be underſtood to be the Price at which they were bought, but the Cuſtom paid for them; otherwiſe every Horſe would have been of the ſame Value, which is abſurd. Solomon therefore bringing many thouſand Horſes out of Egypt, prevailed with his Father-in-Law to free him from this grievous Tribute, and to accept of a certain Sum of Money to be paid him every Year inſtead of it. Thus being freed from the Cuſtom, which was demanded of all others; all the Kings of the Hittites and Syrians bought their Chariots and Horſes of Solomon's Merchants, who could afford to ſell them cheaper than they could have them in Egypt. See Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 2. Cap. 9.

By the Kings of the Hittites are meant the Rulers of ſome of that Nation, who were driven out by the Iſraelites; and lived in the North-Eaſt of the Land of Canaan, or in ſome Part of Arabia. See Judges i. 26.

CHAP. XI.

Verſe 1. AND king Solomon loved many ſtrange women (together with the daughter of Pharaoh.)] It was not a Fault in him that he married Pharaoh's Daughter; ſhe being a Proſelyte, as is generally ſuppoſed, to the Jewiſh Religion. But in marrying ſo many other Women beſides, he committed two Sins againſt the Law; one in multiplying Wives, and another in marrying thoſe of ſtrange Nations, who ſtill retained their idolatrous Religion; which was expreſly againſt their Law, as the next Verſe declares it. The Jewiſh Doctors indeed are ſo very deſirous to excuſe Solomon, that they ſay theſe ſtrange Women were proſelyted: But Mr Selden well obſerves, that then it had been no Sin to have married with ſome of them; and yet Nehemiah ſays it was a Sin, xiii. 26. Lib. 5. De Jure Nat. & Gen. Cap. 15. p. 625, 626. And Buxtorf. de Sponſal. & Divort. p. 40, 41.

Women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites:] Some think Solomon would not have taken Wives out of theſe Nations, had it not been out of ſome political Principle: Which ſome think was that he might by their Means gain Intelligence of the State of thoſe Countries: Others, that he might extinguiſh the old Enmity which was between the Iſraelites and thoſe Nations; to which he might probably hope to put an End, by contracting theſe Marriages with them. But good Intentions will not juſtify the doing unlawful Things.

Ver. 2. Of the nations concerning which the LORD ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, ye ſhall not go in to them, neither ſhall they come in unto you; for ſurely they will turn away your heart after their gods.] This relates particularly to the Hittites and the Zidonians before-mentioned; and conſequently the reſt of the ſeven Nations of Canaan, with whom they were forbidden to make any Marriage, (Exod. xxxiv. 16. Deut. vii. 3.) for the weighty Reaſon here mentioned. For though they might marry Wives of other Nations, if they embraced the Jewiſh Religion; yet of the ſeven Nations of Canaan they might not, thought they were converted to their Religion. Leſt the Venom might lurk and lie hid; and at laſt break out, and infect them. Great was the Foreſight of Moſes (wherewith God endowed him) in giving this Precept (as Grotius notes) for the not obſerving it undid the Iſraelites, and was the Foundation of their utter Ruin.

Solomon clave unto theſe in love.] He not only married them, but had a great Affection to them; whereby his Heart was eaſily alienated from God.

Ver. 3. And he had ſeven hundred wives, princeſſes; and three hundred concubines:] Of theſe Princeſſes, few or none had the Name of Queens, as Abarbinel obſerves; but they only who were of the higheſt Eſteem with him, or who were of Royal Extraction. He thinks Solomon enjoyed every one of theſe once, and then ſhut them up, that no body might touch them afterwards. See Buxtorf. De Sponſal. & Divort. p. 48,

p. 48, 49. and Hackſpan's Miſcellanies, Lib. 1. Cap. 6. But it ſeems to me more probable, that he kept ſo many Wives meerly for State and Pomp; after the manner of the Eaſtern Princes; but never uſed many of them. Juſt as they do now in China, where the Emperor hath a great Multitude of Wives, choſen out of the prime Beauties of the Country: Many of which he never ſaw in his Life; as Father la Compte tells us in his Hiſtory of China, P. 1. pag. 62. The ſame is ſaid of the great Mogul, that he hath as many Women as will make up a full Thouſand (which is Solomon's Number) as the Author of the Voyage to the Indies tells us, in the End of P. le Vall's Hiſtory, Sect. 20. p. 496. It muſt be conſidered alſo that Solomon had not brought them to this Number in the Beginning of his Reign, but toward the latter End; when his Riches increaſing, he made vaſt Expences, and ſtudied to out-do all other Kings, in Magnificence of all kinds.

And his wives turned away his heart.] He was ſo delighted in their Company, that they turned away his Thoughts from ſerious Buſineſs; yea, from God himſelf.

Ver. 4. For it came to paſs when Solomon was old, that his wives turned away his heart after other gods:] For indulging himſelf too much in Pleaſure, he weakened both his Body and his Mind: And growing old betime, began to dote upon other Gods; which he ſuffered his Wives to worſhip privately, and at laſt openly to exerciſe the religious Rites of their own Country.

And his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.] He did not forſake the LORD, but joined other Gods with him. Which a Man of his Senſe could never have done (who had ſo ſolemnly acknowledged in his Prayer, that there was no God like to the LORD, yea, that there was no God elſe, viii. 23, 60.) if his Mind had not been enervated, and his Underſtanding darkned by ſenſual Pleaſures.

Ver. 5. And Solomon went after Aſhtoreth the goddeſs of the Zidonians,] He worſhipped Aſtarte, of which ſee in the Book of Judges, ii. 13. and 1 Sam. vii. 3, 4.

And after Milcon the abomination of the Ammonites.] This God was the ſame with Moloch; whom he calls an Abomination, becauſe highly deteſted by God: Who had given them a particular Caution againſt worſhipping the Hoſt of Heaven, Deut. iv. 10. Now Moloch ſignifies the Prince of that Hoſt, as I may call it, the Sun; the King of Heaven, as the Moon was called the Queen: In this all agree that Moloch comes from Melech, which in the Hebrew Language ſignifies a King, and is of the ſame Import with Baal and Adonis (which ſignify Lord) which were worſhipped by many Nations, as Moloch was: Who was not the peculiar God of the Ammonites; but the God whom they principally worſhipped.

Ver. 6. And Solomon did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and went not fully after the LORD as David his father did.] And yet Abarbinel thinks he did not commit Idolatry by offering Sacrifices to theſe falſe Gods; but was only perſuaded by his Wives ſo far as to learn the Manner after which they worſhipped their Gods, by being preſent at the Rites of their Religion. Which was a dangerous Piece of Learning; which he might have known without being preſent at their Sacrifices.

Ver. 7. Then did Solomon build an high place for Chemoſh the abomination of Moab,] Concerning Chemoſh I have ſaid enough elſewhere. See Numb. xxi. 29.

In the hill that is before Jeruſalem; He ſet up an Altar upon the Mount of Olives; where all the City of Jeruſalem might ſee what they did. This contradicts Abarbinel, and ſhews he was more than a Spectator of their Worſhip: Which he incouraged by building an Altar for it. And indeed that Author is much to blame in abuſing his excellent Parts, to find Excuſes for ſuch a foul Crime.

And for Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon.] In the ſame Place, I ſuppoſe, Moloch was worſhipped: For he would not adventure to permit ſtrange Worſhip to be exerciſed in Jeruſalem it ſelf; though his Poſterity did. And ſo from little Beginnings followed great Miſchiefs.

Ver. 8. And likewiſe did he for all his ſtrange wives, which burnt incenſe, and ſacrificed unto their gods.] For what was granted to one, the reſt would be apt to claim; or elſe complain of Unkindneſs to them. It is an aſtoniſhing thing that a Man of his Wiſdom ſhould not rather have converted them all to his Religion, than be ſeduced by them ſo much as to favour theirs. But he took no Pains with them, having given up himſelf wholly to his Pleaſures; and growing conceited perhaps of his great Wiſdom, thought he could reconcile his Religion with theirs; and find a good Meaning in all their Superſtitions. Abarbinel obſerves in ſeveral Places, that it is never ſaid Pharaoh's Daughter turned away his Heart from the LORD, or that he ſet up an Altar for her: Which is an Argumer ſhe was proſelyted to the true Religion, and continued in it. As the reſt might have been, if he had made it his Buſineſs, and had not grown indifferent, and thought all Religions alike. Which hath been the Diſeaſe of ſome great Wits.

Ver. 9. And the LORD was angry with Solomon, becauſe his heart was turned from the LORD God of Iſrael, which had appeared to him twice.] Firſt at Gibeon, in the Beginning of his Reign, iii. 5. and then at Jeruſalem after the building of the Temple, ix. 2. There was another Time when a Meſſage came to him, by the Word of the LORD, vi. 12. But we do not read that God appeared to him more than twice; which was enough to eſtabliſh him in his Faith, Fear, and Love.

Ver. 10. And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he ſhould not go after other gods:] For in both thoſe Viſions the Happineſs God promiſed him, was declared to depend upon his Obſervation of God's Statutes, as David his Father did. See iii. 14. ix. 4, 5. And when he had begun to build the Temple, he admoniſhed him, that he had better deſiſt, than go on in that Work, unleſs he intended to keep all his Commandments, vii. 12, 13.

But he kept not that which the LORD commanded.] Which was the greater Crime, becauſe becauſe he had ſo oft admoniſhed him of his Duty, and done ſuch great things for him.

Ver. 11. Wherefore the LORD ſaid unto Solomon,] Either by ſome Prophet, or by a Viſion: Wherein he appeared to him as terribly, as before he had done kindly, and pronounced this Doom upon him. The former I think is moſt probable, that God would not vouchſafe to appear to him any more; but ſent this Meſſage by Ahijah, or ſome other Prophet.

Foraſmuch as thou haſt done this, and thou haſt not kept my covenant, and my ſtatutes which I commanded thee, I will ſurely rend the kingdom from thee, and give it unto thy ſervant.] Tear it in pieces, and give the greater Part of it to one of his own Subjects, viz. Jeroboam. This was enough to aſtoniſh any Man, to hear that all his Splendor ſhould be ſo ſoon eclipſed, if he were not perfectly ſtupified: And it is likely it did make him reflect upon his Folly; and, as many think, moved him to write the Book of Eccleſiaſtes.

Ver. 12. Notwithſtanding in thy days I will not do it, for David thy father's ſake: but I will rend it out of the hand of thy ſon.] Though this was ſome Mitigation of the Puniſhment, that in his Days the Kingdom ſhould continue entire; yet he humbled him by letting him know this Favour was not granted for his ſake, but for his Father's, who had ſerved him faithfully.

Ver. 13. Howbeit, I will not rend away all the kingdom; but will give one tribe to thy ſon, for my ſervant David's ſake,] In Memory alſo of David's faithful Service, he adds another Mitigation of the Punſhment: That the whole Kingdom ſhould not be torn from his Son, but he would leave him one Tribe, over which he ſhould reign: Which was that of Judah, unto which Benjamin was an Appendix, being much mixed with it.

And for Jeruſalem's ſake which I have choſen,] To be the Place of his Habitation, in the Temple built there by Solomon: Which he would ſuffer to remain to his Poſterity.

Ver. 14. And the LORD ſtirred up an adverſary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite: he was of the king's ſeed in Edom.] Though God did not execute the formentioned Threatning 'till after his Death, yet he began to afflict Solomon by raiſing up three Adverſaries againſt him; who diſturbed his Repoſe, in his old Age, when he moſt deſired to be quiet. The firſt of them is here mentioned; who had a mortal Hatred to Solomon, ever ſince the Death of David, who had endeavoured to deſtroy him with every Male in the Country. But God reſtrained his Wrath from attempting any thing againſt Solomon, as long as he obſerved God's Commands.

Ver. 15. For it came to paſs, when David was in Edom,] To conquer the Country: Which he did intirely, and put Garriſons into it, 2 Sam. viii. 14. 1 Chron. xviii. 12, 13.

And Joab the captain of the hoſt was gone up to bury the ſlain,] It is not to be ſuppoſed that the Edomites ſlew none of the Iſraelites, in the Defence of their Country: And thoſe are they, it is probable, unto whom Joab, after he had done his Buſineſs, went up to give an honourable Interment.

After he had ſmitten every male in Edom:] That is, all he could find: For ſome fled, as Hadad did.

Ver. 16. (For ſix months did Joab remain there, with all Iſrael,] That is, with all his Army.

Until he had cut off every male in Edom.)] Intending to extirpate the Nation.

Ver. 17. Then Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his fathers ſervants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a little child.] He being very young, ſome of his Father's Servants took him and hid him, and themſelves with him, in ſome ſecret Place: And when Joab was buſy in giving a ſolemn Burial to the Iſraelites, they took that Opportunity to carry Hadad into Egypt.

Ver. 18. And they aroſe out of Midian,] But firſt they went into Midian, that they might ſend from thence to know if Pharaoh would give them Entertainment and Protection.

And came to Paran,] Which was in the way to Egypt. For the Wilderneſs of Paran lay between Edom and Egypt.

And they took men with them,] To attend Hadad; that he might appear like a young Prince.

And they came to Egypt unto Pharaoh king of Egypt.] He invited him not only to come into his Country, but to his own Palace.

Which gave him an houſe, and appointed him a table, and gave him land.] According to the manner of generous Princes, who pity noble Perſons that are in Diſtreſs, Pharaoh not only aſſigned him an Houſe, and kept a Table for him, that he might want nothing; but moreover gave him Land, that out of its Revenues he might provide himſelf an Equipage ſuitable to his Quality.

Ver. 19. And Hadad found great favour in the eyes of Pharaoh, ſo that he gave him to wife the ſiſter of his own wife; the ſiſter of Tahpenes the queen.] This argues an high Eſteem of him, for the princely Qualities which it is likely appeared in him: Though ſometimes the Affections of Kings are unaccountable, and they prefer thoſe who do not deſerve it.

Ver. 20. And the ſiſter of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his ſon, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaohs houſe:] The Queen had as great a Fondneſs for the Child, as the King had for his Father; and would have him nurſed and weaned in Pharaoh's Palace.

And Genubath was in Pharaohs houſhold, among the ſons of Pharaoh.] He was educated among the King's Children, as if he had been of them: Which gave Hadad, no doubt, great Reputation.

Ver. 21. And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David ſlept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the hoſt was dead,] Whom he dreaded more than David; having done that terrible Execution upon his Country, of deſtroying their Males for ſix Months together.

Hadad ſaid to Pharaoh, Let me depart, that I may go to my own country.] Which he hoped to recover, now that the great Enemies of it were dead, and Solomon young.

Ver. 22.

Ver. 22. Then Pharaoh ſaid unto him, But what haſt thou lacked with me, that thou ſeekeſt to go to thine own country? And he anſwered, Nothing: Howbeit, let me go in any wiſe.] Nothing would ſatisfy him, but to go and attempt the regaining the Dominion of Edom. Which ſome fancy he did by the Interceſſion of Pharaoh: Who perſuaded Solomon to let him reign in Edom, paying him a Tribute; which now in the End of Solomon's Reign he denied to pay, and rebelled againſt him. But this proceeds upon a Suppoſition, that when David died, Solomon was married, which is not true. Nor is it certain that he was the ſame Pharaoh whoſe Daughter Solomon married, that had been ſo kind as to educate Hadad. It ſeems to me more likely that though Hadad ventured to his own Country, he durſt not attempt any thing, 'till Solomon began to decline in the Favour of God, and of his People too. For if Hadad had moved any Change of Government, Solomon had Forces enough to ſuppreſs him; and in his vigorous Age, no doubt would have done it; he being ſo great a Prince, and having ſo many Chariots and Horſemen always ready, that I am apt to think Hadad did not ſo much as enter into his own Country, but lived ſomewhere near it; watching an Opportunity to get Poſſeſſion of it; which he found in the Concluſion of Solomon's Reign.

Ver. 23. And God ſtirred him up another adverſary, Rezon the ſon of Eliadah, which fled from his lord Hadadezer king of Zobah.] When he ſaw his Army beaten by King David, 2 Sam. viii. 3.

Ver. 24. And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band, when David ſlew them of Zobah:] Some of thoſe that fled, when David defeated Hadadezer, liſted themſelves under Rezon; who became their Commander. And it is probable, he lived after the manner of the Arabians, by Plunder and Robbery, all the Days of David, and the beſt part of Solomon's Reign.

And they went to Damaſcus and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damaſcus.] Not in the Days of David: Who had put a Garriſon into Damaſcus, and brought the People under Tribute, 2 Sam. viii. 5, 6. And ſo they continued ſubject unto Solomon; 'till he, doting upon ſtrange Women, minded not the Defence of his Conqueſts. Which Rezon took the Advantage of, and invaded and got Poſſeſſion of Damaſcus: And reigned there, as Hadad did in Edom.

Ver. 25. And he was an adverſary to Iſrael all the days of Solomon,] This is not to be underſtood of the whole Reign of Solomon, which for the moſt part was peaceable (as was obſerved before, iv. 20, 25.) but of all the Days which remained of his Life, from the Time that his Wives publickly exerciſed their Idolatry, unto the Day of his Death.

Beſide the miſchief that Hadad did:] This ſignifies, as Abarbinel thinks, that Rezon durſt not have rebelled againſt Solomon, if Hadad had not led him the way: But ſeeing what Succeſs he had in Edom, he and his Men ſeized on Damaſcus.

And he abhorred Iſrael, and reigned over Syria.] In Combination with Hadad he defied Iſrael: And made himſelf King not only of Damaſcus, but over all the Country thereabout.

Ver. 26. And Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zereda, Solomon's ſervant,] In a publick Employment.

(Whoſe mother's name was Zeruah, a widow-woman) even he lift up his hand againſt the king.] Not againſt King Solomon, that we read of, but againſt his Son; to whom he gave great Diſturbance, as ſoon as Solomon was dead.

Ver. 27. And this was the cauſe that he lift up his hand againſt the king. Solomon built Millo, and repaired the breaches of the city of David his father.] This was the Occaſion of Jeroboam's Advancement, as it follows in the next Verſe. For Solomon being engaged in many Buildings, choſe fitting Perſons to oveſee his Works; among which Jeroboam was one. Who took this Opportunity to work in the People a Diſaffection to Solomon, and his Government, as Abarbinel and others of the Jews imagine. For he repreſented, ſay they, the Building of Millo, as a Work of Vanity, only to gratify Pharaoh's Daughter: And the Breaches of the City of David they take to have been only open Places, at which People might enter and come eaſily many Ways to the King's Palace; whereas being ſtopped up by Solomon, Acceſs was not ſo eaſy, but they were forced to go about. This was repreſented as a Grievance; eſpecially ſince ſuch heavy Burdens were laid upon the People, to maintain theſe Expences. But the Text ſuggeſts nothing of this.

Ver. 28. And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour:] Of great Courage, and Strength of Body.

And Solomon ſeeing the young man that he was induſtrious,] Very diligent in the Buſineſs wherein he had employed him, of looking over his Works.

He made him ruler over all the charge of the houſe of Joſeph.] Gave him greater Preferment; which was to look after the Revenue of a whole Province; the Tribe of Ephraim, and, as ſome think, Manaſſeh alſo. This was an high Obligation upon him; but it made him, the Hebrew Doctors think, only more preſumptuous to inſtil Diſcontent into the People; who were unneceſſarily burdened to ſupport Solomon's Vanity, in ſuch vaſt Buildings as he undertook. If Jeroboam was guilty of joining with the People in their Murmurings, and increaſing them, this cannot properly be called lifting up the Hand, that is, rebelling againſt Solomon: But was a Preparation for it, and diſpoſed the People to the Revolt, which afterward followed.

Ver. 29. And it came to paſs at that time, when Jeroboam went out of Jeruſalem,] Where he had been, it is likely, to give up his Accounts; and was returning to his Charge.

That the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way:] Met with him, as he was going along. Some of the Jewiſh Doctors will have this Prophet to be one of thoſe who came out of Egypt with Moſes; and therefore muſt be five hundred Years old. See Selden, Lib. 2. De Synedr. p. 668. Which, if it could be believed, made him the fitter Perſon to reprove Jeroboam afterward for the Sin of the golden Calves, and alſo for the Rebellion, which he had ſeen puniſhed in Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

And he had clad himself with a new garment;] That he might make the better Appearance at Court, when he waited on the King.

And they two were alone in the field.] The Prophet, I suppose, took Jeroboam aside to speak with him privately: For it cannot be thought that Jeroboam had no Servants to attend him; but they were bid to stay where they were, 'till the Prophet and he went to confer about some private business.

Ver. 30. And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and rent it in twelve Pieces.] An Emblem of what followed, or rather a Prediction of it: For there were two Ways in those ancient Days of foretelling things; one in express Words, the other in Signs and Resemblances; according to the manner of the Eastern People in the eldest Times. Many Instances we have of it, after this of Ahijah. As Zedekiah made himself a Pair of Iron Horns, and said to Ahab, with these shalt thou push the Syrians, &c. xxii. 11. Elisha also foretold the Victories of Joash, by shooting Arrows and stamping on the Ground so many times, 2 Kings xiii. 18, &c. Jeremiah foretold the pulling down of Jerusalem's Pride, by the rotting of his Girdle, where it was buried by Euphrates; and a great many more in the Old Testament, which continued in the New; Agabus foretelling the Bonds of St Paul, by binding his own Hands and Feet with St Paul's Girdle.

Ver. 31. And he said to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces: for thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee:] Whence it is called frequently, the Kingdom of the ten Tribes.

Ver. 32. (But he shall have one tribe.] Besides his own. Or, Benjamin and Judah may be looked upon but as one Tribe; both of them having a Share in the City of Jerusalem, and lying near one to the other.

For my servant David's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel)] See above, ver. 13.

Ver. 33. Because they have forsaken me, and have worshipped Ashtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, and Chemosh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon,] It seems by this that some of the People, at least of Solomon's Court, followed his bad Example.

And have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my statutes and my judgments, as did David his father.] This was a great Aggravation of his Sin, that he had so good a Father; who had given him an excellent Education under Nathan the Prophet (as I observed, 2 Sam. xii. 25.) and a most pious Example; having never gone after other Gods, but celebrated the Praises of the LORD with the highest Strains of Love and Devotion.

Ver 34. Howbeit, I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand;] No, not the Kingdom of the ten Tribes; which Solomon held as long as he lived. These and the following Words explain the Threatning, ver. 32. of rending the Kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, not to be meant of taking any part of it from him, during his Life.

But will make him a prince all the days of his life, for David my servant's sake; whom I chose, because he kept my commandments, and my statutes:] This was an Admonition to Jeroboam not to molest Solomon in his life-time, by raising Rebellion against him; and also to walk in God's Ways as David did, and not fall into Idolatry; for which Sin God resolved to punish Solomon so severely, as to rend the greatest Part of his Kingdom from his Posterity.

Ver. 35. But I will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.] He bids him not doubt of what he promised; but he must stay for it 'till Solomon was dead.

Ver. 36. And unto his son will I give one tribe,] He saith one Tribe, though there were two; because (as Abarbinel observes) they had their Portion and Possession together in Jerusalem; and, though two Tribes, were both called by the Tribe of Judah; because of the Eminence and Glory of that Tribe; which was so great, that before the Division of the Kingdom, Judah is often mentioned as distinct from the rest of Israel. See 1 Sam. xi. 8. 2 Sam. v. 5.

That David my servant may have a light alway before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen, to put my name there.] By a light is meant a Succession of Kings, who are called the Light of the People (as David is, 2 Sam. xxi. 17.) because they chear them by their comfortable Influence, when they govern well. And these are said to be before God in Jerusalem; because there he dwelt where they reigned.

Ver. 37. And I will take thee,] From that Condition wherein he was, and place him on a Throne, as here follows.

And thou shalt reign according to all that thy soul desireth,] Have a very flourishing Kingdom.

And shalt be king over Israel.] But not reign in Jerusalem.

Ver. 38. And it shall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that which is right in my sight, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as David my servant did, that I will be with thee, and build thee a sure house, as I built for David,] The same Promise that he made to David, 2 Sam. vii. 16. only he doth not say he would establish his Kingdom for ever.

And will give Israel unto thee.] Make them his obedient Subjects.

Ver. 39. And I will for this] For their Sin, mentioned ver. 33.

Afflict the house of David,] By this rending the greatest Part of the Kingdom from them.

But not for ever.] For in the Days of the Messiah, saith Rasi, the Kingdom shall be restored to the House of David. And he might have added, that few returned out of their Captivity but the House of Judah, who were delivered in a wonderful Manner from Babylon.

Ver. 40. Solomon sought therefore to kill Jeroboam:] A Sign of his Dotage; that he could entertain a Thought of endeavouring to defeat the Purpose of God! But how he came to know what was secretly transacted between Ahijah and Jeroboam alone, is a great Question. Perhaps the Prophet made no Scruple to report what he had delivered in the Name of the LORD. Or, Jeroboam himself, being puffed up with this Assurance, could not contain, but told it to some of his Confidents, who spread it abroad. Or, his Servants, though they heard not a Word ſpoken, yet ſeeing the rending of his Garment into twelve Parts, and the giving ten to him, might ſpeak of it: The Meaning of which Solomon eaſily underſtood; being told (by the ſame Prophet, perhaps) that the Kingdom ſhould be rent from him, and given to his Servant, ver. 11.

And Jeroboam aroſe and fled into Egypt,] This was a common Refuge for diſcontented People. And it may ſeem ſtrange that the King of Egypt, being nearly allied to Solomon, either his Father-in-Law, or Brother-in-Law (for many think the Father of Solomon's Wife was dead) ſhould give ſuch Perſons Entertainment. But it is to be conſidered that Kingdoms are never married; and Princes commonly regard only their own Intereſt.

Unto Shiſhak king of Egypt,] All the Kings of Egypt had the Title of Pharaoh, even from the Time of Abraham: But we never find any of them, 'till now, called by his proper Name, to diſtinguiſh from other Pharaohs; unleſs Remeſis (Gen. xlvii. 11.) be the Name of a King, not of a Country. Now all agree that this is the great King who is called by the Greeks Seſoſtris: Who having ſubdued Ethiopia, extended his Conqueſts into Aſia, as far as the Aſſyrians and Medes, as Joſephus tells us, who calls himſelf Sethoſis, Lib. i. contra Apion.

And was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.] Being protected by Shiſhak: Who, it is likely, was now projecting the great Conqueſts he made afterwards.

Ver. 41. And the reſt of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wiſdom, are they not written in the book of the Acts of Solomon? All the Kings of Iſrael, as Abarbinel thinks, maintained ſome wiſe Men, who wrote all that paſſed in their Reign. Perhaps this was begun by Solomon (for we read not of any Book of the Acts of David) and out of theſe Annals, the ſacred Writer of this Book took what he thought moſt uſeful, and omitted the reſt, which he did not judge ſo neceſſary and inſtructive.

Ver. 42. And the time that Solomon reigned in Jeruſalem, over all Iſrael,] There ſeems to have been no need to ſay he reigned in Jeruſalem, ſince he reigned over all Iſrael; if it had not been to ſhew the great Tranquillity of his Reign. Which was ſuch, that he did not go out to War as other Kings, but lived quietly in his royal City.

Was forty years.] He loſt the great Privilege of long Life, which God promiſed if he performed ſuch ſincere Obedience as David did; unto whoſe Age he did not attain.

Ver. 43. And Solomon ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father: and Rehoboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] Thus concludes the Hiſtory of this great Man; without any, the leaſt, mention of his Repentance; though he ſaw terrible Puniſhments coming upon his Family. Which ſhould have moved him (one would think) to pull down the high Places he had built for idolatrous Worſhip, and abandon all his ſtrange Wives; and done ſome remarkable Honour to the LORD God of Iſrael. Which if he did, the Divine Writer did not think fit to record it, but to leave all in Uncertainty, and leave a Blot upon his Memory; that all Poſterity might have a frightful Example of humane Weakneſs, and learn thereby to watch and pray, leſt they enter into Temptation.

CHAP. XII.

Verſe 1. AND Rehoboam went to Shechem:] A Multitude of Children was accounted a great Bleſſing among the Iſraelites: But if Solomon had any more beſides this Son, and two Daughters, mentioned iv. 11, 15. this holy Writer would not do him the Honour to mention them, but paſſes them by in Silence: Nor doth he vouchſafe to acquaint us (as is uſual) in the Beginning of his Story, from whom Rehoboam was deſcended by the Mother's Side; but in the Concluſion mentions it twice (xiv. 21, 31.) that ſhe was an Ammoniteſs, one of an infamous Nation. Howſoever, though he was not intirely an Iſraelite, he pretended to the Kingdom; being the eldeſt, if not the only Son of Solomon, to whom it belonged by the Law then eſtabliſhed; which ever after continued in Judah. That which follows ſhews this was the Opinion of all the People.

For all Iſrael were come to Shechem to make him king.] To acknowledge him for their Sovereign, as rightful Succeſſor to Solomon. They met for this Purpoſe at Shechem, becauſe it was the moſt convenient Place, being in the middle of the Kingdom. Or, as others think, becauſe it was in the Tribe of Ephraim; where they could ſpeak their Minds more freely than they durſt at Jeruſalem, which was in the Tribe of Judah. And this hath ſome Colour in it, from what follows; that they ſent for Jeroboam to meet them there, who would not venture to come to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 2. And it came to paſs when Jeroboam the Son of Nebat, who was yet in Egypt, heard of it,] The Words of it are not in the Original, but only that he heard: Either of this Meeting, or of the Death of Solomon; or both: For he could not hear of this Meeting, without hearing of his Death.

(For he was fled from the preſence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt)] As hath been related in the foregoing Chapter.

Ver. 3. That they ſent and called him:] At the ſame Time that he heard of this Meeting, and the Occaſion of it, a Meſſage came to him from the Aſſembly, to deſire his Aſſiſtance.

And Jeroboam, and all the congregation of Iſrael came, and ſpake unto Rehoboam, ſaying,] By all the Congregation is meant all their Elders, and Heads of their Tribes; who choſe Jeroboam to be their Speaker.

Ver. 4. Thy father made our yoke grievous: Now therefore make thou the grievous ſervice of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter; and we will ſerve thee.] They begin with a Complaint againſt the former Government; but promiſe to ſubmit to Rehoboam as their King. and be his faithful Subjects, if he would promiſe to eaſe them of thoſe Burdens which his Father had impoſed on them. Which were not ſo heavy as they repreſented them, conſidering the Peace and Plenty they enjoyed (iv. 25.) and the vaſt Riches he brought into the Kingdom; ſo that Silver was nothing accounted of in his Days, x. 21. But People are more ſenſible of the ſmalleſt Preſſures, than of all their Enjoyments: And moſt ſenſible of the leaſt Burden, when they are at perfect Eaſe. Such were the Tributes he exacted for his Buildings, the Expences of his Family, and Maintenance of Chariots and Horſemen, which were all for the Honour of the Nation, and employed great Numbers of them. Abarbinel thinks it is poſſible, when War was raiſed by Hadad and by Rezon againſt him, in his latter Days, the Tribute might be increaſed, and occaſion their Grumbling. But howſoever that be, it is obſervable that they make no Complaints at all of Solomon's Idolatry, and the ſtrange Worſhip he introduced; about which they were not concerned, but rather complied with him. See xi. 33.

Ver. 5. And he ſaid unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me: and the people departed.] He deſired Time to conſider, in ſo weighty a Buſineſs; pretending, I ſuppoſe, he would examine the Truth of their Allegations: otherwiſe it had been dangerous to ſend them away without any Anſwer, when it was evident they were diſguſted.

Ver. 6. And king Rehoboam] By this it is plain, he had a Title to the Kingdom; though they had not yet made a Recognition, as we ſpeak, of his Authority.

Conſulted with the old men that ſtood before Solomon his father, while he yet lived,] Solomon was ſo wiſe, as in his beſt Days not to depend ſolely on his own Wiſdom; but had other wiſe Men with whom he adviſed, as his Counſellors in all Matters of Moment.

And ſaid, How do ye adviſe, that I may anſwer this people?] Being Men of great Experience, who had learned, no doubt, much Wiſdom under ſo wiſe a King as Solomon, he had Reaſon both to conſult ſuch Sages, and to depend upon their Advice, as likely to be moſt prudent and ſafe.

Ver. 7. And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, If thou wilt be a ſervant unto this people to day, and wilt ſerve them and anſwer them, and ſpeak good words to them, then they will be thy ſervants for ever.] This was moſt ſolid Advice, to get Poſſeſſion of the Kingdom, and then he might govern as his Father had done. And he might eaſily be poſſeſſed of it, by condeſcending to them for once, and giving them ſuch an Anſwer as they deſired; which would oblige them to him for ever. For to be their ſervant one day, ſignified no more than to court them with good Words, and kind Promiſes, to be an eaſy Governour of them: Which would win their Hearts, and make them ſubmit chearfully to him; and give him the ſame Power which his Father had.

Ver. 8. But he forſook the counſel of the old men, which they gave him,] He was proud and vain, I ſuppoſe, and ſcorned to court his People; expecting Obedience unto him, as an abſolute Monarch.

And conſulted with young men, that were grown up with him, and ſtood before him.] He had made ſome of his Familiars, who had been bred up with him, and attended him, to be now of his Privy-Council: Men unexperienced, and who underſtood not the Humour of the People; which is a frequent Fault of new Kings, who, to ſhew their Power, preſently change their Counſellors, and put in new Officers; to gratify all their Dependants; not conſidering who are wiſeſt, but who have been their Companions.

Ver. 9. And he ſaid unto them, What counſel give ye, that we may anſwer this people, who have ſpoken to me, ſaying; make the yoke which thy father did put upon us, lighter?] It is likely he told them what the old Counſellors had ſaid; who they thought, were too timorous, and therefore give more bold and fierce Advice.

Ver. 10. And the young men that were grown up with him, ſpake unto him, ſaying,] They were not ſo young, but they might have had more Wit (if they had not been Men of Pleaſure) for Rehoboam being one and forty Years old when he began to reign (xiv. 21.) and theſe Men growing up with him, were about the ſame Age.

Thus ſhalt thou ſpeak unto the people, that ſpake unto thee, ſaying, thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter to us: thus ſhalt thou ſay unto them, My little finger ſhall be thicker than my father's loins.] They adviſe him to threaten to lay Burdens upon them, as much heavier than his Father's, as the Loins are thicker than the little Finger: Words of Infamy, Madneſs, Stupidity, and full of Lies, as Abarbinel here gloſſes: For he magnifies himſelf, as if his Power excelled his Father's, unto whom he was nothing comparable. And if it had been true, it did not become him to boaſt on this Faſhion; but he ought rather to have highly magnified the Glory and Majeſty of his Father.

Ver. 11. And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke:] What a ſenſeleſs Stupidity was this (as the ſame Author proceeds) to grant the Accuſation to be true, which they brought againſt his Father; and not rather to have excuſed, and defended ſo excellent a Prince, from whom they could not but acknowledge they had received exceeding great Benefits?

My father hath chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.] This is ſtill worſe, to accuſe his Father of ſuch Severity (which the People did not) that he treated the Iſraelites like Beaſts: For a whip is for a horſe, as Solomon obſerves, Prov. xxvi. 3. And who could endure to hear him ſay, that he would treat them far more ſeverely, and tear their very Fleſh in Pieces? For that is meant by Scorpions, Whips with Rowels in them (as we ſpeak) which Abarbinel calls iron Thorns. See Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. iv. Cap. xxxii. Ralbag ſimply calls them Thorns tied to a Whip, which grievouſly pricked and tore the Fleſh. See Carpzovius upon Schickard's Jus Regium, Cap. ii. Theorem vii. p. 143. What People could bear this with Patience; or endure to come under the Yoke of ſuch a furious Prince?

Ver. 12. So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, ſaying, come again the third day.] In which Time wiſer Thoughts, one would have expected, ſhould have taken Place: But Solomon had obſerved, that there is no counſel, nor underſtand- ing, nor wiſdom againſt the LORD (Prov. xxi. 30.) whoſe doing this was, as it follows, ver. 15.

Ver. 13. And the king anſwered the people roughly, and forſook the counſel of the old men which they gave him ;] He anſwered them like a Tyrant, not like a King.

Ver. 14. And ſpake to them after the counſel of the young men.] Which was moſt ſuitable to a Prince of a high and violent Spirit.

Saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke ; my father alſo chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.] He thought, it is likely, to have frighted them into Obedience, by this bluſtering Language; which juſtly made him odious.

Ver. 15. Wherefore the king hearkned not unto the people of Iſrael ;] Who deſired to be eaſed of their Burdens.

For the cauſe was from the LORD, that he might perform his ſaying, which the LORD ſpake by Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat.] God infatuated his Counſels, to bring about his own Deſign. Otherwiſe, he could not have been ſo blinded, as not to ſee how baſely he reflected upon his Father; and how unlikely it was that the People would ſubmit to ſuch a Power as he intended to exerciſe over them. But as Livy excellently ſpeaks, fatis urgentibus rempublicam, omnia ſalutaria monita ſpernuntur. And here one cannot but obſerve the vaſt Difference there is between the Sacred and Profane Hiſtorians. The Intention of the former is to poſſeſs Mens Minds with a Senſe of Divine Providence, which ſecretly rules in all publick, as well as private Affairs. Machiavel himſelf, though far from being religious, was ſenſible of an over-ruling Power interpoſing in all Things, which few Hiſtorians acknowledge ſo as they ought: But rather write, as if they would not have their Reader think of any thing but the Wiſdom, Strength and Policy of thoſe that manage Affairs; without any Conſideration of the Care God takes of them. Of this Hermannus Conringius thinks Polybius himſelf to have been guilty; whatſoever Excuſes Caſaubon makes for him. De Civili Prudentia, Cap. xiv.

Ver. 16. So when all Iſrael ſaw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people anſwered the king, ſaying, What portion have we in David ?] They renounce all Intereſt in him, and in his Family.

Neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe:] So they call David in a contemptuous and ſcornful manner. Wherein they have left us an exact Picture of an ungrateful World, as Victorinus Strigelius here ſpeaks. For no Eloquence is able to expreſs the great Merits of David to the Children of Iſrael.

To your tents, O Iſrael : now ſee to thine own houſe David. So Iſrael departed to their tents.] They left Rehoboam, and bad him look to his own Affairs; for they would have nothing to do with him. Thus other Kingdoms have been overturned by the Folly of heady young Men: As an old Poet obſerves in Tully's Book de Senectute, Cap. vi. where he quotes theſe Verſes out of Nævius in a Play of his, in which one aſks, Cedò, qui veſtram Rempublicam tantam amiſiſtis tam citò.

Tell me, I beſeech thee, how you came to loſe ſuch a famous Common-wealth ſo quickly?

Unto which he brings in another returning this Anſwer,

Proventabant Oratores novi, Stulti Adoleſcentuli.

There roſe up new Orators, a Company of fooliſh Youths.

Upon which Cato makes this Remark; viz.

Temeritas, eſt florentis ætatis, Prudentia ſeneſcentis.

Raſhneſs is the Property of Youth, Prudence belongs to Old Age.

Ver. 17. But as for the children of Iſrael which dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.] As ſeveral of the Simeonites alſo did; who were very nearly ſituated to Judah.

Ver. 18. Then king Rehoboam ſent Adoniram, who was over the tribute ;] This was a new piece of Imprudence, to ſend one to treat with them, when they were ſo highly exaſperated; and to ſend him (with Promiſes, perhaps, of eaſing them, when it was too late) who had the principal Care of thoſe Tributes, of which they complained. For People hate thoſe that are the Inſtruments of their Oppreſſion, or any way employed in it.

And all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died :] There was a general Uproar againſt him; in which they committed this Barbarity, againſt the Law of all Nations; which probibits any Violence to be done to a King's Ambaſſador. But in their Rage, the King feared (it appears by the next Words) they would have no Reſpect to himſelf.

Therefore king Rehoboam made ſpeed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jeruſalem.] This ſeems to be a further Imprudence; for he ſhould have maintained his Ground and kept Footing (as we ſpeak) in the Country of Iſrael; from whence it might not have been eaſy for them to expel him: But Fear is as bad an Adviſer as Fury. This is the firſt Time that we read of a King riding in a Chariot; for we never read that either Saul, or David, or Solomon rode in them: But after the Diviſion of the Kingdom, there is frequent mention of the Uſe of them both by the Kings of Judah and Iſrael.

Ver. 19. So Iſrael rebelled againſt the houſe of David unto this day.] Would no longer be governed by any of David's Race; who had been their Deliverer from their powerful Enemies. The Rememdrance of which might have made them more patient; and not ſo forward to revolt from a Family to which they had been ſo much obliged. But old Kindneſſes are laid aſleep, and People are ſtrangely forgetful of Benefits, as Pindar ſpeaks, in Iſthmia, Ode 7.

Αλλὰ παλαιὰ γὰς εἴδει
Χάεις, ἀμνάμονες δὲ βεοτοί.

This Defection from the Family of David is juſtly called a Rebellion, as Salianus notes in his Annals; for though God willed this Defection, as a Puniſhment of Sin; yet they did Wickedly who who were the Authors of it. And though the Family of Solomon deſerved ſuch a Puniſhment, yet the People had no juſt Reaſon to forſake their legal Prince. For they had no Order from God for it: And Rehoboam's Anſwer to them did not deſerve ſuch a Reſentment; much leſs ſo ſudden and inconſiderate. Nor did the Prophetical Prediction warrant it: Which might have been fulfilled ſome other Way, than by ſuch a violent throwing off his Government.

Ver. 20. And it came to paſs when all Iſrael heard that Jeroboam was come again,] The great Men had ſeen him, and needed not to be informed of his Return, ver. 3. but now the News was ſpread over all the Country.

That they ſent, and called him to the congregation,] From his Tent, unto which he was gone, as other People were, ver. 16.

And made him king over all Iſrael:] Without any Condition, that we can find; though it is likely, he promiſed to eaſe them of all their Burdens.

There was none that followed the houſe of David, but the tribe of Judah only.] Which comprehended Benjamin alſo, being one with it, as was obſerved before, xi. 31, 32. And it was by the ſingular Providence of God, that they were not alſo tempted to deſert ſuch a haughty Prince as Rehoboam was.

Ver. 21. And when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he aſſembled all the houſe of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men, which were warriors; to fight againſt the houſe of Iſrael, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon.] This was a very potent Tribe, eſpecially aſſiſted by Benjamin, and wanted not Affection to the Houſe of David, which they had expreſſed upon all Occaſions: And were ready now, with a very numerous Army, to fall upon the Iſraelites, before their new King was ſettled in his Throne; and bring them back to their rightful King.

Ver. 22. But the word of God came to Shemaiah the man of God, ſaying,] A Perſon, known to be a Prophet, was ſent to them from God with a Meſſage, before they marched to the Country of Iſrael.

Ver. 23. Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah,] God himſelf owns him for no more than king of Judah.

And to all the houſe of Judah and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, ſaying,] Unto thoſe mentioned ver. 17.

Ver. 24. Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up to fight againſt your brethren the children of Iſrael; turn every man to his houſe: for this thing is from me.] Who was reſolved to maintain what he had done. It was the Intention and Deſign of God to make Jeroboam King: But he did not ſtay for his Appointment, but uſurped the Kingdom by the Help of certain vain Fellows, who raiſed a Sedition againſt Rehoboam. See 2 Chron. xiii. 5, 6, 7. And beſides, God did not promiſe to ſet his Poſterity upon his Throne (as he did to David and Solomon) unleſs he kept his Commandments, which he did not; and therefore though he ſaith the thing was from him, yet the ſetting his Son upon the Throne after him, and the ſucceeding Kings, were not from him; but in Hoſea he ſaith, viii. 4. They have ſet up kings, but not by me: They have ſet up princes, and I know it not, i. e. did not approve it.

They hearkened therefore to the word of the LORD, and returned to depart, according to the word of the LORD.] Now Rehoboam was cool, and began to be wiſe, in not reſiſting the Council of God, who had taken the Kingdom from him; but ſubmitting to his Decree, and bearing it patiently. The People, at leaſt, were of this Mind, and perſuaded him not to engage in a War, wherein God would appear againſt him. According to the Council of Menander mentioned by Strigelius, Μὴ θεομάχει, μηδὲ πρόσαγε τῷ πράγματι χειμῶνας ἑτέρους, τοὺς δὲ ἀναγκαίους φέρει. Fight not againſt God; neither do any thing to bring upon thy ſelf new ſtorms and tempeſts: but bear thoſe that are neceſſary, and cannot be avoided.

Ver. 25. Then Jeroboam built Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein,] For there it is likely they choſe him King; and therefore he enlarged and beautified it (which is meant by built) to be his Royal Seat.

And he went out from thence, and built Penuel.] But this did not ſatisfy him, he removed from thence to another City, which he alſo built; and ſo became a Builder as well as Solomon, with whoſe Buildings he is thought to have found fault.

Ver. 26. And Jeroboam ſaid in his heart, Now ſhall the kingdom return to the houſe of David:] Though God had told him he would build him a ſure Houſe (xi. 37, 38.) if he kept his Commandments, yet he did not truſt to his Promiſe; but after he had been ſome Time poſſeſſed of the Kingdom, began to fear a Revolt of the People, if he permitted them to worſhip God according to the Law; and ſo contrived to make an Alteration in Religion.

Ver. 27. If the people go up to do ſacrifice in the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, then ſhall the heart of this people turn again unto their lord, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, and they ſhall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.] All the People of Iſrael being bound at the three great Feaſts to go up to Jeruſalem to worſhip; as alſo, upon other ſolemn Occaſions, devout Perſons going thither to offer Gifts and Sacrifices; he was afraid, they would be ſo taken with the Splendor and Magnificence of the Temple, and of the Royal City, and recal to Memory the famous Acts of David and Solomon, who were buried there; and the King would find ſuch Means to oblige them, and the Prieſts and Levites ſo ſolicite them to unite themſelves again to Judah (who appeared to have the better Cauſe, having the Temple in Poſſeſſion, where God dwelt) that they would be drawn not only to forſake him, but to kill him. For beſides all this, their Belief of one only God was the principal Cauſe of Union among them: And next to that was their worſhipping God at one only Place. Therefore inſtead of conſulting God, and committing himſelf to him, who could and would have preſerved him in the Kingdom he had given him, notwithſtanding all theſe Dangers; he took Counſel, as it here follows, of ſuch as were governed only by Reaſons of State, and deviſed how to eſtabliſh himſelf by wicked Inventions.

The Talmudiſts, after their manner, add another Reaſon why he took the following Reſolution. For, ſaith R. Nachman (in the Gemara of the Sanhedrin, Cap. xi. N. 46.) the Cuſtom being that none ſhould ſit in the Court of the Temple, but only the King of the Houſe of David, he thought with himſelf, that if the People ſaw Rehoboam ſit, and him ſtand, they would conclude the former to be King, and Jeroboam but his Servant. Another Reaſon is alledged by Kimchi: When the Year of Releaſe came, Jeroboam ſaid within himſelf, it is written, Deut. xxxi. 10, 11. At the end of every ſeventh year, thou ſhalt read this law in the ears of all Iſrael, &c. Now if I attempt to read it, the People will ſay, the King who is in the place which God hath choſen (i. e. Jeruſalem) muſt read firſt, and ſo I muſt read it after him, which will be a Diſgrace to me: And if I read it not at all it will be worſe, for I ſhall be thought profane. But theſe, and ſuch like, are frivolous Reaſons, for his Reſolution to draw the People from the Worſhip of God according to the Law, at his own Houſe at Jeruſalem.

Ver. 28. Whereupon the king took counſel,] Of ſome ſecular Politicians; who if they could but preſerve the Civil Government, cared not what became of Religion. The Jews in the Place above-mentioned, in the Sanhedrin, tell the Story in this manner; That he ſummoned a Council, conſiſting partly of pious, partly of wicked Men; whom he aſked whether they would ſubſcribe to all that he ordered. They anſwered, Yes. Then he ſaid, he would be conſtituted their King: To which they conſenting, he aſked if they would obey him. To which there being a ready Compliance, he added Even though I command you to ſerve Idols? At which the pious Men ſtartled, and were full of Indignation; but their wicked Neighbours whiſpered to them ſaying, Do you think Jeroboam will honour Idols? He ſaith this only to try your Obedience. And ſo even Ahijah himſelf was drawn in, by this Fraud, to ſubſcribe to what he propoſed, that they would be obedient in all things without Exception.

And made two calves of gold,] One Egg, as Bochartus ſpeaks, is not more like to another, than theſe Calves were to that which Aaron made. Only, as the Jews ſay in Sanhedrin, 'till Jeroboam's Time the Iſraelites ſucked but one Calf; but from that Time they ſucked two. They were of the ſame Matter with Aaron's, and made for the ſame Reaſon: His, becauſe Moſes was abſent; and theſe, becauſe the Holy City (where the Temple, the Altar, the Prieſts of God were) they could not come to with Safety. And as Aaron, ſo Jeruſalem learnt this Calf Worſhip in Egypt, where he lived for ſome Years. The LXX tranſlate theſe Words, δύο δαμάλεις χρυσᾶς, two She-Calves; and ſo doth Joſephus: And the Prophet Hoſea alſo ſpeaks of them in the Feminine Gender, x. 5. by way of Contempt and Deſpiſal, as Bochartus thinks. It is not improbable (as ſome Learned Men have conjectured) that he made two Calves, in Imitation of the Egyptians, with whom he had converſed, who had a couple of Oxen which they worſhipped; Apis at Memphis the Metropolis of the upper Egypt; and Mnevis at Hierapolis, which was the chief City of the lower.

And ſaid unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jeruſalem:] Or, as ſome expound the Hebrew Words, you have gone long enough to Jeruſalem.

Behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt.] The very ſame Words that Aaron had ſpoken (Exod. xxxii. 4.) and they had the ſame Meaning. For he would have them think, that there was no need of going up to Jeruſalem, three times a year, with Labour and Charge; when the true God, who brought their Fathers out of Egypt, dwelt among them there, no leſs than at Jeruſalem. For God is every where in his Eſſence (it is likely he told them) and cannot be included in any Place; and if they required any ſpecial Symbols of his Preſence, behold, here they were in thoſe Calves which he ſet up. As if every Man had Power to deviſe, out of his own Head, a Symbol of God's Preſence. See Voſſius de Orig. & Progr. Idolol. Lib. 1. Cap. 3.

Ver. 29. And he ſet the one in Bethel, and the other put he in Dan.] The former of which was in the South, the latter in the North of the Country of Iſrael; and as Bethel was in every Body's Opinion a ſacred Place (having been conſecrated by Jacob, when God appeared to him there more than once) ſo Dan had been famous for the Teraphim of Micah; unto which there had been great Reſort, a long Time, Judges xviii. 30. For ſuch Reaſons as theſe, it is likely, he waved his Royal City, which was Shechem; and choſe theſe two Places for the Reſidence of the Divine Majeſty. For ſo he pretended, that theſe Calves repreſented God; whom he did not forſake, but worſhipped him in theſe Symbols of his Preſence.

Ver. 30. And this became a ſin:] Led them into foul Idolatry: For that was the Sin which Jeroboam is ſo often accuſed of. And the ſettling a Calf in Dan was an high Aggravation of their Sin; there being no Pretence for two Calves; nor for placing one there, where God had never been extraordinarily preſent.

For the people went to worſhip before the one, even unto Dan.] Which Place being in the extreme Part of the Country, yet the People were ſo zealous in their Idolatry, that they travelled to offer Sacrifice there: So that they who thought it grievous to go to worſhip God at Jeruſalem, did not think much to go a great deal further to worſhip an Idol. This ſeems to me the ſimpleſt Meaning: Which others take to be, that they who dwelt in Bethel were ſo zealous, that they would go as far as Dan, to worſhip the other Calf.

Ver. 31. And he made an houſe of high places,] That is, ſaith Abarbinel, he made an Houſe or Temple at Dan; wherein there was not one Altar only, as there was at Jeruſalem, but a great many high Places.

And made prieſts of the loweſt of the people, which were not of the ſons of Levi.] The Hebrew Words Miketzoth haam ſhould not be interpreted the loweſt of the people; but, as the ſame Abarbinel expounds it, out of all the people; he made any body a Prieſt, though he was not of the ſons of Levi. And Bochartus hath juſtified this Expoſition, by a great many Examples of the Uſe of theſe Words in other Places. To this Jeroboam was forced, becauſe the Levites would not ſerve his Impiety, 2 Chron. xi. 14. and therefore he expelled them all, and ſeized on their Cities and Lands. Whereby as he eaſed the People of paying their Tithes, there being none to demand them; ſo he gratified them by making Prieſts out of every Tribe and Family; even in the extremeſt part of the Country, as the Hebrew Words ſignify. Thus as he transferred the Kingdom from the Houſe of David; ſo he transferred the Prieſthood from the Family of Aaron; and let it looſe, that any body might be admitted to that Honourable Employment. Which was a very popular thing; and ingratiated him no doubt with the Iſraelites. And Cornel Bertram thinks that as he had Prieſts, ſo he had Levites alſo of the ſame Stamp: That is, ſome to officiate under the Prieſts, as they did. The former he called Cohenim, as they were called in Judah: The other he called Gemarim, who miniſtred as the Levites did; but in black, not in white Garments, and thence had their Name. De Republ. Judaica, Cap. xvi.

Ver. 32. And Jeroboam ordained a feaſt in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feaſt that is in Judah,] That is, the Feaſt of Tabernacles; which by the Law was to be celebrated on the fifteenth Day of the ſeventh Month. This he altered, and as Abarbinel thinks, might poſſibly give this Reaſon for his impious Preſumption; that this Feaſt being inſtituted by God after the gathering of their Fruits, which were ſooner ripe about Jeruſalem, than in the Northern Parts of the Country; he pretended the eighth Month would be a better Time for it than the ſeventh; becauſe then they would be every where gathered. But his chief Intention in this Change, was to alienate the People from the Rites obſerved at Jeruſalem.

And he offered upon the altar,] This was an high Preſumption, to invade the Preſthood himſelf, and offer Sacrifices to his gods. A Crime which none of the Kings of Judah were guilty of, but only Uzziah; who was ſmitten with a Leproſy, for meddling with the Prieſts Office, 2 Chron. xxvi. 19.

(So he did in Bethel) ſacrificing unto the calves that he had made:] What he had done in Dan, he did alſo in Bethel; for hitherto hath been related only what he did in the remoteſt Place.

And he placed in Bethel the prieſts of the high places which he had made.] There he alſo built an Houſe, or Temple; and ſet up many Altars in it, where theſe Prieſts officiated as they did in other high Places.

Ver. 33. So he offered upon the altar he had made in Bethel, the fifteenth day of the eighth month,] There he began this new Feſtival, and conſecrated it himſelf.

In the month which he had deviſed of his own heart:] Out of his own Will and Pleaſure (as the Targum tranſlates it) againſt the expreſs Ordinance of God.

And ordained a feaſt unto the children of Iſrael,] To be obſerved, I ſuppoſe, every Year in Bethel, as the Feaſt of Tabernacles was at Jeruſalem. And it is likely it laſted as many Days; unleſs he affected to make Alterations in every thing, and ordained more, or fewer Days, as he thought good.

And he offered upon the altar, and burnt incenſe.] He preſumed to perform the higheſt Part of the Prieſts Office, which was to burn Incenſe. Which he had not done in Dan, as Abarbinel thinks, but only in Bethel; which was in ſome regard to the Metropolis of his Kingdom, and Head of the Tribe of Ephraim; to which Place the Prophet, mentioned in the next Chapter, came, and not to Dan. He obſerves alſo that the Scripture ſaith thrice he offered upon the Altar, ſpeaking of different Times and Places. Firſt it is ſaid, ver. 30, that he offered upon the Altar; that is at Dan, where all Iſrael went to worſhip. Secondly, he offered again in Bethel, in the Beginning of this Verſe: And then it is ſaid here in the Concluſion, that he aſcended the Altar in Bethel, not to offer Sacrifice, but to burn Incenſe, which he had not done in Dan. And when he burnt Incenſe on the Feaſt-Day he had inſtituted, the Man of God came from Judah, and propheſied againſt the Altar, as it follows in the next Chapter.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs, that there came a man of God out of Judah,] That is, a Prophet: For none are called Men of God, but Prophets. And ſo this Man is called below, ver. 18. whence Kimchi concludes David was a Prophet, becauſe he is called a Man of God. And this Prophet is thought by the Jews to be Iddo; whoſe Viſion againſt Jeroboam is mentioned 2 Chron. ix. 29. But this is an evident Miſtake: For Iddo was alive in the Days of Abijah the Son of Rehoboam (2 Chron. xiii. 22.) Whereas this Prophet here ſpoken of was killed immediately after this Prophecy Therefore they were not the ſame; unleſs we ſuppoſe that what is here related fell out in the latter End of Jeroboam's Reign.

Tertullian in his Book De Jejunio, Cap. xvi. call him Sameas: Where Rigaltius obſerves that Joſephus calls him Jadon, and Epiphanius Joam.

By the word of the LORD unto Bethel:] By a particular Command of God.

And Jeroboam ſtood by the altar to burn incenſe.] Upon that Feaſt-Day, which he had inſtituted. See the laſt Verſe of the foregoing Chapter.

Ver. 2. And he cried againſt the altar in the word of the LORD,] Declared it, and the Worſhip there performed, to be idolatrous; which he ſpake by Authority from God.

And ſaid, O altar, altar,] Some think he mentioned the Altar twice, to ſignify that he propheſied againſt that in Dan, as well as againſt this in Bethel.

Thus ſaith the LORD, behold, a child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David, Joſiah by name,] The Prophets ſaw things future, as if they were preſent. And thought this was not to come to paſs, 'till above three hundred and ſixty Years after this Time, yet this Man of God foretels it, as if it were to be done e'er long. And the Prediction is the more wonderful, becauſe he tells out of what Family he ſhould ſpring, and what ſhould be his Name.

And upon thee ſhall he offer the prieſts of the high places that burn incenſe upon thee, and mens bones

ther Reaſon why he took the following Reſolution. For, ſaith R. Nachman (in the Gemara of the Sanhedrin, Cap. xi. N. 46.) the Cuſtom being that none ſhould ſit in the Court of the Temple, but only the King of the Houſe of David, he thought with himſelf, that if the People ſaw Rehoboam ſit, and him ſtand, they would conclude the former to be King, and Jeroboam but his Servant. Another Reaſon is alledged by Kimchi: When the Year of Releaſe came, Jeroboam ſaid within himſelf, it is written, Deut. xxxi. 10, 11. At the end of every ſeventh year, thou ſhalt read this law in the ears of all Iſrael, &c. Now if I attempt to read it, the People will ſay, the King who is in the place which God hath choſen (i. e. Jeruſalem) muſt read firſt, and ſo I muſt read it after him, which will be a Diſgrace to me: And if I read it not at all it will be worſe, for I ſhall be thought profane. But theſe, and ſuch like, are frivolous Reaſons, for his Reſolution to draw the People from the Worſhip of God according to the Law, at his own Houſe at Jeruſalem.

Ver. 28. Whereupon the king took counſel,] Of ſome ſecular Politicians; who if they could but preſerve the Civil Government, cared not what became of Religion. The Jews in the Place above-mentioned, in the Sanhedrin, tell the Story in this manner; That he ſummoned a Council, conſiſting partly of pious, partly of wicked Men; whom he aſked whether they would ſubſcribe to all that he ordered. They anſwered, Yes. Then he ſaid, he would be conſtituted their King: To which they conſenting, he aſked if they would obey him. To which there being a ready Compliance, he added Even though I command you to ſerve Idols? At which the pious Men ſtartled, and were full of Indignation; but their wicked Neighbours whiſpered to them ſaying, Do you think Jeroboam will honour Idols? He ſaith this only to try your Obedience. And ſo even Ahijah himſelf was drawn in, by this Fraud, to ſubſcribe to what he propoſed, that they would be obedient in all things without Exception.

And made two calves of gold,] One Egg, as Bochartus ſpeaks, is not more like to another, than theſe Calves were to that which Aaron made. Only, as the Jews ſay in Sanhedrin, 'till Jeroboam's Time the Iſraelites ſucked but one Calf; but from that Time they ſucked two. They were of the ſame Matter with Aaron's, and made for the ſame Reaſon: His, becauſe Moſes was abſent; and theſe, becauſe the Holy City (where the Temple, the Altar, the Prieſts of God were) they could not come to with Safety. And as Aaron, ſo Jeruſalem learnt this Calf Worſhip in Egypt, where he lived for ſome Years. The LXX tranſlate theſe Words, δύο δαμάλεις χρυσᾶς, two She-Calves; and ſo doth Joſephus: And the Prophet Hoſea alſo ſpeaks of them in the Feminine Gender, x. 5. by way of Contempt and Deſpiſal, as Bochartus thinks. It is not improbable (as ſome Learned Men have conjectured) that he made two Calves, in Imitation of the Egyptians, with whom he had converſed, who had a couple of Oxen which they worſhipped; Apis at Memphis the Metropolis of the upper Egypt; and Mnevis at Hierapolis, which was the chief City of the lower.

And ſaid unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jeruſalem:] Or, as ſome expound the Hebrew Words, you have gone long enough to Jeruſalem.

Behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt.] The very ſame Words that Aaron had ſpoken (Exod. xxxii. 4.) and they had the ſame Meaning. For he would have them think, that there was no need of going up to Jeruſalem, three times a year, with Labour and Charge; when the true God, who brought their Fathers out of Egypt, dwelt among them there, no leſs than at Jeruſalem. For God is every where in his Eſſence (it is likely he told them) and cannot be included in any Place; and if they required any ſpecial Symbols of his Preſence, behold, here they were in thoſe Calves which he ſet up. As if every Man had Power to deviſe, out of his own Head, a Symbol of God's Preſence. See Voſſius de Orig. & Progr. Idolol. Lib. 1. Cap. 3.

Ver. 29. And he ſet the one in Bethel, and the other put he in Dan.] The former of which was in the South, the latter in the North of the Country of Iſrael; and as Bethel was in every Body's Opinion a ſacred Place (having been conſecrated by Jacob, when God appeared to him there more than once) ſo Dan had been famous for the Teraphim of Micah; unto which there had been great Reſort, a long Time, Judges xviii. 30. For ſuch Reaſons as theſe, it is likely, he waved his Royal City, which was Shechem; and choſe theſe two Places for the Reſidence of the Divine Majeſty. For ſo he pretended, that theſe Calves repreſented God; whom he did not forſake, but worſhipped him in theſe Symbols of his Preſence.

Ver. 30. And this became a ſin:] Led them into foul Idolatry: For that was the Sin which Jeroboam is ſo often accuſed of. And the ſettling a Calf in Dan was an high Aggravation of their Sin; there being no Pretence for two Calves; nor for placing one there, where God had never been extraordinarily preſent.

For the people went to worſhip before the one, even unto Dan.] Which Place being in the extreme Part of the Country, yet the People were ſo zealous in their Idolatry, that they travelled to offer Sacrifice there: So that they who thought it grievous to go to worſhip God at Jeruſalem, did not think much to go a great deal further to worſhip an Idol. This ſeems to me the ſimpleſt Meaning: Which others take to be, that they who dwelt in Bethel were ſo zealous, that they would go as far as Dan, to worſhip the other Calf.

Ver. 31. And he made an houſe of high places,] That is, ſaith Abarbinel, he made an Houſe or Temple at Dan; wherein there was not one Altar only, as there was at Jeruſalem, but a great many high Places.

And made prieſts of the loweſt of the people, which were not of the ſons of Levi.] The Hebrew Words Miketzoth haam ſhould not be interpreted the loweſt of the people; but, as the ſame Abarbinel expounds it, out of all the people; he made any body a Prieſt, though he was not of the ſons of Levi. And Bochartus hath juſtified this Expoſition, by a great many Examples of the Uſe of theſe Words in other Places. To this Jeroboam was forced, becauſe the Levites would not ſerve his Impiety, 2 Chron. xi. 14. and therefore he expelled them all, and ſeized on their Cities and Lands. Whereby as he eaſed the People of paying their Tithes, there being none to demand them; ſo he gratified them by making Prieſts out of every Tribe and Family; even in the extremeſt part of the Country, as the Hebrew Words ſignify. Thus as he transferred the Kingdom from the Houſe of David; ſo he transferred the Prieſthood from the Family of Aaron; and let it looſe, that any body might be admitted to that Honourable Employment. Which was a very popular thing; and ingratiated him no doubt with the Iſraelites. And Cornel Bertram thinks that as he had Prieſts, ſo he had Levites alſo of the ſame Stamp: That is, ſome to officiate under the Prieſts, as they did. The former he called Cohenim, as they were called in Judah: The other he called Gemarim, who miniſtred as the Levites did; but in black, not in white Garments, and thence had their Name. De Republ. Judaica, Cap. xvi.

Ver. 32. And Jeroboam ordained a feaſt in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feaſt that is in Judah,] That is, the Feaſt of Tabernacles; which by the Law was to be celebrated on the fifteenth Day of the ſeventh Month. This he altered, and as Abarbinel thinks, might poſſibly give this Reaſon for his impious Preſumption; that this Feaſt being inſtituted by God after the gathering of their Fruits, which were ſooner ripe about Jeruſalem, than in the Northern Parts of the Country; he pretended the eighth Month would be a better Time for it than the ſeventh; becauſe then they would be every where gathered. But his chief Intention in this Change, was to alienate the People from the Rites obſerved at Jeruſalem.

And he offered upon the altar,] This was an high Preſumption, to invade the Preſthood himſelf, and offer Sacrifices to his gods. A Crime which none of the Kings of Judah were guilty of, but only Uzziah; who was ſmitten with a Leproſy, for meddling with the Prieſts Office, 2 Chron. xxvi. 19.

(So he did in Bethel) ſacrificing unto the calves that he had made:] What he had done in Dan, he did alſo in Bethel; for hitherto hath been related only what he did in the remoteſt Place.

And he placed in Bethel the prieſts of the high places which he had made.] There he alſo built an Houſe, or Temple; and ſet up many Altars in it, where theſe Prieſts officiated as they did in other high Places.

Ver. 33. So he offered upon the altar he had made in Bethel, the fifteenth day of the eighth month,] There he began this new Feſtival, and conſecrated it himſelf.

In the month which he had deviſed of his own heart:] Out of his own Will and Pleaſure (as the Targum tranſlates it) againſt the expreſs Ordinance of God.

And ordained a feaſt unto the children of Iſrael,] To be obſerved, I ſuppoſe, every Year in Bethel, as the Feaſt of Tabernacles was at Jeruſalem. And it is likely it laſted as many Days; unleſs he affected to make Alterations in every thing, and ordained more, or fewer Days, as he thought good.

And he offered upon the altar, and burnt incenſe.] He preſumed to perform the higheſt Part of the Prieſts Office, which was to burn Incenſe. Which he had not done in Dan, as Abarbinel thinks, but only in Bethel; which was in ſome regard to the Metropolis of his Kingdom, and Head of the Tribe of Ephraim; to which Place the Prophet, mentioned in the next Chapter, came, and not to Dan. He obſerves alſo that the Scripture ſaith thrice he offered upon the Altar, ſpeaking of different Times and Places. Firſt it is ſaid, ver. 30, that he offered upon the Altar; that is at Dan, where all Iſrael went to worſhip. Secondly, he offered again in Bethel, in the Beginning of this Verſe: And then it is ſaid here in the Concluſion, that he aſcended the Altar in Bethel, not to offer Sacrifice, but to burn Incenſe, which he had not done in Dan. And when he burnt Incenſe on the Feaſt-Day he had inſtituted, the Man of God came from Judah, and propheſied againſt the Altar, as it follows in the next Chapter.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs, that there came a man of God out of Judah,] That is, a Prophet: For none are called Men of God, but Prophets. And ſo this Man is called below, ver. 18. whence Kimchi concludes David was a Prophet, becauſe he is called a Man of God. And this Prophet is thought by the Jews to be Iddo; whoſe Viſion againſt Jeroboam is mentioned 2 Chron. ix. 29. But this is an evident Miſtake: For Iddo was alive in the Days of Abijah the Son of Rehoboam (2 Chron. xiii. 22.) Whereas this Prophet here ſpoken of was killed immediately after this Prophecy Therefore they were not the ſame; unleſs we ſuppoſe that what is here related fell out in the latter End of Jeroboam's Reign.

Tertullian in his Book De Jejunio, Cap. xvi. call him Sameas: Where Rigaltius obſerves that Joſephus calls him Jadon, and Epiphanius Joam.

By the word of the LORD unto Bethel:] By a particular Command of God.

And Jeroboam ſtood by the altar to burn incenſe.] Upon that Feaſt-Day, which he had inſtituted. See the laſt Verſe of the foregoing Chapter.

Ver. 2. And he cried againſt the altar in the word of the LORD,] Declared it, and the Worſhip there performed, to be idolatrous; which he ſpake by Authority from God.

And ſaid, O altar, altar,] Some think he mentioned the Altar twice, to ſignify that he propheſied againſt that in Dan, as well as againſt this in Bethel.

Thus ſaith the LORD, behold, a child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David, Joſiah by name,] The Prophets ſaw things future, as if they were preſent. And thought this was not to come to paſs, 'till above three hundred and ſixty Years after this Time, yet this Man of God foretels it, as if it were to be done e'er long. And the Prediction is the more wonderful, becauſe he tells out of what Family he ſhould ſpring, and what ſhould be his Name.

And upon thee ſhall he offer the prieſts of the high places that burn incenſe upon thee, and mens bones bones ſhall he burn upon thee.] The Meaning is not that he ſhould burn the Prieſts alive; but the Execution of this Prophecy explains it: That he ſhould ſlay the Prieſts of the high Places; and then burn their Bones, as he did the Bones of thoſe that had been buried; and thereby defile this Altar, 2 Kings xxiii. 15, 16, 20.

Ver. 3. And he gave a ſign the ſame day,] To confirm this Prophecy:

Saying, This is the ſign which the LORD hath ſpoken;] A Proof that he ſpake from God; and not from himſelf.

Behold, the altar ſhall be rent, and the aſhes that are upon it ſhall be poured out.] This could not be done, but by the Power of God; who hereby demonſtrated he had ſent this Prophet to ſpeak theſe Words; which were preſently fulfilled.

Ver. 4. And it came to paſs, when Jeroboam heard the ſaying of the man of God, which had cried againſt the altar in Bethel,] In the Preſence of the King himſelf, when he was about the ſolemn Service of his gods.

That he put forth his hand from the altar,] Where he ſtood, ver. 1.

Saying, Lay hold on him.] As he himſelf would have done, had he been near him.

And his hand which he put forth againſt him dried up, ſo that he could not pull it in again to him.] The Muſcles and Sinews ſhrunk, ſo that it was ſtiff and frigid; and he perfectly loſt the Uſe of it. Which Prodigy was a new Token, that the Prophet's Words would be fulfilled.

Ver. 5. And the altar alſo was rent, and the aſhes poured out from the altar, according to the ſign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.] Which ſo amazed all the People, that we do not find any body went about to lay hold on him; but Jeroboam himſelf was, for the preſent, aſtoniſhed at the miraculous Power of God.

Ver. 6. And the king anſwered and ſaid unto the man of God, Intreat now the face of the LORD thy God and pray for me,] A marvellous Change! He that juſt now threatned, humbly ſupplicates him that ſmote him.

That my hand may be reſtored me again.] He was convinced that Healing muſt come from the ſame Hand that gave the Wound; and that it was in vain to ſeek to his gods.

And the man of God beſought the LORD, and the king's hand was reſtored him again, and became as it was before.] He did not intend his Deſtruction, but his Reformation; and therefore granted his Requeſt. Whereby a new Miracle was wrought for his Converſion.

Ver. 7. And the king ſaid unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refreſh thy ſelf, and I will give thee a reward.] A ſtrange Inſenſibility of God's great Mercy to him; which did not lead him to Repentance, when it moved him to ſo much Gratitude as to deſire to reward him that was the Inſtrument of his Cure. His Hand was reſtored, but not a good Mind.

Ver. 8. And the man of God ſaid to the king, If thou wilt give me half thine houſe, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread, nor drink water in this place:] For he had a Charge from God (as it follows) not to communicate with them, who were Apoſtates from their Religion.

Ver. 9. For ſo it was charged me by the LORD, ſaying,] The ſame Divine Authority, which ſent him thither to do what they had heard and ſeen, gave him this following Charge.

Eat not bread, nor drink water, nor turn again by the ſame way that thou cameſt.] The Reaſon is plain, why he ſhould not eat or drink with them; becauſe that was to have familiar Society with Idolaters. But why he ſhould not return the ſame Way that he came, is not ſo evident. Some think it was to repreſent, that even the Way to Bethel was abominable; and therefore not to be frequented: Or, to ſhew how much we ought to abhor that which leads to Evil. But it ſeems to be a Proverbial Speech; ſignifying that he ſhould be conſtant and ſtedfaſt in executing the Charge committed to him. For he that doth any thing without Succeſs is ſaid to return by the Way that he went, Iſaiah xxxvii. 29, 34. And therefore not return by the Way that he went, is to do his Buſineſs effectually.

Ver. 10. And ſo he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Bethel,] To ſhew (as many think) how God deteſts the Way to Idolatry; and would have it to be forgotten.

Ver. 11. And there was an old prophet] One who had many Years been a Prophet before this Apoſtacy; whoſe Name the Jews ſay was Micah: Who was a Worſhipper of the true God, though he dwelt among this idolatrous People. A great many take him to have been a falſe Prophet: But Theodoret proves that he was a true, though guilty of telling a Lye to the Man of God. See Hermannus Witſius his Miſcellanea, Tom. I. p. 142, &c.

In Bethel,] He was originally of Samaria, as we learn from 2 Kings xxiii. 18. But removed hither, it is likely, ſince this Revolution, that he might ſee what Jeroboam deſigned.

And his ſons came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Bethel:] In the Hebrew it is, his ſon came and told him, &c. that is, one of his Sons came firſt, and told all the foregoing Paſſages; and afterward came all the reſt of them, and confirmed what he had related.

The words that he had ſpoken to the king, them they alſo told their father.] By this it appears, they were preſent when Jeroboam ſtood at the Altar; and therefore joined in that idolatrous Worſhip; though their Father did not, and yet was ſo timorous that he durſt not reprove it.

Ver. 12. And their father ſaid unto them, Which way went he? for his ſons had ſeen what way the man of God went that came from Judah.] They had the Curioſity to obſerve what Way ſuch a remarkable Perſon went to his own Country; imagining perhaps their Father would have a Mind to diſcourſe with him.

Ver. 13. And he ſaid unto his ſons, Saddle me the aſs. So they ſaddled him the aſs, and he rode thereon,] In the way they directed him.

Ver. 14. And went after the man of God, and found him ſitting under an oak;] Weary, I ſuppoſe, with a long Journey; and faint for want of Victuals.

And he ſaid, Art thou the man of God that came from Judah? and he ſaid, I am.

Ver. 15. Then he ſaid unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.] He had a mind to have a further Trial of the Truth of what the Man of God had ſaid; and ſo, in a crafty deceitful Manner, inticed him back; contrary to his Commiſſion.

Ver. 16. And he ſaid, I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee; neither will I eat bread, nor drink water with thee in this place.] It ſeems he was forbid ſo much as to go into any of their Houſes; leſt he ſhould be tempted to eat with them.

Ver. 17. For it was ſaid to me by the word of the LORD, thou ſhalt eat no bread, nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou cameſt.] For which Reaſon he refuſed to accept of the King's Invitation.

Ver. 18. And he ſaid unto him, I am a prophet as thou art,] He pretended, as Abarbinel thinks, that God had revealed the very ſame to him concerning the Altar in Bethel, that he had threatned.

And an angel ſpake unto me, by the word of the LORD, ſaying, Bring him back] And he further pretended that he found him here by the Direction of an Angel. For he did not tell him, that he learnt from his Sons what had paſſed; but pretended he had it by Prophecy; and that an Angel, in the Name of God, commanded him to bring him back to his Houſe, and refreſh him there.

To thine houſe, that he may eat bread, and drink water.] He perſwaded him, I ſuppoſe, that the Meaning of God's Charge, thou ſhalt not eat bread, nor drink water in this place, was to be underſtood of Sinners and Idolaters, with whom he might not communicate: But he being a Prophet, was not to be comprehended in that Command. And therefore the Angel ſaid, bring him back to thine houſe: Not to the Habitation of any Idolater, but to his Dwelling-houſe, which was undefiled. This Abarbinel.

But he lied unto him.] All this was a Fiction, which God ſuffered for the Trial of the good Man; whether he would belive him, or a Man he did not know.

Ver. 19. So he went back with him, and did eat bread and drink water in his houſe.] He thought it poſſible that God might, in Pity to him, revoke his Prohibition; becauſe he was hungry and weary. But he ought to have believed the Revelation he had himſelf, of which he was certain; and not truſted to what another pretended was revealed to him; which he could not be ſure was true. And it is ſaid emphatically, ver. 22. The LORD did ſay to thee, eat no bread, &c. If God had, in Compaſſion to him, thought fit to re-call that Word, he would have done it to himſelf; and as plainly allowed him to refreſh himſelf, as before he had forbidden it. So Abarbinel well obſerves, Nothing that a Prophet receives from God is to be altered, unleſs that Prophet hath another Word from God revoking the former. As Abraham had; to whom God ſaith, Gen. xxii. 2. Take thy ſon, &c. and offer him for a burnt-offering, &c. But when he was going to do it, he heard that Command repealed, ver. 12. Lay not thy hand upon the lad, &c. He would not receive a contrary Command from the Mouth of any Prophet, but from the Mouth of God alone; from whom he received the firſt Command.

Ver. 20. And it came to paſs, that as they ſat at the table, the word of the LORD came to the prophet that brought him back:] God would not vouchſafe to ſpeak to him, who had diſobeyed his Voice; but rather to the other, though in his Name he had feigned an Untruth.

Ver. 21. And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, ſaying,] He ſeems to be in a great Agony; from the Conſideration of what he had done, and of what the Prophet from Judah was to ſuffer.

Thus ſaith the LORD, Foraſmuch as thou haſt diſobeyed the mouth of the LORD, and haſt not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee,] To diſobey God's Mouth, was to diſobey the Word ſpoken by his Mouth.

Ver. 22. But cameſt back, and haſt eaten bread and drunk water in this place, of which the LORD did ſay to thee, eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcaſe ſhall not come into the ſepulchre of thy fathers.] This was all his Puniſhment; that he ſhould ſhortly die, and not be buried among the Jews.

Ver. 23. And it came to paſs after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he ſadled for him the aſs, for the prophet whom he had brought back.] It is remarkable that no Puniſhment is here threatned to the old Prophet, for telling him a Lie. Becauſe, as Abarbinel thinks he meant no Harm to the other Prophet; but fancied that his ſaying, he might not eat or drink with them, was only to excuſe himſelf from going with Jeroboam to his Houſe. And beſides, it might have turned to the great Advantage of the Prophet who came from Judah, if he had ſtedfaſtly perſiſted in his Reſolution, and not given Credit to what the old Prophet ſaid againſt it.

Ver. 24. And when he was gone, a lion met him by the way, and ſlew him:] Not far from Bethel there was a Wood; out of which the two She-Bears came, that tare two and forty Children in pieces, 2 Kings ii. 24. Out of which Wood, it is probable, this Lion came, and ſlew this Prophet.

And his carcaſe was caſt in the way, and the aſs ſtood by it, the lion alſo ſtood by the carcaſe,] This was to admoniſh all the Prophets to obſerve God's Commands ſtrictly; and to ſhew Jeroboam what he might expect; ſince God ſpared not a leſſer Offender. But as God ſhewed his Severity, in taking away this Prophet's Life which was his Puniſhmet; ſo he remarkably ſhewed his Approbation of the Prophet; in that the Lion ſtood quietly by his Carcaſe, and did not devour it; nor do any hurt to the Aſs on which he rode. As if he was meerly ſent by a Divine Appointment, to execute what God had threatned; but could not move one Step beyond that Commiſſion. For when the Prophet had ſuffered what God intended, he takes even his dead Body into his Protection; and would not let it be violated, as his obſerved below, ver. 28.

Ver. 25. And behold, men paſſed by, and ſaw the carcaſe caſt in the way, and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.] As a wonderful Thing;

Thing; that the Lion ſhould neither fall upon his Prey, nor hurt them who paſſed by; but ſuffered them to go on quietly.

Ver. 26. And when the prophet that brought him back from the way heard thereof, he ſaid, It is the man of God, that was diſobedient to the word of the LORD:] Diſobedience in great Caſes hath been thus puniſhed by Men in Authority. For the Athenians put their Ambaſſadors to Death, whom they had ſent into Arcadia, though they had performed their Buſineſs very well, to their Content, ἐπεὶ ἑτέρων ὁδὸν ἦλθον, καὶ ὐ τὴν προστεταγμένον, becauſe they came another Way, and not that which they were preſcribed. Which is the very Caſe before us, Ælian, Lib. vi. Var. Hiſtor. Cap. 5.

Therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, who hath torn him and ſlain him according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake unto him.] The Lion did not rend his Body in Pieces, but only gave him one Wound, which killed him. In the Hebrew the Word is, he broke him, that is his Bones, and ſo ſlew him ſpeedily.

Ver. 27. And he ſpake to his ſons, ſaying, Saddle me the aſs. And they ſaddled him.] Hearing the Lion ſtood as quiet as a Lamb, and neither meddled with the Carcaſe, nor hurt any that paſſed by, he did not fear to take up the Body of the Prophet that came from Judah; believing the Lion had Order to do no other Miſchief, but kill him.

Ver. 28. And he went and found his carcaſe caſt in the way, and the aſs and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe: the lion had not eat the carcaſe, nor torn the aſs.] Here is a Cluſter of Miracles, that the Lion, contrary to his Nature, did not eat the Carcaſe, nor kill the Aſs, nor meddle with the Travellers that paſſed by, nor with the old Prophet and his Aſs: And that the Aſs ſtood ſo quietly, and was not frighted at the Sight of a Lion, and betake it ſelf to Flight. And more than this, the Lion ſtood by the Carcaſe a long Time, 'till this ſtrange News was carried into the City; as a faithful Keeper of the Prophet's Body, that no other wild Beaſts ſhould meddle with it. Which made the Miracle more illuſtrious; and plainly ſhewed all this did not happen by Chance.

Ver. 29. And the prophet took up the carcaſe of the man of God, and laid it upon the aſs, and brought it back: and the old prophet came into the city, to mourn, and to bury him.] To make a ſolemn Funeral for him.

Ver. 30. And he laid his carcaſe in his own grave,] Which was the greateſt Honour he could do him.

And they mourned over him, ſaying, Alas my brother.] He and his Sons made the uſual Lamentation over him; of which this was the Form, we find, in After-Times, Jer. xxii. 18.

Ver. 31. And it came to paſs after he had buried him, that he ſpake unto his ſons, ſaying, When I am dead, then bury me in the ſepulchre wherein the man of God is buried, lay my bones beſide his bones.] This he ordered, not meerly out of Affection to the Prophet, but to ſecure himſelf from the Judgment that he had threatned, ver. 2.

Ver. 32. For the ſaying which he cried by the word of the LORD againſt the Altar in Bethel, and againſt all the houſes of the high places that are in the cities of Samaria, ſhall ſurely come to paſs.] This Abarbinel looks upon as an Argument that this Man was a Prophet of the LORD; that he foretold the ſame Thing that the Man of God who came from Judah, did. And, as he thinks, ſomething more; viz. the Deſtruction of all the High Places by Joſiah, which is not before mentioned.

Ver. 33. After this thing Jeroboam returned not from his evil way,] By all theſe wonderful Works (for the ſingular Number is put for the plural) Jeroboam was not at all changed; but continued in his Idolatry.

But made again of the loweſt of the people, prieſts of the high places:] He did not reform in any one Thing; but ſtill went on in making any body Prieſts. See xii. 31.

Whoſoever would, he conſecrated him, and he became one of the prieſts of the high places.] Without any Reſpect to his Tribe, or Family; or indeed, to his Condition.

Ver. 34. And this thing became ſin to the houſe of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and deſtroy it from the face of the earth.] Brought dreadful Puniſhments upon his Family (for ſo Sin ſometimes ſignifies the Puniſhment of Sin) and theſe not vulgar Puniſhments, but utter Extirpation.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſe 1. At that time] Some Time after thoſe Woes were denounced againſt him; but the Phraſe doth not denote any preciſe Time.

Ahijah the ſon of Jeroboam was ſick.] Being ſtricken by the Hand of God, with ſome Diſeaſe.

Ver. 2. And Jeroboam ſaid to his wife, Ariſe, I pray thee, and diſguiſe thy ſelf,] Put on ſuch Apparel as the common People wear.

That thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam:] He would have her go on this Errand, becauſe he was ſure ſhe would report Things truly to him: But yet would not have her known to be his Wife, becauſe he would have the Prophet ſpeak more freely and indifferently: Or, perhaps, he was afraid he ſhould threaten too heavily, if he knew who ſhe was.

And get thee to Shiloh; behold there is the prophet Ahijah, which told me I ſhould be king over this people.] This looks like great Stupidity, that he ſhould think to deceive a Prophet, who could tell him future Events: And therefore much more diſcover Things preſent.

Ver. 3. And take with thee ten loaves, and cracknels, and a cruſe of hony, and go to him: he ſhall tell thee what ſhall become of the child.] They that went to enquire of a Prophet, uſed to make him ſome Preſent, as a Token of their Reſpect to him. See 1 Sam. ix. 7. And by ſuch Oblations the Prophets ſupported themſelves. This Preſent which ſhe made him was of ſuch Things as might make him think her to be a Countrywoman, rather than a Courtier.

Ver. 4. And Jeroboams wife did ſo, and aroſe, and went to Shiloh, and came to the houſe of Ahijah: but Ahijah could not ſee, for his eyes were ſet by reaſon of his age.] In the Hebrew his Eyes ſtood for his hoarineſs. He ſeems to have a Film, or a Cataract grown over his Eyes.

Ver. 5. And the LORD said unto Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam cometh to ask a thing of thee for her son, for he is sick: thus and thus shalt thou say unto her: for it shall be when she cometh to thee, that she shall feign her self to be another woman.] He was as fully instructed how to treat her, as if he had seen, and known her.

Ver. 6. And it came to pass, when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she came in at the door, that he said, Come in thou wife of Jeroboam, why feignest thou thy self to be another? for I am sent to thee with heavy tidings.] He discovered her before she appeared, that she might give the greater Credit to his Words.

Ver. 7. Go tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Forasmuch as I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince over my people Israel,] Raised him from a private Person, to be the King of the ten Tribes.

Ver. 8. And rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it thee; and yet thou hast not been as my servant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart, to do that only which was right in mine eyes,] Though David committed some great Sins, yet he was upright in his Religion, and never started aside in the least unto other gods. In which Piety God expected Jeroboam should have continued, as he admonished him, when he first sent Ahijah to him, xi. 38.

Ver. 9. But hast done evil above all that were before thee:] King Saul was not so bad; nor Solomon: Who though he was drawn aside himself, yet did not study to make his People Idolaters.

For thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images,] Or, even molten images; that is, the Golden Calves. Which he did not think to be gods, but only Representations of God: And yet God looked upon this Worship which was paid to him before these Images, as the Worship of other gods: Which are called Devils, in 2 Chron. xi. 15.

To provoke me to anger,] That was the Effect of this idolatrous Worship.

And hast cast me behind thy back:] Neglected me and my Service. For those things we cast behind our Backs, which are nothing worth; and for which we have no Regard or Concern what becomes of them.

Ver. 10. Therefore, behold, I will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam,] Severely punish it.

And will cut off from Jeroboam him that pisseth against the wall,] That is, not leave a Man of his Family alive, as Ralbag interprets it. See 1 Sam. xxv. 22.

And him that is shut up, and left in Israel,] That is, married or unmarried, as de Dieu expounds these Words upon Deut. xxxii. 36. all sorts of Men, of whatsoever State or Condition they be. Others refer this to Treasures shut up in secret Places, and to Flocks left in the Field; or, to Men taken Captive, or that have escaped. As much as to say, there shall be an Universal Destruction. And thus Bochartus glosses, (comprehending all these) I will cut off every male, whether he be a captive, or a free man; whether he live in the city, or in the country; be married or single. See his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 66.

And I will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam,] All his Posterity.

As a man taketh away dung, 'till it be all gone.] Which Servants remove so carefully, that they suffer not the least Speck to remain.

Ver. 11. Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field, shall the fowls of the air eat:] That is, none of them shall be buried.

For the LORD hath spoken it.] This is God's irrevocable Decree.

Ver. 12. Arise thou therefore, get thee unto thy own house, and when thy feet enter the city, the child shall die.] This was a sign that all the rest of his Threatnings should be fulfilled.

Ver. 13. And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him: for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave,] All the rest were to be buried in the Bowels of Dogs, and of Fowls of the Air, ver. 11.

Because in him is found some good thing toward the LORD God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam.] He was the only Person of that Family that disliked the Worship of the Calves, and perhaps intended to remove them when he had Power; and suffer the People to go up to Jerusalem to worship, trusting God would preserve him in his Kingdom. Some of the Jews say, that he broke down a Hedge which his Father had made, to keep People from going to Jerusalem, at the three great Feasts.

Ver. 14. Moreover, the LORD shall raise him up a king over Israel, who shall cut off the house of Jeroboam] This King was Baasha, xv. 27, 28.

This day:] As soon as he was made King, ver. 29.

But what? even now.] What did I say? (that day) even just now. It is as sure as if it were now done. The Chaldee takes it otherwise; he shall destroy the House of Jeroboam; both that which liveth now at this Day, and that which shall be born in Time to come. But Kimchi puts no Stop at this Word Vemah (and what) but continues it with what follows, in this manner, what is this which shall now happen, to that which shall come hereafter? That is, the present Calamities shall be nothing to the future. Which agrees well enough with what follows, concerning the continual Troubles that should be in Israel; and at last their Captivity.

Ver. 15. And the LORD shall smite Israel,] For their consenting to that idolatrous Worship which Jeroboam set up.

As a reed is shaken in the water,] That is, they shall be in perpetual Commotions by Civil Wars: Having no Quiet, but frequently changing their Kings. Thus Bochartus excellently expounds it, in an Epistle to our Bishop Morley, p. 106, &c. The Reason of this Expression was, that several of their Kings were afterwards killed, and new Families ſtarted up; and between ſo many Kings of ſo many Families and Tribes, their Minds fluctuated and wavered; and they knew not where to fix themſelves, and reſt in Quiet: Therefore their Condition is thus deſcribed in 2 Chron. xv. 5. There was no peace to him that went in, or to him that came out, &c.

And he ſhall root up Iſrael out of this good land, which he gave to their fathers,] Which he began to do firſt by Tiglath-Pileſer King of Aſſyria, 2 Kings xv. 29. And then finiſhed it by Shalmaneſer, 2 Kings xvii. 5, 6, &c.

And ſhall ſcatter them beyond the river,] That is, Euphrates: They being carried (as the forenamed Places tell us) into the Country of the Medes.

Becauſe they have made their groves,] In which they placed the Images of their gods. For they were not contented with the Calves, but fell to groſſer Idolatry; which was commonly practiſed in Groves. See Judges iii. 7.

Provoking the LORD to anger.] For nothing was ſo deteſtable to him as this Sin.

Ver. 16. And he ſhall give Iſrael up,] In to the Hands of the Heathen.

Becauſe of the ſins of Jeroboam, who did ſin, and who made Iſrael to ſin.] Perverted the whole Nation: Who by his Authority and Example were led into Idolatry.

Ver. 17. And Jeroboams wife aroſe and departed, and came to Tirzah:] A City in the Tribe of Manaſſeh: Which had been famous in ancient Times, (Joſh. xii. 24.) and became the Royal Seat, and continued ſo for ſome Time, (xv. 33.) being found more convenient, I ſuppoſe, than Schechem where Jeroboam firſt ſettled.

And when ſhe came to the threſhold of the door, the child died.] It ſeems the King's Houſe was near the Gate of the City: For it is ſaid, ver. 12. that as ſoon as ſhe entred into the City, the Child ſhould die. And ſo it did, when ſhe came to the Threſhold of the Door of the Palace.

Ver. 18. And they buried him; and all Iſrael mourned for him, according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant Ahijah the prophet.] Whereby he confirmed all the reſt of his Threatnings againſt the Houſe of Jeroboam and the People of Iſrael.

Ver. 19. And the reſt of the acts of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned,] How he behaved himſelf in War, and in Peace.

Behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.] Not in that Book in the Bible, called Chronicles; but in ſuch a Book as that wherein the Acts of Solomon were recorded, Day by Day, xi. 41. See there.

Ver. 20. And the days that Jeroboam reigned were two and twenty years: amd he ſlept with his fathers, and Nadab his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] His ſleeping with his Fathers ſeems to be a Phraſe ſignifying only that he died, as all before him did: Not that he was buried with them (as it is ſaid of Rehoboham, ver. 31. for they were private Men, and he a King; who, no doubt, was magnificently interred by his Son.

Ver. 21. And Rehobohaam the ſon of Solomon reigned in Judah: Rehoboam was forty and one years old when he began to reign,] And therefore whas born a Year before Solomon came to the Crown: For he reigned but forty Years, xi. 42.

And he reigned ſeventeen years in Jeruſalem, the city which the LORD had choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael, to put his name there:] A great Honour to him; of which he was not worthy; and therefore God ſhortned his Days, and did not let him reign ſo long as Jeroboam.

And his mothers name was Naamah an Ammoniteſs.] It is much that David ſhould ſuffer Solomon to marry one of this Country; unleſs ſhe was proſelyted, as the Daughter of Pharaoh is ſuppoſed to have been. He himſelf indeed had married the Daughter of Talmai King of Geſhur; but the Son he had by her proved ſo wicked, that it might have been a Caution to him not to marry his Son, eſpecially him he intended for the Heir of his Crown, to a Stranger. Who if ſhe was proſelyted, yet many think ſhe did not ſo change her Religion, but that ſhe inſtilled ill Principles into her Son, and corrupted him. Nay, was one of thoſe Women that inticed Solomon to Idolatry; for Women of Ammon are reckoned among his ſtrange Wives.

Ver. 22. And Judah did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and they provoked him to jealouſy, with their ſins which they had committed,] By joining other gods together with him. Which is an amazing thing, that at the Beginning of his Reign Rehoboam ſhould do well for three Years (2 Chron. xi. 17.) and then forſook the Law of God (2 Chron. xii. 1.) and fell off from his Worſhip, into ſuch groſs Idolatry, as exceeded that of Jeroboam's.

Ver. 23. For they alſo built them high places, and images, and groves on every high hill, and under every green tree.] They multiplied Altars on every high Hill; and ſet up Images; and built Temples for them: Which I take to be meant by Groves. For they could not be under every green Tree; nor could they be ſaid to be built, but to be planted; therefore it is reaſonable to interpret them Temples, or Places of Divine Worſhip. As among the Heathen Strabo teſtifies (Geograph. Lib. 9.) that the Poets called their Temples by the Name of Groves (ἄλση καλοῦσιν τὰ ἱερὰ πάντα) though they had no Trees about them; becauſe the Cuſtom was to have Trees planted about their Sacred Places. In which the Iſraelites ſet up Altars; directly contrary to the Law: Which intended to preſerve Unity in Religion, by allowing one Altar only.

Ver. 24 And there were alſo Sodomites in the land,] This kind of Wickedneſs often attended Idolatry, xv. 12. 2 Kings xxiii. 7. Rom. i. 21, 28. For among the Heathen the moſt filthy things were practiſed in theſe ſhady dark Places (their Groves) by the Worshippers of Venus, Bacchus, and Priapus. And such there were, it appears by the Place now quoted, 2 Kings xxiii. 7. among the Israelites: Who out of Devotion to some false god or other, prostituted their Bodies, contrary to Nature, to be abused in Honour of those gods, directly against the Law, Deut. xxiii. 17. For when Josiah purged the Temple, he is said to cast out the Sodomites: Where by Kedeschim our Selden understands the Priests of Astarte. Syntag. 2. De Diis Syris. Cap. 2.

Places

Ver. 25. And it came to pass that in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem:] Ροβοάμῳ δ' αὐτῷ παρέδωκε ἀμαχητὶ τὴν πόλιν. And Rehoboam (as Josephus writes) delivered up the City to him, without striking a stroke. For he had a vast Army (as we read, 2 Chron. xii. 2.) wherewith he conquered Asia, as Herodotus tells us, who calls him Sesostris. For Josephus acknowledgeth he relates the same Expedition that the Scripture doth; but under a different Name. It may seem something strange that Shishak being so nearly allied to Rehoboam, should come up against him, and take his Royal City: But as Kingdoms are never married, so Jeroboam, it is likely, who had lived long in Egypt, stirred him up to invade him; and thereby established himself in his new Kingdom: For we read not a Word of any Cities in Israel that he took; but only the fenced Cities of Judah (2 Chron. xii. 4.) Jeroboam and his Country remaining undisturbed. Besides, it must be remembred he was not the Son of Pharaoh's Daughter, but of an Ammonitess: And therefore there was no Kindred between Rehoboam and Shishak.

Ver. 26. And he took away the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kings house, he even took away all;] These Riches which David and Solomon had treasured up, tempted Shishak, it is probable, to this Expedition against Jerusalem: For he did not intend to keep this City, but only to spoil it.

And he took away the shields of gold which Solomon had made.] Which were in the House of the Forest of Lebanon (See x. 16, 17.) which it seems he also plundered. This was a speedy Vengeance for their Sins; that so soon after Solomon's Death, the Splendor wherein he left Jerusalem should be extinguished. For Rehoboam served God three Years; was corrupted in the fourth; and in the fifth was punished.

Ver. 27. And king Rehoboam made in their stead brazen shields, and committed them into the hands of the chief guard,] In the Hebrew the Word for Guard is Runner: So called because they went before the King, and behind him.

Which kept the door of the kings house.] These Shields were not of much Value; and so were committed to Men in a mean Office: Whereas the Golden ones were kept, as I said, in the House of the Forest of Lebanon.

Ver. 28. And it was so when the king went into the house of the LORD, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard-chamber.] He did not quite forsake God, but still continued to worship in the Temple: And perhaps he now left the high Places (after he had been thus chastised by the King of Egypt) and frequented the House of God better. Shields were carried before him thither, for Pomp sake, that he might not be contemned by his People; and that there might be no Occasion for Sedition, if they were disposed to it, when they saw him so well guarded.

Ver. 29. Now the rest of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] He refers those that desired a larger Account of him, to the publick Annals, as he had done when he concludes the History of Jeroboam, v. 19. See there.

Ver 30. And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.] This doth not seem to agree with what we read xii. 22. where God commanded Rehoboam and his People not to go to fight with Israel; and they obeyed his Voice. But this is easily satisfied, by observing that the Jews were commanded not to make War upon the Israelites; but they are not commanded not to defend themselves, if the Israelites made War upon them. And this was their Case; the Israelites vexed them with continual Incursions and Depredations; though the House of David did not assault them, but only repel their Violence: Or, perhaps upon the Borders, they were continually endeavouring to get Ground one of another; though they never came to a set Battle.

Ver. 31. And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and his mothers name was Naamah, an Ammonitess.] The Repetition of this about his Mother hath something remarkable in it (See ver. 21.) though it is hard to know what it is. Abarbinel thinks, it is as much as to say, he did not repent at last; but as he lived, so he died, in the Idolatry of his Mother.

CHAP. XV.

Verse 1. NOW in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam the son of Nebat, reigned Abijam over Judah.] Which seems to disagree with what is said below, ver. 9. concerning Asa, that he began to reign the twentieth Year of Jeroboam, and Abijam reigned three Years. But it is usual both in Scripture, and in other Authors, to reckon Part of a Year for a whole Year. So Abijam began to reign in some Part of Jeroboam's eighteenth Year, and continued his Reign the whole nineteenth; and died in the twentieth: and so was reckoned to have reigned three Years, as it here follows.

Ver. 2. Three years reigned he in Jerusalem:] This was a very short Time, as Abarbinel observes; but it was because he walked in the Way of his Father; which provoked God to cut him off.

And his mothers name was Maacah, the daughter of Abishalom,] The same Author fancies she was the Daughter of Absalom (as he is called 2 Chron. xi. 21.) who rebelled against his Father David; and so was a bad Daughter of a bad Father. She is called by another Name, 2 Chron. xiii. 2. viz. Michaiah the daughter of Uriel. But he thinks that is the Name of the Family, and this her proper Name. Others think this a meer Fancy, and with great Reason; for Abiſhalom is a different Name from Abſalom, as David's Son is always called. And they think he had two Names, as his Daughter alſo had. But Pellicanus ſeems to me to have given the plaineſt Account of this, that Maachah was his Grandmother, and Micaiah his Mother.

Ver. 3. And he walked in all the ſins of his father, which he had done before him:] See xiv. 22, 23, 24.

And his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father.] They ought all to have remembred David, and trod in his Steps; who was the Founder of the Royal Family; and never turned aſide to the Worſhip of other gods, as this Man did; though together with them he worſhipped the LORD God of Iſrael, who is therefore called the LORD his God.

Ver. 4. Nevertheleſs, for Davids ſake, the LORD his God gave him a lamp in Jeruſalem, to ſet up his ſon after him,] He continued the Kingdom in the Poſterity of David: Which is the Meaning of giving him a lamp. See xi. 36.

And to eſtabliſh Jeruſalem:] Whereby Jeruſalem was eſtabliſhed as the Place of God's Worſhip.

Ver. 5. Becauſe David did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aſide from any thing that he commanded him, all the days of his life; ſave only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.] He was not without other Sins; but none ſo enormous as this; and therefore not remembred, as this about Uriah is very often, to his Diſhonour.

Ver. 6. And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days of his life.] This was ſaid before, xiv. 30. and therefore may ſeem to come in here impertinently; becauſe he is not ſpeaking of Rhehoboam, but of his Son Abijam: Who was a valiant young Man in the days of his Father, and always fought his Battles with Jeroboam. Which being related before in the Hiſtory of Rehoboam, is here repeated, as Abarbinel thinks, to ſhew that Abijam was the Cauſe of theſe Wars. And theſe Words, all his days, he thinks, relate to Abijam, who continued the War between his Father and Jeroboam with great Succeſs: As we read 2 Chron. xiii. 17. Bochartus thinks a plainer Account may be given of this, by ſuppoſing that Rehoboam ſignifies this Son of his; Children and Fathers being one and the ſame in a moral Account. Thus Abraham is ſaid to have purchaſed the Sepulchre of the Sons of Emor; which was indeed purchaſed by Jacob: And the Iſraelites ſay to Rehoboam, (xii. 16.) What Portion have we in David? That is, in Rehoboam the Grand-child of David. In like manner he thinks it may be ſaid, there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam, that is, between Abijam, the Son of Rehoboam, and Jeroboam: Whom Abijam grievouſly afflicted. Hierozoicon, P. I. Lib. II. Cap. 43. But this doth not ſeem to be the true Account; becauſe the War between Abijam and Jeroboam is diſtinctly mentioned in the next Verſe. Therefore the Meaning of theſe Words is, that though God was pleaſed, for David's Sake, who walked uprightly before him, to continue a Lamp, that is, a Succeſſor to him in Jeruſalem; yet theſe Succeſſors were vexed with continual Wars, (as appeared both in the Reign of Rehoboam and of Abijam) and did not enjoy their Kingdom peaceably.

Ver. 7. Now the reſt of the acts of Abijam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] See xi. 41. Ezra ſaith they were recorded in the Book of the Prophet Iddo, 2 Chron. xiii. 22. from whence he took what he thought fit.

And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.] He continued the War, which had been between his Father and Jeroboam; and managed it very gloriouſly, as Ezra ſhews in the Book of the Chronicles.

Ver. 8. And Abijam ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: and Aſa his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 9. In the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Iſrael, reigned Aſa over Judah.] In ſome part of that Year. See ver. 2.

Ver. 10. And one and forty years reigned he in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Maacah the daughter of Abiſhalom.] This was the Name of his Grand-mother; who is called his Mother, as Roguel is called the Father of Jethro's Daughter, (Exod. ii. 18.) when he was their Grandfather. Which Example Kimchi here alledges to explain this. And thus Abarbinel: The Senſe is not, that Maachah brought forth Aſa (for ſhe was his Father's Mother) but ſhe brought him up and gave him his Education. Which made his Piety the more remarkable, that he was not tainted with her Principles of Religion as his Father was. But why his Mother ſhould not be mentioned, but his Grand-mother, which was not at all needful (becauſe it was evident, by what was ſaid before, that Maachah was the Mother of Abijam his Father) is unaccountable. And therefore others think that this was the Name of his Mother: Which was the ſame, as her Father's alſo was, with that of Abijam's.

Ver. 11. And Aſa did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, as did David his father.] He made him his Pattern: Worſhipping the LORD alone; and taking away all Idols, as it here follows.

Ver. 12. And he took away the Sodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his father had made.] Of which ſee xiv. 23, 24. But ſtill ſome ſecretly remained; and therefore when it is ſaid he removed all Idols, the Meaning is all that he could diſcover; for ſome lurked privately, xxii. 46.

Ver. 13. And alſo Maacah his mother, even her he removed from being queen,] He took away her Guards, all the Enſigns of Royal Dignity; and reduced her to the Condition of a private Perſon. But the Word being is not in the Hebrew; which others tranſlate, he removed her from the Queen. That is, from his Wife; that she might not be infected with her Idolatry. He put her therefore out of the Court, where she gave a bad Example.

Because she had made an idol in a grove.] The Word we translate idol, is Miphlezeth, which imports something of Terror and Horror; either because it was of a frightful Aspect, or brought dreadful Judgments upon its Worshippers. St Hierom understands by it Priapus, or Baal-Peor, to whom the Women were much devoted. Theodoret takes it for Astarte or Venus: And indeed in the Northern Countries Priapus and Venus were painted together, as Johan. Gensius observes in his Book De Victimis Humanis, P. I. Cap. 9. Whatsoever it was, it was placed in a Grove; in which shady Places all the Works of Darkness, even Sodomy it self, were practised.

Asa destroyed her idol, and burnt it by the brook Kidron.] He cut it down, and having burnt it, stamped it to a Powder; and then threw it into the Brook Kidron; as Moses did with the Golden Calf, Exod. xxxii. 20. See 2 Chron. xv. 16.

Ver. 14. But the high places were not removed: nevertheless, Asa his heart was perfect with the LORD all his days.] He did take away all the high Places, wherein they sacrificed to strange Gods (2 Chron. xiv. 3.) but not those wherein God alone was worshipped: For his Authority was not great enough to do this; the People having so universally and so long taken this Licence, that none durst attempt to abolish this inveterate Custom 'till the Days of Hezekiah: Who seeing the Calamities that were coming upon his Country, endeavoured to prevent them, by a thorough Reformation. But though Asa did not venture to do this, yet his Heart was sincerely affected to the right Worship of God; and he suffered Sacrifices to be offered to none else.

Ver. 15. And he brought in the things which his father had dedicated, and the things which himself had dedicated, into the house of the LORD, silver and gold, and vessels.] According to the Piety of ancient Times, his Father had vowed some part of the Spoils he took in the War with Jeroboam unto the LORD; but had not Time to make good his Vow; or upon some Account or other neglected it. Asa his Son therefore made his Vow good; and also himself brought in what he had devoted unto holy Uses, (for so the Words are in the Hebrew, he brought in the holy things of his father, &c.) having gotten great Spoil in his War with the Ethiopians, 2 Chron. xiv. 13, 14.

Ver. 16. And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days,] There having been no Mention hitherto made of Baasha, this may seem not to stand in its proper Place. But Abarbinel thinks it is here inserted, that as this Divine Writer had shewn what his Virtues were, so he might now mention his Faults. The chief of which was occasioned by this War: Which moved him to send to Benhadad for Help; when he should have relied upon God; as it is related largely, 2 Chron. xvi. 7, &c.

Ver. 17. And Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah,] After Asa his great Victory over the Ethiopians, a great many of the Israelites fell off to him from Baasha: Who thereupon resolved to make War upon Judah, and thereby prevent a further Defection of his Subjects.

And built Ramah,] A City in the Tribe of Benjamin: Which either belonged to the Kingdom of Israel; or he had taken from Judah and fortified it; for that is meant by building it, as appears by what follows.

That he might not suffer any to go out, or come in to Asa king of Judah.] That he might hinder all Communication between his People and the People of Judah. For this Place lay in the Confines of both Kingdoms; and in such a Strait, that a Fortification being made there, none could pass to and fro without a Licence from Baasha.

Ver. 18. Then Asa took all the silver and gold that was left in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the kings house, and delivered them into the hands of his servants: And king Asa sent them to Benhadad, the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion, king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying,] This was held lawful, in case of extream Danger, to employ sacred things for the Defence of one's Country. But here was no such Necessity in this Case; for God had appeared so wonderfully for Asa, against a more powerful Enemy than Baasha, that he ought to have confided in him for Help; as the Prophet Hanani told him, 2 Chron. xvi. 7, &c.

Ver. 19. There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father:] In the latter End of Solomon's Reign the Syrians were Enemies to him, xi. 24, 25. But when he was dead, and the Kingdom was divided, both Judah and Israel made Peace with the Syrians: Having enough to do, to settle themselves in their own Dominions.

Behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold; come and break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.] This was a wicked piece of Policy, to tempt him with Money to break his Word, which perhaps he had sworn to observe.

Ver. 20. So Benhadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captain of his hosts, which he had,] Always in a Readiness, for some Expedition, or for the Defence of his Country.

Against the cities of Israel, and smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali.] By this it appears, that he fell upon the Northern Part of the Kingdom of Israel, which was nearest to Damascus; whilst Baasha was busy at Ramah, which was in the more Southern Part of his Dominions.

Ver. 21. And it came to pass, that when Baasha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah,] By this Means Asa compassed his Ends; it not being safe for Baasha to continue the Work he was about, for fear Benhadad should make larger Conquests than he had already done.

And dwelt in Tirzath.] Which was become the Royal City, (See xiv. 17.) where Baasha settled ſettled himſelf; though he intended, I ſuppoſe, when he had finiſhed Ramah, to have dwelt there ſome Part of the Year; that by his Preſence the Paſſages might have been the better ſecured.

Ver. 22 Then king Aſa made a proclamation throughout all Judah (none was exempted)] He ſummoned all the People of the Country; who were not diſabled by Age, or Sickneſs, or ſome other way,

And they took away the ſtones, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baaſha had builded, and king Aſa built with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah.] They were inhabited before, but he inlarged, and perhaps fortified them. Which he judged better than to perfect the Fortification of Ramah; which would have been a perpetual Bone of Contention (as we ſpeak) between Judah and Iſrael.

Ver. 23. And the reſt of the acts of Aſa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] See xi. 41.

Nevertheleſs in the time of his old age he was diſeaſed in his feet.] He had the Gout, as the Gemara of the Sanhedrin explains it, Cap. vi. N. 7. which made him leſs active than he had been before this Diſeaſe ſeized him.

Ver. 24. And Aſa ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city of David his father: and Jehoſhaphat his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver 25. And Nadab the ſon of Jeroboam began to reign over Iſrael in the ſecond year of Aſa king of Judah, and reigned over Iſrael two years.] Part of two Years, as appears from ver. 28 and 33.

Ver. 26. And he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in his ſin, wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin.] By the Worſhip of the Golden Calves.

Ver. 27. And Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah, of the houſe of Iſſachar,] That is, of a Family in the Tribe of Iſſachar.

Conſpired againſt him, and Baaſha ſmote him at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philiſtines (for Nadab and all Iſrael laid ſiege to Gibbethon.] It was a City in the Tribe of Dan, Joſh. xix. 44. and given to the Levites, xxi. 23. who quitted it, as they did the reſt of their Cities, when Jeroboam would not ſuffer them to execute their Office (2 Chron. xi. 14.) and the Philiſtines it is likely ſeized upon it, being adjoining to their Country. But Nadab now endeavoured to recover it out of their Hands, as of right belonging to him.

Ver. 28. Even in the third year of Aſa king of Judah did Baaſha ſlay him, and reigned in his ſtead.] What was the Pretence for this Conſpiracy we are not told; but it is likely he had many joined with him in it; otherwiſe it had not been eaſy to ſlay him, when he was in the midſt of his Army before Gibbethon.

Ver. 29. And it came to paſs, when he reigned, that he ſmote all the houſe of Jeroboam, he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed, until he had deſtroyed him, according to the ſaying of the LORD, which he ſpake by Ahijah the Shilonite:] His Intention was not to fulfil this Prophecy (mentioned xiv. 10.) but to ſecure himſelf in his uſurped Throne, by cutting off all that had any Title to it. But by this Means God fulfilled his own Intentions; and that as ſpeedily as Ahijah the Prophet had foretold, xiv. 14.

Ver. 30. Becauſe of the ſins of Jeroboam which he ſinned, and which he made Iſrael to ſin by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Iſrael to anger.] Which cauſed great Miſeries in Iſrael; eſpecially in the Beginning of that Kingdom; when they reigned by Force, not by Succeſſion. Whereas in Judah the Son ſucceeded the Father, by right of Blood, according to the Promiſe made to David.

Ver. 31. Now the reſt of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?] His Acts could not be many; yet more were recorded in the publick Annals than are here mentioned, xi. 41.

Ver. 32. And there was war between Aſa and Baaſha king of Iſrael, all their days.] We read the very ſame Words before (ver. 16.) in the Hiſtory of Aſa; which are now repeated in the Hiſtory of Baaſha, to ſhew the Reaſon why Aſa was his Enemy, which he would not have been (but his Friend) had he feared God after his cutting off the whole Houſe of Jeroboam. But he would make no Covenant with him, notwithſtanding he had fulfilled the Word of God, becauſe he walked in the Sins of Jeroboam. Thus Abarbinel.

Ver. 33. And in the third year of Aſa king of Judah, began Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah to reign over all Iſrael in Tirzah, twenty and four years.

Ver. 34. And he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin.] Which makes it evident, that he did not cut off Jeroboam's Family becauſe they were Idolaters; but becauſe he aſpired to the Throne; which when he poſſeſſed, he endeavoured to eſtabliſh himſelf in it, by the ſame wicked Policy which Jeroboam uſed. For he reformed nothing in Religion; but continued to worſhip the Calves which Jeroboam had ſet up; to keep the People from going to worſhip at Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſe 1. AND the word of the LORD came to Jehu the ſon of Hanani againſt Baaſha, ſaying,] This is a Prophet that lived till the End of Jehoſhaphat's Reign. See 2 Chron. xix. 1. xx. 34. And his Father Hanani was a Prophet before him, 2 Chron. xvi. 7. Nor was there wanting a Succeſſion of Prophets during the Kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah, as Abarbinel hath obſerved through every Reign, their Names being ſet down in holy Scripture: He hath ſhewn in a Catalogue he hath made of the Kings, and the Prophets in their Time; too long to be here tranſcribed.

Ver. 2. Forasmuch as I have exalted thee out of the dust,] It seems he was of a mean Family in the Tribe of Issachar. Perhaps, but a common Soldier, or some small Officer in the Army which laid Siege to Gibbethon; but being bold and daring, formed a Conspiracy against Nadab.

And made thee prince of my people Israel,] God's Providence interposed, that nothing should hinder the Success of his Design against Nadab: Because he intended to make use of him to punish the House of Jeroboam.

And thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger by their sins:] Continued them in their Idolatry; against which he ought to have shewn the greatest Zeal; because it provoked God's Anger against the Family of Jeroboam.

Ver. 3. Behold, I will take away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house: and will make thy house like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat.] So that neither any of his own Children, or the Children of any of his Relations should remain; but his Name be quite put out.

Ver. 4. Him that dieth of Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat: and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat.] The very same Threatning that was pronounced against Jeroboam and his Posterity, by Ahijah, xiv. 11.

Ver. 5. Now the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

Ver. 6. So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Tirzah, and Elah his son reigned in his stead.] He was not slain, as Nadab was; but died, as Jeroboam did; and his Son suffered like his, ver. 9, 10.

Ver. 7. And also by the hand of the prophet Jehu the son of Hanani, came the word of the LORD against Baasha, and against his house,] This Command of God being given to Jehu, ver. 1. he executed it, and delivered this Message to Baasha some Time before he died. Which is said to be done by the hand of Jehu, because he was the Minister of God in this Business.

Even for all the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands; in being like to Jeroboam, and because he killed him.] That is, killed Nadab, who was Jeroboam's Son: Or rather (as Abarbinel judiciously observes) that relates to the whole House of Jeroboam before-mentioned; which Baasha destroyed not because they were Idolaters, and that he might fulfil the Word of the LORD (as perhaps he pretended) but to satisfy his own Ambition, being guilty of the very same Crime that Jeroboam was: And therefore was no better than a Murderer in the Slaughter he made of his Family; and accordingly is threatned to be punished for that very Act, which was committed, not in Obedience to God, but to serve himself.

Ver. 8. And in the twenty and sixth year of Asa king of Judah, began Elah the son of Baasha to reign over Israel] This seems to contradict what Ezra saith in 2 Chron. xvi. that Baasha built Ramah in the thirty-sixth Year of Asa. Of which I shall give an Account in my Notes on that Place. For the present it may suffice to say, that Ezra doth not speak of the thirty-sixth Year of Asa's Reign, but of the thirty-sixth Year after the Division of the Kingdom. For it could be, at the most, but the twenty-sixth Year of Asa's Reign when Baasha died.

In Tirzah, two years.] Not compleat; but one intire Year, and part of another: As appears from ver. 10, and 15.

Ver. 9. And his servant (Zimri, captain of half of his chariots)] A considerable Commander in his Army, who had a great Interest in the Soldiery.

Conspired against him as he was in Tirzah, drinking himself drunk in the house of Arza, steward of his house in Tirzah.] He seems to have been a debauched young Man, who staid at home following his Pleasures, whilst his Army was besieging Gibbethon, ver. 15. Which gave Zimri, who it is likely was Captain of his Guard, the better Opportunity to kill him.

Ver. 10. And Zimri went in and smote him, and killed him in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned in his stead.] Here was a speedy Execution of the Vengeance threatned against him by Jehu, that God would make his House like the House of Jeroboam, ver. 3. For as Nadab the Son of Jeroboam reigned but two Years, xv. 25. so Elah the Son of Baasha reigned no more: And then, as Nadab was killed with the Sword, so was Elah. Thus, as Abarbinel notes, there was a wonderful Likeness between Jeroboam and Baasha, in their Lives, and in their Deaths; in their Sons, and in their Family.

Ver. 11. And it came to pass when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he slew all the house of Baasha: he left not one that pisseth against the wall,] That is, not a Man. See xiv. 10.

Neither of his kinsfolk, nor of his friends.] He not only destroyed all that were descended from Baasha, as Baasha had done the Family of Jeroboam; but he extended the Destruction, and increased it, as Abarbinel speaks for he killed all that were of Kin to Baasha, with all his Friends, which Baasha did not: This seems to be contained in the Threatning of Jehu, ver. 3.

Ver. 12. Thus Zimri destroyed all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake against Baasha by Jehu the prophet;] Ver. 1, 2, 7.

Ver. 13. For all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son,] This shews that Elah walked in his Father's Ways; though it be not before mentioned.

By which they sinned, and by which they made Israel to sin, in provoking the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.] So the Golden Calves are called, being (as Forsterus well translates the Word) Commentitia numina, Gods of their own devising. See 1 Sam. xii. 21.

Ver. 14. Now the rest of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?] Here is no mention of his Might (as there is of his Father's, ther's, ver. 5.) for he was, as I ſaid, a Man of Pleaſure.

Ver. 15. In the twenty-ſeventh year of Aſa king of Judah did Zimri reign ſeven days in Tirzah: and the people were encamped againſt Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philiſtines.] Which had been beſieged many Years ago, when Baaſha ſlew Nadab, xv. 27. But was then relieved, or afterward retaken by the Philiſtines, while the Iſraelites were in a diſtracted Condition; but now again inveſted.

Ver. 16. And the people that were encamped heard ſay, Zimri hath conſpired, and hath alſo ſlain the king:] Had Succeſs in his Conſpiracy, and made himſelf King.

Wherefore all Iſrael made Omri, the captain of the hoſt, king over Iſrael that day in the camp.] Juſt as the Roman Army, in After-times, made their chief Commander Emperor.

Ver. 17. And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Iſrael with him,] All the Army that were at the Siege.

And beſieged Tirzah.] Where Zimri, a more dangerous Enemy, was.

Ver. 18. And it came to paſs, when Zimri ſaw that the city was taken,] Which he was not able to defend, againſt a powerful Army; from whom he ſuſpected no Oppoſition; but hoped they would have let him reign as quietly as they did Baaſha.

That he went into the palace of the kings houſe,] Into the ſtrongeſt Part of the Houſe.

And burnt the kings houſe over him with fire, and died;] He was afraid, I ſuppoſe, of ſuffering ſome ſhameful Puniſhment, if he had been taken alive; and therefore choſe to die deſperately in this manner. So Sardanapalus ended his Life.

Ver. 19. For his ſins which he ſinned, in doing evil in the ſight of the LORD, in walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his ſin which he ſinned, to make Iſrael to ſin.] Though he lived but a very ſhort Time after he uſurped the Crown, yet he gave ſufficient Demonſtration of his Reſolution to continue the Idolatry of Jeroboam; and therefore was abandoned by God.

Ver. 20. Now the reſt of the acts of Zimri, and the treaſon which he wrought, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?] It is likely, other Acts that he did before he conſpired againſt Elah, were recorded in that Book; together with the Manner how he wrought his Treaſon.

Ver. 21. Then were the people of Iſrael divided into two parts:] For when it is ſaid, ver. 16. all Iſrael made Omri King in the Camp; the Meaning is, only the whole Army, and they that attended them.

Half of the people followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath, to make him king;] For they did not like to have a King impoſed upon them by the Soldiery; and Tibni had as good a Title as the other, being alſo a valiant Man; who ſucceeded Zimri, perhaps, in his Command, as Captain of half his Chariots.

And half followed Omri.] As already advanced to the Royal Dignity; and a greater Man than Tibni; being Captain of the whole Hoſt.

Ver. 22. And the people that followed Omri prevailed againſt the people that followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath:] For Omri had the Advantage of having the Army on his Side.

So Tibni died.] In this Civil War (into which they fell by God's juſt Judgment upon them) many of the People, in all likelihood, died together with him.

And Omri reigned.] Without Competitor. The Jews in Seder Olam Rabba, whom Raſi and others follow, ſay it contributed much to his Advancement, that Aſa King of Judah married his Son Jehoſhaphat to Omri's Daughter. For which they have no other Ground, but that it is ſaid, 2 Chron. xviii. 1. he joined in affinity with Ahab.

Ver. 23. In the thirty and one year of Aſa king of Judah began Omri to reign over Iſrael twelve years:] Theſe twelve Years of his Reign are to be computed not from the thirty-firſt of Aſa's Reign; for it is evident he began to reign in the twenty-ſeventh Year of Aſa, ver. 15. and his Son began to reign in the thirty-eighth Year of Aſa, ver. 29. Therefore the twelve Years are to be computed from the Beginning of Omri's Reign: Which was, as I ſaid, the twenty-ſeventh of Aſa's. From which Time (as Abarbinel obſerves) the Conteſt continued between Omri and Tibni; unto the thirty-firſt Year of King Aſa. In the End of which Tibni died; and then Omri reigned over all Iſrael, whereas he reigned but over half the People before. And Tibni being extinct, all the foregoing Years are accounted to Omri; viz. from the Beginning of Aſa's ſeven and twentieth Year, when Zimri died, to the End of this eight and thirtieth Year, which make twelve Years.

Six years reigned he in Tirzah.] Half of his Time he made this his Royal Seat; which was, as ſome think, all the Time his Contention with Tibni laſted, and ſome Time after.

Ver. 24. And he bought the hill of Samaria of Shemer, for two talents of ſilver; and built upon the hill, and called the name of the city which he built after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill of Samaria.] The King's Houſe in Tirzah being burnt, as we read ver. 18. he built a Royal Palace in this City, which he alſo built upon this Hill; and called it after the Name of him, who was the Owner of it before he bought it, viz. Shemer, from whom it had the Hebrew Name of Shomeron. Which was ever after made the Royal Seat of the Kings of Iſrael

Ver. 25. But Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did worſe than all that were before him.] For he not only walked in the Way of Jeroboam, but; it is likely, began to introduce other Idolatries, which his Son Ahab eſtabliſhed among them. Or, he compelled the People to worſhip the Calves; and by ſevere Laws reſtrained the People from going up to Jeruſalem: Which, as ſome think, are meant by the ſtatutes of Omri, Micah vi. 16.

Ver. 26. For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin, to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger with their vanities.] Though he had had ſeen Elah, and all the whole Houſe of Baaſha deſtroyed by his Predeceſſor for their Idolatry, and Zimri himſelf periſhed in the ſame Sin, (ver. 13, 19.) yet he perſiſted in their Iniquity, and brought down the Wrath of God upon him, and upon his Family, as the foregoing Kings had done.

Ver. 27. Now the reſt of the acts of Omri which he did, and his might which he ſhewed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?] It ſeems he was a valiant Man, which Elah was not; concerning whoſe Might there is no mention, as I noted upon ver. 14.

Ver. 28. So Omri ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria,] Which now began, as I ſaid, to be the Royal City of the Kingdom of Iſrael, as Jeruſalem was of Judah.

And Ahab his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] Who was ſo eminent upon ſeveral Accounts, that we have a long Account of him, in the following part of this Book.

Ver. 29. And in the thirty-eighth year of Aſa king of Judah, began Ahab the ſon of Omri to reign over Iſrael; and Ahab reigned over Iſrael in Samaria, twenty and two years.] In this Space of Time Aſa ſaw ſix Kings of Iſrael buried; whilſt Judah flouriſhed under one and the ſame King: Which no doubt was a great Advantage to them.

Ver. 30. And Ahab the ſon of Omri did evil in the ſight of the LORD, above all that were before him.] Was more idolatrous than his Father Omri: For he brought in the Worſhip of Baal, (as it follows in the next Verſe) that is, of the Sun, and of all the Hoſt of Heaven.

Ver. 31. And it came to paſs, as if it had been a light thing to him to walk in the way of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat;] He was not ſatisfied with the Worſhip which Jeroboam had invented, though highly diſpleaſing to God. For ſo the Words are in the Hebrew, was it a light thing? As much as to ſay, it was a moſt heinous Crime; and yet Ahab reſolved to be more wicked. For Jeroboam did not quite forſake the LORD God of Iſrael, but worſhipped him by a Repreſentation of his own Invention: And this more out of Policy than any Love to this kind of Worſhip. But Ahab, out of pure Love to ſtrange gods, forſook the LORD, without any ſuch Reaſon for it as Jeroboam had; the People being now ſufficiently eſtranged from Jeruſalem.

That he took to wife Jezabel the daughter of Eth-baal] Called in profane Writers Ithobalus.

King of the Zidonians,] Who had been old Idolaters.

And ſerved Baal, and worſhipped him.] That God whom the Chaldeans and Babylonians called Bel, the Phœnicians (of whom the Zidonians were a Part) called Baal: Which in Hebrew ſignified Lord. Which anciently was the Name of the true God, as Mr Selden obſerves; but when the World grew wicked, was given to the Sun by the Phœnicians: Who, as Philo Biblius tells us, reputed the Sun to be μόνον οὐρανῦ θεόν, The only God of Heaven. And at laſt this Name was given to other Stars, and to their dead Kings, whoſe Memory was dear to them. And various Rites, Ceremonies, and Sacrifices, were deviſed in their Honour, as that great Man obſerves (Syntag. de Diis Syris 2. Cap. 1.) who underſtands theſe words of the Phœnician Belus or Baal, who was the very ſame with the European Jupiter: And Zidon being ſituated on the Sea, their Baal was called by the Greeks the Sea Jupiter. So Heſychius Θαλάσσιος Ζεὺς ἐν Σιδῶνι τιμᾶται, the Sea Jupiter is worſhipped at Sidon. But our Mr Mede is very confident, that the Baal whoſe Worſhip Jezabel brought with her from Zidon, was a deify'd King of the Phœnicians: As Baal was the firſt King of Babel, who was deify'd after his Death. Whence all the Souls of Men who were canonized after Death, were called Baalim. See Book i. Diſcourſe xlii. and his Apoſtacy of the later times, P. 1. Cap. 3. Whence it came that there were not more Jupiters among the Europeans, than there were Baals among the Syrians. And hence ſo many Mountains, and Springs, and Woods, and Cities, were called by the Name of Baal, when Joſhua conquered Canaan; As Baal-Meon, Bamoth-Baal, Baal-Gad, Baal-Thamar, Baal-Zephon, and many more. In which Places no doubt Baalim were worſhipped, and from thence they had their Names.

Ver. 32. And he reared up an altar for Baal in the houſe of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.] He built a Temple for this God in the Royal City; and ſet up an Altar, where he ſacrificed to him. Which was more directly to worſhip other gods, than Jeroboam did: Who pretended the Worſhip he performed to the Calves, was to the true God; whom he honoured in them.

Ver. 33. And Ahab made a grove;] Which was another Piece of Idolatry; which God commanded to be aboliſhed, Deut. vii. 5.

And Ahab did more to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger, than all the kings of Iſrael that were before him.] In this Grove, it is likely, all manner of Impurities were practiſed: For Jezabel was a filthy Woman.

Ver. 34. In his days did Hiel the Bethelite] A Man that lived in the very Seat of Idolatry: And, it is likely, was deeply infected with it.

Build Jericho:] A Place which being under a Cherem, was never to be rebuilt; becauſe it was devoted to God, as the firſt Fruits of the Conqueſts of Canaan. Which this Man either did not know, (becauſe ignorant of the Law, which now was little read) or was ſo impious as not to regard the Words of Joſhua, believing no other God but Baal.

He laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his firſt-born, and ſet up the gates thereof in his youngeſt ſon Segub; according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by Joſhua the ſon of Nun.] But he found to his Coſt, that the Sentence which Joſhua pronounced againſt the Rebuilder of this City proved true; for his eldeſt Son died when he laid the firſt Stone of it: And ſo all the reſt of his Children, one after another, as the Building advanced; 'till at laſt his youngeſt Son died, when it was finiſhed. A moſt remarkable Inſtance of the Certainty of Divine Threatnings; and that God never forgets what he hath ſaid, but continues alſo always the ſame. This Sentence being pronounced more than four hundred and forty Years ago, and now fulfilled exactly in all its Circumſtances: Which might have been a Warning to the whole Nation, not to deſpiſe the long Suffering and Patience of God; who though he had not yet carried them out of their good Land, according to the Word of Ahijah, xiv. 15. would certainly do it, if they continued in their Impenitence.

CHAP. XVII.

Verſe 1. AND Elijah the Tiſhbite,] The Care of God over this People (as I noted before) was ſo great, that in every King's Reign, from the firſt to the laſt, there was one or more Prophets to inſtruct, admoniſh, and correct them. And now in the Reign of Ahab (when there was the greateſt need of it) God raiſed up an extraordinary Prophet far exceeding all others, whom Abarbinel calls the Prince of the Prophets, next unto Moſes. Whoſe Original being not known (for here is no mention of his Father or Mother) ſome of the Jews have fancied him to have been an Angel ſent from Heaven to reduce them to the true Religion. So Abarbinel relates, upon the Book of Judges, as Joh. Friſchmuthus obſerves, in a Diſſertation about Elijah. Whoſe Name, which in the Hebrew is Elijahu, carries ſomething Divine in it; being compounded, Ægid. Camartus imagines, of three of the Names of God, viz. Eli, and Jah, and Hu. There is no Doubt, the two firſt are the Names of God, but there is Reaſon to queſtion the laſt, though a great Man of our own, Edm. Caſtellus, in his Polyglot Lexicon, doth put Hu among the Divine Names, and ſo do the Cabbaliſts. He was indeed a very eminent Meſſenger of God, ſent to call the Iſraelites to Repentance; from whence our learned Dr Lightfoot thinks he had the Name of Thiſbite: From the Hebrew Word Shub, which ſignifies to return; for he was ſent to be the Converter of the Nation. See him upon St Luke i. 17. Other Conjectures there are about this Name, which Friſchmuth hath collected; and Dionyſius Petavius hath delivered his Opinion about it, upon Epiphanius (Hæreſ. lv. n. 3.) who ſaith Elijah was ἐξ ἱερέων of the Prieſts, and Grandſon to Zadok. But Kimchi ſeems to have given the plaineſt Account of this Name of Thiſhbite, from Thesbe a Town or Region where he was born: Juſt as Ahijah is called Shilonite, from Shilo, where he was born, or dwelt.

Who was of the inhabitants of Gilead,] It is not certain, that he was a Native of this Country; but only that he came, and ſettled among the Gileadites; being born, as ſome think, in the Tribe of Benjamin; though moſt are rather of Opinion in the Tribe of Gad.

Said unto Ahab, As the LORD liveth, before whom I ſtand, there ſhall not be dew nor rain theſe years, but according to my word.] To make his Words the more regarded, he ſwore ſolemnly by the Eternal God, whoſe Miniſter he was (for that is meant by ſtanding before him) and to whom he had prayed, that there ſhould be no Moiſture from the Clouds for three Years and an half enſuing; unleſs it was by his Prayers. Thus St James teaches us to expound theſe Words, theſe years: James v. 17. And Abarbinel makes out the Connection of this Chapter with the foregoing in this manner. Elijah admoniſhed Ahab to lay to Heart the Puniſhment of Hiel the Bethelite; ſaying, fear the LORD leſt he be angry with thee, as he was with Hiel, for breaking his Command. But Ahab deſpiſed his Admonition, and ſaid; that was a Chance; for you ſay we are all Idolaters, and yet the Threatning in the Law of Moſes (Deut. xi. 16, 17.) is not come upon us. Whereupon Elijah in a great Anger ſaid; as the LORD liveth there ſhall be no dew, &c. Which Story is told with more Circumſtances in the Talmud.

Ver. 2. And the word of the LORD came to him, ſaying,] The King being incenſed at this Threatning, God took care to ſecure Elijah from his Fury, by the following Direction.

Ver. 3. Get thee hence,] For he ſaw that Ahab intended to lay hold of him.

And turn thee eaſtward, and hide thy ſelf by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.] This Brook Bochartus takes to be the ſame with Kana, mentioned by Joſhua, xvi. 5. xvii. 9. So called from the Plenty of Reeds (for Kana ſignifies a Reed) in which the Prophet lay hid, while he ſtayed in this Place.

Ver. 4. And it ſhall be, that thou ſhalt drink of the brook, and I will command the ravens to feed thee there.] This ſeems ſo ſtrange, that ſome will have the Word Orebim not to ſignify Ravens, but Merchants: Becauſe they find the Word Orebe in Ezek. xxvii. 17. ſignifying Merchants that traded in the Market of Tyre. But as Bochartus hath obſerved, they are never called ſimply Orebim. Nor is their Opinion better, who think Arabians to be here meant: For there were none thereabout; and Elias his lurking-place would ſoon have been diſcoverd to Ahab, if Merchants, or any other People that travelled that Way, had been acquainted with it. We muſt therefore acknowledge a miraculous Care which God took of Elijah, as all the Ancients do, none excepted. See Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 2. Cap. xiii. Nor did ſuch Things ſeem incredible to the Heathen; who tell us as ſtrange Stories. For Example, that Jupiter was fed in his Cradle by Bees: And Janus the Son of Apollo and Evadne with Honey by Dragons: and Midas when an Infant, had Corn put into his Mouth, as he lay aſleep, by Ants: Æſculapius nouriſhed by a Goat; and a great many more mentioned by that excellent Perſon Huetius in his Quæſtiones Alnetanæ, Lib. 2. Cap. xii. N. 17.

Ver. 5. So he went, and did according to the word of the LORD: for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

Ver. 6. And the ravens brought him bread and fleſh in the morning, and bread and fleſh in the evening: and he drank of the brook.] God amply provided for his Servant; ſending him not only Bread, but Fleſh alſo, that he might make a good Meal: And this twice a Day, at Dinner and Supper. This Proviſion ſome of the Jews fancy (in Gemara Sanhedrin, Cap. xi. N. 76.) the Ravens brought from Ahab's Houſe; others fancy, from Jehoſhaphat's; as as if he was fed with Royal Dainties. But Bochartus thinks it is better to say, that they had this Provision from some of the seven thousand Persons who had never bowed to Baal. But it is best of all to confess we cannot tell whence they had it; God perhaps making Meat ready prepared, on purpose for him. They who object that these were unclean Creatures who polluted the Meat which they touched, should consider, that all this was done by an extraordinary Dispensation. And St Chrysostom fancies, there was this moral Instruction in it; that Elijah should learn to be more mild and gentle, toward the deluded Israelites; by these Birds, who were cruel to their young, but kind to him. And indeed it is very wonderful, as Victorinus Strigellius here glosses, that the Ravens, who do not feed their own young ones, should constantly feed the Prophet. For such is the ἀσοργία of these Creatures, as Naturalists report, that they forsake their young before they be fledged: Whom God feeds by Worms, which are produced by the Dung, and out of the Carcases that have been brought into their Nests, 'till they be able to fly, and provide for themselves. I think he hath this out of St Ambrose, L. x. Epist. 82. The Psalmist is thought to allude to it, Psal. cxlvii. 9. And God himself in Job xxxviii. 41.

Ver. 7. And it came to pass after a while, that the brook dried up, because there had been no rain.] In the Hebrew it is, at the end of days, that is, of a Year: As that Phrase, I have shewn, is often used.

Ver. 8. And the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

Ver. 9. Arise, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there:] It was a Place between Tyre and Zidon; but belonged to the Territory of the latter; and so was not in the Land of Israel, but inhabited by Gentiles.

Behold, I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee.] He had appointed and disposed her, just as he did the Ravens, ver. 4. For she had no Command from God for it (it appears from ver. 12.) and this was an extraordinary Providence, that a poor Widow, and a Gentile should support him; though in all likelihood, she was not a Stranger to the true Religion, but a pious Woman of another Nation.

Ver. 10. So he arose, and went to Zarephath: and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering sticks:] Which shews she was but in a poor Condition.

And he called to her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.] For he knew, by a Divine Inspiration, this was the Woman that was to sustain him.

Ver. 11. And as she was going to fetch it,] This shews she was a good Woman; being ready to succour a Stranger.

He called unto her and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thy hand.] Which was very natural to desire, having asked for Water: But he said it to move her to acquaint him with what follows.

Ver. 12 And she said, As the LORD thy God liveth,] By this it appears she knew the LORD God of Israel; and that Elijah was a Prophet; or, at least, one of his Worshippers.

I have not a cake, but a handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oyl in a cruse: and I am gathering two sticks,] By two sticks is meant a few: As two frequently signifies, Isa. xvii. 6. Jerem. iii. 14.

That I may go, and dress it for me and my son, that we may eat it and die.] The famine it seems was sore in that Country, as well as in Israel. For they of Zidon had their Provision from the Israelites; and besides, it is likely, had no Rain: But were punished as their Neighbours were; being all alike Idolaters.

Ver. 13. And Elijah said unto her, Fear not;] Be not afraid of being famished.

Go, and do as thou hast said: but make me a little cake thereof first, and bring it unto me; and after that make for thee, and for thy son.] A very hard Command: Whereby he tried her Faith and Obedience.

Ver. 14. For thus said the LORD God of Israel, the barrel of meal shall not waste, neither shall the cruse of oyl fail, until the day that the LORD send rain on the earth.] This was a Miracle, which they that were not Christians did not think incredible: As Huetius shews in the same Book, and the Chapter above mentioned, ver. 4.

Ver. 15. And she went, and did according to the saying of Elijah:] By which it is evident that she trusted in the LORD God of Israel.

And she, and he, and her house did eat many days.] Some by many days understood a full Year: As it is the Margin. But it rather signifies two years: For one year was past before he came from the Brook Cherith. (See ver. 7.) And therefore they lived upon this Meal and Oil two Years more, 'till the End of the Famine.

Ver. 16. And the barrel of meal wasted not; neither did the cruse of oyl fail, according to the word of the LORD which he spake by Elijah.] But what they took out for their daily Use, was immediately supplied by the Power of God.

Ver. 17. And it came to pass after these things,] After this Demonstration of the Power and Goodness of God,

That the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick, and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath left in him.] He expired and died.

Ver. 18. And she said unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God?] Some take the Meaning to be, wherein have I offended thee? But the following Words seem to imply, that in a great Agony of Spirit she asked him wherefore he came to her House, if this were his Intention.

Art thou come to call my sin to remembrance, and to slay my son?] This she thought was hard, to requite his Entertainment at her House with such a Punishment for her Sins. For then Sins are said to be called to remembrance before God, when he punishes them.

Ver. 19. And he said unto her, Give me thy son.] He reached out his Hands, and bid her put him into his Arms.

And he took him out of her bosom,] It seems he was but a little Child: Who the Jews think afterwards proved a Prophet, viz. Jonah.

And carried him up into a loft, where he abode,] The LXX tranſlate it ὑπερῶον, an upper Room: Which he had to himſelf for his Study, Meditation, and Prayer; as Eliſha afterwards had in another Place, 2 Kings iv. 10.

And laid him upon his own bed.] By this it appears it was a private Room, where he lodged.

Ver. 20. And he cried unto the LORD,] Prayed moſt earneſtly.

And ſaid; O LORD my God, haſt thou alſo brought evil upon the widow, with whom I ſojourn, by ſlaying her ſon?] He humbly expoſtulated with God; Repreſenting what an Addition it was to his other Afflictions, that this Widow ſhould ſuffer, who had been ſo kind to him; and ſuffer in her Son, the great Comfort of her Life; and that while he was in her Houſe.

Ver. 21. And he ſtretched himſelf upon the child three times, and cried unto the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD my God, I pray thee, let this childs ſoul come into him again.] He lay proſtrate in Prayer before God, and ſtretched out himſelf upon the Child, as if he would inſpire him with a new Life. And this he did three Times; believing God would be moved by his Importunity, to do what he deſired.

Ver. 22. And the LORD heard the voice of Elijah, and the ſoul of the child came into him again, and he revived.] Hereby it appeared not only that this was done by God, to whom Elijah prayed; but that he did it for Elijah's ſake.

Ver. 23. And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber into the houſe, and delivered him unto his mother: and Elijah ſaid, See, thy ſon liveth.] There was no need, one would think, to bid her obſerve and lay to Heart the great Power and Mercy of God, in reſtoring her Son to Life. But the beſt of us muſt be awakened to our Duty.

Ver. 24. And the woman ſaid to Elijah, Now by this I know that thou art a man of God;] She believed it before, ver. 20. But when ſhe ſaw he did not cure her Child when he lay ſick, but ſuffered him to die, ſhe began to doubt of it. But her Faith revived, together with her Son, and was mightily confirmed.

And that the word of the LORD in thy mouth, is truth.] She believed all that he delivered as the Mind of God; and gave up her ſelf intirely to his Inſtructions. The Benefit of which ſhe enjoyed, 'till God ſent Elijah to meet Ahab; reſolving to ſend Rain upon the Earth, as it follows in the next Chapter.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs after many days,] See upon ver. 15. of the foregoing Chapter. Grotius expounds it after ſix months, upon St Luke iv. 25.

That the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year, ſaying,] Our Saviour ſaith, and ſo doth St James, that the Drought continued three Years and ſix Months, Luke iv. 25. James v. 17. which doth not diſagree with theſe Words, which are thus to be explained. At the Beginning of the Drought it is likely Ahab imputed the want of Rain to Natural Cauſes, and ſo did not ſeek to ſlay Elijah: But after ſix Months neither the former nor the latter Rain falling in their Seaſon, he began to be enraged at him as the Cauſe of the Drought: Which forced Elijah, at God's Command, to ſave his Life by Flight. And from that Time the three Years here mentioned are to be computed; before the Word of the LORD came to him: He being one Year at the Brook Cherith, and two Years at Sarepta; in the End of which Year God took pity upon the Country, having fulfilled the Words of Elijah, xvii. 1. I ſee no Ground for Abarbinel's Obſervation, that the Famine continued three Years, to ſhew that it was a Puniſhment inflicted for the Sins of three Families: Jeroboam the Son of Nebat, and his Son Nadab; Baaſha, and his Son Elah; Omri, and his Son Ahab. The Obſervation of Grotius is far better upon St Luke iv. 25. See there.

Go ſhew thy ſelf unto Ahab; and I will ſend rain upon the earth.] He would not deſtroy the Earth becauſe it was inhabited by wicked Men (as Abarbinel ſpeaks) and yet would have them know that Elijah's Prayers procured Mercy for them.

Ver. 2. And Elijah went to ſhew himſelf unto Ahab: and there was a ſore famine in Samaria.] Which made it the more dangerous for him to appear in Ahab's Preſence: Leſt being ſo ſorely afflicted, he ſhould in his Rage cauſe him to be killed, before he could deliver his Meſſage to him.

Ver. 3. And Ahab called Obadiah which was the governour of his houſe:] Some, both Jews and Chriſtians, think this was Obadiah the Prophet: For which I can find no Ground, but what is ſaid in 2 Chron. xvii. 7. that Obadiah was one of the Princes whom Jehoſhaphat ſent to inſtruct the People. And Ezra from the next Words infers he was not a Prophet.

(Now Obadiah feared the LORD greatly:] Was a truly religious Man, and worſhipped the LORD alone with great Affection to his Service: Which one would have expected ſhould have made Ahab diſcard him, if not perſecute him. But, I ſuppoſe, he was ſo very uſeful a Servant to him, in the Management of the affairs of his Family (which he ordered with ſingular Prudence and Fidelity) that he connived at his not worſhipping Baal, nor the Calves. Eſpecially ſince he did not (we may well think) go up to Jeruſalem to worſhip; with which Defect God was pleaſed to diſpenſe, as Ahab did with his Religion.

Ver. 4. For it was ſo, when Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD,] There were Schools of the Prophets, it is likely, ſtill remaining in Iſrael, unto her Time; but ſhe endeavoured to deſtroy them, and thoſe who were bred up in them; that there might be none to inſtruct the People in the true Religion. For ſuch, I ſuppoſe, are here meant; not thoſe that were indued with the extraordinary Gift of Prophecy; for Elijah ſaith, ver. 22. that he only was left a Prophet of the LORD; though that may ſignify no more, but that he knew of no body beſide.

That Obadiah took an hundred prophets, and hid them by fifty in a cave,] Which was an Act of great Piety and Zeal; whereby he hazarded his own Life.

And fed them with bread and water.)] Sent them Meat and Drink privately every Day.

Ver. 5. And Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks: peradventure we may find grass to save the horses and mules alive, that we lose not all the beasts.] Many were dead for want of Grass, which he hoped they might find growing in such moist Places, enough to preserve the rest.

Ver. 6. So they divided the land between them, to pass throughout it: Ahab went one way by himself, and Obadiah went another way by himself.] Ahab would make this Search himself, lest it should not be done faithfully by others; who might be persuaded by Prayers and Intreaties, or the Presents of those who had any Grass, not to discover it. Only he trusted Obadiah.

Ver. 7. And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and fell on his face, and said, Art thou my lord Elijah?] He shewed by the profound Reverence he made to him, how much he honoured him.

Ver. 8. And he answered him, I am: Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.] The Prophet also approved the Honour Obadiah did his Master, whom he owned for his lord, though he was a very wicked Man. (See ver. 10.) For Kings, by their Office, are sacred Persons; and therefore are to be had in great Veneration (tho' bad Men) even by the High Priest, and by the Prophets, who did not approach them, as the Jews observe, without due Reverence. And it is a famous Saying of R. Jedaiah, Do not dwell in a City, where no Reverence or Fear is paid to the King.

Ver. 9. And he said, What have I sinned, that thou wouldest deliver thy servant into the hand of Ahab, to slay me?] For that he concluded would be the Effect of such a Massage delivered by him to Ahab, as he shews in the following Discourse.

Ver. 10. As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee:] That is, to all the Countries thereabouts, with whom he was in League. For it is a very foolish Conceit of some of the Jews, (which the best of them disown) that Ahab was as great an Emperor as Nebuchadnezzar, or Ahasuerus, who ruled over all Nations.

And when they said, He is not there, he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not.] These Words incline me to think, that he sought him only throughout all his own Dominions; through every Tribe, which is called a Nation; and every Government, which is called a Kingdom. For how could he take an Oath of any but his own Subjects? It may be said indeed, that there might be such Compacts between him and the Moabites, Edomites, Ammonites, and other Neighbouring Nations, that they should harbour none of his rebellious Subjects: And that if he required it, they should swear they knew of none in their Country. But such a Treaty is so unusual, that I see no Reason to suppose it.

Ver. 12. And it shall come to pass, as soon as I am gone from thee, that the spirit of the LORD shall carry thee whither I know not;] Snatch thee away from hence, as sometimes the Prophets were suddenly transported by an invisible Power to Places far distant from that where they were at present, 2 Kings ii. 16. Ezek. iii. 12, 14. Acts viii. 39, 40. And, in all likelihood, there had been Instances of it before this Time; which made Obadiah fear, it might fall out so in this Case.

And so when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he shall slay me:] Because he did not seize and secure Elijah when he was in his Power; but let him escape.

But I thy servant fear the LORD from my youth.] Therefore he hoped the Prophet would take Care to preserve him, because he was not like the rest of the Court.

Ver. 13. Was it not told my lord, what I did when Jezebel slew the prophets of the LORD? how I hid an hundred men of the LORDs prophets by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?] Sometimes a virtuous Man may speak the Truth of himself; though it be in his own Praise.

Ver. 14. And now thou sayest, Go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he shall slay me.] When it would expose him to manifest Danger of losing his Life.

Ver. 15. And Elijah said, As the LORD of hosts liveth,] He who commands all Creatures in Heaven and Earth.

Before whom I stand,] Whom I serve, as one of his Ministers.

I will surely shew my self unto him to day.] He feared not to shew himself to Ahab; for a greater King than he, the LORD of all things, he knew would preserve him.

Ver. 16. So Obadiah went to meet Ahab and told him: and Ahab went to meet Elijah.] The solemn Oath of Elijah made Obadiah readily obey him; and assured him Ahab should not be disappointed, but certainly find him.

Ver. 17. And it came to pass, when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, Art thou he that troubleth Israel?] He troubles a Country, who confounds all Things in it, and puts them out of Order. In such a Condition Israel now was, by a grievous Famine; which made them not know which way to turn themselves. And this he ascribed to Elijah.

Ver. 18. And he answered, I have not troubled Israel, but thou and thy fathers house, in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD,] They trouble a Nation, who break the Laws of God; not they that defend them.

And thou hast followed Baalim.] There were more Baals than one worshipped by the Heathen, as I observed before: And it is very probable, that Ahab worshipped all the Host of Heaven, as well as the Sun. See xvi. 30, 31.

Ver. 19. Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel unto mount Carmel,] That he might prove, in the Face of all the People, that it was not he who troubled them.

And

And the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves four hundred,] By the prophets of the groves (as we tranſlate it) Mr Selden underſtands the Prophets of Aſtarte, the great Goddeſs of the Zidonians; which he proves by comparing many Places of Scripture together, L. de Diis Syris Syntag. 2. Cap. 3. Maimonides hath a peculiar Notion, that the Prophets of Baal, and of the Groves, were ſuch as had drunk in the Opinion of the ancient Zabii; who made Images to receive the Influences of the Stars; Golden ones for the Sun, and Silver ones for the Moon, &c. which gave to Men the Gift of Prophecy, and ſhewed what was good for them. The ſame they ſaid of Trees; which were ſome under the Influence of one Star, ſome under the Influence of another; and were planted in their Names, and worſhipped after ſeveral Manners, and infuſed ſpecial Virtues into the Trees, and made Men Prophets. This he avers he found expreſsly in their Books. More Nevochim, Pars iii. Cap. 29.

Who eat at Jezebels table.] So high an Eſteem they had of theſe Prophets, that ſhe kept a Table on purpoſe for them, to do them Honour with the People.

Ver. 20. So Ahab ſent unto all the children of Iſrael, and gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.] I ſuppoſe the Iſraelites ſent the great Men of their ſeveral Tribes to repreſent them; and the Prophets readily aſſembled at the King's Command; who did not diſtruſt their Power, and was promiſed Rain, I ſuppoſe, by Elijah, if he did as he deſired.

Ver. 21. And Elijah came to all the people, and ſaid, How long halt ye between two opinions?] Like lame Men, who tread not firmly, but dubiouſly; not knowing which to chooſe, the LORD or Baal; and therefore joining both together.

If the LORD be God, follow him: If Baal be God, follow him.] As much as to ſay, there cannot be more Gods than one. That's the firſt Article of your Faith, Hear, O Iſrael, the LORD our God is one LORD, Deut. vi. 4. If the LORD be he, then ſtick to him: If Baal, then reject the other. This is moſt rational: For both of them cannot be God.

And the people anſwered him not a word.] Either not knowing what to reſolve; or being aſhamed.

Ver. 22. Then ſaid Elijah unto the people, I, even I only remain a prophet of the LORD; but the prophets of Baal are four hundred and fifty Men.] He was the only Prophet that appeared in behalf of the LORD, and yet feared not to conteſt with a great Multitude, who came to defend Baal.

Ver. 23. Let them therefore give us two bullocks, and let them chooſe one bullock for themſelves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dreſs the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:] He propounded a plain Way to decide this Controverſy, and ſettle the Peoples Minds in their Belief. To whom he firſt propounded it, that they might approve of it, if they thought it a ſure Way to diſcover the Truth.

Ver. 24. And call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the LORD: and the God that anſwereth by fire, let him be God.] That is, he that ſendeth Fire to conſume the Sacrifice, which is preſented to him.

And the people anſwered and ſaid, It is well ſpoken.] They looked upon this as a reaſonable Propoſition; becauſe they knew that Sacrifices had been approved by God, in this manner; and they were very deſirous to make the Experiment, and be ſatisfied, by this Means, who was the true God. Thus Moſes his Sacrifice was approved, Levit. xx. 24. and Gideon's, Judges vi. 21. and David's, 1 Chron. xxi. 20. and Solomon's, when he conſecrated the Temple, 2 Chron. vii. 1, 3. By this Means, in all theſe Caſes, God hath ſhewn that he accepted the Sacrifices, and that the Perſons who offered them were his Servants.

Ver. 25. And Elijah ſaid unto the prophets of Baal,] Having the Peoples Approbation, he turned to Baal's Prophets, and deſired them to agree to this Trial.

Chooſe you, one bullock for your ſelves, and dreſs it firſt;] No doubt they produced both the Bullocks, as he propounded at the firſt, ver. 22. and if there was any Advantage in chooſing one, and dreſſing it before the other, he deſired they might have it.

For ye are many:] And he being a ſingle Perſon, was willing to give them the Precedence.

And call on the name of your gods, but put no fire under.] It may be tranſlated, call on the Name of your god, viz. Baal. Or elſe, it may relate to their Baalim, which were many, as they themſelves were: And deſire them all to try their Power, by putting no Fire under the Sacrifice; but expecting it to come down from Heaven.

Ver. 26. And they took the bullock which was given them,] The Choice of which was left to them.

And dreſſed it,] Flead it, and cut it in Pieces, and laid it upon the Wood. Which they durſt not refuſe to do, becauſe the People thought it a reaſonable Motion which Elijah made; and they had utterly loſt their Credit with the People, if they had not accepted it. And perhaps they did not diſtruſt the Power of Baal; which Ralbag thinks was Mars, a fiery Planet; but rather the Sun, which far exceeds all the other Heavenly Bodies in Heat. Which they thought might poſſibly exert its Power, upon this great Occaſion, and burn up their Sacrifice. At leaſt they might hope that Elijah might not be able to bring Fire down from Heaven, becauſe he ſacrificed in a High Place not at the Temple: Which was contrary to the Law of God, who therefore would not hear him; and then they ſhould ſtand upon equal Ground with him, though they obtained no Fire to conſume their Sacrifice.

And called upon the name of Baal, from morning even until noon,] When the Sun was in its greateſt Strength.

Saying, O Baal here us. But there was no voice, nor any that anſwered.] Not the leaſt Flaſh of Fire.

And they leaped upon the altar which was made.] Or, they danced about it, after the manner of the ancient Salii. Or, as Bochartus interprets it, Quaſi furore Prophetico extra ſe rapti, incompoſitis motibus huc illuc ferebantur. They ran about hither and thither, as Men in an Ecſtacy with a Prophetical Fury, which put them into uncouth and diſorderly Motions. For it appears they acted like Prophets from ver. 29. who ſometimes acted as Men beſide themſelves. Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. II. Cap. 50. Abarbinel thinks this Leaping or Dancing was a Rite uſed in the Worſhip of the Sun: Which puts all Things in Motion.

Ver. 17. And it came to paſs at noon,] When the Morning Sacrifice was ended.

That Elijah mocked them,] He did not think it unlawful, or unſeemly to jeer them, and their God; that he might awaken them out of their Stupidity, and expoſe them to all the By-ſtanders as Corrupters of Religion, and Deceivers of the People.

Cry aloud: for he is a god,] He bid them raiſe their Voices; for they believed he was a God, but might be ſomething deaf, or or a great Way off from them, and ſo could not hear what they ſaid, unleſs they cried louder.

Either he is talking,] Buſy about Diſpatches: Either in ſending Ambaſſadors, or giving Audience.

Or he his purſuing,] Some Notion (as the Hebrews underſtand it) being in a deep Study, or deliberating about ſome weighty Buſineſs. It is commonly underſtood, he is hunting, or purſuing Enemies.

Or he is in a journey,] Not at Home; but travelling to ſome other Place; whither they muſt ſend after him.

Or paradventure he ſleepeth,] As they uſed to do in thoſe hot Countries after Dinner.

And muſt be awaked.] With loud Noiſes.

Ver. 28. And they cried aloud, and cut themſelves after their manner, with knives and lancers, 'till the blood guſhed out upon them.] They did more than Elijah bad them: Hoping to move him with their own Blood, in which, perhaps, they thought he more delighted, than in the Blood of Beaſts, or in their Cries. For many Nations offered human Sacrifices to their Gods: And their Prieſts, when they were poſſeſſed with a ſacred Fury, were wont to ſlaſh themſelves 'till their Blood guſhed out. Thus among the Romans the Prieſts did in the Worſhip of Bellona: In which Sacerdotes non alieno, ſed ſuo cruore ſacrificant, &c. The Prieſts ſacrificed not with another's Blood, but with their own. (See Lactantius in his Divin. Inſtitut. Lib. I. Cap. 21.) For cutting their Shoulders, and running their drawn Swords through both Hands, they run about like mad Men. And ſo Apuleius ſaith, they that carried about the Syrian Goddeſs, after many other Things, took out their Knives as Swords and cut themſelves. See Lib. viii. Metamorph. p. 172, 173. and Pricæus and Rigaltius upon that Place. But our Mr Mede hath a peculiar Notion, which is, that Baalim being the deified Souls of dead Men, therefore the Prophets of Baal cut themſelves in his Worſhip; becauſe this was a Funeral Rite or Ceremony, Levit. xix. 28. xxi. 5. Deut. xiv. 1. and therefore retained in the Service of ſuch Gods, in Token that they were but deified Men. See upon xvi. 31.

Ver. 29. And it came to paſs, when mid-day was paſt, and they propheſied to the time of the offering the evening ſacrifice;] When all was done, they fell into a Fury, and raved, as if they were poſſeſſed with an inviſible Power; ſinging Hymns and Praiſes to Baal. For that is ſometimes meant by propheſying, 1 Chron. xxv. 2, 3. or, it may be ſimply meant, they ſtill continued praying to Baal (ver. 26.) for that was Part of a Prophet's Office

That there was neither voice, nor any to anſwer, nor any that regarded.] No more Tokens of Regard to their Praiſes than to their Prayers; nor any, the leaſt Intimation, that Baal was a God, that minded what they ſaid, or did

Ver. 30. And Elijah ſaid unto all the people, Come near unto me. And they came near unto him:] They had ſtood hitherto by the Prophets of Baal, to attend them in their Sacrifice. Now Elijah calls them to him, that they might be Witneſſes of what he could do.

And he repaired the altar of the LORD that was broken down.] I ſuppoſe Carmel had been one of the moſt eminent high Places in the whole Kingdom: Where the People, as they had been long accuſtomed, offered Sacrifices to God in ancient Times. But the Worſhippers of Baal had broken down the Altar, and ſet up one of their own. For there were two Sorts of High Places, I have before noted, ſome for the Worſhip of the true God, which continued in Judah, even under religious Princes: Others for the Worſhip of Idols; which good Kings took away, when they let the other remain. On the contrary, Abab broke down the Altars of God in the high Places, and allowed none but thoſe for Baal.

Ver. 31. And Elijah took twelve ſtones, according to the number of the tribes of the ſons of Jacob,] That he might ſhew he worſhipped the God of the Patriarchs, and no other: And that all the People, though divided in Civil Government, ought to be united in the ſame Religion, and have but one Altar for them; being the Sons of one Man, who was very dear to God, as it here follows.

Unto whom the word of the LORD came, ſaying, Iſrael ſhall be thy name.] He purged his Family from all Idolatry; and then God appeared to him, and talked with him, and called him by a new Name; importing the Power he had with God, Gen. xxxv. 2, 3, 4, 10, 13, 15.

Ver. 32. And with the ſtones he built an altar in the name of the LORD:] Which he might do, being a Prophet; for ſuch Perſons were free from the leſſer Laws, that they might preſerve the greater.

And he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two meaſures of ſeed.] That is, a large Trench; for two Meaſures are thought to be the third Part of an Ephah.

Ver. 33. And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood,] To be a whole Burnt-offering.

And

And ſaid, Fill four barrels with water,] Which they might have out of the Brook at the Foot of the Mount (ver. 40.) or out of the Sea, which was not far off.

And pour it on the burnt-ſacrifice, and on the wood.] From hence ſome gather, the Altar was hollow into which this Water run.

Ver. 34. And he ſaid, Do it the ſecond time: and they did it the ſecond time. And he ſaid, Do it the third time: And they did it the third time.] That is, they did it 'till all was full of Water, as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 35. And the water run round about the altar, and he filled the trench alſo with water.] This ſeems to prove the altar was hollow, and that there was a Trench alſo round about it: Both which were as full of Water, as they could hold, to make the Miracle more conſpicuous and convincing. For what more contrary than Fire and Water?

Ver. 36. And it came to paſs, at the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice,] When the People of God were offering their ſolemn Prayers to God at the Temple in Jeruſalem. This is a noted Time for great Things that were then done. See upon Levit. ix. 24.

That Elijah the prophet came near,] To the Altar.

And ſaid, LORD God of Abraham, and Iſaac and Jacob, let it be known this day, that thou art God in Iſrael; and that I am thy ſervant, and that I have done all theſe things at thy word.] He deſires him to demonſtrate at once by this Miracle, that he was the only true God, and that Elijah was his Prophet, and that he had done nothing (in bringing, for Inſtance, a long Famine upon them) but by his Command. Such Miracles were proper, either where a new Religion was to be ſet up, or the old one reſtored after a general Depravation.

Ver. 37. Hear me, O LORD, hear me,] He was the more earneſt, and fervent in his Prayer, as Abarbinel thinks, becauſe he had undertaken to make this Experiment of God's Power, without any particular Command from God of his own Accord; nothing doubting but he would appear to vindicate his own Honour; though he offered Sacrifice in an High Place, which was againſt the Law.

That this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou haſt turned their heart back again.] God turns Mens Hearts, though they be not turned; becauſe he not only doth that which evidently tends to convert them, and is ſufficient to do it; but for the preſent alſo ſo affects them that they are converted: Though they will not take care to continue in that pious Bent, but ſtart back again from him.

Ver. 38. And the fire of the LORD fell, and conſumed the burnt-ſacrifice, and the wood, and the ſtones, and the duſt, and licked up the water that was in the trench.] It is called the Fire of the LORD, becauſe it was ſent from him out of Heaven to teſtify that he was the only God (as the People could not but acknowledge) and it was of ſuch unuſual Force, that it conſumed not only the Fleſh of the Bullock and the Wood, but the very Stones, and the Duſt, and all the Water that had been poured out there in great Quantity.

Ver. 39. And when all the people ſaw it, they fell on their faces:] Worſhipping the LORD of Heaven and Earth.

And, ſaid, The LORD is God; the LORD he is God.] This repeated Acknowledgment ſhews how deeply they were affected at preſent, with the Demonſtration God had given, that he only was to be worſhipped. Which extorted this publick Confeſſion from them: But they ſoon forgat their own Convictions, and continued in their Idolatry.

Ver. 40. And Elijah ſaid unto them, Take the prophets of Baal, let none of them eſcape:] The Prophets of the Groves, I ſuppoſe, were not there: Jezabel, on whom they attended (ver. 19.) not ſuffering them to appear. It is likely they were Zidonians, which ſhe brought along with her from her own Country, when Ahab married her, and were peculiarly under her Command.

And they took them, and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kiſhon, and ſlew them there.] As Perverters of the Law, and Teachers of Idolatry; upon whom the People, in that Fit of Zeal wherein they now were, readily executed the Sentence Elijah pronounced againſt them. And Ahab could make no Oppoſition; being himſelf alſo, it is likely, aſtoniſhed at the ſtupendious Miracle.

Ver. 41. And Elijah ſaid unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink,] They had faſted and prayed all the Day 'till the Even Sacrifice was over, that they might have Rain; or, that God would decide the Controverſy in Queſtion.

For there is a ſound of abundance of rain.] He bid him be ſolicitous no longer; for Plenty of Rain was coming.

Ver. 42. And Ahab went up to eat and drink,] From the River that was at the Bottom of the Mount, he went up to a Place on the ſide of it, where a Tent was pitched for him, that he might refreſh himſelf, now that the Sacrifice was finiſhed; and by Elijah's Prayer he obtained Rain, which he aſſured him he heard coming. By theſe two Verſes it is apparent, that Ahab himſelf was preſent to ſee how this Conteſt between his Prophets and Elijah, that is, between Baal and God, would end. And in all Probability was as much convinced as the People, that the LORD was the only God.

And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel;] The Prophet went a great deal higher, where he could ſee the Mediterranean Sea; and would neither eat nor drink, till he actually ſaw the Rain gathering.

And he caſt himſelf down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees,] He fell upon his Knees, and bowed his Head to the very Ground; ſo that it touched his Knees: In Token of great Humility, and moſt earneſt Deſire, that God would remember his People, and ſend them Rain.

Ver. 43. And he ſaid to his ſervant,] Who ſome of the Jews ſay was the Widow of Sarepta's Son. But he was too young to wait upon him.

Go up now, and look towards the ſea. And he went up, and looked, and ſaid, There is nothing. And he ſaid, go again ſeven times.] It is not eaſy to give an Account of these Phrases, so often here used, he went up. First Ahab went up, and then Elijah, and now he sends his Servant, and at last he bid his Servant (ver. 44.) go up to Ahab. It is most likely there were several Risings in this Mountain, some higher than others. Elijah went to the Top of them; but there was another higher, to which he bid his Servant go up. Or, Elijah perhaps was near the Top; and he sent his Servant to the very Top of all: And then bid him go down from thence, and go up to that Part of the Mount, where Ahab was eating and drinking.

Ver. 44. And it came to pass, that at the seventh time there arose a little cloud out of the sea, like a mans hand: and he said, Go up and say to Ahab, prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain stop thee not.] For he saw such abundance of Rain coming, as would cause Floods, and render the Way, for the present, unpassable, if he did not make haste home.

Ver. 45. And it came to pass in the mean while, that the heavens were thick with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain,] While the Servant went to Ahab, and his Chariot was making ready, that little Cloud spread it self, and in a great Thickness covered the Face of the Sky.

And Ahab rode and went to Jezreel.] He did not go to Samaria; for Jezreel, I suppose, was nearer: And there he had a Palace, xxi. 1.

Ver. 46. And the hand of the LORD was upon Elijah, and he girded up his loins, and ran before Ahab,] They wore loose and long Garments in this Country: And therefore girded them up when they had Occasion to run; that they might not hinder them. And God now gave Elijah more than human Strength, so that (though he was an old Man, xix. 4.) he was made able to run, as fast as Ahab's Chariot drove, like one of his Footmen. In which he shewed his Readiness to do the King all the Honour imaginable, and that he was far from being his Enemy; but only desired he would become a Worshipper of the true God; which was, he could not but see, the LORD God of Israel.

Unto the entrance of Jezreel.] He thought it not prudent, it is likely, to venture into the City, lest Jezebel should seize him; but stopt at the Gate of the City, or of the Palace, and retired to some private Place.

CHAP. XIX.

Verse 1. AND Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done.] How he had called for Fire from Heaven; and had made Rain to fall upon the Earth.

And withal that he had slain all the prophets with the sword.] That is, all the Prophets of Baal, for they only are mentioned, xviii. 22, 25. and the Prophets of the Groves (who are said to be four hundred, xviii. 19.) were still in being, as appears from xxii. 6.

Ver. 2. Then Jezebel sent a messenger unto Elijah, saying, So let God do to me and more also, if I make not thy life, as the life of one of them, by to morrow about this time.] This shews the great Folly of Rage; which gave him Notice of his Danger, and admonished him to avoid it: Or, perhaps she thought him as couragious as she was furious; and that he would not flee; and then she knew her Power would be greater than his.

Ver. 3. And when he saw that, he arose, and went for his life, and came to Beersheba which belongeth to Judah,] Whither her Power did not reach; being in another Kingdom.

And he left his servant there.] Because he intended to go into the Wilderness, where he resolved to spend the rest of his Days, and die; and he would not have the Youth put to the same Straits, in which he was like to be. We read of no Command from God to fly; nor doth he forbid it; but left him to his own Prudence. Which made him think it in vain to hope for Ahab's Protection; who he saw would continue an Idolater, and by his Example make the People revolt to the Worship of Baal. Though some are of Opinion, it was a Fault in Elijah to run away, and not to depend upon God to preserve him, in his pious Endeavours to keep the People in the true Religion; who had so solemnly acknowledged the LORD to be God.

Ver. 4. And he himself went a days journey into the wilderness,] This Wilderness was that wherein the Israelites wandred forty Years; and he now travelled as many Days.

And came and sat down under a juniper-tree,] Which some look upon as a Sign he did not value Life; because the Shade of this Tree (under which he not only sat, but lay down and slept) is thought to be very noxious, as Virgil observes.

And he requested for himself that he might die, and said, It is enough; now, O LORD, take away my life.] He thought he could do God no further Service; and therefore desired to be discharged from his Office by Death; for all that he could say or do, proved ineffectual.

For I am not better than my fathers.] Unto whose Age, it is likely, he had lived.

Ver. 5. And as he laid and slept under the juniper-tree, an angel touched him, and said unto him, Arise and eat.] Perhaps he was faint with his Day's Journey, for want of Food at the End of it.

Ver. 6. And he looked, and behold there was a cake baken on the coals,] It should be translated upon hot stones, as Bochartus shews in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 33.

And a cruse of water at his head, and he did eat and drink, and laid him down again.] Being weary, and wanting Rest.

Ver. 7. And the angel of the LORD came again the second time, and touched him, saying, Arise and eat, because the journey is too great for thee.] Without extraordinary Strength; he being an old Man, and much tired with one Day's Journey.

Ver. 8. And he arose, and did eat and drink, and went in the strength of that meat forty days and forty nights, unto Horeb the mount of God.] It was a Journey of not above four or five Days, if ſo much; but he went about by private Ways, that he might not be diſcovered; and perhaps reſted ſometimes, and lay hid, if there was any Danger of his being ſeen. The Jews have made a Compariſon between him and Moſes, in twenty-four Particulars. But Abarbinel ſhews they were very different, and Moſes had the Superiority, eſpecially in this thing here mentioned. For he is of Opinion that Elijah eat and drank every Day, when he could meet with Food, as he might in ſeveral Places of the Wilderneſs. But ordinary Food would not have enabled him to travel ſo long as he did: But it was by the Power of that cœleſtial Food which the Angel brought him, that he held out, it giving him Vigour beyond all that he could receive from any other Nouriſhment. But in this Moſes went beyond him, that he had no Food at all; being ſupported by a miraculous Power, forty Days and forty Nights, without any Suſtenance of Meat and Drink.

Ver. 9. And he came thither into a cave, and lodged there; and behold the word of the LORD came to him, and ſaid to him, What doſt thou here, Elijah?] As much as to ſay, I have no Buſineſs for thee here. This is not a Place wherein to do me Service. Which was a ſecret Reproof for flying ſo far away: Judæa, Samaria, or Damaſcus, being fitter Places for him to be employed in.

Ver. 10. And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts:] He profeſſed that he had not wanted Zeal for the LORD's Service; but been moved with great Indignation againſt Idolatry.

For the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, and thrown down thine altars,] He calls the Altars that had been erected in high Places by the ancient Patriarchs, or other pious People in following Times, God's Altars: Becauſe they ſacrificed upon them to him alone, and not to Idols.

And ſlain thy prophets with the ſword;] So Jezebel had done, xviii. 4.

And I, even I only am left,] There were many Prophets beſides him; but none of them appeared publickly in Defence of Religion, but he alone.

And they ſeek my life to take it away,] Theſe Words anſwer the Queſtion, What doſt thou here? He fled thither to ſave his Life.

Ver. 11. And he ſaid, Go forth, and ſtand upon the mount before the LORD,] Where the SCHECHINAH, I ſuppoſe, appeared unto him, after ſome Preparations for it.

And behold, the LORD paſſed by, and a great and ſtrong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks] He heard a Sign of the Divine Preſence coming, before he went out of the Cave. For his Angelical Miniſters which attended his Majeſty, paſſed by the Mouth of the Cave in a mighty terrible Wind; which had thoſe dreadful Effects here mentioned.

Before the LORD;] Theſe Words ſhew, that in exact ſpeaking it was not the LORD that paſſed by when this Wind blew, but his Uſhers, as I may call them, who went before the LORD: So it here follows.

But the LORD was not in the wind:] The SCHECHINAH did not yet appear.

And after the wind an earthquake; but the LORD was not in the earthquake:] The Divine Preſence ſtill did not manifeſt it ſelf.

Ver. 12. And after the earthquake a fire;] Lightning and Thunder, juſt as there was at the giving of the Law, which Elijah endeavoured to reſtore.

But the LORD was not in the fire:] Still he heard nothing from God; who by theſe things prepared him to receive his Majeſty with the greateſt Humility and Compoſure of Spirit.

And after the fire a ſmall ſtill voice.] At the laſt the LORD himſelf came; as he perceived by the whiſpering of a Voice; which bad him liſten an attend to what the LORD ſhould ſay unto him. There are many pious Meditations, which this Appearance of the Divine Majeſty hath ſuggeſted to Interpreters. Particularly Strigelius looks upon it, as repreſenting the Divine Nature to be inclined not to terrify and deſtroy; but placidly to invite and preſerve. God eaſily lays aſide his Anger (as Nazianzen ſpeaks in his Oration upon his Father) and delights to exerciſe Mercy. For he is compelled to Anger by us, πρὸς δὲ τοῦτο τὴν ὁρμὴν ἔχει, but to Mercy he is very prone, as we may ſpeak, and by his own Nature bent unto it, &c. To the ſame Purpoſe Ralbag diſcourſes among the Jews. Others look upon all this as a Figure of the Goſpel Diſpenſation, which came not in ſuch a terrible manner as the Law did, with Storms, Thunders, Lightnings, and Earthquakes, (Exod. xix. 16. Hebr. xii. 18, &c.) but with great Lenity and Sweetneſs, God ſpeaking to us by his Son, in the moſt mild and gentle manner. And herein alſo ſome think he intended to ſhew Elijah that he had all the Elements ready armed at his Command, if he pleaſed to make uſe of them, to deſtroy Idolaters: But by that ſtill Voice he declared the Divine Patience and Tenderneſs, which he would have him to imitate, by bridling his Anger to which he was by Nature very prone.

Ver. 13. And it was ſo, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and ſtood in the entrance of the cave:] He firſt covered his Face, in token of great Reverence to God; not being able to look upon the Divine Glory, which now appeared; and then went out of the Cave (as God had commanded him, ver. 11.) and ſtood in the Entrance of it, to liſten what God would ſay to him.

And behold, there came a voice to him,] From the SCHECHINAH, or Divine Glory.

And ſaid, What doſt thou here, Elijah?] The ſame Words are repeated which he had heard before, ver. 9. Only there they were ſpoken by the Angel; but here by the LORD himſelf.

Ver. 14. And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD of hoſts: becauſe the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword; and I, even I only am left, and they ſeek my life, to take it away.] He makes the ſame Anſwer that he had done before, ver. 10. He was ſo full full of Anger (as Ralbag thinks) that he did not apply his Mind as he ought to underſtand the Viſion; and therefore only repeats his former Words. But God informs him in the following Verſe, that he would take care to chaſtiſe the Iſraelites in due Time, for their Apoſtacy from him; and for that End bad him go and anoint Hazael, &c.

Ver. 15. And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go return thy way to the wilderneſs of Damaſcus:] He bids him return the Way he came to Hebor; 'till he came to the Way that led to the Wilderneſs of Damaſcus, and go thither.

And when thou comeſt, anoint Hazael to be king of Syria.] As much as to ſay (as the forenamed Author expounds it) ſince thou art ſo angry with the Iſraelites for their Impiety, go and anoint one to be King of Syria, who ſhall be a Scourge to them. But this was not done preſently, nor did he himſelf anoint Jehu: But ordered that it ſhould be done by his Succeſſor Eliſha: Though it may be doubted whether any of them were anointed, except Jehu. For the Word anoint may be no more than appoint him King, as Kings were conſtituted in Iſrael by Unction. Hence by a Metaphor it is accommodated to the Preferment of Men to all Dignities. As in Pſal. cv. 15. touch not mine anointed: And Cyrus is called the LORD's anointed, Iſa. xlv. 1.

Ver. 16. And Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi] He was Grandſon of Nimſhi (as appears from 2 Kings ix. 2.) who are frequently called Sons in the Holy Books.

Anoint to be king over Iſrael: and Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat of Abel-meholah, ſhalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.] This laſt was the chiefeſt Command (to anoint, that is appoint, Eliſha to be his Succeſſor) for the other two were to be performed by him, not by Elijah: Who ordered Eliſha to do it, in convenient Time: And firſt he appointed Jehu King, and afterwards Hazael.

Ver. 17. And it ſhall come to paſs, that him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael, ſhall Jehu ſlay: and him that eſcapeth from the ſword of Jehu, ſhall Eliſha ſlay.] This is not to be underſtood, as if the Sword of Hazael ſhould do Execution before the Sword of Jehu, and the Sword of Jehu, before that of Eliſha: But it only ſignifies, as Abarbinel obſerves, that God in his Providence had appointed three Perſons to puniſh the Iſraelites according to their Deſerts. Thus he intended Hazael ſhould deſtroy them in Battle; which he mentions firſt, becauſe it is a general Calamity. But Jezabel, and the Children of Ahab, and the Prieſts of Baal, not going out to fight, and conſequently not falling in Battle, God ordered Jehu ſhould cut them off in that manner as he did, with all the Worſhippers of Baal. But he did not inflict Evil upon all the People of Iſrael, becauſe he was to be their King. And though he ſlew Idolaters, he did not meddle with little Children, whoſe Diſpoſition he did not know: But they were reſerved to be puniſhed by Eliſha, who foreſaw they would prove Idolaters. Thus he, with too much Subtilty. But in general he ſaith well; that the Scripture doth not mention theſe things according to the Time wherein they fell out; but according to the Decree of God, who appointed every one to execute that which was proper for him to do.

Ver. 18. Yet I have left me ſeven thouſand in Iſrael,] This ſeems to be a Correction of Elijah's Miſtake, who imagined that he alone was the only true Worſhipper of God that remained in Iſrael. Though Abarbinel will have it relate to what goes immediately before, that all the Iſraelites ſhould not be deſtroyed: For he had a great Number (ſeven thouſand being put indefinitely for many thouſand) of pious People in Iſrael, who had never worſhipped Baal; and ſhould not therefore be hurt either by Hazael, or otherways.

All the knees that have not bowed to Baal, and every mouth that hath not kiſſed him.] Every one knows that bowing the Knee was an Act of Worſhip; and ſo was kiſſing the Idol: Which was done two Ways. Either by applying their Mouth immediately to the Image (as Cicero againſt Verres relates of the Image of Hercules) or kiſſing their Hand before the Image, and then ſtretching it out, and, as it were, throwing the Kiſs to it. Concerning which Rite of Adoration Salmaſius hath given a large Account in his Annotations upon Flav. Vopiſcus in the Life of the Emperor Probus; where he obſerves ſuch Kiſſes were called labrata oſcula; and from hence the Phraſes oſcula jacere, and baſia jactare, and manu venerari, and manu ſalutare: Which he ſhews out of many Authors, are uſed for this Way of Adoration: The ſame he notes in his Plin. Exercit. p. 936. where Pliny ſaith, in adorando dextram ad oſculum referimus totum corpus circumagimus. When we worſhip, we kiſs our Hand, and turn about our whole Body.

Ver. 19. So he departed thence,] From Mount Horeb.

And found Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat,] In his Journey towards Damaſcus.

Who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth:] His Servants managed the reſt, and he himſelf drove the laſt. This ſhews him to have been a great Man; who, according to the Manner of thoſe ancient Times, looked after his Buſineſs himſelf; and was taken from the Plow to be a Prophet, as the Romans took ſome from thence to be Dictators and Conſuls. For nothing was in greater Eſteem than Agriculture among the ancient Greeks and Romans, as well as among the Hebrews. In Homer we ſee Kings and Princes living upon the Fruits of their Lands and their Flocks, and labouring with their own Hands. Heſiod hath made a Poem on purpoſe to recommend the Country Life and Labour to his Brother. It would be too tedious to ſhew how the Carthaginians and Perſians, and indeed all other ancient Nations, did not think that to do nothing, was to live nobly; but they ſtudied how to cultivate their Lands, and employed themſelves, as well as their Servants, in that Buſineſs. Whence ſuch Perſons, who were of the beſt Quality, were called αὐτουργοὶ, Men that did their Work themſelves, and did not commit the Care of it to others, but plowed with their own Hands. So Quinctius Cincinatus is ſaid by Dionyſ. Halicarn. L. X. to have returned from his Conſulſhip, to lead, τὸν ἀυλικὸν βίον, a Ruſtick Life, as he did before it. As the learned Jac. Perizonius obſerves upon Ælian's Var. Hiſtor. L. 1. Cap. 31. As for the reſt, the Greeks aſcribe this Invention of yoking Oxen together to plow withal either to Ceres, and Triptolemus, or Bacchus (or ſome other great Perſon) though Moſes, who was before them all, was well acquainted with it, Deut. xv. 9. And Job before him, Job i. 3. xliii. 12.

Abarbinel thinks theſe twelve Yoke of Oxen with which Eliſha was plowing, denoted that he ſhould be Leader of the twelve Tribes of Iſrael.

And Elijah paſſed by him, and caſt his mantle upon him.] He put upon him the Prophetical Habit; which was his Inauguration. Or, as ſome underſtood it, this was a Token that he muſt become his Servant, and attend upon him; and conſequently ſucceed in his Office. For Servants were wont to carry their Maſters Shoes after them, and their Garments. And accordingly he waited upon him, as appears from two Phraſes, in the laſt Verſe. Firſt he went after him; and ſecondly, he miniſtred unto him.

Ver. 20. And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah,] To deſire him to ſtay a little.

And ſaid, Let me kiſs my father and my mother,] Take his Leave of them.

And then I will follow thee.] For he underſtood that to be the Meaning of his throwing his Mantle upon him.

And he ſaid unto him, Go back again;] Return to thy Oxen; and do as thou deſireſt.

For what have I done unto thee?] He aſks him whether he thought he had done any thing to hinder him? And ſo this was ſaid to try whether he underſtood his Meaning, and was inclinable to attend him. But Abarbinel thinks theſe Words ſignify, that he had conferred a great Dignity upon him; which required him to diſpatch his Buſineſs immediately; and taking Leave of his Father and Mother, to come after him without any Delay; ſince he had done ſuch a great thing to him. Which illuſtrates the Words of our Saviour, Matth. xix. 21.

Ver. 21. And he returned back from him,] Went Home, and then came to thoſe that were plowing.

And took a yoke of oxen and ſlew them, and boiled their fleſh with the inſtruments of the oxen, and gave unto the people, and they did eat:] He made a Feaſt for his Servants, Neighbours, and Friends, before he parted with them; in token of the Joy he conceived at his new Calling. Which ſhews he was not a poor Peaſant, ſuch as our Ploughmen are; but a Man of Condition, who was able to make a great Expence upon Occaſion.

And he aroſe and went after Elijah, and miniſtred unto him.] Glad to leave his Eſtate, his Friends, and all that he had; glad to ſerve God in a lower Station firſt, before he executed the Office of a Prophet.

CHAP. XX.

Verſe 1. AND Ben-hadad king of Syria.] Ben-hadad is as much as the Son of Hadad. Which Hadad was of the Seed Royal in Edom, and eſcaped into Egypt when David ſlew all the Males in Edom. (xi. 16, 17.) But infeſted Solomon in his latter Days, and endeavoured to recover his Kingdom: In which he not ſucceeding, it is probable he eſtabliſhed himſelf in Syria.

Gathered all his hoſt together,] The Father of this King had taken ſeveral Cities from the Iſraelites (ver. 34. xv. 20.) and perhaps had made them Tributaries to the Syrians: Which Tribute Ahab refuſing to pay, he made War upon him.

And there were thirty and two kings with him,] Such petty Princes as thoſe in the Land of Canaan before the Conqueſt of it by Joſhua; who were under the Protection of the King of Syria, and bound to ſerve him in his Wars. But he had better have been without them, and imployed his own natural Subjects only; who had done his Buſineſs more ſucceſsfully (ver. 24.) becauſe it was their own.

And horſes and chariots:] It is not ſaid what Number; which is an Argument it was not very great.

And he went up and beſieged Samaria, and warred againſt it.] He did not actually beſiege it; for his Army was routed before he could do it. Therefore the Senſe is, he went up to beſiege Samaria, and aſſault it. Which is like that Speech, Gen. xxviii. 10. Jacob went out from Beerſheba and went to Haran. Which Raſi interprets, he went out to go to Haran. For it preſently follows, that God appeared to him in the Way.

Ver. 2. And ſent meſſengers to Ahab king of Iſrael into the city, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Ben-hadad.] He ſpeaks in a haughty Stile; juſt like the Meſſengers of the Aſſyrian Monarch to Hezekiah, thus ſaith the great king, the king of Syria.

Ver. 3. Thy ſilver and thy gold are mine, thy wives and thy children, even the goodlieſt, are mine.] This Meſſage is explained, by the King of Iſrael's Anſwer.

Ver. 4. And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, My lord, O king, according to thy ſaying, I am thine, and all that I have.] He was content to be his Vaſſal, and to hold all that he enjoyed of him: For ſo he underſtood his Demands. But Ben-hadad intended more: Or, from his ſubmiſſive Anſwer, took Occaſion to enlarge his Demands: requiring the Property of all he had; which he reſolved (as appears from his ſecond Meſſage, in the next Verſes) to take into his own Poſſeſſion.

Ver. 5. And the meſſengers came again, and ſaid, Thus ſpeaketh Ben-hadad, ſaying; Although I have ſent unto thee, ſaying, thou ſhalt deliver unto me thy ſilver, and thy gold, thy wives and thy children:

Ver. 6. Yet I will ſend my ſervants unto thee, to morrow about this time, and they ſhall ſearch thy thy houſe, and the houſes of thy ſervants; and it ſhall be, that whatſoever is pleaſant in thine eyes, they ſhall put it in their hand, and take it away.] He tells him the Meaning of his firſt Demand, that he ſhould deliver all he had into his Hands. Unto which, if he now conſented, it ſhould not ſuffice; but he would ſend ſome of his Officers to take all, and to ranſack every Corner of his Palace, and carry away from him and from his Courtiers (who are meant, I ſuppoſe, by his Servants) whatſoever was valuable. Or, perhaps, by Servants he means all his Subjects.

Ver. 7. Then the king of Iſrael called all the elders of the land, and ſaid,] Summoned a general Council of all the great Men, to adviſe what to do.

Mark, I pray, and ſee how this man ſeeketh miſchief: for he ſent unto me for my wives, and for my children; for my ſilver and my gold, and I denied them not.] But now nothing will content him but my utter Ruin, and inſlaving of our Country. In this Ahab ſhewed ſome Sparks of Virtue remaining in him; in that while Ben-hadad deſired only what he had in his own Diſpoſal, that is, all his private Goods, he agreed to it: But when all the People, and the publick Good was concerned, he would do nothing without their Conſent.

Ver. 8. And all the elders, and all the people ſaid unto him, Hearken not unto him, nor conſent.] They promiſing unanimouſly, I ſuppoſe, to ſtand by him, and defend him againſt ſo inſolent an Enemy.

Ver. 9. Wherefore he ſaid unto the meſſengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king,] Of whom he ſpeaks, in as humble a manner as he did at firſt, ver. 4.

All that thou didſt ſend for to thy ſervant at the firſt, I will do: But this thing I may not do.] For his People would not yield to it.

And the meſſengers departed, and brought him word again.] Delivered this Anſwer to Ben-hadad, that Ahab ſtuck to his firſt Conceſſion, according as he underſtood his Demands; but would not conſent to more.

Ver. 10. And Ben-hadad ſent unto him, and ſaid, The gods do ſo to me, and more alſo, if the duſt of Samaria ſhall ſuffice for handfuls, for all the people that follow me.] He wiſhes he may periſh, if he did not bring ſuch an Army againſt the King of Iſrael, that if every Soldier in it ſhould take an Handful of his Country, nothing of it would be left remaining. Others explain it thus; I will not leave a Bit of Samaria ſtanding. But the other is moſt natural; and this is included in it.

Ver. 11. And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harneſs boaſt himſelf, as he that putteth it off.] A Speech like that, Do not ſing a Triumph before the Victory.

Ver. 12. And it came to paſs when Ben-hadad heard this meſſage (as he was drinking, he and the kings in the pavillions) that he ſaid unto his ſervants, Set your ſelves in aray: And they ſet themſelves in aray againſt the city.] Whilſt the Treaty laſted between him and Ahab, he was remiſs: But now he commands his Army to be put in Order; and that they ſhould inveſt Samaria, and plant their Batteries againſt it.

Ver. 13. And behold there came a prophet to Ahab king of Iſrael, ſaying,] One of thoſe that had been hid; but was now commanded by God to appear and carry a Meſſage to Ahab. Which the Prophet thought he might do ſafely, when he brought him ſuch good News, as that which follows.

Thus ſaith the LORD, haſt thou ſeen all this great multitude? Behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day,] Hereby God ſhewed, that as he hated Idolatry, of which Ahab was notoriouſly guilty, ſo he hated alſo inſolent proud Boaſters, who imagine they have no Superiour; and that they can carry all Things as they pleaſe, by their own Power.

And thou ſhalt know that I am the LORD.] Have a new Demonſtration that he was the LORD of all Things. For Ahab had no ſuch Meſſage brought by any of Baal's Prophets; which was ſufficient to convince him, that the LORD, who could foretel and do ſuch wonderful Things, was the only God.

Ver. 14. And Ahab ſaid, By whom?] He gave ſome Credit to his Word; and only aſks by whom this Deliverance ſhould be wrought: For he knew he had not Forces enough to encounter and overthrow ſuch powerful Enemies.

And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD; even by the young men of the princes of the provinces.] The Princes of the Provinces were the Governors of the ſeveral Provinces, into which the Kingdom was divided. And their young Men ſeem to ſignify their Servants, or their Pages, (as we ſpeak) that waited on them. As much as to ſay, not by old experienced Soldiers, but by Youths; who, perhaps, had never ſeen a Fight, but had always lived at Court.

And he ſaid, Who ſhall order the battle?] Or, who ſhall begin the Fight (as ſome underſtand theſe Words) they or we? Shall we make a Sally, or expect 'till they aſſault us?

And he anſwered, Thou.] He bids the King begin, and lead them on. Which was commanded, to encourage the young Men, and to try whether Ahab would thus far truſt God, or no.

Ver. 15. Then he numbred the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred thirty and two: And after them he numbred all the people, even all the children of Iſrael, being ſeven thouſand.] All that he could get together; for theſe ſure were not all the Men of War in Iſrael.

Ver. 16. And they went out] Of Samaria.

At noon:] When they knew the Syrians were at Dinner, taking a Repaſt; if not debauching themſelves, as their King was.

And Ben-hadad was drinking himſelf drunk in the pavillions, he, and the kings, the thirty-two kings that helped him.] Being perfectly ſecure that the Iſraelites durſt not appear to diſturb him.

Ver. 17. And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out firſt,] And Ahab, no doubt, at the Head of them.

And Ben-hadad ſent out, and they told him, There are men come out of Samaria.] The Meaning ing is, that upon their first coming out Ben-hadad, hearing a Bustle, sent to know what was the Matter: and they told him a small Party was come out of Samaria.

Ver. 18. And he said, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive.] It was against the Law of Nations to apprehend those that came to treat of Peace: But he, in his insolent Pride, bad his People not trouble themselves to examine what they came for, but to take them alive; which he thought they might easily do, being so few.

Ver. 19. So these young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.] The young Men only appeared at first; but the rest of the Army came out a little after.

Ver. 20. And they slew every one his man:] Who came to apprehend them.

And the Syrians fled, and Israel pursued them:] At which the Syrians were so amazed, by the Suddenness of the Attempt, that they fled: Imagining them to be stronger and better prepared for War, than they were.

And Ben-hadad the king of Syria escaped on an horse, with the horsemen.] He was possessed with the same Fear; and did not endeavour to make his Men rally again, but fled away together with them.

Ver. 21. And the king of Israel went out, and smote the horses and chariots, and slew the Syrians with a great slaughter.] He went out, by the Prophet's Order, at the Head of the young Men, when they first issued out of the City. But now he went out further than he had done at the Beginning, and overtook the Chariots and Horsemen; among whom he made a great Slaughter.

Ver. 22. And the prophet came to the king of Israel, and said, Go and strengthen thy self, and mark, and see what thou dost:] He bad him make what Preparations he was able, and take Care that nothing was wanting to oppose the Designs of the Syrians against him; who would certainly return, and renew the Fight the next Year.

For at the return of the year, the king of Syria will come up against thee.] At the Time when Kings used to go out to War. Of which see 2 Sam. xi. 1.

Ver. 23. And the servants of the king of Syria said unto him, Their gods are gods of the hills, therefore they were stronger than we:] They did not know the God of the Universe, but only worshipped particular gods; who they thought ruled over particular Countries, and distributed several Parts of those Countries among them (some being gods of the Woods, others of the Rivers, &c.) and they imagined the God of the Hebrews to be ὀρειβάτης, as Pan was called by the Heathen. For they had heard, perhaps, that their Law was given from Heaven upon a Mountain, and there God appeared to them: And the Country of Israel also was very hilly: Where, upon one eminent Hill, God's Temple was built, and he was worshipped. And it was known, that the Israelites delighted to sacrifice in high Places: Insomuch, that when they could not come at them, they sacrificed on the House-Tops, Jerem. xx. 13.

But let us fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they.] For besides that the Syrian gods, they thought, had more Power in a flat plain Country; wherein they delighted: There also they should have more Service of their Horses and Chariots, which could not fight so well upon Mountains.

Ver. 24. And do this thing, take the kings away, every man out of their place, and put captains in their rooms.] He had made the thirty-two Kings, who were his Tributaries, chief Commanders in his former Army: Which his Counsellors represented to him, as a great Error; and therefore advised him to displace them, and put his own Captains in their stead, who would fight better. For they fought for their Country, which the others did not: And besides, the Kings, it is likely, were too delicate to be Warriours; and were not so obedient to Discipline, as his Captains would be.

Ver. 25. And number thee an army like the army thou hast lost, horse for horse, chariot for chariot: and we will fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they.] For his Army they knew would be superior; and they should have the Advantage of the Ground.

Ver. 26. And it came to pass that, at the return of the year, Ben-hadad numbred the Syrians, and went up to Aphek, to fight against Israel.] This was a City in the Tribe of Asher: Which it is probable, was one of those that Benhadad's Father had taken from the King of Israel, ver. 34. Not far from which was the Plain of Galilee, where he intended to fight.

Ver. 27. And the children of Israel were numbred, and were all present, and went against them:] That is, as many as could be got together were numbred, and put in Order to give them Battle.

And the children of Israel pitched before them, like two little flocks of kids; but the Syrians filled the country.] The Hebrew Word Chasiph is no where found, but in this Place; which Kimchi and others translate, a little Flock. But there is no need to add the Word little: For the Flocks of Goats are always small; never so great as those of Sheep. For they love to ramble, and are scattered up and down, as Bochartus observes; who translates these Words, two flocks of young Kids; denoting their contemptible Number, and that they were weak, feeble, and timorous, like those fugacious Creatures, as he speaks, Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 51.

Ver. 28. And there came a man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said, Thus saith the LORD, because the Syrians have said, the LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys: therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the LORD,] This Man of God, the Jews say, was the Prophet Micaiah.

Ver. 29. And they pitched one over against the other seven days; and so it was, that on the seventh day the battle was joined:] It may seem strange that they should look upon one another so ſo long, and watch for Advantages, without coming to any Action: For the Syrians had ſo much Advantage in their Numbers, that one would think they ſhould have immediately incompaſſed the Iſraelites, and deſtroyed them all. But, perhaps, the Iſraelites, were pitched upon a riſing Ground, and the Syrians durſt not attack them, 'till they came down into the Plain.

And the children of Iſrael ſlew of the Syrians an hundred thouſand footmen in one day.] In all Probability they ſurprized them, by a ſudden unexpected Aſſault: And God diſmayed them, and ſtruck ſuch a Terror into them, that they could make no Reſiſtance.

Ver. 30. And the reſt fled to Aphek, into the city; and there a wall fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand of the men that were left:] The Wall of the City, under which they lay, to be ready to defend it, fell down; either by the Iſraelites Batteries, or by an Earthquake; and killed, or maimed a great Number of them that fled thither for Safety.

And Ben-hadad fled into the city, into an inner chamber.] In the Hebrew the Words are, into a Chamber within a Chamber; that is, into a very ſecret Place, where he thought he ſhould not be eaſily found.

Ver. 31. And his ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold now, we have heard that the kings of Iſrael are merciful kings:] Better-natured than other Kings unto thoſe who were in Diſtreſs; they retaining ſtill ſomething of the Temper of that good King David; who was full of Humanity and Tenderneſs, unto which true Religion diſpoſes Men above all other things.

Let us, I pray thee,] One of his principal Courtiers ſpake this in the Name of the reſt.

Put ſackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads, and go out to the king of Iſrael; peradventure he will ſave thy life.] This it ſeems was the Poſture in thoſe Times, wherein Supplicants preſented themſelves, when they petitioned for Mercy; as among the Greeks and Romans they came in a mournful manner, with a Branch of Olive in their Hands. The Sackcloth upon their Loins, was a Token of great Sorrow for what they had done; and Halters about their Necks, a Token of their Subjection to what Puniſhment he pleaſed to inflict.

Ver. 32. So they girded ſackcloth on their loins, and put ropes upon their heads, and came unto the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thy ſervant Ben-hadad ſaith, I pray thee let me live.] He now as humbly petitions Ahab, as Ahab a little while ago had petitioned him (ver. 4.) and he begs of him his Life. Such are the ſtrange Turns of human Affairs, which the ancient Hiſtorians among the Heathen have obſerved, as Admoniſhments to Men not to bear themſelves high in a proſperous Condition, nor truſt to their preſent Fortune (as they called it) not knowing, Quid ſerus veſper vehat, what might fall out before the Day was done.

And he ſaid, Is he yet alive? he is my brother.] He rejoiced to hear that he did not periſh in the Battle; and not only pardoned him at the firſt Word, and gave him his Life; but expreſſed as great Affection to him, as if he had been his Brother. This was Folly, not Mercifulneſs, or Good-nature. It had been enough not to have tormented him: But to let him not only live, but own him for a Brother, was ſtupid Inconſideration. For a Man that lately treated him ſo diſdainfully, could never make a true Friend.

Ver. 33. And the men did diligently obſerve whether any thing would come from him, and did haſtily catch it: and they ſaid, Thy brother Ben-hadad.] They were wiſe Perſons whom he employed in his Embaſſy; who watched attentively whether any kind Word would drop from his Mouth, on which they might lay hold, and make their Advantage of it, before he could retract it. And they catched at the Word Brother, and ſaid thy Brother Ben-hadad lives, and implores this Favour that he may live.

And he ſaid, Go ye, bring him.] This was ſtrange Raſhneſs, to make ſuch haſte, as not to adviſe with his Privy-Council what to do in ſuch a Caſe.

And Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he cauſed him to come up into the chariot.] It ſeems that Ahab was ſtill in the Field.

Ver. 34. And Ben-hadad ſaid unto him, The cities which my father took from thy father, I will reſtore,] The Word Ben-hadad not being in the Hebrew, Oſiander and ſome others think that Ahab, who was ſo kind as to take him up into his Chariot, made this Speech to him whem he came there, that he would not only give him his Life, but his Kingdom alſo, which he had now Power to take from him; and be ſo far from diminiſhing his Power, that he would reſtore all that had been taken from him by his Father. Which ſenſeleſs Kindneſs was the thing that provoked God to pronounce that heavy Doom upon him, ver. 42. But the next Words do not well a gree with this: Therefore I take theſe to be Ben-hadad's Words to Ahab, whereby he endeavoured to ſmooth him up and ſweeten him, by offering to become his Subject (as the next Words ſignify) and making Reſtitution of all that had been taken from his Predeceſſor.

And thou ſhalt make ſtreets for thee in Damaſcus, as my father made in Samaria.] Some think by Streets he means Market-places, where Commodities were ſold, the Toll of which ſhould belong to Ahab. Others think he means Courts of Judgment, where he ſhould maintain a Juriſdiction over Ben-hadad's Subjects: Others, that we now call a Piazza, of which Ahab ſhould receive the Rents. But commonly Interpreters think he means Fortifications, whereby he might bridle the chief City of the Kingdom of Syria; that they might not make new Irruptions into the Land of Iſrael. Cittadels as we now ſpeak, to keep them in Awe, and to be a Check to them, if they attempted any thing deſtructive to the Iſraelites: Yet after all, Gotf. Vallandus hath ſaid a great deal to prove that the Hebrew Word ſignifies Palaces, which he being allowed to build, was a great Token of Subjection. We do not read of any ſuch thing that that were built by the Syrian Kings in Samaria: Nor of any Cities they took from the Iſraelites; unleſs thoſe taken from Baaſha, xv. 20. who was not Ahab's Father.

Then ſaid Ahab, I will ſend thee away with this covenant; ſo he made a covenant with him, and ſent him away.] Wherein he diſcovered his great Weakneſs: For his Covenant was ſoon broken, as we read in the laſt Chapter of this Book.

Ver. 35. And a certain man of the ſons of the prophets,] This the Jews will ſtill have to be Micaiah: Which is not likely, for he is called a Prophet of the LORD, not one of the Sons of the Prophets.

Said unto his neighbour in the word of the LORD, Smite me, I pray thee,] He bad him give him ſuch a Blow, as might wound him, ver. 37.

And the man refuſed to ſmite him.] Becauſe it looked like Inhumanity, to ſtrike an innocent Perſon, who had done him no Wrong.

Ver. 35. Then ſaid he unto him, Becauſe thou haſt not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as ſoon as thou art departed from me, a lion ſhall ſlay thee.] This may ſeem too ſevere a Puniſhment 'till theſe two things be conſidered. Firſt, that the Prophet commanded him to ſmite him, and that by the Word of the LORD. Not of his own Will, and from his proper private Motion; but God required it. As if he had ſaid (ſo Theodoret gloſſes on it) οὐκ ἐγώ σοι, &c. It is not I that require this of thee, but the Spirit that is within me. And accordingly the Puniſhment was inflicted, becauſe he obeyed not the voice of the LORD. And Secondly, the Prophet commanded this in God's Name, not to an ordinary Man, but El Reehu: Which ſhould not be tranſlated to his Neighbonr, but, as St Hierom, to his Companion. And ſo the Targum and other ancient Interpreters, to his Fellow: That is, a Prophet bred in the ſame School with himſelf: Who well underſtood the Weight of theſe Words, I command thee in the Name of the LORD.

And as ſoon as he was departed from him, a lion found him and ſlew him.] The Jews ſay in the Title Sanhedrin, and other Places, that ſome Prophets were put to Death by the Hand of Man, and others by the Hand of God. They that propheſied what they were not told by God, or they that propheſied in the Name of Idols, were to be put to Death by the Judges. But they who concealed their Prophecy, or rejected a Prophecy, their Death was by the Hand of God.

Ver. 37. Then he found another man, and ſaid, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man ſmote him, ſo that in ſmiting he wounded him.] The Intention of this was that he might find the freer Acceſs to Ahab, as a Soldier well deſerving; and that he might the better feign his Story: For in ſuch a Matter the King was not to be dealt withal in downright Words.

Ver. 38. And the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way, and diſguiſed himſelf, with aſhes upon his face.] As a Man in a very mournful Condition. The Hebrews underſtand it, that he covered his Face with a Vail, or an Handkerchief, or bound it about with a Fillet (for one cannot tell how Aſhes ſhould cover it) in token that he was wounded. So that the King could not know who he was. See Bochart his Canaan, Lib. 2. Chap. 8.

Ver. 39. And as the king paſſed by, he cried to the king: and ſaid, Thy ſervant went out into the midſt of the battle,] He pretended that he had adventured his Life in the late Fight; being engaged in the hotteſt Service.

And behold, a man turned aſide, and brought a man unto me, and ſaid, Keep this man. If by any means he be miſſing, then thy life ſhall be for his life; or elſe thou ſhalt pay a talent of ſilver.] He pretended, I ſuppoſe, that his Captain having a Priſoner of great Quality, charged him with him; telling him that he ſhould be anſwerable for him with his Life, if he let him eſcape; or redeem his Life with a greater Sum of Money than he was able to pay.

Ver. 40. And as thy ſervant was buſy here and there,] Endeavouring, in the Fight, to do the beſt Service he was able every where.

He was gone.] In the Hebrew, he could not be found.

And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto him, So ſhall thy judgment be; thy ſelf haſt decided it.] Thou haſt pronounced thy own Sentence; according to your Agreement, ſo ſhalt thou ſuffer. He had forgot how he diſmiſſed a greater Perſon willingly, elſe he could not have been ſo hard-hearted as to condemn one that had offended unwillingly. But he ſoon made him think of it.

Ver. 41. And he haſted and took away the aſhes from his face,] Threw away his Diſguiſe immediately; by pulling off the Cloth wherein his Face was wrapped.

And the king of Iſrael diſcovered him, that he was of the prophets.] Some of the By-ſtanders perhaps knew him, when they ſaw his bare Face. Or, by the very Motion of his Eyes before he ſpake (which he did immediately) he ſufficiently diſcovered what he was.

Ver. 42. And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Becauſe thou haſt let a man go out of thy hand, whom I appointed to utter deſtruction,] For the Battle was the LORD's; and the Victory being obtained purely by the Divine Power, and the ſingular Favour of God, Ahab ought not to have reſolved how to diſpoſe of Ben-hadad without God's Leave; but have conſulted him (who had put him into his Hands) what he would have done with him: For he was God's Priſoner; who was to have his Part of the Spoil, which he would pleaſe to chooſe.

Therefore thy life ſhall go for his life, and thy people for his people.] The former Part of this Decree of God was fulfilled three Years after, when Ahab was killed in a Battle againſt the Syrians, xxii. 1, 2, 3, 4, &c. But the latter Part was deferred 'till the Reign of Hazael, who fulfilled it by the Wars he had with the Iſraelites, 2 Kings x. 32, 33.

Ver. 43. And the king of Iſrael went to his houſe heavy and diſpleaſed: and came to Samaria.] This heavy Sentence turned all their Joy for the late Victory, into Mourning: Ahab being much troubled for what he had done, and for what he was like to ſuffer.

CHAP. XXI.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel,] After all thoſe wonderful things which God had done, in giving ſuch Victories to Ahab, he coveted the Vineyard of a Neighbour of his. Which is peculiarly noted, as Abarbinel thinks, to have followed the foregoing Hiſtory, to ſet forth the extream great Wickedneſs of Ahab: Who ſpared Ben-hadad, as Saul did Agag King of the Amalekites, and killed Naboth, that he might get his Vineyards. This was an high Aggravation of his Crime, that he baſely murdered a juſt Iſraelite, and let an impious enemy eſcape.

Hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.] Not far from it, if not adjoining to it: Being planted on the ſame riſing Ground, whereon the Palace ſtood; for Vines throve beſt in Mountainous Places.

Ver. 2. And Ahab ſpake unto Naboth, ſaying, Give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs,] For a Flower-Garden, as ſome underſtand it.

Becauſe it is near my houſe, and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it: or if it ſeem good to thee, I will give the worth of it in money.] This was a fair Propoſal; but the Law was againſt it.

Ver. 3. And Naboth ſaid to Ahab, The LORD forbid it me, that I ſhould give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.] As it is natural to all Men to value and love the ancient Poſſeſſions that have been in their Family; ſo the Law of Moſes prohibited the Alienation of Lands, from one Tribe or Family to another, unleſs a Man was reduced to Poverty; in which caſe he might ſell it 'till the Jubilee; but then it was to return to him. See Levit. xxv. 15, 25, 28. Now as Naboth was in no need, ſo he conſidered that if he ſhould, out of Reſpect to the King, and meerly to do him a Pleaſure, part with his Vineyard, he ſhould never get it out of his Hands at the Jubilee; being made part of the Ground belonging to the Royal Palace. This makes it probable that Naboth was one of the Seven Thouſand, who obſerved the Law ſtrictly.

Ver. 4. And Ahab came to his houſe, heavy and diſpleaſed,] Juſt as he had done, after the Prophet had pronounced the ſevere Sentence againſt him, xx. 43.

Becauſe of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had ſpoken unto him: for he had ſaid, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers:] Made him a peremptory Denial; which he could not bear.

And he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no bread.] He was ſo vexed to be denied by a Subject, that he fell into ſuch a Paſſion, as made him ſick, and took away his Stomach, and made Company unacceptable to him. In ſhort, he was very melancholy.

Ver. 5. And Jezebel his wife came to him, and ſaid, Why is thy ſpirit ſo ſad, that thou eateſt no bread?] She ſoon found his Mind was more out of Order than his Body; and therefore deſired to know what had diſturbed him.

Ver. 6. And he ſaid, Becauſe I ſpake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and ſaid unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or elſe if it pleaſe thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he anſwered, I will not give thee my vineyard.] He doth not acquaint her with his Reaſon; but reports his Anſwer, as if he gave him a ſurly Refuſal. Which was far otherwiſe; Naboth repreſenting it as a Religious Duty (ver. 3.) founded upon the Law of God, not to part with the Inheritance of his Fathers, which was allotted to them by Joſhua; never to be alienated. For in truth they that poſſeſſed them were only Uſufructuaries (i. e. enjoyed the Profits of them) God himſelf being the true Proprietor, Levit. xxv. 23. who charged their Land with no other Payments, but Tenths and firſt Fruits to his Miniſters: After which he gave them an entire Poſſeſſion of it, to remain in their ſeveral Families for ever, without any Alteration; which none could make but himſelf.

Ver. 7. And Jezebel his wife ſaid unto him, Doſt thou now govern the kingdom of Iſrael?] Is this like a King, to torment thy ſelf in this manner? as Ralbag gloſſes. Or, doth it become a King to beg and pray, and not rather command? Thou knoweſt not thine own Power, but acteſt like a Minor, who hath no Authority. Or, as Abarbinel underſtands it, Canſt thou expect things ſhould go well in thy Kingdom, if thou haſt neither Will nor Power to do any thing, in ſuch a ſmall Matter as this?

Ariſe, and eat bread, and let thy heart be merry, and I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.] She would not have him trouble himſelf; but leave her to accompliſh his Deſires.

Ver. 8. So ſhe wrote letters in Ahabs name, and ſealed them with his ſeal,] Theſe Seals were wont to be worn upon one of the Fingers of their Hand (Jerem. xxii. 24.) and never to be taken off Night nor Day, but when they uſed them. Which ſhews ſhe was an audacious Woman, that durſt ſteal this from Ahab's Finger (for it doth not appear he knew of theſe Letters) and write what ſhe pleaſed in his Name; that is, uſe his Kingly Authority to what Purpoſes ſhe thought good.

And ſent the letters unto the elders, and to the nobles that were in his city dwelling with Naboth.] The Iſraelites, it ſeems, after their Separation from Judah, kept up the civil Polity which was ordained by Moſes (though they forſook his Religion) having Elders and Judges in their ſeveral Cities, as they had here at Jezreel: Where they had not only Elders, but alſo Nobles: That is, Captains of Thouſands, and Hundreds, as Bon. Bertram obſerves, Cap. 12. de Repub. Judaica.

Ver. 9. And ſhe wrote in the letters, ſaying, Proclaim a faſt,] As if there had been ſome grievous Crime committed, or ſome great Calamity had befallen them; which all the People were to bewail, and purge themſelves from that Sin, leſt they alſo ſhould become guilty. And conſequently they were to ſee the Crime puniſhed very ſeverely: For ſuch Days of Faſting were ſpent in puniſhing Offences, and doing Juſtice, and praying to God for Pardon. Some aſk where it was kept? And Vitringa thinks it might poſſibly be in the very Streets of the City: Where Ezra kept his Faſt, Nehem. viii. 1, 2, 3.

And ſet Naboth up on high among the people:] In this religious Aſſembly of the People. For he being a Perſon of an illuſtrious Houſe (as Joſephus reports) was ordered to be ſet in an honourable Place: That ſo it might not be thought they condemned him out of Hatred, but with Grief and Reſpect to his Perſon; being conſtrained meerly by the Evidence given againſt him. Yet, others will have it, that the Reaſon he was ſet in an eminent Place, was only becauſe all People accuſed and arraigned were wont ſo to appear before the Judges; that all the People might ſee them, and hear what was alledged againſt them, and the Proofs of it, and their Defence.

Ver. 10. And ſet two men of Belial] Men of no Conſcience, that would ſwear any thing for Money.

Before him, to bear witneſs againſt him, ſaying,] Such was the Roman Cuſtom alſo (which was moſt rational) that the Accuſed ſhould have the Accuſers Face to Face: As Feſtus ſaith, Acts xxv. 16. But ſome think that ſhe need not have put her ſelf to this Trouble, of proceeding in ſuch a formal manner againſt Naboth in a Court of Juſtice; for by the Jus Regium mentioned by Samuel (1. viii. 14.) ſhe might have taken his Vineyard from him, by Ahab's abſolute Power. But that is a great Miſtake; for Samuel only meant, that their Kings would take the Fruits of their Vineyard upon Occaſion for their Uſe; but not the Poſſeſſion of the Vineyards themſelves; for ſo all the Land might have become the King's: And that Jus Regium Joſephus calls a meer Tyranny.

Thou didſt blaſpheme God and the king:] The Hebrews ſo much abhorred this Crime of Blaſphemy, that they would not expreſs it by its proper Name; but ſaid Bleſs, inſtead of Curſe; as here and in the Book of Job. Now it was Death by the Law of Moſes to blaſpheme God, Levit. xxiv. 16. and by Cuſtom it was Death to blaſpheme the King, which is forbidden in thoſe Words, Exod. xxii. 28. And perhaps they might ſtretch that Law hither, which forbad any Man upon Pain of Death, to curſe his Father or his Mother, Exod. xxi. 17. For the Prince is the Father of his Country. But, to make all ſure, they accuſed Naboth of both, of Treaſon againſt God, and againſt the King; that ſo the People might be the better ſatisfied, to ſee him ſtoned. But there is this Difference to be obſerved between theſe two: That if a Man had only blaſphemed God, he was to be tried by the great Court at Jeruſalem (as the Hebrew Doctors tell us) and his Goods came to his Heirs: But when any Man was executed for Treaſon againſt the King, his Eſtate went to the Exchequer, being forfeited to him againſt whom the Offence was committed. And therefore it was that they accuſed Naboth of this Crime, on purpoſe that his Eſtate might be confiſcated, and Ahab enjoy his Vineyard. Aud they accuſed him of Blaſphemy againſt God for other Reaſons: That Juſtice might be done the ſooner upon him; or, as the Talmudiſts ſpeak, to increaſe their Indignation. See Selden de Succeſſionibus, Cap. 25. Fol. 87, 88.

And then carry him out,] Not meerly out of the Aſſembly, but out of the City, ver. 13. For in the Wilderneſs, and before the Conqueſt of Canaan, they executed Puniſhments without the Camp, Levit. xxiv. 23. Joſh. vii. 24. and afterwards without the Gate of the City: Whereby they intended to teſtify that they would take the Evil out of the midſt of them, and not ſuffer Wickedneſs to remain among them. So it is explained, ver. 13. See Grotius Matth. xxvii. 32.

And ſtone him that he may die.] For this was the Puniſhment of Blaſphemy: As we ſee by their Attempt to ſtone our Saviour, and their killing St Stephen in this manner.

Concerning this Puniſhment, ſee the Sanhedrin, Cap. 6.

Ver. 11. And the men of the city, even the elders, and the nobles, who were the inhabitants of his city,] The principal Inhabitants.

Did as Jezebel had ſent unto them, and as ſhe had written in the letters which ſhe had ſent unto them.] Perhaps ſhe ſent private Meſſengers to tell them by Word of Mouth, what ſhe expected from them, and how ſhe would reward them; as well as publick Letters to authorize what they did. And Princes never want Inſtruments to execute their Pleaſure. But it is much there ſhould be none among the Judges, and great Men, that abhorred ſuch Villany: Which argues the great Corruption of their Manners by Idolatry.

Ver. 12. They proclaimed a faſt, and ſet Naboth on high among the people.

Ver. 13. And there came in two men, children of Belial, and ſat before him:] As the Witneſſes uſed to do in Courts of Judgment; teſtifying to his Face the Truth of the Accuſation brought againſt him.

And the men of Belial witneſſed againſt him, even againſt Naboth, in the preſence of the people, ſaying, Naboth did blaſpheme God and the king.] This ſignifies no more, but that they had the Impudence publickly to teſtify a Falſity. Though Bertram in the Book before-mentioned, Cap. 12. from theſe Words in the preſence of the people, argues, Poteſtatem Populi, the Power of the People in this Kingdom: Becauſe theſe ſuborned Witneſſes gave their Teſtimony before them. So that it was a mixed Government, like ours, conſiſting of the Power of the King, of the Nobles, and of the People. If this be true, it argues all the People of that Place to be very wicked; in that none of them excepted againſt the Teſtimony of ſuch Perſons, which ought not (as Maimonides obſerves) to have been admitted.

Then they carried him forth out of the city, and ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died.] And his Sons with him, as many gather from 2 Kings ix. 26. they being condemned as Acceſſories to his Crime.

Ver. 14. Then they ſent to Jezebel, ſaying, Naboth is ſtoned, and is dead.] They knew that the Order came from her; and therefore let her know they had obeyed it.

Ver. 15. And it came to paſs, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was ſtoned, and was dead, that Jezebel ſaid to Ahab, Ariſe, take poſſeſſion of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refuſed to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.] But by what Title did he take Poſſeſſion? The Hebrews, I obſerved before, think it was by the right of Confiſcation; which was practiſed in all ſuch Crimes againſt the King. See upon 2 Sam. ix. 7. and Grotus upon Joſh. i. 18. and upon this Place. Though others think, he took Poſſeſſion for want of Heirs; his Children being condemned with him.

Ver. 16. And it came to paſs, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab roſe up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take poſſeſſion of it.] He could not but know how Naboth died; and therefore by this conſented to that Wickedneſs, which was committed alſo by his Authority, ver. 8.

Ver. 17. And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying,] Some leſſer Prophets were employed in the late Meſſages ſent unto him, xx. 13, 28, 35. But upon this great Occaſion God ſends Elijah, whom he dreaded, not meerly to reprove him, but to condemn him to a Puniſhment ſuitable to the Crime he had committed.

Ver. 18. Ariſe, go down to meet Ahab king of Iſrael, which is in Samaria:] That is, who reigns in Samaria, ver. 1.

Behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to poſſeſs it.] That he might be ſure not to loſe his Labour, he tells him where he might find him.

Ver. 19. And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, haſt thou killed, and alſo taken poſſeſſion?] He expreſſes in Brief the Barbarity of this Fact: As if he had ſaid, Was it not enough that thou haſt taken away his Life, but thou muſt ſeize on his Eſtate, and go thy ſelf in Perſon to take Poſſeſſion of it?

And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, ſhall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.] He declares the Cauſe of this Judgment upon him, but doth not aſſign the Place; for the Dogs licked Ahab's Blood in Samaria, xxii. 38. Therefore theſe Words ſhould be tranſlated, as the Dogs licked, or in like manner as they licked Naboth's Blood, ſo ſhall they lick thine: Mark what I ſay, even thine.

Ver. 20. And Ahab ſaid to Elijah, Haſt thou found me, O my enemy?] As much as to ſay, Wilt thou never ſuffer me to be quiet? How dareſt thou to appear in my Preſence again, with ſuch terrible Threatnings?

And he anſwered, I have found thee: becauſe thou haſt ſold thy ſelf to work evil in the ſight of the LORD.] They that ſell themſelves, are wholly under the Power of their Maſters: So was Ahab under the Power of Sin; a perfect Slave to his ſinful Luſts and Paſſions, which hurried him into the fouleſt Crimes.

Ver. 21. Behold, I will bring evil upon thee, and will take away thy poſterity, and will cut off from Ahab him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up, and left in Iſrael,] See upon xiv. 10.

Ver. 22. And I will make thy houſe like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah, for the provocation wherewith thou haſt provoked me to anger, and made Iſrael to ſin.] Theſe two Families were utterly extirpated, (See xv. 29. xvi. 11, 12, &c.) as he propheſied Ahab's ſhould be.

Ver. 23. And of Jezebel alſo ſpake the LORD, ſaying, The dogs ſhall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel.] In the Territory where Naboth was judged, and unjuſtly condemned.

Ver. 24. Him that dieth of Ahab in the city, the dogs ſhall eat: and him that dieth in the field ſhall the fowls of the air eat.] See xiv. 11.

Ver. 25. But there was none like unto Ahab, which did ſell himſelf to work wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD,] Made himſelf a perfect Bond-ſlave to all manner of Wickedneſs.

Whom Jezebel his wife ſtirred up.] Which did not excuſe him, yet ſomething mitigated his Puniſhment: For ſhe died more miſerably than he.

Ver. 26. And he did very abominably in following idols, according to all things as did the Amorites,] There was no Abomination which the People of Canaan committed (who are here called the Amorites, according to the ancient Language, Gen. xv. 16.) which he did not imitate.

Whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.] As he intended to caſt out the whole Family of Ahab: Who by God's Judgments upon the Amorites, might have taken Warning not to tread in their Steps.

Ver. 27. And it came to paſs when Ahab heard theſe words, that he rent his clothes, and put on ſackcloth upon his fleſh, and faſted, and lay in ſackcloth, and went ſoftly.] All theſe were Expreſſions of very great Sorrow and Heavineſs; which were uſual in Mourning. And the laſt Words the Chaldee Paraphraſt tranſlates, he went barefoot. But it is rejected by the greateſt Part of Interpreters, who take it as we do, for ſuch a ſlow Pace as ſignified he was reduced to great Weakneſs and Feebleneſs of Body, by Faſting, and Grief; or that he had no Heart to go about any Buſineſs. The Jews tell us in Pirke Elieſer, Cap. xliii. that he ſent to Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, who came and gave him a certain Number of Stripes every Day; and that three Times in a Day. But without this fabulous Addition, here is enough to ſignify that he was extreamly caſt down, and very much troubled; I cannot ſay for his Sin, but for the heavy Puniſhment God had laid upon him. It is likely, indeed, for the preſent he might have ſome Senſe of his Sins; but it did not laſt to bring him to true Repentance; that is, to make him forſake them. For we read not ſo much as of any Reſtitution of the Vineyard; much leſs of his forſaking Idols.

Ver. 28. And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying,

Ver. 29. Seeſt thou how Ahab humbleth himſelf before me? Becauſe he humbleth himſelf before me,] Which neither Jeroboam nor Baaſha had done, but obſtinately went on, without the leaſt Token of Sorrow, when the ſame Doom was paſſed on them.

I will not bring the evil in his days: but in his ſons days will I bring the evil upon his houſe.] Such a Power there is in hearty Repentance and Reformation of Life to obtain a Pardon, that God remitted part of Ahab's Puniſhment, at leaſt deferred it, upon this imperfect Repentance. Which argued ſome Degree of Belief of what the Prophet ſaid: And accordingly it was his Son's Blood, not his, which was licked up by the Dogs in that Portion of Ground where Naboth's was, 2 Kings ix. 25, 26.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſe 1. AND they continued three years] Not compleat, but Part of three Years. See 2 Chron. xviii. 2.

Without war between Syria and Iſrael.] Tho' God was very angry with Iſrael, and intended to plague them by the Syrians; yet his Anger being deferred for ſome Time upon Ahab's Humiliation, Elijah did not cauſe Hazael to be anointed King of Syria, who was to be the Executioner of God's Wrath, becauſe it was prolonged for the Reaſon now named. Thus Abarbinel.

Ver. 2. And it came to paſs that in the third year, Jehoſhaphat king of Judah came down to the king of Iſrael.] For there was an Affinity made between him and Ahab, (2 Chron. xviii. 1.) Jehoſhaphat's Son having married Ahab's Daughter, 2 Kings viii. 18.

Ver. 3. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto his ſervants, Know ye that Ramoth-Gilead is ours, and we be ſtill, and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?] Some think Ben-hadad had not made good his Covenant to reſtore all the Cities the Syrians had taken from Iſrael (xx. 34.) whereof this, it is likely, was one.

Ver. 4. And he ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battle to Ramoth-Gilead?] He acted now like a prudent Man; who, before he reſolved upon a War, deſired to know whether he might depend upon Jehoſhaphat for his Aſſiſtance in it: For his Forces, in Compariſon with the Syrians, were very ſmall, xx. 27.

And Jehoſhaphat ſaid to the king of Iſrael, I am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horſes as thy horſes.] He profeſſes himſelf intirely at his Service; as if they were but one Perſon and People.

Ver. 5. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee at the word of the LORD to day.] But he deſired firſt, that the Prophets who were in Iſrael might be forthwith conſulted, whether God approved of their Deſign, and would give them Succeſs in it. So good Men were wont to do, Judges i. 1. 1 Sam. xxiii. 2.

Ver. 6. Then the king of Iſrael gathered the prophets together, about four hundred men,] Some think theſe were the Prophets of the Groves, who were not ſlain with the Prophets of Baal, becauſe they are juſt the ſame Number, xviii. 19. But perhaps there were Schools of the Prophets kept up ſtill in Iſrael, in imitation of thoſe in Judah, wherein Men were bred up, who pretended to have this Gift. But it is plain they were falſe Prophets; for Micaiah calls them Ahab's Prophets. See ver. 23.

And ſaid unto them, Shall I go up againſt Ramoth-Gilead to battle, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up; for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.] They ſpeak, as if they were inſpired by the LORD, and in his Name promiſe good Succeſs; for they knew Jehoſhaphat regarded not Baal, nor Aſtarte, but only the LORD.

Ver. 7. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD beſides, that we might enquire of him?] He doth not reject theſe as no Prophets of the LORD, though he ſuſpected them; and therefore deſired to know, if there was any other that was accounted a Prophet of the LORD, from whom he might receive further Satisfaction. And indeed it is not likely that Ahab would adventure to ſend for ſuch Prophets, as were profeſſed Servants of Baal, from whom Jehoſhaphat he knew would receive no Advice: But they profeſſed themſelves to be Servants of the LORD; for whom Elijah's late Miracle had wrought in Ahab ſome Reſpect. And Dr Jackſon ſeems to me to have produced a good Argument for this, from Jehoſhaphat's continuing his Reſolution of accompanying Ahab to Battle, notwithſtanding all that Micaiah had ſaid againſt it. Which he would never have done, had he believed that Micaiah alone belonged unto the LORD, and his Adverſaries unto Baal, Book 2. upon the Creed, Chap. 18. paragr. 2.

Ver. 8. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man (Micaiah the ſon of Imlah) by whom we may enquire of the LORD; but I hate him, for he doth not propheſy good concerning me, but evil. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo.] We ought to love thoſe who ſpeak the Truth; not thoſe who ſpeak what pleaſeth us.

Ver. 9. And the king of Iſrael called an officer, and ſaid, Haſten hither Micaiah, the ſon of Imlah.] He would not deny Jehoſhaphat's Deſire of hearing him, as well as others; leſt he ſhould fly off from his kind Offer, ver. 4.

Ver. 10. And the king of Iſrael, and the king of Judah ſat each on his throne, having on their robes,] Their Royal Apparel, and all the Enſigns of Majeſty.

In a void place, in the entrance of the gate of Samaria,] Where the People uſed to meet, and Cauſes were heard by the Courts of Juſtice. See upon 2 Sam. xix. 8.

And all the prophets propheſied before them.] Continued to encourage them in their Deſign.

Ver. 11. And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah made him horns of iron: and he ſaid, Thus ſaith the the LORD, with these shalt thou push the Syrians, until thou have consumed them.] Such was the manner, it seems, of Prophets in ancient times, by external Signs to represent future Events: As Isaiah and Jeremiah continued to do in future Ages, Isaiah xx. 2. Jeremiah xxvii. 2.

Ver. 12. And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-Gilead, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the kings hand.] Every one of them accorded in the same Sense; that he should certainly be victorious.

Ver. 13. And the messenger that was gone to call Micaiah, spake unto him, saying, Behold now the words of the prophets declare good unto the king with one mouth: Let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and speak that which is good.] So mightily did the Opinion of Universality sway with the superstitious People, that the Messenger thought he could perswade Micaiah not to dissent from the rest; lest he should fall under the Censure of Singularity, Peevishness, and Privacy of Spirit. And thus it is in the Church at this Day, as the same excellent Doctor there observes.

Ver. 14. And Micaiah said, As the LORD liveth, what the LORD saith unto me, that will I speak.] He seems as yet to have no Revelation about the matter; but when the Question was put to him, God taught him what to answer.

Ver. 15. So he came to the king; and the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-Gilead to battle, or shall we forbear?] The very same Question that had been asked the rest of the Prophets, ver. 6.

And he answered him, Go, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.] And he gave the very same Answer in the same Word that the other Prophets had done, ver. 12. But spake them in such a manner, that Ahab plainly discerned, he derided and mocked: It being as if he had said, To what Purpose shall I contradict your Prophets? For you have a mind to go, and do so; try the Truth of their Prediction.

Ver. 16. And the king said unto him, How many times shall I adjure thee, that thou tell me nothing but that which is true, in the name of the LORD?] He had not adjured him at all; but now he doth; and would do it again, and again, if he did not speak seriously, and tell him what God said to him: Which Micaiah had not yet done. For he doth not use the common Preface of Prophets, to the foregoing Answer, Thus saith the LORD: Because he did not speak in God's Name, but in his own.

Ver. 17. And he said, I saw all Israel scattered upon the hills,] Routed, and flying from their Enemies, to the Hills for Safety.

As sheep that have not a shepherd:] In a most miserable Condition, as Sheep are without a Shepherd to look after them: They being neither strong, nor cunning, nor nimble and swift of Feet; but exposed to the Injuries of all Creatures, when they are left to themselves without a Shepherd. Which is very often repeated in the Scriptures, as if it were a Proverbial Speech among the Hebrews, Numb. xxvii. 17. 2 Chron. xviii. 16. Zachar. x. 2. xiii. 7. Matth. ix. 36.

And the LORD said, These have no master,] They have lost their King and Governour. Who was represented by the Shepherd beforementioned.

Let them return every man to his house in peace.] All go home, and think no more of War: having lost their Ruler. This was an exact Representation of what followed.

Ver. 18. And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would prophesy no good concerning me, but evil?] He had always been wont to bring threatning Messages from God to him: And therefore was not (as the Jews imagine) the Prophet who brought him that gracious Message, when Ben-hadad treated him so insolently, xx. 13.

Ver. 19. And he said, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD:] If thou dost not delight only in Lies, hear what I have further to say from the LORD.

I saw the LORD sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven standing by him, on his right hand and on his left.] This is a Parabolical Speech, as Abarbinel calls it, signifying that there was a greater King than Ahab, who would judge him according to his Works. And in a Vision he saw him sitting on a Throne, for that purpose, and attended by the Heavenly Host, as Ahab was by his Prophets: Some on his right hand, by which many think he means the good Angels; and some on his left hand, by which are meant the bad, who are the Executioners of his Judgments, when he pleases.

Ver. 20. And the LORD said, Who shall perswade Ahab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-Gilead?] It is not to be thought there was any such Consultation before the Divine Majesty, who should be employed to perswade him to undo himself: But these Representations are contrived to bring down invisible things to the meanest Capacities of Men. Who were to know that the LORD resolved to let Ahab be deceived and perish at Ramoth-Gilead, rather than any other Place: That he who let Benhadad escape, might be punished by Ben-hadad.

And one said on this manner, and another on that manner.] This is said, only to signify that God hath many Ways of bringing Men to Ruin, when he declares it.

Ver. 21. And there came forth a spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will perswade him.] This is not to be understood literally; but that there are evil Spirits who are very forward to entice Men to their own Destruction, and have Power so to do, if the LORD do not hinder them.

Ver. 22. And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith?] God was not ignorant of what he could, and would do: But this is said, to represent more familiarly to vulgar Understandings, by what means Ahab was led into Destruction.

And he ſaid, I will go forth, and will be a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all his prophets.] Suggeſt to them that which will deceive him.

And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt perſwade him, and prevail alſo: Go forth, and do ſo.] God permitted this lying Spirit to follow his own Inclinations, which he knew would have Succeſs, and prevail with Ahab to believe he ſhould proſper in this War; wherein God intended he ſhould be deſtroyed. For the Prophets had obſerved how proſperous Ahab had been in former Wars with the King of Syria: Which made them forward to promiſe the ſame Succeſs in this alſo. And Ahab was as forward to believe it, as they were to aſſure it.

Ver. 23. Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all theſe thy prophets,] They were properly Ahab's Prophets, not the LORD's: Who only employed them to miſlead him.

And the LORD hath ſpoken evil concerning thee.] The LORD hath decreed he ſhould periſh in this War; and in order to it, ſtirred up the Spirit of the Prophets (as Abarbinel ſpeaks) to propheſy according to their own Inclination; and him to believe them, and ruſh into his own Ruin.

Ver. 24. And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah went near,] He ſeems to be the chief of Ahab's Prophets: The Head perhaps of the whole College.

And ſmote Micaiah on the cheek,] By way of Reproach and Scorn, Jerem. xx. 2. S. Mark xiv. 45. and other Places.

And ſaid, Which way went the ſpirit of the LORD from me to ſpeak unto thee?] He was confident he had the Spirit, and could not imagine how it ſhould depart from him, and enter into Micaiah, bidding him contradict all that he and his Brethren had propheſied.

Ver. 25. And Micaiah ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee in that day, when thou ſhalt go into an inner chamber] Into a ſecret Place, xx. 30.

To hide thy ſelf.] For fear he ſhould be ſeized and puniſhed as a falſe Prophet, and the Cauſe of Ahab's Death.

Ver. 26. And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Take Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governour of the city, and to Joaſh the kings ſon:] It ſeems he was in Cuſtody, when he was ſent for by the Meſſenger to come to Ahab.

Ver. 27. And ſay, Thus ſaith the king, put this fellow in priſon,] He ordered him, I ſuppoſe, to be kept a cloſer Priſoner than before.

And feed him with the bread of affliction, and the water of Affliction, 'till I come again in peace.] He would not have him ſtarved, but fed with coarſe Bread, and bad Water; 'till he came home and brought Victory along with him. And then perhaps he intended to put him to Death.

Ver. 28. And Micaiah ſaid, If thou return at all in peace, the LORD hath not ſpoken by me. And he ſaid, Hearken, O people, every one of you.] He deſires all the People to mark, and be Witneſſes of what he ſaid; and take this for a Sign whether he was a true Prophet or no.

Ver. 29. So the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, went up to Ramoth-Gilead.] Notwithſtanding the long Declaration Micaiah had made of God's Decree (which was altogether concerning Ahad) Jehoſhaphat gave ſome Credit to the other Prophets, who ſpake in the Name of the LORD, as well as he. See upon ver. 7.

Ver. 30. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, I will diſguiſe my ſelf, and enter into the Battle,] Like a private Man.

But put thou on thy robes.] Appear like a King.

And the king of Iſrael diſguiſed himſelf, and went into the battle.] He knew they would aim moſt at him, as the Author of this War; and therefore he would not be known; but gives Jehoſhaphat the Honour (as he pretended) of leading the Army, and appearing as the chief Commander of it. But this ſeems a very odd Compliment, to pray him to expoſe himſelf to the Danger, which he ſhunned. Therefore others render it, put on theſe robes (which he then offered him) After my Example, lay thy Cloak, the Garment of a chief Commander, aſide; and put on theſe Robes. For he brought a double Change of Raiment into the Field; that neither of them might be known by their Cloaths.

Ver. 31. And the king of Syria commanded his thirty-two captains who had rule over his chariots,] Which were divided, it is likely, into ſo many diſtinct Bodies.

Saying, fight neither with ſmall nor great,] With common Soldier, or Officer, belonging to Jehoſhaphat.

Save only with the king of Iſrael.] Whom he looked upon (as I ſaid) as the ſole Author of the War; into which he had drawn Jehoſhaphat.

Ver. 32. And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat, they ſaid, Surely it is the king of Iſrael.] Which ſhews that whatſoever his Robes were, he looked like more than a common Man.

And they turned aſide to fight with him: and Jehoſhaphat cried out.] Unto the LORD for Help. Who delivered him, and moved them to depart from him, as we read in 2 Chron. xviii. 31.

Ver. 33. And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Iſrael] By calling upon the LORD for Help; or, perhaps, ſome of them knew him.

That they turned back from purſuing him.] Which was to be aſcribed to the ſecret Providence of God, as Ezra tells us in the Place above named; who reſolved as wonderfully to preſerve Jehoſhaphat, as to deſtroy Ahab.

Ver. 34. And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and ſmote the king of Iſrael between the joints of the harneſs:] The LORD, no doubt, directing the Arrow to that Part, where it ſhould penetrate into his Vital Parts. The LXX, into his Breaſt, through his Lungs; for it entred between his upper and lower Armour.

Wherefore he said to the driver of his chariot, Turn thy hand, and carry me out of the host, for I am wounded.] He bid him drive to some Place, where he might look after his Wound, which was very painful to him.

Ver. 35. And the battle increased that day: and the king was stayed up in his chariot against the Syrians, and died at even:] There was a sharp Fight after this: Insomuch that the King, for fear his Soldiers should run away, would return into the Field, notwithstanding his Wounds, and be supported in his Chariot, to encourage his Army, 'till the Even parted them, and then he died.

And the blood ran out of the wound, into the midst of the chariot.] It could not be stanched by any Means they could use, but ran out of his Body into his Chariot.

Ver. 36. And there went a proclamation throughout the host, about the going down of the son, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country.] I suppose, Jehoshaphat ordered a Retreat to be sounded; and the Syrians, it is likely, were content to be gone, having slain their capital Enemy. By this Proclamation, the Prediction of Micaiah was exactly fulfilled, according to his Vision, ver. 17.

Ver. 37. So the king died, and was brought to Samaria, and they buried the king in Samaria.

Ver. 38. And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked up the blood, and they washed his armour, according to the word of the LORD which he spake.] The Dogs licked up the Blood, which was mixed with the Water, wherewith his Chariot and Armour were washed: The LXX add the Word ὗες, as if Swine as well as Dogs had licked it up. But as there is no such Word in the Hebrew, so neither is it in the Chaldee, Arabick, or Syriack; no, nor in the Latin Translation. And it is very absurd; Swine being not commonly kept in this Country.

Ver. 39. Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house that he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?] It appears by this short History, that he had several noble Qualities in him, and would have been a great Man, if he had not been incurably addicted to Idolatry. But it is not to be imagined that the House here mentioned, was built of Ivory; but only inlaid with it.

Ver. 40. So Ahab slept with his fathers, and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.] See ver. 51.

Ver. 41. And Jehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah, in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

Ver. 42. Jehoshaphat was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem: and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.] The Intention of the Divine Writer of this Book was as Abarbinel observes, principally and in the first Place to give us the History of the Kings of the House of David, with which he begins, and then joins to it the History of the Kings of Israel. Thus having finished the History of Asa King of Judah, he recounts the Affairs of Israel under Ahab; who being dead, he returns to the History of the Kings of Judah, who were the chief Objects of his History.

Ver. 43. He walked in all the ways of his father Asa, he turned not aside from it, doing that which was right in the eyes of the LORD: Nevertheless, the high places were not taken away; the people offered and burnt incense yet in the high places.] This Error was so deeply rooted, that the best of the Kings 'till Hezekiah's Time (as I noted before) connived at it: And a great Man of ours thinks the Prophets accidentally gave Countenance to it. Who had this Power, that if they dispensed with any positive Precept of the Law, that Precept was to cease for a Time. Nor can any other Reason be given of the Toleration of High Places, before the Temple was built, and after that, of Elijah's sacrificing upon Mount Carmel, and the Forbearance of Circumcision in the Wilderness. See Mr Thorndike's Review of the Rights of the Church, pag. 107.

Ver. 44. And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel.] He did not take the Advantage which Ahab's Death gave him, to seize upon the Kingdom of Israel, and take it from his Son.

Ver. 45. Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] See xi. 41.

Ver. 46. And the remnant of the Sodomites which remained in the days of Asa his father, took he out of the land.] He made a narrower Search after them, than his Father had done, who is said to have removed them; but some remained without his Knowledge, xv. 12.

Ver. 37. There was no king in Edom: a deputy was king.] The King of Judah deputed one to govern the Edomites; who was the Viceroy (as we now speak) of the King of Judah. This continued from the Days of David, who began this Dominion over them (2 Sam. viii. 14.) unto those of Jehoshaphat; whose Son lost this Authority, 2 Kings viii. 21.

Ver. 48. And Jehoshaphat made ships of Tharshish, to go to Ophir for gold:] These Ships were not to go to Tarshish, but to Ophir. But they are called Ships of Tharshish, from their Form: For they were made after the Mold of those Ships which traded to that Place. And all such Ships, wheresoever they were built, were called Ships of Tharshish. Thus Abarbinel. Which seems not to agree with 2 Chron. xx. 36, 37. See there.

But the ships were broken at Ezion-Geber.] Before they sailed.

Ver. 49. Then said Ahaziah the son of Ahab unto Jehoshaphat, Let my servants go with thy servants in the ships: but Jehoshaphat would not.] He had contracted an Amity with this King, and engaged himself so far, as to let him join with him in this Navy, 2 Chron. xx. 35, &c. But being better instructed by his ill Success, and by the Reproof of a Prophet, he would not continue this League with him.

Ver. 50. And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers, in the city city of David his father: and Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 51. And Ahaziah the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria the ſeventeenth year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah,] This ſeems not to agree with the Account we have before, that Jehoſhaphat began his Reign in the fourth Year of Ahab, and Ahab reigned two and twenty Years. Now if we take four from twenty and two, there remains eighteen; and ſo Ahaziah began to reign in that Year, not the ſeventeenth of Jehoſhaphat. But this is eaſily and truly ſolved: For the Years which the Kings of Iſrael reigned, are taken from the Years of the Kings of the Houſe of David: So that if any one reigned in the latter End of the Reign of a King of the Houſe of David, and the Beginning of the following Year, he is ſaid to have reigned two Years. An inſtance of which is in the very next Words of this Verſe.

And reigned two years over Iſrael.] Not compleat, as appears from 2 Kings iii. 1. but part of two Years: For Ahaziah died before his ſecond Year was ended.

Ver. 52. And he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother,] Who was ſtill alive, to keep him in his Idolatry.

And in the way of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.] He was in nothing amended, by all that had befallen his Father, and the Family of Jeroboam.

Ver. 53. For he ſerved Baal, and worſhipped him,] Which Worſhip had been introduced by his Mother Jezabel: Beyond the Impiety of Jeroboam.

And provoked to anger the LORD God of Iſrael, according to all that his father had done.] Taking no Warning by the Hand of God againſt his Father, which was very remarkable; nor believing the dreadful Threatnings of Elijah againſt his Mother, and their whole Family.

A

UPON THE

SECOND BOOK

OF THE

KINGS.

CHAP. I.

Verse 1. THEN Moab rebelled againſt Iſrael, after the death of Ahab.] They payed them no more Tribute, but utterly diſclaimed their Authority over them; which they had owned ever ſince the Days of David, 2 Sam. xiii. 2. Whereas Edom (which it ſeems in the Diviſion of the Kingdom, fell to Judah, as Moab did to Iſrael) continued ſtill under the Dominion of the King of Judah, 1 Kings xxii. 47.

Ver. 2. And Ahaziah fell down through a latteſs in his upper chamber that was in Samaria,] By this Latteſs, the Jews underſtand ſome Network that was in the Dining-room; which being decayed, and he leaning upon it, it fell down, and he together with it.

And was ſick:] Was bruiſed, and perhaps fell into a Fever.

And he ſent meſſengers, and ſaid unto them, Go, enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, whether I ſhall recover of this diſeaſe.] Many think this god was called Baal Semin, the Lord of Heaven; whom the Jews, by way of Contempt, called Baal-zebub; i. e. the Lord of a Fly, as a god that was nothing worth; or rather, becauſe his Temple was full of Flies: Whereas the Temple at Jeruſalem, though ſo many Sacrifices were offered there daily, never had a Fly in it; as the Jews relate in Pirke Avoth. But it is not likely, the King of Iſrael would have called this god, for whom he had a great Reverence, by a contemptible Name; which ſignifies therefore no more than Μυῖα Δὸς μυίαγρος, ἀπόμυιος, among the Greeks, which were the Titles of Jupiter and Hercules; becauſe they were thought to free their Countries from Flies, with which the Ekronites were peſtered, lying in a moiſt, and hot Soil, near to the Ocean. Theodoret, Procopius, and others, think they worſhipped this god in the image of a Fly: But the latter of them doubts whether it was the Name of a Dæmon, or of an old Woman canonized for a goddeſs. And after all, Mr Selden thinks the Reaſon of this Name cannot be found.

But the moſt probable Conjecture is, that he was ſo called from the Cure of a contagious Diſeaſe. For Pliny tells us, that there being a great Peſtilence in Africa, which was brought among them by a Multitude of Flies, it was extinguiſhed by the killing of them all after they had ſacrificed to the god Achore. He ſhould have ſaid, the god worſhipped at Ekron; from whence that Word Achore plainly came. Lib. 10. Nat. Hiſt. Cap. 27. And if this was the Original of the Name, it is no Wonder that Ahaziah ſent to enquire of him about his Sickneſs, ſince he was thought ſo powerful, as to cure the Peſtilence.

Ver. 3. But the Angel of the LORD ſaid to Elijah the Tiſhbite, Ariſe, go up to meet the meſſengers of the king of Samaria, and ſay unto them, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron?] There are two Negatives in the Hebrew Text, which increaſe the Senſe, Is it not becauſe there is no God, none in Iſrael? That is do you not plainly declare, that you think there is no God, none at all, in Iſrael? That he knows nothing, nor can do any thing? Which makes you ſend to Ekron, as if there was a more knowing, and mighty, if not the only God there.

Ver. 4. And now therefore, thus ſaith the LORD, Thou ſhalt not come down from the bed, on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die. And Elijah departed.] Unto Mount Carmel, it is very probable: For he was preſently after this ſitting on the Top of a Hill, ver. 9.

Ver. 5. And when the meſſengers turned back unto him, he ſaid, Why are ye now come back?] He knew by their ſpeedy Return, that they had not executed his Command, and aſked the Reaſon.

Ver. 6. And they ſaid unto him, There came up a man to meet us, and ſaid unto us, Go, turn back unto the king that ſent you, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that thou ſendeſt to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron? Therefore thou ſhalt not come down from the bed, on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.] Elijah was a Man of ſuch a venerable Preſence, and ſpake to them with ſuch Authority, in the Name of the LORD, that they were over-awed thereby to obey him, rather than the King.

Ver. 7. And he ſaid unto them, What manner of man was he that came to meet you, and told you theſe words?] He was not ſo angry at them for not obeying him, as deſirous to know who he was that was ſo preſumptuous as to ſtop their Journey.

Ver. 8. And they anſwered him, He was an hairy man, and girt with a girdle of leather about his loins: And he ſaid, It is Elijah the Tiſhbite.] Some think he is ſaid to be an hairy man, becauſe he had long Hair on his Head and his Beard, like the Greek Philoſophers: But it is more probable, it was becauſe he was clad with an hairy Garment, which the Prophets were wont to uſe, Iſaiah xx. 2. Zachar. xiii. 4. St Matthew iii. 4. And indeed the leathern Girdle ſhews what kind of Garment he wore. See Dr Hammond upon the Place laſt mentioned, Annot. d. This was the ſimpleſt, and moſt ancient Garment, and therefore the old Heroes are ſaid to have been cloathed in the Skins of Lions, or Tigers, or Bears, &c. And perhaps, by this rude Habit the Prophets expreſſed their great Grief for the ſad Condition the Iſraelites were in, when they came to call them to Repentance.

Ver. 9. Then the king ſent unto him a captain of fifty with his fifty: and he went up unto him] Not to the Place where he was, but ſo near that he might hear him deliver his Meſſage.

(And behold he ſat upon the top of an hill) and he ſpake unto him, Thou man of God, the king hath ſaid, Come down.] Sent him with an Order, to command him to come down to him. But the Prophet thought he did but mock him, when he called him a man of God, as appears by the Puniſhment he inflicted on him. For it is as if he had ſaid, Thou that calleſt thy ſelf a Man of God, come down, or I will fetch thee. He would not be at the Pains to go to the Top of the Hill; but thought it ſufficient to require him, in the King's Name, to come down, and ſurrender himſelf into his Hands.

Ver. 10. And Elijah anſwered and ſaid unto the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And there came down fire from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.] If I be a Man of God, as thou ſayeſt, but doſt not think, then I am not bound to obey the King, but God, (as Abarbinel gloſſes upon theſe Words) nor am I ſubject to his Power, but unto God's; who will make thee know that he judges in the Earth. And immediately he and his Men were conſumed with Lightning, according to Elijah's Word. Who choſe to deſtroy them by Fire from Heaven (as he goes on) becauſe he had at Mount Carmel called for Fire to conſume the Sacrifice. Which Miracle they ſlighting, and coming now in a proud manner to carry him by Force to Samaria (where he knew Jezabel would put him to Death) he called for Fire to conſume them.

Ver. 11. Again alſo he ſent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty; and he anſwered and ſaid unto him, O man of God, thus hath the king ſaid, Come down quickly.] This Man was more inſolent than the former, charging the Prophet to obey without Delay, and not make him ſtay; or think to dally with him. And by the following Words, it appears, this was the Voice of the whole Company.

Ver. 12. And Elijah anſwered and ſaid unto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee, and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.] He knew that Evil was determined againſt him by Ahaziah, and therefore defended himſelf, in this manner, from his Cruelty; that he might be afraid to meddle with him, when he ſaw the Divine Vengeance ſo terrible againſt thoſe that came to apprehend him.

Ver. 13. And he ſent again a captain of the third fifty, with his fifty; And the third captain went up, and came and fell on his knees before Elijah, and beſought him, and ſaid unto him, O man of God, I pray thee let my life, and the life of theſe fifty thy ſervants, be precious in thy ſight.] He humbly intreated him, on his bended Knees, to ſpare his Life, and the Lives of thoſe that accompanied him, who did not come willingly, much leſs of their own Accord: But were commanded by their Lord and Maſter to make known his Pleaſure to him.

Ver. 14. And behold, there came fire from heaven, and burnt up the two captains of the former fifties, with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy ſight.] He was ſenſible of the Hand of God againſt thoſe that came with ſuch a Command before, and acknowledges he was at Elijah's Mercy; but hoped he would take Compaſſion upon him, ſince he owned him really to be a Man of God, and believed his Power; as appeared by his falling down moſt reverently before him, and beſeeching his Pity, and calling thoſe with him his Servants.

Ver. 15. And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Elijah, Go down with him, and be not afraid of him. And he aroſe and went down with him unto the king.] This is a great Inſtance of the Prophet's Faith and Obedience to God; who he truſted would protect him from the Wrath of the King, and the Malice of Jezabel. Of whom he had great Reaſon to be afraid, having ordered the Prophets of Baal to be ſlain, and now ſent the King an unwelcome Meſſage, and done terrible Execution upon two of his Captains and their Companies. The firſt of which made him fly the Country (1 Kings xix. 3.) Jezabel threatning his Deſtructron; and had conſtrained him to conceal himſelf for a long Time, and not come to Samaria: Which was the Reaſon, as Abarbinel obſerves, that we hear nothing of him in the War of Ben-hadad againſt Iſrael, (1 Kings xx.) nor in the War of Ahab againſt Ben-hadad, Chap. xxii. But now having a Command from God for it, as he had in the Caſe of Naboth, he boldly goes to the King, and confirms with his own Mouth, that ungrateful Truth, which he had already told him by his Meſſengers.

Ver. 16. And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, foraſmuch as thou haſt ſent meſſengers to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, (is it not becauſe there is no God in Iſrael, to enquire of his word?) therefore thou ſhalt not come down from off that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.] There was more Diſcourſe paſſed between them, no doubt, than this: But this was the Concluſion of all, that the Sentence which God had pronounced againſt him, was irreverſible; and therefore he ſhould not think of living much longer, but make uſe of the Time remaining, to repent of his Sins.

Ver. 17. So he died, according to the word of the LORD, which Elijah had ſpoken:] It is likely he told him the very Day, when he ſhould die.

And Jeroboam reigned in his ſtead, in the ſecond year of Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah: becauſe he had no ſon.] Therefore this Brother of his ſucceeded him. Who began to govern in this ſecond Year of Jehoſhaphat's Son; but was King before (xii. 1.) only very young, and as ſome of the Jews think, under the Care of Jehoſhaphat. But Kimchi ſeems to have better reconciled this ſeeming Difference, That Jehoſhaphat declared his Son Jehoram King while he lived, and he reigned with him ſeven Years. The Occaſion of which is intimated in 2 Chron. xx. 3. he gave the kingdom to Jehoram, becauſe he was the firſt-born, and gave Gifts to the reſt of his Sons. Who being many, began to ſtrive about the Succeſſion to the Kingdom: Which belonging to the firſt-born, Jehoſhaphat, to quiet them all, declared Jehoram King together with himſelf, and he reigned with him ſeven Years. When it is ſaid therefore that Ahab's Jehoram reigned in the ſecond Year of Jehoſhaphat's Son Jehoram, the Meaning is, the ſecond Year that he reigned with his Father Jehoſhaphat, who was then living.

Ver. 18. Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaziah which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] They were but few, becauſe he reigned a very ſhort Time; but yet, according to Cuſtom, they were recorded in a publick Regiſter. Of which ſee on 1 Kings xi. 41.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs, when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind,] By a mighty Sound of Wind which the Angels raiſed, who came to fetch him: Of which Tranſlation he himſelf had ſome Notice, by the Spirit of Prophecy.

That Elijah went with Eliſha from Gilgal.] Unto this Place he retired before his Aſſumption to Heaven, it having been (as Abarbinel diſcourſes) a Place of great Holineſs; where the Iſraelites made their firſt Encampment, after they entred the Land of Canaan; and where Joſhua had ſet up twelve Stones, taken out of Jordan, in Memory of their miraculous Paſſage over that River. Here alſo Joſhua circumciſed the Iſraelites, and kept the firſt Paſſover, and ſet up the Tabernacle, and the Ark of the Covenant, which remained here a long Time.

Ver. 2. And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Beth-el.] Another Place in ancient Time very holy, God appearing here to Jacob more than once, Gen. xxviii. 19. xxxv. 6, 9. This Elijah ſaid to try Eliſha; for he did not intend to conceal his Aſſumption into Heaven, and to have no Witneſſes of it. His Humility indeed was great, but it was not fit to obſcure the Glory of God, which herein miraculouſly appeared.

And Eliſha ſaid unto him, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee: So they two went down to Beth-el.] They were not wont anciently to ſwear by the Name of God (out of the Reverence they bare to him) but by ſome leſſer Thing which depended on it; as Joſeph did by the life of Pharaoh; that is, as true as that Pharaoh lives. And Eliſha puts both here together, as ſure as God liveth, and thou liveſt, I will not leave thee. See Grotius De Jure Belli & Pacis, Lib. 2. Cap. 13. N. 2.

Ver. 3. And the ſons of the prophets that were at Beth-el, came forth to Eliſha,] In theſe very corrupt Times, and in that Place where the Golden Calves were worſhipped, God did not wholly forſake the Iſraelites; but continued the Schools of the Prophets among them. For by the Sons of the Prophets are meant the Scholars of the Prophets, whom they educated, and trained up in Religion and Piety: And God, by Degrees, beſtowed on ſome of them the Spirit of Prophecy. This was a great Teſtimony of God's Love to an Apoſtate People; among whom he left Prophets to recover them from their Idolatry. For even in the chief Place of Impiety (which was Beth-el) they were not wanting. And it is ſtill more remarkable, that Prophets of greater Excellency for their Miracles were continued in Iſrael than were in Judah; becauſe they needed them more, to turn their hard Hearts from the Worſhip of Idols; and to ſupport the pious Perſons that remained among them, and preſerve them from deſerting their Religion. For it ſeems to me very probable, that theſe Sons of the Prophets were ſuch Miniſters to the Prophets, as the Evangeliſts were to the Apoſtles: Whom the Prophets ſent to publiſh their Prophecies and Inſtructions to the People, where they could not go themſelves. And perhaps they taught them the Law of God, and explained it to them; of which there was great need in thoſe idolatrous Times.

And ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter from thy head to day?] It was revealed to ſome of them by God, and they told it to the reſt of the Company of the Prophets. Who allude to their manner of ſitting in their School, when they ſaw God would take away Elijah from his head: That is, deprive him of his Inſtructions. For, it is well known that the Scholars ſat below at their Maſter's Feet, and the Maſter above over their Head, when they taught them.

And he ſaid, Yea, I know it, hold you your peace.] Say no more of it: I would not be diſturbed with the Thoughts of it. Or, let not my Maſter know, that I underſtand it.

Ver. 4. And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Tarry here, I pray thee:] He doth not lay his Commands upon him (as he did unto a former Servant, 1 Kings xix. 3.) but only intreats him, and in a more tender manner than he did before, to accompany him no further.

For the LORD hath ſent me to Jericho.] Another remarkable Place, as Abarbinel obſerves, to which he went: That as Moſes, when he turned his Face towards this Place (Deut. xxxiv. 1.) departed this Life; ſo this ſhould be the laſt Place wherein Elijah would remain, before he left the World. A Place alſo famous for many Miracles done there.

And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.] He hoped for ſome great Bleſſing from him, when he was carried up to Heaven; and therefore continued firm in his Reſolution, to attend that wonderful Change.

Ver. 5. And the ſons of the prophets that were at Jericho, came to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter from thy head to day? and he ſaid, Yea, I know it, hold you your peace.] Here was another School, where the ſame Holy Spirit revealed the Mind of God to them; as it had done at Beth-el. And it is a probable Opinion of Kimchi, who affirms there were the like Schools in other Cities of Iſrael.

Ver. 6. And Elijah ſaid unto him, Tarry here, I pray thee, for the LORD had ſent me unto Jordan.] Another Place, where God had wrought great Wonders. Not far from which, as Kimchi notes, the great Prophet Moſes died; and therefore God intended to tranſlate Elijah near to this Place.

And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.] From Jericho, to the River Jordan.

Ver. 7. And fifty men of the ſons of the prophets went, and ſtood to view afar off:] They were confident the Time of his Aſſumption drew near, and were very deſirous, if it were poſſible, to ſee the manner of it: But were not admitted to accompany him to the Place, where he was taken up to Heaven, as Eliſha did; for they took this View at Jericho, ver. 15.

And they two ſtood by Jordan.] The reſt being forbidden, I ſuppoſe, to go thither with him.

Ver. 8. And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapt it together,] This Mantle of his is mentioned five times in theſe Books, thrice in this Chapter, and twice in 1 Kings xix. 13, 19. In all which Places it is called Adareth: Which is a Word ſignifying a Royal Robe, as well as a Prophetical, Jonah iii. 6. The LXX in all the five Places now mentioned, tranſlate it μηλωτὴ, which properly ſignifies the Prophetical Mantle to be made of Lamb-ſkin: Being an upper Garment thrown over the Shoulders, and ſome think coming down to the Heels.

And ſmote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, ſo that they two went over on dry ground.] God made a dry Path in the middle of the River, whoſe Waters ſtood on each Side of it.

Ver. 9. And it came to paſs when they were gone over, that Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Ask what I ſhall do for thee, before I be taken from thee. And Eliſha ſaid, Let I pray thee, a double portion of thy ſpirit be upon me.] They are much miſtaken, who imagine he begg'd as much more of the Spirit as Elijah had; for that had been very arrogant. He only deſired to have ſuch a Portion of it, as the firſt-born in a Family had of his Father's Eſtate. That is, as much more of his Spirit, as any of the reſt of the Sons of the Prophets: For the Portion of the firſt-born was double to that of the reſt of the Children. In ſhort, he did not deſire to excel his Maſter, but his School-fellows. See P. Fagius upon Deut. xxi. 17.

Ver. 10. And he ſaid, Thou haſt asked a hard thing:] Such Gifts were rarely beſtowed.

Neverthelеſs, if thou ſee me when I am taken from thee, it ſhall be ſo unto thee; but if not, it ſhall not be ſo.] Mark, this is a Sign whether thou ſhalt have what thou deſireſt, or not.

Ver. 11. And it came to paſs, as they ſtill went on, and talked,] Of the happy State, it is likely, to which Elijah was going.

That behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horſes of fire, and parted them both aſunder, and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven.] Angels appeared before them, in the Form of a bright Chariot and Horſes, running towards them upon the Ground; which coming between them, ſeparated them one from the other. For Elijah mounted the Chariot, and in a great Guſt of Wind governed by Angels, was tranſported into Heaven. That is, ſaid Abarbinel, into the Air: For he being a Stanger to Chriſtianity, could not conceive how an Earthly Body could live among the Cœleſtial Inhabitants; and therefore, according to the groſs Imaginations of the Jews, imagines he is ſtill upon the Earth, in the Garden of Eden. But theſe are ignorant Conceits. The plain Senſe is, that his Body being transformed in his Paſſage towards Heaven, he was carried up to live among the Angels.

The Heathens themſelves did not diſbelieve ſuch things: As appears by the Story of Æganympha, who was made immortal by Jupiter; and of Dryope by the Hamadryades: And Bacchus aſſured Cadmus, that by the Help of Mars he ſhould live for ever in the Iſles of the Bleſſed, whither they ſaid Alcumene was ſnatched up, by Mercury, at the Command of Jupiter, &c. See Dan. Huetius in his Alnetanæ Quæſtiones, Lib. 2. Cap. 12. N. 30.

Ver. 12. And Eliſha ſaw it, and he cried, My father, my father,] So they called their Maſters and Inſtructers.

The chariots of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof.] And he alludes to what he beheld; and very fitly compared Elijah to Chariots and Horſemen, which the Iſraelites wanted in their Armies; but he was inſtead of them by his Counſels and Prayers; whereby they might have obtained great Victories, if they would have been obedient to his Word.

And he ſaw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.] To expreſs his Sorrow for ſo great a Loſs.

Ver. 13. And he took up alſo the mantle of Elijah that fell from him,] This dropped from him as he went up to Heaven: In token of the Spirit that ſhould be given to Eliſha, according to his Promiſe.

And went back, and ſtood by the bank of Jordan:] Whoſe Waters were come together again, after he and Elijah got over.

Ver. 14. And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and ſaid, Where is the L O R D God of Elijah?] That is, let him ſhew his Preſence with me, and his Power, as he did with Elijah. But we do not tranſlate theſe laſt Words exactly, two Words being left out; viz. Aph-hu, which the LXX put into one, ἀφφώ, of which I know not the Senſe. And the Chaldee tranſlate it, receive my petition; without any Reaſon; whoſe Words carrying in them nothing of that Signification. The beſt Account of them is that which I meet with in a ſhort Diſſertation by Joh. Friſchmuthus, De Orig. & Proſapia Eliæ. Where he obſerves, that Eliſha having aſked this Queſtion, Where is the L O R D God of Elijah? anſwers himſelf in theſe Words, Aph-hu, etiam ille adhuc ſuper eſt; yea, he is yet in being. Thus Abarbinel expreſſes the Senſe. Though Elijah be not here, yet his God is. The Servant is wanting, but not the L O R D. The bleſſed God is ſtill preſent, and will ſupply his Place.

And when he alſo had ſmote the waters, they parted hither and thither: And Eliſha went over.] Juſt as Elijah had done a little before, ver. 8.

Ver. 15. And when the ſons of the prophets which were to view at Jericho, ſaw him, they ſaid, The ſpirit of Elijah doth reſt on Eliſha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themſelves down to the ground before him:] In token of their Reverence to him, as the Father of the Prophets.

Ver. 16. And they ſaid unto him, Behold now, there are with us fifty ſtrong men,] Fit to undertake ſuch an Expedition as they propoſe.

Let them go, we pray thee, and ſeek thy maſter: leſt peradventure the ſpirit of the L O R D hath taken him up, and caſt him upon ſome mountain, or into ſome valley.] They had but an imperfect Notice of what God intended, when they aſked Eliſha, if he knew the L O R D would take his Maſter from him. For they imagined he might not be quite taken away; but only for a Time: Or, that if his Spirit were taken into Heaven, his Body might poſſibly be thrown upon ſome of the neighbouring Mountains or Valleys.

And he ſaid, Ye ſhall not ſend.] For he knew it would be to no Purpoſe.

Ver. 17. And when they urged him 'till he was aſhamed, he ſaid, Send.] He was afraid they ſhould think he wanted Love to his Maſter; or, was ſo ambitious to enjoy his Place, and Authority, that he was loth he ſhould be found alive.

And they ſought him three days, but found him not.] In that Time they ſearched every Place, where they thought it likely he might be caſt.

Ver. 18. And when they came again to him (for he tarried at Jericho) he ſaid unto them, Did not I ſay unto you, Go not?] By this he ſettled his Authority, in that he foretold them their Labour would be loſt.

Ver. 19. And the men of the city ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold, the ſituation of this city is pleaſant, as my lord ſeeth: but the water is naught, and the ground barren.] Things did not thrive in that Soil; but the People, and the Cattle miſcarried, and the Fruit fell off from the Trees; as the Margin tranſlates it. Which Curſe, Abarbinel thinks, had been upon this Place, ever ſince the Time of Joſhua.

Ver. 20. And he ſaid, Bring me a new cruſe, and put ſalt therein. And they brought it to him.] He would have a new Cruſe, that had never been uſed; and brought by them, together with the Salt, that there might be no Suſpicion of Fraud, (as Abarbinel obſerves) nor the Virtue aſcribed to any thing that was in the Cruſe before, but meerly to the Power of God. The Jews alſo in Michilta ſay, that his putting Salt into it, made this a Miracle in a Miracle: For it makes Water leſs potable, and Ground more barren.

Ver. 21. And he went forth unto the ſpring of the waters, and caſt the ſalt in there, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the L O R D, I have healed theſe waters: there ſhall not be from thence any more death, or barren land.] He wrought the Miracle at Jordan, as the fore-named Author obſerves, for his own ſake; that he might make an Experiment, whether the Divine Influence which was upon Elijah was derived unto him. But this at Jericho he wrought for the ſake of the Sons of the Prophets, who dwelt there; that they might know the Hand of the L O R D was with him.

Ver. 22. So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the ſaying of Eliſha, which he ſpake.] By this the People of the City (who beſought this Favour from him, ver. 19.) ſaw that he was a Man of God, to whom they owed Obedience.

Ver. 23. And he went up from thence to Beth-el:] That he might viſit the Sons of the Prophets who were in that City, and comfort them for the Loſs of Elijah; by letting them ſee the Spirit of God was upon him. It is very properly ſaid, he went up thither, becauſe it ſtood upon an Hill; and there was an Aſcent from Jericho thither (Joſh. viii. 3, 17.) though Elijah and he, going another Way, are ſaid to go down to Beth-el, ver. 2.

And as he was going up by the way, there came forth little children out of the city,] The Word Naarim ſignifies grown Youth, as well as little Children. For Iſaac, when he was twenty-eight Years old, is called Naar, Gen. xxii. 5, 12. And Joſeph, when he was thirty, xli. 12. and Rehoboam, when he was forty, 2 Chron. xiii. 7. And this is to be underſtood here, of adult Perſons; who had a Hatred to the Prophet.

And mocked him,] By the Inſtigation of their Parents, or of Baal's Prieſts (as they will have it, who take them for meer Children) who ſtirred them up, and taught them to jeer at his bald Pate, and ſo laughed at the Aſcenſion of Elijah.

And ſaid unto him, Go up thou bald head, go up thou bald head.] The Repetition of theſe Words, expreſſes their Earneſtneſs and Vehemence in their Contempt of him. For as Hair was always accounted a ſingular Ornament, ſo Baldneſs was diſgraceful. Inſomuch that Cæſar, as Bochartus hath obſerved, could not bear with thoſe who jeered him upon this Account; and thought it the higheſt Honour the Senate did him, in decreeing he ſhould always appear with a Wreath of Laurel upon his Head.

When they call upon Eliſha to go up, they flouted, as Abarbinel thinks, at the Aſcenſion of Elijah to Heaven; the News of which had been brought thither, and reported by the Prophets of that Place. Which the Idolaters laughed at, and bad Eliſha go up to Heaven alſo; that they might not be troubled with him. This I find alſo the Authors of the Queſtions and Anſwers, ad Orthodoxo, underſtands theſe Words: Which were ſpoken πρὸς διασυρμὸν τῆς τοῦ Ἠλίου ἀναλήψεως, to reproach the Aſſumption of Elijah: As if they had ſaid, λαμβανέτω καὶ σε πνεῦμα, Let the Spirit take thee alſo, and caſt thee upon ſome inacceſſible Mountain; that we may be rid of thee, as we are of him. Reſponſ. 80.

Ver. 24. And he turned back, and looked upon them, and curſed them in the name of the LORD:] This Contempt of him, not as a Man meerly, but as as Prophet, provoked the Anger of God; who moved Eliſha to lay a Curſe upon them, and puniſh them, as Moſes did Korah, Dathan, and Abiram; and St Peter did Ananias, and Sapphira.

And there came two ſhe-bears out of the wood,] Who it is likely had been robbed of their Whelps: Which made them the more fierce and outrageous.

And tare forty and two children of them.] This was done by an extraordinrry Direction of God; who moved the Bears at that Moment to come out of the Wood, when Eliſha pronounced the Curſe, and to make ſuch a great Havock among them, when two or three would have ſatisfied their Hunger.

Ver. 25. And he went from thence to mount Carmel,] Where it is probable he had many Diſciples: Among whom he intended to be a while retired.

And from thence he returned to Samaria.] To teſtify againſt their Idolatry. And it is highly probable, there was a College of Prophets even in Samaria, as there was in Beth-el, and Jericho; whom he went to encourage.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. NOW Jehoram the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, the eighteenth year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, and reigned twelve Years.] Ahaziah his Brother reigned two Years, and began his Reign in the ſeventeenth Year of Jehoſhaphat (1 Kings xxii. 51.) That is, part of the ſeventeenth Year, and part of the eighteenth, which was accounted for two Years. In the latter End of which Jehoram his Brother began to reign: When Jehoram, the Son of Jehoſhaphat, had two Years reigned with his Father. See i. 17.

Ver. 2. And he wrought evil in the ſight of the LORD, but not like his father, and like his mother; for he put away the image of Baal which his father had made.] He did not break it in pieces, as he would have done if he had heartily hated it, but only put it away out of the Temple; being afraid, leſt the Judgments of God ſhould fall upon him, as they had done upon his Father. And the King of Moab being now in Rebellion againſt him, Jehoſhaphat perhaps refuſed to help him, whilſt he was a Worſhipper of Baal. It is much that his Mother, who had brought this Worſhip with her from the Zidonians, ſhould ſuffer him to remove this Image; but ſhe was a little daunted perhaps at their many Diſaſters which had befallen their Family; and was contented with worſhipping Baal in private.

Ver. 3. Nevertheleſs, he cleaved unto the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin; he departed not therefrom.] It was eaſier to remove the Image of Baal, than to put away the Calves; for that was new, but the other had been of long ſtanding; and the moſt likely Courſe they could think of, to maintain the Diviſion of the two Kingdoms.

Ver. 4. And Meſha king of Moab was a ſheepmaſter,] The Riches not only of private Men, but alſo of Kings, in ancient Time conſiſted much in Sheep, and Cattle: Which, I have obſerved before, they looked after themſelves: And their Sons kept their Sheep, as Bochartus ſhews in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 44. And thus the greateſt part of the World lived, during the ſpace of near four Thouſand Years. Which did not hinder them from being, at the ſame Time, a brave and warlike People, as appears by the ancient Romans, who were thus bred; and ſubdued all Italy, and at laſt made themſelves Maſters of the World. For this ſort of Life was the Cauſe of their great Strength, making their Bodies robuſt, and hardned to Labour, and accuſtomed to a ſevere Diſcipline. There cannot be a greater Inſtance of this, than we have in Cato the Cenſor; who paſſed through all the great Offices of the Republick of Rome, had governed Provinces, commanded Armies, was a great Orator, Lawyer, and Politician; who did not diſdain to write a Treatiſe concerning all the Ways that are neceſſary for the improving Lands, and how Stables and Houſes were to be built for ſeveral ſorts of Cattle, and how Preſſes were to be made for Wine and Oil, &c. Inſomuch that any one may ſee he was perfectly acquainted with Country Buſineſs and that he did not write for Oſtentation, but for the Uſe and Service of Mankind.

And rendered to the king of Iſrael an hundred thouſand lambs, and an hundred thouſand rams, with the wool.] This was a prodigious Number, and being rendred unſhorn, made them more valuable. But we are to conſider that theſe Countries abounded with Sheep; inſomuch that Solomon offered an hundred and twenty thouſand at the Dedication of the Temple, 2 Chron. vii. 5. and the Reubenites drove from the Hagarens an hundred and fifty thouſand, 1 Chron. v. 7. For they frequently brought forth two at a Time, and ſometimes twice a Year, as that great Man Bochartus ſhews in the ſame Book, Cap. 46. and produces a famous Place in Pliny, which ſhews that this was the moſt ancient Tribute. For he ſaith in the Cenſorian Tables, all the Rents of the People are called Paſtures, quia diu hoc ſolum vectigal fuerat, Lib. 18. Nat. Hiſt. Cap. 3. But Ludolphus hath obſerved two things for the illuſtrating this Hiſtory of the King of Moab, which ſeem to be very conſiderable. Firſt, That this was not Annual Tribute, but Satisfaction for Damages which the Iſraelites had ſuſtained in the War with them, or by their Revolt from them, as the LXX underſtand it. And then the Word Ajil ſhould not be tranſlated a Ram, but a Weather: For one Ram will ſerve a great many Sheep, Lib. 1. Comment. in Hiſtor. Æthiop. Cap. 3. N. 30.

Ver. 5. And it came to paſs when Ahab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled againſt the king of Iſrael.] As was ſaid before, Chap. i. 1. and here again repeated, only to introduce the following Hiſtory.

Ver. 6. And king Jehoram went out of Samaria the ſame time, and numbered all Iſrael.] As ſoon as he was ſettled in his Kingdom, his firſt Buſineſs was to raiſe an Army to reduce Moab to Obedience.

Ver. 7. And he went] After his Army was raiſed, he went out of Samaria.

And ſent to Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah, ſaying, The king of Moab hath rebelled againſt me: wilt thou go with me againſt Moab to battle? And he ſaid, I will go up: I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horſes as thy horſes.] He returned the very ſame Anſwer to him which he had given to Ahab his Father, when he deſired his Aſſiſtance againſt Syria, 1 Kings xxii. 4. wherein he had been ſo unſucceſsful, that it ſhould have made him more cautious how he joined with his Son; eſpecially ſince he ſeemed to have been afraid to have to do with his Brother Ahaziah, 1 Kings xxii. 49. But Jehoram having reformed ſome things (ver. 2.) it made him perhaps have a better Opinion of him, and by ſhewing Kindneſs to him, he might hope to perſuade him to proceed further. And beſides, the Moabites had lately invaded his Country, 2 Chron. xx. 1, 10. which might move him to embrace an Opportunity to chaſtiſe them for it.

Ver. 8. And he ſaid, Which way ſhall we go up?] Jehoſhaphat having agreed to join with him, it is likely the King of Iſrael aſked this Queſtion, and Jehoſhaphat made the following Anſwer.

And he anſwered, the way through the wilderneſs of Edom.] Which he choſe, becauſe he would have the Aſſiſtance of the Edomites, who were his Tributaries. And it is probable Moab was but weakly fortified on that ſide.

Ver. 9. So the king of Iſrael went, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom:] There was no King at this Time in Edom, as we read in the laſt Chapter of the foregoing Book, ver. 47. but a Viceroy appointed by the King of Judah. Yet ſuch are called Kings, 1 Kings xx. 1. See Grotius. And Jehoſhaphat, I ſuppoſe, now required him with his People, to help him in this War.

And they fetcht a compaſs of ſeven days journey:] That they might come upon the Backs of the Moabites: Where they did not expect them.

And there was no water for the hoſt, and for the cattle that followed them.] That drew their Carriages. For either there was a great Drought in thoſe Parts; or they had miſtaken their Way.

Ver. 10. And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Alas! that the LORD hath called theſe three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.] He doth not cry to God for Help, but only bewail the Straits into which they were fallen: Which his own Guilt made him imagine God had contrived for their Deſtruction.

Ver. 11. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is not there a Prophet of the LORD, that we way enquire by him?] This was ſpoken like a pious Man; but it was a Fault that he did not enquire before for Direction in this War; as he did in that with the Syrians, 1 Kings xxii. 5.

And one of the king of Iſraels ſervants anſwered and ſaid, Here is Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat, which poured water on the hands of Elijah.] That is was his Servant, and miniſtred unto him.

Ver. 12. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, The word of the LORD is with him.] For no doubt he had been informed how Elijah had choſen him to be his Succeſſor; and how he attended him 'till he was taken up to Heaven; and what Wonders he had already done.

So the king of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat, and the king of Edom went down to him.] It is uncertain whither they went. But it is very obſervable, Firſt, How much they honoured the Prophet, for whom they did not ſend to come to them; but went to him. And Secondly, How deſirous the Prophet was to do good, in that he followed the Camp into this Wilderneſs. For it is not likely they went back to

Samaria

Samaria to wait on him (where the Story laſt left him, in the laſt Verſe of the foregoing Chapter) which would have been a ſeven Days Journey; and the Army might in the mean Time have been loſt. Beſides, ver. 16. ſhews he was not far from them; and the Servant in the foregoing Verſe ſpeaks of him as preſent; ſaying, Here is Eliſha.

Ver. 13. And Eliſha ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, What have I to do with thee? Get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother.] He refuſes with great Diſdain to entertain any Diſcourſe with him; and bids him confer with thoſe who he knew could do him no Service.

And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Nay:] That is, I will not conſult them; but do thou give us Counſel how we may be brought out of this great Diſtreſs.

For the LORD hath called theſe three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.] Though he refuſed to do any thing for his ſake, yet he beſeeches him to have Reſpect to the other two Kings, who muſt periſh as well as he, if he did not help them.

Ver. 14. And Eliſha ſaid, As the LORD of hoſts liveth, before whom I ſtand,] It is obſervable, that the Sons of the Prophets are ſaid to ſit before their Maſters the Prophets when they inſtructed them, (iv. 3, 8. and ſee the foregoing Chapter, ver. 3.) but the Prophets themſelves ſtood before the LORD, their Maſter, when he ſent them upon any Meſſage. See Corn. Bertram. de Rep. Jud. Cap. 16.

Surely, were it not that I regard the preſence of Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah, I would not look towards thee, nor ſee thee.] He ſaith nothing of the King of Edom, who was a Dependant upon Jehoſhaphat: Whoſe Piety he eſteemed, and had ſome Reſpect to all that belonged to him.

Ver. 15. But now bring me a minſtrel.] One that could play well upon an Inſtrument of Muſick.

And it came to paſs when the minſtrel played, that the hand of the LORD came upon him.] Every one knows that ſome ſort of Muſick wonderfully quiets and compoſes the Spirits, when they are diſordered; and raiſes them when they are flat and heavy. And therefore holy Men did not neglect ſuch Helps to make them ſo ſedate and chearful, that they might be fit to receive Divine Inſpirations. But it is likely he that played now to Eliſha ſung withal ſome Hymn in the Praiſes of God, and of his wonderful Works, whereby the Spirit of the Prophet was ſweetly compoſed, which had been diſturbed, perhaps more than was fit, by his Indignation at the King of Iſrael. And from hence we may conclude there were excellent Muſicians in Iſrael, as well as in Judah, where David had ſettled Divine Muſick in great Perfection. And it is very probable, what the Heathen boaſt of their Muſes, was from hence derived.

Then the hand of the LORD came upon him.] That is, God wrought in him; and he felt himſelf moved by a Divine Inſpiration.

Ver. 16. And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, make this valley full of ditches.] This ſhews they were in a Place where the Army was encamped in a Valley, in which he ordered them to be ſet at work, to dig large Ditches to hold Water enough for them all.

Ver. 17. For thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not ſee wind, neither ſhall ye ſee rain; yet that valley ſhall be filled with water, that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattle, and your beaſts.] The Words belonging to one of our Senſes are frequently applied to another. As to ſee Wind is to feel it, or hear it. And the Meaning is, there ſhould no Wind ſtir to blow up Clouds (as the South-wind commonly did) nor ſhould they ſee any Rain fall; and yet they ſhould have Plenty of Water in that Valley, for themſelves, and all belonging to them. I ſuppoſe it fell upon the Mountains at a Diſtance from them, and came pouring down into the lower Ground.

Ver. 18. And this is but a light thing in the ſight of the LORD: He will deliver the Moabites into your hand.] Of which, I ſuppoſe, they had no Hope, being much diſpirited for want of Water.

Ver. 19. And ye ſhall ſmite every fenced city, and every choice city, and ſhall fell every good tree, and ſtop up all the wells of water, and mar every good piece of land with ſtones.] Prophets were to be obeyed, when they commanded things contrary to a poſitive Precept, as ſome part of this was, ſee Deut. xx. 19. Which they had Power to diſpenſe withal for a Time, though not always, ſo as to annul the Precept, as Maimonides expounds this Matter in his Preface to Seder Zeraim. But ſome think this Uſage ſo ſevere, that they take the Prophet's Meaning to be no more than this; that God would give them ſuch an intire Victory, that they might be able to do all this, if they pleaſed; and the Moabites were ſo ill Neighbours, that it is very likely they did this Execution upon them, ver. 25.

Ver. 20. And it came to paſs in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered,] When the People of God were praying at Jeruſalem, at the Time of the Morning Sacrifice, Eliſha joined his Prayers with them for this Bleſſing.

That behold, there came water by the way of Edom, and the country was filled with water.] Whether it came from a ſudden Collection of a vaſt Number of Clouds, which poured down Rain in abundance in the Land of Edom; or from ſome Rocks which God cauſed to guſh out Water; it came by a miraculous Power, when there was no natural Cauſe to produce it.

Ver. 21. And when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight againſt them, they gathered all that were able to put on armour, and upward, and ſtood in the border.] Intending to defend themſelves; but not to march out of their Country, to give the Enemy Battle.

Ver. 22. And they roſe up early in the morning,] The next Morning, I ſuppoſe, after the Water filled the Valley.

And the ſun ſhone upon the water, and the Moabites ſaw the water on the other ſide as red as blood:] On the Eaſt-ſide of their Country.

Ver. 23. And they ſaid, This is blood: the kings are ſurely ſlain, and they have ſmitten one another: now therefore, Moab, to the ſpoil.] They knew there was no Water there, a few Days before, and that there had been no Rain; and therefore (the Sun ſhining directly in their Eyes, which made it look red) they concluded it could be nothing nothing elſe but Blood. And what Blood could it be, but that of the three Kings Army, who had fallen out, by reaſon, perhaps, of their different Religion; or vexed at the Straits they had brought one another into? And the Moabites eaſily believing what they wiſhed, imagined they had nothing to do, but to go and gather Spoil, and not to fight at all.

Ver. 24. And when they came to the camp of Iſrael, the Iſraelites roſe up and ſmote the Moabites, ſo that they fled before them:] They entirely routed and diſperſed them.

But they went forward, ſmiting the Moabites, even in their country.] But they did not content themſelves with this Victory; but purſued them ſo cloſe that they got into their Country with them, and there made a greater Havock of them.

Ver. 25. And they beat down the cities, and on every good piece of land caſt every man his ſtone, and filled it, and they ſtopped all the wells of water, and felled all the good trees:] According to the Permiſſion given them by the Prophet (ver. 19.) intending, I ſuppoſe, to depopulate the whole Country.

Only in Kir-haroſheth left they the ſtones thereof:] They left no Walls ſtanding, but only theſe of the Royal City; which was exceeding ſtrong. See Iſaiah xvi. 7, 11.

Howbeit the ſlingers went about it, and ſmote it.] They raiſed ſuch Batteries againſt it, that they drove them who defended it from the Wall; and made great Breaches in it.

Ver. 26. And when the king of Moab ſaw the battle was too ſore for him,] That he was not able to defend the Place any longer.

He took with him ſeven hundred men that drew ſwords, to break through even unto the king of Edom: but they could not.] He made a Sally with ſeven hundred ſtout Men upon the Quarters of the King of Edom (which it ſeems were the weakeſt) hoping to break through them, and eſcape. But they were repulſed, and forced to retreat.

Ver. 27. Then he took his eldeſt ſon that ſhould have reigned in his ſtead, and offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall:] Hereupon the King of Moab took his eldeſt Son and made him a Sacrifice before them all, as the laſt deſperate Remedy; hoping thereby to obtain powerful Help from his God, through ſo precious a Sacrifice of the deareſt thing he had unto him. For it is well known, not only by the Holy Scriptures, but Heathen Writers, that in great Diſtreſs they were wont to offer their own Children upon their Altars. Euſebius Lib. 5. Præpar. Evangel. and Lactantius, Lib. 1. Div. Inſtit. Cap. 21. mention ſeveral Nations who uſed theſe Sacrifices. And Cæſar Lib. 6. De Bello Gallico, ſaith of the Gauls, that when they were afflicted with grievous Diſeaſes, or in Time of War, or great Danger, they either offered Men for Sacrifices, or vowed they would offer them. For they imagined God would not be appeaſed, Niſi pro vita hominis reddatur vita hominis, unleſs the Life of a Man was rendered for the Life of a Man.

Abarbinel indeed thinks that he offered the eldeſt Son of the King of Edom, whom he took Priſoner in the late Sally. But it could not be ſaid of him, that this Son was to reign in his ſtead; For the King of Judah made whom he pleaſed his Deputy over Edom. And this would not have made the three Kings withdraw the Siege, but proſecute it with greater Fury. And Abarbinel acknowledges, that their wiſe Men in Peſikta and the Sanhedrin underſtand it as I do: And that ſome of them think he offered him in Imitation of Abraham, to the God of Iſrael, hoping to move him to be favourable to him. Which no leſs Man than Grotius follows. And indeed it is highly probable, that this Cuſtom of offering humane Sacrifices ſprung from the offering of Iſaac, from whence the Moabites, who were Neighbours to Canaan, learnt it.

And there was great indignation againſt Iſrael:] Or, as it may be tranſlated, great repentance upon (or in, or among) Iſrael. That is, they were extream ſorry and troubled at this barbarous Sacrifice, and wiſhed they had not puſhed on the War ſo far; which ended in ſuch an horrid Action, which brought an Odium upon them.

And they departed from him, and returned to their own land.] Hereupon they raiſed the Siege, by common Conſent, and returned home, for fear any ſuch thing ſhould be done again.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the ſons of the prophets unto Eliſha, ſaying,] It is obſerved by St Hierom, that Elijah and Eliſha had no Wives. Et Virgines multi Filii Prophetarum; and many of the Sons of the Prophets were Virgins: But it is plain by this Place that they were not all ſo; but had Liberty to marry if they pleaſed.

My husband is dead, and thou knoweſt that thy ſervant did fear the LORD:] Was a Worſhipper of the true God, and not of Baal nor the Calves: Which was the Reaſon it is likely of his Poverty; ſuch Men being diſcountenanced among the idolatrous Iſraelites.

And the creditor is come to take unto him my two ſons, to be his bondſmen.] Becauſe ſhe was not able to pay his Debts: In which Caſe the Hebrews had ſuch a Power over their Children, that they might ſell them (being looked upon as their Goods) to pay what they owed; and the Creditor might force them to it. And Huetius thinks that from the Jews this Cuſtom was propagated to the Athenians; and from them to the Romans. The Hebrew Doctors have a Fancy, that this Prophet was Obadiah (mentioned 1 Kings xviii. 3.) and that the Creditor was Jehoram the Son of Ahab. Which is utterly ungrounded.

Ver. 2. And Eliſha ſaid unto her, What ſhall I do for thee? Tell me, what haſt thou in the houſe?] Toward the Diſcharge of thy Huſband's Debt.

And ſhe ſaid, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the houſe, ſave a pot of oil.] Which was a thing of great Uſe; both for the Service of God, and of Men.

Ver. 3. And he ſaid, Go borrow thee veſſels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty veſſels, borrow not a few.] As many as ſhe could get, and not ſmall Veſſels.

Ver. 4. And when thou art come in, thou ſhalt ſhut the door upon thee, and upon thy ſons,] That none might come in to disturb her in what she was about.

And shalt pour out] Of the Pot of Oil which she had.

Into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.] And call for another that was empty.

Ver. 5. So she went from him, and shut the door upon her sons, who brought the vessels to her, and she poured out.] Believing she should by this means be relieved.

Ver. 6. And it came to pass when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son,] Who brought her the empty Vessels; for the other Son was employed in setting aside those that were full.

Bring me yet a vessel.] For she was confident the Pot of Oil would still afford more.

And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed.] When there was no Vessel to receive it.

Ver. 7. Then she came and told the man of God: And he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children upon the rest.] We must first do Justice; and then expect God's Blessing upon the Provision we make for our selves and our Family.

Ver. 8. And it fell out on a day, that Elisha passed to Shunem,] A City in the Tribe of Issachar, Josh. xix. 18.

Where was a great woman;] Who had a great Estate, and it is likely kept a great House.

And she constrained him to eat bread.] Was very importunate with him to take a Repast at her House, and prevailed with him to accept of her Kindness.

And so it was, that as oft as he passed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.] She made him so welcome, that he made no Scruple, when he had Occasion to go that Way, to step in there and refresh himself: Which it is likely she invited him to do.

Ver. 9. And she said unto her husband, Behold now, I perceive] By her frequent Conversation with him.

That this is an holy man of God,] Not only a Prophet; but a Person of great Sanctity.

Which passeth by us continually.] For Shunem was in his Way as he went from Carmel (which was not far from hence) to Beth-el and Jericho, and other Places of the Sons of the Prophets.

Ver. 10. Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall,] A private Room remote from the House, where he might retire; and without Noise or Disturbance give himself to Prayer, and Meditation, and follow his sacred Studies.

And let us set up for him there a bed, and a table, and a stool, and a candlestick:] Furnish it with all things necessary for a single Person.

And it shall be that when he cometh, he shall turn in thither.] Take up his Lodging there, if he think good.

Ver. 11. And it fell out on a day that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.] And it appears by the Story, that he became their constant Guest.

Ver. 12. And he said to Gehazi his servant, Call this Shunammite. And when he called her, she stood before him.] Waiting to know what he wanted. But he having been so kindly entertained by her for some Time, sent for her to give her Thanks, and to desire to know what he should do for her.

Ver. 13. And he said unto him, Say now unto her,] He seems to me to have whispered to Gehazi, to ask her the following Question. Whereupon she withdrew, thinking he had some Business with him, before he could speak with her.

Behold, thou hast been careful for us with all this care;] Been exceeding kind to us, in taking care we should want nothing.

What is to be done for thee?] That is, wherein can I serve thee? For he was very desirous, as all good Men are, to be grateful.

Wouldst thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host?] It seems the Prophet had a great Power at Court, since the late Victory over the Moabites. And therefore if she had any Suit to make to the King, he doubted not to effect it; or had any Grievance to complain of, which she suffered by the Soldiers, he offered to get it remedied.

And she answered, I dwell among my own people.] Whatsoever Vexation any might suffer by the Soldiers upon the Borders, she tells him she lived safely and quietly among her Friends and good Neighbours; being so free from Want that she needed not petition the King for any thing.

Ver. 14. And he said, What is then to be done for her?] This Answer being returned to his Master by Gehazi, Elisha asked him, what he thought might be most welcome to her. Which he might easily know, going about the House and observing all things there, which Elisha did not, who lived retired.

And Gehazi said, Verily she hath no child, and her husband is old.] He knew Women were desirous above all things to have Children; which she neither had, nor was like to have, by reason of her Husband's Age.

Ver. 15. And he said, Call her.] This shews she withdrew presently, when he first sent for her, ver. 12, 13.

And when he had called her, she stood in the door.] Either out of Modesty, or Reverence; or being afraid to disturb him.

Ver. 16. And he said, About this season, according to the time of life,] The next Year, after thou hast gone the usual Time.

Thou shalt embrace a son.] From the Word Habeketh, which we translate thou shalt embrace, some of the Hebrew Doctors conjecture that this Son proved afterward the Prophet Habakkuk: Which is a meer Fancy, rejected by Abarbinel and others; who make account Habakkuk prophesied in the Time of Manasseh or Josiah.

And she said, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lie unto thy handmaid.] Do not jest with me.

Ver. 17. And the woman conceived, and bare a son at that time that Elisha said unto her, according to the time of life.] It is likely he named the very Day when he should be born; and it fell out exactly as he had said.

Ver. 18. And when the child was grown, it fell out on a day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.] Either for Pleasure; or to enquire of his Health. This shews still the Truth of of that which I have often obſerved, that great Men in ancient Times (for the Quality of his Wife ſhews this was no mean Perſon, ver. 8.) followed their Country Buſineſs themſelves; looking after their Corn and their Cattle, and labouring with their own Hands for their Health, and the Increaſe of their Eſtates, by their Induſtry in their Improvement.

Ver. 19. And he ſaid unto his father, My head, my head.] Either walking ſo far, or ſtaying long in the Sun (which ſhone hot in Harveſt Time) put him into a Fever, which grievouſly affected his Head.

And he ſaid to a lad, Carry him home to his mother.] That ſhe might look after him, and do what was proper for his Eaſe.

Ver. 20. And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he ſat on her knees 'till noon and then died.] It ſeems he went out in the Morning to his Father, and was ſeized with ſuch a ſudden violent Pain, as in a few Hours killed him.

Ver. 21. And ſhe went up, and laid him upon the bed of the man of God,] Hoping for Help by him, whoſe Maſter ſhe had heard (no doubt) had reſtored a Child to Life.

And ſhut the door, and went out.] Kept it as private as ſhe could, that her Huſband might not know the Child was dead; which would have been a great Grief to him.

Ver 22. And ſhe called to her husband, and ſaid,] By a Meſſenger which ſhe ſent to him.

Send me now, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the aſſes, that I may run to the man of God, and come again quickly.] So as not hinder his Buſineſs.

Ver. 23. And he ſaid, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day? It is neither new moon, nor ſabbath.] It appears by this, that the Prophets were the publick Inſtructors of the People; and their Houſes were a kind of School or Synagogue, unto which they reſorted upon the Days here mentioned, to be taught their Duty, out of the Law of God, and to be reſolved in their Doubts. And the Prophets accordingly were conſtantly in ſome certain Place upon theſe Days, to give the People their Inſtruction.

And ſhe ſaid, It ſhall be well.] In the Hebrew, it is Peace. That is, ſhe prays him to believe that ſhe went for no Hurt; but for his and her Benefit.

Ver. 24. Then ſhe ſaddled an aſs, and ſaid to her ſervant, Drive, and go forward; ſlack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee.] She ordered him to make all the Haſte he could, as faſt as the Aſs would go; without any Reſpect to her, unleſs ſhe called to him to drive more ſoftly.

Ver. 25. So ſhe went and came to the man of God to mount Carmel:] This is a Place which he, and Elijah alſo, much frequented: Which makes it credible there was a School of the Prophets here; it being a Mountain full of Trees, which made it fit for ſacred Exerciſes. As ſoon as Elijah was taken from him, Eliſha fetched a Circuit by Jericho and Beth-el, to come hither; and from thence went to Samaria. For which no good Reaſon can be given, but that it was to viſit the Places which his Maſter had frequented, and inſtruct thoſe who ſtudied there, as Elijah had been wont to do.

And it came to paſs, when the man of God ſaw her afar off, he ſaid to Gehazi his ſervant, Behold, yonder is that Shunamite:] He was ſurprized to ſee her coming at an unuſual Time.

Ver. 26. Run now, I pray thee, to meet her,] To ſhew his Reſpect to her.

And ſay unto her, Is it well with thee? Is it well with thine husband? Is it well with the child?] He bids him make particular Enquiry after all that were moſt dear to her.

And ſhe anſwered, It is well.] Some tranſlate it, It ſhall be well. But there is no need of that. For they were well in part; that is, ſhe and her Huſband. And ſhe did not think fit to tell Gehazi all the Truth; but to deliver it to the Prophet himſelf.

Ver. 27. And when ſhe came to the man of God to the hill, ſhe caught him by the feet:] After the manner of a moſt humble Supplicant; reſolving not to let him ſtir 'till he granted her Requeſt.

And Gehazi came near to thruſt her away.] Believing his Maſter did not expect ſuch Abaſement; eſpecially from her, who had been ſo kind and friendly to them.

And the man of God ſaid, Let her alone, her ſoul is vexed in her:] Do not diſturb her; for ſhe is too full of Grief already.

And the LORD hath hid it from me,] God hath not ſhewn him the Cauſe of it; that he might have prevented it.

And hath not told me.] The Prophets did not know all things, but only what God was pleaſed to impart unto them. See 2 Sam. vii. 3. For the Spirit was not in them after the manner of a ſupernatural Faculty, or infuſed Habit (as we ſpeak) whereby they might act what, and when they pleaſed; Moſes himſelf, the great Prophet, not being able to determine ſome things, 'till he had conſulted the Divine Majeſty, Numb. xv. 13, 14.

Ver. 28. Then ſhe ſaid, Did I deſire a ſon of my lord? did I not ſay, Do not deceive me?] As much as to ſay, ſhe was well ſatisfied without a Son; and did neither deſire one, nor was forward to believe ſhe ſhould have one when freely promiſed: But to loſe him after he was beſtowed upon her, was an unſpeakable Affliction to her.

Ver. 29. And he ſaid to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins,] That he might travel with greater Expedition.

And take my ſtaff in thy hand, and go thy way: If thou meet any man, ſalute him not; and if any man ſalute thee, anſwer him not again:] Leſt they ſhould enter into Diſcourſe, and ſtop his Speed.

And lay my ſtaff upon the face of the child.] He thought it might work a Miracle, as Moſes's Rod, and Elijah's Mantle did: And if the Woman had had a Faith ſtrong enough, it might have been ſufficient. But ſhe diſtruſted it, and would have Eliſha go himſelf. Abarbinel thinks he had no Thoughts of reviving the Child by this means, but only ordered his Staff to be laid upon it, to preſerve him from Putrefaction. Which is a low Conceit.

Ver. 30. And the mother of the child ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee.] This ſeems to me to ſignify, that ſhe did not confide in what he ordered Gehazi to do; but thought his Preſence neceſſary to touch the Child, and pray to God to reſtore him.

And he aroſe, and followed her.] Being overcome by her Importunity, and his own Kindneſs to ſo great a Friend.

Ver. 31. And Gehazi paſſed on before them, and laid the ſtaff upon the face of the child, but there was neither voice, nor hearing:] No Sign of Life appeared, as Gehazi, I ſuppoſe, expected.

Wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, ſaying, The child is not awaked.] He ſpeaks of Death as a Sleep. In which he continued, notwithſtanding he had done as Eliſha commanded. And it is likely that Power was with-held, which might have accompanied the Staff; becauſe the Prophet changed the Method of his proceeding in working this Miracle; when the Woman would have him go himſelf, and did not pray to God, that upon the laying on of the Staff he might revive.

Ver. 32. And when Eliſha came into the houſe, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.] Where his Mother had left him, when ſhe went to Eliſha, ver. 21.

Ver. 33. He went in therefore, and ſhut the door upon them twain, and prayed unto the LORD.] He ſhut the Door, that he might not be diſturbed by any body, in his Prayer to God.

Ver. 34. And he went up,] Upon the Bed.

And lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes, upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands, and he ſtretched himſelf upon the child,] This could not be done all together, becauſe his Face and Body was much larger than the Child's; but ſucceſſively: He laid his Mouth upon the Child's Mouth, and his Eyes and Hands upon the Child's Eyes and Hands; as Elijah had done in the like Caſe, in token that God inſpired his Soul again into him, at his earneſt Prayer.

And the fleſh of the child waxed warm.] Not from the external Heat of Eliſha's Body; but from an inward Principle of Life, which was reſtored, and began to move in him.

Ver. 35. And he returned,] From the Bed.

And walked in the houſe to and fro,] Took a Turn or two in the Houſe to refreſh himſelf, after the Pains he had taken in Prayer, and otherways, for the Child's Recovery.

And went up, and ſtretched himſelf upon him:] As he had done before. For this Miracle was not wrought in an Inſtant, but gradually: By continued vehement Prayer to God.

And the child neeſed ſeven times,] A Sign of Health, whereby his Head was purged, in which his Pain lay, ver. 19.

And the child opened his Eyes.] After his neeſing, he looked upon Eliſha; and it is likely ſpake to him.

Ver. 36. And he called Gehazi, and ſaid, Call this Shunamite. So he called her: And when ſhe was come in unto him, he ſaid, Take up thy ſon.] She came only to the Door of the Room, 'till he bad her take up her Son, and then ſhe came in, as it follows.

Ver. 37. Then ſhe went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed her ſelf down to the ground,] Giving Thanks to God, and to him, with a moſt profound Reverence.

And took up her ſon, and went out.] Publiſhing no doubt, this wonderful Work of God to all her Family; who made it known abroad.

Ver. 38. And Eliſha went again to Gilgal.] Where he was with Elijah, a little before he was taken up into Heaven, ii. 1. For thoſe Places, wherein he had been with his Maſter, he loved to viſit; that he might work Wonders there, and confirm them in a belief that he was a Prophet.

And there was a dearth in the land,] A great Scarcity of Proviſions.

And the ſons of the prophets were ſitting before him:] Which was the Poſture of Diſciples when their Maſters taught them, who ſat above, and their Scholars below, as I obſerved, ii. 3. and ſee Acts xxii. 3. whence Bertram obſerves their Schools and Academies were called Iſhiboth, that is, Seſſions.

And he ſaid unto his ſervant, Set on the great pot, and ſeethe pottage for the ſons of the prophets.] This ſhews that they lived together in Society, and after their Lectures were wont to eat together with their Maſter: Who ordered his Servants to prepare ſome Food for them; which was very plain and common, ſuch as the Gardens, or Fields would afford; without much Labour, and of ſmall Price.

Ver. 39. And one went into the field to gather herbs,] They went into the Fields, I ſuppoſe, to gather what green things they could find; becauſe there were no Pot-herbs in their Garden at home, by reaſon of the Drought.

And found a wild vine and gathered thereof wild gourds his lap-full,] This is thought to have been Coloquintida, which hath a Leaf ſomething like that of a Vine, and purges vehemently.

And came and ſhred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.] Neither he that gathered them, not they that ſhred them knew what they were; but took them to be the Leaves of a wild Vine.

Ver. 40. So they poured out for the men to eat: and it came to paſs, as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and ſaid, O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: And they could not eat thereof.] It was ſo bitter and diſtaſteful, that they concluded there was ſome venomous Herb in the Pot. Perhaps they might know it by the Taſte to be what it was: An Herb that purges extreamly, and is Poiſon, if not qualified and taken in a moderate Quantity.

Ver. 41. But he ſaid, Then bring meal: and he caſt it into the pot; and he ſaid, Pour out for the people, that they may eat: And there was no harm in the pot.] Which Alteration was not from any Virtue in the Meal, but from the Power of God. Therefore the Jews juſtly reckon this as the eighth Miracle which Eliſha wrought, after he was made a Prophet.

Ver. 42. And there came a man from Baal-ſhaliſha, and brought the man of God bread of the firſt-fruits,] This was a ſeaſonable Preſent, it being a Time of Dearth, when Bread was very ſcarce. And it being called Biccurim, (which was the Name for the Firſt-fruits belonging to the Prieſts) it is likely this was not ſuch a Preſent as Men were wont to make, when they came to aſk a Prophet any Queſtion, and to be reſolved of their Doubts (like that, 1 Kings xiv. 3.)

but a free-will Offering for the better Subsistence of the Prophet. Unto whom it is probable, pious People gave that Portion, which was assigned by God for the Priests, to whom they could not now carry their First-fruits, they being in the Land of Judah. And I suppose the Schools of the Prophets might be partly maintained by this Means.

Twenty loaves of barley,] Which were not very large; for then it would not have been a Miracle, that they sufficed for an hundred Men.

And full ears of corn in the husk thereof:] Which being parched, they were wont to eat. See Ruth ii. 15. But Dr Hammond approves rather of our Marginal Translation, and thinks these Words should be rendred, they brought Ears of Corn in a Satchel, or Scrip. See S. Matthew x. Annot. e.

And he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat.] That is, to the Sons of the Prophets, with whom he then was, when this Present was brought to him.

Ver. 43. And his servitor said, What, shall I set this before an hundred men?] Just as the Apostles said unto our Blessed Saviour, when he intended to feed a far greater Multitude, with less Food. By this it appears there was a great many Scholars, who lived in this Community; and that they used a frugal Diet.

And he said again, Give the people, that they may eat:] That is, do as I bid you, and make no Objections.

For thus saith the LORD, they shall eat, and shall leave thereof.] As the Multitude left of the Loaves our Saviour caused to be set before them, John vi. 11.

Ver. 44. So he set before them, and they did eat, and left thereof according to the word of the LORD.] Something like this was done by his Master Elijah, for the Woman of Sarepta, in Time of Famine; whose Barrel of Meal and Cruse of Oil wasted not for many Days, 'till God sent Rain upon the Earth, 1 Kings xvii. 14, 16.

CHAP. V.

Verse 1. NOW Naaman captain of the host of the king of Syria,] Commander in chief of his whole Army, whom we call General.

Was a great man with his master,] In great Favour with him.

And honourable,] In high Esteem with all the People.

Because by him the LORD had given deliverance unto Syria:] He had been victorious in such Battles as he had fought; which this Divine Writer would have the Israelites look upon as the LORD's doing.

He was also a mighty man of valour,] Being the Person (as the Jews say in Midrasch Tehillim) who drew the Bow at Adventure and killed Ahab, 1 Kings xxii. 34.

But he was a leper.] Which did not exclude him from the Society of Men, in that Country, where the Jewish Law was not in Force. But it was a great Blemish to him, and also like to prove deadly; there being no Cure for this Disease, which was very common in Syria, as I have elsewhere noted.

Ver. 2. And the Syrians had gone out by companies,] The Word which we translate Company, doth not signify an Army; but such Troops (or Parties as we call them) as made Excursions and Inrodes into the Enemy's Country, to get Booty.

And had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little young maid,] Young Men and Maids were a desirable Part of the Prey, which they got; whom they sold for Money, or employed them in their own Service.

And she waited on Naamans wife.] Either she was his Part of the Spoil in that Expedition, or they made a Present of her to him (being beautiful, perhaps, and ingenious) or he bought her of the Soldiers.

Ver. 3. And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord was with the prophet that is in Samaria:] The History left him last at Gilgal; but he used to be in several other Places; and when she was taken Captive, was at Samaria.

For he would recover him of his leprosy.] She related, it is likely, the wonderful Things which he had done; and therefore was confident he could work this Cure.

Ver. 4. And one went in, and told his lord, Thus and thus said the maid that is of the land of Israel.] Her Words being related to Naaman, he went and told the King his Master what she said, and begged his Leave to go to the Prophet in the Land of Israel. The following Words warrant this Sense.

Ver. 5. And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter to the king of Israel. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.] That he might honourably reward the Prophet, and those that attended him.

Ver. 6. And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith sent my servant to thee, that thou mayst cure him of his leprosy.] The Beginning of the Letter is omitted, as not pertinent to the Matter in Hand. It is likely it contained the usual Compliments; after which he desired him, together with this Letter, to receive his Servant Naaman, and to cure him of his Leprosy; that is, to take care he might be cured by the Prophet. But this not being plainly expressed, the King of Israel apprehended that the Intention of this Demand was only to pick a Quarrel with him, and seek an Occasion, or rather a Pretence for a War with him.

Ver. 7. And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, Am I God, to kill and to make alive,] He rent his Clothes either as one in great Affliction and Trouble, or (as some will have it) because he looked upon it as Blasphemy, to ascribe that Power to him, which belonged to God alone. For none but he could cure a Leprosy; which he expresses by killing and making alive. Every body, even Beasts, can kill; but when one is killed to make him alive again (thus these Words must be understood in Conjunction) is the Work only of the Almighty.

That this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy?] To cure this Disease was as hard, hard, as to raiſe a dead Man to Life; for the Skin was dead, and the Leproſy fretted and eat into the Fleſh.

Wherefore conſider, I pray you, and ſee how he ſeeketh a quarrel againſt me.] Though he had ſeen what Miracles Eliſha had wrought, yet he either had forgot them, or thought this beyond his power; or was loth to ſee ſtill more Demonſtrations of his power with God; and ſo did not ſend to him upon this occaſion.

Ver. 8. And it was ſo, when Eliſha the man of God heard that the king of Iſrael had rent his clothes, he ſent to the king, ſaying, Wherefore haſt thou rent thy clothes? Let him come now to me, and he ſhall know that there is a prophet in Iſrael.] As the Word Prophet commonly ſignifies a Man that declares things which none could know but God, who reveals them by his Spirit; ſo here it ſignifies a man endued with a Divine power, who could do that which no man could effect, unleſs God was with him.

Ver. 9. So Naaman came with his horſes and chariots, and ſtood at the door of the houſe of Eliſha.] Expecting, I ſuppoſe, that the Prophet would come out to him; or rather out of Reverence to the Prophet, unto whom he ſent a meſſage, letting him underſtand the Cauſe of his coming; for the Prophet preſently anſwers him, though by his Servant, not by himſelf.

Ver. 10. And Eliſha ſent a meſſenger unto him, ſaying,] It is not to be thought that Eliſha took State upon him; but it is to be aſcribed to the retired ſort of Life which the Prophets led, that he did not ſhew himſelf to Naaman. We ſee an Inſtance of this in the foregoing Chapter, where we read that he did not ſo much as ſpeak with the great Woman, who entertained him at her Houſe, and built an Appartment on purpoſe for him; but let her underſtand what he had to ſay, by his Servant Gehazi, ver. 12, 13, &c.

Go and waſh in Jordan ſeven times,] Thus Lepers were ſprinkled, by the Law of Moſes ſeven times, Levit. xiv. 7, &c. But it is plain, by the next Verſe, Naaman expected the Prophet would have been ſo civil as to come out to him, or invite him to his Houſe, and diſcourſe with him: Neither of which the Prophet thought fit to do; partly for a Trial of his Faith, and partly to let him know that this was not ſo difficult a Thing as the King imagined, but ſo eaſy for him to effect by the Power of God, that he need not come out to talk with him about it: Let him but go to Jordan and waſh there ſeven Times, and the Cure ſhould be performed. Jordan had no more Virtue in it (as he rightly ſaith afterwards) than other Rivers; nor was the Earth of Iſrael better than that of Syria (though he begged two Load of it) but God preſided more particularly over this Country, and his Power here appeared: And in this appeared the more, becauſe Water being cold, was very bad for this Diſeaſe: The Root of it being a white watriſh Humour, as Abarbinel notes, which would naturally, by this Means, be increaſed.

And thy fleſh ſhall come again to thee,] For the Leproſy had eaten into it, and conſumed it in Part, as it did Miriam's, Numb. xii. 12.

And thou ſhalt be clean.] Freed from this filthy Diſeaſe.

Ver. 11. But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and ſaid, I thought ſurely he will come out to me, and call upon the name of his God, and ſtrike his hand over the place, and recover the leper.] He was as angry with the Prophet, as if he had ſcorned and mocked him. Firſt, he thought himſelf deſpiſed, in that he did not come to him and ſalute him: And then he thought it a thing ridiculous to go and waſh in Jordan; for what could that Water do more than any other? Thus Men ſlight common and eaſy Things, and admire thoſe that are rare and difficult; and in their Paſſion reject that which God himſelf propounds to them, if it be not agreeable to their Humours, and their Conceits. In which Paſſion, if he had continued, he had been a Leper to his dying Day.

Ver. 12. Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damaſcus, better than all the waters in Iſrael?] The Valley of Damaſcus, which lay between Libanus and Antilibanus, was waſhed by five Rivers; the two principal of which deſcended from Mount Hermon; viz. Abana and Pharpar; the laſt of which run by the Walls of Damaſcus, and the other run through the City, and divided it into two Parts, as Bochartus obſerves.

May I not waſh in them and be clean? So he turned, and went away in a rage.] He did not conſider that he was now under the Direction of a Prophet, who was ſuppoſed to ſpeak from God, who might have preſcribed what Method he pleaſed for his Cure; which was to come from his Divine Power alone, and not from the Virtue of any Water whatſoever.

Ver. 13. And his ſervants came near, and ſpake unto him, and ſaid, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do ſome great thing, wouldſt thou not have done it? How much rather, when he ſaid to thee, Waſh and be clean?] Happy are they who have ſuch excellent Servants as theſe, who both had the Courage to ſpeak the Truth to their Maſter, and the Prudence to order it with all Submiſſion and Reverence. For, My Father, was a Title of Honour in that Country; by which Name they called their Lords: As Kings were called the Fathers of their Country. And theſe Servants, perhaps, had heard the young Maid talk much of the Power of the Prophet, which made them very deſirous their Maſter would not refuſe his Advice; which they urge him to follow with great Reaſon; by repreſenting to him that it was the Advice of a Prophet, who was guided by God to give him theſe Directions. And as it was not fit for Servants to ſay to their Maſters, when they order a Thing, Why ſo? Why not otherways? So much leſs ſhould a Man ſay to God, or his Miniſter, who ſpeaks in his Name; eſpecially when he commands Things that may be done without much Trouble, or any Pain. For if he had bid him cut and burn, as Chirurgions many times do in grievous Sores, he would have ſubmitted to it: And therefore it was unreaſonable not to comply with his Preſcriptions, when he required him only to go and waſh himſelf in the River Jordan, which was a Thing very eaſy, in his Way Home, and would put him to no Pain.

Ver. 14. Then went he down, and dipped himſelf ſeven times in Jordan, according to the ſaying of the man of God:] He ſhewed himſelf a Per-ſon of great Probity and Diſcretion; who was not in ſuch a Rage, but he could hear Reaſon: And did not refuſe good Counſel from his Servants; but ſuffered himſelf to be convinced, and over-ruled, to yield unto it.

And his fleſh came again like the fleſh of a little child, and he was clean.] God was not ſo angry with him, as he was with Eliſha; but upon his Repentance, and Obedience to his Directions, vouchſafed him a perfect Cure; there being no Mark left of his Leproſy, but his Skin as clear and ſmooth, as that of a little Child. This was the only Cure of a Leproſy, that we read of, 'till Chriſt the great Prophet came into the World.

Ver. 15. And he returned to the man of God, he and all his company, and came and ſtood before him:] Now Eliſha ſeems to have admitted him into his Preſence.

And ſaid, Now I know that there is no God in all the earth, but in Iſrael:] He turned to give Thanks to God, as the good Samaritan did to our Saviour; acknowledging the God that Eliſha worſhipped to be the true God, and that there was no other.

Now therefore, I pray they, take a bleſſing of thy ſervant.] A Reward, or rather a Token of his Gratitude to him; for the Hebrews call all Gifts a Bleſſing: The Hebrew Word Barac ſignifying not only benedicere, but benefacere.

Ver. 16. And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, before whom I ſtand, I will receive none. And he urged him to take it, but he refuſed.] He did not think it unlawful to take it, for he received Gifts from others. But he would have Strangers to their Religion know how good the God of Iſrael was; who made his Servants ſo good, that they did the greateſt good to Mankind for nothing. Which generous Piety was apt to invite others to the Worſhip and Service of this great and good God. For it gives great Authority to a Teacher of Virtue, not to be covetous. See Lactantius, Lib. 1. Div. Inſtit. Cap. 4.

Ver. 17. And Naaman ſaid, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy ſervant two mules burden of earth?] As much as two Mules could carry or draw.

For thy ſervant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering, nor ſacrifice to any other God, but unto the LORD.] Though he refuſed to accept his Preſent, yet he doubted not he would preſent him with two Burdens of Earth, which he intended to employ in erecting an Altar, whereon he would ſacrifice to no other God, but the LORD. He judged it reaſonable to have an Altar out of God's Land, becauſe he ſaw he peculiarly dwelt in Iſrael. And though he might have taken enough as he went along in his Way Home, yet he deſired it as a Gift from the Prophet; fancying, perhaps, that he would put a greater Virtue into it, by his Bleſſing; as he had done into the Waters of Jordan: Therefore Ralbag thinks he deſired to have this Earth out of Eliſha's Houſe where he dwelt; and Abarbinel thinks, from under his very Feet in the Place where he ſtood; of which there is no Certainty. But it is plain he deſired to receive it from the Prophet, who had convinced him that there was no God like to his; who had ſuch Power, and made Men ſo virtuous, as to be above the Love of Money.

Ver. 18. In this thing the LORD pardon thy ſervant, that when my maſter goes into the houſe of Rimmon, to worſhip there,] This was the God of the Syrians, but no Author informs us what God this was, nor whence ſo called. Only many conjecture, becauſe Rimmon in Hebrew ſignifies a Pomegranate, that Venus is hereby meant, to whom ſuch Fruit was ſacred. But Scaliger underſtands this to be Jupiter the Thunderer, as they called him. And our Selden thinks it is derived from Rum, which ſignifies high. Whence Heſychius ſaith, ὁ Ραμὰς ſignifies ὕψιστος θεὸς, the moſt High God.

And he leaneth on my hand,] Or Shoulder: Which he does out of State; or perhaps out of Weakneſs, for his Support. In the Additions to the Book of Eſther, mention is made of two young Women that waited on that Quen, upon one of which ſhe leaned, and the other held up her Train, xv. 4. And it was not only the Cuſtom among the Perſians and Syrians, but the Iſraelites alſo, as we read in this Book, vii. 2, 17.

And I bow down my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon:] Together with his Maſter; who could not well bow, if Naaman ſtood upright, and did not bow his Body with him

When I bow down my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy ſervant in this thing.] He hoped he might, without Offence to the Divine Majeſty, whom alone he reſolved to worſhip, keep the great Office he had under the King his Maſter, and conſequently bow himſelf when he went with him into the Temple of Rimmon: He who ſees into the Hearts of Men, knowing it was no Act of Worſhip to that God; but only a neceſſary Reſpect to his Maſter. And ſo the Word is uſed for Civil Honour, as well as Religious Adoration. Thus Lud. de Dieu hath clearly rendred this whole Verſe, In this thing the LORD pardon thy ſervant; when my maſter enters into the temple of Rimmon to worſhip there, he leans upon my hand, and ſo I bow my ſelf (that is, together with him) in the houſe of Rimmon: When I bow my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy ſervant in this thing.] Let him not take Offence, ſince I intend not to worſhip Rimmon; as appeared by his ſacrificing only to the God of Iſrael. An Iſraelite indeed was forbidden to bow before an Idol, whatſoever his Mind or Intention was in that Act: But a Stranger was not bound by this Law, as Mr Selden ſhews the Opinion of the Jews is, Lib. 2. de Jure Nat. & Gent. Cap. 11. Therefore when Naaman went into the Temple, not of his own Accord, but meerly to wait upon his Maſter, and perform the Duty of his Office; ſince he profeſſed himſelf a Worſhipper of the moſt High God alone, and brought Earth out of his Land, and ſacrificed only upon the Altar made of it: All he thought might underſtand he did not worſhip Rimmon, but only payed his Reſpects to the King, when he bowed with him.

Ver. 19. And he ſaid unto him, Go in peace.] The prophet did not condemn this; but bad him not trouble himſelf about this Matter; for he did not offend againſt God's Law, which was not intended for ſuch as he was: Though there are ſome of the Jews who think that theſe Words, go in Peace, relate to the Verſe fore-foregoing; that he need not to trouble himſelf about carrying Earth with him out of the Land of Iſrael to make an Altar (for it doth not appear he gave him any) and ſo left this Matter of bowing in the Houſe of Rimmon undetermined. And no leſs a Perſon than Bochartus hath a large Diſſertation about this whole Matter; wherein he endeavours to defend their Opinion, who think Naaman begs Pardon for what he had done in Times paſt, not for what he ſhould continue to do; and renders theſe Words (as Dr Lightfoot alſo doth) when I have bowed, &c. But this ſeems to me altogether improbable; for then he would not have mentioned what he did as the King's Servant; but ſimply the Idolatry he had committed in worſhipping Rimmon. Beſides, the Oriental Verſions, as well as the Greek and the Vulgar, and the Hebrew Doctors generally, as well as Chriſtian Interpreters, underſtand it as we do, that he ſpeaks of the future Act of Bowing; which being only a civil Action, and he declaring himſelf publickly to be a Worſhipper only of the God of Iſrael, he hoped would not be imputed to him as a Sin. And ſo the famous Buxtorfius in a Letter to Theod. Hackſpan ſaith, Omnes quotquot vidi Interpretes referunt ad futurum, &c. "All Interpreters, as many as I have ſeen, refer "this to the future, and not to the Time paſt: "And ſo doth the Chaldee Paraphraſt himſelf: "And I am very much of the ſame Opinion.

So he departed from him a little way.] About a Mile from the City, as the Jewiſh Doctors underſtand it.

Ver. 20. But Gehazi the ſervant of the man of God ſaid, Behold, my maſter hath ſpared Naaman the Syrian, in not receiving at his hands that which he brought: but as the LORD liveth I will run after him, and take ſomewhat of him.] He ſeems to be angry that his Maſter had been ſo kind to one that needed not his Charity, and was alſo one of another Nation, and therefore in his Paſſion ſwore, he would take ſomething of him. Which Covetouſneſs plunged him into a great many other Sins, as the Apoſtle obſerves it uſually doth, 1 Tim. vi. 9, 10. Dr Lightfoot thinks the Hebrew Text hath divinely omitted a Letter in one Word, that it might the more brand him for this Villany. I will run, ſaith he, after Naaman, and take מומה a Blot, inſtead of מאומה ſomewhat.

Ver. 21. And Gehazi followed Naaman: and when Naaman ſaw him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and ſaid, Is all well?] Behold the Honour he gave to the Prophet, in doing ſuch Honour to his Servant; which teſtified he had a great Senſe of God, and of his Goodneſs to him, in his Heart.

Ver. 22. And he ſaid, All is well: My maſter hath ſent me, ſaying, Behold, even now there is come to me from mount Ephraim two of the ſons of the prophets:] It ſeems there was a School there, as well as at Jericho, Beth-el, Carmel, and other Places.

Give them, I pray thee, a talent of ſilver, and two changes of raiment.] To relieve their Poverty. This was the firſt Fruit of his Covetouſneſs, which put him upon inventing ſuch a wicked Slander of his Maſter. For why ſhould Eliſha deſire ſo much Silver for two young Scholars? Which might tempt Naaman to think, that though he publickly declined to take a Gift from him, yet he ſecretly deſired it. See Dr Hammond on S. Matth. vi. Annot. k.

Ver. 23. And Naaman ſaid, Be content, take two talents, and he urged him.] It is likely Gehazi pretended to keep ſtrictly to his Maſter's Orders, and would have but one, 'till Naaman's Generoſity preſſed and overcame him to take more.

And he bound two talents of ſilver in two bags, with two changes of raiment, and laid them upon two of his ſervants, and they bare them before him.] As Servants do before Perſons of Honour.

Ver. 24. And when he came to the tower,] To the Place where Eliſha lodged. Or, as ſome will have it, to a ſecret Place where he laid up what he had got.

He took them from the men, and beſtowed them in the houſe; and let the men go, and they departed.] For he was afraid his Maſter ſhould ſee them.

Ver. 25. And he came in, and ſtood before his maſter:] As Servants were wont to do, to ſee if their Maſter wanted any thing.

And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Whence comeſt thou Gehazi? And he ſaid, Thy ſervant went no whither.] This was another impudent Lie, wherein he thought to deceive his Maſter, though he was a Prophet. Which was an impious Endeavour to deceive the Spirit of God, whoſe Miniſter Eliſha was: Like that Lie of Ananias and Sapphira, Acts v. 3, &c.

Ver. 26. And he ſaid, Went not my heart with thee, when the man turned again from his chariot to meet thee?] Did not God repreſent to my Mind, as if I had been preſent, how Naaman came to meet thee, and what thou ſaidſt to him, and what he gave thee? For no doubt, he recited all that had paſſed between them; to convince him of his Folly (in thinking to cheat him) and put him to Shame and Confuſion.

Is it a time to receive money, and to receive garments, and vine-yards, and olive-yards, and ſheep and oxen, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants?] Which Gehazi deſigned to purchaſe with the two Talents: At a very unſeaſonable Time, when the Nation, for their Sins, were in Danger to be carried Captive out of their Land. Which though it did not fall out 'till above 150 Years after this, yet great Devaſtations followed the Death of Eliſha.

Ver. 27. The leproſy therefore of Naaman ſhall cleave unto thee, and unto thy ſeed, for ever.] Unto many Generations, as the Word for ever frequently ſignifies. But the Hebrew Doctors ſay this relates only unto his Children that were then born; who were conſcious to his Crime, and approved of it. See more of this, viii. 4, 5.

And he went out from his preſence, a leper as white as ſnow.] He puniſhed him with the worſt ſort of Leproſy, which was incurable. For his Sin was exceeding great, or rather he was guilty of many Sins, beſides thoſe already mentioned; being a Thief, and taking that to himſelf, which was given to others. Nay, he was a ſacrilegious Perſon, in robbing the Sons of the Prophets, who were Men belonging to God, in a ſpecial manner. The Hebrew Doctors reckon ſeven Sins, for which God puniſhed Men with the Plague of Leproſy, and endeavour to prove it out of Scripture; and Gehazi was guilty of more than one of them, and therefore juſtly puniſhed in an extraordinary manner. They are, an evil Tongue, ſhedding of Blood, a falſe Oath, uncovering of any forbidden Nakedneſs, Inflation of Spirit, Rapine, and Envy.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. AND the ſons of the prophets] That were at Gilgal; for that is the Place laſt mentioned where the Prophet was, iv. 38. and was alſo near to Jordan mentioned in the next Verſe.

Said unto Eliſha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee] They had their Colleges ſometimes in Cities (as in Beth-el) and ſometimes in the Fields, and ſometimes upon Mountains. It is probable this was in the Fields; where Eliſha, for the preſent, was reſident among them.

Is too ſtrait for us.] Their Number of Scholars was ſo much increaſed under ſo eminent a Maſter as he was, that there was not Room enough for them.

Ver. 2. Let us go, we pray thee,] They were ſo much under his Government, that they did not take the Liberty to go any whither without his Leave.

Unto Jordan,] Near to which many Trees grew.

And take from thence every man a beam,] A piece of Timber.

And let us make us a place there where we may dwell.] A Tabernacle large enough to contain them all. From whence we may gather that the Sons of the Prophets did not ſpend all their Time in ſtudying the Law, Meditation and Prayer, and ſuch holy Exerciſes; but alſo employed themſelves in ſome Manufactures, as the Apoſtles did in after-times: Some of which were Tent-makers (Acts xviii. 3.) like to theſe here mentioned.

And he anſwered, Go ye.] He conſented to their Deſign, the Place which they choſe being very commodious for Students. As St Hierom obſerves, who in more Places than one (ſee his Epiſtles to Ruſticus and to Paulina) compares the Monks of his Time with theſe Sons of the Prophets, Qui habitabant in agris, & ſolitudinibus, & faciebant ſibi tabernacula propè fluenta Jordanis.

Ver. 3. And one ſaid, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy ſervants. And he anſwered, I will go.] They thought their Deſign would proſper the better under his Conduct; and that if any one queſtioned what they did, his Authority would over-awe them.

Ver. 4. So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.] They began to go about their Work.

Ver. 5. But as one was felling a beam, the ax-head fell into the water:] Being not well faſtned to the Helve; or rather the Helve breaking.

And he cried, and ſaid, Alas maſter, for it was borrowed.] Good Men are religiouſly careful that none ſuffer by their Kindneſs to them. This ſhews that as theſe Sons of the Prophets wrought with their own Hands, going themſelves to cut down Wood to build withal, ſo (ſome of them at leaſt) they were but poor, being not furniſhed with Tools for their Work, but forced to borrow.

Ver. 6. And the man of God ſaid, Where fell it? And he ſhewed him the place. And he cut down a ſtick,] To ſerve, I ſuppoſe, inſtead of a Helve.

And caſt it into the water, and the iron did ſwim.] A double Miracle, as the Jews underſtand it, that Iron which was ſunk down to the Bottom, roſe up; and then went to the Stick, and was joined to it, at its Helve. For to what End ſhould he throw a Stick into the Water, but that it ſhould ſerve this Purpoſe?

Ver. 7. Therefore ſaid he, Take it to thee. And he put out his hand and took it.] It fell near the River Side, or was brought thither when it roſe up.

Ver. 8. Then the king of Syria warred againſt Iſrael, and took counſel with his ſervants, ſaying, In ſuch and ſuch a place ſhall be my camp.] He did not rely meerly on the Number of his Forces, but ſecretly reſolved, by the Advice of his Council, to place them in ſuch Poſts where he might hope to ſurpriſe the Iſraelites. It may ſeem ſtrange, that after ſuch a great Benefit lately received in the Cure of Naaman, the King ſhould ſend him, who was Captain of his Hoſt, to fight againſt Iſrael. But who can tell how long this was after that Time, when Naaman might be dead? Or, perhaps, Naaman might have loſt his Place; becauſe he refuſed to worſhip Rimmon; and no Benefit will reconcile inveterate Enemies.

Ver. 9. And the man of God ſent to the king of Iſrael, ſaying, Beware that thou paſs not ſuch a place; for thither the Syrians are come down.] And had laid an Ambuſh for him there.

Ver. 10. And the king of Iſrael ſent to the place which the man of God told him, and warned him of,] He ſent ſome Spies to ſee whether Eliſha gave him true Information.

And ſaved himſelf there, not once or twice.] By this means he frequently ſaved his Soldiers from falling into the Hands of the Syrians; who lay in wait for them in ſuch Places, where they would certainly have gone, if they had not been told of the Danger.

Ver. 11. Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was ſorely troubled for this thing, and he called his ſervants,] With whom he had conſulted how to carry on this War, ver. 8.

And ſaid unto them, Will ye not ſhew me which of us is for the king of Iſrael?] Betrays my Counſels to him: For he could not think he ſhould meet with ſuch conſtant Diſappointments, unleſs it were by Treachery.

Ver. 12. And one of his ſervants ſaid, None, my lord O king: but Eliſha the prophet, that is in Iſrael, telleth the king of Iſrael the words thou ſpeakeſt in thy bed-chamber.] It is likely Naaman had ſpread the Fame of the Prophet ſo much in this Court, that ſome of them made further Enquiry after him; and heard more of his miraculous Works; and thence concluded he could tell the greateſt Secrets, as well as to do ſuch Wonders, as were reported of him.

Ver. 13. And he ſaid, Go, and ſpy where he is, that I may ſend and fetch him.] A very fooliſh

Design. As if the Prophet could not as well know this, as he did the reſt of his other Counſels.

And it was told him, ſaying, He is in Dothan.] A City in the Tribe of Manaſſeh; not far from Shechem and Samaria.

Ver. 14. Therefore ſent he thither horſes, and chariots, and a great hoſt:] That the People of Dothan, being affrighted at the Sight of ſuch a Number of Soldiers, might not dare to defend the Prophet.

And they came by night, and compaſſed the city about.] That no Intelligence might be carried to Samaria.

Ver. 15. And when the ſervant of the man of God was riſen early,] As Students were wont to do.

And was gone forth,] Out of the Door of the Houſe, which ſtood high; the City being built upon a Hill.

Behold, an hoſt compaſſed the city, both with horſes and chariots: and his ſervant ſaid unto him, Alas, my Maſter, how ſhall we do?] Perhaps the Syrians had aſſured the Inhabitants they intended no Harm to them; but only came to take Eliſha. Which the young Man hearing, it put him in great Fear; for being but newly come to his Maſter in the Room of Gehazi, and having perhaps ſeen none of his wonderful Works, he gave himſelf and his Maſter for loſt Men.

Ver. 16. And he anſwered, Fear not: for they that be with us, are mo than they that be with them.] Faith drives away Fear; but it was hard for the young Man to believe this, 'till he had more Experience of God's Providence over his Prophet: And therefore Eliſha prays he might have a Demonſtration of it.

Ver. 17. And Eliſha prayed, and ſaid, LORD, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may ſee. And the LORD opened the eyes of the young man, and he ſaw: And the mountain was full of horſes and chariots of fire] He beheld the Camp of God there (as the Angels are called, Gen. xxxii. 2.) ready at Hand to defend his Maſter. Legions of Angels (Matth. xxvi. 35.) which were far more numerous and powerful than the Hoſt of the Syrians which he ſaw compaſs the City; but did not ſee this Heavenly Hoſt 'till God opened his Eyes, and repreſented them to him. The Ancients think that the Angels, when preſent with us, appear where they pleaſe, and are inviſible where they pleaſe, though preſent. Now this Appearance of theirs in this Place is called the opening of his Eyes; becauſe it had the ſame Effect. For he beheld the Mountain (on which, I ſuppoſe, the City ſtood) where he ſaw none but Syrians before, was now full of fiery Chariots and Horſes, which, as it here follows, had incircled Eliſha.

Round about Eliſha.] That is, he ſaw in this Viſion, as if Eliſha was in the midſt of this glorious Camp of Angels; who defended him ſo that none could penetrate and break through unto him.

Ver. 18. And when they came down to him,] He ſeems to have gone out of the City to them, under the Divine Protection; intending to go to Samaria. And they ſeeing him, aſked him the Way to the Man of God.

Eliſha prayed unto the LORD, and ſaid, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindneſs. And he ſmote them with blindneſs, according to the word of Eliſha.] So that they might not be able perfectly to diſtinguiſh one thing from another.

Ver. 19. And Eliſha ſaid unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city:] Some think we are not bound to ſpeak Truth to an Enemy; but there is no need that this ſhould be aſſerted here. For it was true that they were not in the Way to find Eliſha; whom they ſhould not ſee 'till they came to another City.

Follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye ſeek.] As he really did. But their Minds were ſtruck with Blindneſs, as well as their Eyes; or elſe, they would not have committed themſelves to the Conduct of a Stranger, to follow him in an Enemy's Country, they knew not whither.

But he led them to Samaria.] This ſhews they were not wholly blind, for then they could not have been led by him: But were dark, as we ſpeak, and could not clearly diſcern who it was that led them, nor whither they were going. Here the Jews cry, Behold a double Miracle! Eliſha's Servant ſaw that which appeared to no body elſe; and the Syrians could not diſcern that which every body elſe ſaw.

Ver. 20. And it came to paſs, when they were come into Samaria, that Eliſha ſaid, LORD open the eyes of theſe men, that they may ſee. And the LORD opened their eyes, and they ſaw, that behold, they were in the midſt of Samaria.] To their great Aſtoniſhment, no doubt, when they found that he had made them all Captives, whom they came to carry away to Syria.

Ver. 21. And the king of Iſrael ſaid to Eliſha, when he ſaw them, My father,] This Miracle touched him with great Reverence to the Prophet.

Shall I ſmite them, ſhall I ſmite them?] This Repetition of the Queſtion, expreſſes his eager Deſire to fall upon them, and kill them; if the Prophet would have permitted.

Ver. 22. And he anſwered, Thou ſhalt not ſmite them:] There was a Command to deſtroy the People of the ſeven Nations; yet not, if they yielded to them. But as for other Perſons, who were taken in the War, they were not bound to deſtroy them; but it was Humanity rather to ſpare them. Whence it is that the Prophet here forbids the King to ſmite theſe, who were not under the Curſe of the People of Canaan.

Wouldſt thou ſmite thoſe whom thou haſt taken captive with thy ſword, and with thy bow?] As much as to ſay, thou wouldſt not be ſo cruel, as in cold Blood to kill thoſe whom thou thy ſelf hadſt taken Priſoners in a Battle. Much more then are thoſe to be ſpared, who are not thy Captives, but God's. Thou haſt not taken them with thy Sword, or with thy Bow; but he hath brought them to thee, and delivered them into thy Hand: Not that thou mayeſt kill them, but uſe them kindly. To this Purpoſe Ralbag; ſee Selden de Jure Nat. & Gent. pag. 745.

Set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink, and go to their maſter.] And tell him what Civility and Kindneſs there is among the People of God. This is a rare Example of that which St Paul recommends to us, Rom. xii. 20. If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirſt, give him drink, &c.

Ver. 23.

Ver. 23. And he prepared great proviſion for them: and when they had eat and drunk, he ſent them away, and they went to their maſter.] This is a new Wonder, that the Hearts of the Iſraelites ſhould ſo yield unto the Command of the Prophet, as not only to ſpare, but to entertain bountifully their old Enemies.

And the bands of the Syrians came no more into the land of Iſrael.] Great Hatreds are ſometimes overcome by unexpected and undeſerved Benefits; as many of the Heathens have obſerved, that this is the nobleſt Way to conquer them, particularly Valerius Maximus. Speciosius injuriæ beneficiis vincuntur, quàm mutui odii pertinacia penſantur; Injuries are more glorioufly overcome by Benefits, than requited by pertinacious mutual Hatred. But the Senſe of Benefits in bad Natures doth not laſt long; for in the very Verſe we read, how the King of Syria beſieged Samaria. Which ſeems to contradict what is ſaid here, that the Syrians came no more into the Land of Iſrael. But the Meaning of that is, (for no Man can think that any Author whatſoever would contradict himſelf in the ſame Breath) either that for this Time they retreated quite, and laid aſide all Thoughts of War, though afterwards they broke out again into Hoſtility: Or (which is the plaineſt) that their Bands made no more Incurſions and Inrodes; but they reſolved to come and fall upon them, not in ſmall Parties, and by Ambuſhes, (as they did before, ver. 8.) but with a formed Army, wherewith they laid Siege to Samaria.

Ver. 24. And it came to paſs after this, that Benhadad king of Syria] The Name of Benhadad was common to all the Kings of Syria, as Pharaoh was to thoſe of Egypt.

Gathered all his hoſt, and went up, and beſieged Samaria:] It ſeems the Iſraelites had not Forces to appear againſt him in the Field: So that he marched directly to Samaria, and laid Siege to it.

Ver. 25. And there was a great famine in Samaria: and behold, they beſieged it, 'till an aſſes head was ſold for fourſcore pieces of ſilver,] The Siege laſted ſo long, or they were ſo ill provided for it, that there was a great Scarcity of Food in this City: Inſomuch that an Aſs's Head was ſold for ſo many Shekels as make five Pound of our Money. A great Sum for the Head, when the whole Body was little worth; and it being an unclean Creature, it was not lawful for the Iſraelites to eat (yea, was accounted unclean by the Arabians) unleſs in caſe of extream Neceſſity. See Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 13. where he obſerves out of Plutarch, that there was ſuch a Scarcity in Artaxerxes his Army, when he was among the Caduſii, that an Aſs's Head was ſold for threeſcore Drachms.

And the fourth part of a cab] A Cab was a very ſmall Meaſure of Corn; containing, as the Jews ſay, as much as twenty-four Eggs would hold. It is never mentioned in the Scripture but only here; though very often in the Talmud in the Title Kidduſhim. See Imbonacius in the Biblioth. Mag. Rabbin. Tom. 5. p. 349. All agree it was ſuch a Meaſure as I have mentioned; ſo that the fourth Part of it was no more than ſix Eggs would contain, called a Log, as Bochartus thinks.

Of doves dung] So the Chaldee, Syriack, Arabick, and LXX tranſlate the Hebrew Word Hirjonim: And ſo a great many of the Jewiſh Doctors, Jarchi, Kimchi, Ralbag, underſtand it. Though it be very hard to believe, that Doves Dung ſhould be ſo plentiful in a City, as to be ſold in any Quanity; or that Men ſhould eat it; when every one knows there is no Nouriſhment in ſuch Excrements, and leſs in that of Doves than in others, as is obſerved by Bochartus; who after he hath confuted many other Opinions, hath made it very probable, that Fitches, or Lentiles are here meant; which were the vileſt of all Food, and yet ſold at this dear Rate. For that ſome ſort of Food is here meant, is plain from what goes before. See his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 1. Cap. 7.

For five pieces of ſilver.] Which the ſame Author computes to be as much as Nine French Livres.

Ver. 26. And as the king of Iſrael was paſſing by upon the wall,] To ſee if they kept their Guards well; or, to obſerve how the Enemy lay.

There cried unto him a woman, ſaying, Help, my lord O king.

Ver. 27. And he ſaid, If the LORD do not help thee, whence ſhall I help thee? out of the barn-floor, or out of the wine-preſs?] Some take the firſt Words to be a Curſe, and tranſlate them as we do in the Margin, Let not the LORD ſave, or help thee. Like that among the Gentiles, Dii Deæque te perdant. May thou periſh. Thus Joſephus underſtands them to be the Words of a Man in a great Paſſion, and full of Fury, that ſhe ſhould implore Relief from him, who could do nothing for himſelf, For he thought ſhe had cried to him for Victuals, as appears by the laſt Words.

Ver. 28. And the king ſaid unto her, What aileth thee?] When ſhe had pacified his Anger, or it cooled of it ſelf, he aſked her the Cauſe of her Cry.

And ſhe anſwered, This woman] Who ſtood by her.

Said unto me, Give thy ſon that we may eat him to day, and we will eat my ſon to morrow.] Thus began the Prophecy of Moſes to be fulfilled, Deut. xxxviii. 54, 55, &c.

Ver. 29. So we boiled my ſon, and did eat him: that I ſaid unto her on the next day, Give thy ſon, that we may eat him: and ſhe hath hid her ſon.] Either that ſhe might ſave him, or that ſhe might eat him alone, and thereby preſerve her Life the longer.

Ver. 30. And it came to paſs when the king heard the words of the woman, that he rent his clothes,] Out of great Grief at what the Woman had ſaid; or, perhaps out of Indignation at the Prophet, with whom the next Verſe ſhews he was very angry.

And he paſſed by upon the wall, and the people looked, and behold, he had ſackcloth within upon his fleſh.] His Royal Robes, which were uppermoſt, being torn, they ſaw Sackcloth (in token of great Humiliation) next to his Skin. For theſe Idolatrous Kings were not ſo profane, but they obſerved ſome of the ancient Rites of Religion: Among which this was one; to abaſe and afflict themſelves, in Times of great Calamity, by putting Sackcloth upon their naked Body.

Ver. 31. Then he ſaid, God do ſo to me, and more alſo, if the head of Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat ſhall ſtand on him this day.] Such was the Arbitrary Power which theſe Kings exerciſe; which took away Mens Lives, without any formal Proceſs againſt them; and the Reaſon of this furious Reſolution ſeems to be, either becauſe Eliſha had hindred him from ſmiting the great Hoſt of the Syrians, when he had them cooped up in Samaria (ver. 20, 21, 22.) which might have diſabled them from bringing him into theſe Straits: Or, becauſe Eliſha did not imploy his Intereſt in God, as he expected, to give them Deliverance. Therefore he ſwore he ſhould not live 'till Night.

Ver. 32. And Eliſha ſat in his houſe,] In the School, where the Sons of the Prophets came to be inſtructed by him.

(And the elders ſat with him)] We often read in Ezekiel, of the Elders of Iſrael ſitting before the Prophet to hear him, viii. 1. xxii. 24: And ſo ſome underſtand it here, of the chief Perſons in Samaria, who were come to conſult him. But it rather ſignifies his chief Scholars, ſome grave Perſons, who applied themſelves to the Study of divine things, and were now with him.

And the king ſent a man from before him:] Commanded one that attended him, to go, and execute the Sentence he had pronounced againſt Eliſha.

But e'er the meſſenger came to him, he ſaid to the elders, See how this ſon of a murderer hath ſent to take away mine head?] He underſtood, by the Spirit of Prophecy, the wicked Intentions of the King; who was like his Father Ahab that had murdered many of the Prophets of the LORD.

Look when the meſſenger cometh, ſhut the door, and hold him faſt at the door: is not the ſound of his maſters feet behind him?] He charged them to lay hold of him before he came into the Room, and not ſuffer him to enter; for the King would immediately follow him, to revoke his Order. So he foreſaw by the ſame Spirit of Prophecy, that the King repented of what he had decreed, and was coming to revoke it; and therefore he only required the Elders to do that which he knew the King would do himſelf, viz. Stop the Meſſenger at the Door, and let him proceed no further. This will not warrant private Men to apprehend publick Officers; nor to uſe ſuch Words to Princes as the Prophet here doth to Joram, whom he calls the ſon of a murderer, by a Divine Motion. Which authorized him to repreſent him, as the impious Son of a very impious Father.

Ver. 33. And while he yet talked with them, behold, the meſſenger came down unto him: and he ſaid, Behold, this evil is of the LORD, what ſhould I wait for the LORD any longer?] Some imagine that the Meſſenger being come, ſpake theſe Words in the King's Name. But it ſeems more reaſonable to think the King, who was alſo come, ſpake them himſelf, in a Fit of raging Deſpair. He could not but acknowledge, that the LORD had brought them into this Diſtreſs. Upon whom Eliſha exhorted him to wait 'till he would pleaſe (who only could do it) to deliver them. But he impatiently anſwered, he had waited ſo long in vain, that he had no Hope left, ſince they were driven to ſuch Extremity, that Women eat their own Children. Or, theſe Words may be thus interpreted (taking the former Part of them to be ſpoken by the Prophet, and the latter by the King) And he ſaid, that is, the Prophet ſaid, acknowledge the Hand of God in this Evil, which comes from him. To which the King replied, and what elſe can I expect from the LORD, unleſs it be ſuch Plagues? No, ſaith Eliſha in the very next Words, ye ſhall have Plenty here to-morrow.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe 1. AND Eliſha ſaid,] Unto the King, who followed the Meſſenger (ſee the foregoing Chapter, ver. 32, 33.) and ſpake ſuch Words as Eliſha here ſatisfies him were very unreaſonable.

Hear ye the word of the LORD, Thus ſaith the LORD, to morrow about this time ſhall a meaſure of fine flour be ſold for ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel,] The Hebrew Word Seah ſignifies a certain Meaſure, containing the thirtieth Part of an Omer: Which is about a Peck of our Meaſure.

In the gate of Samaria.] Which was the Market-place, as well as a Place for other publick Meetings. See 2 Sam. xix. 8.

Ver. 2. Then a lord on whoſe hand the king leaned,] Some think this was the Meſſenger which the King ſent to ſee Execution done upon Eliſha. Whoſoever he was, he was greatly beloved by the King; for when he went abroad he leaned on him, which was a Sign he was dear to him. For this State Kings in thoſe Countries took upon them, to lean upon ſome Favourite. As Queen Eſther, the Jews ſay, had a young Lady on whom ſhe reſted her right Hand, after the manner of the Eaſtern Kings. See upon ver. 18.

Anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Behold, if the LORD ſhould make windows in heaven, might this thing be?] He was incredulous, and ſeems to have laughed at what the Prophet ſaid: Looking upon it as unlikely, as that God would rain Corn from Heaven, as once he did Manna.

And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but thou ſhalt not eat thereof.] A juſt Puniſhment of his Unbelief. And ſuch will be the Portion of thoſe that believe not the Promiſe of Eternal Life..

Ver. 3. And there were four leprous men] The Jews will have theſe to have been Gehazi, and his three Sons; as they ſay in Gemara Sanhedrin, p. 416. Edit. J. Coch.

At the entring of the gate:] Of the City Samaria. From whence Lepers were thruſt out, as anciently out of the Camp, Levit. xiii. 46. xiv. 3. Numb. v. 23. But they got as near the Gate of the City as they could, for fear of the Enemy. It appears by this that the Iſraelites obſerved the Ceremonial Law; though they were groſs Idolaters.

And they ſaid one to another, Why ſit we here until we die?] For the City could no longer ſupply their Wants, having not ſufficient for themſelves.

Ver. 4. If we ſay we will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we ſhall die there:] Lepers might ſometimes come into their Cities, if there was a great Occaſion, keeping their due Diſtance from every one; as appears, ſome think, from Gehazi's talking with the King himſelf, in the next Chapter, viii. 4. but more plainly from this Place. See Grotius upon St Luke vii. 12.

And if we ſit ſtill here, we die alſo.] The Beſiegers having carried away all the Food thereabouts.

Now therefore come, and let us fall into the hoſt of the Syrians:] Who poſſibly might take Compaſſion upon miſerable People, though Enemies to them.

If they ſave us alive, we ſhall live;] They will not let us ſtarve, but give us Food.

And if they kill us, we ſhall but die.] They knew the worſt that could happen to them, was to loſe their Lives; which they ſhould certainly do where they were; and therefore they choſe an uncertain Evil, before a certain.

Ver. 5. And they roſe up in the twilight, to go unto the camp of the Syrians:] In the cloſe of the Evening, as appears from ver. 9, and 12.

And when they were come to the uttermoſt part of the camp of Syria,] Unto their Trenches.

Behold, there was no man there.] Not a Man to guard them, nor ſo much as a Centinel to watch them.

Ver. 6. For the LORD had made the hoſt of Syria to hear a noiſe of chariots, and a noiſe of horſes; even the noiſe of a great hoſt:] By the Miniſtry of Angels he made ſuch a rattling like that of Chariots, and pranſing of Horſes, that the Syrians imagined a great Army was not only marching towards them, but ready to fall upon them.

And they ſaid one to another, Lo, the king of Iſrael hath hired againſt us the kings of the Hittites, and the kings of Egypt, to come upon us.] Thoſe People of the Land of Canaan called Hittites, who dwelt about Hebron and Beerſheba, were rooted out by the Iſraelites. But either ſome of them fled, and ſettled themſelves in ſome Neighbouring Country, and there grew very populous; or elſe, we are to underſtand by the Kings of the Hittites (as Joſephus doth) the Kings τῶν νήσων, of the Iſles, Lib. ix. Antiq. Cap. 2. As if Chittim was the ſame with Cetim, as all Iſles he ſaith are called. Every one of which had a King; as Egypt it ſelf was then divided into ſeveral Kingdoms: Whoſe Help the Syrians thought the King of Iſrael had procured.

Ver. 7. Wherefore they aroſe and fled in the twilight,] Being but newly gone, when the Lepers came thither.

And they left their tents, and their horſes, and their aſſes,] Aſſes were employed in War as well as Horſes; at leaſt for carrying of their Baggage. So Bochartus obſerves out of Pollux, χρεια δ' εἰς πολέμους σκευοφόρωνμεν ὄνων, Aſſes are of uſe in War to carry Burdens. There were ſeveral People alſo, that fought upon Aſſes, as others did upon Horſes: Which he proves out of Ælian, and other Authors. See Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 2. Cap. 13.

Even the camp as it was, and fled for their life.] They thought of ſaving nothing but themſelves; their Fear being ſo great, that they left all they had behind them.

Ver. 8. And when theſe lepers came into the uttermoſt part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence ſilver and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it; and came again, and entred into another tent, and carried from thence alſo, and went and hid it.] They had ſatisfied their Hunger in the firſt Tent, ſo that they had nothing now to do, but to get what Treaſure they could find, and ſecure it.

Ver. 9. Then they ſaid one to another, We do not well:] When they had both well refreſhed, and inriched themſelves, and alſo ſecured their Booty, they began to reflect upon the Diſtreſs of their Brethren; and condemned themſelves for making no more Haſte to impart unto them the Diſcovery they had made of the Enemies Flight, and the Plenty of all things they found in their Camp.

This is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace:] Do not publiſh the Goodneſs of God to us all.

If we tarry till the morning light, ſome miſchief will come upon us:] The Syrians might poſſibly recover out of their Fright, and return when they ſaw none purſue them: Or, ſome of them might be lurking thereabout, and come and kill them.

Now therefore come, that we may go and tell the kings houſhold.] Impart this joyful News to the City. For every good Citizen is in Duty bound to diſcover every thing that is for the publick Safety.

Ver. 10. So they came, and called to the porter of the city:] To him that was the chief Commander at the Gate of Samaria.

And they told them,] Him and the Guard that was with him.

Saying, We came into the camp of the Syrians, and behold, there was no man there, neither voice of man, but horſes tied, and aſſes tied, and the tents as they were.] Standing without any body in them: But full of Proviſion, and Riches.

Ver. 11. And he called the porters,] Of the King's Houſe.

And they told it to the kings houſe within.] Reported it in the Court, 'till it came to the King's Ears.

Ver. 12. And the king aroſe in the night, and ſaid unto his ſervants, I will now ſhew you what the Syrians have done to us:] What their Stratagem is.

They know that we be hungry, therefore are they gone out of the camp, to hide themſelves in the field, ſaying, When they ſhall come out of the city, we ſhall catch them alive, and get into the city.] His long Sufferings had made him ſuſpicious and cautious; and this was no improbable Conjecture.

Ver. 13. And one of his ſervants anſwered, and ſaid, Let ſome take, I pray thee, five of the horſes that remain, which are left in the city, (Behold, they are as all the multitude of Iſrael that are left in it: Behold, I ſay, they are even as all the multi- multitude of the Iſraelites that are conſumed) and let us ſend and ſee.] He repeats his Advice twice, that it might make the greater Impreſſion on the King. The Senſe of which is this: That they were almoſt conſumed with Hunger, and muſt ſhortly die, as all the Horſes and the Iſraelites had done, whom the Famine had killed. Therefore if theſe Horſes and Men were taken by the Syrians, there would be no great Loſs of them; for they would be loſt if they remained in Samaria.

Ver. 14. They took therefore two chariot-horſes, and the king ſent after the hoſt of the Syrians, ſaying, Go and ſee.] Whether they were gone or no. Some underſtand the Horſes of two Chariots, which might in all be five: But it is more probable, the King would venture no more than two Horſemen, which he thought enough; who took two of the Horſes of his own Chariots to make Diſcovery.

Ver. 15. And they went after them unto Jordan,] Finding the Camp empty, as the Lepers had related; they purſued them as far as this River.

And lo, all the way was full of garments, which the Syrians had caſt away in their haſte: and the meſſengers returned and told the king.] The Certainty of their Flight to their own Country.

Ver. 16. And the people went out, and ſpoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a meaſure of fine flour was ſold for a ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, according to the word of the LORD.] They found ſuch ſtore of Proviſion, in the Tents of the Syrians, that it made this ſudden Change in the Price of Corn; according to Eliſha's Prediction.

Ver. 17. And the king appointed the lord on whom his hand leaned, to have the charge of the gate:] To take care the People did not run out tumultuouſly, and leave the City empty; nor commit any Diſorder in the Gate; being very eager to get Victuals.

And the people trod upon him in the gate, and he died,] They came out in ſuch Crouds, and preſſed upon him ſo hard, that they threw him down, and trod him to Death.

As the man of God had ſaid, who ſpake when the king came down to him.] ver. 2.

Ver. 18. And it came to paſs as the man of God had ſpoken to the king, ſaying, Two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, and a meaſure of fine flour for a ſhekel, ſhall be to morrow at this time in the gate of Samaria:] By this it ſhould ſeem there was a Market kept in the Gate of Samaria, where Proviſions were ſold: And this Lord was ſet to ſee good Order kept, that they might neither take them by Force, nor make any Diſturbance.

Ver. 19. And the lord anſwered the man of God, ſaying, Now behold, if the LORD ſhould make windows in heaven, might ſuch a thing be? And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof.] This part of the Hiſtory is repeated, becauſe it is a moſt remarkable fulfilling of a Divine Prediction; whereby their Belief of God's Providence, ordering all things in a wonderful manner, was confirmed.

Ver. 20. And ſo it fell out unto him: for the people trod upon him in the gate, and he died.] Before he could enjoy the Benefit of that Plenty which God had beſtowed upon them. Which did not at all alter their Hearts, but they continued ſo obſtinately deaf to all the Prophet's Admonitions, and miraculous Works, that in the next Chapter we read of another long Famine coming upon them.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. THEN ſpake Eliſha unto the woman, (whoſe ſon he reſtored to life)] iv. 35, 36.

Saying, Ariſe, and go thou and thy houſhold, and ſojourn where thou canſt ſojourn:] In ſome Country out of the Land of Iſrael.

For the LORD hath called for a famine,] He had already ordered, and decreed it.

And it ſhall come upon the land ſeven years.] Continue as long again as that in the Days of Ahab, which laſted three Years and an half. For as their Iniquities increaſed, ſo did their Puniſhments. Some of the Jews will have this to be the terrible Famine ſpoken of by Joel the Prophet; who they fancy lived in theſe Days. And four Years of it, they ſay, was cauſed by noxious Creatures, which eat up all the Fruits of the Earth; and the other three by a Drought, for want of Rain.

Ver. 2. And the woman aroſe, and did after the ſaying of the man of God:] Who by this Monition hath left us an Example of a grateful Mind, which never thinks it can ſufficiently requite Benefits received; and ſhe was abundantly ſatisfied, that what he predicted would certainly come to paſs.

And ſhe went with her houſhold, and ſojourned in the land of the Philiſtines ſeven years.] This Country was ſo near, that ſhe might eaſily remove her Family thither, and likewiſe hear ſometimes from her own Country. They were Idolaters indeed, but they ſuffered thoſe that were not, to live quietly among them, as their Fore-fathers had done; who entertained Abraham and Iſaac with much Friendſhip, and did not trouble themſelves about their Religion; as Jacob in like manner ſojourned a long Time among Idolaters in Meſopotamia. This ſhews the Severity of God's Anger againſt Iſrael, that he accounted them worſe than the Philiſtines: Who had Plenty among them, when the Iſraelites were almoſt ſtarved.

Ver. 3. And it came to paſs at the ſeven years end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philiſtines: and ſhe went forth to cry unto the king for her houſe, and for her land.] Which ſome think her Kindred had ſeized, as if ſhe had been dead. But it is more likely that ſhe carried her Relations along with her into the Land of the Philiſtines: And it was the Cuſtom here, as in other Places, that they who left their Country had their Goods confiſcated. See Grotius.

Ver. 4. And the king talked with Gehazi the ſervant of the man of God, ſaying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Eliſha hath done.] Some of the Jews think, that the King ſeeing Gehazi, aſked him how he came to be leprous; and thereupon he related to him the Hiſtory of Naaman the Syrian. Which moved the King, either to ſatisfie his Curioſity, or paſs away the Time pleaſantly, to deſire to hear all the other Miracles Eliſha had wrought; but he had no Intention to be convinced by them, and turn to God. But then here ariſes a Queſtion, how Gehazi came to be admitted to ſpeak with him; being a Leper, who was not to come into any Company, much leſs into the King's Preſence. This Difficulty, ſome think, cannot be ſolved without affirming, that this fell out before Gehazi left Eliſha's Service; ſuch ὑστερολογία, as the Greeks call it, being frequent in Scripture; and the Jews, in Seder Olam Rabba, place this Famine before the Story of Naaman: Which ſpoils what they ſay of the Occaſion of this Diſcourſe. But there is no need to aſſert this; for either Gehazi upon his Repentance might be reſtored to Health; or, he might ſpeak with the King at a due Diſtance, as he walked in the Field for his Recreation; and deſired to be entertained with a Relation of Eliſha's Miracles. Thus Naaman converſed with Eliſha's Family at a Diſtance; and the Lepers called to our Saviour, as he went along the High-way, St Luke xvii. 12.

Ver. 5. And it came to paſs, as he was telling the king how he reſtored a dead body to life, that behold, the woman whoſe ſon he reſtored to life, cried to the king for her houſe, and for her land. And Gehazi ſaid, My lord O king, this is the woman, and this is her ſon, whom Eliſha reſtored to life.] By a wonderful Providence ſhe came to preſent her Petition, and brought her Son with her, in that very Nick of Time when Gehazi was telling the Story of his Reſtauration to Life; that the King might be the more fully ſatisfied of the Truth of what he related, from her own Mouth.

Ver. 6. And when the king asked the woman, ſhe told him.] That is, confirmed what Gehazi had ſaid.

So the king appointed unto her a certain officer,] In the Margin, an Eunuch; that is, one of his Bed-chamber.

Saying, Reſtore all that was hers, and all the fruits of the field,] Not only her Houſe, and Land; but all the Profits that had been made of them, and brought into his Exchequer.

Since the day that ſhe left the land, even 'till now.] This was an high Act of Juſtice, and an Argument of ſome Goodneſs left in a bad Man, that he would not gain any thing by her Calamity.

Ver. 7. And Eliſha went to Damaſcus;] In the Time of the Famine, I ſuppoſe he went thither, as the Woman did to the Philiſtines.

And Benhadad king of Syria was ſick, and it was told him, ſaying, The man of God is come hither.] Who having cured Naaman, had raiſed a great Opinion of his Power, with God, in that Country.

Ver. 8. And the king ſaid unto Hazael,] Who was the Captain of his Hoſt.

Take a preſent in thy hand, and go meet the man of God, and enquire of the LORD by him, ſaying, Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?] They who conſulted Prophets, were wont always to carry a Preſent with them, in token of the Honour they paid them; as appears by many Inſtances, particularly of Jeroboam's Wife in this Book. It is probable alſo, he begged his Prayers for his Recovery; acknowledging him to be a Man of God.

Ver. 9. And Hazael went to meet him,] As he was coming into Damaſcus.

And took a preſent with him, of every good thing of Damaſcus, forty camels burden, and came and ſtood before him.] This was a very noble Preſent; which whether he accepted or refuſed, is not mentioned in the Holy Scripture. Abarbinel thinks he accepted it, becauſe nothing is ſaid to the contrary, as there is in the Caſe of Naaman, who preſented him with Silver, and Gold, and Raiment, and ſuch like things of Value. Whereas this was only a Proviſion of Food, ſuch as Bread and Wine, and Fruit, and Fowl; which was a fit Preſent for him to make to the Prophet, who might be preſumed to be weary with his Journey, and as fit for him to accept for his Refreſhment.

Ver. 10. And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Go, ſay unto him, thou mayeſt certainly recover: Howbeit, the LORD hath ſhewed me that he ſhall certainly die.] His Diſeaſe was not of ſuch a Nature as would endanger his Life, if he did not loſe it by ſome other Means; as the prophet foreſaw he would. For Joſephus ſaith, his Diſeaſe was only a deep Melancholy, into which he fell upon the ſhameful Flight of his Army, when no Enemy was near them. This affected his Body, and took away his Appetite; but might have been cured.

Ver. 11. And he ſettled his countenance ſtedfaſtly 'till he was aſhamed: and the man of God wept.] The moſt ſimple Senſe is, He looked upon Hazael ſo long, with a ſettled Countenance, that Hazael was aſhamed, and he himſelf fell a weeping. Perhaps he faſtned his Eyes upon him as a Man aſtoniſhed, and that in an Ecſtaſy ſaw ſome dreadful thing repreſented to him. Others interpret it, he turned away his Face on one Side, 'till he was aſhamed, becauſe he wept; which he would not have had Hazael ſeen. Others, he ſettled his Countenance, not to weep; but he could not refrain from Tears.

Ver. 12. And Hazael ſaid, Why weepeth my lord? And he anſwered, Becauſe I know the evil thou wilt do unto the children of Iſrael: their ſtrong holds wilt thou ſet on fire, their young men wilt thou ſlay with the ſword, and wilt daſh their children, and rip up their women with child.] This laſt expreſſes the higheſt Degree of barbarous Cruelty; for which there was no Occaſion, if he did but kill the Women with Child, for the Child in the Womb would die with them, without ripping them up. Therefore a late learned Man looking on this as a thing unheard-of, will have the Word Haroth not to ſignify Women with Child, but Caſtles or fortified Places which he ſhould demoliſh. Though he cannot but acknowledge, that the cutting up Women very naturally follows ſlaying their young men, and daſhing their children, which goes juſt before. And he ſhould have taken Notice, that the very firſt Evil he mentions that Hazael ſhould do to them, is ſetting their ſtrong holds on fire. Gouſſet Comment. Linguæ Hebraicæ, p. 216.

Ver. 13. And Hazael ſaid, But what, is thy ſervant a dog, that he ſhould do this great thing?] This is commonly underſtood, as a diſclaiming of ſuch Barbarity, which he abhorred as a beaſtly thing. But the Words in the Hebrew ſound otherways, being a ſubmiſſive Form of Speech, wherein the Speaker undervalues, and debaſes himſelf, as appears from 1 Sam. xxiv. 15. 2 Sam. ix. 8. and runs thus; but what is thy Servant? a Dog. As much as to ſay, a mean and contemptible Creature, who can never have Power to do ſuch great Things; which none but a Prince can do.

And Eliſha anſwered, The LORD hath ſhewed me that thou ſhalt be king over Syria.] This was as much as declaring and appointing him King of Syria: Which Elijah ordered him to do; and was as much as if he had anointed him. See 1 Kings xix. 15.

Ver. 14. So he departed from Eliſha, and came to his maſter, who ſaid to him, What ſaith Eliſha to thee? and he anſwered, He told me that thou ſhouldſt ſurely recover.] He told him only the firſt Part of his Anſwer, and that not ſincerely, as he intended. For he did not ſay he ſhould ſurely recover, but that he might recover; his Diſeaſe being, in it ſelf, not mortal.

Ver. 15. And it came to paſs on the morrow,] His eager Deſire to reign would not ſuffer him to expect his Maſter's Death, but he made Haſte to diſpatch him, the very next Morning after he came from Eliſha.

That he took a thick cloth, and dipt it in water,] The Covering of his Bed, which (as many think) was made of Goats Hair; or, ſome other thick Cloth, that would ſuck up a great deal of Water.

And ſpread it upon his face, ſo that he died:] He being Feveriſh (as Joſephus thinks) and complaining of Heat, Hazael pretended to cool him by this means; but indeed choaked him; by thruſting the Cloth, perhaps, into his Mouth: So that he could make no Noiſe, nor did any Sign of Violence remain upon his Body; but the Murder committed ſo ſecretly, that it was thought he died a natural Death. But nothing can be concealed from God, who took Care to have the Villany recorded to Poſterity, by revealing it to his Prophet.

And Hazael reigned in his ſtead.] Being in great Favour with the People, eſpecially with the Soldiery; and Ben-hadad, it is likely, leaving no Son.

Ver. 16. And in the fifth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, Jehoſhaphat being then king of Judah, Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah began to reign.] All the ſeeming Contradictions between this Verſe and Chap. i. 17. and Chap. iii. 1. are thus briefly reconciled by Huetius. Jehoram beginning to reign with his Father Jehoſhaphat, in his ſeventeenth Year, and Joram King of Iſrael in his eighteenth, the firſt Year of Joram King of Iſrael will fall out in the ſecond Year of Jehoram King of Judah: Whoſe Father dying in the twenty-ſecond Year of his Reign, Jehoram King of Judah began to reign alone in the fifth Year of Joram King of Iſrael. See Demonſtr. Evang. Propoſ. 4. pag. 204.

Ver. 17. Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem.] Part of which was with his Father, as I now obſerved, and the reſt by himſelf. Dr Lightfoot obſerving three Dates of the Beginning of his Reign, gives this Account of it. The firſt was when he was made Viceroy with his Father, at the Time he went out of the Land, for the Recovery of Ramoth-Gilead. The ſecond was when his Father went upon his Expedition with Jehoram King of Iſrael againſt Moab. (Chap. iii. of this Book) From which Time he thinks the Beginning of his Reign is fixed here, and in 2 Chron. xxi. 20. For after this Time Jehoſhaphat was little at Jeruſalem, but abroad either in his own Land (which he perambulated that he might reduce the People to the true Religion) or in Moab, to bring them into Subjection, 2 Chron. xix. 20. And laſtly, at his Father's Death he was compleatly King of Judah, 2 Chron. xxi. 1. See Harm. of the Evang. Prolegom. Sect. 6. So that the cleareſt Solution of the Difficulty mentioned in the foregoing Verſe, is this, (as Dr Alix, a great Man in this Learning, and all others, hath obſerved to me) that Joram had three Beginnings of his Reign. One in the Seventeenth Year of Jehoſhaphat, when his Father deſigned him to be King. The ſecond in the twenty-third Year of his Father, when he was crowned; and the laſt when his Father (after he had reigned five and twenty Years) died; and he reigned alone a little more than four Years. Thus Solomon was made King before his Father died, and again after his Death, as Abarbinel obſerves. See Chap. ii. of the firſt Book of the Kings, ver. 12.

Ver. 18. And he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, as did the houſe of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was his wife;] Viz. Athaliah, ver. 26.

And he did evil in the ſight of the LORD.] Being ſeduced by his Wife, to forſake the Religion of his pious Father and Grandfather. Thus Ahab himſelf was led to the Worſhip of Baal by his Wife Jezabel. So dangerous it is to marry with Idolaters: For this Wife of Jehoram, in all likelihood, was the Author of that cruel Policy of murdering all his Brethren, for fear they ſhould diſturb him in his Kingdom, 2 Chron. xxi. 2, 3, 4.

Ver. 19. Yet the LORD would not deſtroy Judah, for David his ſervants ſake,] Though he puniſhed them ſeverely (See 2 Chron. xxi. 14, 15, 16, 17, &c.) yet he would not cut them all off; but had Patience with them a long Time: Upon the Account of that excellent Servant of his, King David; unto whom he had made a Promiſe, as it here follows, and to his Seed after him, of a perpetual Kingdom.

As he promiſed him to give him always a light, and to his children.] A Succeſſion in this Dignity (as I have expounded it before) which was compleated in the MESSIAH, whoſe Kingdom ſhall have no End.

Ver. 20. In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over themſelves.] After they had been ſubject to Judah an hundred and fifty Years; ever ſince the Time of David, who ſubdued that Country. This was a great Diſhonour to him; but by this means the Prophecy of Iſaac was fulfilled, Gen. xxvii. 40.

Ver. 21. So Joram went over to Zair,] This Word Zair is written differently from Seir; and therefore doth not ſignify any Part of the Country of Edom; but ſome City near to it.

And

And all the chariots with him,] With as great a Force as he could raiſe, to reduce them to Obedience.

And he roſe by night, and ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him about:] The Edomites were not wanting in their own Defence, but had ſurrounded him with an Army; through which he broke in the Night, and routed them.

And the captains of the chariots, and the people fled into their tents.] To their own Camp; where, it is likely, they were intrenched.

Ver. 22. Yet Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah] Notwithſtanding this Victory, they could not recover their Dominion over this Country; but Edom continued a Kingdom under its own King.

Unto this day.] When this Book was written, which was not long after this Revolt. And they were not brought again under the Power of the Jews 'till after the Captivity of Babylon: When Hyrcanus the Son of Simon conquered them, and they received Circumciſion; and came to have a free Commerce with the Jews. Inſomuch that Herod the Son of Antipater, who was an Edomite, obtained the Kingdom of Judea; and endeavoured to paſs for a Jew, becauſe they had received Circumciſion under Hyrcanus.

Then Libnah revolted at the ſame time.] Which was the Reaſon, perhaps, why he could not purſue his Victory over the Edomites, and regain their Country; becauſe he had enough to do at Home, there being a Defection of his own Subjects from him. For this was a conſiderable City in the Tribe of Judah, Joſh. xv. 42. and belonged to the Prieſts, Joſh. xxi. 13. Which Example, it is likely, other neighbouring Cities followed. For the Reaſon why they revolted, was becauſe he attempted to ſet up his idolatrous Worſhip among them; contrary to the Law of God, and of the Kingdom. See 2 Chron. xxi. 10, 11.

Ver. 23. And the reſt of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] See 1 Kings xi. 41.

Ver. 24. And Joram ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David:] But not in the Sepulchre of the Kings, as we read, 2 Chron. xxi. 20.

And Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 25. In the twelfth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab, did Ahaziah ſon of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.] In the Concluſion of the Eleventh, and Beginning of the Twelfth: As appears from ix. 29.

Ver. 26. Twenty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem;] But in 2 Chron. xxii. 2. it is ſaid, he was forty-two Years old when he began to reign: Which ſeeming Contradiction was anciently ſolved in this manner (by the Author of Seder Olam Rabba, whom a great many Jewiſh and Chriſtian Writers follow) that the forty-two Years mentioned in the Book of Chronicles are not to be computed from the Birth of Ahaziah, but from the Time of the Decree of cutting off the Houſe of Omri: Which was in the thirty-firſt Year of Aſa, when Omri began to reign, who reigned ſix Years, and after him Ahab twenty and two; and Ahaziah his Son two Years, and Joram twelve: All which put together, make forty-two Years. This Dr Lightfoot hath expreſſed more plainly thus; "The forty-two Years have not Relation to the Age of Ahaziah, but to the Kingdom of the Houſe of Omri. And therefore the Words of the Original are not to be tranſlated, Ahaziah was forty-two Years old; but Ahaziah was the Son of forty-two Years, as Seder Olam tranſlates it. And the Reaſon why his Reign is thus differently ſet down from all other Kings of Judah is, becauſe he was a Branch of the Houſe of Omri by his Mother's Side, ver. 18. and therefore was fit to be reckoned not by the Line of the Kings of Judah, but by the Houſe of Omri and Ahab." But there is an eaſier and more likely Reconciliation of theſe two Places, by Kimchi, Abarbinel, and others, which is, that Joram being invaded by the Arabians, and alſo diſeaſed, made his Son Ahaziah King, together with himſelf, when he was forty-two Years old. In this Condition things remained twenty Years, and then his Father dying, they made him King alone, when he was forty-two Years old. Thus a great Number of Chriſtian Interpreters alſo underſtand it. But then they ſuppoſe that Jehoram being thirty-two Years old when he began to reign, reigned eight Years (as it is ſaid ver. 17.) after his Father's Death, that is, happily and proſperouſly; but after that, falling into the Hands of the Arabians, and growing ſickly, he reigned ingloriouſly twenty Years, 'till he was ſixty Years old, his Son adminiſtring Affairs all this Time for him: But ſince the LXX in the Book of Chronicles read not forty-two, but twenty, many learned and good Men think, the ancient Hebrew Copies agreed thereunto; but by the Careleſſneſs of Tranſcribers, forty came in inſtead of twenty. Which it is better they think to acknowledge plainly, than to uſe forced and conſtrained Interpretations, as the preceding ſeem to them to be. Perizonius hath lately cenſured them all, in theſe Words, Si quid ego video aut intelligo, multo rectius divinitati & auctoritati Scripturæ S. conſulant, qui vitium iſtic librariorum in re per ſe levi agnoſcunt, quam qui difficultatem volunt tollere, contortis, violentis & abſonis Interpretationibus: quæ ab ipſa Scripturæ locutione, & clariſſima Syntaxi longiſſimè recedunt, &c. And then inſtances in this very Place, and the foregoing Expreſſions of it. Præfat. in Ælian. Var. Hiſtor. * 2.

And his mothers name was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri, king of Iſrael.] So ſhe is called alſo in 2 Chron. xxii. 2. that is, Omri's Grand daughter; who are often called Daughters, as I have before obſerved. For it is certain Athaliah was the Daughter of Ahab; but perhaps educated by Omri his Father, and upon that Account may be called his Daughter. He was the youngeſt Son of Jehoram, all whoſe other Children and his Wives were carried away by the Philiſtines and Arabians, when they made an Inrode upon Judah, 2 Chron. xxi. 16, 17. where he is called Jehoahaz.

Ver. 27. And he walked in the way of the houſe of Ahab, and did evil in the ſight of the LORD, as did the houſe of Ahab;] Not only worſhipped the Calves, but alſo Baal.

For he was the ſon in law of the houſe of Ahab.] And ſo corrupted in his Religion, by the Affinity he made with that wicked Family. Into which Jehoſhaphat married his Son, hoping, perhaps, to unite thereby the two Kingdoms again: But it proved the Ruin of his Family; as appears by the Book of Chronicles.

Ver. 28. And he went with Joram the ſon of Ahab, to the war againſt Hazael king of Syria in Ramoth-Gilead,] Juſt as Jehoſhaphat went with Ahab to the ſame Place: Which Joram it ſeems endeavoured to recover to Iſrael, as his Father had done.

And the Syrians wounded Joram.] Not mortally, as they did Ahab: But ſo, that he was fain to leave the Field, to be cured of his Wounds in Jezreel.

Ver. 29. And king Joram went back to be healed in Jezreel, of the wounds the Syrians had given him in Ramah, when he fought againſt Hazael king of Syria:] Leaving his Army at Ramoth-Gilead.

And Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah, went down to ſee Joram the ſon of Ahab in Jezreel, becauſe he was ſick.] By this means the ſecret Providence of God ſo ordered it, that they were both killed by Jehu, as a Puniſhment of their Idolatry.

CHAP. IX.

Verſe 1. AND Eliſha the prophet called one of the ſons of the prophets,] The Prophet Elijah was commanded to do this which Eliſha was now about to do; but Ahab's Humiliation had moved God to defer the Judgment pronounced upon him and his Family; and ſo the Execution of it was left to Eliſha, who did not go himſelf, becauſe he was better known, and his Buſineſs required Secrecy; or, being old, he was unfit for ſuch a Journey: For the laſt time we read of him, he was at Damaſcus. This young Man, who was now attending him, the Jews in Seder Olam Rabba ſay, was Jonah the Son of Amittai: Which is the Opinion alſo of Abarbinel, and other Hebrew Doctors.

And ſaid, Gird up thy loins,] Which implies he was to make Expedition, and diſpatch his Buſineſs before it could be diſcovered.

And take this box of oil in thine hand, and go to Ramoth-Gilead.] Where Joram had left his Army; and, as ſome think, they had now poſſeſſed themſelves of it.

Ver. 2. And when thou comeſt thither, look out there Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, the ſon of Nimſhi,] Who ſome think was left Commander in Chief of the King's Army.

And make him riſe up from among his brethren,] From the other Officers of the Army, ver. 5.

And carry him to an inner chamber.] Leſt the reſt of the Captains ſhould make any Oppoſition, and apprehend him.

Ver. 3. Then take the box of oil, and pour it on his head, and ſay, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael:] The Jews think none of the Kings of Iſrael were anointed, but only thoſe of the Houſe of David: Nor all they neither, but only when there was a Queſtion about the Succeſſion. For had it not been for the Faction of Adonijah, there had been no need of Solomon's Unction. For which reaſon Jehu was anointed, becauſe the Succeſſion to the Kingdom of Iſrael was to be tranſlated out of the right Line of the Family of Ahab, unto another Family, which had no Right to the Kingdom, but meerly by this Appointment of God: Who not only by his Word, but by this ſolemn Rite, conſtituted him King of Iſrael.

Then open the door, and flee, and tarry not.] Leſt by any means what he had done ſhould be diſcovered, and they might lay hold on him, as a Traitor.

Ver. 4. So the young man, even the young man the prophet, went to Ramoth-Gilead.] This argued a great Faith in this young Prophet, that he undertook ſo readily the Execution of this Command. For there was no ſmall Danger to anoint a new King; as Eliſha himſelf plainly ſuggeſts; when he bad him flee away, as faſt as he could, as ſoon as he had done.

Ver. 5. And when he came, the captains of the hoſt were ſitting;] In Council, I ſuppoſe, how to carry on the War, or about ſome other Buſineſs. Though ſome fancy they were at Dinner.

And he ſaid, I have an errand to thee, O captain.] Looking upon Jehu.

And Jehu ſaid, Unto which of all us? and he ſaid, Unto thee, O captain.] This ſhews that Jehu was the Head of them, who aſked the Queſtion in the Name of the reſt.

Ver. 6. And he aroſe, and went into the houſe,] Into a private Room, ver. 2.

And he poured the oil on his head, and ſaid unto him,] The Oil being poured on his Head, the Jews ſay he anointed him with it (as the manner was) in the form of a Crown: In token that he was the Head of the People, and had the ſupream Power over them committed to him.

Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I have anointed thee king over the people of the LORD, even over Iſrael.] They were ſtill the People of the LORD by Right and by Profeſſion, though they worſhipped other Gods with him. And it belonged to him to appoint what Ruler he pleaſed over them; which he did by his Prophet. Without which Authority if Jehu had taken the Government upon him, he had been an Uſurper.

Ver. 7. And thou ſhalt ſmite the houſe of Ahab thy maſter,] Now he acquaints him what God required of him, upon this Promotion.

That I may avenge the blood of my ſervants the prophets, and the blood of all the ſervants of the LORD, at the hand of Jezebel.] To execute God's Judgment on the Houſe of Ahab, which he pronounced long ago, for their cruel Murders of his Prophets, and other good Men in Iſrael; particularly Naboth. In this Jehu acted not out of a Spirit of private Revenge, for he had no Quarrel with the Houſe of Ahab; but as God's Miniſter, who by his Prophet authorized him to do what follows.

Ver. 8. For the whole houſe of Ahab ſhall periſh; and I will cut off from Ahab him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up and left in Iſrael.] See upon 1 Kings xxi. 21.

Ver. 9.

Ver. 9. And I will make the houſe of Ahab like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah.] See 1 Kings xiv. 10. xvi. 3.

Ver. 10. And the dogs ſhall eat Jezabel in the portion of Jezreel, and there ſhall be none to bury her.] See 1 Kings xxi 23.

And he opened the door, and fled.] See ver. 3.

Ver. 11. Then Jehu came forth to the ſervants of his lord,] Returned to the Council-Chamber, where they continued ſitting, ver. 5.

And one ſaid unto him, Is all well?] They ſeeing the Prophet look like a Man in a Fright, thought he brought ſome bad News.

Wherefore came this mad fellow unto thee?] So they call him, becauſe he came in ſo abruptly upon them, when they were ſitting in Council; and becauſe he fled away ſo haſtily; and becauſe they obſerved ſome Motions in him which argued great Diſturbance. Though ſome think, they being profane Idolaters, ſpake theſe Words in Scorn and Contempt.

Aad he ſaid unto them, Ye know the man, and his communication.] They might know him to be a Prophet by his Habit, and by his way of ſpeaking, as one that had Authority. And Prophets they knew commonly came to ſpeak ſomething concerning Religion. By which general Anſwer he thought to have ſatisfied them, and put by their further Enquiry; that he might take Time to deliberate of the moſt opportune Seaſon to declare this Meſſage of God to him.

Ver. 12. And they ſaid, It is falſe, tell us now.] They were confident he came about ſome Matter of great Importance, which he ſeeming unwilling to diſcover, they preſſed him the harder to tell Truth.

And he ſaid, Thus and thus ſpake he unto me, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael.] It is likely the Spirit of Courage, as well as of Prudence, entred into Jehu, when he was anointed, ſo that he took Heart to tell them boldly what the Prophet had ſaid. And the Oil perhaps was ſtill freſh upon his Head, wherewith he anointed him, which he ſhewed to them.

Ver. 13. And they haſted,] God alſo moved the Hearts of all the Captains, immediately, without any Conſultation, to acknowledge him for their King.

And took every man his garment, and put it under him] They made a kind of Throne of their very Garments, and raiſed him up above the reſt of the Company.

Upon the top of the ſtairs,] They did not ſtay 'till they came down into the Street, but forthwith, upon the very top of the Stairs of the Place where they were ſitting, acknowledged him for their Sovereign; by ſpreading their Garments under his Feet, to tread upon. So de Dieu underſtands the Words. There is a late Author who gueſſes theſe were winding Stairs in a Turret, on the top of which Tower they placed Jehu, that all the People might ſee him, and hear him proclaimed their King. Gouſſet in his Comment. Linguæ Hebraicæ, p. 173.

And blew with the trumpet, ſaying, Jehu is king.] They proclaimed him to be appointed by God to be King of Iſrael: Which uſed to be done with the Sound of the Trumpet, 1 Kings i. 32.

Ver. 14. So Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, the ſon of Nimſhi, conſpired againſt Joram:] Contrived, with the reſt of the Captains that commanded the Army, how to deſtroy Joram. For which they had the fairer Opportunity, becauſe he was gone from the Army to Jezreel, as it here follows.

(Now Joram had kept Ramoth-Gilead, he and all Iſrael, becauſe of Hazael king of Syria:] That is, kept a ſtrong Garriſon there, upon the Frontiers of his Kingdom; and left his Army alſo thereabout (for they are meant by all Iſrael) for fear Hazael ſhould make any new Attempt to recover it.

Ver. 15. But king Joram was returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria.)] This was ſaid before, but here repeated, to ſhew how Jehu came to effect his Deſign ſo eaſily. Which was becauſe Joram was abſent from his Army: Among whom if he had continued, it is likely ſome of them, if not all, would have adhered to him, and fought for him.

And Jehu ſaid, If it be your minds,] If they were all agreed, that he ſhould be their King.

Then let none go forth, nor eſcape out of the city,] This ſhews that Ramoth-Gilead was in the Poſſeſſion of the Iſraelites. From whence he would have none to be ſent, nor ſuffered to go forth, but the Gates be narrowly watched.

To go to tell it in Jezreel.] For he knew that Secrecy and Speed were neceſſary to the Execution of ſuch great Deſigns as he had in Hand.

Ver. 16. And Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel (for Joram lay there) and Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to ſee Joram.] This is repeated, to ſhew that Joram continued at Jezreel, whither he went from Ramoth: And that Ahaziah, who came to viſit him, continued alſo with him.

Ver. 17. And there ſtood a watchman on the tower of Jezreel,] Theſe Watchmen ſeem to have been ſet on high Places, in Time of Peace, as well as War, whereſoever the King was, that he might not be ſurprized. For David at Jeruſalem was admoniſhed by the Watchman that his Sons were ſafe, when he feared they had been loſt, 2 Sam. xiii. 34. as afterward, that News was coming from the Army that fought againſt Abſalom, xviii. 24, 25.

And he ſpied the company of Jehu as they came, and ſaid, I ſee a company.] A Troop, or Squadron of Horſe, as we now ſpeak.

And Joram ſaid, Take an horſeman, and ſend to meet them, and ſay, Is it peace?] He was afraid the Syrians had got the better of his Army; or ſome more of his Subjects had revolted, as Libnah had done.

Ver. 18. So there went one on horſeback to meet him, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? and Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.] The Meſſenger ſpake in the King's Name; but he ſpake to a greater King, who bad him not to trouble himſelf about Peace, or War, but follow him. Which he durſt not refuſe, ſeeing ſuch a Company of Soldiers with Jehu.

And the watchman ſaid, The meſſenger came to them, but he cometh not again.] Which put them in doubt what to think.

Ver. 19. And he ſent out a ſecond on horſeback, which came unto them, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, is it peace? And Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.] To the ſame Queſtion the ſame Anſwer was returned; that it did not concern him, whether they were Friends or Enemies; but his ſafeſt Way was to follow Jehu.

Ver. 20. And the watchman told, ſaying, He came even unto them, and cometh not again: and the driving is like the driving of Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi;] Who was his Grandfather, but a more eminent Perſon, it is likely, than Jehoſhaphat his Father; and ſo he was commonly called his Son.

For he driveth furiouſly.] He was noted, it ſeems, for Fierceneſs, and Eagerneſs in purſuing his Deſigns. But the Chaldee Paraphraſt takes it quite otherwiſe, that he drove ſlowly; as if he would intice Joram to come out of the City, and meet him; having no mind to engage in an Aſſault, or Siege of Jezreel.

Ver. 21. And Joram ſaid, Make ready. And his chariot was made ready. And Joram king of Iſrael, and Ahaziah king of Judah went out each in his chariot, and they went out againſt Jehu,] Not to fight him, but to meet him before he came to the City, that if there was any Sedition he might compoſe it by his Authority; or, perhaps, in Honour of Jehu; who he ſaw would deliver his News himſelf, and not intruſt a Meſſenger with it.

And met him in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.] By a ſpecial Providence of God, which brought them together in that Place.

Ver. 22. And it came to paſs when Joram ſaw Jehu, that he ſaid, Is it peace, Jehu?] Seeing him look ſternly, I ſuppoſe, he began to ſuſpect ſome Danger.

And he anſwered, What peace, ſo long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezabel, and her witchcrafts are ſo many?] He means her Idolatries, wherewith ſhe bewitched the People, ſtill continued, and were multiplied. Some think indeed that ſhe added Corporal Fornication to her Spiritual, and uſed evil Arts to provoke Men to filthy Luſts. And indeed all manner of Lewdneſs was wont to accompany Idolatry; and in Revel. ii. 20. they who are compared to Jezabel, are ſaid to intice Chriſtians to Fornication, and to eat things ſacrificed to Idols; unleſs by Fornication we there underſtand Idolatry, and by eating things ſacrified to idols, having Communion with Idolaters.

Ver. 23. Joram turned his hands,] The Hand of him that drove the Chariot.

And fled,] Towards Jezreel; where if he had kept, and enquired what Jehu came for, he might have defended himſelf for ſome Time againſt him.

And ſaid to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.] Which he diſcovered too late, having no Forces to reſiſt thoſe of Jehu.

Ver. 24. And Jehu drew a bow with his full ſtrength, and ſmote Jehoram between his arms,] Or, Shoulders; it being, I ſuppoſe, a Chariot open behind.

And the arrow went out at his heart, and he ſunk down in his chariot.] God ſo ordered it, that he ſhot him quite through the Heart; ſo that he died immediately.

Ver. 25. Then ſaid Jehu to Bidkar his captain, Take him, and caſt him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite:] Part of which Ahab had made a Garden; but the reſt remained a Field.

For remember, how that when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father,] With the reſt of his Guard, when he went to take Poſſeſſion of Naboth's Vineyard. In the Hebrew the Words are exactly thus, Remember, thou and I were among thoſe who rode two and two together after Ahab, &c. That is, he was attended by his Guard, who were wont to ride in Pairs, two and two, and Jehu and Bidkar rode at that Time together, and heard Elijah's Words.

The LORD laid this burden upon him.] This Puniſhment, which is frequently by the Prophets called a Burden (Iſaiah xiii. 1, &c.) was denounced againſt Ahab, and extended to his Son, 1 Kings xxi. 19. Where theſe very Words are not recorded; but Elijah ſaid more than is there ſet down, which Jehu well remembred.

Ver. 26. Surely, I have ſeen yeſterday the blood of Naboth, and the blood of his ſons, ſaid the LORD,] Some think that Jezabel contrived the Death of Naboth's Sons, together with their Father; that they might lay no Claim to the Poſſeſſion of their Father. But theſe Words may ſignify no more (as Grotius and others have obſerved) than the Poverty to which they were reduced. For all Puniſhments and Miſeries are called Blood among the Hebrews (Levit. xvii. 4.) and to take away their Eſtate, upon which they ſhould have lived, was in Effect to take away their Blood, in which is the Life of every Creature; as we ſay now of grievous Oppreſſors, that they ſuck the Blood of others; and commonly call them Blood-ſuckers.

And I will requite it in this place, ſaith the LORD. Now therefore take and caſt him into the plat of ground, according to the word of the LORD.] Without any Burial; that, according the Prophecy, he might be eaten by the Fowls of the Air, 1 Kings xxi. 24.

Ver. 27. But when Ahaziah king of Judah ſaw this, he fled by the way of the garden-houſe:] Which was built upon Part of Naboth's Vineyard.

And Jehu followed after him, and ſaid, Smite him alſo in the chariot: and they did ſo, at the going up to Gur, which is by Ibleam: and he fled to Megiddo,] He could not get to his own Country, and ſo ſheltred himſelf at Megiddo; which was not far from Samaria, whither his Servants carried him, as a ſafer Place (for he was not mortally wounded) and there he hid himſelf for fear of Jehu, as we read 2 Chron. xxii. 9.

And he died there.] Not at Megiddo; but being ſearched for and taken in Samaria, he was brought to Jehu at Jezreel, where he commanded him to be ſlain. Which ſeems to be beyond his Commiſſion: But as he was an Idolater, ſo he was of the bloody Houſe of Ahab by his Mother's Side, who was Ahab's Daughter, ter, viii. 18. And his Deſtruction was of God (as the Author of the ſecond Book of Chronicles obſerves, xxii. 7.) who prompted Jehu thus to underſtand his Command. Thus Abarbinel underſtands thoſe Words, he died there. Not in Megiddo, mentioned before, but in that Execution of God's Judgments on the Houſe of Ahab.

Ver. 28. And his ſervants carried him in a chariot to Jeruſalem, and buried him in his ſepulchre with his fathers, in the city of David.] Which Honour Jehu permitted to be done him, becauſe he was deſcended from the good Prince Jehoſhaphat. See 2 Chron. xxii. 9.

Ver. 29. And in the eleventh year of Joram the ſon of Ahab, began Ahaziah to reign over Judah.] See the foregoing Chapter, ver. 25.

Ver. 30. And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezabel heard of it, and ſhe painted her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window.] In the Hebrew it is, ſhe put her eyes in paint; that is, in Stibium, which made the Eyes look black, and was accounted beautiful; and alſo dilated the Eye-brows, and made the Eyes appear big; which, in ſome Countries, was alſo thought very amiable. See Grotius. This was not intended to tempt Jehu with her Beauty; but to keep up her Dignity and State to the very laſt: For ſhe was extreamly proud.

Ver. 31. And as Jehu entred in at the gate, ſhe ſaid, Had Zimri peace, who ſlew his maſter?] She thought perhaps he would not meddle with a Woman; and therefore took upon her to rebuke, and upbraid him with what he had done againſt her Son; bidding him remember what became of Zimri, who was cut off by Omri his Father-in-law, the Founder of Ahab's Family.

Ver. 32. And he lift up his face to the window, and ſaid, Who is on my ſide, who? And there looked out to him two or three Eunuchs.] Who, according to the Cuſtom of the Eaſtern Countries, were wont to attend upon Queens in their Chambers.

Ver. 33. And he ſaid, Throw her down. So they threw her down,] See how ſuddenly Courtiers change with the Fortune of their Maſter.

And ſome of her blood was ſprinkled on the wall, and on the horſes: and he trod her under foot.] With his Horſes. This ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors, particularly Ralbag and Kimchi, look upon as a Puniſhment, according to the Lex talionis, like for like. As ſhe had done, ſo ſhe ſuffered. For ſhe cauſed Naboth to be ſtoned; and now ſhe was condemned to be ſtoned her ſelf; for there were two Ways of ſtoning; either by throwing Stones at Malefactors, 'till they had knocked them down, and killed them; or by throwing them down upon the Stones from an high Place, and breaking them to Pieces. As Amaziah did with the Captives he took of Mount Seir, 2 Chron. xxv. 12. See Selden, Lib. i. De Synedriis, Cap. 5. p. 76, &c.

Ver. 34. And when he was come in, he did eat and drink, and ſaid, Go ſee now this curſed woman, and bury her:] That is, go and take Care of her Body, to ſee it decently buried.

For ſhe is a kings daughter.] And was alſo the Wife, and the Mother of a King, which moved him to have this Regard to her, as all Men naturally have to Royal Dignity; forgetting, in the mean Time, what Elijah had propheſied againſt her in his Hearing. Which he might eaſily do when he was merry, it is like, with eating and drinking liberally.

Ver. 35. And they went out to bury her, but they found no more of her than the skull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands.] All the reſt being eaten by the Dogs. For it is probable, when the Horſemen were gone, who trod her under Foot, the Footmen ſtripped her, and left her naked in her own Blood; expoſed to the hungry Dogs, that came out of the City and devoured her.

Ver. 36. Wherefore they came again, and told him: and he ſaid, This is the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by his ſervant Elijah the prophet,] Which he now called to Mind, as he did his Prophecy concerning Ahab and his Sons.

Saying, In the portion of Jezreel ſhall dogs eat the fleſh of Jezabel:] 1 Kings xxi. 23.

Ver. 37. And the carcaſe of Jezabel ſhall be as dung upon the face of the field, in the portion of Jezreel, ſo that they ſhall not ſay, This is Jezabel.] No Memory of her; nothing whereby to know there had been ſuch a Woman as Jezabel, ſhould remain of her; ſuppoſe a Picture, or Effigies, to which Men might point, and ſay, this is Jezabel. In our Language, perhaps we ſhould have ſaid, they ſhall not ſay, Here lies Jezabel: For no Monument was made for her, ſhe having no Sepulchre but in the Belly of Dogs. Theſe Words are not mentioned in 1 Kings xxi. being ſufficiently included in what is there recorded: But perfectly remembred by Jehu; who now more largely recites the Words of Elijah,

CHAP. X.

Verſe 1. AND Ahab had ſeventy ſons] It is likely that Grandſons are comprehended under the Name of Sons, as is uſual in Scripture; though by ſeveral Wives, he might have as many Sons as Gideon had.

In Samaria:] Unto which Place the Ruler of Jezreel had carried them, when they heard how Jehu had killed Joram; for fear they ſhould fall into his Hands. Or, perhaps, during the War with Syria, their Father had ſent them thither, as a Place of Security (it being a ſtrong City) in caſe of any ill Accident that might happen.

And Jehu wrote letters to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel,] The chief Noblemen of the Kingdom, who, I ſuppoſe, were fled thither with the King's Sons; and perhaps were met to deliberate what to do in this Juncture, whether or no to ſet up one of Ahab's Sons to be their King.

And to the elders,] The principal Perſons in Samaria.

And to thoſe who brought up Ahabs children, ſaying,] Theſe are called Omanim (Nouriſhers) becauſe they had the Care of his Children from their Infancy, and were now their Governours, as we call them; who were of his Kindred, ver. 11.

Ver. 2. Now as ſoon as this letter cometh to you, ſeeing your maſters ſons are with you, and there there are with you chariots and horſes, a fenced city alſo, and armour:

Ver. 3. Look even out the beſt and meeteſt of your maſters ſons, and ſet him on his fathers throne, and fight for your maſters houſe.] This he ſaid, becauſe, perhaps, he heard they were conſulting about a Succeſſor to Ahab. Or rather he inſults over them, and denounces War againſt them with Scorn and Deriſion, being ſecure of the Event, that they were not able to oppoſe him.

Ver. 4. But they were exceeding afraid, and ſaid, Behold, two kings ſtood not before him: how then ſhall we ſtand?] They were timorous Perſons, bred up it is likely in Eaſe and Delicacy. For this Argument had little in it; thoſe two Kings being unarmed, without any Forces; which they were furniſhed withal to defend themſelves, and their Maſter's Sons.

Ver. 5. And he that was over the houſe,] The High Steward, as we call him, of the King's Houſhold.

And he that was over the city,] The Governour of the City, who had all the Soldiers under his Command.

And the elders, and the bringers up of the kings children,] All the Senators, and the great Men that were intruſted with the Care of the King's Children.

Sent to Jehu, ſaying, We are thy ſervants, and will do all that thou ſhalt bid us; we will not make any king: do thou that which is good in thine eyes.] They baſely ſubmit to his Pleaſure, without making any Compoſition: Which it is likely they thought it to no Purpoſe to endeavour, and did not expect ſuch rigorous Uſage from him.

Ver. 6. Then he wrote a letter the ſecond time to them, ſaying, If ye be mine, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take the heads of your maſters ſons, and come to me to Jezreel by to morrow this time: (now the kings ſons being ſeventy perſons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up.)] This is repeated, to ſhew the vile Spirit of theſe great Men; that could deſtroy ſo many Royal Perſons, of whom they had the Care, and who had offended no body.

Ver. 7. And it came to paſs when the letter came to them, that they took the kings ſons, and ſlew ſeventy perſons, and put their heads in baskets,] They ſeem not to have deliberated about the Matter, though in it ſelf ſo horrid; but inſtantly obeyed him.

And ſent him them to Jezreel.] Following after themſelves, as appears from ver. 11. expecting perhaps to be thanked for what they had ſo readily done; but quite contrary, came to the ſame miſerable End.

Ver. 8. And there came a meſſenger, and told him, ſaying, They have brought the heads of the kings ſons. And he ſaid, Lay ye them in two heaps, at the entring of the gate, until the morning.] The Gate was the Place of publick Concourſe for Judgment, and other Buſineſs; ſo that the laying them there, was to expoſe them to publick View, that every one might know there was none of Ahab's Poſterity left to reign over them.

Ver. 9. And it came to paſs in the morning, that he went out, and ſtood, and ſaid to all the people,] Who were there gathered together, gazing upon this amazing Sight.

Ye be righteous:] Be not troubled; for none of you are to blame in all this.

Behold, I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlew him: but who ſlew all theſe?] If any were guilty, he acknowledges it was himſelf. But ſince they had ſlain ſo many, why ſhould he be to blame for ſlaying one? ſince he had Authority from God for what he did.

Ver. 10. Know now, that there ſhall fall unto the earth nothing of the word of the LORD, which the LORD ſpake concerning the houſe of Ahab:] In theſe Words he throws all the Guiit from off himſelf; being only God's Inſtrument to puniſh the Houſe of Ahab, as he had foretold by Elijah. And therefore he reſolved to proceed, 'till he had utterly extirpated all that depended on him.

For the LORD hath done] As if he had ſaid, This is not my doing, but the LORD's: Whoſe Command I obey.

That which he ſpake by his ſervant Eliſha.] He mentions what he denounced, rather than what Elijah commanded (x. 8.) becauſe the Words of Elijah were publickly known; whereas Eliſha's were ſpoken in private, and not by himſelf, but by one of the Sons of the Prophets, ix. 7, 8, 9.

Ver. 11. So Jehu ſlew all that remained of the houſe of Ahab in Jezreel, and all his great men,] Whom he had advanced to great Offices, or Dignities.

And his kinfolks,] All that had any relation to him.

And his prieſts,] Who had ſerved him in his idolatrous Worſhip, and confirmed him in it.

Until he left him none remaining.] In that Place: But there were ſtill ſome left in Samaria, ver. 17.

Ver. 12. And he aroſe and departed, and came to Samaria.] Having finiſhed his Work in Jezreel, he went to proſecute it, in the chief City of the Kingdom; which moſt needed Reformation.

And as he was at the ſheering-houſe in the way,] In the Hebrew the Words are, in the houſe of the ſhepherds binding. For they bound the Feet of their Sheep, when they ſheered them; and this was the Place where the Shepherds of Samaria were wont to do it.

Ver. 13. Jehu met with the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and ſaid, Who are ye? And they anſwered, We are the brethren of Ahaziah, and we are going to ſalute the children of the king, and the children of the queen.] That is, the Children of Joram, and the Children of Jezabel. But the Brethren of Ahaziah were carried Captive before this, as we read 2 Chron. xxi. 17. therefore by Brethren we muſt underſtand his Brother's Sons, as it is explained in 2 Chron. xxii. 8.

Ver. 14. And he ſaid, Take them alive. And they took them, and he ſlew them at the pit of the ſheering-houſe, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them.] They were allied to the Family of Ahab by the Mother's Side (viii. 18.) and therefore he thought his Commiſſion (ix. 8, 9.) extended thus far; being afraid alſo, it is likely, that they might, if they lived, be avenged of him for the Death of Joram, Ahaziah, Jezabel, and their Children, whom they were going to ſee.

Ver. 15. And when he was departed thence, he lighted upon Jonadab the ſon of Rechab, coming to meet him,] A very pious and prudent Perſon, as appears by his Precepts to his Son in the xxxvth of Jeremiah. Who hearing what Jehu had done, came, I ſuppoſe, to congratulate with him his Happineſs in fulfilling God's Commands; and to incourage him in his Proceedings to deſtroy Idolatry. Scaliger indeed in his Elench. Trihæreſ. c. 24. againſt Serrarius, endeavours to prove that this Jonadab was not he that gave thoſe Precepts to his Sons; but another in the Days of Jeremiah: For it is not likely, he thinks, that a Man addicted to ſuch a quiet Life as he inſtituted, would come to meet Jehu; and therefore this was ſome Military Perſon of great Note, who Jehu thought might be ſerviceable to him. But this is a weak Argument; for why might not Jonadab, though he loved Retirement, come to congratulate Jehu's Zeal againſt Idolatry, and Jehu be glad of ſuch a Man's Company, whoſe known Piety would gain him greater Reſpect than the Attendance of any great Captain could procure him.

And he ſaluted him,] Some think, that Jonadab ſaluted Jehu, and ſpake the Words following. But it ſeems plain to me that they are the Words of Jehu, who ſaluted him, as ſoon as he ſaw him, and enquired of his Welfare.

And ſaid, Is thy heart right, as my heart is with thy heart?] The King profeſſed great Love to him, and aſked him if he loved him as ſincerely, and approved his Actions, as he did Jonadab's Inſtitutions.

And Jonadab anſwered, It is.] The Expreſſion is double in the Hebrew, Yes, Yes, to ſignify a vehement Affection. Or, as a late Learned Writer (Gouſſet in his Comment. Hebr. Linguæ) will have it, the former is ſpoken by Jonadab, who ſaid it is; and the other by Jehu, who anſwered, is it? Then give me thy hand, &c.

If it be, give me thine hand:] In token of Friendſhip (Gal. ii. 9.) and of Fidelity: As it was among the Romans, it appears by many Places in Virgil: For inſtance, Æneid. 3.

Ipſe pater dextram Anchiſes, haud multa moratus,
Dat juveni atque animum præſenti pignore firmat.

And he gave him his hand, and he took him up to him into his chariot.] Which was a great Honour, and a Token of high Eſteem, to ride with the King in the ſame Chariot.

Ver. 16. And he ſaid, Come with me, and ſee my zeal for the LORD*:*] To vindicate his Honour, and fulfil his Commands.

So they made him ride in his chariot.] He ſpeaks in the Plural Number (they made him) becauſe the Servants, I ſuppoſe, opened the Door, and helped him up into the Chariot, when Jehu gave him his Hand.

Ver. 17. And when he came to Samaria, he ſlew all that remained unto Ahab in Samaria, 'till he had deſtroyed him,] Utterly rooted out his Family.

According to the ſaying of the LORD*, which he ſpake by Elijah.*] This is mentioned again, both to ſhew his Warrant for what he did; and his Exactneſs in fulfilling God's Command.

Ver. 18. And Jehu gathered all the people together,] That is, all the Heads of them, who repreſented the reſt.

And ſaid unto them, Ahab ſerved Baal a little, but Jehu ſhall ſerve him much.] His Zeal for the LORD exceeded its Bounds; for he ought not to have taken any indirect Courſe to fulfil his Will: As he did in counterfeiting as much Zeal for Baal, as he profeſſed to Jonadab he had for the LORD. God doth not ſtand in need of any Man's Sin, to compaſs his Ends: But Jehu made bold to diſſemble deeply for the Service of God; in which he cannot be excuſed.

Ver. 19. Now therefore call unto me all the prophets of Baal, all his ſervants, and all his prieſts, let none be wanting:] By Servants he doth not here mean his Worſhippers; but being joined with Prophets and Prieſts, they ſignified ſome that miniſtred with the Prieſts, in the Worſhip of Baal: Like the Levites among the People of God.

For I have a great ſacrifice to do to Baal;] He might poſſibly mean a Sacrifice not of Beaſts, but of Men; even of all the Worſhippers of Baal; but he intended they ſhould underſtand him otherwiſe, and therefore theſe Words were ſpoken to deceive.

Whoſoever ſhall be wanting, he ſhall not live.] He thought that ſome, who conſidered what Slaughter he had made of the Family of Ahab (who introduced the Worſhip of Baal, whom he pretended more highly to honour than Ahab had done) might ſuſpect his Deſign; and therefore he terrifies them with the Fear of Death, if they did not come to this great Sacrifice.

But Jehu did it in ſubtilty, that he might deſtroy the worſhippers of Baal.] By deſtroying his Prophets, and Miniſters, and Prieſts; who being all cut off, his Worſhip would fall to the Ground. But the next Verſes extend this further, to all the Worſhippers of Baal in the whole Country.

Ver. 20. And Jehu ſaid, Proclaim a ſolemn aſſembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it.] The laſt Day of the Feaſt of Tabernacles, the great Day of the Feaſt, is called by this Name of Atzarah; which we tranſlate a ſolemn Aſſembly: When it was not lawful to do any ſervile Work, but wholly attend to the Service of God, Levit. xxiii. 36. Such a Day he now cauſed to be ſanctified (as the Word is in the Hebrew) for the Service of Baal.

Ver. 21. And Jehu ſent through all Iſrael,] To give notice of this great Feaſt; and to require every one, upon pain of Death, to be preſent at it.

And all the worſhippers of Baal came, and there was not a man left, that came not: and they came into the houſe of Baal; and the houſe of Baal was full, from one end to another.] If this be meant of the whole Number of Baalites throughout the Kingdom, it ſeems ſcarce credible that the Temple of Baal ſhould be ſo large as to hold them all. But two Things are to be conſidered, Firſt, that this Houſe or Temple comprehended all the outward Courts of it (as it did at the Temple of Jeruſalem) which were very ſpacious. And

Secondly, the Number of his Worſhippers was much diminiſhed ſince the Death of Ahab: For Jehoram his Succeſſor had no great Kindneſs for the Worſhip of Baal (iii. 2.) and Men are apt to follow the Example of their King. Beſides, it is likely, Hazael King of Syria had deſtroyed many of them, in his Wars with Iſrael.

Ver. 22. And he ſaid to him that was over the veſtry, Bring forth veſtments for all the worſhippers of Baal. And he brought thom forth veſtments.] By all the worſhippers of Baal, are meant all the People that came to worſhip him: But his Miniſters and Prieſts, who alone wore Veſtments of a different kind from the reſt of the People; and ſo it was among the Jews, and all other Nations.

Ver. 23. And Jehu went, and Jonadab the ſon of Rechab into the houſe of Baal, and ſaid unto the worſhippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the ſervants of the LORD, but the worſhippers of Baal only.] He calls thoſe that worſhipped the Golden Calves, the Servants of the LORD: Becauſe they worſhipped the LORD by them, and abhorred the Worſhip of Baal: Whoſe Sacrifice he pretended to fear might be profaned, if any Strangers ſhould be preſent at it. According to the common Saying among the Heathen, Procul, o procul eſte profani.

Ver. 24. And when they went in to offer ſacrifices, and burnt-offerings,] When they had begun their ſacred Offices.

He appointed fourſcore men without, and ſaid, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands eſcape, he that lets him go, his life ſhall be for the life of him.] This was but a ſmall Number for ſuch an Execution. But, it is likely, though no more appeared, yet there were others ready at hand to ſupport them, if need were, in the Undertaking. Or rather, theſe were ſet at the ſeveral Gates of the outward Courts; that if any endeavoured to make their Eſcape, they might kill them. But the next Verſe ſeems to ſignify there was a greater Body of Men, that went for that Purpoſe into the Temple.

Ver. 25. And it came to paſs as ſoon as they had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, that Jehu ſaid to the guard, and to the captains,] Of thoſe Troops that he had ſet to keep the Peace, as he pretended, and prevent all Diſturbance.

Go in, and ſlay them, let none come forth. And they ſmote them with edge of the ſword, and the guard and the captains caſt them out,] There is nothing in the Hebrew that anſwers to the Word them: Nor is it likely, that the Captains and Soldiers troubled themſelves to caſt their Bodies out of the Temple; where they were rather buried in its Ruins. But the Meaning is, having done this Execution, the Guard and Captains ruſhed out of the Temple in great Haſte, and immediately ran to the City of the Houſe of Baal, as it here follows.

And went to the city of the houſe of Baal.] That is, a Place near to Samaria, where Baal had another Temple; which gave Name to the Place. Or rather there were great Buildings adjoining to the Temple of Baal in Samaria, where the Prophets, and Prieſts, and their Servants lived; called a City, becauſe they were ſo large.

Ver. 26. And they brought forth the images out of the houſe of Baal, and burnt them.] They worſhipped ſeveral other leſſer Gods (whoſe Images they had in this Temple) together with the Supreme God, whom they called Baal; as the others were called Baalim. So Servius writes upon the firſt of the Georgicks, that veteri ritu, according to ancient Cuſtom, after the Prieſts had invoked the ſpecial Gods to whom the Sacrifice was intended, generaliter omnia Numina invocabantur, all the Gods were invoked, leſt any of them ſhould think themſelves neglected.

Ver. 27. And they brake down the image of Baal, and brake down the houſe of Baal,] Demoliſhed his Temple, and the Image of Baal in it: Which was either the Sun, or Belus.

And made it a draught-houſe unto this day.] It was turned into a Jakes, as we now ſpeak, a Place where Men went to eaſe Nature; which was the higheſt Contempt that could be put upon it.

Ver. 28. Thus Jehu deſtroyed Baal out of Iſreal.] So that he was never worſhipped more in this Country; but they were perfectly freed from this ſort of Idolatry. Which muſt be acknowledged to have been a very great Work: All the Eaſtern People, and particularly the Syrians and Zidonians, and other neighbouring Nations, being addicted to this Worſhip, and had been ſo from ancient Time; as what I obſerved before ſhews (1 Kings xvi. 31.) from the many Cities, Woods, Mountains, and Fountains, which before Joſhua's Time were known by the Name of Baal: And there is mention of Baal-Shaliſha in this Book, iv. 42.

Ver. 29. Howbeit, from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin, Jehu departed not from them, to wit, the golden calves that were in Beth-el, and in Dan.] Which he ſtill worſhipped; being afraid, as his Predeceſſors were, that if he took them away, as he had done Baal, the People would return to the Houſe of David. For which Reaſon all the following Kings of Iſrael continued this falſe Worſhip 'till their Captivity; when theſe Calves were carried away with them. So they ſay in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. xxii. In the twentieth Year of Pekah came Tiglath-pileſer, and took away the golden Calf that was in Dan, and departed; which they endeavour to prove out of 2 Chron. xxviii. 20, 21. And a little after, in the twelfth year of Ahaz, the LORD ſtirred up the ſpirit of the king of Aſſyria, and he carried away the golden calf in Beth-el, and departed: fulfilling what is written, Hoſ. x. 6.

Ver. 30. And the LORD ſaid unto Jehu,] By ſome Prophet; either Eliſha, or the young Man that was ſent to anoint Jehu; or ſome other.

Becauſe thou haſt done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and haſt done unto the houſe of Ahab according to all that was in mine heart, thy children of the fourth generation ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael.] His partial Obedience was not without its Reward: Which had been greater if he had been as zealous in all things as he was in this one Inſtance: The following Hiſtory ſhews the Truth of this Prediction:

The Kingdom continuing in his Poſterity, 'till the Days of Zechariah, who was the fourth from Jehu (xv. 8.) and reigned only ſo long, as to make good this Prophecy.

Ver. 31. But Jehu took no care to walk in the law of the LORD God of Iſrael, with all his heart: For he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam, which made Iſrael to ſin.] This Admonition from God (which ſufficiently ſhewed he was not well pleaſed with him) did him no good; but Policy prevailed againſt Religion, and perſwaded him to continue the old Idolatry, when he had deſtroyed the new.

Ver. 32. In thoſe days the LORD began to cut Iſrael ſhort: and Hazael ſmote them in all the coaſts of Iſrael;] He took ſeveral of their Frontier Towns, I ſuppoſe, and thereby opened a Way to make great Ravages in their Country. For though Jehu was a valiant Man, yet God did not proſper him, becauſe he was not a ſincere Servant of his.

Ver. 33. From Jordan eaſtward, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, the Reubenites, and the Manaſſites, from Aroer (which is by the river Arnon) even Gilead and Baſhan.] This fully explains what was ſaid in the foregoing Verſe, that God cut them ſhort. For Hazael took all their Country beyond Jordan: The whole Kingdom, which the Iſraelites took from Sihon and Og. Thus theſe Countries which the Iſraelites firſt conquered, were the firſt that they loſt.

Ver. 34. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] Which was extant in thoſe Days when this was written; and related his Hiſtory more at large: Of which this is a brief Abridgment.

Ver. 35. And Jehu ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 36. And the time that Jehu reigned over Iſrael, was twenty and eight years.] Longer than any of the Kings of Iſrael his Predeceſſors.

CHAP. XI.

Verſe 1. AND when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah ſaw that her ſon was dead, ſhe aroſe, and deſtroyed all the ſeed royal.] There was many of them cut off by Jehu, as we read in the foregoing Chapter; and not a few by others, 2 Chron. xxi. 4. xxii. 1. but now their Deſtruction was compleated by Athaliah. Who, as ſhe was ambitious of Government, ſo ſhe was enraged to ſee Ahab's Family cut off; and therefore reſolved to do as much by the Houſe of David. And perhaps ſhe was afraid Jehu ſhould come and kill her becauſe ſhe was of the Houſe of Ahab; and therefore endeavoured to ſtrengthen her ſelf, by getting into the Throne; which ſhe could not compaſs, without the Deſtruction of the Royal Family. For ſhe was a wicked woman, as ſhe is elſewhere called; and had played the Harlot with another Man, by whom ſhe had Children; as the Jewiſh Doctors gather from 2 Chron. xxiv. 7.

Ver. 2. But Jehoſheba the daughter of king Joram,] Not by Athaliah, but by another Wife. For Athaliah would not have ſuffered her Daughter to be married to the High-Prieſt, nor would he (in all likelihood) have married the Daughter of ſuch a Woman.

Siſter of Ahaziah,] By the Father's Side.

Took Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, and ſtole him away from the kings ſons that were ſlain;] Some think that he was thrown among them, and thought to be dead; but ſhe ſnatched him away, and brought him to Life. Or, as P. Martyr underſtands it, his Nurſe threw him among the ſlain on purpoſe to ſave his Life, and came afterwards and ſtole him away. But the plain Meaning ſeems to be, that they being all ordered to be ſlain, ſhe ſecretly ſtole him away and preſerved him.

And they hid him,] That is, ſhe and her Huſband Jehoiada the High-Prieſt, to whom ſhe was married, 2 Chron. xxii. 11.

And his nurſe in the bed-chamber, from Athaliah, ſo that he was not ſlain.] It appears by the next Verſe, that this Bed-chamber was in the Houſe of the LORD; that is, the Temple. Which doth not in the Scripture always ſignify the Sanctuary; but in a larger Senſe comprehends all the Courts belonging to it. So Kimchi obſerves, that the whole mountain of the houſe is called the houſe of the LORD. And this Chamber here ſpoken of was in the outward Court of all, called by Joſephus πρῶτον ἱερὸν, the firſt holy place. For in the inner Court no body lay, nor might any Woman come into it. See l'Empereur upon Codex Middoth. Cap. 2. Sect. 3.

Ver. 3. And he was with her in the houſe of the LORD, ſix years:] The Miniſters of God were ſo true to Jehoiada, that he lay thus long undiſcovered.

And Athaliah did reign over the land.] Not de Jure (as the Lawyers ſpake) but de Facto. For if we may believe the Jews, it was not lawful for a Woman to reign over them. So Maimonides in the Treatiſe Melachim, they do not place a woman on the throne, becauſe it is ſaid, Deut. xvii. 15. If thou wilt ſet a king over thee, and not a queen. And ſo in all the prefectures in Iſrael, they place none but men. She being therefore an Uſurper, it may ſeem ſtrange ſhe held the Throne ſo long as ſix Years, againſt the Conſtitution of the Kingdom. But in after Ages there is an Example of one that held it longer. For Alexandra the Widow of Jannæus, after the Death of her Huſband, poſſeſſed her ſelf of the Throne, and reigned nine Years, as Joſephus relates, L. xiii. Antiq. Cap. 24. See Schickard in his Miſhpat Hamelech. Cap. 2. Theorem 3.

Ver. 4. And the ſeventh year Jehoiada ſent and fet] Jehoiada was not a meer private Man, but a Perſon of great Authority in the Kingdom, who knowing Athaliah was an Uſurper, and that he had the right Heir to the Kingdom in his Poſſeſſion, (which if he had not, his own Wife had a better Right than Athaliah) thought he had ſufficient Warrant to dethrone her, and ſet up him that had the undoubted Title to the Crown. Which he did when he was ſeven Years old; becauſe then he grew ſo big, that he could not well be longer concealed; cealed; and it was fit alſo he ſhould be educated in a Royal manner; which he could not be while he lay hid.

The rulers over hundreds,] The Names of five of them are ſet down in 2 Chron. xxiii. 1. who were all, ſome think, of the Tribe of Levi. For they of that Tribe were the Perſons principally employed in this Undertaking, as appears by the Sequel. But we learn from that Place in the Chronicles, ver. 2. that whoſoever they were, they went about all Judah, and gathered not only the Levites, but the chief of the fathers of Iſrael.

With the captains of the guard,] The chief Commanders of the Soldiery, and thoſe that had been the former King's Guard: For it is not likely he durſt call thoſe who were the Guard of the preſent Queen.

And brought them to him into the houſe of the LORD,] Into that Part of it where Joaſh was kept, where Jehoiada diſcourſed with them.

And made a covenant with them, and took an oath of them in the houſe of the LORD, and ſhewed them the kings ſon.] He diſcovered to them the true Heir of the Crown, and they entred into a Covenant to reſtore him: Which they bound with an Oath of Secrecy.

Ver. 5. And he commanded them, ſaying, This is the thing that ye ſhould do;] Theſe Words and thoſe that follow, are certainly ſpoken to the Prieſts, and Levites (with whom thoſe Captains before-mentioned were to join) as Men whom Jehoiada had perfectly under his Command, and whom he could truſt: To whom he gives the following Orders.

A third part of you that enter in on the ſabbath, ſhall even be keepers of the watch of the kings houſe:] The Prieſts and Levites took their Turns in their Attendance at the Temple; and their Courſe was finiſhed in the ſpace of a Week. Every Week a Courſe went out, and another came in. Now they who now entred upon their Week of Attendance (which was on the Eve of every Sabbath) were divided by Jehoiada into three Parts; one of which he here orders to guard the King's Houſe. That is, that Part of the Temple on the North, where he lodged, and was now educated.

Ver. 6. And a third part ſhall be at the gate of Sur:] That is, the Eaſt Gate of the Temple, towards the City; which was the principal (and at the firſt, the only) Entrance into the Houſe of the LORD. This is called the gate of the foundation, 2 Chron. xxiii. 5. and by five other Names (if we may believe the Talmudiſts) where another Part were ordered to guard it. Abarbinel thinks this Eaſtern Gate was called Sur, being as much as to ſay, go back: Becauſe no unclean Perſon durſt enter into this Gate. And the Gate of the Foundation, becauſe it was as he ſpeaks, the Gate of the firſt Sanctity.

And a third part at the gate behind the guard:] The other third Part he ſet at the South Gate, which looketh towards the Royal Palace; and through which Athaliah was wont to come, and therefore had a Guard near this Place. Behind which theſe Levites were placed by Jehoiada, to obſerve their Motions.

So ſhall ye keep the watch of the houſe, that it be not broken down.] They were to take ſpecial Care, that the Houſe of the LORD were not any Way profaned; ſuffering none to come nearer to it than they ought. And particularly watching thoſe out of the Palace, that they did not defile it. So de Dieu thinks the Word Maſſach (which we tranſlate be not broken down) ought to be underſtood, being as much as be Maſſach, by pulling away thoſe that ſhall dare to pollute the holy Place, and would come in to hurt the King. Or, as other learned Men have interpreted it, they were to keep the Watch of the Houſe at the Breach: Which the wicked Sons of Athaliah (which ſhe had by another Man) had made, as we read 2 Chron. xxiv. 7. Dr Lightfoot thinks that beſides theſe three Parts for the Deſign which Jehoiada intended, there were three more (ſix in all) for the ordinary Service of the Temple. For he would not have that neglected, while he took care of the Affairs of the Kingdom. See his Book of the Temple, Chap. xx.

Ver. 7. And two parts of all you that go forth on the ſabbath,] It is well known, that David divided the Prieſts into twenty-four Courſes, to attend the Service of the Temple in their Turns: Every one of which Courſes miniſtred their Week from Sabbath to Sabbath. So Joſephus ſaith expreſsly, he ordained each ſhould miniſter eight Days, ἀπὸ Σαββάτου ἐπὶ Σαββάτου, from one Sabbath to another, Lib. 8. Antiq. Cap. 2. For that Courſe which went out, did not depart 'till the Sabbath was over; and that which came in, entred when it began; as the Learned Mr Whiſton in his late Chronology expounds the Words of Joſephus, pag. 156.

Even they ſhall keep the watch of the houſe of the LORD about the king.] He adds two Parts of thoſe who had finiſhed their Courſe, and went off, to go home into the Country; whom he would have to ſtay at Jeruſalem, and aſſiſt the reſt before-named; eſpecially in ſtrengthning that Part of the Temple that lay towards the Palace; or rather to be the King's Guard, when he came out of his Lodgings (where he was at preſent) into the Court of the LORD's Houſe.

Ver. 8. And ye ſhall compaſs the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand: and he that cometh within the ranges, he ſhall be ſlain;] By the ranges is to be underſtood, if not the Ranks of Men, that ſtood about the Mountain of the Houſe of the LORD, the Ranks of Trees that grew on either Side of the Cauſey, or the Rails that were ſet on either Side of it, for the Stay and Safety of thoſe that paſſed upon it. See Dr Lightfoot in the ſame Place.

And be ye with the king as he goeth out, and as he cometh in.] When he went out to walk, or do any other thing; and when he returned to his Apartment.

Ver. 9. And the captains of the hundreds did according to all that Jehoiada commanded: and they took every man his men that were to come in on the ſabbath, and with thoſe that ſhould go out on the ſabbath, and came to Jehoiada the prieſt.] To ſhew they were all diſpoſed according to his Order.

Ver. 10. And to the captains of the hundreds did the prieſt give king Davids ſpears and ſhields that were in the houſe of the LORD.] They did did not come armed into the Temple, leſt they ſhould give any Suſpicion; but Jehoiada furniſhed them with ſuch Weapons as the Temple afforded; particularly with the Spears and Shields which King David had uſed, and dedicated after all his Wars, as Monuments of God's Goodneſs to him; and perhaps ſeveral Spears and Shields of great Men, which he had taken as Spoils in his Wars.

Ver. 11. And the guard ſtood, every man with his weapons in his hand, round about the king, from the right corner of the temple to the left corner of the temple, along by the altar and the temple.] The Guard within the Court mentioned ver. 7. ſtood from the South Part of the Temple towards the Palace, to the North Part of it, where the King lay hid; about the great Altar of Burnt-offering (which was at the Eaſt-gate) and the Sanctuary; and then the King was brought forth, and placed below the Altar, that all might ſee him.

Ver. 12. And he brought out the kings ſon, and put the crown upon him, and gave him the teſtimony, and they made him king, and anointed him,] Having produced Joaſh, he put the Crown on his Head (which I ſuppoſe was kept in the Sanctuary) and then put the Book of the Law into his Hand, according to Deut. xvii. 18, 19. which is called the Teſtimony, becauſe God therein teſtified what he would have the King and them all do. And thereupon he declared him to be King of Judah; and then anointed him: Which it was not neceſſary to do (and therefore he is ſaid to be made King before it was done) being the Son of a King; had not Athaliah diſturbed the Succeſſion, and pretended to the Kingdom. Therefore to ſettle all things, he was anointed as Solomon and Jehu were. But there is a Doubt what is meant by Eduth, which we tranſlate Teſtimony; ſuppoſing it comes from the Root, which ſignifies to teſtify. But there are thoſe, particularly Forſterius, Avenarius, and others of greater note, who derive it from the Hebrew Word Adah, which ſignifies to cloath, put on, and adorn; and ſo take Eduth for ſome Royal Ornament, which was a Mark of Kingly Dignity, and that, it is probable, might be a Bracelet which Jehoiada put upon the young King, together with the Crown. This Conjecture is countenanced by what we read of the Amalekite, who brought the Bracelet on Saul's Arm to David, as well as the Crown that was on his Head. See Fortunatus Scacchus Myrothec. iii. Cap. 41.

And they clapt their hands, and ſaid, God ſave the king.] The Guards and the People (as the next Verſe explains it) teſtified their Joy, by clapping their Hands and ſhouting, as they did at King Solomon's Coronation, 1 Kings i. 34, 39. For clapping of hands was a Token of Joy, as appears by many Places, Pſal. xlvii. 1. Iſa. lv. 12.

Ver. 13. And when Athaliah heard the noiſe of the guards, and of the people,] Who were now aſſembled to ſee their King.

She came to the people, into the temple of the LORD.] Into the outward Court where they were met together. And ſhe ſeems in a great Fright to have come alone, or but few Attendants with her.

Ver. 14. And when ſhe looked, behold, the king ſtood by a pillar, as the manner was,] Some of the Jews, and many great Men among Chriſtian Writers, underſtand by this Pillar the brazen Scaffold, which Solomon erected at the Dedication of the Temple, 2 Chron. vi. 13. But the plaineſt Meaning ſeems to me, that he ſtood by the Poſt of the Eaſte-gate in the inner Court, where the Station of the King was. Which Vitringa hath made probable (in his Synagoga Vet. p. 31, &c.) where he obſerves, that the King alone entred at the Eaſt-gate on the Sabbath, and the new Moons; But on the other Days at the South or North-gate, where the People entred; which he gathers from Ezek. xlvi. 1, 2. He ſtood, I ſuppoſe, only to be better ſeen by the People; otherwiſe ſitting was a Poſture of Authority.

And the princes, and the trumpeters by the king and all the people of the land rejoiced, and blew with trumpets:] This made her ſoon apprehend the danger ſhe was in, as it here follows. For the People when they ſaw their young King expreſſed their Joy, it is likely, in ſome ſuch Acclamations as the People of Rome made at the Inauguration of Claudius, Claudi Auguſte, Principem te, aut qualis tu es ſemper Octavianus, te reſpublica requirebat, tu Frater, tu Pater, tu Amicus, tu bonus Senator, tu vere Princeps, as Trebel. Pollio relates in his Life. For though Joaſh had done nothing praiſe-worthy, being but a Child; yet they rejoiced in the Felicity which they promiſed themſelves in his Reign, under the Government of ſuch a Man as Jehoiada.

And Athaliah rent her clothes, and cried, Treaſon, treaſon.] Adding, as Joſephus relates, Take that Boy and kill him; meaning Joaſh, in whoſe Behalf this Conſpiracy, as ſhe called it, was made againſt her. But ſhe ſpake like a diſtracted Woman, there being no body on her Side, to execute any of her Commands.

Ver. 15. And Jehoiada the prieſt commanded the captains of hundreds, and the officers of the hoſt, and ſaid unto them, Have her without the ranges;] Through which they had ſuffered her to come, being a Queen, contrary to the Order, ver. 8.

And him that followeth her, kill with the ſword.] If any body appeared to abet and reſcue her, he commanded him to be ſlain.

For the prieſt had ſaid, Let her not be ſlain in the houſe of the LORD.] From whence they dragged her, 'till they had brought her down to the Bottom of the Cauſey, and there they ſlew her.

Ver. 16. And they laid hands on her, and ſhe went by the way which the horſes came into the kings houſe, and there ſhe was ſlain.] That is, ſaith the ſame Author (Chap. 5. Sect. 2. of the Temple) they got her out of the Mountain of the Houſe, and brought her down the Cauſey; and when ſhe came near the Horſe-gate, through which the Horſes went up out of the Stables of Millo, when the King had occaſion for them, there they ſlew her.

By which the horſes came into the kings houſe.] There was another Horſe-gate in the main Wall of the City, Jerem. xxxi. 39. But that was diſtinct from this; which was peculiar to the King's Horſes: And therefore a diſtinctive Character is ſet upon it, that it was the Horſe-gate towards the king's houſe, 2 Chron. xxxiii. 15. So it ſhould be rendred, rather than by the king's houſe: For neither of theſe Gates were near his Houſe, but at a Diſtance from it; and we may call this Gate here ſpoken of, the back-way to the King's Houſe at the Stable-gate.

Ver. 17. And Jehoiada made a covenant between the LORD, and the king and the people, that they ſhould be the LORDs people;] He firſt takes Care about Religion, and engaged them in a ſolemn Covenant to root out Idolatry, and to reſtore the true Worſhip of God, and continue in it.

Between the king alſo and the people.] That they ſhould be his obedient Subjects, and he ſhould govern them by the Law. This was directly agreeable to the Apoſtolick Precept, Fear God, and honour the King.

Ver. 18. And all the people of the land went to the houſe of Baal, and brake it down; his altars and his images brake they in pieces throughly,] Accordingly they began immediately to make good their Covenant, in deſtroying the Worſhip of Baal: Which had been introduced among the People of Judah by Jehoram, viii. 8. and was continued by Ahaziah, ver. 27.

And ſlew Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altar:] To which it is poſſible he fled, as a Place of Refuge; or they dragged him hither to make him a Victim to his God.

And the prieſt appointed officers over the houſe of the LORD.] Levites to keep the Door; leſt any one who was unclean ſhould enter into it. See more, 2 Chron. xxiii. 18, 19.

Ver. 19. And he took the rulers over hundreds, and the captains, and the guards, and the people of the land,] Brought them out of the Temple, that they might conduct the King to his Palace, as it here follows.

And they brought down the king from the houſe of the LORD, and came by the way of the gate of the guard to the kings houſe,] By that Gate of the King's Palace, where a Guard was to be kept for his Safety.

And he ſat on the throne of the kings.] Which was the Accompliſhment of his Inauguration.

Ver. 20. And all the people of the land rejoiced,] Applauding what Jehoiada had done.

And the city was in quiet;] No body appeared in Defence of Athaliah.

And they ſlew Athaliah with the ſword beſide the kings houſe.] Not far from it: The People having ſo little Kindneſs for her, that they ſuffered her to be ſlain without any Oppoſition. In the Chronicles indeed the Words are, the city was in quiet after that they had ſlain Athaliah, 1 Chron. xxii. 21. Which may import there was ſome Buſtle before, when ſhe was apprehended; but after her Death there was no ſtir: Nor do we read they were ſo much concerned for her, as to bury her.

Ver. 21. Seven years old was Jehoaſh when he began to reign.] Being ſo very young he was very unfit for ſo weighty a Charge; but he was under the Direction of ſo excellent a Counſellor, that while Jehoiada lived, all things went well, and the Nation was very happy, as we read in the next Chapter. But that good Man being dead, he was ſeduced by ſome great Men about him to Idolatry, 2 Chron. xxiv. 17, &c. Which ſhews him to have been a weak Prince, who wanted Judgment in things of greateſt Moment.

CHAP. XII.

Verſe 1. IN the ſeventh year of Jehu, Jehoaſh began to reign; and forty years he reigned in Jeruſalem: And his mothers name was Zibiah of Beer-ſheba.

Ver. 2. And Jehoaſh did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD all his days, wherein Jehoiada the prieſt inſtructed him.] This Hiſtory ſhews of what Advantage it is to have good Inſtructors and Counſellors about a King. For Jehoiada preſerved Joaſh in good Ways while he lived: But when he was dead, Joaſh changed his Manners, and was perſwaded by the Flatteries of ſome of his Courtiers to fall into Idolatry; and he killed the Son of this pious Jehoiada, who reprieved him for it, 2 Chron. xxiv. 17, 21.

Ver. 3. But the high places were not taken away: the people ſtill ſacrificed, and burnt incenſe in the high places.] Theſe private Altars (on which they ſacrificed to the true God) I obſerved before, were not removed by the beſt of their Kings, 'till the Reign of Hezekiah. And this King was too young, and his Authority too weak (though he had Jehoiada to aſſiſt him) to attempt to break ſuch a long continued Cuſtom; eſpecially when ſome of the Princes in their Hearts were Idolaters.

Ver. 4. And Jehoaſh ſaid unto the prieſts,] The Houſe of God being ſuffered to run to Decay, in the Time of Athaliah, and her Son; Joaſh, in Gratitude to God who had preſerved him there reſolved to have it repaired; and, in order to it, commanded what Money ſhould be ſet apart for that Purpoſe.

All the money of the dedicated things that are brought into the houſe of the LORD,] That had been, or ſhould hereafter be brought and dedicated to the Service of God, and of the Temple.

Even the money of every one that paſſeth the account,] This and the following Money he commanded the Prieſts and Levites to go through the Kingdom, and gather it for the Repair of the Temple, as we are told, 2 Chron. xxiv. 5. They were not to expect 'till the People ſhould bring it in, but go and gather it, every Man of his Acquaintance, where he knew it to be due. And ſo the foregoing Words are to be tranſlated, not that is brought, but to be brought into the Houſe of the LORD. Which Money aroſe three Ways; the firſt is here mentioned, the Money of every one that paſſeth (for the Words the account are not in the Hebrew) which ſome underſtand of the Offering which pious People of other Nations made, who came to worſhip at Jeruſalem, 1 Kings viii. 41. Or rather, of thoſe who were come to twenty Years of Age, and being paſt that, were to pay half a Shekel. This had been much neglected in the Time of Athaliah (as the Jewiſh Doctors think) but now being carefully gathered, there was enough to maintain the daily Sacrifice (which was ſupported ported out of this Money) and to carry on alſo the Reparation of the Temple. Though Abarbinel thinks it was wholly applied to the Reparation; and the People voluntarily offered for the maintaining of the daily Morning and Evening Sacrifice.

The money that every man is ſet at,] This was the ſecond Way: By the Money that every Man who had vowed himſelf to God, was to pay, by the Eſtimation that the Prieſt ſhould make for his Redemption; according to that Law, Levit. xxviii. 2, 3. For ſo the Words are here in the Hebrew, the money, of a man whoſe taxation is the money of his ſoul. That is, who is taxed ſuch a Sum of Money, whereby his Soul might be freed from the Vow wherewith he had bound himſelf. For 'till this Money was paid, his Life was not his own, but God's.

And all the money that cometh into any mans heart to bring into the houſe of the LORD,] This was the third ſort of Money for the Reparation of the Temple; that which any Man would give freely for that Service which they were to receive of them.

Ver. 5. Let the prieſt take it to them, every man of his acquaintance, and let them repair the breaches of the houſe, whereſoever any breach ſhall be found.] This Money, thus collected, he intruſted with the Prieſts, and commanded them to ſee it employed to the Uſe for which it was given.

Ver. 6. And it was ſo, that in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoaſh, the prieſts had not repaired the breaches of the houſe.] They were both dilatory and careleſs in gathering the Money (2 Chron. xxiv. 5.) and did not bring in what they had gathered to begin the Work. Whereupon the King revoked his former Order, and intruſted other Men (as it here follows) with this Work. Thus are Things ſeldom done well, that are committed to the Care of many.

Ver. 7. Then king Jehoaſh called Jehoiada the prieſt, and the other prieſts, and ſaid unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the houſe? Now therefore receive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it for the breaches of the houſe.] He ordered two Things; Firſt, that they ſhould gather no more Money of the People; and Secondly, that they ſhould not have the Care of ſeeing the Temple repaired; but pay what had been gathered into other Hands.

Ver. 8. And the prieſts conſented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repair the breaches of the houſe.] They ſubmitted to the King's new Orders, and wholly committed the Buſineſs to thoſe whom he thought fit to employ.

Ver. 9. And Jehoiada the prieſt took a cheſt,] By the King's Order, 2 Chron. xxiv. 8.

And bored a hole in the lid of it, and ſet it beſide the altar, on the right ſide, as one cometh into the houſe of the LORD:] On the right Side of the Gate that went into the Court of the Prieſts: Not far from the Altar which was within the Court, appears from 2 Chron. xxiv. 8. Dr Lightfoot thinks theſe two Texts do not relate to the ſame Time. For at the firſt the Cheſt was ſet in the very Court of the Prieſts near to the Altar, as it is here ſaid in this Place: So that the Money ſtill paſſed through the Prieſt's Fingers; who took it of the People and put it into the Cheſt which was in their Court, where the People could not come at it. But the Money not coming in ſo faſt as was expected this Way; he removed the Cheſt, or made another, and ſet it without the Court, at the Entrance of it, where every one might have Acceſs unto it. And he proclaimed through all the Country they ſhould bring in their Money thither: Which came in ſo plentifully, that there was enough for the Repair of the Houſe, and for other Uſes alſo.

And the prieſts that kept the door, put therein all the money brought into the houſe of the LORD.] There was a Proclamation made, that all the People ſhould bring in their half Shekel, which Moſes commanded every one of ſuch an Age to pay: And they brought it to the Prieſts who ſtood at the Door, that let into their Court, and ſaw them put it into the Cheſt, 2 Chron. xxiv. 9.

Ver. 10. And it was ſo, when they ſaw there was much money in the cheſt, that the kings ſcribe, and the high prieſt came up, and they put up in bags, and told the money that that was found in the houſe of the LORD.] The High-Prieſt would have a Witneſs of his Actions, leſt he ſhould be ſuſpected of any Fraud, as perhaps others had been; and would not open the Cheſt without the Aſſiſtance of the King's Secretary of State; nor would he open it in the Temple, but had it brought by the Levites into the King's Office; and there the Secretary and the high Prieſt, or any Officer of his, emptied the Cheſt, and told the Money, and then put it up in Bags which it is likely they ſealed; and then they ſent the Cheſt into its Place again. This they did every Day, as we read 2 Chron. xxiv. 11.

Ver. 11. And they gave the money, being told, into the hands of them that did the work, and had the overſight of the houſe of the LORD:] Theſe Bags of Money were delivered (by the King and Jehoiada, 2 Chron. xxiv 12.) not to the Prieſts, whom the King had found tardy, and perhaps faulty in converting the Money to their own Uſes; but to ſome ſelect Perſons who had this peculiar Buſineſs committed to them, to ſee the Reparation, and to employ good Workmen, and to pay them their Wages.

And they laid it out to the carpenters and builders that wrought upon the houſe of the LORD,] To buy Materials for the Work, as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 12. And to maſons, and hewers of ſtone, and to buy timber, and hewed ſtone to repair the breaches of the houſe of the LORD, and for all that was laid out for the houſe to repair it.] For all other Things, of what kind ſoever they were, which they found neceſſary for the Reparation.

Ver. 13. Howbeit, there were not made for the houſe of the LORD, bowls of ſilver, ſnuffers, baſons, trumpets, any veſſels of gold, or veſſels of ſilver, of the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD.] Though theſe were wanting, yet the Money was limited to the Reparations of the Houſe; and the King ordered that no Veſſel of any ſort ſhould be bought for the Temple, 'till the Temple it ſelf was put into a good Condition. So the LXX render it, there ſhall none be made for the the houſe any veſſels, &c. (that is, he commanded there ſhould be none made) but all given to the fore-named Workmen, as long as there needed any Reparations. So it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 14. But they gave that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the houſe of the LORD.] The Maſons and Carpenters, and ſuch like Workmen, had all the Money, to be laid out according to their Diſcretion, upon the Reparation of the Temple alone, 'till the Work was finiſhed. And then they gave an Account of what Money remained in their Hands, and that was laid out to purchaſe ſuch Veſſels as are before mentioned, for the Service of the Temple, 2 Chron. xxiv. 14.

Ver. 15. Moreover, they reckoned not with the men, into whoſe hands they delivered the money to be beſtowed on workmen: for they dealt faithfully.] They were ſo confident of the Honeſty of the Overſeers, that they took no Account of the Money they had paid the Workmen; who were alſo Men of ſuch clear Reputation, that what they laid out was not queſtioned. This was a rare Example of Fidelity in managing the publick Money; and there was one Man in Greece, Ariſtides, who was ſo truſty in the Opinion of all the People.

Ver. 16. The treſpaſs-money and the ſin-money was not brought into the houſe of the LORD: it was the prieſts.] This Money was not applied to the foreſaid Uſe; but put into the Hands of the Prieſts, that Sacrifices for Treſpaſſes and Sins might be offered for thoſe that gave it.

Ver. 17. Then Hazael king of Syria went up, and fought againſt Gath, and took it:] This was a City of the Philiſtines, but taken by King David, and added to the Dominions of Iſrael (1 Chron. xviii. 1. 2 Sam. viii. 1.) and now taken from them by Hazael.

And Hazael ſet his face to go up to Jeruſalem.] Having made himſelf Maſter of this Place, he plainly declared, by the Diſpoſition of his Affairs, that he intended to make an Attempt upon Jeruſalem. This fell out after Jehoaſh had forſaken God, and fallen to Idolatry; as appears by the Book of the Chronicles: Where a much different Relation is made of the Expedition of the Syrians. Inſomuch that Abarbinel thinks (which is approved by ſeveral Chriſtian Writers) there were two Expeditions. In the firſt of which Hazael came up in Perſon againſt them, as is here related; but they purchaſed Peace of him. And then in the End of the Year, after they had killed Zechariah, the War was renewed; though Hazael did not come himſelf, but ſent a ſmall Army, which they were not able to oppoſe, which deſtroyed a great many of the People, and ſent great Spoils to Damaſcus, 2 Chron. xxiv. 23, 25.

Ver. 18. And Jehoaſh king of Judah took all the hallowed things that Jehoſhaphat, and Ahaziah, his father, kings of Judah had dedicated, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the kings houſe, and ſent it to Hazael king of Syria, and he went away from Jeruſalem.] The Preſervation of his Kingdom he thought warranted this; but he had brought theſe Dangers upon himſelf, by his Apoſtacy from God.

Ver. 19. And the reſt of the acts of Joaſh, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Ver. 20. And his ſervants aroſe, and made a conſpiracy, and ſlew Joaſh in the houſe of Millo, which goeth down to Silla.] The Syrians had left him labouring under great Diſeaſes at this Place, called Millo: Where his Servants ſlew him in his Bed, as we read 2 Chron. xxiv. 25. There was another Place called Millo, hard by the King's Palace at Jeruſalem: Therefore to diſtinguiſh this from that, this is called Millo that goeth down to Silla; as Abarbinel thinks.

Ver. 21. For Jozachar the ſon of Shimeath,] He was called by another Name alſo, viz. Zabad.

And Jehozabad the ſon of Shomer,] This was his Father's Name, it is likely, and his Mother was called Shimrith, who was a Moabiteſs; as Shimeath was an Ammoniteſs, 2 Chron. xxiv. 26.

His ſervants, ſmote him and he died;] They were Friends of Jehoiada (as Joſephus thinks) who took this Revenge upon Joaſh, for the Death of Zechariah the Son of Jehoiada, as is expreſly noted, 2 Chron. xxiv. 25.

And they buried him with his fathers in the city of David,] But not in the Sepulchre of the Kings, 2 Chron. xxiv. 25. For though they did him ſo much Honour as to bury him in the Royal City; yet not all the Honour that was uſual; becauſe he had forſaken God, and ſlain one of his Prophets.

And Amaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] His Servants did not kill him, with an Intention to uſurp the Kingdom; but only to revenge the Blood of Zechariah. For they ſuffered his Son to ſucceed Joaſh peaceably, who ſlew thoſe that had ſlain his Father, 2 Chron. xxv. 3.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. IN the three and twentieth year of Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah king of Judah, Jehoahaz the ſon of Jehu began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned ſeventeen years.] Some have raiſed a Doubt about this Account, becauſe Joaſh began to reign in the ſeventh Year of Jehu (xii. 2.) who reigned but twenty-eight Years (x. 36.) from whence if ſeven Years be deducted, there remains no more than one and twenty, not three and twenty Years; as is here ſaid. To which Kimchi and Abarbinel anſwer; there were two incomplete Years; for when it is ſaid Joaſh reigned in the ſeventh Year of Jehu, it muſt be underſtood of the Beginning of his ſeventh Year; and in like manner, when he ſpeaks here of the three and twentieth Year of Joaſh, it muſt be underſtood of the Beginning of the ſame Year. And ſo they are called three and twenty, when they were but one and twenty perfect Years; but it is better to ſay (as my worthy Friend Dr Alix thinks) that there was an Interregnum of a Year between the Death of Jehu and the firſt of Jehoahaz.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, and followed the ſins of Jeroboam, who made Iſrael to ſin, he departed not there- therefrom.] Was not reclaimed by the ſevere Puniſhments God inflicted on him.

Ver. 5. And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and Ben-hadad the ſon of Hazael, all their days.] The Word their, is not in the Hebrew; ſo that it may be tranſlated all his Days, as it is explained ver. 22.

Ver. 4. And Jehoahaz beſought the LORD, and the LORD hearkened unto him:] Not for his ſake, but for the ſake of the pious Anceſtors of this People; with whom he had made a Covenant of great Mercy to be ſhewed to their Poſterity; which in their great Diſtreſs he now afforded them. See ver. 23.

For he ſaw the oppreſſion of Iſrael, becauſe the king of Syria oppreſſed them.] Intending their utter Ruin, which God would not yet permit; but bear longer with them.

Ver. 5. (And God gave Iſrael a ſaviour, ſo that they went out from under the hand of the Syrians:] Some underſtand by this Saviour, an extraordinary Captain, whom God raiſed up to fight their Battles, with great Succeſs. But it being ſaid, that while Hazael lived he oppreſſed them, ver. 22. it is more reaſonable to underſtand by this Saviour, the Son of Jehoahaz: Who, when Hazael was dead, delivered them from their Bondage, ver. 25. And perhaps he did this in his Father's Life-time; who made him joint Sovereign with himſelf.

And the children of Iſrael dwelt in their tents, as aforetime.] They lived quietly and ſecurely, not only in their fortified Towns, but in the Villages and the Fields.

Ver. 6. Nevertheleſs, they departed not from the ſins of the houſe of Jeroboam, who made Iſrael to ſin, but walked therein:] Neither their Miſeries, nor God's Mercies to them, made any Alteration in them; but they continued in thoſe Sins; which had ruined the Houſe of Jeroboam, and many of his Succeſſors.

And there remained the grove alſo in Samaria.)] We read of a Grove which Ahab planted in Honour of Baal, 1 Kings xvi. 33. But his Worſhip being utterly deſtroyed by Jehu, I cannot but think thāt he cut down that Grove. And therefore the Grove here mentioned had in it the Image of ſome other God.

Ver. 7. Neither did he leave of the people to Jehoahaz, but fifty horſemen, and ten chariots,] With the Men belonging to them.

And ten thouſand footmen;] This explains what he means by the People in the foregoing Words; not all the People of Iſrael, but the Soldiers, or Men of War; of which there were no more left, than this ſmall Number.

For the king of Syria had deſtroyed them,] God left them in his Hand, to make this Deſtruction among them, killing ſome, and carrying others captive.

And had made them like the duſt by threſhing.] By perpetual Wars and Captivities; which made very great Depopulations.

Ver. 8. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?] The Judgments of God upon him were the moſt remarkable, becauſe he was a Man of might: And was ſo far from being able to ſtand before the Syrians, that they beat him to Duſt.

Ver. 9. And Jehoahaz ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Joaſh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] Called in the next Verſe Jehoaſh.

Ver. 10. In the thirty-ſeventh year of Joaſh king of Judah, began Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and he reigned ſixteen years.] A Difficulty ſeems to ariſe, by comparing this Verſe with the firſt: Where it is ſaid, Jehoahaz King of Iſrael began to reign in the twenty-third Year of Joaſh King of Judah, and reigned ſeventeen Years: From whence it follows, that Jehoaſh began to reign not in the thirty-ſeventh, but in the thirty-ninth, or fortieth Year of Joaſh King of Judah. But this only ſhews the Truth of what I ſaid upon ver. 5. that he reigned with his Father three Years: After God was ſo gracious as to raiſe up a Deliverer to them; who was this Son of his, by whom Peace was reſtored to them. This we note in the Margin, he reigned in Conſort with his Father, xiv. 1.

Ver. 11. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD; he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin: but he walked therein.

Ver. 12. And the reſt of the acts of Joaſh, and all that he did, and his might wherewith he fought againſt Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?] They were all recorded in the Book ſo often mentioned (See 1 Kings xi. 41.) and his Fight with Amaziah is particularly related, and ſet down at large in 2 Chron. xxv. 17, 18, &c.

Ver. 13. And Joaſh ſlept with his fathers, and Jeroboam ſat upon his throne:] From whence ſome of the Jewiſh Doctors gather, that he reigned with his Father, at leaſt one Year; though Abarbinel denies it, but without Reaſon.

And Joaſh was buried with his fathers in Samaria, with the kings of Iſrael.] He doth not here conclude this Hiſtory of Joaſh; for he afterwards relates great things done by him. But being to ſpeak of the Death of Eliſha, upon which thoſe things depended, he interpoſes that, before he proceeds further to relate his Acts.

Ver. 14. Now Eliſha was fallen ſick of his ſickneſs whereof he died,] This was in the tenth Year of Joaſh, as they ſay in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 19. And from thence gather how long Eliſha continued a Prophet in Iſrael, viz. from the nineteenth Year of Jehoſhaphat 'till this Time; which was ſixty-five Years.

And Joaſh the king of Iſrael came down unto him, and wept over his face,] This was no Sign of his hearty Affection to him (for he would not hearken to his Word) but he bewailed himſelf, and his People, who were in Danger ſhortly to loſe ſo great a Defender.

And ſaid, My father, my father, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof.] They are the Words of Eliſha concerning Elijah, when he was taken up to Heaven (ii. 12.) ſignifying the great Authority he had maintained among them (which is included in the Word Father) and that by his Counſel and Prayers they had obtained Glorious Victories over their Enemies.

Ver. 15. And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Take bow and arrows: and he took unto him bow and arrows.] This was to repreſent the Wars he was to have with the Syrians.

Ver. 16. And he ſaid to the king of Iſrael, Put thy hand upon the bow: and he put his hand upon it: and Eliſha put his hands upon the kings hands.] This was to repreſent that they were not to truſt in their Arms, and their Valour; but in God alone, who would give them the Victory.

Ver. 17. And he ſaid, Open the window eaſtward. And they opened it.] Part of Syria lay Eaſt or North-Eaſt from Judæa: And the Syrians alſo had poſſeſſed themſelves of all the Land of Iſrael eaſtward (x. 33.) from whence he ſignified, by what follows, Joaſh ſhould expel them.

Then Eliſha ſaid, Shoot: and he ſhot. And he ſaid, the arrow of the LORD s deliverance, the arrow of deliverance from Syria:] A Sign the LORD would wound the Syrians by the Arms of the Iſraelites, and give them a glorious Deliverance from their Tyranny.

For thou ſhalt ſmite the Syrians in Aphek,] In the Territories belonging to it, of which ſee 1 Sam. iv. 1. xxix. 1. The Syrians had taken Gath; and Aphek, I take it, was not far from it; ſo that it was as much as to ſay, they ſhould drive them out of the Country; as it follows.

'Till thou haſt deſtroyed them.] Not all the People of Syria, but all their Forces wherewith they infeſted Iſrael.

Ver. 18. And he ſaid, Take the arrows: and he took them: and he ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Smite upon the ground: and he ſmote thrice, and ſtayed.] That which he repreſented before by the ſhooting of an Arrow, he repreſents again by ſmiting upon the Ground with the Arrows, viz. Victory over the Syrians, whom he ſhould overthrow and caſt down to the Ground in Battle.

Ver. 19. And the man of God was wroth with him, and ſaid, Thou ſhouldeſt have ſmitten five or ſix times, then ſhouldeſt thou have ſmitten Syria 'till thou hadſt conſumed them: whereas now thou ſhalt ſmite Syria but thrice.] By the former Sign the King of Iſrael might have underſtood, that this was intended to ſignify the ſame thing; and I ſuppoſe the Prophet ſpake ſo, as to give him to underſtand he would have him ſmite a good many times. And he was angry at his Sloth and Unbelief, which made him ſtop at the third Stroke; for if he had done it oftner, he ſhould have utterly diſabled them. He had before repreſented great Victories which he ſhould obtain; but not 'till now, how often he ſhould overcome; which he was admoniſhed by God to let him know by this Sign. And it is probable, the Prophet himſelf did not know, 'till he ſaw how often he ſmote on the Ground.

Ver. 20. And Eliſha died, and they buried him: and the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year.] Which was the uſual Time when People went out to War, as I have ſhewn upon 2 Sam. xi. 1. See there; but whether it was the next Spring after his Death, or ſome Years after, is doubted. But the Words ſeem plainly to import it was the next Spring.

Ver. 21. And it came to paſs as they were burying a man,] Carrying him to his Grave.

They ſpied a band of men,] A Part of the Moabites, who were coming towards the Place where they were to lay the Corps.

And they caſt him into the ſepulchre of Eliſha:] Which being near to the Place where they then were, they rolled away the Stone, and laid the Body by Eliſha's; for fear, if they proceeded to the Sepulchre prepared for this Man, they ſhould fall into the Hand of the Moabites.

And when the man was let down, and touched the bones of Eliſha,] From hence ſome conclude, that this Invaſion of the Moabites was ſome Years after Eliſha's Death; when his Fleſh was conſumed, and only his Bones remained.

That he revived, and ſtood upon his feet.] By which Miracle God did the higheſt Honour to his Prophet, and confirmed both the Truth of what he had promiſed the King, and the Belief of a future Life. For this was ſomething more than he had done in Eliſha's Life-time, when he could not without many Prayers, and ſtretching himſelf with great Application, upon the Body of the Child, raiſe it to Life again; whereas now upon touching of his dead Body only, God reſtored a Man, in an Inſtant, to perfect Health; for he ſtood upon his Feet, and, it is likely, walked home with thoſe that brought him to be buried. It is a poor Conceit of Abarbinel and others, that he was a wicked Man, whom God rather would raiſe to Life again, than ſuffer his dead Body to reſt by ſuch an holy Perſon as Eliſha. It had been enough, if this had been the Reaſon, to have thrown this dead Body out of Eliſha's Sepulchre, and let it lie upon the Ground.

Ver. 22. But Hazael king of Syria oppreſſed Iſrael all the days of Jehoahaz.] None of theſe things which Eliſha promiſed, were accompliſhed while Hazael lived; but after his Death Joaſh the Son of Jehoahaz (as it here follows) vanquiſhed Ben-hadad the Son of Hazael.

Ver. 23. And the LORD was gracious unto them, and had compaſſion upon them, and reſpect unto them, becauſe of his covenant with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob.] For whoſe ſake he ſpared them, and would not let the Oppreſſion of the Syrians continue ſo long, as to ruin them.

And would not deſtroy them, neither caſt them out of his preſence as yet.] But allowed them a longer Space for Repentance.

Ver. 24. So Hazael king of Syria died, and Ben-hadad his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] The Name of Ben-hadad had for a long Time been common to the Kings of Syria; and now was renewed in another Family.

Ver. 25. Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz took again out of the hand of Ben-hadad the ſon of Hazael, the cities which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father by war:] He took all the Country on the other Side of Jordan in the Days of Jehu, x. 33. Beſides which he made further Conqueſts on this ſide Jordan, in the Day of Jehoahaz: Whether Jehoaſh recovered all, is not certain; but what his Father loſt, it is here ſaid he regained.

Three times did Joaſh beat him, and recovered the cities of Iſrael.] It is not recorded where theſe three Battles were fought, but the Succeſs of them was ſo great, that he retook all that his Father had loſt.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſe 1. IN the ſecond year of Joaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael, reigned Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah.] This was, as Dr Lightfoot obſerves, the thirty-eighth Year of his Father Joaſh King of Judah: Three Years current before his Death. For his Father had thrown himſelf into ſuch a miſerable Condition, by his Apoſtacy, and his Murder of Zachariah (xii. 17, 18.) that he was become unfit to manage the Kingdom. See Harm. of the Evang. Proleg. Cap. 6.

Ver. 2. He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty-nine years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem.] Joaſh King of Iſrael reigned ſixteen Years (xiii. 10.) therefore Amaziah reigned fourteen Years while he lived; and after his Death fifteen Years; which make twenty-nine. See ver. 17.

Ver. 3. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, yet not like David his father: He did in all things according as Joaſh his father did.] For both of them in the Beginning of their Reigns did very well: But both in their latter End fell into Idolatry. Both of them alſo, as Abarbinel obſerves, contemned God's Prophets, who ſpake to them in the Name of the LORD.

Ver. 4. Howbeit, the high places were not taken away; for yet the people did ſacrifice, and burn incenſe on the high places.] Even in the beſt Part of his Reign, before he fell to Idolatry, this Licence continued; which had been long practiſed, againſt the Law of God. In this he imitated his Father, xii. 3.

Ver. 5. And it came to paſs when the kingdom was confirmed in his hand, that he ſlew his ſervants which had ſlain the king his father.] He durſt not venture upon this Piece of Juſtice preſently, 'till he was well ſettled in his Authority, and had diveſted thoſe of all Power, who were the Friends of thoſe Murderers. Who ſeem to have continued ſtill at Court; for they are called his ſervants.

Ver. 6. But the children of the murderers ſlew he not: according to that which is written in the book of the law of Moſes, wherein the LORD commanded, ſaying, The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, nor the children for the fathers; but every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin.] In this he acted like a good Man, and was not moved to cut off the Children, contrary to Law, for fear they ſhould make a Faction againſt him, and take Revenge for their Fathers Death.

Ver. 7. He ſlew of Edom] He alone, and the Men of Judah, made the following Slaughter: Having, at the Command of a Prophet, abandoned the Help of the Iſraelites; though he had purchaſed it with a great Sum of Money, 2 Chron. xxv. 7. 8, 9, 10. The Edomites had revolted from Judah in the Days of Joram, viii. 10. and now Amaziah endeavours to reduce them.

In the valley of ſalt,] A Place mentioned 2 Sam. viii. 13. whence ſee what I have obſerved concerning the Reaſon of this Name.

Ten thouſand,] And he took as many Captives. See 2 Chron. xxv. 12.

And he took Selah by war,] The Metropolis of Arabia Petræa; which took its Name from hence: For Selah is the ſame with the Word Petra, a Rock; upon which the City ſtood. From this Rock he ſeems to have thrown down the ten thouſand, whom he took alive, and broke in Pieces, as is ſaid in the fore-named Place, 2 Chron. xxv. 12. Hagar ſignifies the ſame, as Bochartus obſerves, by which Name the Arabians call it, from the Rocky Mountain which hanged over this Place, which St Paul calls by the Arabick Name Hagar.

And called the name of it Joktheel unto this day.] Which Name imports, Obedience of God, or to God. Becauſe, having taken it, he ſettled, as ſome imagine, the Laws and Statutes of Moſes in this Place; or rather, he acknowledged, by giving it this Name, that the Poſſeſſion of this Place was a Reward of his Obedience to the Man of God, who required him to diſmiſs all the Forces he had hired of the Iſraelites, 2 Chron. xxv. 10.

Ver. 8. Then Amaziah king of Judah ſent a meſſenger to Jehoaſh, king of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, les us look one another in the face.] Being fluſhed with his great Victory over the Edomites, and incenſed by the Damages the Iſraelites had done him (2 Chron. xxv. 13.) he ſent this Challenge to the King of Iſrael, ſaying, Let us ſet our Armies in Battle-aray one againſt the other, and try our Strength. Which ſome think he did only to try their Military Skill and Proweſs; not to revenge Injuries, or get his own again. Which if he had intended, he would have aſſaulted the Iſraelites on a ſudden; and not given them ſuch fair Warning to ſtand upon their Defence. But it is more probable, that being encouraged, as I ſaid, by his late Victory, he reſolved to be revenged for the Slaughter of his Anceſtors by Jehu (Chap. ix.) and for the late Spoil the Iſraelites had made in his Country (2 Chron. xxv. 10, 13.) but he reſolved to have Satisfaction, in a fair and honourable Way, and not by Surprize. And the Words may be thus underſtood; Either give me ſatisfaction, or let us try it out in a battle. It is probable alſo, he might think of conquering the Kingdom of Iſrael, if he did not ſatisfy him, and bring it back to the Houſe of David: For ſo Jehoaſh underſtood him, as Joſephus thinks, and the Sequel ſhews.

Ver. 9. And Jehoaſh king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah king of Judah, ſaying, the thiſtle that was in Lebanon, ſent to the cedar that was in Lebanon,] He compares himſelf to a Cedar, and Amaziah to a Thiſtle; which is a poor Shrub, not worthy of that Name; but having drawn Blood on ſome poor Traveller, and ſorely afflicted him (as Amaziah had done the Edomites) grew very proud, and would be no longer one of the Shrubs, but equal to the moſt goodly Trees.

Saying, Give me thy daughter to my ſon to wife:] Make an Affinity with me, and let us be one Kingdom. So ſome underſtand it, that Jehoaſh thought he would have him join his great Kingdom, which was ten Tribes, unto his poor one of two Tribes; that being united, there ſhould be but one King over them all; and they ſhould try their Fortune in a pitched Battle, which of them two ſhould be the King. But this ſeems to be too much ſtrained. He only intimates, that if he ſhould deſire a friendly Alliance with him, he deſpiſed it as below him, as much as a Thiſtle is below a Cedar.

And there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trod down the thiſtle.] This repreſents how eaſily his Soldiers (who are compared to wild Beaſts) would repreſs his Inſolence.

Ver. 10. Thou haſt indeed ſmitten the Edomites, and thine heart hath lifted thee up:] This hath made thee proud.

Glory in this, and tarry at home:] Be content with the Honour thou haſt won, and be quiet.

For why ſhouldſt thou meddle to thine hurt, that thou ſhouldſt fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?] He admoniſhes him to deſiſt from this needleſs Provocation of his Neighbours; which might end in his Ruin.

Ver. 11. But Amaziah would not hearken: Therefore Jehoaſh king of Iſrael went up, and he, and Amaziah looked one another in the face,] Encountred one another in a Fight.

At Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah.] See 1 Sam. vi. 12.

Ver. 12. And Judah was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled every man to their tents.] So their Houſes were called, from their having no other Habitations for a long Time in the Wilderneſs; and in Canaan many continued in ſuch Dwellings. Joſephus ſaith, the People of Judah did not ſtrike a Stroke; but being poſſeſſed with a panick Fear, when they ſaw a formidable Army ſet in Battle-array againſt them, ran away.

Ver. 13. And Jehoaſh king of Iſrael took Amaziah king of Judah, the ſon of Jehoaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, at Beth-ſhemeſh,] I ſuppoſe his Anceſtors are mentioned, to ſhew, that this was the greater Diſgrace to him; being deſcended from a Race of Kings, which Jehoaſh was not.

And came to Jeruſalem,] Bringing Amaziah with him; and letting the Inhabitants know (as Joſephus ſaith) that he would ſlay him before their Eyes, if they did not immediately open their Gates unto him; which was accordingly done.

And broke down the wall of Jeruſalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner gate, four hundred cubits.] That the City might lie open to his Invaſion, if they ſhould break the Conditions he impoſed upon them.

Ver. 14. And he took all the gold and ſilver, and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe, and hoſtages,] The Sons, I ſuppoſe, of the principal Perſons of the City; for a Security that they would be quiet, and give him no Diſturbance.

And returned to Samaria.] For he had enough to do to defend himſelf from the Syrians; and therefore did not intend a Conqueſt of the Kingdom of Judah, nor ſet a Garriſon in Jeruſalem: But contented himſelf with the Spoil of it; and perhaps made them Tributaries to him. This was an heavy Puniſhment upon Amaziah, for going after other Gods, 2 Chron. xxv. 20.

Ver. 15. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoaſh which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?] There were many other Things which happened in this War, as Abarbinel obſerves, beſides theſe here compendiouſly related; for which he refers to a Record which was very well known in thoſe Days; but now is loſt.

Ver. 16. And Jehoaſh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Iſrael, and Jeroboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 17. And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah, lived after the death of Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael, fifteen years.] But in no great Credit with his People; for Raſhi thinks he lived moſt of his Time in Lachiſh, whither he was forced to fly (as it follows) by reaſon of a Conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem.

Ver. 18. And the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] He mentions nothing of his Might which he ſhewed; being a weak Prince, who loſt the Reputation of his Country.

Ver. 19. Now they made a conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem:] Their City having been expoſed to Reproach by the great Breach made in their Wall, and ſpoiled of its beſt Ornaments, and ſome of their Children carried away as Hoſtages for their good Behaviour, he became very odious to the great Men of the City; all this being brought upon them by his Pride and Raſhneſs, and Apoſtacy from God, 2 Chron. xxv. 27.

And he fled to Lachiſh,] The Conſpiracy it ſeems grew ſo ſtrong, that he could not reſiſt it; but was forced to ſeek for Safety by Flight, in a fortified City upon the Borders of the Philiſtines.

And they ſent after him to Lachiſh, and ſlew him there.] They ſent to have him privately murdered (as Joſephus reports it) which ſome undertook and effected.

Ver. 20. And they brought him on horſes;] In a Chariot.

And they buried him in Jeruſalem with his fathers, in the city David.] They did him ſome Honour when he was dead, though they hated him when he was alive.

Ver. 21. And all the people of Judah took Azariah] Called Uzziah in the next Chapter, ver. 30. and in 2 Chron. xxvi. 1. Both ſignify the ſame Thing; one being as much as the help of God, the other the ſtrength of God.

(Which was ſixteen years old) and made him king inſtead of his father Amaziah.] But this was twelve Years after Amaziah's Death: For he was made King in the twenty-ſeventh Year of Jeroboam (See upon xv. 1.) who began to reign in the fiftieth of Amaziah, ver. 23.

Ver. 22. He built Elath,] Repaired it.

And reſtored it to Judah,] It was a City belonging to Edom, Deut. ii. 8. 2 Chron. viii. 17. which King David, I ſuppoſe, took when he conquered this Country; but in the Days of Joram the Edomites revolted, and recovered Elath.

After that the king ſlept with his fathers.] It is a probable Opinion of Abarbinel, that the King his Father, after the great Slaughter of the Edomites mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, took this Place; but did not annex it to the Kingdom of Judah, by reaſon of his ſucceeding Troubles. Which Azariah did, by building a Wall about it, and fortifying it; whereby he ſecured the Poſſeſſion of it.

Ver. 23. In the fifteenth year of Amaziah king of Judah, Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael began to reign in Samaria, and reigned forty and one years.] Which was much longer than any of the Kings of Iſrael: Jehu himſelf, the firſt of his Family, reigning but twenty-eight Years, which was longer than any before him, as I obſerved, x. 36.

Ver. 24. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.] As he had the Name, ſo he trod in the ſteps of him, who firſt corrupted Iſrael with Idolatry.

Ver. 25. He reſtored the coaſt of Iſrael from the entring of Hamath, to the ſea of the plain,] As Joaſh his Father had reſtored many Cities which Ben-hadad had taken; ſo Jeroboam reſtored a large Territory, which other Kings had taken from them, viz. all the Country from Libanus on the North, to the Lake Aſphaltites on the South.

According to the word of the LORD God of Iſrael, which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant Jonah the ſon of Amittai the prophet, which was of Gath-hepher.] The Prophet Jonah encouraged them to this War, promiſing them Succeſs in it. Whoſe Words are not here ſet down; but this Place ſhews, that God was very merciful to them, though a very wicked People, ſtill in continuing Prophets among them, when Eliſha was dead. And this Prophet, the Jews fancy, was the Son of the Woman of Sarepta, whom Elijah raiſed from the dead. For which I cannot find they have any Ground, but this poor Conceit, that he is called the Son of Amittai, i. e. of Truth, ſay they: Becauſe his Mother ſaid to the Prophet when he reſtored her Son to her, now I know the word of God in thy mouth is truth, 1 Kings xvii. 24. But this is fully confuted from this ſingle Obſervation that he is ſaid to be of Gath-hepher, which was far from Sarepta, towards Tiberias in the Tribe of Zebulun, as St Hierom tells us.

Ver. 26. For the LORD ſaw the affliction of Iſrael, that it was very bitter:] He ſhewed them this Favour, not for any Goodneſs that was in them; but in Compaſſion to their Miſery, which was greater than could be expreſſed.

For there was not any ſhut up, nor any left,] Men of all ſorts were deſtroyed: Or, as ſome interpret it, they had loſt all they had in their Houſes, and all that was in the Field. But ſee of this Phraſe, 1 Kings xiv. 10. xxi. 21.

Nor any helper for Iſrael.] None to relieve, much leſs to deliver them.

Ver. 27. And the LORD ſaid not that he would blot out the name of Iſrael from under heaven: but he ſaved them by the hand of Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh.] But ſince the LORD had not yet decreed to root them out of their own Land; therefore he ſaved them, even by this wicked Prince, for the preſent, from their Enemies; who would otherwiſe have made an utter End of them.

Ver. 28. Now the reſt of the acts of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might, how he warred, and how he recovered Damaſcus, and Hamath, which belonged to Judah, for Iſrael, &c.] Or rather by Iſrael, as Abarbinel expounds it; by the Hand or Power of Iſrael they were reſtored. For when David fought againſt the Syrians, and brought them in Subjection to him, he put Garriſons into Damaſcus and Hamath, 2 Sam. viii. 6, &c. Which the Syrians afterward recovered when they rebelled againſt Judah: But Jeroboam poſſeſſed himſelf of them again, and by his Valour made them as ſubject to Iſrael as they had been to Judah.

Ver. 29. And Jeroboam ſlept with his fathers, even with the kings of Iſrael; and Zachariah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] He was the third King of Iſrael of Jehu's Race, and ſo might be ſaid to ſleep with his Fathers of Iſrael.

CHAP. XV.

Verſe 1. IN the twenty-ſeventh year of Jeroboam king of Iſrael, began Azariah ſon of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.] Here is a great Difficulty, in the ſolving of which Interpreters much vary: For Amaziah the Father of Azariah lived but fifteen Years after the Beginning of Jeroboam's Reign, xiv. 17. Therefore Azariah began his Reign, not in the twenty-ſeventh, but in the Beginning of the ſeventeenth of Jeroboam. Some think Jeroboam reigned with his Father eleven Years: Others, that there was an Interregnum; that is, the Throne was vacant eleven or rather twelve Years, between the Death of Amaziah, and the Inauguration of Azariah. Dr Lightfoot makes no Doubt of the Truth of this: That Azariah being but ſixteen Years old in the ſeven and twentieth of Jeroboam, he was but four Years old at his Father's Death; and the Throne being empty for eleven or twelve Years, the Government was managed by ſome of the Grandees in his Minority. But Ralbag will have theſe twenty-ſeven Years of Jeroboam not to be thoſe which were paſt, but thoſe which were to come; and the Meaning is, Azariah was made king when Jeroboam had yet twenty-ſeven Years to reign; before the Family of Jehu came to an end. For after this Jeroboam reigned twenty-ſix Years, and his Son ſix Months; which make twenty-ſeven imperfect Years. This Abarbinel thinks is the literal Senſe: But the other is more agreeable to the conſtant Account of the Reigns of other Kings. See Mr Whiſton in his late View of the Chronology of the Old-Teſtament, pag. 91.

Ver. 2. Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jeruſalem, and his mothers name was Jecholiah of Jeruſalem.] In which Time, which was longer than any King of Judah or Iſrael reigned, he did many great Things; which are recorded in 2 Chron. xxvi. from ver. 5, to 16.

Ver. 3. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that Amaziah his father had done:] He governed well in the former Part of his Reign, and was proſpered by God (2 Chron. xxvi. 5.) but offended in the latter End of it, as Amaziah his Father had done.

Ver. 4. Save that the high places were not removed: the people ſacrificed, and offered incenſe ſtill in the high places.] Which was a common Error (as I have often obſerved) which continued through the Reign of the beſt of their Kings, 'till the Time of Hezekiah.

Ver. 5. And the LORD ſmote the king, ſo that he was a leper to the day of his death, and he dwelt in a ſeveral houſe:] The Cauſe of this Stroke is related at large in 2 Chron. xxvi. 16, &c. And by a ſeveral houſe the Jews underſtand an Houſe in the Country, which was Domus libera: Where he might have Liberty to take his Pleaſure, but not to meddle with publick Affairs.

And Jotham the kings ſon was over the houſe, judging the people of the land.] Over the king's houſe, as it is in 2 Chron. xxvi. 23. That is, he lived in the Palace, and managed all the Affairs of the Court, and of the Kingdom. This was in the ſeven and twentieth Year of Azariah, when he was ſmote with the Leproſy (as Raſi makes Account) and he continued a Leper twenty-five Years, during which Time Jotham took upon him the Adminiſtration of the Government, his Father being incapable of it.

Ver. 6. And the reſt of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Ver. 7. And Azariah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David; and Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] He was not buried in the very City of David but in the field of the burial which belonged to the kings, 2 Chron. xxvi. 23. In which Field, it is probable, the Sepulchre of the Kings was: Wherein they would not bury Azariah, becauſe he was a Leper; but yet very near to the Sepulchre, where his Anceſtors lay interred.

Ver. 8. In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, did Zachariah the ſon of Jeroboam reign over Iſrael in Samaria ſix months.] Some are confident the Throne was vacant two and twenty Years between the Death of Jeroboam and the Inauguration of his Son; either through Wars from abroad (which Jeroboam might have provoked againſt his Houſe, by the Conqueſt of Hamath and Damaſcus) or through War at Home, which appears, they think, from this diſtaſtrous End of Zachariah, ver. 10. See Dr Lightfoot in his Prologomena to his Harmony of the Evangeliſts, Sect. 6. But there are few that follow this Opinion, though one moſt learned in theſe, as well as other things, (Dr Alix) thinks there was an Interregnum of twenty-four Years. If there be any Difficulty in this Account, moſt think it is ſufficiently ſolved, by ſaying, that it was the thirty-eighth Year, from the Time that Azariah began to reign with his Father.

Ver. 9. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.] Therefore God cut him off ſpeedily; the Time approaching, when he intended to put an End to the Kingdom of Iſrael.

Ver. 10. And Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him before the people, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.] It is uncertain who this Shallum was, or what was the Pretence of his Conſpiracy, and of his poſſeſſing himſelf of the Throne; but it is pretty plain, I think, that he laid his Treaſon privately and ſecret (ver. 15.) and then made an open Aſſault upon the King's Perſon in the Face of all the People.

Ver. 11. And the reſt of the acts of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.] We read of nothing that he did; therefore the Meaning is, that his Behaviour in the ſix Months Time wherein he reigned, how he managed Things, and provoked this Conſpiracy, are recorded elſewhere: The Author of this Book intending only to give a brief Account of the remaining Kings of Iſrael.

Ver. 12. This was the word of the LORD which he ſpake to Jehu, ſaying, Thy ſons ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael, unto the fourth generation. And ſo it came to paſs.] How unfaithful ſoever they proved to God, he faithfully kept his Promiſe which he made to Jehu: Whoſe Sons Jehoahaz, Jehoaſh, Jeroboam, and Zachariah, ſucceeded him in the Throne of Iſrael. But this Shallum put an End to that Family, and fulfilled the Prophecy of Hoſea, i. 4. I will avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the houſe of Jehu, and will cauſe to ceaſe the kingdom of the houſe of Iſrael.] For though Jehu had a Command from God to deſtroy the Houſe of Ahab, yet he did it with ſuch ill Affections, and for ſuch wrong Ends, that God avenged that Blood by this Man, who ſlew Zachariah, and the reſt of his Poſterity, if there were any. At leaſt, he made the Kingdom to ceaſe in this Family, and not long after in all Iſrael; who were rooted out, and never reſtored to their Country, as Judah was.

Ver. 13. Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of Uzziah king of Judah, and he reigned a full month in Samaria.] We are not told how he reigned, but it is likely he followed the Steps of Jeroboam, who made Iſrael to ſin.

Ver. 14. For Menahem the ſon of Gadi went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and ſmote Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh in Samaria, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.] Joſephus thinks Menahem was General of the Army of Iſrael, which beſieged Tirzah when Zachariah was ſlain. And he hearing what Shallum had done, came and ſerved him in his kind, and made himſelf King.

Ver. 15. And the reſt of the acts of Shallum, and the conſpiracy which he made, behold they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.] A larger account was given of his Conſpiracy, and the Occaſion of it, and his Succeſs in it, in that Book; where ſome other memorable Acts, which it ſeems he did in a Month's Time, were recorded.

Ver. 16. Then Menahem ſmote Tiphſah, and the coaſts thereof from Tirzan: becauſe they opened not to him, therefore he ſmote it,] Some take this Tiphſah to be the ſame with that mentioned in 1 Kings iv. 24. But they lay upon the River Euphrates, whereas this was near to Tirzah; which was once the Royal City of Iſrael: To the Siege of which, Joſephus thinks Menahem returned after the Slaughter of Shallum: Not as General of the Hoſt, but as their King. But they knowing he had no Title to the Kingdom, would not open their Gates to him. Therefore he took it by Force, and ſpoiled it, and all the Territory about it, 'till he came to Tiphſah, which he uſed more cruelly.

And all the women therein that were with child, he ript up.] By which Barbarity he thought to terrify the whole Kingdom, that none might dare to withſtand him.

Ver. 17. In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah, began Menahem the ſon of Gadi to reign over Iſrael, and reigned ten years in Samaria.] He ſeems to have reigned with ſuch Fury, that none durſt oppoſe him; but he poſſeſſed the Throne ten Years before God cut him off.

Ver. 18. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: He departed not all his days from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

Ver. 19. And Pul the king of Aſſyria came againſt the land:] That is, the Land of Iſrael. He was Governor of Babylon, who together with Arbaces the Mede, ſlew Sardanapalus the laſt of the Aſſyrian Kings, and tranſlated the Empire to the Chaldæans. For he reigned over Babylon and Nineveh, and Arbaces over the Medes and Perſians. He was the firſt King of Aſſyria that invaded Iſrael, and began their Tranſportation out of their own Country; as Abarbinel gathers from 1 Chron. v. 26. And this is the firſt Time that we find any mention of the Kingdom of Aſſyria, ſince the Days of Nimrod, who erected a ſmall Kingdom here, Gen. x. 11. And they were no great People, one would think, when the lxxiid Pſalm was penned, where they are reckoned as Auxiliaries to the Children of Lot, againſt the Iſraelites, together with other ſmall Nations: But now they had a great and powerful Empire.

And Menahem gave Pul a thouſand talents of ſilver, that his hand might be with him, to confirm the kingdom in his hand.] By this great Preſent he not only turned away the Army of Pul from him, but purchaſed his Friendſhip; ſo that he helped to eſtabliſh his Authority. Which was very tottering, by reaſon he was not only an Uſurper, but had exerciſed extream great Cruelty upon his People, which no doubt made him extreamly hated, ver. 10.

Ver. 20. And Menahem exacted the money of Iſrael, even of all the mighty men of wealth, of each fifty ſhekels of ſilver, to give to the king of Aſſyria:] By this means, I ſuppoſe, he thought to ingratiate himſelf with the common People; upon whom he laid no Tax, but charged only the Rich, according to the Proportion of their Wealth. For the Hebrew Words do not import that he made every rich Man in Iſrael pay fifty Shekels; but that he gave to the King of Aſſyria ſo many Shekels for every Man, that is, for every one in his Army. So they run exactly, to give to the king of Aſſyria fifty ſhekels of ſilver for each Man.

So the king of Aſſyria turned back, and ſtayed not there in the land.] At that Time he departed; but it is likely he afterward returned, in the Reign of Pekah, and made the Depor tation before-mentioned.

Ver. 21. And the reſt of the acts of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

Ver. 22. And Menahem ſlept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] This ſhews him to have been a mighty Man, that notwithſtanding his Violence and Cruelty, he left the Kingdom in his Family: Which the two foregoing Kings could not do. But it is evident, there was an Interregnum of a Year between the Reign of Menahem and Pekahiah: For Pekahiah did not begin his Reign 'till the fiftieth Year of Azariah (as it here follows) and Menahem died the Year before; for he began to reign in the thirty-ninth of Azariah (ver. 17.) and reigned but ten Years.

Ver. 23. In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekahiah the ſon of Menahem began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned two years.] His reign was ſhort; both becauſe he himſelf was wicked, and his Father alſo was an Uſurper.

Ver. 24. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.] He was the wicked Son of a wicked Father; and ſo periſhed (as it here follows) by ſuch a Conſpiracy as his Father made againſt Shallum.

Ver. 25. And Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, a captain of his, conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him in Samaria, in the palace of the kings houſe, with Arbob, and Arieth,] Theſe were two valiant Men, who ſome think were in the Conſpiracy with him againſt Pekahiah. But Abarbinel rather thinks they were two eminent Courtiers, who were always about the King.

And with him fifty men of the Gileadites:] Who were his Guards, and perhaps aſſiſted him in his Treaſon.

And he killed him, and reigned in his ſtead.] He was a great Commander under Pekahiah; for the Hebrew Word Shaliſh ſignifies more than a bare Captain. Therefore Joſephus calls him a Chiliarch, or an Officer over a thouſand Men. And the Word carrying in it the Notion of three, ſome later Writers have therefore thought him to be the third Perſon in the Kingdom, next the King. No queſtion he was ſome conſiderable Perſon, who had Soldiers at his Command to execute his Deſigns.

Ver. 26. And the reſt of the acts of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

Ver. 27. In the fifty-ſecond year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekah the ſon of Remaliah began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned twenty years.] This is the fifth King that reigned over Iſrael during the reign of Azariah King of Judah.

Ver. 28. He did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

Ver. 29. In the days of Pekah king of Iſrael,] In the laſt Year of his Reign, as the Jews ſay in Seder Olam Rabba.

Came Tiglath-Pileſer king of Aſſyria,] He was the Son of Pul, and is called by other Authors Pul, or Phul-Aſſur, and here Tiglath-Pul-Aſſur: The

And Gilead,] Which was on the other Side Jordan.

And Galilee, all the land of Naphtali,] The upper Galilee; which was poſſeſſed by this Tribe, and by Zebulun.

And carried them captive to Aſſyria.] This was the ſecond Deportation of the ten Tribes; the firſt being made by Pul, as I ſaid before, who carried away the two Tribes and half beyond Jordan; and this ſecond was made by his Son, who carried away two other Tribes. Then nine Years after, followed a third in the Days of the next King (xviii. 9.) when the Remainder of the ten Tribes were carried away from their own Land. The Tribe of Judah ſtill remained; but about eight Years after the former, Part of that was carried away by Sennacherib, when he took all their fenced Cities, xviii. 13. which with reſpect to the whole Country, the Jews call the fourth Deportation. Then a fifth followed, xxiv. 15. and a ſixth, xxv. 1, &c. The laſt is mentioned, xxv. 25. Thus they are reckoned up by Abarbinel; and in this ſecond (the Jews ſay in Seder Olam Rabba) Tiglath-Pileſer carried away the Golden Calf which was in Dan. But ſee a more exact Account of Judah's Captivity in Mr. Whiſton's learned Chronology of the Old Teſtament, p. 52.

Ver. 30. And Hoſhea the ſon of Elah made a conſpiracy againſt Pekah the ſon of Remaliah,] Who Hoſhea was, or what was the Ground of his Conſpiracy, is not recorded; but we may ſuppoſe it to have been, becauſe he governed ill, and by his cruel War with Judah had brought the King of Aſſyria upon his own Kingdom (2 Chron. xxviii. 16.) and thereby loſt a great Part of it.

And ſmote him, and ſlew him,] As Pekah had ſerved Pekahiah.

And reigned in his ſtead, in the twentieth year of Jotham the king of Judah. Theſe Words create a Difficulty; for it is ſaid, ver. 33. that Jotham reigned but ſixteen Years. Which Seder Olam Rabba thus reconciles (for none can think any Writer whatſoever would ſo ſoon contradict himſelf) that this Conſpiracy was begun in the latter End of Jotham's Reign, but not put in Execution 'till four Years after his Death. So that theſe Words are to be underſtood as if he had ſaid, Twenty years after Jotham began to reign over Judah Pekah was ſlain. Dr Lightfoot gives another Account of it; that the Wickedneſs of Ahaz was ſo great, that the holy Writer would not mention him on this Occaſion, but rather ſpeaks of his good Father, as if he were yet alive, in which he follows R. Solomon Jarchi. But this hath no ſhew of Truth in it; ſince ſo much is ſaid of Ahaz in the following Part of this Hiſtory. A late very Learned Writer (in his Short View of the Chronology of the Old Teſtament, p. 47.) hath given a better Account of it, in theſe Words, Becauſe there had been yet no mention made of Ahaz's Reign, therefore the old Epocha of his Predeceſſor Jotham is ſtill made uſe of. But the plain Truth is, that Jotham reigned four Years with his Father Azariah.

Ver. 31. And the reſt of the acts of Pekah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.] In that Book which is now called by the Name of Chronicles his War with Judah is recorded, 2 Chron. xxviii.

Ver. 32. In the ſecond year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael, began Jotham the ſon of Uzziah king of Judah to reign.] Why he ſhould be all along called Azariah, and here only Uzziah, and ver. 34. no Account can be given; unleſs it were to ſhew he had two Names, as I obſerved, ver. 1. And it appears by the Book of Chronicles that Uzziah was as much uſed, when that Book was written, as the other.

Ver. 35. Twenty five years old was he when he began to reign,] Alone by himſelf; for he reigned ſome Time with his Father during his Leproſy. See Dr Lightfoot in his Prolegom. to the Harm. of the Evang. Sect. 6.

And he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Jeruſha, the daughter of Zadok.] It is not ſaid of what Place, as is uſual: This Zadok being ſo well known, that there was no need to ſet down his Dwelling.

Ver. 34. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD:] ὅσα τοῦ δικαίου ἄρχοντος ἀπελείπετο he wanted no Virtue belonging to a good Prince, as Joſephus writes (Lib. 9. Antiq. Chap. 11.) being, ſaith he, pious towards God, juſt towards Men, and ſtudious of the publick Good.

He did according to all that is his father Uzziah had done.] That is, according to all the good he had done; but did not imitate him in invading the Prieſts Office.

Ver. 35. Howbeit, the high places were not removed: the people ſacrificed and burnt incenſe ſtill in the high places:

He built the high gate of the houſe of the LORD.] which was between the Houſe of the King, and the Houſe of the LORD, xviii. 20. It was built by Solomon; but this King added a noble Structure to it.

Ver. 36. Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] See 2 Chron. xxvii.

Ver. 37. (In thoſe days the LORD began to ſend againſt Judah, Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah the ſon of Remaliah.)] Theſe two Kings entred into a Confederacy againſt Judah, and made Preparations for War before Jotham died; but he was ſo happy as to be laid in his Grave in Peace; their Deſign being not executed 'till the Reign of the next King.

Ver. 38. And Jotham ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father, and Ahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. IN the ſeventeenth year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, Ahaz the ſon of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

Ver. 2. Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jeruſalem,] He was a little more than twenty Years old. See upon xviii. 2.

And did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD his God, like David his father.] As might have been expected from the good Education which, no doubt, ſo pious a Man as Jotham his Father gave him; who left him an excellent Example.

Ver. 3. But he walked in the ways of the kings of Iſrael, yea, and made his ſon to paſs through the fire, according to the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.] He was far worſe than any of the preceding Kings of Iſrael; for he imitated thoſe abominable Idolaters, whom God rooted out of the Land of Canaan. Who it is moſt certain ſometimes burnt their Children in the Fire, as Sacrifices to their Gods, Deut. xii. 31. and the Children of Iſrael it is certain imitated them, Ezek. xvi. 20, 21. Ezek. xxxiii. 37, and 39. But whether Ahaz did that, or only made his Son paſs through the Fire by Way of Luſtration (as they called it) cannot be determined. It is no Argument that he did not offer him as a burnt Sacrifice, becauſe Hezekiah out-lived him; for he had more Sons, it is likely, than him. See concerning this horrible Impiety, what I have noted upon Levit. xviii. 21. and upon Deut. xviii. 10.

Ver. 4. And he ſacrificed and burnt incenſe in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.] He added this to all his other Sins (of conſecrating his Son to Moloch by paſſing him through the Fire, if not offering him in Sacrifice) that he himſelf ſacrificed in high Places, and on Hills, and under every green Tree; by his Example incouraging this Practice, which other Kings had only tolerated. So we read, that People ſacrificed in high Places, even in good Kings Reigns, xii. 3. xiv. 4. xv. 4, &c. But as they ſacrificed to God in thoſe Reigns, ſo we never read 'till now that any of thoſe Kings ſacrificed there themſelves, as this King did; who not meerly ſuffered this, but gave Countenance to it by his own Practice, and thereby ſtrengthened this Licence of private ſacrificing, contrary to the Law of God; and which was worſt of all, ſacrificing to other Gods; it being very probable that he fancied ſome Deity to inhabit under every well-ſpread flouriſhing Tree.

Ver. 5. Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael, came up to Jeruſalem to war: and they beſieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him.] This ſeems not to agree with 2 Chron. xxviii. 5, &c. where theſe two Princes are repreſented as getting great Victories over him. To which Abarbinel anſwers, that theſe things hapened at different Times. For the Wars mentioned in the Book of Chronicles were made ſeverally by theſe two Kings, wherein they proſpered; being the Miniſters of Divine Providence. But when now they joined their Forces together, and not only came againſt other Cities, but againſt Jeruſalem, God was pleaſed to make them miſcarry.

Ver. 6 And at that time Rezin king of Syria,] When he broke up the Siege of Jeruſalem, upon Intelligence he received that Tiglath-pileſer was coming to its Relief.

Reſtored Elath to Syria,] This was a conſiderable Port upon the Red-Sea.

And drove the Jews from Elath: and the Syrians came to Elath, and dwelt there to this day.] This City had been recovered to the Dominion of Judah by Azariah, xiv. 22. who took it from the Syrians; who now took it from them again, that they might not quite loſe the Fruit of their Expedition againſt Jeruſalem.

Ver. 7. So Ahaz ſent meſſengers to Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria,] There is a learned Man of our own, who hath lately given another Account of the Name of Pileſer, than that abovementioned, xv. 29. For he thinks it is compounded of the Names of two of their Gods; Pil being the ſame with Bel, and Azer or Azar was the Name of a Planet worſhipped by the Perſians, viz. Mars: And they much affected to have the Names of their Gods in their own Names; which was a common thing alſo among the Jews: For which Reaſon the Name of Tiglath was added, which was the Name of Tygris (as I obſerved before) which, as all great beneficial Rivers, Mountains, and Trees, were accounted ſacred among the Heathen. See Dr Hyde Hiſtor. Relig. Vet. Perſar. Cap. 3.

Saying, I am thy ſervant and thy ſon: come up, and ſave me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Iſrael, which riſe up againſt me.] He not only put himſelf and all he had into his Protection; but made himſelf his Subject, to hold all he had of him by his Favour. For that is the Meaning of I am thy ſervant and thy ſon; that is, he was content to be his Vaſſal, if he would be his Protector.

Ver. 8. And Ahaz took the ſilver and the gold that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the kings houſe, and ſent it for a preſent to the king of Aſſyria.] Theſe Treaſures had been ſent ſome Years ago by Jehoaſh to the King of Syria, xii. 18. but it ſeems they were well repleniſhed again by the Piety of his Succeſſors, Amaziah, Azariah, but eſpecially Jotham.

Ver. 9. And the king of Aſſyria hearkned unto him: for the king of Aſſyria went up againſt Damaſcus, and took it,] It is very uncertain when King Ahaz ſent to deſire this Help. If it was when they were preparing to beſiege Jeruſalem, it was the Effect of his great Infidelity; for God had been ſo gracious to him, as to promiſe by the Prophet Iſaiah, that thoſe Kings ſhould do him no Hurt (Iſa. vii. 4.) giving him a Sign alſo to ſtrengthen his Faith. Others think, it was after the King of Syria and the King of Iſrael had miſerably harraſſed Ahaz's Country, though they could not take Jeruſalem, as we read 2 Chron. xxviii. 5, 6, &c. Whenſoever it was, the King of Aſſyria gave a powerful Diverſion to the King of Syria, invading his Country, and beſieging the chief City of it, of which he made himſelf Maſter.

And carried the people of it captive to Kir,] A Place in the Country of the upper Media, as Joſephus tells us: From whence he brought ſome People, to plant in Damaſcus.

And

And ſlew Rezin.] Who was the laſt of their Kings; for the Syrians never got up again, as the Jews obſerve in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 20. Whether he was legal Succeſſor to Ben-hadad the Son of Hazael, or an Uſurper, is not certain.

Ver. 10. And king Ahaz went to Damaſcus to meet Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria,] To compliment him upon his Succeſs; and perhaps to do him Homage, and to requeſt him to do as much againſt Pekah, as he had done againſt Rezin. For ſome think that after this he went and took all thoſe Places from Iſrael, which are mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 29. And after all he fell upon Judah it ſelf, and made great Spoil there alſo, as is ſuggeſted in 2 Chron. xxviii. 20, 21.

And he ſaw an altar that was in Damaſcus:] A beautiful Altar, both for the Matter and Form of it.

And king Ahaz ſent to Urijah the prieſt the faſhion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanſhip thereof.] Not only the Height, and Breadth, and Shape of it; but all the Carvings, I ſuppoſe, with the Figures and Images wherewith it was adorned.

Ver. 11. And Urijah the prieſt built an altar, according to all that king Ahaz had ſent from Damaſcus: ſo Urijah the prieſt made it againſt the king came from Damaſcus.] He took Care to have it done exactly according to the Pattern; directly contrary to the Command of God, who had appointed what kind of Altar he would have (Exod. xxvii. 1, 2, &c.) and that no other ſhould be made of any Matter or Figure whatſoever. But there are always ſome Men to be found that will comply with the moſt wicked Commands.

Ver. 12. And when the king was come from Damaſcus, the king ſaw the altar:] That is, liked it, and approved of it, as perfectly made agreeable to his Mind.

And the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon.] The Morning Sacrifice: Which he was ſo preſumptuous, perhaps, as to offer himſelf. But not to God; for we are told expreſsly, 2 Chron. xxviii. 23, that he ſacrificed to the Gods of Damaſcus. A wonderful Blindneſs! To worſhip thoſe Gods, and expect Help from them, who could not preſerve their own Country from Ruin.

Ver. 13. And he burnt his burnt-offering,] Some underſtand it, that he burnt it with Spices.

And his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and ſprinkled the blood of his peace-offerings upon the altar.] Theſe were all preſcribed by the Law of Moſes: But he offered them in a wrong Place, and unto other Gods.

Ver. 14. And he brought alſo the brazen altar that was before the LORD, from the fore-front of the houſe; from between the altar and the houſe of the LORD, and put it on the north ſide of the altar.] By theſe Words, it is plain that Urijah had a little more Modeſty than Ahaz: For he had placed Ahaz his Altar behind the Altar of the LORD, between it and the Eaſt-gate of the Court of the Prieſts. But when Ahaz came, he removed Solomon's Altar out of its Place, which was before the Sanctuary, and ſet it toward the North-ſide of the Court; that he might bring up his own, and ſet it there, where the Altar of the LORD had ſtood. See Dr Lightfoot of the Temple, Chap. 34, latter End.

Ver. 15. And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the prieſt, ſaying, Upon the great altar,] Which he had now erected in the Place of God's Altar.

Burn the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the kings burnt-ſacrifice, and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offerings of all the people of the land, and their meat-offerings, and their drink-offerings, and ſprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the ſacrifice:] He makes a ſolemn Injunction, that all the publick Sacrifices, of what Sort ſoever they were, whether made by himſelf, or by the People, ſhould be conſtantly offered upon his Altar. Which he calls the great altar, becauſe it was much bigger, I ſuppoſe, than the Altar of God.

And the brazen altar ſhall be for me to enquire by.] He would not have it thought that he intended wholly to lay aſide the Altar made by Solomon: But rather to do it great Honour, by reſerving it for his own private Uſe; when he pleaſed to enquire of God by it. But there being no Mention of the Name of the LORD, ſome think the Meaning is no more, but that he would have it ſtand where he had ſet it, 'till he conſidered what to do with it: And they fancy that he made the famous Dial of Ahaz with the Braſs of it. So they underſtand the Hebrew Words il lebaker, I will take Care of it, and order what ſhall be done with it. And therefore, according to this Interpretation, he laid it quite aſide. But the other ſeems more agreeable to the Hebrew Phraſe, it ſhall be to me to enquire, or ſeek, or pray: A private Altar for his proper Uſe: Whereby he pretended to have ſtill ſome Regard to it, though he had degraded it.

Ver. 16. So did Urijah the prieſt, according to all that king Ahaz commanded.] Whatſoever good Inclinations he had, they were all overruled by the Commands of the King, with which he entirely complied.

Ver. 17. And king Ahaz cut off the borders of the baſes,] See 1 Kings vii. 28, 29.

And removed the laver from off them, and took down the ſea from off the brazen oxen that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of ſtones.] This was done out of Contempt, that the Sea might not appear ſo great and ſtately, nor be ſo uſeful to the Prieſts, as it was before. For he intended quite to aboliſh, not only to deface the Service of God at the Temple. So we read in 2 Chron. xxviii. 24, that he ſhut up the doors of the houſe of God, that none ſhould worſhip there.

Ver. 18. And the covert for the ſabbath that they had built in the houſe,] There is a vaſt Variety of Opinions concerning this Muſach (which we tranſlate Covert) and why it is called the Covert for the Sabbath. The moſt probable is, that it was a covered Place, where the King ſat in the Porch of the Temple, or at the Entrance of it, upon the Sabbath, or other great Solemnities, which were called by that Name. Thus Procopius Gazæus. This Ahaz took away, intending not to trouble himſelf to come to the Temple; but to ſacrifice any where:

In

In every corner of Jeruſalem, and in the ſeveral cities of Judah, which he would have be thought as holy as Jeruſalem, 2 Chron. xxviii. 24, 25. And it is a probable Conjecture of a very learned Man of our own, that Ahaz did this to expreſs his Hatred and Contempt of the Sabbath: For the Worſhip of Idols, and Violation of the Sabbath, are frequently joined together in Scripture, eſpecially in Ezekiel xx. 16. xxii. 8, 9. xxiv. 37, 38, and in a remarkable Place in the Maccabees, i. 44. See Spencer de Leg. Hebræor. Lib. 1. Cap. 1. 12.

And the kings entry without, turned he from the houſe of the LORD,] The Paſſage through which the King came from his own Houſe to the Temple, he turned another Way.

For the king of Aſſyria.] That he might ingratiate himſelf with him, by contemning his own Country Religion, and approaching nearer to his. But Procopius takes it the quite contrary Way, that he did this for fear of the king of Aſſyria. Which moved him to make a ſhorter Paſſage into the Houſe of the LORD, that he might flee thither inſtantly for Safety, in caſe of any Danger. Which is not probable, becauſe he profaned it, and ſhut up the Doors of it.

Ver. 10. Now the reſt of of the acts of Ahaz, which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Ver. 20. And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XVII.

Verſe 1. IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, began Hoſhea the ſon of Elah to reign in Samaria over Iſrael nine years.] This doth not agree with xv. 30, where it is ſaid he began to reign in the twentieth Year of Jotham, which was the fourth of Ahaz. To this Ralbag, thinks it ſufficient to ſay, that 'till the twelfth Year of Ahaz he was but a Servant of the King of Aſſyria; nor was reputed a King, but only a Governour under him. And ſo Abarbinel. And it is no improbable Conjecture of Dr Lightfoot's, that Ahaz gave him a great deal of Trouble, after the Death of Pekah, in Revenge of the Slaughters he had made in Judah: So that he kept Hoſhea out of the Throne a great while, and upon this Account is called the King of Iſrael (2 Chron. xxviii. 19.) as well as becauſe he walked in the Ways of thoſe Kings. Our learned Chronologer Mr Whiſton thinks there was an Interregnum for the Space of full twelve Years, from the Death of Jeroboam the ſecond. Which he takes to be moſt probable, and almoſt certain, from thoſe Words of Hoſea, who propheſied in that King's Time, Now (or e'er long) they ſhall ſay, we have no king, becauſe we feared not the Lord, what then ſhould a king do to us? Hoſhea x. 3. See his ſhort View of the Chronology of the Old Teſtament, p. 48.

And he reigned in Samaria over Iſrael nine years.] Viz. after his peaceable Poſſeſſion of the Throne. For from the Time that he pretended to it, upon the Slaughter of Pekah, he reigned ſeventeen or eighteen Years; viz. twelve in the Time of Ahaz, who reigned ſixteen Years; and ſix in the Time of Hezekiah, xviii. 10.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, but not as the kings of Iſrael that were before him.] For he did not hinder his People from going to worſhip at Jeruſalem: But, as the Hebrew Doctors ſay, took away the Guard that Jeroboam ſet in the Paſſage, to keep Men from going to the ſolemn Feaſts there. And one of the golden Calves being carried away captive, his Devotion, it is likely, was not great for the other remaining. And yet notwithſtanding, God exterminated Iſrael in his Days: To ſhew (ſaith Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 22.) that it was not meerly for the Sake of their Kings, upon whom the Iſraelites caſt all the Blame of their Depravation, that they were carried captive. See ver. 17, 18, 19, &c.

Ver. 3. Againſt him came up Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria,] Some take this to be but another Name for Tiglath-pileſer. For which I find no Ground, and rather think Shalmaneſer was his Son, and Succeſſor in the Kingdom of Aſſyria.

And Hoſhea became his ſervant, and gave him preſents.] Made himſelf a Tributary to him; and preſented him with Gifts in token of his Subjection to him, and as an Earneſt of his future Obedience.

Ver. 4. And the king of Aſſyria found conſpiracy in Hoſhea: for he had ſent meſſengers to So, king of Egypt, and brought no preſents to the king of Aſſyria, as he had done year by year:] He deſigned to ſhake off his Yoke, and be no longer his Subject, as he found by two undeniable Evidences. Firſt, that he had ſent to treat with the King of Egypt; and denied him the uſual Tribute, which he was bound to pay him every Year. St Hierom calls this King of Egypt, Sua, and Joſephus calls him Soan, and the LXX Segor, who is the ſame with the famous Sabacon, an Ethiopian mentioned by Diodorus Siculus, and Herodotus. See Sir J. Marſham, Can. Chron. §. xvi, and our famous Uſher in his Annals, vid. A. 3989.

Therefore the king of Aſſyria ſhut up, and bound him in priſon.] He firſt beſieged Samaria, and when he had taken it, made him a cloſe Priſoner: The Hiſtory of which follows.

Ver. 5. Then the king of Aſſyria went up throughout all the land,] He firſt poſſeſſed himſelf of the Country of Moab (as the ſame great Primate obſerves) that he might leave no Enemies at his Back; and deſtroyed their two chief Cities, Ar and Kir-hares, according to the Prediction of Iſaiah, xvi. ver. 1. and the laſt: And then he invaded the Kingdom of Iſrael, and poſſeſſed himſelf of it.

And went up to Samaria, and beſieged it three years.] Joſephus rightly obſerves two Expeditions of this King againſt the Land of Iſrael. Firſt, when he made Hoſhea Tributary to him; and now, when he made himſelf Maſter of the whole Country, and beſieged the capital City, Lib. 9. Antiq. Cap. 13.

Ver. 6. In the ninth year of Hoſhea, the king of Aſſyria took Samaria, and carried Iſrael away into Aſſyria, and placed them in Halah, and in Habor, by the river of Gozan,] There is no Reason that any should imagine these Israelites were carried into Colchis, Iberia, Armenia the less, and the farthest Scythia, when the Scripture saith so expressly that they were carried into Assyria, and the Cities of the Medes: And when the very Places are to be found into which they are said here to be carried in those Countries, viz. Chalat, and Chabor, and Gozan: For what was Chalach (as Bochartus observes) but Ptolemy's Chalachena, or the North of Assyria: And Chabor is plainly enough the same with his χαβώρας, a Mountain between Media and Assyria. Between which Mountain and the Caspian Sea there is the City Gauzania, that is Gozan, between the two Channels of the River Cyrus.

And in the cities of the Medes.] Whither Tiglath-Pileser had carried others of them out of Galilee.

Ver. 7. For so it was, that the children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had served other Gods.] This they had done a long Time: For from the Beginning of Jeroboam's Schism to the carrying Israel captive was two hundred and sixty-three Years.

Ver. 8. And walked in the statutes of the heathen (whom God had cast out from before the children of Israel)] Of the Amorites and other impious People; whom he expelled from the Land of Canaan, to make room for them.

And of the kings of Israel, which they had made.] Viz. the golden Calves, whose Worship the kings of Israel had ordained, to keep them from going up to worship God at Jerusalem.

Ver. 9. And the children of Israel did secretly those things which were not right, against the LORD their God;] Besides the publick Impiety authorized by their Kings, they privately exercised Idolatry, according to their own Fancy.

And they built them high places in all their cities,] They were not content to worship upon Hills and Mountains, but they raised high Places in all Cities to offer Sacrifice.

From the tower of the watchmen to the fenced cities.] In all Places, both those that were desert, and those that were inhabited; or both in the Country, and in the City. For the Tower of the watchmen are thought to be those little Houses which the Country People built, wherein to watch their Flocks and their Fruits, and preserve them from wild Beasts or Robbers.

Ver. 10. And they set them up images and groves in every high hill, and under every green tree.] The Hebrew Word Asherim, which we translate Groves, should be rendered Idols of that Name, as Selden hath observed, Syntag. de Diis Syris, 2. Cap. 2. Where he plainly demonstrates this Word doth not signify the Grove, but the Numen or Deity placed in the Grove. For how should Groves be set under every green Tree? as it is here said the Asherim were. And thus Kimchi said in the Root Ashur, that every wooden Thing that was worshipped, was called Asherah. And Procopius Gazæus observes, that this Word which the LXX here translate ἄλση Groves, others every where translate Ἀσταρώθ, which Word, saith he, Δηλοῖ τὴν Ἀστάρτην, Ἀφροδίτην, denotes Astarte, that is Venus.

Ver. 11. And there they burnt incense in all the high places, as did the heathen, whom the LORD carried away before them, and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger.] For, as the Son of Syrac expresses it, they sought out all wickedness, 'till the vengeance came upon them. See Ecclus xlvii. ult.

Ver. 12. For they served idols, whereof the LORD had said unto them, ye shall not do these things.] They worshipped many other Gods, which were meer Idols, against the express Command of God, Exod. xx. 23. Deut. iv. 15, 16, &c.

Ver. 13. Yet the LORD testified against Israel and Judah, by all the prophets, and by all the seers,] I have before noted, that Abarbinel in his Commentary on these Books, hath observed one or more Prophets that were in every King's Reign, both in Israel and Judah, from the Time of Saul to Zedekiah, in whose Time Jerusalem was laid desolate. These admonished them of their Duty, as it here follows, and endeavoured to preserve them in God's true Religion, or to recover them when they apostatized from it; particularly in the Days of this very King, when Israel was carried captive, they had the Prophets, Hosea, Amos, Isaiah, and Micah: And in the Days of the last King when Judah was carried captive, they had Jeremiah and Ezekiel.

Saying, Turn ye from your evil ways, and keep my commandments, and my statutes, according to all the laws which I commanded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my servants the prophets.] As he had given them his Laws by Moses; so he continued a Succession of Prophets after him, whom he sent to call upon them to observe these Laws.

Ver. 14. Notwithstanding they would not hear, but hardened their necks, like the neck of their fathers,] A Metaphor taken from refractory Oxen, that will not bow down their Necks to the Yoke. Even so the Israelites refused to submit to the Yoke of God's Laws.

That did not believe in the LORD their God.] This was the Original of all the Sins they committed: They did not believe God's Prophets, but hearkened to Deceivers.

Ver. 15. And they rejected his statutes, and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his testimonies which he testified against them,] By his Servants the Prophets.

And they followed vanities,] So Idols are called, which, as the Apostle speaks, are nothing; having no Power to do either Hurt or Good.

And became vain,] Like the Idols they worshipped; senseless, sottish, and good for nothing.

And went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them, that they should not do like them.] Exod. xxiii. 24, 32, and many other Places.

Ver. 16. And they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, and made them molten images, even two calves, and made a grove,] The making a Grove was a greater Impiety than is commonly imagined. For in their Groves they worshipped Baalim, as appears from Judges iii. 7; that is, Heroes, to whom those Groves were conse-conſecrated, being their Sepulchre. And here many filthy Rites were practiſed, in Honour of Venus, Bacchus, and ſuch like Deities.

And worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved Baal.] They grew worſe and worſe, not contenting themſelves with the Worſhip of the two Calves, &c. but worſhipped the Stars of Heaven (againſt which Moſes had given them a particular Caution, Deut. iv. 19.) Saturn, Jupiter, Venus, and the Moon, but eſpecially Baal, which was the Sun.

Ver. 17. And they cauſed their ſons and their daughters to paſs through the fire, and uſed divination and inchantments,] Which were the moſt abominable Sins of the Heathen. See Lev. xviii. 21. xix. 26. xx. 2, 3, &c. and Deut. xviii. 10. and upon ver. 3. of the foregoing Chapter.

And ſold themſelves to do evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.] They were ſo induſtrious to do wickedly, and ſo inceſſant in it, as if they had been Slaves that were ſold to that Drudgery.

Ver. 18. Therefore the LORD was very angry with Iſrael, and removed them out of his ſight,] From the Holy Land, where his Temple was, in which he dwelt among them.

'Till there was none left, but the tribe of Judah only.] Unto whom adhered part of Benjamin and the Levites: Who, as it here follows, imitated the Wickedneſs of Iſrael; but yet had ſome Mixture of good Kings among them. Whereas all the Kings of Iſrael perſiſted in the Sins of Jeroboam: And therefore before their Removal out of their Land, they ſuffered great Calamities, no leſs than nine of their Kings being killed (as Abarbinel notes) before their laſt King was carried Captive.

Ver. 19. Alſo Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the ſtatutes of Iſrael which they made.] Followed the idolatrous Devices of the ten Tribes; as they did moſt notoriouſly in the loſt Reign of Ahaz. Whoſe Son Hezekiah indeed made a noble Reformation; but it laſted no longer than his Time; ſo extreamly was this Nation corrupted.

Ver. 20. And the LORD rejected] With Loathing and Abhorrence, as the Word imports.

All the houſe of Iſrael,] The whole ten Tribes.

And afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of ſpoilers, until he had caſt them out of his ſight.] See x. 32, 33. xiii. 3, 7.

Ver. 21. For he rent Iſrael from the houſe of David,] Here was the Foundation of their Ruin.

And he made Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat their king; and Jeroboam drave Iſrael from following the LORD, and made Iſrael ſin a great ſin.] Of which he was the Author; but they were too forward to comply with him.

Ver. 22. For the children of Iſrael walked in all the ſins of Jeroboam which he did; they departed not from them:] They were ſo inclined to Idolatry, that a long Succeſſion of God's Judgments upon them could not reclaim them.

Ver. 23. Until the LORD removed Iſrael out of his ſight, as he had ſaid by all his ſervants the prophets.] Unto whoſe Admonitions and Threatnings they had no Regard.

So was Iſrael carried away out of their own land to Aſſyria, unto this day.] As they ſold themſelves to do evil, (ver. 17.) ſo God delivered them up to be Slaves to thoſe whoſe Gods they had worſhipped, ver. 16, 17.

Ver. 24. And the king of Aſſyria brought men.] This was not done by Shalmaneſer, but by his Son Eſer-haddon, Ezra iv. 2.

From Babylon,] Which was then ſubject to the King of Aſſyria; but not long after revolted.

And from Cuthah,] A City of Chaldæa, as Abarbinel expounds it. And ſo doth our Dr Hyde out of ſeveral Perſian Writers, Hiſt. Relig. Vet. Perſ. Cap. 2. But it rather here ſignifies a Country called Cuſh alſo (which perhaps had its Name from the forenamed City) from whence the greateſt Part of this Colony being brought, the People in after-times were called Cuthæi. For the ſame Author truly obſerves that the Country called Cuſh was in the Babyloniſh Dialect (afterwards called the Chaldæan) called Cuth. For they were wont to change the Letter Schin into Thau. In this Country, in the Land of Shinar, Chuſh firſt ſettled; and his Poſterity ſpread itſelf into Arabia.

And from Ava,] The Avites were a very ancient People, who were driven by the Caphtorim out of Hazerim; and went and ſettled beyond Euphrates. See upon Deut. ii. 23.

And from Hamath,] This was a City of Syria, on the Borders of Canaan; which was now ſubject to the King of Aſſyria by a late Conqueſt of it, xvi. 9.

And from Sepharvaim,] There is a City called Siphara, on the Side of which the River Euphrates runs, not far from the Sea. From this Mixture of Nations it was, that afterward there happened ſuch a Confuſion of Laws, and Manners, and Rites of Religion, as was in this Country.

And placed them in the cities of Samaria, inſtead of the children of Iſrael; and they poſſeſſed Samaria,] That is, the whole Country, wherein the ten Tribes formerly dwelt.

And dwelt in the cities thereof.] Which were not deſtroyed, I ſuppoſe, but left ſtanding, with a Deſign to ſend new Inhabitants into them.

Ver. 25. And it was ſo, at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD: therefore the LORD ſent lions among them, which ſlew ſome of them.] And did not the Iſraelites alſo want the Fear of the LORD, as Abarbinel here notes, and yet were not devoured by Lions? To which he anſwers, that though the Iſraelites alſo ſerved Idols, yet they did not deny the Divine Power and Providence; but imagined theſe Idols to be the intermediate Cauſes by which the Divine Influences might be conveyed unto them: For it is plain Jeroboam did not deny the LORD, (1 Kings xiii. 6.) but acknowledged his Power. But theſe new Inhabitants believed the Idols which they worſhipped to be true Gods; and therefore were deſtroyed by Lions, becauſe they did not acknowledge the Power and Providence of God over all inferior Beings, whoſe Land this was; and hereby he vindicated his ancient Inheritance and Poſſeſſion to himſelf.

Ver. 26. Wherefore they ſpake unto the king of Aſſyria, ſaying, The nations which thou haſt removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land; therefore he hath ſent lions among them, and behold, they ſlay them; becauſe they know not the manner of the God of the land.] They took the God of Iſrael to be of the ſame kind with their own, who affected a particular Country and People, and would be honoured with peculiar Rites, which were acceptable to him, and none elſe. The Syrians had the ſame Conceit of Topical Gods, as I obſerved upon 1 Kings xx. 23. and ſee below, xviii. 35.

Ver. 27. Then the king of Aſſyria commanded, ſaying, Carry thither one of the prieſts, whom ye brought from thence, and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.] The Jews in Pirke Elieſer, Cap. 38, tell the Story thus; that the King of Aſſyria called the Elders of Iſrael together, and ſaid: All the while you dwelt in the Land of Samaria, it was not infeſted with Lions; what is the Reaſon that my People are devoured by them? To which they anſwered, Our Lord the King, this Land will not receive any uncircumciſed Nation; Let two of you go then, replied the King, and circumciſe them, and teach them the Book of the Law. So R. Doſithæus, and R. Zechariah were ſent, who did the Buſineſs. Here they make bold to go beyond the Scripture, in making two great Doctors to have been ſent, when there was but one. Though it is very probable there were ſome Aſſociates who accompanied this principal Prieſt. For the Text ſaith, when the King bad them carry one of the Prieſts thither, he added, and let them dwell there. Which ſignifies he did not go alone: Though he alone was to teach them, as it follows, the manner of the God of the land.

Ver. 28. Then one of the prieſts whom they had carried away from Samaria, came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they ſhould fear the LORD.] That is, how they ſhould worſhip and ſerve him. From whence many learned Men conclude, that he brought the Book of the Law with him, without which he could not fully inſtruct them how to worſhip God, and govern themſelves: Which Book they ſuppoſe was written in the Babylonian Character, becauſe it was to teach a Colony of that Nation. This is oppoſed by a late learned Man, who earneſtly contends, that the Book of the Law was not brought to them 'till the Time of Sanballat, and therefore this Prieſt inſtructed them without Book, only by Tradition. Which is not probable; for they would have had little Regard to him, if he had not produced the Authority of that holy Book, delivered to them by that great Law-giver Moſes, the Man of God: For that he taught them the right Way of worſhipping God, according to the Law, as it was practiſed in Judah, is very likely; being ſenſible that God abhorred the other Worſhip which Iſrael practiſed; for which he had thrown them out of their Land.

Ver. 29. Howbeit, every nation made gods of their own, and put them in the houſes of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.] It ſeems the People of Iſrael, who are here called Samaritans, had built little Temples in the high Places; wherein theſe new Inhabitants worſhipped the Gods of the Country from which they came (that is, the Gods of Aſſyria, Ezek. xxvii. 7.) together with the God of Iſrael.

Ver. 30. And the men of Babylon made Succothbenoth,] The Jewiſh Doctors do but trifle in their Expoſition in this Word, which they ſay ſignifies an Hen and Chickens. The Word plainly imports the Tabernacles of Daughters, or of young Maidens: Who were conſecrated to Venus, whoſe Name Mr Selden probably conjectures was derived from Benoth. The old Idolaters, it is evident, did proſtitute their Daughters in Honour of Venus, as not only Strabo, Herodotus, and other profane Writers teſtify; but ſome think is ſuggeſted in holy Scripture, Lev. xix. 29. And therefore they of Babylon are ſaid to make the Tabernacles of Daughters; that is, Chapels wherein their Daughters were proſtituted to every one that came to worſhip Venus, as the Manner was in Babylon, from whence the forenamed Authors teſtify this Filthineſs had its Original. See Selden de Diis Syris, Syntag. 2. Cap. 7. and Voſſius de Idololatr. Lib. 2. Cap. 22.

And the men of Cuth made Nergal,] Which the Jews would have to ſignify a Cock. But their Conjecture is better, who think it ſignified Fire. For the Men of Cuth are thoſe that were afterward called Perſians; who it is certain anciently worſhipped the Fire. See Selden, Cap. 8. But the famous Bochart ingenuouſly confeſſes he doth not know what Nergal was; but that there is a Sort of Palm-Tree called Nergil, by the Perſians, Arabians, and Indians, of which they report ſtrange Things. From whence, perhaps, the Perſians gave the Name of Nergal to this Idol, as in Syria their God was called Rimmon from the Pomegranate. Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 1. Cap. 16.

And the men of Hamath made Aſhima,] I know no Ground the Jews have to ſay, this Word Aſhima ſignifies a ſmooth Goat. Our great Selden modeſtly acknowledges he doth not know what God it was, Ib. Cap. 9. But a late Author takes Aſhima to be the ſame with Mars: Becauſe among the Ancients AS ſignified the ſame with Ἄρης among the Greeks, and Schemah is as much as hearing or obedient, Jo. Genſius, de Victimis Humanis, p. i. p. 92. And this AS he conjectures is the ſame, whom the Romans called Heſus, whom Lucan mentions in his Pharſalia, Lib. 1. ver. 443.

But after all, I think my learned Friend Dr Alix hath made the moſt probable Conjecture, that Aſhima is the Name of God, whom the Hebrews call Haſhem, the Name: From whence Aſhima, I doubt not, is derived. Accordingly Aben-Ezra ſaith in his Preface to the Book of Eſther, that he ſaw in a Samaritan Pentateuch, Geneſis i. 1. Bara Aſhima, inſtead of Bara Elohim. Which Bochart cenſures as a Falſity, becauſe no ſuch Word is to be found in the whole Samaritan Pentateuch; but it might be then in ſome Paraphraſe upon it.

Ver. 31.

Ver. 31. And the Avites made Nibhaz, and Tartach,] No body knows what theſe were; for no Credit is to be given to the Jews, who ſay the former was in the Shape of a Dog, and the other of an aſs. Selden thinks they were the ſame Idol called by different Names, but was not able to give an Account of them.

And the Sepharvaites burnt their children in the fire to Adramelech and Anammelech the gods of Sepharvaim.] Theſe were the ſame Gods with Moloch; unto whom the ſame Sacrifices were offered. The Jews after their vain Fancies make one of them to have been in the Form of a Peacock, and the other of a Pheaſant: But in all Probability they were but different Names of Moloch, which was the Sun, as is evident from xxiii. 10, 11. And the Addition of Addir, which ſignifies Magnificent or Potent, makes Adramelech as much as the mighty Moloch. And of Ana, which ſignifies to anſwer, makes Anamelech as much as Oracular Moloch. For Moloch, and Melech, and Milcom, are all the very ſame in the Language of different People, ſignifying a King: The Sun being by them accounted the King, as the Moon the Queen of Heaven. And there is nothing more known than that the Gentiles burnt their Children in Sacrifice to them. But whether theſe People did ſo, or only made them paſs through the Fire to purify them, may be queſtioned; tho' the Words ſeem to import the former: Which was the Practice of the Phœnicians, Syrians, Tyrians, Carthaginians, Cretians, Arabians, and many other Nations; and is ſtill practiſed by the Americans, and other Gentiles.

A Learned Writer of our own, Dr Hyde, in the Book before-mentioned, had a quite different Apprehenſion of theſe Words: For he will have Adramelech to ſignify the King of the flock, Adre being as much as Greges: And Anamelech he thinks is much of the ſame Signification, Ana being as much as Pecus in the Perſian Language; always ſignifying collectively in the Plural Number, the leſſer Cattle, Sheep and Goats. Of which he imagines theſe Gods had the Care, and were therefore worſhipped, the Riches of thoſe People conſiſting much in Cattle. They were alſo cœleſtial Conſtellations (as he there obſerves) which they imagined promoted the Breeding and Growth of Cattle.

Ver. 32. So they feared the LORD,] Worſhipped the LORD God of Iſrael.

And made unto themſelves of the loweſt of them prieſts of the high places, which ſacrificed for them in the houſes of the high places.] I ſuppoſe theſe Sacrifices were offered to the God of Iſrael, but in high Places, and by Prieſts of their own making. As for their Sacrifices to the God of their ſeveral Countries, no doubt they brought Prieſts along with them, to perform the Service belonging to them.

Ver. 33. They feared the LORD, and ſerved their own gods, after the manner of the nations, whom they carried away from thence.] That is, after the manner of the ten Tribes, who worſhipped the LORD, and the Golden Calves together with him, and ſometimes Baal, and other Gods, ver. 16.

Ver. 34. Unto this day they do after the former manner: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their ſtatutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, whom he named Iſrael;] Theſe, and the following Words, give an Account of the Children of Iſrael; who being carried Captive out of their own Land (as hath been related) were not at all amended thereby; but ſtill neglected all the Laws which God had given them, and did not worſhip him alone; and therefore in Truth they feared not the LORD.

Ver. 35. With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, ſaying, Ye ſhall not fear other gods, nor bow your ſelves to them, nor ſave them, nor ſacrifice to them:] Whoſe Sins he aggravates (and thereby juſtifies his ſevere Proceedings againſt them) by repreſenting them as a ſelect People, who were in a ſtrict and gracious Covenant with him, obliging them not to ſhew the leaſt Reſpect to any other God but himſelf.

Ver. 36. But the LORD, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and a ſtretched-out arm, him ſhall ye fear, and him ſhall ye worſhip, and to him ſhall ye do ſacrifice.] This was a Benefit, one would think, that ſhould never have been forgotten; but eternally engaged them to his Service, who delivered them from ſo vile a Slavery.

Ver. 37. And the ſtatutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment which he wrote for you, ye ſhall obſerve to do for evermore, and ye ſhall not fear other gods.] This is repeated again, being ſo very often mentioned in the Book of the Law, that they ſhould worſhip no other God.

Ver. 38. And the covenant that I have made with you, ye ſhall not forget, neither ſhall ye fear other gods.] Which was the principal Thing in the Covenant.

Ver. 39. But the LORD your God ye ſhall fear, and he ſhall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.] As he did, whenſoever they renounced Idolatry, and promiſed to worſhip him alone; as we read throughout their whole Hiſtory, in theſe holy Books.

Ver. 40. Howbeit, they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.] They ſoon revolted, when they ſolemnly proteſted to repent; and did juſt as they had done before, as the ſame Books teſtify.

Ver. 41. So thoſe nations feared the LORD, and ſerved their graven images, both their children, and their childrens children: as did their fathers, ſo do they unto this day.] Juſt thus did the Nations who came in their room into the Country of Samaria: They joined their own Gods with the LORD God of Iſrael, and continued ſo to do, they and their Poſterity, unto the Time this Book was written, and long after. For as Mr Mede hath obſerved, this Medley of Religions laſted above three hundred Years, 'till towards the End of the Perſian Monarchy. At which Time Manaſſe, Brother to Jadda the High Prieſt of the Jews (that were returned to their own Land) married the Daughter of Sanballat Governour of Samaria. And after his Example, other Jews of the beſt Rank having married ſtrange Wives, contrary to the Law, and being loth to leave them, betook themſelves thither thither alſo; whom Sanballat entertained, and made his Son-in-law their Prieſt. And when Alexander the Great ſubdued the Perſian Monarchy, he obtained Leave of him to build a Temple upon Mount Gerizim, where Manaſſeh exerciſed the Office of High-Prieſt. This was very prejudicial to the Jews, and the Occaſion of a Schiſm; whilſt thoſe who were diſcontented or excommunicated at Jeruſalem, were wont to run hither. Yet by this means the Samaritans (having gotten one of the Sons of Aaron for their Prieſt, and ſo many Jews being mingled among them) were brought to throw away all their falſe Gods, and worſhip the God of Iſrael only. Yet ſo, that though they ſeemed to themſelves to be the true Worſhippers of God, they retained a ſmack of Idolatry; worſhipping God under a viſible Repreſentation, viz. that of a Dove. Juſt as their Predeceſſors, the ten Tribes, worſhipped the ſame God under the Similitude of a Calf, Book 1. Diſcourſe 13. And indeed this Inclination to have ſome ſenſible Repreſentation of God was ſo univerſal, that they who had none, were thought by the Gentile World to worſhip nothing.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſe 1. NOW it came to paſs in the third year of Hoſhea ſon of Elah king of Iſrael, that Hezekiah the ſon of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.] The third Year of thoſe nine, which are mentioned before, xvii. 1. See there.

Ver. 2. Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem: his mothers name alſo was Abi, daughter of Zachariah.] Unto this it is objected, that Ahaz lived but thirty and ſix Years (xvi. 2.) and therefore, according to this Account, begat Hezekiah when he was but eleven Years old, which ſeems incredible. To which Capellus in his Chronologia anſwers, that he reigned two or three Years with his Father; which is not likely, for the Text ſaith he was twenty. Years old when he began to reign, after his Father's Death, which is before-mentioned. And the Solution of the Jews, mentioned by St Hierom, is not much better, who ſay, he did not begin to reign preſently after his Father's Death, but there was an Interregnum for ſome Years; becauſe of a Sedition that was in Jeruſalem. But as there is no Proof of this, ſo it is improbable that Hezekiah, who was a grown Man, and beloved of the People, ſhould not preſently ſucceed his Father. Calviſius's Account is ſtill worſe, who will have Hezekiah, to have been only the adopted Son of Ahaz: Which ſpoils the Deſcent of our Saviour from David, as Bochartus obſerves: Who therefore plainly admits that he did beget Hezekiah, when he was eleven or twelve Years old. For ſo it may be underſtood, that he was but juſt entred upon the twenty-fifth Year of his Age, when he began his Reign; and ſo but twenty-four compleat. Therefore his Father begat him about the twelfth Year of his Age. For if, from thirty-ſix Years, four and twenty be taken, there remain twelve. And if we ſuppoſe, as we may very well, that Ahaz was near one and twenty Years old when he began to reign, and near ſeventeen Years older before he died (for the Scriptures, no more than other Writers, do not take Notice whether the Year be perfect or imperfect) then he might be near fourteen Years old when he begat Hezekiah. But take it according to the firſt Account, that he was but eleven or twelve Years old, Bochartus hath given a vaſt Number of Inſtances of Perſons that procreated Children at that Age. For Ripeneſs for Procreation is not to be preciſely determined, either by Phyſicians, Philoſophers, or Lawyers, (who have been pleaſed to fix the Time) but Conſideration is to be had of the Climate wherein Men live, of the Temper and Conſtitution of their Bodies, of their Diet, and many other things; as he obſerves in an Epiſtle to Nicol. Carbonellus, in his Additions to the laſt Edition of his Phaleg. p. 920.

Ver. 3. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that David his father did.] A Character which is not given, I think, to any of the Kings of Judah, ſince the Reign of Aſa, 1 Kings xv. 11.

Ver. 4. He removed the high places,] Which none of his Predeceſſors had the Courage to attempt. But the carrying of the ten Tribes captive, I ſuppoſe, mightily awakened both him and all the People, for the preſent (while it was freſh before their Eyes) to obſerve the Law of God very ſtrictly.

And brake the images, and cut down the groves,] Which his Father Ahaz had multiplied, xvi. 14. 2 Chron. xxviii. 2, 24, 25.

And brake in pieces the brazen ſerpent that Moſes had made:] Which had been piouſly preſerved as a Monument of God's wonderful Mercy to them in the Wilderneſs; as Gideon intended his Ephod ſhould be of another Deliverance, Judges viii. 27. But as they went a whoring after that, ſo they did after this, as the Jews phraſe it in Avada Zara. And therefore Hezekiah broke it in Pieces; that is, as the Talmudiſts there explain it, ground it to Powder, and then ſcattered it into the Air, that nothing of it might remain to be worſhipped as a Relique by ſuperſtitious People. And yet there is a Fable that ſome Fragments of it did remain 'till Joſiah's Time; and at this Day, as Sigonius relates in his Hiſtory of the Kingdom of Italy, they ſhew this brazen Serpent entire at the Church of St Ambroſe in Milan. But the wiſer Romaniſts are aſhamed of it, and acknowledge it is not the Serpent made by Moſes (which being broken in Pieces by Hezekiah, was never reſtored) but another made in Imitation of it. See Buxtorf. Hiſtor. Serpentis Æenei, Cap. 6.

For unto this day; the children of Iſrael had burnt incenſe to it:] When this Superſtition began we are not told; but no body gives a better Account of it than David Kimchi, whoſe Words are theſe. From the Time that the Kings of Iſrael did evil, and the Children of Iſrael followed Idolatry, until the Reign of Hezekiah, they offered Incenſe to it. For it being written in the Law of Moſes, whoſoever looks upon it ſhall live, they fancied they might obtain Bleſſings by its Mediation, and therefore thought it worthy to be worſhipped. It had been kept from

Moſes

Moſes his Days in Memory of a Miracle, juſt as the Pot of Manna alſo was; and Aſa and Jehoſhaphat did not extirpate it when they rooted out Idolatry, becauſe in their Reign they did not obſerve that the People worſhipped this Serpent, or burnt Incenſe to it, and therefore they left it as a Memorial. But Hezekiah thought fit to take it quite away, when he aboliſhed other Idolatry, becauſe in the Time of his Father they worſhipped it as an Idol. And though pious People among them accounted it only to be a Memorial of a wonderful Work, yet he judged it better to aboliſh it, though the Memory of the Miracle were loſt together with it, than ſuffer it to remain, and leave the Iſraelites in Danger to commit Idolatry hereafter with it.

And he called it Nehuſhtan.] Some think Hezekiah called it by this Name; others, that the Iſraelites called it ſo; the Words ſignifying indifferently it was called Nehuſhtan, viz. by Way of Contempt and Scorn. For the Letter Nun at the End of a Word, the Jews ſay, is added by Way of Diminution. And Nechoſheth ſignifying Braſs, this is as much as to ſay, this Serpent was meer Braſs or Copper, and had no Power in it, no Profit, no Ability to help, no Divinity; and therefore not to be worſhipped with divine Honour. Thus Kimchi: It being called by this Name ſignified as much as if Hezekiah had ſaid, How could it come into any man's heart to think, that this Serpent could do any thing, which is meer braſs? Or, as Ralbag expounds it, this Serpent hath no more Virtue in it, than the common Braſs in their Houſes. For he takes an, in the End of the Word, to be the ſame with am, ipſorum. But there is a great and good Man of our own, who having endeavoured to ſhew that the Deſtruction of the old Serpent the Devil was foreſhadowed by the lifting up the Brazen Serpent in the Wilderneſs, concludes that Hezekiah was moved with the greater indignation againſt the Worſhip of it, becauſe in Truth it never was a Type of our Saviour and Redeemer, but a Figure of his grand Enemy. This made him expreſs ſuch Deteſtation of it, as is imported, he thinks, in the Word Nehuſhtan. The Signification of which is not to be found in our Lexicons: For though Nechoſheth ſignify no more than Braſs, yet Nehuſhtan imports no leſs than our Engliſh Words, foul Fiend, the old Dragon, or Satan. See Dr Jackſon, Humiliation of the Son of God, Chap. 31. Paragr. 6.

Ver. 5. He truſted in the LORD God of Iſrael,] And not in the Help of foreign Forces, as his Father Ahaz did, (xvi. 7.) nay, which that good King Aſa called into his Aſſiſtance, 1 Kings xv. 18, 19.

So that after him was none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor any that were before him.] Since the Time that the Kingdoms of Judah and Iſrael were divided.

Ver. 6. For he clave to the LORD, and departed not from following him, but kept his commandments, which the LORD commanded Moſes.] He continued to obſerve God's Laws through the whole Courſe of his Reign, to the Concluſion of it; and did not like ſome of his Predeceſſors, who began well, but fell off in the End of their Days, as Joaſh and Amaziah did, xii. 2. xiv. 3. 2 Chron. xxiv. 2, 19. xxv. 14.

Ver. 7. And the LORD was with him, and he proſpered whitherſoever he went: and he rebelled againſt the king of Aſſyria, and ſerved him not.] His proſperous Succeſs in all his Enterprizes, which were viſible Tokens of God's Preſence with him, emboldned him to throw off the Yoke of the King of Aſſyria, to which Ahaz had baſely ſubmitted, xvi. 7. which was not properly Rebellion in Hezekiah, for Ahaz could not ſubject his Kingdom to the Aſſyrian Monarch, but only for his own Time: His Son was not bound to be his Slave. Therefore the Meaning is, he owned not the Authority of the Aſſyrian King over him, but looked upon himſelf as a free Sovereign in his own Kingdom, independent upon him. In this perhaps he was a little too forward, being very much lifted up by his Victories; but it is plain he was not able to maintain himſelf free from all Subjection to the King of Aſſyria, ver. 14.

Ver. 8. He ſmote the Philiſtines, even unto Gaza, and the borders thereof, from the tower of the watchmen, to the fenced cities.] We had this Phraſe before, xvii. 19. See there. And theſe Words ſeem to ſignify that he ſmote them all the Country over, and recovered from them more than his Father had loſt, 2 Chron. xxviii. 18. According to the Prophecy of Iſaiah, xiv. 18. where he bids the Philiſtines not to rejoice, becauſe the Rod that ſmote them was broken (that is, Uzziah was dead, who had ſorely afflicted them, 2 Chron xxvi. 6, 7.) for out of his Root ſhould come another, that would more grievouſly gall them, which was Hezekiah.

Ver. 9. And it came to paſs in the fourth year of king Hezekiah (which was the ſeventh year of Hoſhea, ſon of Elah, king of Iſrael) that Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria came up againſt Samaria, and beſieged it.] We had an Account of the taking of Samaria before; and therefore the mentioning of it here again may ſeem needleſs. But as now the Year of Hezekiah's Reign is ſet down wherein it was taken, ſo Abarbinel thinks the Intention of the divine Writer was to connect theſe two Hiſtories together; the taking of Samaria, and the Aſcent of Sennacherib againſt Jeruſalem; who eight Years after the Deſtruction of the former, with great Pride and Confidence imagined he ſhould do as much by the latter.

Ver. 10. And at the end of three years they took it, even in the ſixth year of Hezekiah (that is the ninth year of Hoſhea) Samaria was taken.

Ver. 11. And the king of Aſſyria did carry away Iſrael into Aſſyria, and put them in Halah, and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes:] As was before related (Chap. xvii. 6.) but could not be too oft repeated, to make Poſterity dread the Judgments of God, that were fallen upon them for their Sins; as it follows again in the next Words.

Ver. 12. Becauſe they obeyed not the voice of the LORD their God, but tranſgreſſed his covenant, and all that Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded, and would not hear them, nor do them.] xvii. 34, 35.

Ver. 13. Now in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, did Sennacherib king of Aſſyria,] He was the Son of Shalmaneſer, and ſucceeded him in his Kingdom after his Death; as we read in the Book of Tobit, i. 15.

Come up againſt all the fenced cities of Judah, and took them.] That is, took a great many of them, 2 Chron. xxxii. 1.

Ver. 14. And Hezekiah king of Judah ſent to the king of Aſſyria to Lachiſh,] This ſhews he had not taken all the fenced Cities, for Lachiſh was a City of Judah, Joſh. xv. 39. which is mentioned before in this Book, xiv. 19. and was not yet taken, though Siege was laid to it. Which when he had taken, he intended to go up againſt Jeruſalem, 2 Chron. xxxii. 2. which moved Hezekiah to divert him from his Purpoſe, by begging his Pardon, as it here follows, for what he had done in ſhaking off his Yoke.

Saying, I have offended thee,] In denying to be ſubject to him, which no doubt was the Reaſon of this Invaſion.

Return from me: that which thou putteſt upon me, I will bear.] Though he had made great Proviſion againſt him, as we read, 2 Chron. xxxii. 3, 4, &c. yet he durſt not venture to abide a Siege; but choſe rather to divert him, by ſubmitting to ſuch Conditions as he would impoſe upon him.

And the king of Aſſyria appointed to Hezekiah three hundred talents of ſilver, and thirty talents of gold.] This was a great Burden, though it was not a yearly Tribute, but only a preſent Payment; which his Weakneſs forced him to ſubmit unto.

Ver. 15. And Hezekiah gave him all the ſilver that was found in the houſe of the LORD,] Which in publick Neceſſities they thought it was lawful to make uſe of, for their Preſervation. Yet the Talmudiſts reckon this one of the three ill Things that Hezekiah did, in cutting off the Golden Plates, mentioned in the next Verſe. See Selden de Synedr. Lib. 2. Cap. 1. N. 4.

And in the treaſures of the kings houſe.] Which had been ſo exhauſted before, that he was forced to raiſe the Money by other Means, as it follows, ver. 16.

Ver. 16. At that time did Hezekiah cut off the gold from the doors of the temple of the LORD, and from the pillars which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid, and gave it to the king of Aſſyria.] It is very probable, that when Ahaz defaced the Temple, and ſhut up the Doors of it (xvi. 17. 2 Chron. xxxiii. 2, 4.) he cut off this Gold; which Hezekiah took Care to repair; but was now conſtrained to cut it off himſelf. Upon which Words Procopius Gazæus ſeems to me to have very well obſerved; That Hezekiah finding he had not ſufficient Treaſure of his own, to anſwer the Impoſition laid upon him, was driven by Neceſſity to make uſe of Things ſacred, leſt the Enemy ſhould burn the City and the Temple. But what was thus employed, pious Kings were wont to reſtore as ſoon as they were able, out of the Spoils of War, when it was ended.

Ver. 17. And the king of Aſſyria ſent Tartan, and Rabſaris, and Rabſhakeh from Lachiſh, to king Hezekiah with a great hoſt againſt Jeruſalem: and they went up and came to Jeruſalem:] Some of the Jews think, that Sennacherib having received the Tribute from Hezekiah, went to his own Land; but becauſe Hezekiah did not continue to ſend it every Year, after ſome Time returned to Judæa again, and beſieged Jeruſalem. But there is not a Word of this either in this Book, or the Chronicles, or in the Prophet Iſaiah: Therefore it is more probable, that having received the Money he demanded, he made his Expedition into Egypt, of which Herodotus and others, and ſome think Iſaiah alſo ſpeaks, as Sir John Marſham obſerves, Iſaiah x. 26, 28. But as he was the firſt King of Aſſyria that invaded Egypt, ſo he went no further than to the Entrance of it, to Peluſium, which he could not take, and ſo at his Return broke his Faith with Hezekiah; and notwithſtanding his Preſent, wherewith he pretended to be ſatisfied, laid Siege to Jeruſalem.

And when they were come up, they came and ſtood by the conduit of the upper pool, which is in the high way of the fullers field.] They took up their Head Quarters, as we now ſpeak, by the Conduit or Canal, into which Water was derived from the upper Fiſh-pond or Pool; which was in the high Way to the Field, where the Fullers, after they had waſhed their Cloaths in that Pool, were wont to ſpread them.

Ver. 18. And when they had called to the king,] They were ſo bold as to demand Audience of the King himſelf, that they might treat with him in Perſon for a Surrender.

There came out to them Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder.] Though he would not vouchſafe to go himſelf, yet he ſent his Major Domo, as they now ſpeak, and his Secretary, or a Principal Doctor of the Law, and the Maſter of the Requeſts. For ſince the King of Aſſyria ſent three Meſſengers, he thought fit to ſend as many. Iſaiah indeed mentions only Rabſhakeh, as ſent by the King of Aſſyria: Which Seder Olam Rabba thinks is meant of the firſt Legation; but in the ſecond when he beſieged Libnah (xix. 8.) he joined Tartan and Rabſaris with him. It is very uncertain what Officer Shebna was; for he is ſaid, Iſa. xxii. 15. to be over the houſe, and the LXX ſometimes make him Treaſurer, ſometimes Scribe, and Mr Selden thinks he might be præfectus prætorio. Lib. de Succeſ. in Pontif. p. 142.

Ver. 19. And Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them,] He was the chief Speaker, being an eloquent Man; and as the Hebrew Doctors will have it (whom Procopius follows) an Apoſtate Jew. Which is not altogether improbable; both becauſe he could ſpeak readily in the Hebrew Tongue, and when he blaſphemed the divine Majeſty, the King and his Nobles rent their Cloaths; which was not uſual, unleſs he that uttered ſuch blaſphemous Words was an Iſraelite. Some think his Name imports that he was the principal Cup-bearer to the King of Aſſyria.

Speak ye now to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the great king, the king of Aſſyria,] He aſſumed to himſelf the Stile of the Great King, becauſe of his great Conqueſts and large Dominions.

What confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?] As much as to ſay, it was the greateſt Folly to think any body could defend him from ſo great a King.

Ver. 20. Thou ſayeſt (but they are but vain words) I have counſel and ſtrength for the war:] In Reaſon, he thought Hezekiah ſhould not ſtand out againſt his Maſter, unleſs he had all things neceſſary for his Defence: But he did delude his People, if he told them, that he wanted neither Skill to manage War, nor Power to execute good Counſels.

Now on whom doſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt me?] He derides him, as full of vain Hopes; and upbraids him with his Rebellion. Of which he was thought formerly to be guilty, but could not now be juſtly accuſed of it, when he had ſubmitted to him with ſuch a great Preſent. Theſe are therefore Words of the higheſt Pride and Inſolence.

Ver. 21. Now behold, thou truſteſt upon the ſtaff of this bruiſed reed, even upon Egypt.] He thought it probable he would ſeek for Succour from Egypt, being a neighbouring Country; which would be ready to aſſiſt him, that they might be revenged of the King of Aſſyria for his late Invaſion. But he repreſents Egypt as very weak, and utterly unable to help him; being ſorely cruſhed, though not deſtroyed, by Sennacherib.

On which if a man lean, it will go into his hand and pierce it: ſo is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that truſt on him.] He repreſents the Power of Egypt to be as brittle as the Cane, or Reeds that grow on the Banks of the Nile (to which he ſeems to allude) on which if a Man leaned, they brake, and the Splinters run into his hand. Such is Pharaoh, ſaith he, a Man gets no Help, but Miſchief by relying upon him; as he doth who takes one of thoſe Canes for his Staff to ſupport him.

Ver. 22. But if ye ſay unto me, We truſt in the LORD our God: is not that he whoſe high places and alters Hezekiah hath taken away, and hath ſaid to Judah and Jeruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar in Jeruſalem?] This weak arguing proceeded from his Ignorance of that God and his Law, in whom Hezekiah truſted. Which made him call thoſe Crimes, which were his greateſt Virtues; in prohibiting their offering Sacrifice in any other Place, but that which God appointed.

Ver. 23. Now therefore, I pray thee, give pledges to my lord the king of Aſſyria, and I will deliver thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them.] He ſeems to challenge him to come out, and fight with his Maſter: And if he could give Security to make that Uſe of them, he would furniſh him with two thouſand Horſes, provided he was able to find ſo many Men to ſit upon them. Which are Words of the higheſt Contempt, and undervaluing of his Power. Or, the Meaning may be, he would lay a Wager with him, he could not find Men to ſit upon ſo many Horſes; for few were good Horſemen in Judæa, where Horſes were ſcarce.

Ver. 24. How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the leaſt of my maſters ſervants,] Much leſs ſtand before his whole Army.

And put thy truſt in Egypt for chariots, and horſemen?] With which Egypt abounded above moſt other Countries; who ſometimes furniſhed the Iſraelites with Horſes, but none like Egypt. For which Reaſon Moſes forbids them to multiply Horſes, leſt it ſhould cauſe them to return to Egypt, Deut. xvii. 16. and the Prophet reproves them ſeverely for going to Egypt for Help, and ſtaying upon Horſes, &c. Iſa. xxxi. 1, 3.

Ver. 25. Am I now come up without the LORD againſt this place to deſtroy it? the LORD ſaid unto me, Go up againſt this land and deſtroy it.] If he had not been a Jew, yet he had learned the Name of their God; and pretended his Maſter was come up againſt Jeruſalem, by a Commiſſion from him. Which were vain Words (as he calls Hezekiah's, ver. 20.) for there were none of his Prophets among the Aſſyrians. But perhaps he concluded from what the Aſſyrian King had done to Samaria, God intended he ſhould do ſo to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 26. Then ſaid Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rabſhakeh, ſaying, Speak, I pray thee, unto thy ſervants in the Syrian language (for we underſtand it) and ſpeak not with us in the Jews language, in the ears of the people that are on the wall.] I ſuppoſe Eliakim perceived the People to be frighted with his big Words, and therefore intreated him, in the Name of the other Commiſſioners ſent to treat with him, to ſpeak no longer in the Jews Language, but in his own: For he was not ſent to treat with the People, but with them who underſtood the Syrian Tongue very well.

Ver. 27. But Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them, Hath my maſter, ſent me to thy maſter, and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words? Hath he not ſent me to the men that ſit on the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piſs with you?] To make them know, that he will reduce them to the greateſt Extremity, if they do not ſubmit unto him: For it is an Hyperbolical Speech, importing ſuch Straits as were never known.

Ver. 28. And Rabſhakeh ſtood and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and ſpake, ſaying, Hear the words of the great king, the king of Aſſyria.] He ſeems to have raiſed both himſelf, and his Voice higher, that he might be better heard by all.

Ver. 29. Thus ſaith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you, for he ſhall not be able to deliver you out of my hand.] He repeats with the greateſt Aſſurance, the Power of his King, and the Weakneſs of Hezekiah: Repreſenting from thence, how they were deluded with empty Promiſes, if he perſwaded them he ſhould be able to preſerve them.

Ver. 30. Neither let Hezekiah make you truſt in the LORD, ſaying, the LORD will ſurely deliver us, and this city ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.] This was the higheſt Preſumption to perſwade them not to place their Hope in God; as if his Maſter was ſtronger than he.

Ver. 31. Hearken not to Hezekiah: but make an agreement with me by a preſent, and come out to me, and then eat ye every man of his own vine, and every one of his fig-tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his ciſtern:] Having repreſented to them the Miſeries unto which a Siege would reduce them, he invites them to a Surrender, upon advantageous Conditions.

Ver. 32. Until I come, and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil-olive, and of honey, that ye may live and not die: and hearken not to Hezekiah, when he perſuadeth you, ſaying, ſaying, the LORD will deliver us.] If they would ſeek the Favour of the King of Aſſyria, by making him a Preſent, and delivering themſelves up to his Mercy; he promiſes they ſhould be tranſported to a better Country than that to which the Iſraelites were carried: And in the mean Time, every one enjoy his own Poſſeſſions. But he was afraid Hezekiah's avowed Confidence in God would prevail with them, to truſt to him for Deliverance, which makes him ſo often deſire them not to depend upon that.

Ver. 33. Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered at all his land, out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?] He argues very popularly and ſtrongly, if his Suppoſition had been true, That the God of Iſrael, the God of the whole Earth (yea, of Heaven and Earth) was like thoſe of all other Nations, who preſided only over one Country, or City.

Ver. 34. Where are the gods of Hamath, and Arpad?] Thoſe were Cities or Countries, which the King of Aſſyria had conquered.

Where are the gods of Sephervaim,] Mentioned before, xvii. 31.

Hena, and Ivah?] Some think theſe were the Gods of Sephervaim; which is confuted by the Place before-named. They were rather Cities, whoſe Gods could not protect them.

Have they delivered Samaria out of my hand?] That is, have the Gods of Samaria been able to do more than the reſt?

Ver. 35. Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their conntry out of my hand, that the LORD ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of my hand?] He deſires an Inſtance of one God, that had been able to ſave his Country, when his Maſter invaded it: And therefore it was beſt for them to yield their City up to him, ſince God himſelf could not preſerve it unleſs he could do more than any other had done, which he concluded was unlikely. It muſt be acknowledged that Rabſhakeh was an excellent Orator, as well as a Soldier; not inferior in Eloquence to Julius Cæſar.

Ver. 36. But the people held their peace, and anſwered him not a word: for the kings commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not.] This was a very wiſe Order, becauſe he might have made ſome Advantage by a ſudden Anſwer; and it was no leſs pious: For Hezekiah believed God would anſwer for himſelf, not in Words, but in ſuch Deeds as would demonſtrate he was above all Gods.

Ver. 37. Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joab the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, to Hezekiah with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rabſhakeh.] It was the Cuſtom of the Jews to rend their Clothes, when they heard a Man blaſpheme God's Name. And if we will believe them, when the Witneſſes of a Blaſphemy did but repeat the Words before the Judges, they rent their Clothes. Accordingly Hezekiah, when his Commiſſioners gave an Account of Rabſhakeh's Words to him, he did ſo, xix. 1. But they have determined, that they were not bound to rend their Clothes, unleſs he were an Iſraelite that blaſphemed. Therefore they have reſolved, as I ſaid before, that Rabſhakeh was an Apoſtate Iſraelite. And this Cuſtom was common to all Nations (as appears from Homer, Herodotus, and Virgil) who expreſſed great Grief in this Manner.

CHAP. XIX.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes,] See the laſt Verſe of the foregoing Chapter.

And covered himſelf with ſackcloth, and went into the houſe of the LORD.] He faſted and mourned, and went into the Temple to pray. Sometimes they put on Sackcloth next to their Skin, inſtead of a Shirt: But here it ſeems to ſignify only, that he was clothed in this vile Habit, in Token of his great Trouble and Sorrow.

Ver. 2. And he ſent Eliakim, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the Scribe,] See xviii. 18.

And the elders of the prieſts,] The principal Perſons among the Prieſts.

Covered with ſackcloth, to Iſaiah the prophet, the ſon of Amoz.] In the ſame mournful Habit to beg his Prayers to God for them.

Ver. 3. And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, this day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke and blaſphemy:] They repreſent to him the great Straits in which they were, and the Reproaches caſt upon them: And (which was worſt of all) the Blaſphemy they had heard againſt God.

For the children are come to the birth, and there is not ſtrength to bring forth.] And the preſent Danger wherein they were of periſhing, unleſs ſpeedily relieved: Like that of a Woman, whoſe Child being fallen down, after many Throws, to the Place of Birth, ſhe was ſo ſpent that ſhe had no Strength left to bring it forth. Or, as Procopius Gazæus expounds it, We are in Pain to hear ſuch blaſphemous Words, and have no Power to puniſh thoſe wicked Wretches as they deſerve.

Ver. 4. It may be the LORD thy God will hear the words of Rabſhakeh,] So as to take Notice of them, and puniſh him.

Whom the king of Aſſyria hath ſent to reproach the living God; and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard:] Reprove him for the Words (as the Targum expounds it) which he had ſpoken againſt God. But Lud. de Dieu following R. Solomon Jarchi, thinks that the Word we tranſlate reprove, ſignifies to prove, and by Arguments to demonſtrate. And ſo refers it to Rabſhakeh in this Manner: It may be the LORD will hear all the words of Rabſhakeh, whom the king of Aſſyria hath ſent to reproach the living God: and that openly with a bold Face, fearing nothing, becauſe all things ſucceeded according to their hearts deſire. And he ſaith, he ſhall wonder if this Senſe diſpleaſe any body.

Wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that is left.] That Judah might not be carried captive, as Iſrael had been.

Ver. 5. So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.] And delivered the foregoing Meſſage to him.

Ver. 6. And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſhall ye ſay to your maſter, Thus ſaith the LORD, be not afraid of the words which thou haſt heard, with with which the ſervants of the king of Aſſyria have blaſphemed me.

Ver. 7. Behold, I will ſend a blaſt on him,] A peſtilential Blaſt, which deſtroyed his Army in one Night, ver. 35. Others tranſlate it a Spirit; which is the ſame: For God ſent an Angel, who ſmote them with that Peſtilence.

And he ſhall hear a rumour, and ſhall return to his own land,] The Report perhaps was renewed after that Stroke, that Tirhakah (of whom he had heard before, ver. 9.) was coming againſt him; which made him haſte away, with the ſmall Remains of his Army, to his own Country.

And I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.] Which was fulfilled, ver. 37.

Ver. 8. So Rabſhakeh returned,] Not with the Hoſt that he brought with him (xviii. 17.) but he himſelf returned to give his Maſter an Account of what he had done; and left Rabſaris to carry on the Siege, and ſtraiten the City, 'till he could come with the whole Army againſt it.

And found the king of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh.] Being unable, I ſuppoſe, to make himſelf Maſter of it.

Ver. 9. And when he heard ſay of Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, he is come out to fight againſt thee:] Whether he fought with Tirhakah or no, and what the Succeſs was, doth not appear. But it is to be noted, that there were two Countries called Cuſh (which we tranſlate Ethiopia) one in Africa beyond Egypt; the other in Arabia, which is the Ethiopia here meant. For the King of the other was far off, and muſt have marched through Egypt before he could come to fight with Sennacherib. But this was near, and was able to raiſe a powerful Army, as appears by the vaſt Forces which Zarah brought againſt Aſa, 2 Chron. xiv. 9. And thus 2 Chron. xxi. 16, as Bochartus obſerves, muſt neceſſarily be underſtood, where the Arabians whom God ſtirred up againſt Jehoram, are ſaid to be near to the Ethiopians: Which cannot be true of thoſe beyond Egypt. See his Phaleg, Lib. 4. Cap. 2.

He ſent meſſengers again to Hezekiah, ſaying,] Among which Rabſhakeh was the chief.

Ver. 10. Thus ſhall ye ſpeake to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſaying,] They could not come to the Speech of him; but ſent him a Letter containing the Words following, ver. 14.

Let not thy God in whom thou truſteſt deceive thee, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.] He had heard, I ſuppoſe, that Hezekiah declared he truſted in the LORD, and had Aſſurance from him, that he, the King of Aſſyria, ſhould not prevail againſt him.

Ver. 11. Behold, thou haſt heard what the king of Aſſyria hath done to all lands, by deſtroying them utterly:] The Letter is of the ſame Import with the former Meſſage, preſuming the God of Iſrael was like the Gods of other Countries, and had no more Power than they to preſerve his Worſhippers.

And ſhalt thou be delivered?] Such Queſtions imply a ſtrong Denial, and therefore it is as much as to ſay, thou ſhalt be delivered no more than they were.

Ver. 12. Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have deſtroyed?] He argues from the long Succeſſes his Anceſtors had enjoyed: None of the Gods, whoſe Countries they had deſtroyed, making Oppoſition to them for ſome Ages.

As Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelaſar.] Theſe were Places well known in thoſe Days; there was a Gozan and Hara in Media, as Bochartus obſerves (Lib. 3. Phaleg. Cap. 14.) Where Rezeph was is uncertain, but Ptolomy mentions ſuch a City in Syria, where St Hierom places Thelaſar: And there were more Cities than one, in thoſe Countries, called Adana, which is the ſame with Eden.

Ver. 13. Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and Ivah?] Places beforementioned, xviii. 34. Nothing can be further obſerved of this, but that the Fury of Rabſhakeh increaſed: So that what he had uttered in Words, he now more deliberately ſet down in Writing: affirming boldly, that their God was a Deceiver, if he promiſed them Deliverance.

Ver. 14. And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the houſe of the LORD, and ſpread it before the LORD.] He could approach no nearer than to the outward Court of the Temple: Where at the Entrance of the Prieſts Court, he looked towards the Sanctuary, God's Dwelling-place, and laid this Letter before him.

Ver. 15. And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD and ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, which dwelleſt between the Cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth, thou haſt made heaven and earth.] Here he directly thwarts the blaſphemous Opinion of the Aſſyrians before-mentioned (xvii. 27. xviii. 35.) that the God of Iſrael was but the particular Lord of that Country; not the univerſal Sovereign, which Hezekiah acknowledged him to be, becauſe the Creator of the whole World.

Ver. 16. LORD, bow down thine ear and hear: open, LORD, thine eyes, and ſee: and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath ſent him to reproach the living God.] That is, ſent Rabſhakeh. He ſpeaks in ſuch Language as Men uſe, when they earneſtly beſeech others not to neglect their Supplication; but vouchſafe to attend, and to give a gracious Anſwer to them.

Ver. 17. Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Aſſyria have deſtroyed the nations and their lands,] Do not boaſt of more than they have done.

Ver. 18. And have caſt their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone; therefore have they deſtroyed them.] They had prevailed, he acknowledges, over their Gods, as well as over Men; but it was becauſe they were not ſo good as Men, being meer Wood and Stone.

Ver. 19. Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beſeech thee, ſave thou us out of his hands, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou only.] He beſeeches him to diſtinguſh himſelf upon thoſe Idols; by giving them ſuch a Deliverance as might demonſtrate to all the World that he was the living God (as he is often called) ſuperior rior to all others, who were not able to ſave their Worſhippers.

Ver. 20. Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, that which thou haſt prayed to me againſt Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, I have heard.] He knew by the Spirit of Prophecy, that Hezekiah had repreſented his Caſe to God in the Temple; who bid Iſaiah aſſure him his Petition was granted.

Ver. 21. This is the word that the LORD hath ſpoken concerning him; The virgin, the daughter of Sion hath deſpiſed thee, and laughed thee to ſcorn; the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaked her head at thee.] . Theſe Words comprehend the whole City. For by the Daughter of Sion he means the People that inhabited the upper Part of the City, where the King's Palace ſtood: And by the Daughter of Jeruſalem, the People of the lower Part of the City; and all that was not comprehended under the Name of Sion. They ſhaked their heads at him; which is the ſame with deſpiſing, and laughing him to ſcorn. For ſhaking the Head is the Poſture of thoſe that mock at others, Pſal. xxii. 7. St Matth. xxvii. 39. He calls Sion a Virgin; becauſe this Fortreſs, ſince David conquered it, had remained inviolable, and had never been taken by any Enemy. Joaſh indeed, King of Iſrael, took Jeruſalem, and brake down the Wall of it (xiv. 13, 14.) but I think the Fort of Sion had never been taken.

Ver. 22. Whom haſt thou reproached and blaſphemed? and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice,] So Rabſhakeh did, xviii. 28.

And lift up thine eyes on high? As thoſe do, who have haughty Thoughts of themſelves; and overlook others with Contempt and Scorn, Prov. xxi. 4.

Even againſt the holy One of Iſrael.] God is called the Holy One, with Reſpect to his peerleſs Perfections; and the Holy One of Iſrael, as having a peculiar Reſpect to them above all People, who therefore ſhould be defended by his Almighty Power.

Ver. 23. By thy meſſengers thou haſt reproached the LORD, and haſt ſaid, With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains, to the ſides of Lebanon, and will cut down the tall cedars thereof, and the choice fir-trees thereof: and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders, and into the foreſt of his Carmel.] This is an admirable Deſcription of the Boaſtings of a King puffed up with great Succeſs; and is as much as if he had ſaid, What Place is there into which I cannot make my Way? When I have gone, even with my Chariots in great Number, to the Top of high Mountains; to Lebanon it ſelf, through the moſt difficult Paſſages, which I have opened and plained for them? Who ſhall hinder me from cutting down its talleſt Cedars and Fir-trees (perhaps he means their Princes and great Men) and when I have done, from marching and taking up my Quarters in the extreameſt Borders of the Land, climbing up to the Top of Carmel (which was towards the Mediterranean Sea) or entering into all the fruitful Places of the Country, by making an entire Conqueſt of it. For ſo Carmel often ſignifies not a Mountain, but a fruitful Field, in the Language of this Prophet, Iſaiah x. 18. xvi. 10.

Ver. 24. I have digged and drunk ſtrange waters,] He brags that he had marched with his vaſt Army through ſtrange Countries, and in the drieſt Places, where it was thought his Army would die with Thirſt; but he digged till he found Water.

And with the ſole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of the beſieged places.] This is commonly thought to ſignify, that he had gone dry-ſhod with his whole Army over great Rivers; whoſe Streams he turned another Way; and ſo had taken the ſtrongeſt Fortreſſes ſurrounded with deep Waters, and great Ramparts. But Bochartus hath made a plainer Paraphraſe upon theſe Words, which he thus tranſlates, I have dried up the rivers of Egypt. As much as to ſay, I will enter as eaſily into Egypt, in which you confide, as if, when I come thither, all the rivers wherewith it is invironed ſhould be dried up. See his Hierozoicon, P. 2. Lib. 5. Cap. 15. For the Hebrew Word Maſor (which we tranſlate every where beſieged Places, or Defences, or Fortreſſes) ſhould rather be taken for the ſingular Number of Meſoraim, which by Contraction is called Mitzraim, that is, Egypt. And if this be allowed, the Senſe then here is, as I ſaid before, I have dried up all the rivers of Egypt: Which was the higheſt Vaunt he could make of his Power, and numerous Forces. Thus Iſaiah xix. 6. The Brooks of Defences ſhall be dried up, is interpreted by Kimchi, the rivers of Egypt ſhall be emptied and dried up. And more plainly, Micah vii. 12; where from the Fortreſs to the River is ſo obſcure, that it is not to be underſtood, but from Egypt to Euphrates is ſuch clear Senſe, that one cannot but think it ſhould be ſo tranſlated; for thoſe were the Bounds of the Land of Canaan.

Ver. 25. Haſt thou not heard long ago, how I have done it, and of ancient times, that I have formed it?] Theſe are the Words of God, in Anſwer to thoſe empty Boaſts. But what is this to what I have done? Haſt thou not heard how I brought my People dry-ſhod through the Red-Sea? How in ancient Times, I ſay, long before thou or thy Anceſtors were born, I did this by my own Strength alone, without the Help of Nature or Art? For ſo the Word Jatzar, which we tranſlate formed, is uſed Gen. ii. 8. and other Places.

Now I have brought it to paſs, that thou ſhouldſt be to lay waſte fenced cities into ruinous heaps.] And it is I that have now brought thee to do all theſe Things of which thou braggeſt. Thou couldſt not have done one of them without my Leave: Who therefore permitted it, that I might puniſh thoſe Cities by thy Hand, which I had devoted to Deſtruction. See Iſaiah x. 5, 6, 13, 14, 15.

Ver. 26. Therefore were their inhabitants of ſmall power: they were diſmayed and confounded; they were as the graſs of the field, and as the green herb; as the graſs on the houſe-tops, and as corn blaſted before it be grown up.] This was the Reaſon, that the People of thoſe Cities whereof thou ſpeakeſt (ver. 12, 13.) were ſo very feeble, and unable to oppoſe thee; becauſe I delivered them into thy Hand.

Ver. 27. But I know thy abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy rage againſt me.]

As much as to ſay, there are none of thy Motions hidden from me. For before thou cameſt from thy own Country, I knew with what Deſign thou marchedſt out, and what thou haſt done ſince whereſoever thou haſt entred; and underſtand with what Rage and Fury thou art come up to deſtroy my Dwelling-place.

Ver. 28. Becauſe thy rage againſt me, and thy tumult is come up into my ears,] I have heard the Noiſe thou makeſt with thy furious Threatnings, and with thy great Army which hath entred Judea.

Therefore I will put my hook in thy noſe, and my bridle in thy lips, and I will turn thee back by the way that thou cameſt.] He compares his abſolute Power over him to that of a Fiſherman, who, let a Fiſh tumble ever ſo much in the Water, hath it faſt by a Hook he hath fixed in his Noſe; or to a Man upon a Horſe or a Mule, whom he can turn which Way he pleaſe, when he hath a Curb in their Mouth. Even ſo ſaith God will I do with thee, draw thee back, preſs thou ever ſo much to compaſs thy Deſigns, into thy own Country, without any Succeſs.

Ver. 29. And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee,] This is ſpoken to Hezekiah.

Ye ſhall eat this year ſuch things as grow of themſelves, and in the ſecond year that which ſpringeth of the ſame, and in the third year ſow ye and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruit thereof.] This was not a Sign of the Truth of his Prophecy, becauſe it was to come after that was fulfilled; but a Token of God's extraordinary Favour and Love to them, when Sennacherib was gone; and they were in Fear of another Enemy, viz. a grievous Famine. For tho' he had trodden down or eaten up all the Corn with his Army, yet they ſhould find ſufficient left to maintain them this Year, which was the fourteenth of Hezekiah. And though the next were the Sabbatical Year, in which they were to let the Land reſt, and neither ſow nor reap; yet he promiſes enough ſhould grow up of it ſelf to ſuſtain them, without any Culture, out of the Corn ſcattered in the former Year. And then in the ſixteenth Year God aſſures them of Liberty to till their Land as they were wont, and that they ſhould ſow and reap, as in a Time of Peace, when no Enemy appeared, nor there was any Fear of any. But until the Corn ſprung up and was ripe that Year, they lived upon what grew of it ſelf in the Sabbatical Year, without Tillage. Which demonſtrates the wonderful Providence of God over this People, in taking Care they ſhould want nothing in thoſe Years, without any Care of their own, if they believed in his Word. See Levit. xxv. where the Precept about this Sabbatical Year is delivered; and was obſerved by this People, from the firſt Conqueſt and Diviſion of the Land of Canaan forty-ſeven Years after the coming out of Egypt. See Dr Alix, Reflections on the Old-Teſtament, Part 2. Chap. 1.

Ver. 30. And the remnant that is eſcaped of the houſe of Judah, ſhall yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.] He purſues the Metaphor from Corn that is ſown in the Ground; ſignifying, that they ſhould have firm Poſſeſſion of their own Country; and therein increaſe, and multiply, and flouriſh exceedingly.

Ver. 31. For out of Jeruſalem ſhall go forth a remnant, and they that eſcape, out of mount Sion:] For they who were now ſhut up in Jeruſalem ſhould be at Liberty; and they who eſcaped the Enemy's Fury in the Country, and fled thither for Refuge, ſhould go out of Mount Sion, to their own Poſſeſſions.

The zeal of the LORD of hoſts ſhall do this.] His great Love to his own Honour, and to his People, ſhall do theſe Wonders; to vindicate his Glory from that Contempt which was caſt upon it by Sennacherib.

Ver. 32. Therefore thus ſaith the LORD, concerning the king of Aſſyria, He ſhall not come into this city, nor ſhoot an arrow there, nor come before it with a ſhield, nor caſt a bank againſt it.] He promiſes the King of Aſſyria ſhould be ſo far from poſſeſſing himſelf of the City at this Time, that he ſhould not aſſault it, by ſhooting ſo much as an Arrow in it: No, nor appear with his Army againſt it, or raiſe Bulwarks to beſiege it. Or, as the Hebrews underſtand it, they ſhould not caſt a Stone out of their Engines againſt it. Rab-ſaris, I obſerved, ver. 8. continued the Siege; but whatſoever he did before, after this Meſſage of Iſaiah he made no Attempt upon them.

Ver. 33. By the way that he came, by the ſame way he ſhall return, and ſhall not come into this city, ſaith the LORD.] He confirms what he ſaid before, ver. 28.

Ver. 34. For I will defend this city to ſave it,] To preſerve it from Deſtruction.

For my own ſake, and for my ſervant Davids ſake.] Upon which Account he had formerly ſpared them, when they deſerved to be puniſhed, 1 Kings xi. 12, 13.

Ver. 35. And it came to paſs that night,] The Jews in the Gemara Sanhedrin (Cap. 11. N. 20.) ſay, that in the very Night after they ſet down before Jeruſalem, and were ſo weary that they made no Attempt upon the City, this which follows fell out. Others think it was the ſame Night that Hezekiah received Sennacherib's railing Letter; which is more probable than the Opinion of our Dr Jackſon, who will have it that it was the ſame Night, about two Years after. See upon the Attributes, Sect. 3. Cap. 26. However it was, the Blow was the more remarkable, becauſe it was given in that very Night, wherein he had lifted up himſelf againſt the God of Heaven; or Belſhazzar afterwards did, and had his fatal Stroke given him in like manner. See Daniel v. 30.

That the angel of the LORD went out, and ſmote in the camp of the Aſſyrians, an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand men: and when they aroſe in the morning, behold, they were all dead corpſes.] By a Peſtilential Diſeaſe, as Joſephus calls it, λοιμικὸν νόσον, ſuch a vaſt Number were ſuddenly cut off. It is a Queſtion, whether this Deſtruction was made in the Army that beſieged Libnah, or in that Hoſt which Rabſhakeh brought up againſt Jeruſalem. Joſephus thinks the latter; for it is probable Rabſhakeh was come with his whole Hoſt againſt Jeruſalem, which before was ſtraitned

straitned by Rab-saris; and κατὰ τὴν πρώτην τῆς πολιορκίας νύκτα, the first Night after they had begirt the City (as the Jews say, I observed, in Sanhedrin) the Angel of the LORD made this great Slaughter among them. Lib. 10. Antiq. Cap. 2. where a little before, in the End of the first Chapter, he takes notice of an horrible Lye which Herodotus reports from the Egyptians; Who say their King, being also a Priest, by his Prayers to his God, brought this Destruction upon the Assyrians, as they lay before Pelusium: A great Army of Rats coming in the Night, and gnawing all their Bow-strings in Pieces, so that they could not fight. So studious they were to pervert the Truth, and corrupt the Sacred Story.

Ver. 36. So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at Nineveh.] Being afraid that Tirhakah should come and destroy the Remainders of his broken Army, ver. 9.

Ver. 37. And it came to pass as he was worshipping in the house of Nisroch his god,] The LXX here call this God Nesorach; and upon Isaiah, where this Story is again told, Asarach. But what any of these Names signify, Mr Selden acknowledges he cannot tell, having in all his reading, never met with any thing that might explain it. But Kircher adventures to say it was the Image of a Ship, representing the Ark of Noah: the Reliques of which, Josephus tells us, some reported were in his Time, in the neighbouring Mountains of Armenia. And a later Writer, Beyerus (in his Additions to Selden de Diis Syris) thinks it signifies as much as the Bird of Noah, that is, a Dove, which was worshipped by the Assyrians: Or, as other conjecture (for they can do no more) this Word is derived from Nes, which in Chaldee signifies a Province, and Rac, which signifies a King; that is, Jupiter the King, and Conservator of that Province.

That Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons smote him with the sword:] Which they might the more easily do, when he suspected no Danger. The Reason of it was, because in his Danger (we may suppose) he had vowed that he would offer them up unto his God. Therefore they sacrificed him, to prevent being sacrificed themselves. One of them seems to have been called after the Name of a God worshipped in those Countries. xv. 11, 31.

And they escaped into the land of Armenia;] Which was not far off; and where there were Mountains of very difficult Ascent, and inhabited by a Warlike People.

And Esarhaddon his son reigned in his stead.] Who was the King that sent a Colony to people the Country of Samaria (as I observed before from Ezra iv. 2.) and the rather because he feared Hezekiah might take Possession of it, after such a Defeat as his Father Sennacherib had received. His Name is curtailed several Ways. For in the Book of Tobit he is called Sar-chedon, i. 21. the first Syllable of his Name being cut off; and the LXX cut off the next, calling him Aser-dan; and Isaiah cuts off both, calling him Sargon, Isaiah xx. 1.

CHAP. XX.

Verse 1. IN those days was Hezekiah sick unto death:] This is set down after the Death of Sennacherib; but with this general Note only of the Time, wherein this Sickness fell out, in those days. Which, as Primate Usher observes in his Annals, doth not relate to what went just before (to the Time when the King of Assyria invaded the Land) as is evident from ver. 6. of this Chapter. Where he promises to add Fifteen Years to his Life, and also to deliver him from the King of Assyria. Which Deliverance therefore was after this Sickness, which was in the latter End of his Fourteenth Year; to which if we add Fifteen, they make up the whole Twenty-nine Years of his Reign.

And the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, and said, Thus saith LORD, Set thy house in order, for thou shalt die, and not live.] That is, his Disease was in its own Nature mortal, and could not be cured by any Humane Remedy. Therefore he wished him to settle his Estate, and, as we speak, to make his Will; how all Things in his House should be disposed, when he was dead.

Ver. 2. Then he turned his face unto the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, saying,] That is, towards the Wall of the Sanctuary, as the Targum, expounds it. See Dr Hammond upon Acts x. Annot. b. He thought as it was not beyond the Power of God to restore him, so he had not peremptorily decreed that he should die: But there was a tacit Condition in the Message (as in other Cases, Jonah iii. 4.) otherwise he would not have prayed to be spared.

Ver. 3. I beseech thee, O LORD, remember how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight:] He was not conscious to himself that he had omitted any thing which was to be done for the restoring the true Worship of God. In which he had been so exact, as to take away the High Places, which had continued ever since the Time of David, and none durst remove them. And therefore he presumed to beg that he might live, to settle and establish what he had begun to do.

And Hezekiah wept sore.] One Reason was, as many think, that he had not yet a Son to succeed him on the Throne. For he lived after this Fifteen Years; and when he died Manasseh was but Twelve Years old, who therefore was born after this Sickness.

Ver 4. And it came to pass after Isaiah was gone out into the middle court, that the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,] It is doubtful whether we are to understand the middle of the Court of the King's House, or the middle of the City; for the one is in the Text, the other in the Margin of the Hebrew Bibles. But it is not material which we follow, for the Meaning is, that he was not gone far, before he was ordered to go back and carry a new Message, that his Prayer was heard.

Ver. 5. Turn again, and tell Hezekiah, the captain of my people, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, and ſeen thy tears: behold I will heal thee; on the third day thou ſhalt go up unto the houſe of the LORD.] Recover his ſtrength ſo faſt, as to be able in three days Time to go to the Temple, and give God Thanks for his Cure. Which appears by this to have been miraculous.

Ver. 6. And I will add unto thy days fifteen years,] More than he could have lived according to the courſe of Nature.

And I will deliver this city out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria, and I will defend this city for my own ſake, and for my ſervant Davids ſake.] For this Sickneſs was that Year when he threatned to deſtroy it. See upon ver. 1. It was a great Encouragement to faithful Obedience, that God ſo often mentions David's Services with ſuch a kind Remembrance of them.

Ver. 7. And Iſaiah ſaid, take a lump of figs. And they took, and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.] There might be ſome natural Virtue in this Cataplaſm, to ſoften and ripen an hard Tumor, as this ſeems to have been (ſome think a Plague-Sore) but it was a ſupernatural Power which made ſo ſpeedy a Cure; of which God uſed this as a Sign.

Ver. 8. And Hezekiah ſaid unto Iſaiah, What ſhall be the ſign that the LORD will heal me, and that I ſhall go up into the houſe of the LORD the third day?] He did believe, no doubt, what the Prophet ſaid; otherwiſe he would have been ſharply reproved. But he made bold to deſire a Confirmation of his Faith; as good Men had done in other Caſes: Particularly Gideon, who threw down the Altar of Baal, and cut down the Grove at God's Command, and blew the Trumpet, and gathered an Army, which were Arguments of a ſtrong Faith; and yet, after all this, deſired a Sign from God, that God would deliver Iſrael by his Hand. Judges vi. 25, 34, 36, 37, &c.

Ver. 9. And Iſaiah ſaid, This ſign ſhalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath ſpoken: Shall the ſhadow go forward ten degrees, or back ten degrees?] Sometimes God, who is a free Agent, intending to convince Men by great Wonders that he is to be believed, is ſo graciouſly condeſcending, as to give them Leave to chooſe what they would have him do, or when; that his Power may be the more notorious, and no room left for doubting. So he did with Pharaoh, Exod. viii. 9, 10. and with Ahaz, Iſaiah vii. 11. And here with his Son Hezekiah.

Ver. 10. And Hezekiah ſaid, It is a light thing for the ſhadow to go down ten degrees: Nay, but let the ſhadow return backward ten degrees.] It was comparatively ſmall, becauſe to go forward was the natural Courſe of it; but to return back was a Miracle, both in the Thing, and in the Manner of it.

Ver. 11. And Iſaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD, and he brought the ſhadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz.] It is obſerved by many modern Interpreters, that there is not a Word here ſpoken concerning the Sun's going back; but only of the Shadow upon the Dial; which might by the Power of God go either forward or backward, the Sun ſtill holding its Courſe, as it was wont to do. And the Degrees or Lines in the Dial may ſignifie either Hours, or half Hours, or, as ſome think, Quarters. See Voſſius de Orig. & Progreſſu Idol. Lib. 2. Cap. 9. Now the going back being three Times mentioned in this Chapter, and always ſpoken of the Shadow; therefore they conclude the Miracle was wrought upon the Dial only; not upon the very Body of the Sun. It is ſaid indeed, in Iſa. xxxviii. 8. So the Sun returned ten Degrees; but they think that may be meant of the Shadow of the Sun (as it goes before) God ſo diſpoſing the Rays of the Sun, and ordering the Light, that no Shadow ſhould be projected, but where the Prophet foretold. This I thought fit to repreſent; but muſt add that the ancient Jews, and Chriſtians too, took the Words of Iſaiah to ſignify that the Sun it ſelf went back, and not meerly the Shadow. Whom Primate Uſher in his Annals follows, whoſe Words are theſe; The Sun and all the heavenly bodies went back; and as much was detracted from the next night as was added to this day. A. M. 4001, Which was done, I ſuppoſe, on a ſudden, by the Power of God, and laſted not long before all was reſtored again to their uſual Place; ſo that no Change was made in the ſtate of the Heavenly Bodies. But that there was ſome Change for the preſent, was obſerved both in the Northern Part of the World at Babylon (from whence Merodach-Baladan ſent to enquire about this Wonder, 2 Chron. xxxii. 31.) and alſo in the Southern, in the Land of Egypt: As we may gather from a remarkable Paſſage in Herodotus, who tells us in his Euterpe, Cap. 1. 42. that the Egyptians had obſerved ſtrange Alterations in the Motions of the Sun; ſo that it had riſen Four Times ἐξ ἡδέων out of its uſual Courſe, ἐντεῦθεν νῦν δὶς καταδύεται, ἐντεῦθεν δὶς ἐπαντεῖλαι, &c. it riſing twice where it now ſets, and ſetting twice where it now riſes; and yet, ὐδὲν τῶν κατ' Αἰγυπτίων ὑπὸ ταῦτα ἐτεράιωθῆναι; And yet no Change at all made among the Egyptians, by theſe things, neither in the Earth, nor the River, nor any thing elſe. That is a plain Evidence that their Neighbours (and many others, 'tis like) had heard of the unuſual Motions of the Sun (though without any Alteration in the Heavenly Bodies, which were ſoon returned to their former Station) but had not a perfect Knowledge of them, or had corrupted their Knowledge; for to thoſe two mentioned in Scripture, in the Time of Joſhua and Hezekiah, the Egyptians added two more, and make them to have been near the ſame Time. But the Jews themſelves have been thus fabulous, who ſay in the Chapter Chelek, that the Day on which Ahaz died was but two Hours long; but now when Hezekiah's Life was prolonged, God reſtored thoſe Ten Hours which were then wanting, and ſo brought Time even. See Schickard in his Bechinah Happeruſchim, p. 122. They alſo believe this Miracle was wrought a little before Sun-ſet; but that excellent Perſon, whom I have often mentioned, Dr Alix, thinks it evident it was before Noon, about our ten of the Clock.

Ver. 12. At that time Berodach-Baladan, the ſon of Baladan king of Babylon,] Who is called Merodach-Baladan in Iſa. xxxix. 1. Merodach was the Name of an Idol among the Babylonians, as Baal or Bel was another; together with Adan or Adonis, as Sir J. Marſham obſerves. Joſephus calls him Βαλάδας, and ſo doth Beroſus. He was but a Tributary to the King of Aſſyria, 'till Nebuchadnezzar came to reign, who caſt off the Yoke of Aſſyria, and made that Monarchy ſubject to him.

Sent letters] Some think to make a League with him againſt the King of Aſſyria: and it is likely to enquire about the wonder done in the land, 2 Chron. xxxii. 31.

And a preſent unto Hezekiah :] As the manner was when they ſought any one's Friendſhip.

For he had heard that Hezekiah had been ſick.] And therefore in theſe Letters, I ſuppoſe, he alſo congratulated his happy Recovery to Health.

Ver. 13. And Hezekiah hearkned unto them,] He gave them a friendly and benign Audience (as Abarbinel explains it) being glad at their coming, as Iſaiah tells us (xxxix. 2.) becauſe he knew them to be Enemies to Sennacherib. And the Words ſeem to import that they came about ſome weighty Buſineſs, to which he conſented.

And ſhewed them all the houſe of his precious things, the ſilver, and the gold, and the ſpices, and the precious ointment, and all the houſe of his armour, and all that was found in his treaſures :] He was ſo pleaſed, or rather tranſported with Joy, at the Honour the King of Babylon had done him, that he not only gave them a gracious Audience, as was ſaid before, but ordered his Officers to ſhew them all the Rarities he had in his Treaſures. For though his Country had been lamentably harraſſed by the King of Aſſyria and he had endeavoured to appeaſe him with great Gifts (xviii. 14, 15.) yet there were many good Things remaining in Jeruſalem; and great Preſents had been made to Hezekiah, ſince the Stroke from Heaven upon Sennacherib's Army. 2 Chron. xxxii. 23. The precious Ointment here mentioned, is called by Kimchi and other Hebrew Doctors Apharſemon; which they ſay was the true Balſam; not to be found any where but near to Jericho.

There was nothing in his houſe, nor in all his dominions, that Hezekiah ſhewed them not.] There were other valuable Things in other Parts of the Realm, beſides thoſe in his own Palace at Jeruſalem, which he thought worth their ſeeing, and therefore ordered his Officers to ſhew them to theſe Embaſſadors.

Ver. 14. Then came Iſaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and ſaid unto him, What ſaid theſe men? And from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah ſaid, They are come from a far country, even from Babylon.] He anſwers to the laſt Part of Iſaiah's Queſtion, but not a Word of the firſt, what their Buſineſs with him was? And he calls that a far Country from whence they came (though it was not very remote) to expreſs the Honour that was done him, by a Prince at ſuch a Diſtance from him.

Ver. 15. And he ſaid, What have they ſeen in thy houſe?] He knew well enough what they had ſeen; but had a mind to hear whether Hezekiah would confeſs the Truth, or excuſe his Folly.

And Hezekiah anſwered, All the things that are in my houſe have they ſeen: there is nothing among my treaſures, that I have not ſhewn them.] He honeſtly relates the Truth; being inſenſible of how dangerous a Piece of Vanity he had been guilty; in ſhewing Strangers thoſe Treaſures, which he might well think would invite them to endeavour to make themſelves Maſters of them.

Ver. 16. And Iſaiah ſaid to Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.] How he reſents this Action. Which was the more blameable, becauſe he had lately received ſuch great Benefits from God, and ſeen ſuch an aſtoniſhing Wonder as he wrought for the Confirmation of his Faith; whereby he ſhould have been moved not to glory in any thing, but the Goodneſs of God to him; nor confide in the Friendſhip of great Princes, but only in the Power of the Almighty.

Ver. 17. Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine houſe, and that which thy fathers have laid up unto this day.] There had been ſeveral great Kings in Judah who had overcome many Enemies, and got great Spoils; ſome Remainders of which were ſtill in their Stores: But Iſaiah foretels, all ſhould be carried away to that very Place, from whence he had been complemented by thoſe Embaſſadors.

Shall be carried into Babylon: nothing ſhall be left, ſaith the LORD.] The moſt pertinent Obſervation that I can make upon theſe Words, is that of Dr Jackſon (in his Anſwer to John's Queſtion) where he ſaith, that whoſoever will conſider the State of things in this Time, and the ſmall Power which the Babylonians now had, in reſpect of their mighty Neighbour the King of Aſſyria (whom the Jwes had Reaſon to fear above all other Princes) the Accompliſhment of this Prophecy of Iſaiah was according to humany Conjecture far more unlikely and improbable, than if a Man ſhould in the laſt Age, have taken upon him to foretel, that the Duke of Saxony, or ſome ſuch Prince in Germany, ſhould conquer France and Spain, and lead them Captive to Dreſden. But the Word of the LORD ſtands faſt for ever; and Iſaiah was proved an Hundred and twenty-five Years after to be a true Prophet.

Ver. 18. And of thy ſons that ſhall iſſue from thee, which thou ſhalt beget, ſhall they take away,] That is, his Poſterity deſcended from him.

And they ſhall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.] Wait upon him, as his Servants, xxiv. 15. This was partly fulfilled in Daniel and his Companions, Dan. i. 1.

Ver. 19. Then ſaid Hezekiah unto Iſaiah, Good is the word of the LORD which thou haſt ſpoken. And he ſaid, Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days?] As if he had ſaid, Thanks be to God, it is no worſe; let him do his Pleaſure. Have I not Reaſon to be thankful, if according to his promiſe he deliver me from the King of Aſſyria (ver. 6.) and not only prolong my Days, but let me enjoy firm Peace, and true Religion as long as I live? Some take this to be a careleſs Speech, as if he did not concern himſelf what became of his Poſterity, ſo he himſelf did live happily. But this is inconſiſtent with ſuch a pious Mind has he had; which no doubt, was ſenſible of the Vanity and Pride for which the Prophet reproved him; and ſubmitted to the the Puniſhment of it; which might have been immediately inflicted, if God had not been very merciful unto him.

Ver. 20. And the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool, and a conduit, and brought water into the city,] If he brought Water into the City by private Paſſages, whereby the Enemy was deprived of the Benefit of it, while the City enjoyed it (as Grotius underſtands it) it was certainly a Work of admirable Contrivance. See 2 Chron. xxxii. 3.

Are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] The ſame great Perſon here obſerves, that the book of Chronicles ſpoken of here, and in other Places, were Journals, as theſe Books were Annals. Out of which Journals Ezra took many more Paſſages, in his Book of the Chronicles, not omitting what he had written in theſe Annals.

Ver. 21. And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers: and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] Here is no mention of his Burial with his Fathers in the City of David: But Ezra in 2 Chron. xxxii. 33, tells us, they buried him in the chiefeſt of the ſepulchres of the ſons of David, and that all the People did him honour at his death.

CHAP. XXI.

Ver. 1. Manaſſeh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and five years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Hephzibah.] The Years wherein he was Captive in Babylon (2 Chron. xxxiii. 11.) muſt be comprehended in this Number.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, after the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.] He ſet up the Gentile Worſhip again: For being young, he was eaſily drawn aſide by the Princes and Nobles, who never heartily joined in Hezekiah's Reformation; but were, in all Probability, diſpleaſed at it; and ſo revolted as ſoon as he was dead. For one cannot conceive how ſuch a ſudden Change ſhould be made in Religion, and ſuch groſs Idolatry reſtored, but from the general Corruption of the Great Men, who had the Management of this young King.

Ver. 3. For he built up the high places, which Hezekiah his father had deſtroyed, and he reared up altars for Baal, and made a grove, as did Ahab king of Iſrael, and worſhipped all the hoſts of heaven, and ſerved them.] The Sun, the Moon, and the Stars, as Procopius Gazæus explains it.

Ver. 4. And he built altars] To the Gods of the Neighbouring Nations.

In the houſe of the LORD,] In the very Sanctuary it ſelf; for the outward Courts are mentioned in the next Verſe.

Of which the LORD ſaid, in Jeruſalem will I put my name.] Where God appointed, that he himſelf alone ſhould be worſhipped, 2 Sam. vii. 13.

Ver. 5. And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven, in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD.] The inner Court, which was that of the Prieſts; and the outward, which was that of the People, were profaned, together with the Sanctuary.

Ver. 6. And he made his ſon paſs through the fire,] In 2 Chron. xxxiii. 6. it is ſaid he cauſed his Children to paſs through the Fire; which was a moſt abominable Practice, ſtrictly forbidden by Moſes upon Pain of Death, Levit. xviii. 21. xx. 2, 3.

And obſerved times, and uſed inchantments,] See Levit. xix. 22. Deut. xviii. 10, 11.

And dealt with familiar ſpirits, and wizards:] See Levit. xix. 31.

He wrought much wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.] For there were none before him, who committed ſuch things as theſe; which were the higheſt Provocations of God's Diſpleaſure.

Ver. 7. And he ſet a graven image of the grove which he had made, in the houſe] The Hebrew Words in this Place are Peſel haaſherah, which our Selden hath well reſolved (by comparing this with other Texts) ſignifies a Wooden Image of Aſhtaroth, or Aſtarte. Syntagm. 2. De Diis Syris, Cap. 2. For Baal and Aſtarte were chief Gods of the Sidonians, whoſe Worſhip was introduced by Ahab; whom Manaſſeh imitated, ver. 3.

Of which the LORD ſaid unto David, and to Solomon his ſon, In this houſe, and in Jeruſalem, which I have choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever.] I obſerved before what God ſaid to David, and what he ſaid to Solomon is recorded, 1 Kings viii. 29. ix. 3. But Manaſſeh endeavoured to make the Name of the God of Iſrael to be forgotten; by placing other Gods in his Houſe.

Ver. 8. Neither will I make the feet of Iſrael move any more out of the land which I gave their fathers; only if they will obſerve to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my ſervant Moſes commanded them.] This Promiſe was included in the Choice God made of Jeruſalem to fix his Dwelling-place there Which was a Security to them againſt all their Enemies, if they proved obedient to him.

Ver. 9. But they hearkened not:] They had always been a rebellious People.

And Manaſſeh ſeduced them to do more evil than did the nations, whom the LORD deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.] But in his Reign their Wickedneſs was grown to ſuch an Height, that it exceeded all that the People of Canaan had done; whom God expelled to make Room for the Iſraelites. For he broke all the Laws of Moſes, and worſhipped more Idols than they did. We never read of Horſes conſecrated to the Sun 'till his Time (See xxii. 11.) who in all Probability brought in that Idolatry.

Ver. 10. And the LORD ſpake by his ſervants the prophets, ſaying,] Abarbinel makes Account that Hoſea, Joel, Nahum, and Habakkuk, all propheſied in his Days. And ſome think Obadiah alſo, and Iſaiah: Who, as the Jews ſay, was ſawn aſunder by him.

Ver. 11. Becauſe Manaſſeh king of Judah hath done theſe abominations and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him,] The whole People of Canaan are comprehended under the Name of Amorites; who were the moſt eminent of all the Seven Nations. See Gen. xv. 16.

And hath made Judah alſo to ſin with his idols:] They were too much inclined to Idolatry, by the long Corruptions that had been among them; but he made them far worſe than otherwiſe they would have been. For as Jeremiah charges them, in the next Reign but one, according to the number of their cities were their gods, and according to the number of the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, they ſet up altars to that ſhameful thing, to burn incenſe to Baal. Jerem. xi. 13.

Ver. 12. Therefore thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Behold, I am bringing ſuch evil upon Jeruſalem and Judah, that whoſoever heareth of it, both his ears ſhall tingle.] The Report of it ſhall ſtrike Terror and Horror into Men, as Procopius Gazæus expounds it. See 1 Sam. iii. 11.

Ver. 13. And I will ſtretch over Jeruſalem the line of Samaria,] A Metaphor from thoſe who ſet out Mens Lots and Portions, by drawing a Line to divide them. And is as much as to ſay, he would give to Jeruſalem the ſame Meaſure that he had done to Samaria; that is, pull it down to the Ground; conſume ſome of them by Famine, others by the Sword, and carry the reſt into Captivity, as the ſame Procopius gloſſes.

And the plummet of the houſe of Ahab:] As they imitated his Sin, ſo they ſhould have his Puniſhment; whoſe Houſe was utterly deſtroyed. It ſeems to be a Metaphor from Builders, who meaſure with a Line and a Plummet what Part of a Building ſhall ſtand, and what be demoliſhed.

And I will wipe Jeruſalem as a man wipeth a diſh, wiping it, and turning it upſide down.] That is, leave no more People in it, than you ſee any thing in a Diſh after it is emptied, and wiped, and turned upſide down; as the Manner is when it is perfectly cleanſed. So the Meaning is, I will cleanſe her of all her Inhabitants, and leave none remaining. The Hebrew Word which we tranſlate Diſh, the LXX tranſlate ὁ ἀλάβαστρος, an Alabaſter Box of precious Ointment, as the Chaldee tranſlates it Seluĉta, in which the Greek Word λήκυθος lurks (as the illuſtrious Spanhemius obſerves upon Callimachus his Hymn in Palad. ver. 13.) ſignifying that Jeruſalem was once in high Eſteem with God, like a precious Ointment; but having loſt its Savour, he would reject her as a Man doth ſuch Ointment, when it is nothing worth.

Ver. 14. And I will forſake the remnant of mine inheritance,] That is, Judah, who alone was left when the ten Tribes were gone.

And deliver them into the hands of their enemies, and they ſhall become a prey, and a ſpoil unto all their enemies;] As their Brethren, the Children of Iſrael, had been.

Ver. 15. Becauſe they have done that which was evil in my ſight, and have provoked me to anger from the day that their fathers came out of Egypt, even unto this day.] God now intended to puniſh them for all their former Rebellions, ever ſince they were a People; which Manaſſeh had compleated, whoſe Sin was ſo great, that it is ſometimes mentioned as the ſole Cauſe of their Captivity. See Jerem. xv. 4.

Ver. 16. Moreover, Manaſſeh ſhed innocent blood very much,] Upon which Words Procopius Gazæus thus gloſſes, He chiefly deſtroyed thoſe who oppoſed themſelves to his Impiety, and denounced the divine Anger againſt him (that is, the Prophets.) They ſay he cauſed the Prophet Iſaiah to be ſawed in ſunder. So the Jews ſay in the Babylonian Talmud, in the Treatiſe Jebamoth, and Juſtin Martyr in his Dialogue with Trypho the Jew, and St Hierom upon Iſa. xx. 27. Nay, the Words of the Apoſtle, Heb. xi. 37. ἐπρίσθησαν are commonly referred to this, as Primate Uſher obſerves in his Annals, ad A. M. 3306.

'Till he had filled Jeruſalem from one end to another,] Top-full, as we ſpeak. For it is a Metaphor from Meaſures wet or dry, when they are filled up to the Brim.

Beſide his ſin wherewith he made Judah to ſin, in doing that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD.] That is, beſides his abominable Idolatry.

Ver. 17. Now the reſt of the acts of Menaſſeh, and all that he did, and his ſin that he ſinned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] All that he did in his Captivity, and after, were written in the Journals, from whence Ezra took what we find in 2 Chron. xxxiii. 11, &c.

Ver. 18. And Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own houſe, in the garden of Uzza: and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] Some think this was the Place where Uzziah was buried, 2 Chron. xxvi. 23. and that he choſe to be buried here, as unworthy becauſe of his manifold Sins (of which he repented) to be laid in the common Sepulchre of the Kings of Judah.

Ver. 19. Amon was twenty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jeruſalem:] Which is the Number of Years to which the Sons of thoſe Kings arrived, who provoked God to Anger; as ſome of the Jews obſerve in the Son of Jeroboam, the Son of Baaſha, and the Son of Ahab. 1 Kings xv. 25. xvi. 8. xxii. 51.

And his mothers name was Meſhullemeth, the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.]

Ver. 20. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as his father Manaſſeh did.] He imitated him in all Things but in his Repentance, as is obſerved, 2 Chron. xxxiii. 23.

Ver. 21. And he walked in all the ways that his father walked in, and ſerved the idols that his fathers ſerved, and worſhipped them:] For he was bred up in Idolatry, and ſolemnly conſecrated by his Father to the Service of Molech, ver. 6.

Ver. 22. And he forſook the God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.] As Hezekiah, and Jotham, and other of his pious Anceſtors had done. There are two Doctors alſo in the Chapter Chelek, the one of which ſaith, he burnt the Book of the Law; the other, that he lay with his own Mother.

Ver. 23. And the ſervants of Amon conſpired againſt him, and ſlew him in his own houſe.] As he forſook God, whoſe Servant he ought to have been; ſo his Servants forſook him, and murdered him in his own Palace.

Ver. 24. And the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon,] It was a thing of ſuch pernicious Example to kill their King, though very bad, that the People would not ſuffer it to go unpuniſhed.

And the people of the land made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead.] The common People ſeem to have been better diſpoſed than the Great Men; who, 'tis probable, were engaged in the Conſpiracy againſt Amon. But it is not likely that the common People took upon them to conſtitute a King, but their Elders and great Men met, together with the People, upon ſuch Occaſions as this, to declare to whom the Right of Succeſſion belonged. Therefore by the People of the Land, muſt be meant the People aſſembled in the common Council of the Nation.

Ver. 25. Now the reſt of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?] There is nothing ſaid here of him, but that he was a groſs Idolater: Which was not the Ground of the Conſpiracy againſt him; but it is likely was related in the Book here mentioned.

Ver. 26. And he was buried in his ſepulchre, in the garden of Uzza: and Joſiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] He was buried either in his Father's Sepulchre; or in one that he made for himſelf in the ſame Place.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſe 1. Joſiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jeruſalem, and his mothers name was Jedidah, the daughter of Adaiah of Boſcath.] Who it is likely was a good Woman, and took Care to inſtil early good Principles into him.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aſide to the right hand, or to the left.] In him was verified the Words of Solomon, Prov. xx. 11. Even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right. For when he had reigned Eight Years, while he was yet young, as Ezra obſerves, he began to reform all Abuſes in Religion, 2 Chron. xxxiv. 3, &c.

Ver. 3. And it came to paſs in the eighteenth year of king Joſiah, that the king ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſcribe, to the houſe of the LORD, ſaying,] This was in the Eighteenth Year of his Reign, not of his Age, as we are told, 2 Chron. xxxiv. 8.

Ver. 4. Go up to Hilkiah the high prieſt, that he may ſum the ſilver which is brought into the houſe of the LORD,] He ordered him to give him an exact Account of what Money had been offered by pious People, for the Reparation of the Houſe of the LORD; as had been done in the Reign of Jehoaſh, xii. 4, &c.

Which the keepers of the door have gathered of the people.] They were the Levites, as we learn from 2 Chron. xxxiv. 9.

Ver. 5. And let them deliver it into the hand of the doers of the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD: and let them give it to the doers of the work, which is in the houſe of the LORD, to repair the breaches of the houſe,] They intruſted certain Perſons with the Money, who were to overſee the Work (whoſe Names are recorded in 2 Chron. xxxiv. 12.) and they delivered it to the Workmen to buy Materials for the Reparation of the Houſe, as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 6. Unto carpenters, and builders, and maſons, and to buy timber and hewen ſtone to repair the houſe.] Builders (as diſtinguiſhed from Carpenters and Maſons) were ſuch as laid the Timber and the Stone together, which the other had prepared.

Ver. 7. Howbeit, there was no reckoning made with them of the money that was delivered into their hand, becauſe they dealt faithfully.] They were Men of ſuch approved Honeſty (like thoſe in the Days of Jehoaſh, xii. 15. that there was no need to call them to an Account, how they laid out the Money.

Ver. 8. And Hilkiah the high prieſt ſaid unto Shaphan the ſcribe, I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the LORD: and Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.] The Book of Deuteronomy, ſaith Procopius Gazæus. But it was rather the whole Book of the Law written by Moſes; that Authentick Copy which by God's Command was laid up in the moſt holy Place, Deut. xxxi. 24, &c. About which the Hebrew Doctors made great Difficulties in their Explication of this Place, particularly R. Lipman in his Nitzacon, out of which Hottinger hath alledged a long Paſſage concerning this Matter in his Hiſtorica Eccleſiaſtica N. T. §. 16. Parſ. 4. p. 137. Where he juſtly thinks it a Wonder that Joſiah ſhould ſo early fear God, and begin to reform Religion, if he had never ſeen the Book of the Law before this Time. And how ſhould the People have kept ſuch a Paſſover, and the Prieſts been ſo well inſtructed in the Rites of it, this very Year. (2 Chron. xxxiv. 19.) For the Copies of the Book now found could not be ſo ſoon made and diſperſed every were, as to teach them theſe Things. It is moſt likely therefore, nay certain, that though this was the Original Book, yet the Jews had many Copies of the Law among them, though ſome of them perhaps imperfect, or corrupted. For they report that Manaſſeh blotted the Name of JEHOVAH out of all the Books he could find. Hilkiah therefore rejoiced that he had found the Original, by which all might be corrected. Which had been hid, it is probable, from the impious Fury of their idolatrous Kings, in ſome ſecret Place of the Temple; where it was now found, when they were about to repair it: And the finding it at this very Time, when Joſiah was making a Reformation of Religion, could not but be looked upon as a remarkable Providence; which very much affected him, as we read afterwards.

Ver. 9. And Shaphan the ſcribe came to the king and brought the king word again, ſaying, Thy ſervants have gathered the money that was found in the houſe, and have delivered it into the hand of them that do the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD.] He gives him an Account, that they had executed his Commands, given him ver. 4, 5, 6.

Ver. 10. And Shaphan the ſcribe ſhewed the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath delivered me a book: And Shaphan read it before the king.] Some Part of it. It is ſaid indeed, in 2 Chron.

xxxiv. 30. that they read in the ears of the people all the Book of the Law. But that was done afterwards, and was done by Parcels, not all at one Time. And ſo it follows here, xxiii. 2. that Joſiah read, that is, cauſed ſome by his Order to read, all the Words of the Book of the Covenant that was found in the Houſe of the LORD, in the Ears of all the People.

Ver. 11. And it came to paſs, when the king had heard the words of the book of the law, that he rent his clothes.] Being very much affrighted when he heard the dreadful Threatnings againſt the Tranſgreſſor of the Law, read out of the Book of Deuteronomy. At which the Book opened, either by the ſpecial Providence of God, or by the Deſign of Shaphan, who had read the Book before he brought it to the King, ver. 8. The Hieruſalem Talmud, and from thence Abarbinel ſaith, that he happened to read the Place where the Puniſhment of their King is denounced, Deut. xxviii. 36. or, that he obſerved the Time drew near, when the Puniſhments God threatned would be inflicted, for their long Offences againſt this Law. According to what the King himſelf here ſaith, ver. 13. Great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled againſt us, &c. By all which it is plain, the King had not written a Copy of the Law with his own Hand, according to the Command, Deut. xvii. 8. Diſuſe often cancels the moſt excellent Laws. For it is too probable they had a long Time neglected alſo to read the Law publickly every Seventh Year. Deut. xxxi. 9, 10.

Ver. 12. And the king commanded Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Achor the ſon of Micaiah, and Shaphan the ſcribe, and Aſaiah a ſervant of the kings, ſaying,] Shaphan was a Servant of the Kings, being Secretary, or ſome ſuch Officer; but Aſaiah, I ſuppoſe, was one that waited on his Perſon, and was always about him.

Ver. 13. Go ye and enquire of the LORD for me, and for the people,] Of Jeruſalem.

And for all Judah, concerning the words of this book that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled againſt us, becauſe our fathers have not hearkned unto the words of this book, to do according to all that which is written concerning us.] I ſuppoſe he ſent them to enquire whether there were any Hopes his Anger might be appeaſed; and by what Means.

Ver. 14. So Hilkiah the prieſt and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Aſaiah, went unto Huldah the propheteſs, the wife of Shallum the ſon of Tikvah, the ſon of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe] It is certain that both Jeremiah and Zephaniah propheſied in the Reign of Joſiah; therefore it may ſeem ſtrange that they did not reſort to one of them. Of which Abarbinel gives this Account, That Jeremiah was at this Time abſent from Jeruſalem, being gone to convert the Ten Tribes; or rather, being at his own Houſe in Anathoth. And the ſame he ſuppoſes of Zephaniah, that he was not near at hand; and therefore they went to Huldah who lived at Jeruſalem; and the rather, as ſome ſuppoſe, becauſe Women are more inclined to Pity and Compaſſion than Men. But this is an abſurd Reaſon, as Abarbinel well obſerves: For the Prophets did not ſpeak according to their own Inclinations, but as God dictated to them. The Jews have a Tradition in Maſſecheth Megillah, that eight Prophets deſcended from Rahab, whereof Huldah was one. And Kimchi upon this Place ſaith, Our Doctors write, that three propheſied in the Days of Joſiah; viz. Jeremiah in the Streets or Villages, Zephaniah in the Synagogues, and Huldah among the Women.

(Now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in the college) and they communed with her.] The Hebrew Word Miſhneh, which we tranſlate College (and which the Targum takes to ſignify a School) is in the Margin of our Bibles tranſlated the ſecond Part. For there were three Walls about Jeruſalem, as Abarbinel obſerves. Within the firſt of which lived Artificers, and the common People; within the ſecond, the better Sort, the wiſe Men, Prophets, and Propheteſſes lived; and within the third was the Mountain of the LORD, as they ſpeak. Now of the middle Part of Jeruſalem they think the holy Writer here ſpeaks, in which Huldah dwelt.

Ver. 15. And ſhe ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, tell the man that ſent you unto me,] She ſpeaks in the Prophetical Stile, and with great Boldneſs tells them the plain Truth.

Ver. 16. Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read.] All the Plagues threatned in Deuteronomy xxviii. and other Places.

Ver. 17. Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burnt incenſe unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the work of their hands: therefore my wrath ſhall be kindled againſt this place, and ſhall not be quenched.] This was the Anſwer to the King's Enquiry; that the Decree of God was peremptory, and irreſiſtable, againſt Judah and Jeruſalem, for their Extirpation; and he adds the Reaſon thereof.

Ver. 18. But to the king of Judah which ſent you to enquire of the LORD, thus ſhall ye ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, As touching the words which thou haſt heard;] As far as they concerned his Perſon.

Ver. 19. Becauſe thy heart was tender, and thou haſt humbled thy ſelf before the LORD, when thou heardeſt what I ſpake againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, that they ſhould become a deſolation and a curſe, and haſt rent thy clothes, and went before me: I alſo have heard thee, ſaith the LORD.] Here are four Tokens, as ſome obſerve, of a true Repentance and Converſion unto God, Firſt, Softneſs of Heart; which is oppoſed to that Hardneſs which ariſes from Unbelief of God's Threatnings; becauſe Faith makes Men tenderly affected with them. Secondly, Great Humility, ariſing from a Senſe of his Unworthineſs of any Mercy. Theſe two were inward: The other were outward Tokens of this inward Senſe; which were Rending his Cloaths, and Weeping for his own, and for the publick Offences; which moved God to take ſome Pity upon him, though he reſolved to deſtroy the Nation.

Ver. 20. Behold therefore, I will gather thee unto thy fathers,] The Time haſting for their utter Deſtruction, God would let him live but a ſhort Time; which was a Mercy to him, that he

he might not ſee the Miſeries that were coming upon them.

And thou ſhalt go unto thy grave in peace, and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this place.] Though he was ſlain in Battle (xxiii. 29.) yet he went to his grave in peace; becauſe, as the next Words explain it, he did not live to ſee the Calamities which were inevitably threatned to come upon the Nation; but left his Kingdom in a peaceable Condition. For the Egyptians who ſlew him, gave them no long Diſturbance, and the Babylonians were not yet ready to come up againſt them.

And they brought the king word again.] Who immediately ſet himſelf to do all the Good he could for his Time; though he could not prevent the Evil that was coming.

CHAP. XXIII.

Verſe 1. AND the king ſent, and they gathered unto him all the elders of Judah, and of Jeruſalem.] Whom he acquainted with what he intended to do; and, I ſuppoſe, had their Conſent, which gave the greater Authority to what follows.

Ver. 2. And the king went up into the houſe of the LORD, and all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and the prieſts, and the prophets,] Jeremiah and Zephaniah were the principal Prophets; and, it is likely, there were many more who are not mentioned.

And all the people both ſmall and great: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant] He ordered ſome to read (xxii. 10.) in ſeveral Places, ſo that all might hear; for it is not likely that one Man's Voice could reach ſo great a Multitude.

Which was found in the houſe of the LORD.] And ſome of the Jews ſay, was found lying open at that very Place, where thoſe Words preſented themſelves, Deut. xxxviii. 36, which awakened the King to cauſe all the Law of God to be read to them.

Ver. 3. And the king ſtood by a pillar,] Unto which his Throne adjoined; wherein the King was placed when he came to the Temple, as the Hebrew Doctors will have it. The King's Seat, ſaith Jacob Juda Leo, was in the Court of the Iſraelites, at the Entrance into the Court of the Prieſts, by a Marble Pillar. There he ſat when he came into the Temple to worſhip God. There Joaſh was made King by Jehoiada (xi. 14.) there Hezekiah read before the LORD the blaſphemous Letter which the King of Aſſyria ſent him (xix. 14.) and there Joſiah now made a Covenant with God that he would ſerve him. See Vitringa Proleg. ad L. De Synag. Veteri. Cap. 4.

And made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes,] That is, all his Laws of all Sorts.

With all their heart, and with all their ſoul,] He made this Covenant in his own Name, and in the Name of all the People, whom he engaged faithfully to God's Service.

To perform the words of the covenant, that were written in this book: and all the people ſtood to the covenant.] They gave their Conſent to the Covenant; ſtanding before the LORD as he did, and not ſtirring from the Place where he propounded it unto them.

Ver. 4. And the king commanded Hilkiah the high prieſt,] It was very proper to commit the Reformation of the Houſe of God to the High Prieſt; and thoſe who miniſtred under him. Some will have Hilkiah to be the Father of Jeremiah, as is aſſerted by Greg. Abulpharagius, in his Hiſtor. Dynaſtarum, p. 68. Which is an Error; for Jeremiah was a Prieſt of Anathoth, whither Abiathar was baniſhed, of the Seed of Ithamar, from whom it is likely he was deſcended, 1 Kings ii. 26.

And the prieſts of the ſecond order,] They that were under the High Prieſt; eſpecially the Sagan (as the Targum here hath it) who was the Vicar of the High Prieſt, and ſtood at his Right Hand when he officiated, as the Jews tell us, in Joma, where they ſay a Man could not be made a High Prieſt, unleſs he had been firſt a Sagan.

And the keepers of the door,] Whom the Chaldee call Amarcelim; which Word we find xii. 10. Where the Targum expounds it, Prieſts that were Treaſurers: That is, ſuch Levites as had the Cuſtody of the ſacred Money, which was for the Repair of the Temple. And the Hebrew Phraſe is not much different, the Keepers of the Threeſholds; that is, the Entrance into thoſe Chambers (as Hottinger thinks) wherein were kept ſuch Things as were of publick Uſe in the Temple. Of which there were ſeven; wherein the Prieſts Garments were laid up, and other ſuch like things.

To bring forth out of the temple of the LORD, all the veſſels that were made for Baal.] The Word we tranſlate Veſſels or Inſtruments, ſignifies all the various Furniture belonging to Baal, and the reſt of the falſe Gods, which ſerved either for offering of Incenſe, or Sacrifices, or the Veſtments of the Prieſts, &c.

For Baal,] Who was the principal Idol, whoſe Worſhip Ahab firſt introduced, and Manaſſeh reſtored after Jehu had aboliſhed it, as was ſaid before, xxi. 3.

And for the grove,] I obſerved before, that by a Grove is meant the Image or Idol of the Grove; which Ahab had brought in alſo. See there xxi. 3, 7, and here below, ver. 6.

And for all the hoſt of heaven:] That is, the Planets, and the reſt of the Stars, which the Sabæans, and Chaldæans, and other eaſtern People worſhipped. Whom the Jews impiouſly imitated though they had been taught in the very Beginning of their Law, that the Sun, the Moon, and all the Stars, were all created by their God.

And he burnt them without Jeruſalem in the fields of Kidron, and carried the aſhes of them into Beth-el.] Which Place (where, as Kimchi ſpeaks, was the very Foundation of Idolatry) he polluted and profaned, by caſting this Filth there; that they who were wont to worſhip the Calves in that Place, might avoid it, and not come near it.

Ver. 5. And he put down the idolatrous prieſts, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to burn incenſe in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and

and in the places round about Jeruſalem :] Theſe idolatrous Prieſts are called Chemarim in the Hebrew; becauſe they were cloathed in black Garments (as Kimchi gives the Reaſon both upon this Place, and upon Zephan. i. 4.) Whereas the Prieſts of the Moſt High were cloathed in White; eſpecially thoſe whoſe Genealogy was not queſtioned. They indeed who could not make out their Deſcent, were cloathed in black Habit, to diſtinguiſh them from undoubted Prieſts: And ſo were they who had any Defect or Blemiſh in their Body, as appears from the Talmud in Middoth. And indeed it is certain, that they among the Heathen who ſacrificed to the infernal Gods, were cloathed with ſuch Veſtments, as appears by Canida in Horace, Lib. 1. Sat. 8, and Medea in Apollonius Rhodius, Lib. 3. ver. 861; from whence ſome think they had the Name of μελανηφόροι, which we find in ſome ancient Inſcriptions. And thus the Egyptians bewailed Oſiris, all which was ſuitable to their mighty Sacrifices; wherein they were ſad for the Abſence of the Sun, who was meant by Oſiris, as Gilbertus Cuperus obſerves in his Harpocrates, p. 129. And here now we have found the Original of theſe Chemarim, Prieſts cloathed in Black. For it was a black Ox which repreſented Oſiris among the Egyptians, and it was covered ἱματίῳ μέλανι βυσσίνῳ with a black Silk Garment; from whence, in all Likelihood, the Prieſts came to be ſo cloathed.

Them alſo that burnt incenſe unto Baal, to the ſun, and to the moon,] Here Baal is diſtinguiſhed from the Sun; and therefore ſignifies the ſame with Belus, who was a deified King: And indeed it is highly probable, that not only Baal, but Moloch, and Adonis, were the Names only of ſome very potent Kings, who were adored when they were dead, and in Time were thought to be real Gods.

And to the planets, and to all the hoſts of heaven.] The Hebrew Word Mazaloth, which the LXX pronounce Mazuroth, it thought by Procopius Gazæus to be the Name of a Star, and moſt likely the Evening Star: Which others take to ſignify a Conſtellation, as we tranſlate it in the Margin; or all the twelve Signs. For the Jewiſh Aſtronomers call the Zodiack, Ophan hamazaloth, the Circle of the Signs.

Ver. 6. And he brought out the grove from the houſe of the LORD, without Jeruſalem, unto the brook Kidron,] By the Grove, as I have obſerved before, is meant the Image of the Grove, or in plainer Words Aſhtaroth: For ſo Procopius Gazæus ſaith, that where the LXX tranſlate this Word the Grove, others render it Ἀσήρωθ, or Ἀσάρωθ; that is, Ἀσάρτη or Venus. For τῆς Ἀφροδίτης τὸ ξόανον ἔνδον ἔστησαν ἐν τῷ θείῳ νεῷ, they had ſet up the Statue of Venus in the Temple of God. See Selden Syntag. 2. De Diis Syris, Cap. 2.

And burnt it at the brook Kidron, and ſtampt it ſmall to powder, and caſt the powder thereof upon the graves of the children of the people.] Which by the Law were impure, and unclean; and ſuch he declared theſe Aſhes to be, and actually made them unclean, that none might touch them; much leſs gather them up as ſacred Reliques. And ſo Kimchi expounds this Place, he brought forth the wooden Statue of Diana, which Manaſſeh had placed there (xxi. 7.) and having burnt it and ſtamped it to Powder, ſcattered the Aſhes on the Graves of the Idolaters, in Deteſtation and Contempt of their Idolatry.

Ver. 7. And he broke down the houſe of the Sodomites, which were by the houſe of the LORD,] From this ſome gather they were come to ſuch an Height of Wickedneſs, that there were thoſe among them who expoſed their Bodies to be abuſed contrary to Nature, in Honour of thoſe filthy Deities which they worſhipped. For theſe publick Houſes were near the Temple of the LORD; and therefore theſe were Perſons conſecrated to Impurity, contrary to Deut. xxiii. 17. See 1 Kings xiv. 24. And ſo the ancient Interpreters here underſtand corporal Filthineſs: Only the Chaldee tranſlates it, the Houſes of Things conſecrated to Idols. R. Solomon Jarchi thinks it probable, that among thoſe who worſhipped the Statues of the Moon or Venus, there were thoſe who proſtituted themſelves to filthy Mixtures. But Mr Selden by Kedeſchim (which we tranſlate Sodomites) underſtands the Prieſts of Aſtarte, whom St Hierom upon Hoſea iv, calls exſectos, upon Pretence of greater Purity, depriving themſelves of thoſe Parts that ſerve for Procreation of Children.

Where the women wove hangings for the grove.] For Aſherah, or Aſtarte before mentioned; as Selden expounds it in the fore-named Place. Theſe Hangings or Curtains, incompaſſed the Image, and made a kind of Houſe for it, as the Hebrew Word imports, which the Greeks called καίσκους and ναίδια, little Temples, or Habitations. Into thoſe Tents the Worſhippers went, and there committed all manner of Lewdneſs; for they had not arrived to ſuch a Degree of Impudence, as not to ſeek for Privacy in their Filthineſs.

Ver. 8. And he brought all the prieſts out of the cities of Judah,] Would not ſuffer them to dwell there, to corrupt the People.

And defiled the high places where the prieſts had burnt incenſe,] He made them, ſaith Kimchi, Receptacles of Impurity, by caſting dead Carkaſſes there, and other ſuch like unclean Things; that ſo he might remove out of the Peoples Hearts all Idolatry: For where ſweet Odours were wont before to be, there was nothing but Stench.

From Geba to Beer-ſheba,] That is, throughout the whole Country; for Geba was in the Northern Parts, and Beer-ſheba in the Southern. See 1 Kings xv. 22. Judges xx. 1.

And brake down the high places of the gates that were in the entring in of the gate of Joſhua, the governour of the city; which were on a mans left hand at the gate of the city.] The high Places of the Gates ſeems to have been erected there, to offer Incenſe to thoſe Tutelar Gods, unto whom their idolatrous Kings had committed the Protection of their City. And Kimchi thinks that the Governour of the City had his private houſhold God, and a portable Altar whereon he offered to his domeſtick Idol. Which Joſiah did not ſpare; but let the greateſt Men ſee his impartial Zeal againſt all Idolatry.

Ver. 9. Nevertheleſs, the prieſts of the high places came not up to the altar of the LORD in Jeruſalem, but they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren.] He mixed Mercy together with Severity. For though he did not ſuffer thoſe thoſe Prieſts, who had offered Incenſe in thoſe High Places (directly contrary to the Law, Deut. xii. 11.) to offer Sacrifices at God's Altar; becauſe they had defiled themſelves with that ſinful Worſhip, though to the true God; yet he permitted them to partake of the Bread of the Prieſts, which comprehends all thoſe Parts of any Sacrifice that was the Prieſt's Portion. He mentions indeed only the Meat-offering; which was to be of unleavened bread (Levit. ii. 4, 5, 11.) but that is put by a Synechdoche for all other Offerings belonging to the Prieſts. So that they were put into the Condition of thoſe Prieſts that had any Blemiſh; who might not offer the bread of their God, Levit. xxi. 17, 21. But they might eat the bread of their God, both of the Holy and moſt Holy, ver. 22. Ezek. xliv. 10.

Ver. 10. And he defiled Tophet, which is in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom.] By throwing all manner of Filth into it, as well as by throwing down the Altars on which they ſacrificed their Children, as the Syriack and Arabick ſeem to underſtand it.

That no man might make his ſon or his daughter paſs through the fire to Moloch.] Though a great Number of the Hebrew Doctors think that their paſſing their children through the fire, was nothing more, than making them paſs between two Fires, whereby they were conſecrated to that Idol; yet it is certain, as I have ſhewn before, xvi. 3, that they offered their Children ſometimes as burnt Sacrifices to Idols. Which was a thing ſo horrid, that perhaps they invented this inſtead of it, to make them paſs through two Fires. Or perhaps the Opinion of Maimonides may be true, that they did not burn their Children to Moloch, as they did to other Idols: But the entire Worſhip of Moloch was abſolved, by making Children only paſs through the Fire to him; as his Words are in his Book of Idolatry, Cap. 6. §. 5; which may be confirmed from Jerem. xix. 5, where he ſaith; they burnt their ſons with fire unto Baal in Tophet. See Selden Syntag. 1. De Diis Syris, Cap. 6. where he largely treats of this.

Ver. 11. And he took away] That is, he deſtroyed, as the Hebrew Word ſignifies, ver. 5. where we tranſlate it, he put down the Chomarim; that is, deſtroyed or ſlew thoſe Prieſts, as Bochartus interprets it. So Levit. xxvi. 6, we tranſlate the ſame Word, I will rid evil Beaſts out of the Land; that is, deſtroy them. The LXX here tranſlate it κατέκαυσε, he burnt the Horſes; as before, κατέκαυσε χώμειμ, he burnt the Prieſts: Though perhaps in both Places it ſhould be κατέπαυσε, he made to ceaſe, as the Hebrew Word literally ſignifies.

The horſes that the kings of Judah had given to the ſun,] That is, had conſecrated to the Sun; as Levit. xx. 2, they are ſaid to give their Children to Molech. A great Number of Authors tell us, that among ſeveral Nations theſe Animals were ſacred to the Sun (as Hawks and ſome other Creatures were) becauſe of their Swiftneſs in their Courſe. But it is uncertain, whether they were kept to be ſacrificed to the Sun (as they were among the Maſſagetæ, Perſians, Armenians, and other People mentioned by Bochartus) or only to be led forth in Pomp (as ſome of the Jews ſpeak) every Morning to meet the Riſing Sun. Or, as others take it, the Worſhippers of the Sun got upon theſe Horſes early in the Morning, and rode out to adore the Sun at its riſing. See Hierozoicon. P. 1. Lib. 11. Cap. 10.

At the entring in of the houſe of the LORD, by the chamber of Nathan-melech the chamberlain,] Or, the Eunuch, who was ſome great Officer in the Court.

Which was in the ſuburbs,] So the Targum interprets the Word Parvarim; which moſt Tranſlations retain as the Name of a Place, unto which the Street in which theſe Horſes were kept reached; from the Chamber of Nathan-melech. He was the principal Officer, perhaps, that looked after them; and had the Overſight of all thoſe Stables which were built from the Temple Gate to Parvarim. And perhaps he rode out himſelf every Morning upon one of them, to ſalute the riſing Sun in the King's Name.

And burnt the chariots of the ſun with fire.] The ancients fancied the Sun it ſelf was carried about in a Chariot (as Bochart obſerves in the Place above-mentioned) and therefore Chariots as well as Horſes, were dedicated to it. Which he makes an Argument, that they were not meer brazen, ſilver, or golden Statues of Horſes that are here meant; but real living Horſes to draw thoſe Chariots. See Voſſius de Orig. & Prog. Idol. Lib. 11. Cap. 4. Some of thoſe who think they were only imagines equorum & quadrigarum (as Selden ſpeaks, Syntag. 2. De Diis Syris, Cap. 8.) Images of Horſes and Chariots, made of ſome Metal or other, imagine they were repreſented in the Shape of Griffins, as the famous M. Spoon thought. See Dr Hyde, De Relig. Vet. Perſ. p. 117.

Ver. 12. And the altars that were on the top of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made,] They were not ſatisfied with the publick Altars they had made, in a vaſt Number of high Places: But the Roofs of their Houſes being flat, they made Altars there (ſee Jerem. xix. 13. xxxii. 29. Zephan. i. 5.) and particularly upon the King's Palace, where they worſhipped the Sun, Moon, and Stars. But this could not privilege them from Deſtruction, that they were on the Top of the King's Houſe.

And the altars that Manaſſeh had made in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD, did the king beat down, and brake them down from thence; and caſt the duſt of them into the brook Kidron.] It is ſaid in 2 Chron. xxxiii. 13, that when Manaſſeh repented, he took away all the altars he had made in the mountain of the houſe of the LORD: and I ſuppoſe thoſe in the Courts of the Prieſts and of the People were then removed. But Amon ſet them up again in the very Place where Manaſſeh had erected them; and ſo they are here called his Altars.

Ver. 13. And the high places that were before Jeruſalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of corruption,] That is, Mount Olivet, 1 Kings xi. 2, which was anciently called Harmiſchah the Mount of Unction; becauſe of the Olives that grew there in great Plenty; but, by Way of Contempt and Scorn, was called by the Prophets Harmaſchith, the Mount of Corruption, becauſe of the Idols that were placed there, whereby whereby the People were corrupted in their Religion.

Which Solomon the king of Iſrael had builded for Aſhtoreth the abomination of the Zidonians, and for Chemoth the abomination of the Moabites, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon,] It is not to be doubted but theſe deteſtable Idols had been taken away by ſuch religious Kings as Aſa, Jehoſhaphat, and Hezekiah; but they were reſtored again by their impious Succeſſors, in the very ſame Place, and the ſame Figure with thoſe ancient ones; and ſo are here called thoſe that Solomon made, becauſe he was the firſt Author of them, or at leaſt permitted them to be made by his Wives, and connived at their Worſhip, as R. Levi thinks.

Did the king defile.] By dead Mens Bones, and other unclean things, which he threw into thoſe Places.

Ver. 14. And he broke down the images, and cut down the groves.] Wherein the Images were.

And filled their places with the bones of men.] Which he cauſed to be digged out of their Graves, and burnt; being the Bones of idolatrous Prieſts, ver. 16.

Ver. 15. Moreover, the altar that was at Beth-el,] For this City and the Territories thereof had been under the Power of Judah, ever ſince the Reign of Abijah, 2 Chron. xiii. 19, 20.

And the high places which Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin, had made, both that altar and the high place, he brake down, and burnt the high place, and ſtampt it ſmall as powder, and burnt the grove.] That is, he burnt the golden Calf, as Mr Selden thinks; for Aſherah commonly ſignifies ſome Image, as he ſhews in his Diſcourſe about Aſtarte, whoſe Image 'tis likely this was; for the golden Calf, as the Jews think, was carried away before this. But that is not certain: and Selden's Opinion is probable, that the Golden Calves were made of Wood gilded over, and thence called Golden, which were eaſily burnt. Syntag. 1. De Diis Syris, Cap. 4.

Ver. 16. And as Joſiah turned himſelf,] Looking round about him; being reſolved to truſt no Man's Eyes but his own, in diſcovering the Monuments of Idolatry.

He ſpied the ſepulchres that were there in the mount,] It is not ſaid whoſe Sepulchres they were; but it is probable, of the idolatrous Prieſts (for in the Chronicles he is ſaid to have burnt their Bones) and of the Prophets and great Men, who had been Inſtruments to promote Jeroboam's Idolatry.

And ſent and took the bones out of the ſepulchres, and burnt them upon the altar, and polluted it,] For nothing was more unclean than that which had touched dead Mens Bones.

According to the word of the LORD which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed theſe words.] Who foretold three hundred and ſixty-two Years ago theſe very things ſhould be done by a King called Joſiah, 1 Kings xiii. 2.

Ver. 17. Then he ſaid, What title is that that I ſee?] There was one Stone, or Pillar, I ſuppoſe, more eminent than the reſt, with the Name of the Perſons buried under it: And therefore called a Title, becauſe there was an Inſcription engraven upon it, according to the Cuſtom among the Jews (as now among us) to preſerve thereby the Memory of thoſe they loved.

And the men of the city told him, It is the ſepulchre of the man of God, which came from Judah, and proclaimed theſe things that thou haſt done againſt the altar of Beth-el.] The King was the more curious (as Raſi, and Kimchi alſo tells the Story out of the Midraſch) to know whoſe Grave that was; becauſe on one Side of it he ſaw Nettles and Thiſtles grow, and on the other Side Myrtles and other odoriferous Plants; ſignifying that there lay a true Prophet and a falſe. For which there is no Ground, but their fabulous Fancy.

Ver. 18. And he ſaid, Let him alone, let no man move his bones:] It is pertinently obſerved by Joh. Walphius, that if pious Perſons in thoſe Days had had the ſame Opinion about Reliques which now is in the Church of Rome, the King would not meerly have ordered his Bones to lie quiet and undiſturbed; but put them into golden Boxes, and carried them to Jeruſalem, to be there religiouſly worſhipped by the People.

And they let his bones alone, and the bones of the prophet that came out of Samaria.] That is, out of the Country of Samaria.

Ver. 19. And all the houſes alſo of the high places] What theſe Houſes were, whether Places for Worſhip, or for the Habitation of the Prieſts of the high Places (mentioned in the next Verſe) is uncertain. It is moſt likely the former; becauſe they provoked God to Anger.

That were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Iſrael had made to provoke the LORD to anger,] In ſuch Cities of Samaria as were in the Poſſeſſion of the King of Judah; for upon the Fall of the Aſſyrian Empire, many of the Cities, no doubt, became ſubject to their old Maſters.

Joſiah took away, and did unto them according to all the acts that he had done in Beth-el.] That is, he brake them down, and burnt them, and ſtamped them to Powder, ver. 15.

Ver. 20. And he ſlew all the prieſts of the high places that were there, upon the altars,] There were ſome Prieſts of the high Places (of whom we read before, ver. 8, 9.) that he did not kill; for they were ſuch as ſacrificed only unto God in the high Places. But thoſe whom he ſlew, were either the Prieſts of Jeroboam who worſhipped the Calves, and had no Right to the Prieſthood (but had invaded it by the Favour of their King) or ſuch Prieſts of the Order of Aaron as ſacrificed to Baal, or other falſe Gods.

And burnt mens bones upon them,] Which was the higheſt Pollution of thoſe Altars, ver. 13, 14.

And returned to Jeruſalem.] Having made a Progreſs through all the Country, to aboliſh idolatrous Worſhip where it was practiſed; he returned to Jeruſalem, there to reſtore the Solemnities of true Religion.

Ver. 21. And the king commanded all the people, ſaying, Keep the Paſſover unto the LORD your God, as it is written in the book of this covenant.] Which he had bound them and himſelf to obſerve, ver. 3. and now tried them whether they would ſtand to the Covenant, as they promiſed, by making a Proclamation through the whole Kingdom that they ſhould keep this Feaſt.

Which

Which was a Commemoration of the greateſt Benefit God ever beſtowed on them, before the giving them the Law, for it made them a free Nation.

Ver. 22. Surely there was not held ſuch a paſſover from the days of the judges, nor in all the days of the kings of Iſrael, and of the kings of Judah.] Since the Time of the Prophet Samuel, the laſt of their Judges, there had never been ſuch a great Concourſe of People at any Paſſover, nor ſuch a Multitude of Sacrifices offered; nor ſuch an exact Obſervation of the Rites and Ceremonies belonging to this Feaſt. For in the Time of Hezekiah many were abſent; and many had not purified themſelves as they ought: But now, as Ralbag expounds it, they were all turned to the LORD, and there were no Idolaters nor Apoſtates among them. See Selden, Lib. 1. De Syned. Cap. xii. p. 478.

Ver. 23. But in the eighteenth year of king Joſiah, wherein this paſſover was held unto the LORD in Jeruſalem.] In the ſame Year that he took care to have the Temple repaired (xxii. 3.) and to purge it from all Idols (xxiii. 4.) he reſtored the true Worſhip of God to ſuch Purity as it had not been in for ſome Ages.

Ver. 24. Moreover, the workers with familiar ſpirits, and the wizards,] Of which ſee what I have noted upon Levit. xix. 31. xx. 6.

And the images,] In the Hebrew the Teraphim, which were very ancient among Idolaters, as I have obſerved upon the Book of Geneſis, xxxi. 19.

And the idols,] Of which there were many ſorts, that are all comprehended in this Word.

And all the abominations that were ſpied in the land of Judah, and in Jeruſalem,] What theſe Abominations were is not certain, but it is likely they were ſuch as Ezekiel ſaw and deſcribes in after-times; when God ſhewed him what odious things they committed ſecretly. See Ezek. viii. 6, 9, 10, 13, 15, &c.

Did Joſiah put away, that he might perform all the words of the law, which were written in the book that Hilkiah the prieſt found in the houſe of the LORD.] He had his Spies, it is probable, to diſcover all ſecret Idolatry, as well as publick, which being found out he aboliſhed, as abominable unto God.

Ver. 25. And like unto him was there no king before him, that turned to the LORD with all his heart, and with all his ſoul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moſes; neither after him aroſe there any like him.] He doth not compare him with David and Hezekiah (as Procopius Gazæus here notes) but with other pious Kings, ſuch as Aſa, Jehoſhaphat, and Jotham; who were far inferior to him in Piety. And Hezekiah himſelf was not ſo exact, and did not make ſuch a thorough Search as he did, after all idolatrous Practices. The Nation alſo was ſo much corrupted ſince his Days, by his Son Manaſſeh, who reigned a long Time, that it made the Work of Reformantion more difficult in the Time of Joſiah. Yet in ſome regard Hezekiah excelled him; and therefore the ſame Character is given of him (xviii. 5.) which is here given of Joſiah; becauſe of his Truſt in God, in the Time of his greateſt Diſtreſs, for which he was very eminent. But as to Repentance, Joſiah was moſt exemplary.

Ver. 26. Notwithſtanding, the LORD turned not from the fierceneſs of his great wrath, wherewith his anger was kindled againſt Judah, becauſe of all the provocations that Manaſſeh had provoked him withal.] Though Joſiah was moſt ſincere in what he did, and omitted nothing to reſtore the Purity of God's Worſhip among them; yet he could not procure the Preſervation of the Nation from Deſtruction, but only a Forbearance of it for a Time. For the People were ſo corrupted by Manaſſeh, that they rather complied with Joſiah in his Reformation, than heartily deſired it, out of an inward Affection to it. The innocent Blood alſo ſhed by Manaſſeh was unpardonable, xxiv. 3, 4. Of which the People 'tis likely approved, and ſo fell under an irreverſible Sentence of Deſtruction. See Ezek. xxiv. 6.

Ver. 27. And the LORD ſaid, I will remove Judah alſo out of my ſight, as I have removed Iſrael, and will caſt off this city Jeruſalem, which I have choſen, and the houſe of which I ſaid, my name ſhall be there.] He peremptorily decreed that they ſhould be carried away Captive, as the Ten Tribes had been; and that his divine Preſence among them, ſhould not ſave them; but he would abandon his own Dwelling-place, and removing from them, leave them a Prey to their Enemies: Which we find livelily repreſented in Ezek. x. 18, 19. where the Prophet ſaw the Glory of the LORD departing from his Houſe, and carried away by the Cherubims.

This may ſeem ſtrange, as Abarbinel obſerves, that God ſhould thus viſit the Sins of Manaſſeh of which he had repented; and not be reconciled after Joſiah had aboliſhed all Monuments of Idolatry, and the Iſraelites had kept ſuch a Paſſover, as is before mentioned; unto which he anſwers, that though it be ſaid Manaſſeh repented; yet it is not ſaid he turned to God with all his Heart, and with all his Soul, as Joſiah did. For Manaſſeh repented only when he was in great Diſtreſs; and though he repented, the People did not; but fell to their idolatrous Practices as ſoon as he was dead, following his wicked Son Amon. Nay, he thinks in the Days of Joſiah they were little better, as he gathers from xi and xii Jeremiah. To which may be added what we read in the Prophet Zephaniah, who lived in the Days of Joſiah, and threatned in the Name of God, I will utterly conſume all things from off the land, and conſume both man and beaſt, Zeph. i. 2, 3. For they were ſtill private Idolaters, though they complied with the publick Reformation; ſwearing by the LORD, and by Malcom; and when the High Places were taken away, worſhipping the Hoſt of Heaven upon the Houſe-Tops, ver. 5.

Ver. 28. Now the reſt of the acts of Joſiah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?]

Ver. 29. In his days Pharaoh-Nechoh king of Egypt] Whom Herodotus in his ſecond Book, calls Νεκὼς, and mentions the Fight which he had with the Syrians, ἐν Μαγδώλῳ. See Uſher his Annals, ad A. M. 3394.

Went up againſt the king of Aſſyria,] Who was then King of Babylon; for he had ſubdued the Aſſyrians, and brought them under his Empire. There are thoſe indeed who think this happened before that Time, and that this King of Egypt went to revenge the Injuries done them by Sennacherib; and he hoped for the better Succeſs, becauſe he was much weakened by that Slaughter the Angel had made of his Army; and becauſe the Medes and Babylonians had rebelled againſt the Aſſyrians. But why Joſiah ſhould go to help the Aſſyrians no Account can be given. Our forementioned Primate hath better expounded it, that as the King of Perſia having ſubdued Babylon and Aſſyria, is called the King of Aſſyria, Ezra vi. 22. So here the King of Babylon having ſubdued Aſſyria, is called King of Aſſyria. Beſides, that Babylon was anciently accounted a Part of Aſſyria; and the Land of the Chaldæans is ſaid to be founded by the Aſſyrians, Iſaiah xxiii. 13. And thus Joſephus expreſsly ſaith, Lib. 10. Antiq. Cap. 6. Μήδης πολεμῶν καὶ τὴς Βαβυλωνίης. οἱ τὴν Ἀσσυρίων καθέλυσαν ἀρχήν. The King of Egypt came to fight the Medes and Babylonians, who had overturned the Aſſyrian Empire.

To the river Euphrates:] To beſiege Carchemiſh, which lay upon that River, as we read, 2 Chron. xxxv. 20. Which City was poſſeſſed by the Aſſyrians in the Time of Sennacharib (Iſaiah x. 9.) but their Empire being overthrown, it returned under the Power of the Babylonians.

And king Joſiah went againſt him,] Being afraid he intended to invade his Country in his Paſſage; or to divert him from his Expedition againſt the Babylonians, with whom he was in League. It is likely the latter was the Reaſon; for the King of Egypt aſſured him he had no Quarrel with him; and yet he would fight him, 2 Chron. xxxv. 21, 22.

And he ſlew him in Megiddo,] Gave him a mortal Wound; of which he died, not till he came to Jeruſalem, 2 Chron. xxxv. 24.

When he had ſeen him.] At the firſt Brunt, as ſoon as they had joined Battle. See xiv. 8.

Ver. 30. And his ſervants carried him in a chariot dead from Megiddo,] Mortally wounded (as was ſaid before) which befel him, the Jews think, becauſe he did not aſk Counſel of the LORD, by the prophet Jeremiah.

And brought him to Jeruſalem, and buried him in his own ſepulchre:] With ſuch Lamentations, as we no where read were made for any other King, 2 Chron. xxxv. 25. which continued ſo long that it came a Proverb, Zechar. xii. 11.

And the people of the land took Jehoahaz the ſon of Joſiah, and anointed him, and made him king in his fathers ſtead.] He is called Shallum, Jerem. xxi. 11. and was younger than Jehoiakim, as appears by this, that he was but twenty-three Years old when he began to reign, and reigned but three Months: After which Jehoiakim being made King, was twenty-five Years old, ver. 31, 36. But the People preferred Jehoahaz before him, becauſe perhaps he was the more warlike Perſon. And they anointed him, as Abarbinel thinks, becauſe he was not the Firſt-born, and his Title queſtionable. For they anointed Perſons only when there was a Controverſy about the Succeſſiou. Ralbag alſo is of Opinion that the People by Force made him King againſt his Will; which he will have to be the Import of that Phraſe, they took Jehoahaz, &c.

Ver. 31. Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.] His Father Joſiah had four Sons, and this was the youngeſt of them, as appears from 2 Chron. iii. 15. where he is called Shallum, as he his by the Prophet Jeremiah. Which Name our great Primate thinks ſeemed to the People to be of an ill Omen (for Shallum King of Iſrael reigned but one Month) which made them change it into Jehoahaz; which proved not much more fortunate to him, for he reigned but three Months, ad A. M. 3371.

Ver. 32. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.] After the Example of Ahaz, Manaſſeh, Amon, and ſuch like wicked Kings; his Mother perhaps having infuſed ill Principles into him.

Ver. 33. And Pharaoh-Nechoh put him in bands at Riblah, in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jeruſalem,] When he returned from his Expedition againſt the Babylonians, he depoſed this Prince, as an Uſurper; or hearing that he intended to be revenged of him for his Father's Death; or that he was of a turbulent Spirit, and ſo put it out of his Power to give him any Diſturbance.

And put the land to a tribute of an hundred talents of ſilver, and a talent of gold.] In Token of their Subjection to him.

Ver. 34. And Pharaoh-Nechoh made Eliakim, the ſon of Joſiah king, in the room of Joſiah his father,] For the eldeſt Son Johanan, in all Likelihood, was dead.

And turned his name to Jehoiakim,] As the Manner of Conquerors was, to change the Names of thoſe whom they had ſubdued, in Token of their abſolute Power over them. See Daniel i. 7. And the forenamed Primate thinks he gave him this Name, that he might teſtify, he aſcribed his Victory over the Babylonians to Jehovah, the God of Iſrael; who he ſaid excited him to that Expedition, 2 Chron. xxxv. 21, 22.

And he took Jehoahaz away: and he came to Egypt, and died there.] According to the Prophecy of Jeremiah, whom God ſent to call this new King and the People to Repentance (xxii. 1, 2, 3.) Weep ye not for the Dead (i. e. for Joſiah) neither bemoan him, but weep ſorely for him that goeth away (that is, for Shallum) for he ſhall return no more, nor ſee his native Country, &c. but he ſhall die in the place whither they ſhall lead him captive, &c. Jerem. xxii. 10, 11, 12.

Ver. 35. And Jehoiakim gave the ſilver and the gold to Pharaoh, but he taxed the land to give the money, according to the commandment of Pharaoh;] For the Treaſures of the LORD's Houſe, and of the King's, it ſeems were empty.

He exacted the ſilver and the gold of the people of the land, of every one according to his taxation, to give it to Pharaoh-Nechoh.] Proportionable to every Man's Eſtate.

Ver. 36. Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem: and his mothers name was Zebudah, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.] In the very Beginning of his Reign Jeremiah was ſent to him with a Meſſage from God, to bring him to Repentance, Jerem. xxvi. 1, 2, 3. Jerem. xxvii. where he ſeems (ver. 12.) to have told his Brother Zedekiah that he ſhould be King, if Jehoiakim was diſobedient; and exhorts him not to be ſo.

Ver. 37. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.] See ver. 32. For he killed the Prophet Urijah, and was at the Charge to fetch him out of Egypt, whither he fled to ſave his Life, Jerem. xxvi. 20, 21, &c. And if it had not been for Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, who had been a great Man in his Father Joſiah's Court, he had ſerved Jeremiah in the ſame Manner, ver. 24.

CHAP. XXIV.

Verſe 1. [IN his days Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up,] He is called by heathen Writers Nabo-col-aſſar: and, as Primate Uſher thinks, Nebopolaſſar was his Father. He begun his Reign in the fourth Year of Jehoiachim, as Jeremiah tells us, xxv. 1. When having ſmote the Army of Pharaoh-Nechoh at Carchemiſh near Euphrates (Jerem. xlvi. 2.) he came up to make the Jews Tributaries to him, as they had been to Pharaoh.

And Jehoiachim became his ſervant three years: then he turned and rebelled againſt him.] He omits his being bound in Chains, and carried to Babylon, which was in the fifth Year of King Nebuchadnezzar, and the eighth of Jehoiakim (2 Chron. xxxvi. 6.) where having been kept a while, and promiſing Fidelity to Nebuchadnezzar, he reſtored him to his Kingdom, in which he ſerved him three Years; and then in his ninth Year rebelled againſt him, by the Inſtigation, it is probable, of Pharaoh, who began to gather Strength again. But this proved fatal to him, for Pharaoh was not able to help him, ver. 7.

Ver. 2. And the LORD ſent againſt him bands of the Chaldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon, and ſent them againſt Judah to deſtroy it,] Theſe were all ſubject to Nebuchadnezzar, whom he ſent to chaſtiſe Jehoiakim, before he came himſelf, and beſieged Jeruſalem, and carried away Part of the Veſſels of the Houſe of the LORD, &c. For this was the third Year mentioned by Daniel after he was reſtored to his Kingdom (Dan. i. 1, 2.) when he, Hananiah, Michael, and Azariah were carried captive to Babylon, ver. 6.

According to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by his ſervants the prophets.] By the Prophet Iſaiah, xx. 17, 18. of this Book, and by Huldah, xxii. 16. and Jeremiah in the xiv and xv Chapters.

Ver. 3. Surely at the commandment of the LORD came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his ſight, for the ſins of Manaſſeh, according to all that he did:] By God's ſpecial Order thoſe People came up againſt Judah (therefore in the Verſe before he is ſaid to ſend them) becauſe they were incurable. For Manaſſeh, had ſo corrupted the whole Body of the people, that Joſiah's Reformation could not recover them; but immediately upon his Death, his Son relapſed to the old Idolatry.

Ver. 4. And alſo for the innocent blood that he ſhed (for he filled Jeruſalem with innocent blood) which the LORD would not pardon.] See xxi. 16. Upon the Repentance of Manaſſeh, and the Reformation made by Joſiah, God deferred their Puniſhment; but he reſolved not to grant them an abſolute Pardon of their Iniquity; which provoked him to decree their Extirpation.

Ver. 5. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

Ver. 6. So Jehoiakim ſlept with his fathers:] It appears by this, that to ſleep with one's fathers ſignifies no more than to die, as they did. For Jehoiakim was not buried with them, nor died in his Bed: But being taken by the Chaldeans, he died as they led him out of Jeruſalem, and, according to the Prophecy of Jeremiah (xxii. 18, 19.) they caſt him out of the Gates, and he had the Burial of an Aſs; that is, lay upon the Ground unburied. Abarbinel thinks he died in the Way to Babylon; and his Body was left in the High-way, without any Care taken to interr it; but it lay expoſed to the Sun by Day and to the Froſt by Night, Jerem. xxxvi. 30.

And Jehoiachin his ſon reigned in his ſtead.] Who is called alſo Jechoniah, 1 Chron. iii. 16. and more briefly Choniah (by way of Contempt, as ſome think) Jerem. xxii. 24.

Ver. 7. And the king of Egypt came not again any more out of his land: for the king of Babylon had taken from the river of Egypt, to the river Euphrates, all that pertained to the king of Egypt.] After the Fight at Carchemiſh (which I mentioned, ver. 1.) Nebuchadnezzar conquered all the Places that the King of Egypt held, between that and the River of Egypt. Concerning which, ſee my Notes on Gen. xv. 13. So that he durſt not ſtir out of the Limits of his own Country, which was bounded by that River, till the Reign of Zedekiah. When the King of Egypt adventured to come up to help him, but in vain; for he was forced to return to his own Land, Jerem. xxxvii. 7, 8.

Ver. 8. Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign,] That is, when he began to reign alone after his Father's Death: But his Father when he was but eight Years old made him his Aſſociate in the kingdom (2 Chron. xxxvi. 9.) that he might continue the Kingdom in his Family, and there might be no Contention among his Sons about it. Thus this Account and that in the Chronicles are eaſily reconciled. When his Father had reigned one Year, he took him to reign with him; and ſo he came to reign ten Years with his Father, and three Months alone. Now here Ezra mentions only the Years he reigned alone, but there he ſpeaks of all that he reigned with his Father and alone. Abarbinel gives another Account of this Difficulty, with which I ſhall not trouble the Reader; it ſeeming to me a little more forced than this Solution of it. And the plaineſt Way is to acknowledge an Error in the Tranſcriber of the Book of Chronicles.

And he reigned in Jeruſalem three months, &c.] And ten days, as it is explained, 2 Chron. xxxvi. 9. but ſuch ſmall Numbers are wont to be omitted in greater Sums. See 1 Kings xvi. 18.

Ver. 9. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.] A wonderful thing, that he ſhould not be moved to do better, by the ſad Example of his Father, and his Predeceſſor.

Ver. 10. At that time the ſervants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up againſt Jeruſalem, and the city was beſieged.] It is likely that Nebuchadnezzar heard he was entered into a Confederacy with the King of Egypt, as his Succeſſor did; and therefore ſent an Army againſt him in the very Beginning of his Reign, to lay Siege to Jeruſalem, againſt which he intended to come himſelf. Some of the Jews ſay, that the Counſellors of Nebuchadnezzar repreſented to him how unadviſedly he had acted, in making him King, whoſe Father had been in Rebellion againſt him; uſing this Proverb, From an ill Dog never comes a good Whelp. Whereupon he reſolved to depoſe him, and make Zedekiah King.

Ver. 11. And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came againſt the city, and his ſervants did beſiege it.] He firſt ſent an Army under his great Commanders, and then came in Perſon, and found they had obeyed his Orders, and inveſted the City.

Ver. 12. And Jehoiachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon, he and his mother, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his officers:] He made a Surrender of the City into the Hands of the King of Babylon; by the Counſel of Jeremiah perhaps, who adviſed the ſame to his Succeſſor more than once, Jerem. xxi. 9. xxvii. 17. xxxviii. 2. And happy was it for him that he obeyed, and gave up himſelf to the King of Babylon; for God declared by the Figure of good and bad Figs, that he had ſent them into the Land of the Chaldæans for their Good; whereas they that remained in the Land ſhould be removed into all the Kingdoms of the Earth, for their Hurt. See Jerem. xxiv. 5, 6, 7, 8, &c.

And the king of Babylon took him the eighth year of his reign.] That is, in the eighth Year of Nebuchadnezzar's Reign: For he began to reign in the fourth Year of Jehoiakim; who reigned ſeven more after that, which was the eighth Year of Nebuchadnezzar.

Ver. 13. And he carried out thence all the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and all the treaſures of the kings houſe,] There being no Mention of the carrying away of the Ark, either here, or in the Book of the Chronicles, or in Jeremiah, among the holy Things of the Temple, it is probable that it was burnt, together with the Temple, in the next Reign, when the remaining holy Things were carried away, but nothing ſaid of this. For what the Jews ſay of its being hidden by the Prophet Jeremiah in a certain Cave in Mount Nebo, is a meer Fable; there being no Ark in the ſecond Temple, as they confeſs, which there might have been, if it had been only hidden 'till the Temple was reſtored.

And cut in pieces all the veſſels of gold which Solomon the king of Iſrael had made in the temple of the LORD,] That is, all in a manner, but not abſolutely all; for ſome were remaining, or elſe renewed again (which is not likely) xxvi. 14, 15. And by cutting in pieces muſt be meant no more than their being cut off from the Temple; which was deprived of a principal Part of its Treaſure; for theſe Veſſels were preſerved entire, and not cut in Pieces, as appears from Dan. v. 2.

As the LORD had ſaid.] By the Prophet Iſaiah unto Hezekiah, xx. 17. As for the Pillars, and the Sea, and the Baſes, and the Reſidue of the Veſſels that were not now taken away, they were only reſerved till the next Reign; when Jeremiah propheſied they ſhould be carried away alſo, Jerem. xxvii. 19, 20, 21, 22.

Ver. 14. And he carried away all Jeruſalem,] He explains what he means by the following Words; which reſtrain it to the principal Perſons.

And all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thouſand captives,] Among whom was Ezekiel; who began his Prophecy from this Captivity, Ezek. i. 2, 3, and calls it our captivity, xl. 1. Mordecai of the Tribe of Benjamin was carried away at this Time, Eſther ii. 5, 6, 7, if we believe the Jews.

And all the crafts-men and ſmiths:] By Crafts-men ſome underſtand Carpenters; who were Artificers, as the Smiths were.

None remained, ſave the pooreſt people of the land.] Who were ſo numerous, that Zedekiah was tempted to rebel, and that againſt his Oath of Fidelity to the King of Babylon.

Ver. 15. And he carried Jehoiachim to Babylon, and the kings mother, and the kings wives, and the officers, and the mighty men of the land; thoſe carried he into captivity, from Jeruſalem to Babylon.] All that belonged to the Court, or that were of any Quality in the Country. See Jerem. xxiv. 1. xxix. 1, 2. Ezek. xvii. 12, 13.

Ver. 16. And all the men of might, even ſeven thouſand, and crafts-men, and ſmiths a thouſand; all that were ſtrong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.] This and the foregoing Verſes Abarbinel explains in this Manner. By the ten thouſand mentioned ver. 14. are meant in general the whole Number of Judah and Benjamin that were now carried Captive. Then here he comes to ſhew how this Number was made up (ver. 15, 16.) Jehoiachim, and all his Court and great Men were ſeven thouſand, the Crafts-men and Smiths a thouſand. The reſt were not mighty Men, nor ſuch Tradeſmen, but Miniſters and Servants of the Court, and other conſiderable Men in the Country who made up two thouſand more, and compleated the ten thouſand. Jeremiah computes them to have been but a little above three thouſand that were now carried away to Babylon: But he reckons only thoſe that were carried from Jeruſalem; whereas here is an Account of thoſe that were carried from other Cities, and out of the Tribe of Benjamin, which were ſeven thouſand. There was another Captivity before this in the laſt Year of King Nebupolazzar (Dan. i. 1, 2, 3.) but then only a few ſelect Perſons were carried away, to wait upon the King of Babylon; and therefore are not mentioned either by Jeremiah or by this divine Writer. But a very learned Friend of mine, in his late Chronology of the Old Teſtament, p. 49, thinks that the firſt Captivity was the greateſt of all; thoſe Words, xxiv. 3. This came upon Judah to remove them out of God's ſight, implying (in his Opinion) that not only ſome of the Seed Royal, with ſome others, but the Body of the People were led into Captivity. And therefore he dates the Seventy Years Captivity from that Time; viz. the Fourth Year of Jehoiachim, in the Beginning of the Reign of Nebuchadnezzar. See Jerem. xxv. 1, 11, 12.

Ver. 17. And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah his fathers brother king in his ſtead, and changed his name to Zedekiah.] Which ſignifies the Juſtice of God: And ſeems to have been given him, to put him in mind of the juſt Judgment of God, which would fall upon him, if he broke the Oath of Fidelity which he took to the King of Babylon, 2 Chron. xxxvi. 13. Ezek. xvii. 13, 14, 18.

Ver. 18. And Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem, &c.] In the End of which he was carried Captive, Jerem. i. 3.

Ver. 19. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.] Not regarding what Jeremiah ſaid unto him, but ſhut him up in Priſon, &c. Jerem. xxxiii. 1, 2. 2 Chron. xxxvi. 12. And his Servants, and the People of the Land, were as bad as himſelf, Jerem. xxxvii. 1, 2.

Ver. 20. For through the anger of the LORD it came to paſs in Judah and Jeruſalem, until he had caſt them out from his preſence, that Zedekiah rebelled againſt the king of Babylon.] God was ſo highly diſpleaſed with this wicked People, that he permitted Zedekiah to break his Faith with Nebuchadnezzar, and to rebel againſt him, forgetting for what Cauſe he changed his Name. Unto his Revolt, it is probable, he was perſwaded by the Embaſſadors which the Kings of Edom, Moab, Ammon, Tyre and Zidon ſent unto him, to ſolicite him to throw off the Yoke of the King of Babylon, Jerem. xxvii. 2, 3, 4, &c. Which was the greater Crime, becauſe he had made him ſwear by God he would be true to him, 2 Chron. xxxvi. 13. The King of Egypt alſo, it is likely, promiſed him Help, as I noted before, ver. 7. and ſee Ezek. xvii. 15. And Hananiah a falſe Prophet aſſured him God would in two Years Time break the Yoke of the King of Babylon, and bring back all the Veſſels of the Houſe of God, with Jehoiachin and all the Captives. See Jerem. xxviii. 1, 2, 3, 4, &c. Jeremiah indeed proved that he made them truſt in a Lie, by predicting his Death that very Year, which accordingly fell out, ver. 15, 16, 17. But they ſtill perſiſted in their vain Hopes, there being other Deceivers, that propheſied falſly in God's Name, Jerem. xxix. 8, 9. And they moſt of all deceived themſelves with proud Conceits that they were the true Seed of Abraham, who had a Right to that Land, Ezek. xxxiii. 24.

CHAP. XXV.

Verſe 1. AND it came to paſs, in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he, and all his hoſt, againſt Jeruſalem,] See Jerem. xxxix. 1. lii. 4.

And pitched againſt it,] Encamped themſelves before it.

And they built forts againſt it round about.] On which to place their Batteries, and keep any Relief from coming to them.

Ver. 2. And the city was beſieged to the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.] There was another Siege begun before this; viz. in the third Year of Zedekiah; but during this ſecond Siege, the King of Egypt came to help Zedekiah. Which made the Chaldæans raiſe the Siege for a Time, Jerem. xxxvii. 12. And then Jeremiah endeavoured to get out of the City, but was hindred; and bad them not flatter themſelves, for the Chaldæans ſhould return, and burn the City with Fire; as he had told Zedekiah before, xxxiv. 1, 2, &c.

Ver. 3. And on the ninth day of the fourth month the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land.] Who had fled thither out of the Country, to ſecure themſelves, and their Families. This Famine is deſcribed as very terrible, in the Book of the Lamentations of Jeremiah, iv. 10.

Ver. 4. And the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls, which is by the kings garden (now the Chaldæans were againſt the city round about) and the king went the way toward the plain.] It is an hard matter to underſtand how they made their Eſcape, ſince the Chaldæans had begirt the City round about; unleſs we ſuppoſe they kept ſtrong Guards only at the Gates of the City: But the Chaldæans having made a Breach in the Wall, they got away privately between the Wall and the Out-works, in a Paſſage which the Chaldæans did not ſuſpect. And the King ran into the Champain Country with ſome of his Forces attending him. The Jews think there were Subterranean Conduits from the Royal Garden into the Plain, through which Zedekiah went out; but this is without any Ground.

Ver. 5. And the army of the Chaldæans purſued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army was ſcattered from him.] Every Man ſhifting away, and endeavouring to ſave himſelf in ſuch Places as he could flee unto.

Ver. 6. So they took the king, and brought him to the king of Babylon, to Riblah,] Where he lay, to attend the Succeſs of the Siege, and to ſend them Supplies, and intercept any Relief that might come to them.

And they gave judgment upon him.] A great Council, I ſuppoſe, was called; who paſſed a ſolemn ſolemn Sentence upon him, in condemning him as a rebellious Subject. Thus was fulfilled the Prophecy of Jeremiah, that he ſhould ſee the King of Babylon, and ſpeak with him, Jerem. xxxii. 4. xxxiv. 3.

Ver. 7. And they ſlew the ſons of Zedekiah before his eyes,] See Jerem. lii. 11.

And put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of braſs, and carried him to Babylon.] Thus two famous Prophecies were fulfilled, which ſeemed to contradict one the other (whereby Zedekiah perhaps was tempted not to believe them) one of Jeremiah, that he ſhould be carried to Babylon (xxxii. 5. xxxiv. 3.) and the other of Ezekiel, that he ſhould not ſee Babylon, xii. 13. The Event made good both; for he was carried thither blind.

Ver. 8. And in the fifth month, on the ſeventh day of the month (which is the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon) came Nebuzaradan captain of the guard, a ſervant of the king of Babylon, unto Jeruſalem :] It is ſaid in Jeremiah lii. 12. that he came on the tenth Day of this Month: That is, he came from Riblah upon the ſeventh, and arrived at Jeruſalem on the tenth: Or, if he came to Jeruſalem on the ſeventh, he did not burn the Temple 'till the tenth; but ſpent the Eighth and Ninth days, as the Jews ſay, in eating, drinking, and making merry. Nebuchadnezzar did not come himſelf to Jeruſalem, but he ſent this great Man to execute his Commands; who, the Jews ſay, became a Proſelyte.

Ver. 9. And he burnt the houſe of the LORD,] After it had ſtood four hundred Years, as Sir John Marſham computes it. But Primate Uſher makes Account it was burnt four hundred twenty-four Years, three Months and eight Days, after it began firſt to be built by Solomon. But neither of theſe Accounts are true, if we believe all the learned Jews (Kimchi, Ralbag, Abarbinel, &c.) who agree that it ſtood four hundred and thirty Years. Joſephus ſtands amazed at this that the ſecond Temple was burnt by the Romans, in this very Month, and the ſame Day of the Month, Lib. 6. De Bello Judaico, Cap. 27. And ſo we read in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 30, that the Levites were in their Desks ſinging the very ſame Song in both Deſtructions, which was this, He ſhall bring upon them their own iniquity, and ſhall cut them off in their own wickedneſs : yea, the LORD our God ſhall cut them off. Pſal. xciv. 28.

And the kings houſe, and all the houſes of Jeruſalem, and every great man's houſe burnt he with fire.] By Col beth gadol, which ſignifies every great Houſe, the Talmudiſts underſtand all the Synagogues. But Kimchi, Ralbag, and Abarbinel interpret the Words as we do. And ſo the Targum; yea, Jarchi himſelf, who is the moſt tenacious of the Talmudical Interpretations, after he had ſaid, The houſe of the Synagogues, where the Law and Prayers were read, adds theſe Words, and the Palaces of the Princes; not daring (as Vitinga obſerves) to vouch the former for a litteral Interpretation, Lib. de Synag. P. 2. Cap. 11.

Ver. 10. And all the army of the Chaldæans that were with the captain of the guard, brake down the walls of Jeruſalem round about.] That they who were left there might not be able to make any Reſiſtance hereafter; and that it might no longer be looked upon as a City, but as an open Village.

Ver. 11. Now the reſt of the people that were left in the city, and the fugitives that fell away to the king of Babylon, with the remnant of the multitude,] That is, all that eſcaped the Sword and the Famine; and all that fled to the King of Babylon, and put themſelves under his Protection.

Did Nebuzaradan captain of the guard carry away.] Who were in all eight hundred thirty and two Perſons; as we read in Jerem. lii. 29. Where he ſaith in the eighteenth Year of Nebuchadnezzar (that is, in the End of it, and the Beginning of his nineteenth Year) he carried away this Number.

Ver. 12. But the captain of the guard left of the poor of the land, to be vinedreſſers, and huſbandmen.] What ſhould move the Talmudiſts by the Hebrew Word Ceremim to underſtand Gatherers of Balſam; and by Jogebim, Fiſhers for Purple, is hard to underſtand (though Bochartus hath attempted ſome Account of it) when Jeremiah tells us expreſsly that he gave theſe poor People Vineyards and Fields; which ſhews what they were, Jerem. xxxix. 10.

Ver. 13. And the pillars of braſs that were in the houſe of the LORD, and the baſes, and the brazen ſea that was in the houſe of the LORD, did the Chaldæans break in pieces, and carried the braſs of them to Babylon.] They were too cumberſome to be carried away whole, therefore he brake them in Pieces, and ſo tranſported the Braſs of which they were made.

Ver. 14. And the pots, and the ſhovels, and the ſnuffers, and the ſpoons, and all the veſſels of braſs wherewith they miniſtred, took they away.]

Ver. 15. And the fire-pans, and the bowls, and ſuch things as were of the gold, and of ſilver, in ſilver, the captain of the guard took away.] He did not alter theſe, but carried them away as he found them; that he might give a punctual Account of them to his Maſter. And the ſingular Providence of God herein appeared, that theſe Veſſels were not embezzelled, nor employed to any common Uſe, but put into the Houſe of the King of Babylon's God, viz Belus, where they were preſerved to be reſtored, in God's appointed Time, by Cyrus. So we read they were, Ezra i. 7, 8, &c.

Ver. 16. And the two pillars, one ſea, and the baſes which Solomon had made for the houſe of the LORD, the braſs of all theſe veſſels were without weight.] So we read they were, when they were firſt made, 1 Kings vii. 47.

Ver. 17. And the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and the chapiter upon it was braſs: and the height of the chapiter three cubits : and wreathen work, and pomegranates upon the chapiter round about, all of braſs; and like unto theſe had the ſecond pillar with wreathen work.] Theſe two Pillars are more fully deſcribed in 1 Kings vii. 15, &c. and in Jerem. lii. 21, &c.

Ver. 18. And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief prieſt, and Zephaniah the ſecond prieſt,] Whom the Jews call the Sagan; who was the Deputy of the High Prieſt, in Caſe of Sickneſs, or any Incapacity to officiate.

And the three keepers of the door.] Of the Veſſels of the Temple, ſaith Kimchi; or of the Treaſury.

Ver. 19. And out of the city he took an officer that was ſet over the men of war, and five men of them that were in the kings preſence,] Who conſtantly attended the King's Perſon whereſoever he was.

Which were in the city,] Where at firſt they found but five of them; but afterwards ſeven, Jerem. lii. 26.

And the principal ſcribe of the hoſt, which muſtered the people of the land,] The Muſter-Maſter-General, as we ſpeak, or ſome ſuch great Officer.

And threeſcore people of the land, that were found in the city.] Theſe were ſome eminent Perſons who had concealed themſelves in ſome private Place; but before Nebuzaradan left Jeruſalem, were diſcovered. And the Jews will have it that they were the Men of the Great Sanhedrim; whoſe whole Number of ſeventy-one Perſons, they make a ſhift to find here, viz. the three Keepers of the Door, and the ſeven near Attendants upon the King, and the Scribe; which with theſe threeſcore, make ſeventy-one. See Selden, Lib. 2. De Synedriis, Cap. xvi. p. 671.

Ver. 20. And Nebuzaradan captain of the guard took them, and brought them to the king of Babylon, at Riblah.] That he might diſpoſe of them as he thought fit; they being not vulgar Perſons, like thoſe whom he had ordered to be carried Captive, or left in the Land.

Ver. 21. And the king of Babylon ſmote them, and ſlew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath.] Paſſed the ſentence of Death upon them; which was forthwith executed; becauſe he looked upon them, it is likely, as the King's principal Counſellors, who adviſed him to rebel againſt him. And the Judgment of God, Strigelius here obſerves, was remarkable upon impious Prieſts; whom he ſuffered not to live, becauſe they had been great Inſtruments in promoting Idolatry.

So Judah was carried away out of their land.] Four hundred ſixty and eight Years after the Beginning of the Reign of David; three hundred eighty and eight Years ſince the Diviſion of the Ten Tribes from Judah and Benjamin: and an hundred thirty-four Years ſince the Deſtruction of the Ten Tribes; as our Primate of Ireland makes Account.

Ver. 22. And for the people that remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left,] Ver. 12.

Even over them he made Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, the ſon of Shaphan, ruler.] His Father Ahikam was a great Friend of Jeremiah, Jerem. xxvi. 14. and therefore Gedaliah may be preſumed to have been ſo likewiſe; and by his Advice, it is likely, was one of thoſe that went out to the King of Babylon, ver. 11.

Ver. 23. And when the captains of the armies, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah governour,] That is, ſuch as fled away with Zedekiah, ver. 5. and thoſe that fled perhaps before the Siege to the Moabites, and Ammonites, and Edomites, and other neighbouring Countries. See Jerem. xl. 7, 11, 12.

There came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and Seraiah the ſon of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the ſon of a Maachathite, they, and their men.] He reckons up the principal Perſons that came in to him, with thoſe under their Command. Jeremiah alſo himſelf put himſelf under his Protection, Jerem. xlvi. 5, 6.

Ver. 24. And Gedaliah ſware unto them, and to their men, and ſaid unto them, Fear not to be the ſervants of the Chaldæans: dwell in the land, and ſerve the king of Babylon, and it ſhall be well with you.] He was ſo well aſſured of the King of Babylon's Favour to him, that he ſecured them by an Oath, they ſhould be ſafe under his Government; provided they would ſerve the King of Babylon, which it was their Intereſt to do.

Ver. 25. And it came to paſs in the ſeventh month,] After he had been Governour about two Months, ver. 8, &c.

That Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Eliſhamah of the ſeed royal,] His Pride (being of the Seed Royal) tempted him to conſpire againſt Gedaliah; though he had no Power to maintain any Authority in the Country; but was forced preſently to flee away. Nor was the King of Moab, who inſtigated him to this Villany, (Jerem. xl. 14.) able to ſupport him.

Came, and ten men with him,] Theſe Ten Men were Commanders no doubt of ſome Forces under them; for ſo few were not ſufficient to make a Slaughter of Gedaliah, and all the Jews and Chaldæans that were with him. See Jerem. xli. 1, 2, 3.

And he ſmote Gedaliah, that he died, and the Jews and the Chaldees that were with him at Mizpah.] This Story is told more largely in the xl and xli of Jeremiah; where we read that Gedaliah was admoniſhed of this intended Conſpiracy againſt him; but, like other Good Men who are commonly void of Suſpicion, becauſe they have no Deſign to hurt others, he did not believe what was told him.

Ver. 26. And all the people ſmall and great, and the captains of the armies aroſe, aroſe came to Egypt: for they were afraid of the Chaldees.] Contrary to the Perſwaſion of Jeremiah (by whom they pretended they would be adviſed) who aſſured them that they ſhould be ſafe if they would ſtay in the Land of Judah, but ſhould periſh if they went into Egypt. See Jerem. xlii. 9, 10, &c. Thus this populous and fertile Country was laid waſte and deſolate, Part of the People being carried Captive to Babylon, Part of thoſe that were left in the Land being ſlain with Gedaliah, the Remainder flying into Egypt. So that it was left to be over-run with Briars and Thorns, and to be inhabited by wild Beaſts. Only ſome of the neighbouring Nations ſeem to have ſettled themſelves in ſome Parts of it. See Jerem. xii. 14. Ezek. xxxvi. 4, 5.

Ver. 27. And it came to paſs in the thirty-ſeventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the ſeven and twentieth twentieth day of the month,] It was reſolved on the twenty-fifth Day of the Month, and executed two Days after. So this Place is eaſily reconciled with Jerem. lii. 35.

In the year he began to reign, did Evil-merodach lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of priſon.] Raiſed him from his dejected Condition; for in Affliction Men hang down their Heads. By this it appears that Nebuchadnezzar reigned five and forty Years; for Jeconiah was carried Captive in the eighth Year of his Reign, xxiv. 12. and now had been Priſoner thirty-ſeven Years, when Nebuchadnezzar was newly dead. Which two Sums put together make forty-five. This is the Account of the Jews; but, according to the Canon of Ptolemy, he reigned but three and forty Years: And therefore Primate Uſher makes him to have reigned two Years with his Father.

Ver. 28. And he ſpake kindly unto him, and ſet his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babylon.] He had the Kings of ſeveral Countries with him in Babylon, whom his Father had taken Captive, and made Priſoners: Unto whom he not only left the Name and Titles of Kings, but now gave them ſome Liberty, and beſtowed a Royal Seat upon them. But he preferred Jehoiachin above them all; either becauſe of the great Fame of his Royal Anceſtors David and Solomon, from whom he was deſcended; or (as the Jews ſay) becauſe he had made a Friendſhip in Priſon with Evil-merodach, who was thrown into it by his Father Nebuchadnezzar for his Male Adminiſtration of the Government, during the ſeven Years that he was moped.

Ver. 29. And changed his priſon-garments:] Beſtowed on him Royal Apparel; that he might be fit to keep him Company.

And he did eat bread continually before him all the days of his life.] Was frequently invited to his own Table, as Cræſus was to that of Cyrus. Victorinus Strigelius thinks it not unlikely that he had learned the Doctrine of the true God from the Prophet Daniel, as Nebuchadnezzar his Father had done; who in a publick Edict profeſſed as much. And upon this Account he ſhewed ſuch great Kindneſs to Jechoniah. For which Cauſe he got the Name of Evil-merodach among impious Princes; that is, Fooliſh Merodach.

Ver. 30. And his allowance was a conſtant allowance given him of the king, a daily rate for every day, all the days of his life.] The Meaning may be, that when he did not eat with the King, he lived upon a Penſion that was duly paid him every Day for Meat, Drink, Cloathing, Lodging, and other Expences. Or if the Word continually (in the foregoing Verſe) be underſtood literally, that he always eat with the King; then this Allowance was made for his Family and Attendants; as in the Caſe of Mephiboſheth, 2 Sam. ix. 10. Jeremiah in the Concluſion of his Book gives the ſame Account of the King's extraordinary Kindneſs to him; which continued, he ſaith, to the Day of his Death.

A COMMENTARY UPON THE FIRST BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

PREFACE.

IT is the common Opinion of the Jews that theſe Books were written by Ezra: Which is the more probable, becauſe the Book of Ezra begins with the ſame Words (without the leaſt Variation) wherewith theſe Books end: Which argues one and the ſame Perſon to have written both; who, to connect his Hiſtory together, makes uſe of his own Words, as Grotius obſerves other ancient Authors have done. Howſoever, it appears from hence, that theſe Books were written after the Captivity, ſince they mention their Reſtauration by Cyrus: And it is alſo evident from 2 Chron. xxxv. 25. that they were written after the Time of the Prophet Jeremiah.

Huetius, in his learned Work, Demonſtratio Evangelica, thus far agrees with this Opinion of the Jews, that he thinks Ezra digeſted theſe Books; and added to them the firſt ſix Chapters of the Book which bears his Name, which afterwards he continued: But Nehemiah, he thinks, had ſome Hand in this Work: Which was gathered not only out of the publick Journals, but of the Writings of the Prophets, Shimeah, Iddo, Jehu, Nathan, Abijah, Iſaiah, and others; and it is likely out of ſome Genealogies, (R. Solomon ſaith, upon the ſeventh Chapter, that after their Return he found three) and out of the other Books of holy Scripture before publiſhed, as Kimchi adds: And thus Procopius Gazæus, Hæc ex multis prophetarum ſcriptis collegit; he gathered theſe out of many Writings of the Prophets.

That which confirms this Opinion, is what we read in the ſecond Book, ch. v. 9. where it is ſaid of the Ark, and its Staves, which Solomon brought into the Temple, there they are to this day. Which Words are ſo far (as Huetius obſerves) from proving that theſe Books were written before the Captivity (after which the Ark was no more heard of) that Ezra took this Paſſage, and that in 1 Kings viii. 8. where are almoſt the ſame Words, out of ſome other ancient Book, and ſet them down Word for Word, as he found them there. For having wrote the Books of the Kings in the Time of the Captivity, he found at their Return more ancient Regiſters, containing larger Accounts of ſeveral Tranſactions; which he thought good to add to what he had before written, to make the Hiſtory more compleat: Which Dr Alix (in his Reflections upon the books of the Old Teſtament, Vol. 2. Chap. 1.) thinks was done about ſix and twenty Years after the writing of the Books of the Kings, in the eighteenth Year after the Captivity was ended.

This ſeems to be implied in the Hebrew Title of theſe Books, which is, Dibre hajamim, ſignifying they contain ſuch things as were contained in the Diaries or Day-Books, wherein the Paſſages of thoſe Times were recorded, if any thing memorable happened every Day. The Word Jamim alſo ſignifying Years, theſe Books may be called Annals: Which the Greeks call Παραλειπόμενα: As much as to ſay, thoſe things are here ſupplied, which were omitted in other Books of holy Scripture, eſpecially in the Books of the Kings; as other things are here amplified and enlarged: Others explained and made more clear. For Inſtance, in the Concluſion of this firſt Book, he gives an Account of the things which David did in his old Age: In ordering the Courſes of the Prieſts, and of the Levites, the Singers, and Muſicians; and in making vaſt Preparations for the Building of the Temple by his Son; none of which had been mentioned in the foregoing Books. Thus Xenophon (Strigelius obſerves) wrote Paralipomena of the Peloponneſian War; which had been written before by Thucydides.

He begins theſe Books with a Genealogy from the Beginning of the World to his own Time; which had not been done in any Book of Scripture before: But was neceſſary to be done now, that a Diſtinction between their Tribes and Families being preſerved (which was in Danger to be loſt by their Diſperſion in the Captivity) it might clearly appear, the Meſſiah ſprung out of that Tribe and Family, from which he was to deſcend, according to the ancient Prophecies. For, as Procopius Gazæus obſerves, from theſe Books it is that we learn among other things, that Nathan, from whom St Luke derives the Genealogy of our Saviour, was the Brother of Solomon by David and Bathſheba.

To conclude this Preface, it may be noted, that no Book in the World ſhews the original Propagation of Mankind, but only the holy Scriptures. They who where ignorant of them having nothing of true Antiquity, deviſed ſenſleſs Fables of their Deſcent, they knew not how, nor from whom. The Arcadians fancied that they were before the Moon: The People of Theſſaly, that they ſprung from Stones. The Athenians took themſelves to be αὐτόχθονες, who ſprung up out of the Ground; and affirmed, they were more ancient than Japetus; who in Truth was the Father of the Greeks; Javan, from whom came the *Ione*s, being the Son of Japhet, as theſe holy Books ſhew.

See upon 2 Chron. xxix. 21. a little additional Proof that theſe Books were written by Ezra.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. Adam, Seth, Enos,] He mentions only their Names briefly: But the Meaning is, that Adam begat Seth, and Seth begat Enos: And ſo the reſt are to be underſtood. Adam indeed had two Sons before he begat Seth: But one of them was murdered without Iſſue, and the other was accurſed; ſo that all who deſcended from him periſhed in the Flood: Therefore, theſe only that came from Seth are remembred.

This may ſeem to be ſufficiently recorded, as much of that which follows is, in the Book of Geneſis: So that there was no need, ſome may imagine, to repeat it here: But there being a Genealogy to be drawn of the ſeveral Families of the Jews, it was fit to begin it with an Account of the Honour they had to be the ſelect People of God, whoſe Original and Deſcent was manifeſt and plain from the very firſt Man, who was the Son of God. This was the peculiar Glory of the Jewiſh Nation, that they alone were able to derive their Pedigree from the firſt Man that God created; of which no other Nation could boaſt, or make a Shadow of Pretence. Beſides, by the Recital of this, the divine Writer of this Book deſigned to keep up the Belief, that the World was not eternal, but had a Beginning, as is recorded in the Book of Geneſis.

Ver. 2. Kenan,] We tranſlate it Cainan, Gen. v. 9.

Mahaleel, Jared,] See Gen. v. 12, 15.

Ver. 3. Henoch, Methuſhelah, Lamech,] See concerning theſe, Gen. v. 18, 21, 25.

Ver. 4. Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japhet.] Theſe were the three Sons of Noah: Among whom Japhet was the eldeſt (Gen. x. 21.) and therefore his Genealogy is firſt mentioned. But Shem being the Perſon in whoſe Poſterity true Religion was preſerved, and from whom the promiſed Seed was to come, is firſt named both here and in Gen. v. 31. x. 1.

Ver. 5. The ſons of Japhet, Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meſchech, and Tiras.] Thus they were reckoned up in the ſame Order, Gen. x. 2. where ſee concerning them.

Ver. 6. The ſons of Gomer; Aſhkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.] The ſame Account we have in Gen. x. 3.

Ver. 7. And the ſons of Javan; Eliſhah, and Tarſhiſh, Kittim, and Dodanim.] The ſame we read, Gen. x. 4. And neither there nor here is any mention of the reſt of Japhet's Poſterity, but only of Gomer and Javan. See Gen. x. 5. in the latter End of my Annotations on that Verſe.

Ver. 8. The ſons of Ham; Cuſh, and Mizraim, Put, and Canaan.] In this Place, and in this Order, they are mentioned in Gen. x. 6. And the Reaſon, I ſuppoſe, why his Genealogy is mentioned before Shem's, is, becauſe from Shem the Genealogy of Abraham and the Jewiſh Nation was to be derived: Which it was thought fit to ſet down without any Interruption.

Ver. 9.

Ver. 9. And the ſons of Cuſh; Sheba, and Havilah, and Sabta, and Rahama, and Sabteca: and the ſons of Raamah; Sheba, and Dedan.] See Gen. x. 7. where an Account is given of the Sons of Cuſh, and of his two Grandſons by one of them.

Ver. 10. And Cuſh begat Nimrod:] He mentions him alone by himſelf, becauſe he was the moſt eminent among all his Sons. See upon Gen. x. 8. where I have given an Account of the next Words.

He began to be mighty upon earth.] That is, was the firſt that raiſed a great Kingdom.

Ver. 11. And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim,] The very ſame Account we have in Gen. x. 13. where I have ſhewn in what Parts of the World their Poſterity ſettled.

Ver. 12. And Pathruſim, and Caſluhim.] See Gen. x. 14.

(Of whom came the Philiſtines)] Who were a Colony from the Caſluhim.

And Caphtorim.] See Gen. x. 14.

Ver. 13. And Canaan begat Zidon his firſt-born, and Heth,] See Gen. x. 15.

Ver. 14. The Jebuſite alſo, and the Amorite, and the Girgaſhite,

Ver. 15. The Hivite, and the Archite, and the Sinite,

Ver. 16. And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite.] In this very Order they are ſet down by Moſes, in Gen. x. 16, 17, 18. See what I have noted there.

Ver. 17. The ſons of Shem; Elam, and Aſhur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram,] Thus they are ſet down in Gen. x. 22. and Arphaxad is mentioned after Elam and Aſhur; juſt as Aaron is after Moſes in Exod. vi. 27. though he was the elder Brother. For, as the Jews often note, The Scripture doth not ſtrictly obſerve the Order of Time.

And Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Meſhech.] Theſe were not the Sons of Shem, but his Grandſons by Aram his youngeſt Son: As appears from Gen. x. 22. But nothing is more uſual in Scripture, than to call Grandſons by the Name of Sons. As Laban is called the Son of Nahor (Gen. xxix. 5.) being his Grandchild by Bethel. And Mephiboſheth is called the Son of Saul, 2 Sam. xix. 24. becauſe he was deſcended from him by his Son Jonathan. Meſhech had two Names; for he is called Mas, Gen. x. 23. and poſſeſſed the Mountain Maſius in Meſopotamia; as Bochart thinks in his Phaleg. L. ii. cap. 11. Though Mas may very well be thought not to be another Name, but only by the Contraction of Meſhech: Who ſome think was the Father of the Cappadocians.

Ver. 18. And Arphaxad begat Shelah, and Shelah begat Eber.] He follows Moſes exactly; who gives no Account of the Poſterity of the two Sons of Shem firſt mentioned, but only of the third Arphaxad: That he might the ſooner come to him from whom the Iſraelites deſcended. Here the LXX interpoſe Cainan between Arphaxad and Shelah: But it is not in the Greek Muſcovite Tranſlation; as is obſerved by Primate Uſher, in his Letters CCXCVI. And ſee Bochart in his Phaleg, L. 2. c. 13.

Ver. 19. And unto Eber were born two ſons:] See Gen. x. 25.

The name of the one was Peleg (becauſe in his days the earth was divided)] That is, the Inhabitants of the Earth were divided, and diſperſed; according to the Diviſion of their Languages. See my Annotations there.

And his brothers name was Joktan.] Who had a more numerous Iſſue than any hitherto mentioned.

Ver. 20. And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah,] See concerning theſe, Gen. x. 26.

Ver. 21. Hadoram alſo, and Uzal, and Diklah,] See Gen. x. 27.

Ver. 22. And Ebal, and Abimael, and Sheba,] See Gen. x. 28. where the firſt of theſe is called Obal: From whence ſome have argued, that the Name in this Place is corrupted. As if in Proceſs of Time, there might not be a Variation in the Vowel: Moſes pronouncing the Name as they ſpake it in his Time, and this Author as they ſpake in his.

Ver. 23. And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: All theſe were the ſons of Joktan.] Who were thirteen in all: And all but one ſettled their Habitation in Arabia. See Gen. x. 29.

Ver. 24. Shem, Arphaxad, Shelah,] Theſe are repeated from ver. 17 and 18, to ſhew how Abraham was deſcended from Shem: Who was the moſt eminent of all Noah's Sons; whom he ſolemnly bleſſed: The Meſſiah being to ſpring from him (Gen. ix. 26.) For from Adam the Promiſe of the Meſſiah was tranſlated to Seth; and from Seth to Shem; from Shem to Eber; from whom the Hebrew Nation, ſome think, derived their Name; and had this precious Promiſe committed to their Truſt, above all other Nations in the World.

Ver. 25. Eber, Peleg, Reu,

Ver. 26. Serug, Nahor, and Terah,] This Genealogy from Eber, is recorded by Moſes, in Gen. xi. 16, 17, 18, &c.

Ver. 27. Abram, the ſame is Abraham.] God changed his Name from Abram to Abraham, when he eſtabliſhed his Covenant with him (Gen. xvii. 5, &c.) and made him the Father of many Nations.

Ver. 28. The ſons of Abraham; Iſaac, and Iſhmael.] Iſaac is firſt mentioned, being the Son of a Free-Woman, and the Heir of the Promiſe: Though Iſhmael was elder than he, but born of a bond-Woman,

Ver. 29. Theſe are their generations: The firſt born of Iſhmael, Nebaioth;] To ſhew how God made Abraham the Father of many Nations, he reckons up twelve great Perſons deſcended from his Son Iſhmael; the firſt of which was Nebaioth: Concerning whom, and the reſt that follow, ſee Gen. xxv. 13, 14, &c.

Then Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibſam,] I ſhall only obſerve here, that as from Nebaioth came the People called Nabatæi; ſo from Kedar came the Cedreni, whom Geographers call Cedrei, and Cedranitæ, as Bochart obſerves.

Ver. 30. Miſhma, and Dumah, Maſſah, Hadad, and Tema,

Ver. 31. Jetur, Naphiſh, and Kedemah.] Theſe are the Sons of Iſhmael. In what Country they dwelt, ſee Gen. xxv. 18.

Ver. 32. Now the ſons of Keturah, Abrahams concubine:] After the Death of Sarah, Abraham married Keturah: And having many Children by her, this holy Writer names them, to ſhew how faithfully God made good the Name he gave him, by making Abraham the Father of many more Nations.

She bare Zimran, and Jokſhan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iſhbak, and Shuah.] See Gen. xxv. 2.

The ſons of Jokſhan; Sheba, and Dedan.] There were four Sheba's, as I there obſerved; and one more of the Name of Dedan: And this Man's Sons are there mentioned, though here omitted.

Ver. 33. And the ſons of Midian; Ephah, and Epher, and Henoch, and Abida, and Eldaah.] See Gen. xxv. 4. The firſt of theſe, as Bochart thinks, was the ſame with the Greek Hippos, a Mountain and a Village of which Name Ptolemy deſcribes on the ſame Shore, a little below Madian, which he calls Modiana. In his Hieroz. P. i. L. ii. cap. 3.

All theſe are the ſons of Keturah.] Her Sons, or Grandſons.

Ver. 34. And Abraham begat Iſaac. The Sons of Iſaac; Eſau and Iſrael.

Ver. 35. The ſons of Eſau; Eliphaz, Reuel, and Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah.] Theſe were by ſeveral Wives, as we read Gen. xxxvi. 10, 14.

Ver. 36. The ſons of Eliphaz; Teman, and Omar, Zephi, and Gatam, Kenaz, Timna, and Amalek.] It is plain from Gen. xxxvi. 12. that Timna was not one of his Sons, but his Concubine; by whom he begat Amalek. This therefore is a ſhort Form of Speech, as much as if he had ſaid, Of Timna Amalek. Who was not equal to the reſt of his Sons, and therefore he mentions his Mother's Name. Kimchi hath expreſſed this ſo well, that it may be for the Reader's Uſe to tranſcribe ſome of his Words: Which may ſerve for a Rule in ſuch like Caſes. In my Judgment, ſaith he, the Scripture uſes here a conciſe and compendious way of ſpeaking: For there was no need that Ezra ſhould recount all theſe things exactly and accurately, which had been done before in the Law (he means in the Book of Geneſis) therefore he deſcribes theſe Genealogies briefly. Thus he doth in the ſeventeenth Verſe of this Chapter, mentioning Uz and Hull after Aram: Who were not his Sons but his Grandſons. R. Solomon hath the ſame Obſervation. See Buxtorf's Anticritica, P. 2. cap. 2.

Ver. 37. The ſons of Reuel; Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah.] Who are called Dukes, as the Sons of Eliphaz alſo are (ſee Gen. xxxvi. 15, 17.) that is, Rulers, or Governors of the Country, but not with Kingly Authority.

Ver. 38. The ſons of Seir; Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, and Diſhon, and Ezer, and Diſhan.] This Seir was not Eſau, nor of his Poſterity, but the ancient Lord of this Country, from whom it had its Name, (See Gen. xxxvi. 20.) whoſe Genealogy is here ſet down, that it may be underſtood from whom Timna and Amalek ſprung.

Ver. 39. And the ſons of Lotan; Hori, and Homam: and Timna was Lotan's Siſter.] This Woman was Eliphaz his Concubine, and bare him Amalek (ver. 36.) who by his Mother's Side was Seir's Grandſon.

Ver. 40. And of the ſons of Shobal; Alian (or Abian) and Manahath, and Ebal, Shephi, and Onam.] See Gen. xxxvi. 23.

And the ſons of Zibeon; Aiah, and Anah.] The latter of which was a Perſon of great Note. See Gen. xxxvi. 24.

Ver. 41. The ſons of Anah; Diſhon. And the ſons of Diſhon; Amram, and Eſhban, and Ithran, and Cheran.] The Firſt-born of theſe was otherwiſe called Hemdan, Gen. xxxvi. 26. which was the Name, it is poſſible, whereby he was known among Eſau's Poſterity: Though anciently his Name was Amram.

Ver. 42. The ſons of Ezer; Bilhan, and Zavan, and Jakan. The ſons of Diſhan; Uz, and Aaron.] Among all theſe Perſons deſcended from Seir, ſeven of them were Dukes: Who reigned perhaps at the ſame Time in ſeveral Parts of the Country, Gen. xxxvi. 29, 30. By which it appears, that this was the ancient Form of Government before Eſau conquered this Country: Which his Poſterity at the firſt followed; but afterward was changed into Kingly, as it here follows.

Ver. 43. Now theſe are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom, before any king reigned over the children of Iſrael;] See this explained in Gen. xxxvi. 31.

Bela the ſon of Beor:] This Beor was not Balaam's Father, for he was a Meſopotamian, not an Edomite; but one of the ſame Name, as Aben Ezra well obſerves.

And the name of his city was Dinhabah.] Of which he was Governor, perhaps, before he was made King: And therefore therein he reigned, and made it the Seat of his Kingdom.

Ver. 44. And when Bela was dead, Jobab the ſon of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his ſtead.] See concerning this Succeſſion, Gen. xxxvi. 33. Bozrah was a City in Edom, as three Prophets plainly deſcribe it, Iſa. xxxiv. 6. Jer. xlix. 13. Amos i. 12. And one of theſe repreſents it alſo as a City of Moab: Becauſe, as ſome think, it was in the Confines of both Countries: Or, rather, in the Opinion of Bochartus, there were two Bozrah's; the one in Idumæa, the other in Moab.

Ver. 45. And when Jobab was dead, Huſham of the land of the Temanites, reigned in his ſtead.] We know nothing of Huſham, but he ſeems not to have been the Son of Jobab; but one of another Family, in another Part of the Country. Some take this Jobab to have been Job: Which Opinion is exploded by Aben Ezra.

Ver. 46. And when Huſham was dead, Hadad the ſon of Bedad (which ſmote Midian in the Field of Moab) reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Avith.] See Gen. xxxvi. 35. where R. Solomon ſaith, the Midianites making War againſt the Moabites, this King of Edom came to help the Moabites.

Ver. 47. And when Hadad was dead, Samlah of Maſrekah reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 48. And when Samlah was dead, Shaul of Rehoboth by the river, reigned in his ſtead.] See Gen. xxxvi. 37.

Ver. 49. And when Shaul was dead, Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 50. And when Baal-hanan was dead, Hadad (or Hadar) reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Pai (or Pau) and his wifes name Mehetabel,] See Gen. xxxvi. 39.

The daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab.] Some of the Jews fancy this Mezahab to have been a very ingenious Woman, being the firſt that found out the Art of drawing Gold out into Wires or Threads: For Zahab ſignifies Gold in Hebrew. But the LXX take this for the Name of a Man, and tranſlate it ὑὸς Μαιζοώς.

Ver. 51. Hadad died alſo. And the dukes of Edom were duke Timna, duke Alia, duke Jetheth,

Ver. 52. Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon,

Ver. 53. Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar,

Ver. 54. Duke Magdiel, duke Iram: Theſe are the dukes of Edom.] After the Death of Hadad, the Form of Government was altered again: For there were no more Kings for a long Time; but they returned to the firſt Conſtitution, which they found, when they conquered the Country; which was governed by Dukes. See Gen. xxxvi. 40. And thus it was in Iſrael after they came into the Land of Canaan. They were firſt governed by Judges who had not kingly Power. After which from the Time of Saul they were governed by Kings till their Captivity. At their Return they had no more Kings, but only ſuch Governors as Zerobabel was. Some have imagined that Eſau was the firſt King of this Country: But in all Likelihood, if he was, he would have left his Son Eliphaz in the ſame Authority; who was but a Duke, Gen. xxxvi. 15, 16. Therefore Eſau contented himſelf with that Form of Government which he found among the Horites: Which continued till Bela made himſelf King; ver. 43. The Difference between their Kings and Dukes was (as Eſthius obſerves) that the former ruled abſolutely, according to their Pleaſure: The Power of the other was limited and bounded by certain preſcribed Laws.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. THeſe are the ſons of Iſrael; Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Iſſachar, and Zebulun.

Ver. 2. Dan, Joſeph, and Benjamin, Napthali, Gad, and Aſher.] He reckons up his firſt four Sons in the Order wherein they were born (Gen. xxix. 32, &c.) and next to them their two Brethren by the ſame Mother Leah, Gen. xxx. 18, 20. Afterward, I can give no Reaſon why Dan and Napthali (the two Sons of Bilhah) are not mentioned together, and Joſeph and Benjamin the two Sons of Rachel, and Gad and Aſher the two Sons of Zilpah.

Ver. 3. The ſons of Judah; Er, and Onan, and Shelah:] There is a plain Reaſon why the Genealogy of Judah is ſet down in the firſt Place; becauſe this Tribe had obtained a Superiority and Preheminence among the reſt, before the Time of David; ever ſince the Prophecy of Jacob in the Bleſſing he pronounced upon him, Gen. xlix. 10. For Judah, when they came into the Wilderneſs, was ordered to march firſt, Numb. ii. 3. and accordingly we find they did, when they removed from Mount Sinai, Numb. x. 14. And when the Princes of the Tribes offered at the Dedication of the Altar, the Prince of the Tribe of Judah offered on the firſt Day, Numb. vii. 12. When they came into Canaan, they obtained of Joſhua a Portion for Caleb without caſting of any Lot, as there was in the dividing of the Land, Joſh. xiv. 6. And when Joſhua was dead, they were appointed by God to go up firſt againſt the Canaanites, to take from them what remained unconquered, Judg. i. 2. From David's Time every one knows, till the Captivity of Babylon, a kingly Power continued in this Tribe: And Zerobabel was of the ſame, who was their Leader when they returned to their own Land.

Which were born unto him of the daughter of Shuah the Canaaniteſs.] See an Account of this in Gen. xxxviii. 2.

And Er the firſt-born of Judah was evil in the ſight of the LORD, and he ſlew him.] See ver. 7. of the ſame Chapter. His ſecond Son alſo, though he be not repreſented under ſo bad a Character, yet diſpleaſed God ſo much, that he ſlew him alſo, ver. 9, 10.

Ver. 4. And Tamar his daughter-in-law bare him Pharez and Zerah. All the ſons of Judah were five.] See there, ver. 29, 50.

Ver. 5. And the ſons of Pharez; Hezron, and Hamul.] Who were born unto him before they went into Egypt; Gen. xlvi. 12.

Ver. 6. And the ſons of Zerah; Zimri, and Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and Dara: five of them in all.] Theſe were born after they came into Egypt; for there is no Mention of them in the Book of Geneſis. And the Jews in Seder Olam Rabba, and in Jalkut ſay, theſe Men propheſied when they were in Egypt: For they ſuppoſe them to be the ſame with thoſe mentioned 1 Kings iv. 31. If they were, then Zerah had two Names, and was alſo called Mahol: But there is great Reaſon to think they were not the ſame, as I have ſhown in my Annotations there.

Ver. 7. The ſons of Carmi;] This Man was the Son of Zimri: Who in Joſh. vii. 18. is called Zabdi; for by Length of Time his Name might eaſily be thus altered. And, indeed, in copying proper Names, one might eaſily miſtake.

Achar, the troubler of Iſrael, who tranſgreſſed in the thing accurſed.] He who is there called Achan, is here elegantly called Achar; which ſignifies Troubler: Becauſe he had brought Iſrael into great Danger, by the Sin he committed in the accurſed Thing. The Remembrance of this ſome thought fit he ſhould carry in his Name: Which in Proceſs of Time was changed, by common Uſe and Cuſtom, from Achan into Achar. Which is more likely, than that there ſhould be an Error here in the Tranſcriber. See Bochart in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. L. 2. cap. 31.

Ver. 8. And the ſons of Ethan; Azariah.] Here is but one Son mentioned: But it is uſual in Scripture to ſpeak of a ſingular Perſon in the plural Number (Gen. xlvi. 23.) to include all his Deſcendants.

Ver. 9.

Ver. 9. The ſons of Hezron, that were born unto him; Jerahmeel, and Ram, and Chelubai.] This Ram is mentioned in the Genealogy of our Saviour, Matth. i. 3, 4. and called Aram.

Ver. 10. And Ram begat Aminadab; and Aminadab begat Nahſhon, the prince of the children of Judah;] When they came out of Egypt, and pitched under their ſeveral Standards, Numb. ii. 3.

Ver. 11. And Nahſhon begat Salma, and Salma begat Boaz,

Ver. 12. And Boaz begat Obed, and Obed begat Jeſſe.] Theſe three are the principal Perſons in all this Genealogy, as Pellicanus obſerves; being put into the Genealogy of our Saviour, who was deſcended from David by theſe three great Anceſtors.

Ver. 13. And Jeſſe begat his firſt-born Eliab, and Abinadab the ſecond, and Shammah the third,

Ver. 14. Nathaneel the fourth, Raddai the fifth.]

Ver. 15. Ozem the ſixth, David the ſeventh.] It is manifeſt from 1 Sam. xvi. 10, 11. that Jeſſe had eight Sons: But ſome think one of them was only an adopted Son, and therefore not here mentioned: And they gather from 2 Sam. xxi. 2. that his Name was Jonathan, by a Miſtake; for that Jonathan was David's Nephew by his Brother Shammah. The trueſt Account therefore is, that one of Jeſſe's Sons was dead, before David came to the Kingdom. So Raſi.

Ver. 16. Whoſe ſiſters were Zeruiah, and Abigail.] Who were the Siſters of David laſt mentioned.

And the ſons of Zeruiah; Abiſhai, and Joab, and Aſahel, three.] Who were all eminent Commanders under David.

Ver. 17. And Abigail bare Amaſa:] Another valiant Man, who was murdered by Joab.

And the father of Amaſa was Jether the Iſhmeelite.] He was an Iſhmeelite by Birth, but by Religion an Iſraelite: Or, as others will have it, he was born an Iſraelite, but bred ſo long among the Iſhmeelites, that many called him by that Name. See 2 Sam. xvii. 25. The Father of Abiſhai, Joab and Aſahel, is no where mentioned; being not eminent, it ſeems, as this Jether was; but their Glory was by their Mother's Side.

Ver. 18. And Caleb the ſon of Hezron begat children] It is plain, this is not Caleb, whom Moſes ſent to ſearch out the Land of Canaan; for he was the Son of Jephunneh, of whom he gives an Account below, iv. 15. This Man is called Chelubai, ver. 9. of this Chapter.

Of Azubah his wife,] It is an ungrounded Fancy of the Talmudiſts, in Sota; who ſay ſhe was called Azubah (which ſignifies forſaken) becauſe Caleb married her for the Love of God, when no body would have her.

And of Jerioth:] This is underſtood by Conradus Pellicanus, as if he had ſaid, that of his Wife Azubah he begat Jerioth: For there is nothing in the Hebrew that anſwers to the Word Children.

Her ſons are theſe; Jeſher, and Shobab, and Ardon.] That is, Theſe were the Sons of Jerioth.

Ver. 19. And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him Ephrath, which bare him Hur.] This was a very continent Man, who had but one Wife at a Time; and loved Azubah ſo well, that he married no other while ſhe lived. His ſecond Wife alſo was of ſuch Note, that gave Name to a Place in the Country of Judah, ver. 24.

Ver. 20. And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat Bezaleel.

Ver. 21. And afterwards Hezron went in to the daughter of Machir,] After the Death of Ephrath, I ſuppoſe, he married another Woman of an eminent Family.

The father of Gilead,] The Prince of the Country of Gilead; as the Word Father often ſignifies.

Whom he married when he was ſixty years old, and ſhe bare him Segub.

Ver. 22. And Segub begat Jair,] Who is called the Son of Manaſſeh in Numb. xxxii. 41. becauſe his Grandmother was of that Tribe, the Daughter of Machir, the Son of Manaſſeh, Numb. xx. 29.

Who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead.] In the Right of his Wife, as the common Opinon of the Jewiſh Doctors is: Who obſerve in Scripture two Inſtances of Huſbands that inherited the Eſtate of their Wives, though in another Tribe. The firſt is in Joſhua xxiv. 33. and the other in this Place. Where Kimchi notes, That this Jair the Son of Segub, took a Wife in the Land of Gilead, unto whom he ſucceeded as her Heir in her Poſſeſſions, when ſhe was dead: Theſe twenty-three Cities being her Inheritance. See Selden De Succeſſionibus ad Leges Hebr. cap. 18.

Ver. 23. And he took Geſhur, and Aram, with the towns of Jair, from them,] They were afterwards called by his Name, who conquered them, and took them from the neighbouring Geſhurites and Syrians.

With Kenath, and the towns thereof, even threeſcore cities:] The Metropolis of which was Kenath: In the taking of which he employed a great Commander called Nobah, Numb. xxxii. 42. who, I ſuppoſe, was of the ſame Tribe and Family.

All theſe belonged to the ſons of Machir, the father of Gilead.] His Poſterity poſſeſſed theſe Towns.

Ver. 24. And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-ephratah,] This City was called after the Name of both Huſband and Wife (ver. 19.) they being both famous Perſons. And it was alſo called Bethlehem, from the Fruitfulneſs of the Place.

Then Abiah Hezrons wife bare him Aſhur] He married her when he was very old (for he was threeſcore when he took his former Wife, ver. 21.) and died before the Child was born, whom he begat of her. The Jews look upon his marrying when he was ſo old, as proceeding from a great Deſire of Poſterity in the Family of Pharez, from whom the Meſſiah was to deſcend. The ſame we ſee in Boaz, who married Ruth when he was old.

The father of Tekoa.] Who gave Name to a famous Town in this Country, 2 Sam. xiv. 2. Jerem. iii. 6.

Ver. 25. And the ſons of Jerahmeel, the firſt-born of Hezron, were, Ram the firſt-born, and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah.

Ver. 26.

Ver. 26. Jerahmeel had also another wife, whose name was Atarah, she was the mother of Onam.] There being (according to our Translation of the foregoing Verse) Mention of his former Wife, it seems not to be unreasonable to take Abijah to have been the Mother of Ram, and the rest, which he had by Abijah. So the Words may be understood, supposing the Particle Mem to be wanting before Abijah.

Ver. 27. And the sons of Ram, the first-born of Jerahmeel were Maaz, and Jamin, and Eker.

Ver. 28. And the sons of Onam were, Shammai, and Jada. And the sons of Shammai; Nadab, and Abishur.] He set not down the Names of the Children of Jerahmeel's eldest Son, by his first Wife: But of both those he had by his second. The rest perhaps had no Children, as is noted afterwards of one of his Grandsons, ver. 30.

Ver. 29. And the name of the wife of Abishur was Abihail, and she bare him Ahban, and Molid.] This, though the second Son, it seems, married first: And therefore his Children are mentioned before the other.

Ver. 30. And the sons of Nadab; Seled, and Appaim: but Seled died without children.

Ver. 31. And the sons of Appaim; Ishi.] The plural Number is often used when one Son or Daughter only is spoken of (as I obsereved ver. 8.) for in that one all the Posterity are comprehended. The next Words are another Example of this.

And the sons of Ishi, Sheshan. And the children of Sheshan; Ahlai.] It is plain from ver. 34, and 35, that this Ahlai was not a Son, but a Daughter.

Ver. 32. And the sons of Jada the brother of Shammai;] Mentioned in ver. 28.

Jether, and Jonathan: and Jether died without children.] He had neither Son nor Daughter.

Ver. 33. And the sons of Jonathan; Pelez, and Zara. These were the sons of Jerahmeel.] Whose Male Line he carries no farther: Because perhaps it failed in their last named.

Ver. 34. Now Sheshan had no sons, but daughters:] We read of no more than one Daughter that he had: But he speaks in the plural Number, as before, ver. 31.

And Sheshan had a servant, an Egyptian, whose name was Jarha.] Who being a Proselyte, it is probable, to the Jewish Religion, and a faithful Servant to his Master, he gave him his Freedom, and married his Daughter to him.

Ver. 35. And Sheshan gave his daughter to Jarha his servant to wife, and she bare him Attai.] This Servant was very dear to him, and perhaps Ruler of his House, as Eliezer of Damascus was to Abraham: Who, if he had not had a Son, he looked upon as his Heir to all his Estate, Gen. xv. 23.

Ver. 36. And Attai begat Nathan, and Nathan begat Zabad,

Ver. 37. And Zabad begat Ephlal, and Ephlal begat Obed,

Ver. 38. And Obed begat Jehu, and Jehu begat Azariah,

Ver. 39. And Azariah begat Helez, and Helez begat Eleasah,

Ver. 40. And Eleasah begat Sisamai, and Sisamai begat Shallum,

Ver. 41. And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Elishama.

We cannot now understand, why so long a Genealogy should be inserted here of the Descendants of Sheshan's Daughter by an Egyptian. The Jews imagine it is the Genealogy of Ishmael (who slew Gedaliah, whom the King of Babylon left the Governor of the Land after he had taken Jerusalem) who they fancy was the Son of Nethaniah the Son of Elishama, last mentioned (as Jeremiah describes him, ch. xli. 1.) which we might have believed, if this Genealogy had so concluded: In which, as there is no Mention of Nethaniah, as the Son of Elishama (but the Genealogy ends with Elishama, and goes no further) so it is not probable, that the Descent of so infamous a Person, though of the Seed-Royal, should be deduced thus largely.

Ver. 42. Now the sons of Caleb] Called Chelubai, ver. 9.

The brother of Jerahmeel] This is added to shew he speaks of the same Caleb there mentioned, and ver. 18.

Was Mesha his first-born,] By a third Wife; for his Children by Azubah and Ephrath are named before.

The father of Ziph:] The Prince of Ziph, as some understand it. There were two Places of this Name, in the Tribe of Judah. See Josh. xv. 24, 25.

And the sons of Mareshah, the father of Hebron.] Hebron here is the Name of a Man, not of a Place: For his Posterity are immediately mentioned: But Kimchi makes this to be the Sense of these and the foregoing Words; the Sons of Ziph were Mareshah, the father of Hebron. Which is very natural.

Ver. 43. The sons of Hebron; Korah, and Tappuah, and Rekem, and Shema.

Ver. 44. And Shema begat Raham, the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

Ver. 45. And the son of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of Beth-zur.] Who gave Name to a Place in the Tribe of Judah, Josh. xv. 58. Which Josephus saith was in the mountainous Part of it, as the Word imports. Maon also is a well known Name to a Wilderness in this Tribe.

Ver. 46. And Ephah Calebs concubine bare Haram, and Mosa, and Gazez:] Besides his forenamed Wives, he married a Concubine: Which was an inferior Sort of Wife, as I have shewn upon Gen. xxv. 6.

And Haran begat Gazez.] This is another Gazez; to whom Haran gave the Name of his younger Brother.

Ver. 47. And the sons of Jahdai; Regem, and Jotham, and Geshan, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.] We read nothing of Jahdai in the foregoing Genealogy: But the Jews take him for one of the Sons of Epha before named; and most probably Mosa, next Brother to Haran: Whose Posterity is here set down, as Haran's was before. Mosa therefore had two Names; which was not unusual among the Jews.

Ver. 48. Maachah Caleb's concubine bare Sheber, and Tirhanah,] This Caleb was a great Man, and could maintain many Wives; which he took, and had a numerous Issue by them.

Ver. 49.

Ver. 49. She bare alſo Shaaph, the father of Madmannah, Shevah, the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibeah :] By the Word Father in this Verſe, in all Likelihood, is meant the Prince or Ruler of theſe Places. For Gibeah was a City in the Tribe of Judah; and ſo was Madmannah, Joſh. xv. 31, 57.

And the daughter of Caleb was Achſa.] Who is mentioned in the Books of Joſhua and Judges: But it is not ſaid by what Wife he had her. She was married to a great Man, Othniel, Joſh. xv. 17. Judges i. 12.

Ver. 50. Theſe were the ſons of Caleb, the ſon of Hur, the firſt-born of Ephratah;] This was another Caleb, deſcended from the foregoing, by Hur his Son by Ephrath, ver. 19. who had this Son, whom he called Caleb, after the Name of his Grandfather.

Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim,] The Targum tranſlates it the Prince of Kirjath-jearim: Which is a Place, as Bethlehem, and Beth-gaddar were, of which two other Perſons are preſently after ſaid to be the Father. But Kimchi takes the Word Father in the proper Senſe, and thinks Shobal's Poſterity poſſeſſed the City of Kirjath-jearim.

Ver. 51. Salma the father of Bethlehem, and Hareph the father of Beth-gadder.] It is not material which Way we underſtand this; either as the Targum, or as Kimchi expounds the Word Father in the foregoing Verſe.

Ver. 52. Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim had ſons; Haroeh, and half of the Manahethites.] The Hebrew Words being, Haroeh, hatzi, hammenioth, the LXX expound them, as if Shobal had three Sons, Araa, and Aiſi, and Ammanith. But Kimchi takes the laſt Word for the Name of a Place; which is evident from ver. 54. where the other Half of it is mentioned: And of one Half he thinks Haroeh was the Lord and Governour. But Jacchiades follows the LXX, and leaves Kimchi's Explication.

Ver. 53. And the families of Kirjath-jearim; the Ithrites, and the Puhites, and the Shumathites, and the Miſhraites :] The Inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim were divided into ſeveral Families (as Kimchi interprets it) and theſe here mentioned were the Heads of Families, denominated from Ithra or Jether, and Puhah, &c. as from Jimna came the Family of the Jimnites, and from Beriah the Family of the Berites, in Numb. xxvi. 44.

Of them came the Zareathites, and the Eſhtaulites.] The ſame Kimchi obſerves, that Zarah and Eſhtaol were two Cities in the Tribe of Judah; which were built by two of Kirjath-jearim of this Name. Who inhabited theſe Places, and left two great Families, who were from them called Zaraethites, and Eſhtaulites.

Ver. 54. And the ſons of Salmah, Beth-lehem, and the Netophathites, Ataroth, and the houſe of Joab, and half of the Manahethites, and the Zorites.] This Salma the Son of Caleb the younger (ver. 51.) had a numerous Poſterity. For from him deſcended the Inhabitants of Bethlehem (ſo we are to underſtand this Word, for Bethlehem was the Name of a Place, not of a Man) the Netophathites, and thoſe of Ataroth, and Beth-joab (ſo theſe Words we tranſlate the Houſe of Joab, ſhould be rendered; for he is not ſpeaking of Joab's Family, but of Caleb's) and Half of the Manahethites, and the Zorites, who were a People poſſeſſed of a Town called Zorah: Where the other Half dwelt.

Ver. 55. And the families of the ſcribes which dwelt at Jabez;] This Place, Kimchi thinks, might poſſibly be built by Jabez (an honourable Perſon, mentioned ch. iv. 9.) in which ſome Doctors of the Law dwelt, who were of the Family of Salma; for of theſe he is ſtill ſpeaking.

The Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and Suchathites. Theſe are the Kenites that came of Hemath, the father of the houſe of Rechab.] Theſe Kenites, as R. Solomon thinks, were the Inhabitants of a Place called Cani in the Tribe of Judah, Joſh. xv. 57. Though it muſt be acknowledged alſo, ſome of the Kenites, the Poſterity of Jethro, did ſettle in the ſame Tribe (Judges i. 16.) of whom ſome think Ezra here ſpeaks. And then Hemath deſcended from Jethro, who was the Father; that is, the Prince of Beth-Rechab: So the laſt Words may be underſtood. There were other Kenites deſcended from Heber, who dwelt in the Tribe of Naphthali, or Manaſſeh, Judges iv. 11.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. NOW theſe were the ſons of David,] Having given a large Account of the Poſterity of Hezron, he returns to David before-mentioned, ch. ii. 15.

Which were born unto him in Hebron;] Before he was King of all Iſrael.

The firſt-born Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jeſreeliteſs: The ſecond Daniel, of Abigail the Carmeliteſs:] This ſecond Son is called Chileab, in 2 Sam. iii. 3. where I have given an Account of it. And here it may be noted, once for all, that it was a frequent Thing among the Jews for Men to have two Names; eſpecially when they lived ſometimes in one Country, and ſometimes in another. This appears from a famous Caſe mentioned in the Gemara of Codex Gittim, where it is reſolved, that if a Man have two Wives, one in Judæa, and another in Galilee; and he gave a Bill of Divorce to her in Judæa, ſubſcribing to it his Name whereby he is known in Galilee, the Bill is void. And in like Manner, if he write his Name whereby he goes in Judæa, unto a Bill of Divorce to his Wife in Galilee, it is of no Effect.

Ver. 2. The third, Abſolom the ſon of Maachah, the daughter of Talmai, king of Geſhur: the fourth, Adonijah, the ſon of Haggith:

Ver. 3. The fifth, Shephatiah of Abital: the ſixth, Ithream of Eglah his wife.] This Eglah is generally thought by the Jews to be Michal Daughter of Saul (ſee my Notes upon 2 Sam. iii. 5.) who, ſome think, is peculiarly called his Wife; becauſe ſhe was his only legal Wife, according to the Divine Inſtitution: All the reſt he took by Cuſtom them reigning.

Ver. 4. Theſe ſix were born to him in Hebron, and there he reigned ſeven years and ſix months: and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty three years.] This hath been explained in 2 Sam. 5.

Ver. 5. And theſe were born to him in Jeruſalem, Shimeah, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon, mon, four, of Bathſhua daughter of Ammiel:] In 2 Sam. xi. 3. ſhe is called Bathſheba (as ſhe is through the whole Scripture) and her Father Eliam. But I obſerved juſt now, it was uſual among the Jews to have two Names: Though there is no great Difference in this firſt of theſe, no more than there is between Shammah and Shimea; the Vowels being only changed, not the Conſonants, of which the Names conſiſt. Solomon was the eldeſt of theſe four Sons: But he is mentioned laſt, becauſe the Diſcourſe was to return to his Genealogy, ver. 10.

Ver. 6. Ibhar alſo, and Eliſhama, and Eliphelet,] There is a ſmall Difference in the Name of the ſecond of theſe, as he is mentioned 2 Sam. v. 15. where he is called Eliſhua.

Ver. 7. And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

Ver. 8. And Eliſhama, and Eliada, and Eliphelet,] Two of theſe Names are mentioned before; who, it is ſuppoſed, died in their Infancy: And therefore he preſerved their Memory, by giving their Names unto two others, who were born afterwards, and lived longer. So Kimchi.

Nine.] Beſides the four born of Bathſheba (ver. 5.) but there are only ſeven mentioned in 2 Sam. v. 16. thoſe two who died early being there omitted. See my Notes on that Place.

Ver. 9. Theſe were all the ſons of David, beſides the ſons of the concubines,] Who are not mentioned, either here or in Samuel.

And Tamar their ſiſter.] See 2 Sam. xiii. 1.

Ver. 10. And Solomons ſon was Rehoboam, Abia his ſon, Aſa his ſon, Jehoſaphat his ſon,

Ver. 11. Joram his ſon, Ahaziah his ſon, Joaſh his ſon,

Ver. 12. Amaziah his ſon, Azariah his ſon, Jotham his ſon,

Ver. 13. Ahaz his ſon, Hezekiah his ſon, Manaſſeh his ſon,

Ver. 14. Amon his ſon, Joſiah his ſon.

Ver. 15. And the ſons of Joſiah were, the firſt-born Johanan,] There is nothing needs explaining in the foregoing Genealogy down from Solomon to this Time: But here is ſome Difficulty: For this Johanan is thought by many to be the ſame with Jehoahaz, who ſucceeded Joſiah in the Throne. But he was not his firſt-born; being but twenty-three Years old when the People made him King, and after three Months Time his Brother being put in his Place, is ſaid to be twenty-five Years old, 2 Kings xxiii. 31, 36. Petavius hath ſaid a great deal about this, in his Annotations upon Epiphanius ad Hereſ. Epicur. p. 18. But after all, I take the Truth to be, that Johanan was his eldeſt Son, but died before his Father: And therefore is not mentioned in the Book of the Kings: As Jehoahaz is not mentioned here, being made King by the People of the Land, and preſently dethroned.

The ſecond Jehoiakim,] Who was next to him, to whom by Right of Succeſſion the Kingdom belonged: He being the eldeſt now Johanan was dead. He was called by his Father Eliakim: But had this other Name impoſed on him by the King of Egypt, 2 Kings xxiii. 34.

The third Zedekiah,] Who was the youngeſt of all Joſiah's Sons, as appears by his Age, when he was made King after Jehoiakim was carried captive. The ſame Petavius thinks there were two Zedekiahs: One the Son of Joſiah, who was their laſt King; the other the Son of Jeconiah (mentioned in the next Verſe) who never came to be King.

The fourth Shallum.] This was the next Son to Jehoiakim; and the ſame with Jehoahaz, as is plain from Jerem. xxii. 11. See my Notes upon 2 Kings xxii. 30, 31. He is put laſt, becauſe he was not at all conſiderable; being made King by a popular Faction; and in three Months Time thruſt out of his Throne by the King of Egypt, who carried him thither, and there he died.

Ver. 16. And the ſons of Jehoiakim; Jeconiah his ſon, Zedekiah his ſon.] The Poſterity of Jeconiah are ſet down in the next Verſe: And therefore here by the Word Son we muſt underſtand his Succeſſor in the Kingdom. Thus Seneca makes Atreus and Tantalus to be Deſcendants of Inachus; becauſe they ſucceeded him in the Kingdom of Argos. And in like manner Jacobus Capellus here obſerves (in his Hiſtor. Sacra & exotica, ad A. M. 3424.) that Multi filii dicuntur, qui legaliter tantum erant filii, id eſt, hæredes: Many are called Sons, who were only Sons legally, that is, Heirs. Of which he makes Zedekiah an Example, who is here called the Son of Jeconiah (who was his Uncle, 2 Kings xxiv. 17.) becauſe he ſucceeded him.

Ver. 17. And the ſons of Jeconiah; Aſſir, Salathiel his ſon,] Some think Aſſir is not the Name of his Son, but ſignifies Captive: To denote, that his Son Salathiel was born when he was a Captive in Babylon, as St Matthew notes, ch. i. 12. which doth not contradict the Prophecy of Jeremiah, who ſaid he ſhould die childleſs, Jer. xxii. 30. for his Meaning is no more, but that he ſhould have no Child ſitting on the Throne after him. But Jacobus Capellus, in the Place forenamed, makes Salathiel another Inſtance of an Heir being called a Son. For he thinks he ſucceeded Jeconiah in the Dignity to which he was reſtored by Evilmerodach: But was the Son of Neri, who ſprung from Nathan.

Ver. 18. Malchiram alſo, and Pedaiah, and Shenazar, Jecamiah, Hoſhama, and Nedabiah.] Theſe were not all the immediate Sons of Jeconiah, but the Sons of Salathiel; as may be gathered from hence; that in the next Verſe Zerubbabel is ſaid to be the Son of Pedaiah, and in St Matthew (ch. i. 12.) to be the Son of Salathiel; that is, his Grandſon. So there is ſomething to be ſupplied, to make out the Senſe of this Verſe, viz. The ſons alſo of Salathiel were Malchiram, and Jedaiah, &c. But Grotius (on Matth. i. 23.) thinks, that Zerubbabel here mentioned is not he, who was the Leader of God's People when they returned from their Captivity in Babylon: With whom Huetius alſo agrees But others think, this may better be ſolved by ſuppoſing, that Salathiel dying without Children, Pedaiah raiſed up Seed to his Brother, as the Scripture ſpeaks, and begat Zerubbabel of Salathiel's Wife. Who therefore was the Son of Pedaiah, becauſe begotten by him: And yet the Son of Salathiel, becauſe begotten of his Wife; who had no Son by Salathiel, but by Pedaiah; who begat him not to be his Heir, but the Heir of his Brother who was dead.

Ver. 19. And the ſons of Hodaiah were, Zerubbabel, and Shimei: and the ſons of Zerubbabel; Meſhullam, and Hananiah, and Shelomith their ſiſter:] That is, Siſter to the two Sons before-named; ſhe having the ſame Father and Mother that they had: Which the other five mentioned in the next Verſe, it is ſuppoſed, had not; but were by another Mother, though they had the ſame Father.

Ver. 20. And Haſhubah, and Obel, and Berechiah, and Haſadiah, Juſhab-heſed, five.] Upon this they ground their Opinion, who think the Zerubbabel here mentioned, is not he that was the Governour of the People after the Captivity: For his Son's Name was Rheſa, Luke iii. 27. who is not found among the eight Children, that are here reckoned up.

Ver. 21. And the ſons of Hananiah; Pelatiah, and Jeſaiah:] Theſe are the Sons of the ſecond ſon of Zerubbabel, ver. 19.

The ſons of Rephaiah, the ſons of Arnan, the ſons of Obadiah, the ſons of Shecaniah.] Theſe four (and their Sons) ſeem to have been likewiſe the Children of Hananiah.

Ver. 22. And the ſons of Shecaniah; Shemaiah: and the ſons of Shemaiah; Hattuſh, and Igeal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat, ſix.] Here are but five Sons of Shemaiah: And therefore the Hebrew Word Shiſhah (which we tranſlate ſix) is rather the Name of his laſt Son: Who might poſſibly be ſo called, becauſe he was his ſixth Son.

Ver. 23. And the ſons of Neariah; Elioenai, and Hezekiah, and Azrikam, three.] The reſt of Shemaiah's Sons had no Iſſue.

Ver. 24. And the ſons of Elioenai were Hodaiah, and Eliaſhib, and Pelaiah, and Akkub, and Johanan, and Dalaiah, and Anani, ſeven.] The Targum here hath a very ſtrange Obſervation: For after the Word Anani, he ſaith, He is the king MESSIAH, who is to be revealed. The Reaſon of which is given in the famous Book Tanchuma (as Beckius here notes) becauſe it is ſaid in Dan. vii. 13. he ſaw in a Viſion, and behold one like the Son of Man, im anani (in the Clouds) which certainly was a Viſion of the Meſſiah, as Saadis Gaon acknowledges. And this Uſe is to be made of this Paſſage, that their Minds were always full of the Thoughts of the Meſſiah, and that they expected he ſhould be revealed (as they ſpeak) ſo many Generations after Zerubbabel: Which is an Argument he came long ago. St Matthew indeed counts more Generations from Zerubbabel to our Saviour's Birth than are here mentioned, and hath quite different Names in this Succeſſion: Which is another Argument, that this Zerubbabel in the Chronicles is not the ſame with him in St Matthew. And, indeed though ſome Perſons in Scripture have two Names, yet it is not likely that ſo many Perſons as are reckoned in this Succeſſion, ſhould all have quite different Names. Therefore St Matthew's Genealogy is not here recorded: But he had it out of the publick Tables, which were kept by the Prieſts of all the great Families of Judah; particularly that of David's, out of whoſe Family they expected the Meſſiah ſhould come, would not fail to keep a punctual Account of his Succeſſors in every Generation.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. THE ſons of Judah; Pharez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, and Shobal.] By the Sons of Judah are meant his Poſterity: For here is only one of his Sons mentioned in this Place; viz. Pharez: Whoſe Son Hezron begat Carmi (the ſame with Calubai and Caleb (ch. ii. 9, 18.) whoſe Sons were Hur, and Shobab: Who is the ſame, I ſuppoſe, with Shobal; of whoſe Poſterity he intends here to give an Account.

Ver. 2. And Reaiah the ſon of Shobal begat Jahath, and Jahath begat Ahumai, and Lahad. Theſe are the families of the Zorathites.] Zora is not the Name of a Man, but of a Place in the Tribe of Judah: Where ſeveral Families of that Tribe ſettled themſelves, who were deſcended from Jahath, Shumai, and Lahad, the Sons and Grandſons of Shobal; by whom this City was built and inhabited. Thus Kimchi explains this Place.

Ver. 3. And theſe were of the father of Etam;] Deſcended from the Lord of a Place called Etam: Which was in this Tribe, ver. 32.

Jezreel, and Iſhma and Idbaſh:] Theſe were the Sons of the Lord of Etam: Whoſe Name is not here recorded.

And the name of their ſiſter was Hazelelponi.] Who it is likely was a very eminent Woman: And therefore her Name is remembred; though now we are ignorant of the particular Reaſon there was then for it.

Ver. 4. And Penuel the father of Gedor,] In the eighteenth Verſe of this Chapter, Jered is ſaid to be the Father, that is the Lord of Gedor. But there might be then two Lords of the ſame City; as there are now among us ſeveral Lordſhips in the ſame Town.

And Ezer the father of Huſhah. Theſe are the ſons of Hur,] By ſome other Wife than her, by whom he had the Children mentioned Chapter the ſecond, ver. 20.

The firſt-born of Ephratah,] See there, ver. 19.

The father of Bethlehem.] In the ſecond Chapter, ver. 52. Salma is ſaid to be the Father of Bethlehem: But that doth not contradict this: For they might both be Lords of the ſame Place, eſpecially one being the Gandfather, the other the Son.

Ver. 5. And Aſhur the father of Tekoa, had two wives, Helah and Naarah. See Chapter the ſecond, ver. 24.

Ver. 6. And Naarah bare him Ahuzam, and Hepher, and Temeni, and Haahaſhtari. Theſe were the ſons of Naarah.] His firſt Wife being barren for ſome Time, it moved him to take another: Who bare him theſe Sons.

Ver. 7. And the ſons of Helah were Zereth, and Jezoar, and Ethnan.] Afterwards his firſt Wife grew fruitful, and bare him as many Sons as the other. For it is probable that Coz (mentioned in the next Words) was her Son.

Ver. 8. And Coz begat Anub, and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel, the ſon of Harum.] I ſuppoſe ſeveral Families ſprung from Aharhel, who was the Son of Coz by his Wife Harum.

Ver. 9.

Ver. 9. And Jabez] It is very uncertain who Jabez was. Perhaps the Founder of one of the Families of Aharhel. But the Targum both here and upon ch. ii. 55. ſaith, he was the ſame with Othniel. But this is a Jewiſh Fancy, confuted by ver. 13.

Was more honourable than his brethren:] Wiſer in the Law, as the Targum expounds it: Who had reſpect, it is likely, to his Piety and Devotion expreſſed in the next Verſe. Others think he was a Perſon of greater Courage and Valour, for which Othniel was famous.

And his mother called his name Jabez, ſaying, becauſe I bare him with ſorrow.] She had a very hard Labour, when ſhe was in Travail with him.

Ver. 10. And Jabez called on the God of Iſrael, ſaying, O that thou wouldeſt bleſs me indeed, and enlarge my coaſt,] He prayed for the Help of God, to drive out the Canaanites, and make room for his Family; that they might dwell more commodiouſly.

And that thy hand might be with me,] As it was with Othniel, to enable him to take Kirjath-ſepher, as we read in the firſt of Judges.

And that thou wouldeſt keep me from evil, that it may not grieve me.] Preſerve him in Health, and proſper him, when he had enlarged his Border: That he might not live in ſuch Miſery, as that wherewith his Mother brought him forth. For in the Word grieve, moſt think he alludes to the Pains of his Mother in her Travail.

And God granted him that which he requeſted.] And the rather, becauſe he had hereby greater Leiſure for the Study of the Law, and inſtructing others in Piety, as many underſtand it. For the Jews think this Jabez was an eminent Doctor of the Law, and left behind him a great many Diſciples, who are mentioned, they ſuppoſe, in the laſt Verſe of the ſecond Chapter of this Book; where we read of the Family of the Scribes that dwelt at Jabez.

Ver. 11. And Chelub the brother of Shuah, begat Mehir, which was the father of Eſhton.

Ver. 12. And Eſhton begat Beth-rapha, and Paſeah, and Tehinnah the father of Ir-nahaſh. Theſe are the men of Rechah.] The Perſons whoſe Poſterity poſſeſſed the City of Rechah: Of which we have no mention elſewhere.

Ver. 13. The ſons of Kenaz;] It is not ſaid whoſe Son he was: It is likely of Chelub, mentioned ver. 11.

Othniel, and Seraiah: and the ſons of Othniel; Hathath.] And likewiſe Meonothai, mentioned in the next Verſe: For after his Sons follow the Sons of Othniel's younger Brother.

Ver. 14. And Meonothai begat Ophrah: and Seraiah begat Joab, the father of the valley of Charaſhim,] Or, of thoſe that dwelt in Gecharaſhim: Which was a City in the Tribe of Benjamin, mentioned in Nehem. xi. 35.

For they were craftſmen.] The Smiths that dwelt and wrought there, gave it the Name of Charaſhim: By which Word ſome underſtand Carpenters. For in this Catalogue ſeveral ſuch like Sort of Perſons are mentioned: Such as Porters, and Weavers, and Gardiners, ver. 21, 23. For Societies cannot conſiſt only of one Sort of Perſons: but muſt be compoſed of Men of different and various Employments. As Strigelius obſerves out of Ariſtotle, A City is not compoſed of Phyſicians and Phyſicians; but of Phyſicians and Ploughmen. So the Son of Sirach diſcourſes, that though ſuch kind of Men are not fit to be admitted to Counſel, yet they maintain the State of the World, Eccluſ. xxxviii. 34. When Solomon indeed began to reign, there were not many Craftſmen in Iſrael; but afterwards they increaſed: And ſuch Honour was paid unto Arts, that they took Care to preſerve the Memory of ſuch Perſons and Families as applied themſelves that Way; as appears by this very Verſe, and ver. 21, 23, of this Chapter. Whence the Prophet Iſaiah foretels this as a Judgment God would ſend upon them, that he would take away their Artificers; ch. iii. 5. And when Jeruſalem was taken by the Babylonians, it is ſaid, they carried away all the craftſmen, 2 Kings xxiv. 14.

Ver. 15. And the ſons of Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh; Iru, Elah, and Naam:] Some take this Jephunneh to be the ſame with Hezrom, whoſe Son Caleb was: And had this Son by a different Wife from her mentioned, ch. ii. 18.

And the ſons of Elah, even Kenaz.] Or rather Uknaz was the Son of Elah: As ſome of the Jews underſtand it.

Ver. 16. And the ſons of Jehaleleel;] Who was the Son of Uknaz laſt mentioned.

Ziph, and Ziphah, Tiria, and Aſareel.

Ver. 17. And the ſons of Ezra] Who was the Son of Aſareel laſt named.

Were Jether, and Mered, and Epher, and Jalon: and ſhe bare] That is, Bithiah the Wife of Mered (mentioned in the next Verſe) bare the Sons following.

Miriam, and Shammai,] Miriam was the Name of a Man, as well as of a Woman: And there are ſeveral ſuch inſtances in Scripture, as Kimchi obſerves on this place.

And Iſhbah the father of Eſhtemoa.] It is uncertain whether Eſhtemoa be the Name of a Perſon, or of a Place whereof he was Lord.

Ver. 18. And his wife Jehudijah bare Jered] Mered had this Son by another Wife called Jehudijah.

The father of Geder, and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah.] The Targum, and Jarchi, with others, by Father, in all theſe three Inſtances, underſtand the Lord or Ruler of thoſe cities, which were in the Tribe of Judah. See Joſh. xv. 34, 35.

And theſe are the ſons of Bithiah,] Mentioned in the foregoing Verſe.

The daughter of Pharaoh, which Mered took.] That is married. But it is not likely he married the Daughter of the Kings of Egypt, unleſs ſome natural Daughter: But rather of ſome other Perſon, called by the Name of Pharaoh; who might be an Iſraelite as well as an Egyptian: Names being, upon ſeveral Occaſions, given from other Countries.

Ver. 19. And the ſons of his wife Hodiah,] This was his third Wife.

The ſiſter of Naham,] It ſeems to me more reaſonable to tranſlate it Achotnaam: Who was his Son by Hodiah.

The father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eſhtemoa the Maachathite.] Theſe were his Grandſons, who are frequently in Scripture called Sons.

Ver. 20. And the ſons of Shimon] Who is ſuppoſed to be another Son of Mered by his laſt Wife.

Were Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon.

And the ſons of Iſhi] Who is thought to be the Son of Tilon laſt mentioned.

Were Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

Ver. 21. The ſons of Shelah, the ſon of Judah, were Er.] Having given an account of thoſe deſcended from Pharez the eldeſt Son of Judah, and Zerah whom Judah had by Tamar, (ch. ii. 4, 5.) he now relates the Poſterity of Shelah, whom he had by his Wife Shuah, Gen. xxxviii. 5.

The father of Lecah,] This was a City in the Tribe of Judah, of which Er was the Lord.

And Laadah the father of Mareſhah,] Another City in the ſame Tribe.

And the families of the houſe of them that wrought fine linen,] From him came all thoſe Families that were famous for this Sort of Workmanſhip in fine Linen: Wherewith their Kings and Prieſts were clothed, as the Targum notes.

Of the houſe of Aſhbea,] The Principal of which, I ſuppoſe, were thoſe of this Man's Poſterity.

Ver. 22. And Jokim,] This was either a Perſon, or a Family deſcended from Shelah.

And the men of Chozeba,] They were another Family ſprung from the ſame Root: Who ſettled in this Place.

And Joaſh, and Saraph, who had the dominion in Moab,] Conquered ſeveral Places there, in the Time of David: Or had the Government of them given by him. The Targum takes the Hebrew Word Baalu, as if it ſignified that they married Wives in the Country of Moab.

And Jaſhubi-lehem.] Or rather, The Inhabitants of Lehem: A Place were ſome of Shelah's Poſterity ſettled.

And theſe are antient things.] That is, theſe things which have been related concerning Joaſh and Saraph (as Kimchi interprets it) who had Dominion in Moab, ſhew that they were long ago: But now, as it follows, their condition was altered.

Ver. 23. Theſe were the potters, and thoſe that dwelt among plants and hedges:] Or rather, theſe now are potters, &c. being fallen from the Glory and Splendor wherein they formerly lived, to common and mean Employments.

There they dwelt with the king for his work.] This is commonly underſtood, as if they ſtayed in Babylon (for there was no King now in Judea) to be Vine-dreſſers, Gardeners, and Husbandmen, under that Monarch: Whoſe ſervice they liked ſo well, that they choſe to continue in it, rather than return to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 24. The ſons of Simeon were Nemuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, and Shaul:] This Tribe is mentioned next to Judah, becauſe they were Neighbours to them: Part of their Poſſeſſions being taken out of the Tribe of Judah, Joſh. xix. 1, &c. But the Names of ſome of Simeon's Sons were much altered, by length of Time, from what they were when they went down into Egypt, Gen. xlvi. 10. And Ohad, there mentioned, is not here remembred: Becauſe it is likely, he had no Iſſue.

Ver. 25. Shallum his ſon,] That is, he was the Son of Shaul, laſt mentioned.

Mibſam his ſon, Miſhma his ſon.

Ver. 26. And the ſons of Miſhma; Hamuel his ſon, Zacchur his ſon, Shimei his ſon.] It ſeems Mibſam had no Son.

Ver. 27. And Shimei had ſixteen ſons, and ſix daughters;] The Poſterity of his eldeſt Sons are taken Notice of: But only, as it follows, that they had not many.

But his brethren had not many children, neither did all their family multiply, like to the children of Judah.] Which evidently appears by the Number that was taken of them at their firſt Muſter, Numb. i. 23. where we find that they were but fifty-nine thouſand and three hundred: When the Children of Judah were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred, ver. 26. And at the next Muſter there was a far greater inequality, Numb. xxvi. 14, 22.

Ver. 28. And they dwelt at Beerſheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-Shual, Theſe Places are mentioned in Joſh. xix. 2, 3.

Ver. 29. And at Bilhah,] Called Balah, in the Place above-named.

And at Ezem, and at Tolad,] Theſe are called Azem, and Eſhtolad, the former Part of Names being oft cut off; as Hermon for Baal-Hermon, Judg. iii. 3. Sittim, Numb. xxv. 1. for Abel-Sittim, Numb. xxvi. 49, &c.

Ver. 30. And at Bethuel, and at Hormah, and at Ziklag,] See there, ver. 4, 5.

Ver. 31. And at Beth-marcaboth, and at Hazar-ſuſim,] Called there (Joſh. xix. 5.) Hazar-Suſah.

And at Beth-birei, and at Shaaraim:] The Names are different in Joſh. xix. 6.

Theſe were their cities, unto the reign of David.] Who, the Jews fancy, took theſe cities from them, and gave them again to Judah. Which is not likely, nor doth the Word unto denote that they held them no longer, than till the Reign of David: But that when he came to the Crown their Families dwelt here; though Ziklag had been in the Poſſeſſion of the Philiſtines, who gave it to David, as his own Town.

Ver. 32. And their villages were Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Aſhan,] Here is one Place mentioned, more than is in Joſh. xix. 7. which they had ſome way acquired ſince his days.

Ver. 33. And all their villages that were round about the ſame cities, unto Baal.] Called Baalath-Beer, Joſh. xix. 8.

Theſe were their habitations, and their genealogy.] Or, as it is in the Margin, they divided themſelves by nations among them; i. e. among theſe Places.

Ver. 34. And Meſhobab, and Jamlech, and Joſhah the ſon of Amaziah.] Theſe, and the reſt that follow, ſeem to have been very eminent Perſons in this tribe: By whoſe Valour theſe great Things were performed, which are mentioned, ver. 38, 39, &c. There is ſo great a reſemblance in the Name, that ſome fancy the Name Ἰάμβλιχος among the Greeks came from this Name Jamlech.

Ver. 35. And Joel, and Jehu the ſon of Joſibiah, the ſon of Seraiah, the ſon of Aſiel.

Ver. 36. And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Geſhohiah, and Aſaiah, and Adiel, and Jeſimiel, and Benaiah.

Ver. 37. And Ziza the ſon of Shiphi, the ſon of Allon, the ſon of Jedaiah, the ſon of Shimri, the ſon of Shemaiah.

Ver. 38. Theſe mentioned by their names] Whoſe Names are mentioned in the four foregoing Verſes.

Were princes in their families :] Great Perſons of chief authority in their ſeveral Families.

And the houſe of their fathers increaſed exceedingly ;] By their Valour they enlarged the Habitations ; which were too ſtrait for them.

Ver. 39. And they went to the entrance of Gedor,] There was a Place of this Name belonging unto Judah, Joſh. xv. 58. and another called Gederah, appertaining to the ſame Tribe, ver. 36. out of which perhaps Judah had not driven the old Inhabitants : And therefore the Simeonites wanting Room, went thither, and by diſpoſſeſſing them, enlarged their Border. But ſee the next Verſe, which places Geder elſewhere.

Even unto the eaſt ſide of the valley, to ſeek paſture for their flocks.] For their Sheep and their Goats : Which are properly meant by Flocks.

Ver. 40. And they found fat paſture and good, and the land was wide, and quiet, and peaceable :] So that they might feed their Flocks ſecurely.

For they of Ham had dwelt there of old.] This had inclined Bochart to think, that Gedor was ſome Place in Arabia ; where ſome of the Poſterity of Ham ſettled, as he hath demonſtrated. And the Arabians being wholly addicted to Paſturage, ſought out the beſt Ground they could find for the Feeding their Flocks. Whoſe Country the Simeonites made no ſcruple to invade ; the Poſterity of Ham being accurſed by Noah. See his Phaleg. L. 4. Cap. 1.

Ver. 41. And theſe written by name, came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah,] Their Names are ſet down before, (ver. 34, 35, 36, 37.) now the Time is recorded wherein they performed ſuch memorable Exploits ; which was in the Reign of Hezekiah King of Judah. That is, as ſome take it, a little before the ten Tribes were carried captive : Or, rather, ſome Time after it, when theſe Simeonites who were mixed with Judah, finding themſelves very much ſtraitned, made this expedition.

And ſmote their tents, and the habitations that were found there,] If they ſmote their Tents, then it was ſufficiently evident, they ſmote their Habitations ; for they dwelt in Tents. Therefore the Word Meunim, I have ſhewn upon Judges x. 12. (ſee my Notes there) doth not ſignify Habitations, but a People in Arabia, who dwelt in Tents : Which the Simeonites ſmote, as it here follows, and ſettled themſelves in their Place.

And deſtroyed them utterly unto this day, and dwelt in their rooms :] There was none remained to attempt the Recovery of their Country any more : But the Simeonites poſſeſſed it whom this Book was written, after the Captivity of Babylon.

Becauſe there was paſture there for their flocks.] Which made them ſeek for no other Settlement.

Ver. 42. And ſome of them, even of the ſons of Simeon, five hundred men, went to mount Seir, having for their captain Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the ſons of Iſhi.] Another Body of them under theſe four great Commanders, who were Brethren, ſettled themſelves in ſome Part of the Country of the Edomites : Being forced to ſeek for ſubſiſtence abroad ; either when the Aſſyrians invaded their Country, or afterwards when it was deſtroyed, and there was not room enough for them among the Jews ; whither many of them fled.

Ver. 43. And they ſmote the reſt of the Amalekites that were eſcaped,] Who eſcaped the Hands of Saul, and of David.

And dwelt there unto this day.] The King of Babylon did not diſturb them in theſe new Poſſeſſions : Which were ſmall, and not worth his regard.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. NOW the ſons of Reuben the firſt-born of Iſrael (for he was the firſt-born ; but foraſmuch as he defiled his fathers bed, his birthright was given unto Joſeph the ſon of Iſrael :] The double Portion, which was the Right of the Firſt-born, (Deut. xxi. 16, 17.) was given to Joſeph : Whoſe two ſons had each of them a Lot in the land of Canaan ; as if they had been the Sons of Iſrael. The Jewiſh Doctors ſay there were two other Prerogatives belonging to the Firſt-born, viz. the Principality and the Prieſthood : The former of which was given to Judah, the latter to Levi. But I ſee no Ground to think the Prieſthood was annexed to it : And as for the other, it is taken notice of in the following Verſe.

And the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birth-right.] This is the reaſon why neither Reuben's, nor Joſeph's Genealogy is firſt ſet down : For though the double Portion belonged to the Firſt-born ; yet he had not therefore the Preheminence in other things, as it here follows.

Ver. 2. For Judah prevailed above his brethren,] That is, the Tribe of Judah, (not his Perſon) which was the moſt powerful, and in all things, as I before ſhewed, preferred to the reſt.

And of him came the chief ruler,] This is the principal Reaſon, why he prevailed, becauſe the great Prince of the People was to ariſe out of this Tribe : Firſt David, and at laſt the MESSIAH.

But the birth-right was Joſephs)] Or though the Birth-right was Joſeph's ; yet, for the Reaſon before-mentioned, Judah's Genealogy is firſt ſet down.

Ver. 3. The ſons of Reuben the firſt-born of Iſrael, were Hanoch, and Pallu, and Hezron, and Carmi.] See Gen. xlvi. 19.

Ver. 4. The ſons of Joel ;] Who, it is likely, was the Son of Hanoch the eldeſt Son of Reuben :

Becauſe

Becauſe it appears from ver. 6. that he here gives an account of the chief Perſons of this Tribe; and conſequently thoſe who were deſcended from the Firſt-born.

Shemaiah his ſon, Gog his ſon, Shimei his ſon,

Ver. 5. Micah his ſon, Reaia his ſon, Baal his ſon,

Ver. 6. Beerah his ſon,] Whom the Targum takes for a Prophet, the Father of Hoſea, who is called Beeri, Hoſea i. 1. But that is a meer Fancy; for that Prophet was of the Tribe of Iſſachar, but this Beerah of the Tribe of Reuben.

Whom Tilgath-Pilneſer king of Aſſyria, carried away captive out of their own land:] He is called Tiglath-Pileſer, 2 Kings xv. 29.

He was prince of the Reubenites.] When the two Tribes and half were carried away captive out of their own Country beyond Jordan, by the King of Aſſyria, viz. Tiglath before mentioned. The reſt were carried away by Salmaneſſer.

Ver. 7. And his brethren by their families (when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned) were the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah,] The Genealogies of thoſe deſcended from the reſt of Reuben's Sons, were preſerved: But he thought fit to mention only the chief of them, who were theſe two, and thoſe that follow.

Ver. 8. And Bela the ſon of Azah, the ſon of Shema, the ſon of Joel,] This was another Joel, different from him mentioned ver. 4.

Who dwelt in Aroer, even unto Nebo, and Baal-meon.] All theſe were ſeated on the other Side of Jordan, ſee Numb. xxxii. 37. Joſh. xiii. 15, 16, &c. where we read of this City Baal-meon.

Ver. 9. And eaſtward he inhabited] That is the Poſterity of Reuben.

Unto the entring in of the wilderneſs] This is the Wilderneſs of Kedemoth, mentioned Deut. ii. 28. upon which the Country of Sihon (which Reuben poſſeſſed) bordered.

From the river Euphrates:] Their Territory did not reach ſo far as Euphrates: But only to the Entrance of that Wilderneſs, which extended itſelf to that River.

Becauſe their cattle were multiplied in the land of Gilead.] When their Stock very much increaſed, ſo that they had not Paſturage enough for them, they enlarged their Border, as far as they were able, Eaſtward toward the River Euphrates.

Ver. 10. And in the days of Saul they made war] With the Aſſiſtance of other Tribes that dwelt on that ſide Jordan, ver. 18, 19.

With the Hagarites,] That is, the Iſhmaelites deſcended from Hagar; who were ſettled in Arabia Deſerta. See Bochartus in his Phaleg. L. 4. cap. 11.

Who fell by their hands:] Were conquered by them in that War: So that, as it here follows, they poſſeſſed their Country.

And they dwelt in their tents] This ſhews they were Arabians; or near Neighbours to them.

Throughout all the eaſt-land of Gilead.] They poſſeſſed all that Country, which lay Eaſt of Gilead: Which chiefly belonged to the Gadites and Manaſſites, though the Reubenites had ſome of it, Deut. iii. 12, 13. A very learned Man of our own is of opinion, that theſe Hagarenes inhabited the Country called Petra Nabatæa. See Dr Fuller's Miſcellanea Sacra, L. ii. cap. 13. where he obſerves, that all the reſt, who were called Iſhmaelites or Kedar, were afterwards comprehended under the Name of Saracens.

Ver. 11. And the children of Gad dwelt over againſt them, in the land of Baſhan, unto Salcah:] See Joſh. xiii. 24, 25, &c. He next mentions the Gadites, becauſe they were Neighbours to the Reubenites.

Ver. 12. Joel the chief, and Shapham next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Baſhan.] He doth not give us the Genealogy of this whole tribe, but only the names of the principal Perſons; among whom theſe were the moſt eminent, when their Genealogy was examined: Which ſeems to have been in the Reign of Joſham, ver. 17. All theſe dwelt, I ſuppoſe, in the Metropolis of the Country called Baſhan: Where the chief City was called by the ſame name: And afterwards called Batanæa.

Ver. 13. And their brethren of the houſe of their fathers were, Michael, and Meſhullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber, ſeven.] Theſe ſeven were eminent Perſons deſcended from other great men of the ſame Family with thoſe before-named: And therefore are called their Brethren.

Ver. 14. Theſe are the children of Abihail the ſon of Huri,] That is, the ſeven before-mentioned, came from Abihail; whoſe Pedigree here follows.

The ſon of Jeraoh, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Michael, the ſon of Jeſhiſhai, the ſon of Jahdo, the ſon of Buz;

Ver. 15. Ahi the ſon of Abdiel, the ſon of Guni, chief of the houſe of their fathers.] Beſides the foregoing, there was another great Perſon who was of chief Authority, in the Family of Abdiel and Guni, and their Fathers.

Ver. 16. And they dwelt in Gilead in Baſhan,] In a Part of it; the reſt being given to the Reubenites and the half Tribe of Manaſſeh. See Joſh. xiii. 25. xvii. 1. Deut. iii. 13. where it is ſaid Moſes gave all Baſhan to the Manaſſites: But the Meaning is, all that was not given to the other two Tribes who had a Share therein. See what I have noted upon Deut. iii. 13.

And in her towns,] That is, ſuch Towns as belonged to that Portion of the Country which they poſſeſſed.

And in all the ſuburbs of Sharon,] A Country where there was excellent Paſturage, and which produced the moſt generous Wine. There was two Sharon's, one in the Eaſt inhabited by the Gadites, Deut. iii. 12, 13. another in the Weſt, Joſh. xii. 17, 18. not far from the famous Port called Joppa, Acts ix. 35.

Upon their borders.] Unto the utmoſt Bound (as the Hebrew Words ſignify) of that Country.

Ver. 17. All theſe were reckoned by genealogies, in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Iſrael.] This doth not imply that Jotham and Jeroboam reigned in the ſame Time: But that in their ſeveral Reigns this Account was taken. Kimchi thinks that all these (i. e. the Children of Reuben, the Children of Gad, and half Tribe of Manasseh) were reckoned, that were listed to undertake the War afterward mentioned, with the Hagarens: So that it may not concern the Genealogy.

Ver. 18. The sons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, of valiant men, men able to bear buckler and sword, and to shoot with bow, and skilful in war, were four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore, that went out to the war.] These three Tribes, or at least so many of them as made a great Army, joined their Forces together, consisting of their best Soldiers, to invade the Country of the Hagarites. This seems to be a distinct War from that in the Days of Saul, ver. 10. See 1 Sam. xiv. 47.

Ver. 19. And they made war with the Hagarites, with Jetur, and Nephish, and Nodab.] There was mention of the Hagarites before, but now he shews how they were utterly expelled their Country, though their Neighbours came to their Assistance; viz. those of Jetur, Nephish, and Nodab: Who were all Ishmaelites; the two first being expressly mentioned as the Sons of Ishmael, Gen. xxv. 15. from whom these People took their Name. But, as Dr Jackson observes, there are no People mentioned in Scripture, who took their Name from Nebaioth his eldest Son. Which makes it probable, that they who in Heathen Writers are called Nabathæi, were in Scripture called Ishmaelites, as sole Heirs to their first Progenitor's Name. Their Seat was in the best Part of Arabia Petræa, near to the Midianites. See Book i. on the Creed, Chap. 25. Sect. 3. where he notes, that the Greek Writers call the Hagarites Ἀγραῖοι; which is more consonant to the Hebrew Name than the Latin, Hagareni. Their chief City was called Atra, and the Inhabitants Atræni, unless they mistook their Name, which perhaps was Agreni.

Ver. 20. And they were helped against them,] It is likely the Hagarites fought stoutly, but God assisted the Israelites; enduing them with extraordinary Courage, and daunted their Enemies. For it is not likely any other Help is here meant but that from God.

And the Hagarites were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them:] That is, those Allies before mentioned, who came to their Aid.

For they cried unto God in the battle, and he was intreated of them, because they put their trust in him.] I suppose their Enemies were too hard for them, in the first Onset, which made them pray to God most earnestly in the midst of the Fight: Representing to him the pious Confidence they placed in him and his almighty Power, and not in their Arms and warlike Skill: Which moved him to give them the Success they desired. Here the Targum, instead of these Words, they put their Trust in him, hath these, they put their Trust be memra, in his WORD.

Ver. 21. And they took away their cattle;] In the Hebrew, lead Captive; that is, drove as many of their Cattle as they pleased into their own Country. This Place is, among others, alledged by Grotius, as a Proof of the Lawfulness of taking the Spoil in a just War against an Enemy: As God allowed the Israelites to do, when a City fell in their Hands, which had refused their Offers of Peace, Deut. xx. 14. But this Instance is the more to be minded, because the War here spoken of was not by divine Precept as that against the seven Nations of Canaan: But from common Right, which Men had to defend themselves against injurious Persons, or to invade those who had invaded them, and would make them no Satisfaction. Such War was approved by God, it appears by this, that he aided them, when they called upon him for Help, as we read in the foregoing Verse. See Lib. 3. De Jure Belli & Pacis, Cap. 6. Sect. 1.

Of their camels fifty thousand,] It is no Wonder there were so many, for the Arabians abounded in Camels, as Diodorus Siculus relates, Lib. 3. Cap. 12. which they used in War, as well as to carry Burdens in the Time of Peace. See Pliny, Lib. 8. cap. 18. and Vegetius, L. 3. For they being Creatures very patient of Thirst, were the fitter for any Service in that hot and dry Country. See Bochartus in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 2.

And of sheep two hundred and fifty thousand, and of asses two thousand,] The prodigious Number of Sheep that those Countries produced, is at large shewed by the same Author, Lib. 2. Cap. 46. and their Breed of Asses in the same Book, Cap. 13.

And of men] In the Hebrew, Souls of Men; i. e. of Men, Women, and Children.

An hundred thousand.] Whom they did not kill (it appears by this Relation) but carried them out of their own Country, and sold them for Slaves (as the Manner was in those Days) or employed them as such in their own Business.

Ver. 22. For there fell down many slain,] Besides these taken Captive, a great Number were slain in the Fight; which could not be avoided.

Because the war was of God.] Perhaps they consulted him before they went upon this Expedition; and he encouraged them to undertake it, as he powerfully assisted them in it. Here again the Targum saith, the War was from the WORD of Jehovah.

And they dwelt in their steads] Possibly all those valiant Men who were engaged in this War, settled themselves in the Country which they had conquered.

Until the Captivity.] In the Days of Pekah, 2 Kings xv. 29. when they were rooted out, as the rest of the ten Tribes were in the Days of Hoshea.

Ver. 23. And the children of the half tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land:] In the same Country, on the other Side of Jordan, with the Reubenites and Gadites: Of whom he having spoken, gives a short Account of the Manassites.

They increased from Bashan unto Baal-hermon, and Senir, and unto Hermon.] They were first possessed of the Kingdom of Og in Bashan, Josh. xiii. 30. From whence they extended their Territories, when they were increased, unto the Northern Parts of the Country beyond Jordan.

Ver. 24. And these were the heads of the house of their fathers, even Epher, and Ishi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, mighty men of valour, famous men, and heads of the house of their fathers.] He reckons only the most remarkable Men of this Tribe: Who were not only of chief Authority in their several Families, but by their valiant Exploits had gotten great Renown.

Ver. 25. And they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and went a whoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God destroyed before them.] All Israel transgressed as well as they: But it seems they were the greatest Transgressors, who began, perhaps, the Apostacy from God, and were Ring-leaders to Idolatry. And therefore, as it here follows, they were the first that were carried away captive.

Ver. 26. And the God of Israel] The Targum saith, the Memra, or WORD of the God of Israel. From whence it appears, they thought the divine ΛΟΓΟΣ to be the God of Israel: For they are Words of the same Import.

Stirred up the spirit of Pul the king of Assyria,] When, perhaps, he intended to bend his Forces another Way, God inclined him to go against Israel: Whom he distressed so much, that they were forced to make him a great Present: Whereby they moved him not to stay there, but return to his own Country, 2 Kings xv. 19, 20. We do not read, that he carried any of the People captive; though perhaps he might, after some Spoil in the Skirts of the Country, as he went home.

And the spirit of Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria] Who came in the next King's Reign but one, and carried those Tribes away captive, as we read in 2 Kings xv. 29.

And he carried them away (even the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh)] He carried these away entirely, together with some of the People of Galilee; particularly all Naphtali, as the fore-named Place tells us. And the Jews say, they carried away the golden Calf which was in Dan; as they gather from 2 Chron. xxviii. 21.

And brought them unto Halah, and Habor, and Hara,] These are the very Places unto which Salmaneser afterward carried the Remainder of the Ten Tribes, 2 Kings xvii. 6. xviii. 11. where there is only this Difference, that there it is said into the cities of the Medes, but here unto Hara: Which is all one; for Media is the very same with Hara, and is by St Hierom (without an Aspiration) called Ara. And the Greeks commonly call it Aria, and the People of it Arii, as we read in Herodotus, Pausanias, and others. And Bochartus thinks, not without Reason, that the mountainous Part of the Country of Media towards the North, was properly called by this Name of Hara; from the Word Har, which signifies a Mountain. Here Strabo saith many Foreigners inhabited: For it is likely this hilly Country was most empty of People.

And the river of Gozan,] That is, to the Banks of the River on both Sides: For it is as much as τὴν περιχώρεγ, to the Region about this River, as our very learned Mr Nic. Fuller observes, in his Miscellanea, Lib. 2. C. 5. where he takes Gozan to be the ancient Name for that River, which the Persians afterward called Cyrus: Near to which stood the City Gauzania in Ptolemy; which retained that Name from the River Gozan.

Unto this day.] Here they settled, as the same learned Man observes; and did not range as far as Tartary, as some have thought. For how should they, being miserable Captives, who had no Power to go back, or to go forward? Especially through strange Countries, without any Arms, or other Accommodations.

CHAP. VI.

Verse 1. THE sons of Levi; Gershon; Kohath, and Merari.] The first of these is called Gersham, ver. 16. See Gen. xlvi. 11. Exod. vi. 16.

Ver. 2. And the sons of Kohath;] He begins with the Genealogy of the second Son, because from him sprung the Family of the Priests.

Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel.] The second of these Sons is called Aminadab, ver. 22.

Ver. 3. And the children of Amram; Aaron, Moses, and Miriam.] See Exod. vi. 20.

The sons also of Aaron; Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.] The two first perished for their Sin, in offering with strange Fire, Lev. x. 1.

Ver. 4. Eleazar begat Phinehas, and Phinehas begat Abishua,

Ver. 5. And Abishua begat Bukki, and Bukki begat Uzzi,] According to the Manner of the Greeks and Latins, who are wont to deprave Oriental Names, Josephus calls these three Abiezer, Boceias and Ozi, Lib. 5. Archæol. Cap. 41. And the Chronicon Alexandrinum, as Mr Selden observes, assigns the very Time when they exercised the High-priesthood; Abishua (whom he calls Abiud) in the Time of Ehud; Bukki in the Time of Shamgar; and Uzzi in the Time of Tola. In whose Days, the Jews think, the Priesthood was translated from the Family of Eleazar to that of Ithamar: For some great Sin which they had committed; as afterwards for the Sins of Eli his Sons, it was translated back again to Eleazar's Posterity. So they say in Juchasin, In the days of Sampson died Uzzi of the family of Eleazar, and the high-priesthood was translated to the family of Ithamar; the first of which was Eli. But as the Alexandrian Chronicle is of no great Authority, so there is no Mention, as Mr Selden observes, of the Names of these three Persons, as succeeding Phineas, either in the Scripture, or the Hebrew Chronicles, or in Eusebius. But the only High-priest between Eleazar and Eli is Phineas: Who the Jews think was alive in the War with the Benjamites, Judges xxi. 28. See Lib. 1. De Success. ad Pontif. Cap. 2. But this cannot be justified.

Ver. 6. And Uzzi begat Zerahiah, and Zerahiah begat Meraioth.

Ver. 7. Meraioth begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub,] See Ezra vii. 3. where in this Genealogy six Generations are omitted by him, from Meraioth to Azariah the son of Johanan, which are here mentioned. This Kimchi thinks was done for Brevity's sake.

Ver. 8.

Ver. 8. And Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Ahimaaz.] See 2 Sam. viii. 17. and xv. 27.

Ver. 9. And Ahimaaz begat Azariah, and Azariah begat Johanan.

Ver. 10. And Johanan begat Azariah, he it is that executed the priests office, in the temple that Solomon built in Jerusalem.] The Divine Writer sets a Mark of Honour upon Azariah (which he doth not on any of the foregoing) for maintaining his Office so resolutely, with the Danger of his Life, against the Usurpation of one of Solomon's Successors, who would have offered Incense in that very Temple which Solomon had built. Of which see 2 Chron. xxvi. 17, 18, &c. The mention of Solomon's Temple in this Place, plainly denotes, that this was written after the second Temple was built, or while it was in building.

But Ludovicus Capellus is of Opinion, that Azariah here spoken of is not he that resisted Uzziah. For such a noble Fact as that was, he thinks, would not have been touched in such general Words: But he takes him to have been the High-priest in the Days of Solomon; and was the first that ministred only in his Temple. For Zadok his Grandfather, and Ahimaaz his Father ministred first in the Tabernacle. Therefore to make this agree with that Azariah, he thinks we ought to acknowledge a double Metathesis in these Verses 9, 10, 11, 12, which ought to be read thus: Ahimaaz begat Azariah, (he is the first that executed the priests office in the house which Solomon built in Jerusalem) Azariah begat Amariah, Amariah begat Johanan, Johanan begat Azariah, Azariah begat Ahitub, Ahitub begat Zadok. If this be admitted, all the Difficulties that arise out of this Genealogy are quite removed. See his Chronologia Sacra Notæ in Tab. XIV. p. 286.

Ver. 11. Azariah begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub.

Ver. 12. And Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Shallum.] Who is called Meshullam in ch. ix. 11. These three are mentioned no where else, but in Nehem. xi. 11. tho' they discharged the High-Priest's Office in the Reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, and Manasseh, as Ludovicus Capellus makes account in his Chronol. Sacra, p. 287.

Ver. 13. And Shallum begat Hilkiah, and Hilkiah begat Azariah.

Ver. 14. And Azariah begat Seraiah, and Seraiah begat Jehozadak.] When Jerusalem was taken by the king of Babylon's Army, Seraiah was carried by the Captain of the Guard to Nebuchadnezzar at Riblah: Where he commanded him to be put to death. So that in him ended the Succession of High-Priests under the first Temple: Which from Zadok unto him were twelve. The Jews in Seder Olam Zula make them to be eighteen; but they are not to be believed against the Scripture: There being also the very same Succession mentioned, Ezra vii. 1, 2, &c. which beginning from Aaron, the first four of these here mentioned, together with Ahitub the Father of Zadok are omitted for Brevity's sake, as Kimchi thinks. See Selden de Success. ad Pontiff. L. i. cap. 5. But some think it sufficient to say, that it was not the Intention of the Writer of this Book to mention all the High-Priests that were from Zadok to Seraiah: Because Jehoiada who was the High-Priest in the Time of Athaliah is not here named. He is called indeed every where Jehoiada the Priest: Yet he took upon him such Authority, as may well make us suppose him to have been High-Priest. It is observed by Kimchi, that the Line of the High-Priest is drawn from Aaron down to the Captivity, thro' the Family of Eleazar his eldest Son; none of Ithamar's being mentioned: Because the perpetual Priesthood was promised only to Phineas the Son of Eleazar, Numb. xxv.

Ver. 15. And Jehozadak went into captivity, when the LORD carried away Judah and Jerusalem, by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.] In the Captivity he begat Jeshua, who came back in the Time of Cyrus, Ezra iii. 2.

Ver. 16. The sons of Levi; Gershom, Kohath, and Merari.] He hath not yet done with the Account he intends to give of Levi's Posterity: And therefore repeats the Names of his Sons, from whom these Levites sprung, who were not Priests.

Ver. 17. And these be the names of the sons of Gershom; Libni, and Shimei.] Who were not mentioned before.

Ver. 18. And the sons of Kohath were, Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel.] See ver. 2.

Ver. 19. And the sons of Merari; Mahli, and Mushi.] See Exod. vi. 19.

And these are the families of the Levites, according to their fathers.] That is, these were the Heads of the Families that sprung from them: As it is probable, they that follow in the next Catalogue were the Chief of their Families which continued unto the Days of David, who regulated their Attendance in their several Courses.

Ver. 20. Of Gershom: Libni his son, Jahath his son, Zimmah his son.] This last was his Grand-Son by his Son Shimei, as appears from ver. 42. But such are frequently called Sons.

Ver. 21. Joah his son, Iddo his son, Zerah his son, Jeaterai his son.

Ver. 22. The sons of Kohath; Amminadab.] Called Izhar, ver. 2.

Korah his son, Assir his son.

Ver. 23. Elkanah his son, and Eliasaph his son, and Assir his son.

Ver. 24. Tahath his son, Uriel his son.] Called also Zephaniah, ver. 36.

Uzziah his son.] Who went also by the Name of Azariah, as that Verse tells us.

And Shual his son.

Ver. 25. And the sons of Elkanah.] He was the Son of Korah, mentioned ver. 23. as appears from Exod. vi. 24.

Amasai, and Ahimoth.

Ver. 26. As for Elkanah: the sons of Elkanah; Zophai his son.] Or Zuph, as he is called ver. 35. This is another Elkanah; Son, it is likely, of him last mentioned.

And Nahath his son.

Ver. 27. Eliab his son.] Who is called Eliel, ver. 34.

Jeroham his son, Elkanah his son.

Ver. 28. The ſons of Samuel.] Who was the Son of Elkanah, as we read, 1 Sam. i. 1. which being a thing well known, this Writer (giving only a Breviate of theſe Hiſtories) omits the mention of it. But it appears by this Account, that Samuel was only a Levite, not of the Race of the Prieſts (for he did not deſcend from Aaron, but from Izhar the Uncle of Aaron) much leſs the High-Prieſt, as ſome great Men have fancied. See Selden de Succeſſ. ad Pontif. L. 1. cap. 14.

The firſt-born Vaſhni, and Abiah.] The firſt of theſe is called Joel, 1 Sam. viii. 2. and here below, ver. 33.

Ver. 29. The ſons of Merari; Mahli, Libni his ſon, Shimei his ſon, Uzza his ſon.

Ver. 30. Shimea his ſon, Haggiah his ſon, Aſaiah his ſon.

Ver. 31. And theſe are they.] Having thus far deduced the Genealogy of the Levites, he proceeds now to give an Account how David ordered their Attendance upon the Service of God at the Tabernacle: And ſets down the Names of the Chief of them, which here follows.

Whom David ſet over the ſervice of the ſong.] Appointed to miniſter unto God by ſinging of Songs in his Houſe.

After that the ark had reſt.] After David had brought it from the Houſe of Obed Edom, and ſettled it at Jeruſalem, 2 Sam. viii. 17.

Ver. 32. And they miniſtred before the dwelling place of the tabernacle of glory.] Which David had prepared for the Ark, when it came to Jeruſalem, 2 Sam. viii. 17.

With ſinging.] The Pſalms which David and other Prophets compoſed.

Until Solomon had built the houſe of the LORD in Jeruſalem.] Before the Temple was built by Solomon, they performed this Service: Which did not ceaſe after it was built, but continued in great Order, as it here follows.

And then they waited in their office, according to their order.] Which David himſelf had conſtituted a little before his Death: As we read in the latter End of this Book.

Ver. 33. And theſe are they that waited with their children: Of the ſons of the Kohathites; Heman a ſinger, the ſon of Joel, the ſon of Shemuel.] That is, of Samuel the great Prophet: Whoſe Name, it appears by this, was differently pronounced in different Times and Places. This Place alſo ſtill ſhews more clearly, that Samuel was only a Levite of the Family of the Kohathites, not a Prieſt of the Family of Aaron, which is ſuggeſted by the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. xcix. Moſes and Aaron among his prieſts, and Samuel among them that call upon his name. Therefore, at Eſtius obſerves, when Samuel is ſaid to have offered Sacrifice, (as he did often in Galgal and other Places) it muſt be underſtood that he did it by the Miniſtry of the Prieſts, not by himſelf. And thus David and Solomon ſacrificed, but not by their own Hands, but by thoſe to whoſe Office it properly belonged.

This Heman was ſo eminent for his Skill in ſinging, that he is thought to have been a Compoſer of Hymns: Which I have conſidered in my Notes upon 1 Kings iv.

Ver. 34. The ſon of Elkanah, the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Eliel, the ſon of Toah.] Called Nahath, ver. 26.

Ver. 35. The ſon of Zuph.] Called Zuphai, ver. 26.

The ſon of Elkanah, the ſon of Mahath, the ſon of Amiſai.

Ver. 36. The ſon of Elkanah, the ſon of Joel, the ſon of Azariah, the ſon of Zephaniah,

Ver. 37. The ſon of Tahath, the ſon of Aſſir, the ſon of Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah,

Ver. 38. The ſon of Izhar, the ſon of Kohath, the ſon of Levi, the ſon of Iſrael.] Thus in honour of Samuel, the Pedigree of Heman, who was his Grand-Son, is derived from Iſrael the Father of them all.

Ver. 39. And his brother Aſaph (who ſtood on his right hand) even Aſaph the ſon of Berechiah, the ſon of Shimea.] This depends upon ver. 33. where it is ſaid, theſe are they that waited with their Children, &c. viz. Heman and Aſaph: Who is called Heman's Brother, according to the Hebrew Phraſe; in which all near Kindred are called Brothers. And theſe two were of the ſame Tribe, and Family; and alſo of the ſame Employment, upon which Account, if there were no other, he might be called the Brother of Heman.

Ver. 40. The ſon of Michael, the ſon of Baaſeiah, the ſon of Melchiah,

Ver. 41. The ſon of Ethni, the ſon of Zerah, the ſon of Adaiah.

Ver. 42. The ſon of Ethan, the ſon of Zimmah, the ſon of Shimei,

Ver. 43. The ſon of Jahath, the ſon of Gerſhom, the ſon of Levi.] There was no need to add, the ſon of Iſrael: For it is apparent they ſprung from the ſame Stock, by two Brethren the Sons of Levi.

Ver. 44. Their brethren the ſons of Merari, ſtood on the left hand.] In like Manner, the Children of the next Son of Levi are here mentioned; who had the loweſt Place aſſigned, becauſe they were of the youngeſt Family. So there were three principal Singers, who were Maſters and Governors of the whole Choir, Heman deſcended from Kohath was the Prime, who, together with his Sons ſtood in the middle: And then Aſaph, deſcended from Gerſhom with his Sons ſtood on his right Hand: And Ethan from Merari on the left. Of theſe three Families there were three principal Perſons, who bare Rule over the reſt of the Singers here mentioned, and kept good Order among them. And indeed there was an admirable Order obſerved, in the whole Miniſtry at the Tabernacle: Three great Men, and their Sons were Singers and Muſicians; the reſt of the Levites prepared and made ready the Sacrifices; the Prieſts offered them; and the High Prieſt officiated in the moſt Holy Place, as it here follows.

Ethan the ſon of Kiſhi, the ſon of Abdi, the ſon of Malluch:] He who is here called Ethan, is called Jeduthun, ch. ix. 16. and in many other Places.

Ver. 45. The ſon of Haſhabiah, the ſon of Amaziah, the ſon of Hilkiah.

Ver. 46. The ſon of Amzi, the ſon of Bani, the ſon of Shamer,

Ver. 47.

Ver. 47. The ſon of Mahli, the ſon of Muſhi, the ſon of Merari, the ſon of Levi.] It is obſervable, that in all the Genealogies of the Levites, there is not a Word ſaid of the Sons of Moſes and their Poſterity: He having no Ambition to prefer them unto any Office, either in Church or State.

Ver. 48. Their brethren alſo the Levites,] The reſt of that Tribe, who were not fit to be Singers.

Were appointed unto all manner of ſervice of the tabernacle, of the houſe of God.] They performed all the laborious Work that was to be done in the Tabernacle; being Porters, Keepers of the Veſſels of the Sanctuary, as well as taking Care to prepare the Sacrifices, and ſuch like Things. Of which an Account is given below in ch. xxiii. and theſe following.

Ver. 49. But Aaron and his ſons offered upon the altar of the burnt-offering, and on the altar of incenſe, and were appoined for all the work of the place moſt holy, and to make an atonement for Iſrael, according to all that Moſes the ſervant of God had commanded.] The nobleſt Part of the Miniſtry was reſerved for Aaron and his Poſterity: Which is mentioned at large in the Book of Leviticus. Which ſhews that Aaron alone, and his Succeſſors in the High Prieſthood, miniſtred in the place moſt holy, and made the Atonement: But his Sons the Prieſts, offered on the Altars of Burnt-offering, and of Incenſe.

Ver. 50. And theſe are the ſons of Aaron; Eleazar his ſon, Phineas his ſon, Abiſhua his ſon,

Ver. 51. Bukki his ſon, Uzzi his ſon. Zerahiah his ſon,

Ver. 52. Meraioth his ſon, Amariah his ſon, Ahitub his ſon,

Ver. 53. Zadok his ſon, Ahimaaz his ſon.] Having mentioned the High-Prieſt's Office, he ſets down the Succeſſion of it from Aaron to the Time of David: Which he had done before more largely to the Time of the Captivity, ver. 3, 4, &c. There was no Age like to this of David's, as Victorinus Strigelius obſerves, which produced ſo many great Men, that he calls it the Prophetical Age. Wherein God raiſed up Samuel, Nathan, Gad, Heman, Aſaph, and Ethan: Who made the Word of God dwell plentifully in the Church of Iſrael in all Wiſdom.

Ver. 54. Now thoſe are their dwelling-places throughout their caſtles, in the coaſts of the ſons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathites.] Now follows an Account of the Place where they inhabited: And firſt of the Habitation of the Sons of Aaron, who were the nobleſt of the Kohathites.

For theirs was the Lot.] That is, the firſt Lot fell to them. See Joſh. xxi. 4.

Ver. 55. And they gave them Hebron in the land of Judah, and the ſuburbs thereof round about it. Joſh. xxi. 10, 11.

Ver. 56. But the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, they gave to Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh. Joſh. xxi. 12.

Ver. 57. And to the ſons of Aaron they gave the cities of Judah, namely, Hebron the city of refuge, and Libnah with her ſuburbs, and Jattir, and Eſhtemoa, with their ſuburbs.] Beſides the forenamed City of Hebron (which is mentioned again, becauſe the moſt eminent) they gave them theſe following, which were in the ſame Tribe of Judah.

Ver. 58. And Hilen with her ſuburbs.] Called Holon in the Book of Joſhua, ch. xxi. 15.

And Debir with her ſuburbs.] Mentioned in the ſame Place.

Ver. 59. And Aſhan with her ſuburbs.] Called Ain, Joſh. xxi. 16.

And Beth-ſhemeſh with her ſuburbs.] Mentioned in the ſame Place.

Ver. 60. And out of the tribe of Benjamin; Geba with her ſuburbs, and Alemeth with her ſuburbs.] Called Almon, Joſh. xxi. 18.

And Anothoth with her ſuburbs. All their cities throughout their families were thirteen cities.] Whereof there are only eleven here mentioned: But there are two more added in the Book of Joſhua, viz. Jattah and Gibeon, which make thirteen, ch. xxi. 16, 17. Perhaps they were not yet rebuilt, when this Book was written.

Ver. 61. And unto the ſons of Kohath, which were left of the ſame family of that tribe.] Who were not of the Sons of Aaron, but deſcended from Kohath.

Were cities given out of the half tribe, namely out of the half tribe of Manaſſeh, by lot, ten cities.] Some of theſe Cities were taken out of the Tribe of Manaſſeh, and ſome out of others; as appears from Joſh. xxi. But in all they made ten, v. 26.

Ver. 62. And to the ſons of Gerſhom throughout their families, out of the tribe of Iſſachar, and out of the tribe of Aſher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali. and out of the tribe of Manaſſeh, in Baſhan, thirteen cities.] Their Cities were aſſigned them in theſe ſeveral Tribes, becauſe they were too many to be contained in one.

Ver. 63. Unto the ſons of Merari were given by lot, throughout their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

Ver. 64. And the children of Iſrael gave to the Levites theſe cities, with their ſuburbs.] To the Tribe of Levi, conſiſting of Prieſts, and ſimple Levites, theſe Cities were given, which are here mentioned in this Chapter.

Ver. 65. And he gave by lot out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Benjamin.] Theſe three Tribes were very near one to another; and in ſeveral Places Simeon mixed together with the other two.

Theſe cities which are called by their names.] Which are recited in the foregoing Verſes (v. 57, &c.) and given to the Sons of Aaron.

Ver. 66. And the reſidue of the families of the ſons of Kohath had cities of their coaſts, out of the tribe of Ephraim.] By Coaſts here is meant Portions: Which were aſſigned them, tho' they were not Prieſts, for their Support in a lower Miniſtry. Theſe Things ſeem to be mentioned ſo often, and with ſuch Exactneſs, that it might appear what Care was taken by God for the Maintenance of his Miniſters of all Sorts; and for the Inſtruction of his People, among whom he diſperſed the Levites, who were peculiarly devoted to his Service.

Ver. 67. And they gave unto them of the cities of refuge, Shechem in mount Ephraim, with her ſuburbs: they gave alſo Gezer with her ſuburbs.] Theſe were Places of great Eminence, unto which there was great Reſort: Which gave them the greater Opportunity of doing good. They are both expreſsly mentioned, Joſh. xxi. 21.

Ver. 69. And Aijalon with her ſuburbs, and Gathrimmon with her ſuburbs.

Ver. 70. And out of the half tribe of Manaſſeh; Aner with her ſuburbs, and Bilean with her ſuburbs, for the family of the remnant of the ſons of Kohath.] The City here called Bileam is called Ibleam in the Book of Joſhua; Length of Time making greater Alterations in the Names both of Perſons and Places, than this is, as appears by ſeveral other Places here mentioned. For as Kimchi here well notes (which frivolous Cavillers ſhould obſerve) the Divine Writers did not affect Accuracy in ſuch Matters as theſe; but took Names as they found them.

Ver. 71. Unto the ſons of Gerſhom were given out of the family of the half tribe of Manaſſeh, Golan in Baſhan with her ſuburbs, and Aſhtaroth with her ſuburbs.] From Golan came the Gaulonites.

Ver. 72. And out of the tribe of Iſſachar; Kediſh with her ſuburbs, Daberath with her ſuburbs,

Ver. 73. And Ramoth with her ſuburbs, and Anem with her ſuburbs:

Ver. 74. And out of the tribe of Aſher; Maſhal with her ſuburbs, and Abdon with her ſuburbs,

Ver. 75. And Hukok with her ſuburbs, and Rehob with her ſuburbs.

Ver. 76. And out of the tribe of Naphtali; Kedeſh in Galilee with her ſuburbs, and Hammon with her ſuburbs, and Kirjathaim with her ſuburbs.] That Place which here is called Hamon, is in Joſh. xxi. 32. called Hamoth: From whence ſome argue, that one of theſe Places is corrupted; and they fancy this, becauſe the LXX here hath χαμώθ. As tho' the Name of ſome Place and Perſon (as I ſaid before) may not be differently pronounced in different Times and Countries. As Achan and Achar, mentioned above.

Ver. 77. Unto the reſt of the children of Merari were given out of the tribe of Zebulon, Rimmon with her ſuburbs, Tabor with her ſuburbs.

Ver. 78. And on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho, on the eaſt-ſide of Jordan were given them out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the wilderneſs with her ſuburbs, and Jahzah with her ſuburbs.

Ver. 79. Kedemoth alſo with her ſuburbs, and Mephaath with her ſuburbs.

Ver. 80. And out of the tribe of Gad; Ramoth in Gilead with her ſuburbs, and Mahanaim with her ſuburbs, Ver. 81. And Heſhbon with her ſuburbs, and Jazer with her ſuburbs.] The firſt of theſe, Heſhbon, was reckoned to be in the Tribe of Reuben as well as in Gad. Of which ſee Joſh. xiii. 17.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe 1. NOW the ſons of Iſſachar were Tola, and Puah, Jaſhub, and Shimron, four.] There is ſome little Difference in the Names of two of theſe, as they are mentioned Gen. xlvi. And Jaſhub ſeems to have been called Job, for brevity ſake: Juſt as Aram is called Ram, and among us Alexander is called Saunder. See Buxtorf's Anticritica, Part ii. Cap. 8. where Raſi gives another Account of it, but not ſo likely.

Ver. 2. And the ſons of Tola; Uzzi, and Rephaiah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, and Jibſam, and Shemuel, heads of their fathers houſe, to wit, of Tola: they were valiant men of might in their generations; whoſe number was in the days of David two and twenty thouſand and ſix hundred.] When David numbered the People (2 Sam. xxiv.) there were found thus many deſcended from the firſt-born of Iſſachar; which was a very great Increaſe.

Ver. 3. And the ſons of Uzzi; Izrahiah.] He names but one Son: Therefore, all his Poſterity is comprehended in the Name of Sons.

And the ſons of Izrahiah; Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Iſhiah, five: all of them chief men.] Reckoning their Father for one, they were five in all: And Perſons of great Authority.

Ver. 4. And with them, by their generations, after the houſe of their fathers, were bands of ſouldiers for war, ſix and thirty thouſand men.] As they were numerous, ſo they were of a warlike Spirit; which made them very conſiderable.

For they had many wives and ſons.] They were very fruitful, and propagated the more, becauſe they had many Wives, who bare them many Sons: And thoſe Sons, it is likely, took many Wives alſo, for the greater Increaſe of their Family. For this was the Cauſe of Polygamy among them, the Deſire of a numerous Off-ſpring (whereby God's Promiſe to Abraham, of making them as the Stars of Heaven for Multitude, might be fulfilled) and of an holy Race of People to propagate Piety, when the Nations of the World were generally corrupted. See Chap. viii. 40.

Ver. 5. And their brethren.] That is, their Kindred.

Among all the families of Iſſachar, were valiant men of might, reckoned in all by their genealogies, fourſcore and ſeven thouſand.] There was no ſuch great Increaſe of the reſt of the Families of Iſſachar, ſince in all they amounted but to this Number: And from two of his Sons ſprung above fifty eight thouſand.

Ver. 6. The ſons of Benjamin; Bele, and Becher, and Jediael, three.] He mentions no more in this Place; but in the next Chapter, ver. 1, 2. he mentions five: They were ten in all, as we read in Gen. xlvi. 21. But either half of them died without Iſſue, or their Families were extinct, or their Genealogies loſt.

Ver. 7. And the ſons of Bela; Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five; Heads of the houſe of their fathers, mighty men of valour, and were reckoned by their genealogies, twenty and two thouſand and thirty and four.] There are

are others mentioned as his Sons, ch. viii. 8. therefore it is likely these were his Grand-sons: Who being more eminent than their Fathers, were mentioned as the chief of their several Families, from whence they sprung.

Ver. 8. And the sons of Becher; Zemira, and Joash, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth. All these are the sons of Becher.

Ver. 9. And the number of them after their genealogy by their generations, heads of the house of their fathers, mighty men of valour, was twenty thousand and two hundred.] They were not so many as those descended from the eldest Son: And the youngest Son had still fewer.

Ver. 10. The sons also of Jediael; Bilhan.] He mentions but one; who includes all descended from him, as it here follows.

And the sons of Bilhan; Jeush, and Benjamin, and Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharshish, and Ahishahar.

Ver. 11. All these the sons of Jediael, by the heads of their fathers, mighty men of valour, were seventeen thousand and two hundred souldiers, fit to go out for war and battle.

Ver. 12. Shuppim also, and Huppim, the children of Ir.] Or, of Iri, as he is called, v. 7. the youngest Son of Bela. Whose Sons are called Huppim and Muppim, Gen. xlvi. 21. In which Book there are other proper Names of Men, in the plural Number, Gen. x. 13, 14. xxv. 3.

And Hushim, the sons of Aher.] If he still speak of the Sons of Benjamin, this Person was called Ahiram, Numb. xxvi. 39. But there being no mention of the Tribe of Dan in this Genealogy, unless it be here, many take Aher not to be a proper Name, but a common Word, signifying other: And so translate the Words thus, another Son: That is, the Son of another Tribe or Family, viz. of Dan. For Hushim was his only Son, Gen. xlvi. 23. where the Word Sons, tho' he speak of one Man only, is used as it is in this Place.

Ver. 13. The sons of Naphtali; Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and Shallum, the sons of Bilhah.] The Sons of Bilhah were Naphtali, and Dan. Therefore these were her Grand-sons by the first of them.

Ver. 14. The sons of Manasseh; Asriel.] His great Grand-son: For both he, and Zelophehad were the Sons of Gilead, the Son of Machir, the Son of Manasseh. See Num. xxvi. 29, &c. xxvii. 1.

Whom she bare.] That is, whom his Wife bare: For his Concubine is here opposed to her, in the next Words.

(But his concubine, the Aramitess, bare Machir the father of Gilead.] He took a Syrian Woman to Wife; from whom his chief Posterity descended.

Ver. 15. And Machir took to wife the sister of Huppim and Muppim, whose sisters name was Maachah.)] He married into the Tribe of Benjamin, whose Sons these were.

And the name of the second son was Zelophehad.] This relates to the Beginning of ver. 14. where his first Son Ashriel is mentioned.

And Zelophehad had daughters.] No Sons, but only Daughters; as we read in the Book of Numbers, ch. xxvii.

Ver. 16. And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a son, and she called his name Peresh; and the name of his brother was Sheresh; and his sons were Ulam, and Rakem.

Ver. 17. And the sons of Ulam; Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh.

Ver. 18. And his sister Hammoleketh bare Ishod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah.] That is, the Sister of Gilead, as Kimchi understands it, (tho' some take her to have been the Sister of Bedan) who was an illustrious Woman, and therefore here mentioned, and, as the Targum imagine, was a Queen; That is, Governess of a certain Tract of Land, in the Country of Gilead. For he takes Hamoleketh not for a proper Name, but for an Appellative: Of which there is no mention neither in the Law, nor in the Prophets, as Kimchi confesses; but they have this by Tradition. Which, tho' it be very groundless, the Vulgar Latin follows it, and translates this Word Regina. Which Estius ingenuously acknowledges to be a Mistake.

Ver. 19. And the sons of Shemida were, Ahiah, and Shechem, and Likki, and Aniam.] There is no mention of Shemida before. But he is supposed to be another Son of Gilead's Sister beforenamed.

Ver. 20. And the sons of Ephraim; Shuthelah, and Bered his son, and Tahath his son, and Eladah his son, and Tahath his son.] Some will have all these to be the Sons of Ephraim: But the most natural Sense seems to be, that Bered was the Son of Shuthelah, and Tahath the Son of Bered, &c. and so on to the following Descendants of Ephraim, whose Genealogy is now related.

Ver. 21. And Zabad his son, and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer, and Elead, whom the men of Gath that were born in that land slew, because they came down to take away their cattle.] This Piece of History is nowhere else recorded: Which in all likelihood fell out before the Children of Israel came out of the Land of Egypt. For Ephraim, it appears by the next Verse, was alive when these Children of his were slain. Who, as the Targum thinks, mistook in their Computation of the End of the Years, wherein they were to be Slaves in Egypt; and imagining them to be expired, made an Inroad into the Land of Canaan to take Possession of it, before the Time they were to enjoy it. But others think it proceeded from their Desire of Prey and Spoil, which they thought they might lawfully get from those whose Country they were to possess: And they presumed the more to make this Attempt, because they were valiant Men, and proud, perhaps of the great Power and Authority, which their Uncle Joseph had in Egypt. Tho' others think it more probable, that the Philistines having infested them in the Land of Goshen, these Sons of Zabad, broke into their Country, to make Reprisals upon their Cattle. Dr Lightfoot (in the Conclusion of his Annotations on Genesis) quite contrary, thinks that the Men of Gath went to plunder in Egypt; and there slew these Ephraimites, who only stood up in Defence of their Cattle. And those Words, that were born in the land, he thinks, signify these Men of Gath were born in Egypt, tho' they now dwelt in Gath. So the Men of Gath were the Plunderers, and not the Ephraimites. But they who take the Ephraimites to have been the Invaders, think those Words are added, to shew that the Philistines were the more incensed against them; because they seemed to come to dispossess them of their Land.

Ver. 22. And Ephraim their father.] They were his Grand-children.

Mourned many days, and his brethren came to comfort him.] That is, his Kindred (as the Word Brethren often signifies) they that were of his Family, came to condole with him. This shews, Ephraim lived to be a very old Man, if this happened near to the Time of their going out of Egypt.

Ver. 23. And when he went in to his wife, she conceived and bare a son, and he called his name Beriah, because it went evil with his house.] For so the Word Beriah imports: His Family was in an ill Condition.

Ver. 24. And his daughter was Sherah, who built Beth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzen-sherah.] She was, it seems, a very great Woman: Who restored both these Cities of Beth-horon, which were destroyed by the Israelites, when they conquered the Land of Canaan, and rebuilt them in the same Place; adding another City, which carried her own Name in it.

Ver. 25. And Rephah was his son.] i. e. The Son of Beriah.

Also Resheph, and Telah his son, and Tahan his son.] Beriah also had another Son, whose Name was Resheph, whose Son was Tela, &c.

Ver. 26. Laadan his son, Ammihud his son, Elishama his son.] Who was the chief Commander in the Tribe of Ephraim, when they were in the Wilderness, Numb. i. 10.

Ver. 27. Non his son, Jehoshuah his son.] For whose sake his Pedigree seems to be thus largely deduced.

Ver. 28. And their Possessions and Habitations were Bethel, and the towns thereof.] See Josh. xvi. 1, &c.

And eastward Naaran, and westward Gezer with the towns thereof, Shechem also and the towns thereof, unto Gaza and the towns thereof.] Or rather Ad-azea, a Place so called: For their Border did not extend so far as Gaza in the Land of the Philistines.

Ver. 29. And by the borders of the children of Manasseh, Beth-shean and her towns, Taanach and her towns, Megiddo and her towns, Dor and her towns. In these dwelt the children of Joseph, the son of Israel.] That is, the Children of Manasseh. See Josh. xvi. 11.

Ver. 30. The sons of Asher; Imnah, and Isuah, and Ishuai, and Beriah, and Serah their sister.] See the same Account of them in Gen. xlvi. 17.

Ver. 31. And the sons of Beriah; Heber, and Malchiel, who is the father of Birzavith.] The two first of these were born before they went into Egypt, as appears from Gen. xlvi. 11.

Ver. 32. And Heber begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham, and Shuah their sister.

Ver. 33. And the sons of Japhlet; Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath: these are the children of Japhlet.

Ver. 34. And the sons of Shamer; Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram.] The Father of these was the second Brother of Japhlet, called Shomer, ver. 32.

Ver. 35. And the sons of his brother.] That is, of Hotham, who was next Brother of Shamer.

Helem, Zophah, and Imna, and Shelesh, and Amal.

Ver. 36. The sons of Zophah; Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah,

Ver. 37. Bezer, and Hod, and Shammah, and Shilshah, and Ithran, and Beera.

Ver. 38. And the sons of Jether; Jephunneh, and Pispah, and Ara.] This Jether is the same that is called in the Verse foregoing Ithran; the youngest Son, but one, of Zophah: The rest had no Sons; or their Genealogy was lost.

Ver. 39. And the sons of Ulla; Arah, and Haniel, and Rezia.] We do not read whose Son Ulla was; but 'tis probable of Jether: Whereof there are many Examples in the foregoing Chapters.

Ver. 40. All these were the children of Asher, heads of their fathers house, choice and mighty men of valour, chief of the princes.] Of these only he gives an Account, and takes no Notice of inferior Families: Tho' they are included, I suppose, in the following Number.

And the number throughout the genealogy of them that were apt to the war and to battle, was twenty and six thousand men.] Tho' they lived in a rich and delicious Country, abounding with Wine and Oil, and other good Things, in the best Part of Galilee; yet they did not give themselves up to Sloth and Laziness; but were a warlike and valiant People.

CHAP. VIII.

Verse 1. NOW Benjamin begat Bela his first-born.] He goes over the Genealogy of this Tribe again (which he had begun before in the foregoing Chapter, v. 6.) and gives a larger Account of it; because it was entirely joined to the Tribe of Judah: And likewise, that he might make way for the following History, and touch upon the Generations of Saul; and shew, how this Tribe was increased again, after that great Calamity which befel them in the Time of the Judges.

Ashbel the second Son, and Aharah the third.] His first-born Bela is expressly so called by Moses, Gen. xlvi. 21. But all the rest are called by very different Names. Therefore, either these were his Grand-children (who are frequently called Sons) or they had two Names, which I shewed before was not unusual. See Chap. iii. 1.

Ver. 2. Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth.

Ver. 3. And the sons of Bela were, Addar, and Gera, and Abihud,

Ver. 4. And Abishua, and Naaman, and Ahoah,

Ver. 5. And Gera.] It is likely, this was the Son of the fore-named; and so Grand-son to Bela.

And Shephuphan, and Huram.

Ver. 6. And these are the sons of Ehud.] Who is not named before; unless he be the third

Son of Bela, called Abihud, ver. 3. And ſome think the three Perſons laſt named to have been his Sons.

Theſe are the heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Geba.] Where their firſt Settlement was.

And they removed them to Manahath.] That is, Gera removed them, as it follows, ver. 7. to a Place mentioned before in the ſecond Chapter of this Book, ver. 52, 54. Geba being too narrow for them, when they were multiplied: Or, this other Place being a more commodious Habitation.

Ver. 7. And Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera: he removed them, and begat Uzza, and Ahihud.] After his Removal.

Ver. 8. And Shaharim begat children in the country of Moab, after he had ſent them away; Huſhim, and Baara were his wives.] After the Removal before mentioned, this Perſon took two Wives of the Country of Moab: Whoſe Names are here ſet down. To ſhew (ſay ſome of the Jews) that tho' a Moabite was excluded from the Congregation of the LORD, yet a Moabiteſs was not; as appears by the Example of Ruth.

Ver. 9. And he begat of Hodeſh his wife.] The Jews think ſhe is the ſame with Baara: Who was called Hodeſh, that is new; becauſe he renewed the Example of marrying a Moabitiſh Woman: Which was firſt practis'd in Ruth. But this is an odd Fancy of theirs, who miſplace the Time of Ruth.

Jobab, and Zibia, and Meſha, and Malcham.

Ver. 10. And Jeuz, and Shachia, and Mirma. Theſe were his ſons, heads of the fathers.] Chief Men in their Families.

Ver. 11. And of Huſhim he begat Ahitub, and Elpaal.] On this Verſe the Jews ground what they ſay of Hodeſh, that ſhe was the ſame with Baara, mentioned ver. 8. with Huſhim as his other Wife.

Ver. 12. The ſons of Elpaal; Eber, and Miſham, and Shamed, who built Ono, and Lod, with the towns thereof.] Theſe two, Ono, and Lod, are joined together in other Places, being neighbouring Cities. See Ezra ii. 33. Nehem. vi. 37. xi. 33. They were but three Miles diſtant one from the other, as Dr Lightfoot computes in his Chorographical Decats before St Mark, chap. ix. ſect. ult. where he ſhews the Talmudiſts ſay, that Ono was a walled City from the Days of Joſhua; but in the War againſt Gibeah it was burnt with Fire, as other Cities were: And rebuilt by this Elpaal: Who alſo re-edified Lod, which is the ſame with Lydda in the New Teſtament, as the ſame Dr Lightfoot obſerves in his Chorogaphical Century before St Matthew. Where he obſerves the Author of the Maps of the Land of Canaan, hath placed Lydda not far from Jordan, and Lod near the Mediterranean: Whereas they are one and the ſame Place, as he ſhews at large. And in the other Place mentioned before, he ſhews it was alſo called Laodicea: For ſometimes they ſpeak of the Martyrs in Lod, and in other Places call them the Martyrs in Laodicea.

Ver. 13. Beriah alſo, and Shema, who were heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Aijalon.] That is, of the Fields that lay about Aijalon: For the Town it ſelf belonged to the Tribe of Dan, Joſh. xix. 42.

Who drove away the inhabitants of Gath.] In revenge (as Pelicanus thinks) of the Slaughter they made long ago, of their Brethren the Ephraimites, ch. vii. 21. Or, finding the Men of Gath had poſſeſſed themſelves of this Place, they drove them out after their Return from the Captivity of Babylon. But we read of no War after their Return, till the Time of the Maccabees: And therefore this belongs (as a moſt judicious Friend of mine, Dr Alix, obſerves) to what was done in ancienter Times, viz. after the Diviſion of the Country by Joſhua.

Ver. 14. And Ahio, Shaſhak, and Jeremoth,

Ver. 15. And Zebadiah, and Arad, and Adar.

Ver. 16. And Michael, and Iſpah, and Joha, the ſons of Beriah.] Mentioned before, ver. 13.

Ver. 17. And Zebadiah, and Meſhullam, and Hezeki, and Heber.

Ver. 18. Iſhmerai alſo, and Jezliah, and Jobab, the ſons of Elpaal.] Of whom we had an Account before, ver. 11, 12.

Ver. 19. And Jakim, and Zichri, and Zabdi,

Ver. 20. And Elienai, and Zilthai, and Eliel,

Ver. 21. And Adaiah, and Beraiah, and Shimrath, the ſons of Shimhi.] It is likely that this Shimhi is the ſame with him who is called Shema, ver. 13.

Ver. 22. And Iſhpan, and Heber, and Eliel,

Ver. 23. And Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,

Ver. 24. And Hananiah, and Elam, and Antothijah.

Ver. 25. And Iphedeiah, and Penuel, the Sons of Shaſhak.] This Shaſhak was an eminent Perſon, mentioned ver. 14.

Ver. 26. And Shamſherai, and Shehariah, and Athaliah.] Here is another Inſtance of the ſame Name, being common to Men and Women.

Ver. 27. And Jareſiah, and Eliah, and Zichri, the ſons of Jeroham.] He is the ſame with Jeremoth, mentioned ver. 14. next to Shaſhak.

Ver. 28. Theſe were heads of the fathers, by their generations, chief men. Theſe dwelt in Jeruſalem.] It is probable that all theſe mentioned from ver. 14. dwelt at Jeruſalem, (one Part of which belonged to the Tribe of Benjamin) as they that are fore-named did at Aijalon.

Ver. 29. And at Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon (whoſe wifes name was Maachab.] Perhaps Gibeon built this City, and gave his Name to it, as Kimchi conjectures. But his proper Name was Jehiel (as we read ch. ix. 35. where this Genealogy is repeated) and he is called the Father of Gibeon, becauſe he was the chief Ruler or Governor of the Benjamites, who inhabited that Place.

Ver. 30. And his firſt-born ſon Abdon, and Zur, and Kiſh, and Baal, and Nadab.] Between Baal and Nadab, there is mention of another Son called Ner, ch. ix. 36.

Ver. 31. And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zacher.] Who is called Zachariah in ch. ix. 37. where another Son is added, called Mikloth, whoſe Poſterity here follows.

Ver. 32. And Mikloth begat Shimeah.] Who is called Shimeam, ch. ix. 38.

And theſe alſo dwelt with their brethren in Jeruſalem, over-againſt them.] Theſe Families likewiſe were ſettled at Jeruſalem, as well as the fore-named: And dwelt in a Part of the City directly over-againſt the other.

Ver. 33. And Ner begat Kiſh, and Kiſh begat Saul.] I obſerved before, ver. 30. that Ner was one of the Sons of Gibeon (or Jehiel) who did not beget (in the common Signification of the Word) Kiſh: But educated him and bred him up. For Kiſh was the Son of Abiel: But different from him mentioned 1 Sam. xiv. 51. who was his Brother. The Targum here ſaith, that Ner and Abiel were the ſame Men; who had two Names: Abiel was his proper Name, but he was called Ner (which ſignifies a Light) becauſe he was illuſtrious upon ſome Accounts which the Jews mentioned. See upon 1 Sam. ix. 1. where there is a large Account of the Anceſtors of Abiel; none of which are here mentioned. Upon which Conradus Pelicanus makes this Reflection. "That hence we may learn, "it is an unneceſſary Labour ſcrupulouſly to "enquire after theſe things, from which we "can reap no Fruit, and of which we may be "ignorant without danger. Eſpecially in the "Matter of theſe Genealogies; the Reaſon "of which is long ago expired; together with "the Tribes to which they belong. As for "the Certainty of our Belief, which depends "upon the Authority of the Holy Scriptures, "that ſtands firm and conſtant, tho' ſome "Things by the Length of Time be ſo ob"ſcure, that they are not now exactly under"ſtood; eſpecially in the Difference we find "in the proper Names of Perſons and Places, "which without any prejudice to the Faith "may be neglected." Thus he.

And Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-ſhua, and Abinadab, and Eſh-Baal.] Who is called alſo Iſhboſheth. See 2 Sam. ii. 8.

Ver. 34. And the ſon of Jonathan was Merib-baal; and Merib-baal begat Micha.] This Son of Jonathan is called commonly Mephiboſheth. See in the fore-named Place.

Ver. 35. And the ſons of Micah were, Pithon, and Melech, and Tarea, and Ahaz.] The third of theſe is called Tahrea, ch. ix. 41.

Ver. 36. And Ahaz begat Jehoadah, and Jehoadah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Moza.

Ver. 37. And Moſa begat Binda: Rapha was his ſon, Eleaſah his ſon, Azel his ſon:

Ver. 38. And Azel had ſix ſons, whoſe names were theſe, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Iſhmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Haman. All theſe were the ſons of Azel.

Ver. 39. And the ſons of Eſhek his brother, were Ulam his firſt-born, Jehuſh the ſecond, and Eliphelet the third.] We read nothing of Eſhek before, unleſs he be the ſame with Eleaſah, v. 37.

Thus the Family of Saul, tho' he was rejected by God from being King of Iſrael, was bleſſed with a numerous Progeny; which ſprung from his great Grand-Child Micah: Whoſe Poſterity is hear largely recorded, in honour of Jonathan.

Ver. 40. And the ſons of Ulam were mighty men of valour, archers.] In the Hebrew the Word for Archers is, thoſe that tread the Bow becauſe their Steel Bows (which were much in uſe among them) were ſo ſtrong, that they could not bend them with their Arms; but ſat down, and preſſing them with their Feet, pulled the Arrow with both Hands, that it might fly with greater Force.

And had many ſons, and ſons ſons an hundred and fifty. All theſe are of the ſons of Benjamin.] Who it appears by Judges xx. were a very valiant Tribe: And this Family, in particular, were noted to be very great, both in Number and Valour.

CHAP. IX.

Ver. 1. So all Iſrael were reckoned by genealogies.] As much as to ſay, thus I have ſummarily reckoned up the Genealogies of all the Tribes; as I found them in the publick Regiſters.

And behold, they were written in the book of the kings of Iſrael, and of Judah.] For, let it be noted, they were ſo careful to preſerve their Genealogies, that they were kept in the publick Records, not only of the Jews, but of the Iſraelites: Whoſe Kings were not negligent in this Matter.

Who were carried away to Babylon for their tranſgreſſion.] Theſe laſt mentioned, of the Tribe of Judah, were carried thither; as the Iſraelites had been before into remote Countries, upon the ſame Account of their Idolatry. In which Captivity there was, no doubt, a great Confuſion made in their Families: But Ezra, by the help of the Prophets Haggai, and Malachi (as the Jews think) undertook to ſet them right, by giving an Account of what he found remaining in his Time. Tho' there is a great Difference of Names in Nehem. xi. from thoſe who are here mentioned: Malachi alſo and Ezra did not live in the ſame Time.

Ver. 2. Now the firſt inhabitants that dwelt in their poſſeſſions in their cities were.] He ſpeaks of thoſe that came back to their own Country with Zerubbabel.

The Iſraelites, the prieſts, Levites, and the Nethinims.] The firſt Inhabitants that came and ſettled in their Country, out of which they had been carried Captive, he comprehends, under four Sorts of Perſons, Iſraelites, Prieſts, Levites, and Nethinims. The firſt of theſe ſeems to comprehend not only all thoſe of the ten Tribes, who were carried Captive with Judah and Benjamin, but thoſe alſo who were carried into Aſſyria and Media by Tiglath-Pileſer and Salmanaſſer. For the Edict of Cyrus extended to them, as well as to Judah and Benjamin; and as the Prophets had foretold, (ſee Jer. v. 3, 4, 10, and ch. xxxi.) ſome of them did return, tho' too many (as the Jews alſo did) continued where they were ſettled in their Captivity. But that the Word Iſraelites is here a diſtinct Name from the Jews, is apparent from what follows, ver. 3. The laſt of theſe, viz. the Nethinims, are generally thought by the Jewiſh Interpreters to be the ſame with the Gibeonites, who performed the lower Offices in the Temple, being Hewers of Wood and Drawers of Water. See Joſh. ix. 27. But Ezra hath given us a better Account of them, ch. viii. 20. where he informs us

us they were given by David to minister to the Levites, (which is the Original of their Name) as the Levites were given by God to help the Priests. And therefore in all Places they are mentioned with Holy Persons.

Ver. 3. And in Jerusalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim and Manasseh.] This shews that some of the ten Tribes returned with those of Judah and Benjamin. For the Proclamation of Cyrus excepted none, but gave all the People of that Nation liberty to return to their own Country. And Josephus says expressly, that the Edict of Cyrus was sent by Zerubbabel to those of Assyria and Media. Many indeed neglected that Favour (as I said before) and continued where they were settled; but those that did return were united to the Jews without Distinction. Insomuch, that at Jerusalem, which belonged to the Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, some of Ephraim and Manasseh were permitted to make their abode. For several of those Tribes being left in the Land of Samaria, when the ten Tribes were carried away, joined with Judah (2 Chron. xxxi. 1. xxxii. 1. xxxiv. 9, &c.) and were carried with them to Babylon, and returned with them.

Ver. 4. Uthai the son of Ammihud, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani, of the children of Pharez the son of Judah.] Now he sets down their Names; and first those of the Tribe of Judah in this and the two following Verses. But their Names are so different from those in Nehem. xi. that it is an Argument they speak of quite different Persons, who lived in different Times.

Ver. 5. And of the Shilonites.] Who are called Shelomites in Numb. xxvi. 20.

Asaiah the first-born, and his sons.] The eldest of that Family, and those descended from him.

Ver. 6. And of the sons of Zerah; Jeuel, and his brethren.] By Brethren are meant near Relations, as ver. 13, 21.

Six hundred and ninety.] This was the whole Number of the Children of Judah, who dwelt in Jerusalem, after they came out of their Captivity.

Ver. 7. And of the sons of Benjamin, Sallu, the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hasenuah.] This Meshullam is said to be descended from quite different Ancestors, than is mentioned Nehem. xi. 7. And therefore this is a quite different Person from the other, tho' of the same Name. Tho' some think that one of these Authors gives an Account of his remote Ancestors, and the other of his more immediate: Which is not probable.

Ver. 8. And Ibneiah the son of Jeroboam, and Elah the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephatiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibnijah.

Ver. 9. And their brethren according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty and six.] By Brethren, as I said before, are meant their near Kindred.

All these Men.] That is, the seven mentioned above, ver. 4, 8.

Were chief of the fathers in the house of heir fathers.] They are called chief Fathers, because they were principal Governors in their Families. Nehemiah mentions no more than nine hundred twenty and eight, who came with these; therefore gives an Account of different Persons; or some before his Time were dead, or removed to some other Place. The first is most likely.

Ver. 10. And of the priests; Jedaiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin.] These are the second Sort of Inhabitants that first settled in their Possessions after the Captivity, mentioned ver. 2.

Ver. 11. And Azariah the son of Hilkiah.] Not he in the Days of Josiah, (2 Kings xxii. 8.) but another of the same Name; whose Son Seraiah lived in the Time of Nehemiah, xi. 11.

The son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Maraioth, the son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God.] This last Person is thought by Pellicanus to have been the High-Priest: But both Ezra, and Haggai tell us Jeshua (or Joshua) was High-Priest, Ezra iii. 2. Haggai i. 1. This therefore was not the Ruler, but a Ruler in God's House (as the Words should be translated) not the principal Ruler, but one in great Authority under him: Perhaps he that was called the Sagan (who was Vicar to the High-Priest; and perform'd his Office when he was sick, or otherwise hindred) or he was the Head of one of the Courses of the Priests, that attended in their Turns, at the House of God. Here it is to be noted, that by the House of God in this Place, we are taught by ver. 23. to understand the House of the Tabernacle. For as before the first Temple was built there was a Tabernacle for Divine Service; so after the second was founded, they erected a Tabernacle, till this Temple could be finished: Without which they could not have performed the several Parts of the Worship of God, which were annexed to the several Parts of the Holy Places, according to the Law.

Ver. 12. And Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashur, the son of Malchijah, and Maasiai the son of Adiel, the son of Jazerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer.] There were three between that Jeroham and Pashur mentioned in Nehemiah: And therefore he was either his great Grand-Son, or they were different Persons, tho' of the same Name.

Ver. 13. And their brethren, heads of the house of their fathers, a thousand and seven hundred and threescore; very able men for the work of the service of the house of God.] In the Hebrew they are called mighty men of valour. For the Service of the House of God required not only great Strength of Body, but great Courage and Resolution of Mind; especially at that Time when they were newly come out of Captivity. There was a famous Instance of this Courage before the Captivity, in Azariah: Who resisted the King himself, when he would have profaned the Holy Place, 2 Chron. xxvi. 17, 18, &c.

Ver. 14. And of the Levites; Shemaiah the son of Hashub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari.] These are the third Sort of Persons, mentioned ver. 2.

Ver. 15. And Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal, and Mattaniah the son of Micah, the son of Richri, the son of Asaph.] This last was descended, it is likely, from that Aſaph who lived in David's Time, 2 Chron. xx. 14.

Ver. 16. And Obadiah the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Galal, the ſon of Jeduthun, and Berechiah the ſon of Aſa, the ſon of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.] He ſpeaks of Elkanah, not of Berechiah: For he dwelt at Jeruſalem. But there was not room for them all there; therefore Elkanah, and thoſe that belonged to him, dwelt in theſe Villages, till their own Cities were rebuilt. They were in the Tribe of Judah, (ch. ii. 54.) and waited at Jeruſalem in their Courſes, tho' they did not dwell there.

Ver. 17. And the porters] Or, rather the Guards, as the Hebrew Word ſignifies, and not Porters.

Were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief.] The next Verſe tells us, at what Places theſe Guards exerciſed their Office.

Ver. 18. (Who hitherto waited in the kings gate eaſtward.)] That is, where the King's Gate formerly was. Which ſhews that the Tabernacle they had erected was not on Mount Moriah, but in Sion, ſince their Return from Captivity.

They were porters.] That is, the four Perſons above-mentioned.

In the companies of the children of Levi.] That were at the four Sides of the Tabernacle, Jeruſalem being without Walls.

Ver. 19. And Shallum.] Mentioned ver. 17.

The ſon of Kore, the ſon of Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah, and his brethren (of the houſe of his father.)] That is, the reſt of that Family.

The Korahites were over the work of the ſervice, keepers of the gates of the tabernacle.] Their Service was to be Keepers of the Porches of the Tabernacle. From which it appears again, that the Jews (as I ſaid before) did pitch a Tabernacle upon Mount Sion, till they had rebuilt the Temple on Mount Moriah.

And their fathers being over the hoſt of the LORD.] Here the principal Perſon among them attended, taking Care of the Tabernacle and all its Appurtenances, which ſome think is meant by the Hoſt of the LORD.

Were keepers of the entry.] More eſpecially they took Care of the Court that none ſhould enter into it but ſuch as the Law allowed.

Ver. 20. And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar was the ruler over them in time paſt.] So we rightly tranſlate the laſt Word, lepanim; which, as R. David Gauz obſerves in his Tzemoth David (ad A. M. 2892.) doth not ſignify that Phineas was now living, but he was Ruler of them in time paſt, when he was living. And thus that Hebrew Word is rendred, Ruth iv. 7. and Pſalm cii. 26. But that he ſhould be Ruler over theſe Sort of Officers ſeems unlikely, being the Son of the High-Prieſt, and after Eleazar High-Prieſt himſelf: Which raiſed him far above ſuch a low Employment. Beſides, it is evident he is here ſpeaking of the Levites, not of the Prieſts, and therefore it is probable this Phineas was only a Levite, called, as his Father was, by the ancient Name of an High-Prieſt. See Selden de Succeſſ. in Pontificatum, L. i. cap. 2. fol. 117, 119.

And the LORD was with him.] In the Targum, the WORD of the LORD was his Helper. From which Beckius frames this Argument againſt the preſent Jews, that if he who was with Phineas was JEHOVAH the true God, and this WORD was with Phineas, then the WORD, in the Opinion of this Paraphraſt, was JEHOVAH the true God.

Ver. 21. And Zechariah the ſon of Meſhelamiah, was porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregration.] Here again the Tabernacle is mentioned, which, as I ſaid, the firſt Inhabitants of the Country, after their return from Captivity, erected till the Temple could be built. For they would not be without the publick Worſhip of God, and a Place was neceſſary for it. By the Door of the Tabernacle, I ſuppoſe is meant the Door which let into the Court of the Prieſts; for the Levites might not go into that Court; and therefore this is not meant of the Door of the Sanctuary, as ſome have thought.

Ver. 22. All theſe which were choſen to be porters in the gates, were two hundred and twelve.] Who came in their Turns to diſcharge this Office.

Theſe were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages.] See ver. 16.

Whom David and Samuel the ſeer did ordain.] All things, that is, after their Return from Captivity, were put into that Order at the Houſe of God, which Samuel projected, and David when he was ſettled in Peace, put in Execution. See ch. xxiii. 5. For there had been very great Confuſion, no doubt, in the Service of God, in the Days of the Judges, as there had been in all other things. But when Samuel came to govern, he deſigned to put things in good Order: And eſpecially to make the Attendance of God's Miniſters at his Houſe more regular than it had been. For which End he contrived, in all likelihood, that Method of the Prieſts and Levites waiting in their Courſes; which (Saul being rejected by God) he imparted unto David, whom he anointed by God's Appointment to be King over Iſrael. Who accordingly, in the latter End of his Reign, diſpoſed their Service at the Tabernacle.

In their ſet office.] Or rather (as it is in the Margin) in their Truſt; for the Hebrew Word ſignifies Fidelity: Importing, that their Attendance at the Houſe of God was no longer confuſed and diſorderly (as it had been formerly, when there was ſometimes too many, and ſometimes too few waiting there; or they had no certain Work aſſigned them, or were negligent for want of Overſeers) but they every one in their Courſe obediently went about their proper Work, and faithfully diſcharged it.

Ver. 23. So they and their children had the overſight of the gates of the houſe of the LORD, namely, the houſe of the tabernacle.] This Verſe plainly inſtructs us that they built a tabernacle for the Worſhip of God (as I noted ver. 10.) after their return from Babylon, till the Temple was finiſhed: And here the Prieſts and Levites attended; as in the Houſe of the LORD.

By wards.] According to the Courſes that David appointed; as it is explained, ver. 25.

Ver. 24. In four quarters were the porters, towards the east, west, north and south.] On the four Sides of the Tabernacle, as I obſerved on ver. 18. After the Temple was built, theſe Guards were kept, as Dr Lightfoot notes, on the four Quarters of the outward Wall. For the Wall that incompaſſed the Courts had no Gate on the Weſt. See Proſpect of the Temple, chap. iv. ſect. 3.

Ver. 25. And their brethern which were in the villages, were to come after ſeven days.] Every Week a new Courſe came to attend the Service of the Houſe of God, and to relieve their Brethren.

From time to time with them.] They came to wait their Week under the Goverment of the chief Porters: Who ſeem to have conſtantly dwelt at Jeruſalem, to ſee the Courſes diſpoſed according as David had ordained. So it here follows.

Ver. 26. For theſe Levites, the four chief porters, were in their ſet office.] The principal Porters were four, one at each Gate, ver. 24. to whom was committed the Care of the reſt of their Brethren to ſee that they did their Duty.

And were over the chambers and treaſuries of the houſe of God.] This I ſhall explain upon Chap. xxvi. 20. where it is more diſtinctly mentioned.

Ver. 27. And they lodged round about the houſe of God, becauſe the charge was upon them; and the opening thereof every morning pertained to them.] Round about the outward Wall, before mentioned, ver. 24. For as the ſame learned Man obſerves, neither Prieſts nor Levites had any Lodgings in the Gates of the Courts: Nor did the Levites open thoſe Doors, but the Prieſts.

Ver. 28. And certain of them had the charge of the miniſtring veſſels, that they ſhould bring them in and out by tale.] For the Uſe of the Prieſts when they miniſtred: Who returned, when they had done their Work, the ſame Number to the Levites, which they had received from them. This was another Duty of the Levites.

Ver. 29. Some of them alſo were appointed to overſee the veſſels, and all the inſtruments of the ſanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincenſe, and the ſpices.] See upon ch. xxvi. 20.

Ver. 30. And ſome of the ſons of the prieſts made the ointment of the ſpices.] Or rather, but ſome of the ſons of the prieſts, &c. For tho' the Levites, had the Cuſtody of the Spices of which the Ointment was made, yet none but the Prieſts could compound them and make the Ointment. See ch. xxx. 23, &c.

Ver. 31. And Mattithiah one of the Levites (who was the firſt-born of Shallum the Korahite) had the ſet office (or truſt) over the things that were made in the pans.] To prepare fine Flour and Oil for the Mincha, or Meat-Offering that was offered every Morning and Evening, as we read Levit. ii. 5. The LXX (who herein follow the Talmudiſts) will have this peculiarly refer to the Mincha offered by the High-Prieſt for himſelf and his Family: Which was the tenth Part of an Ephah; half in the Morning, and half in the Evening, Levit. vi. 20, &c.

Ver. 32. And other of their brethren of the ſons of the Cohathites, were over the ſhewbread to prepare it every ſabbath.] When it was ſet new upon the Table in the Holy Place, and the old taken away. See upon Exod. xxv. 30.

Ver. 33. And theſe are the ſingers, chief of the fathers of the Levites; who remaining in the chambers, were free.] Others of the Levites, and principal Perſons among them were appointed to be Singers, and attended nothing elſe: But dwelt in ſome Chambers about the Temple, free from all other Employment. And the Reaſon why they dwelt there was, that they might not be defiled, and ſo made unfit at any time for that Miniſtry: And that they might be ready at hand to attend upon it.

For they were employed in that work day and night.] In learning and teaching to ſing, and to play upon Inſtruments both wind and ſtringed: As appears from Chapter xxvi. This was wholly a new thing, Moſes having ordained nothing concerning Singing and Muſick in the Houſe of God, and ſeems (as it is objected in the Book of Coſri) to be contrary to what he commanded, Deut. xii. 32. thou ſhalt not add unto it, (that is, to the Law) nor take from it: But they anſwer very well, that this Command concerned the People only, who were forbidden out of their own Heads, as we ſpeak, to innovate any thing, and frame Laws to themſelves out of their own Reaſonings. But it did not oblige Prophets and Divine Men, ſuch as Moſes was: And therefore David had Authority from God (who had not bound up himſelf to add nothing) to do what he did; as Solomon afterwards had to ſet up another Altar in the midſt of the Court, upon a ſpecial Occaſion, 2 Chron. vii. 7, 8, 9. and Nehemiah to require but a third Part of a Shekel of the People, ch. x. 32. Thus Sepher Coſri, Par. III. Sect. 11, 12.

Ver. 34. Theſe chief fathers of the Levites, were chief throughout their generations.] Theſe were principal Perſons, among whoſe Families had always been eminent Men, who were choſen for this Service.

Theſe dwelt at Jeruſalem.] They were ſettled there, for the greater Convenience of attending the Morning and Evening Service at the Temple, without much trouble. But theſe Words ſeem to comprehend a great deal more, viz. that not only theſe chief of the Levites, but all thoſe whom he hath mentioned from ver. 3. unto this Verſe, lived at Jeruſalem, and came back with Zerubbabel.

Ver. 35. And in Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jehiel, whoſe wifes name was Maachah.] From hence to the End of the Chapter, the ſame Genealogy is ſet down again, which we had in the foregoing Chapter (ver. 29, 30, &c.) and in the ſame Words: And therefore I ſhall not here tranſcribe them. Of this I can give no Account but that this Narrative of the Deſcent and Family of Saul is repeated, the better to join the following Hiſtory to it, concerning the Death of that King. But if we could give no Account of it, Conradus Pellicanus thinks it is not irreligious to acknowledge that in these Jewish Genealogies, which are very long and useless to us, some Errors may have crept in by the Negligence of Transcribers. Who in copying of them might not attend sometimes, but be drowsy, as we are apt to be, when we are about any tedious Work and not very profitable, in which if there be any Error, the Church suffers no Damage by it. But there is no need of this.

CHAP. X.

Verse 1. NOW the Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and fell down slain in mount Gilboa.] This Verse, and those that follow, to ver. 13. have been explained upon 1 Sam. xxxi. where the same History is related; in the same Words, and with very little Difference. And it is repeated here, to make way for the History of David, (which is mainly intended in the rest of this Book) who by Saul's Death was advanced to the Crown.

Ver. 2. And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons, and the Philistines slew Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, the sons of Saul.

Ver. 3. And the battle went sore against Saul, and the archers hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

Ver. 4. Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and abuse me. But his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid. So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it.

Ver. 5. And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died.

Ver. 6. So Saul died and his three sons, and all his house died together.] That is, all that were present with him in the Battle: And his Family had such a Blow by their Fall, that it never recovered it self. For tho' Ishbosheth reigned over a Part of the Country, yet it was not in any Splendor: Such a deadly Wound being given to the House of Saul, that it did not long survive him in the Kingly Authority.

Ver. 7. And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley, saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled: and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.] By the Valley is meant, the Towns in the open Country, which were not fortified. See 1 Sam. xxxi. 7.

Ver. 8. And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

Ver. 9. And when they had stripped him, they took his head.] Which they cut off from his Body, as we read, 1 Sam. xxxi. 9.

And his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.] That publick Thanksgiving might be given by them to their Gods, for this Victory.

Ver. 10. And they put his armour in the house of their gods.] In the Temple of Ashtaroth, as the same Book tells us, 1 Sam. xxxi. 10.

And fastened his head in the temple of Dagon.] These two, Dagon and Ashtaroth, were the principal Gods of the Country of the Philistines; unto whom they sent these Trophies of their Victory. And the Place forenamed informs us where they fastened his Body, after they had separated his Head from it, and stripp'd off the Skin and the Hair; for the Hebrew Word signifies a Skull.

Ver. 11. And when all Jabesh-Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul.] By Jabesh-Gilead, is meant the People of the City, and of the Territory round about it.

Ver. 12. They arose, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.] This was a noble Instance of their Courage, and of their Love and Gratitude to their Prince: Who had some excellent Qualities in him, and had highly oblig'd this City in the Beginning of his Reign: As I have observed on the Book of Samuel. If we may believe Josephus, there was a Law among the Jews, that they who killed themselves should be denied Burial: For this was all the Punishment that could be inflicted on them after they were dead, for so great a Sin. Yet David highly approved this Fact of the Men of Jabesh-Gilead, who buried Saul: And therefore the Jews make this Exception to the Rule, That if they killed themselves merely to avoid that Reproach which might be cast upon them if they lived, they might be buried: And they instance in Samson and Saul. Who they fancy repented of his many Sins, after Samuel had appeared to him, and told him of his sad Fate. But the two following Verses seem to contradict this. See Grotius in his Book de Jure Belli & Pacis, Lib. ii. Cap. 19. Sect. 5.

Ver. 13. So Saul died for his transgression which he committed against the LORD, even against the word of the LORD, which he kept not, and also for asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit, to enquire of it.] His two great Transgressions, (one against the express Order and Command of God by Samuel, and the other against a known Law of Moses) were his sparing the Amalekites, and his consulting the Witch of Endor: Which were plain Proofs that he did not mind God, as it follows in the next Verse.

Ver. 14. And enquired not of the LORD.] He did not regard him, as he ought to have done: For otherwise he did enquire of him, (1 Sam. xxviii. 6.) but not with a religious Mind.

Therefore he slew him, and turned the Kingdom unto David the son of Jesse.] Kingdoms are never translated from one Family to another, but Injustice and Impiety go before, as Grotius here notes. Which the Son of Sirach expresses admirably, Eccles. x. 8. Because of unrighteous dealings, injuries and riches got by deceit, the kingdom is translated from one people to another.

CHAP. XI.

Verse 1. THen.] That is, after the Death of Ishbosheth: For many things passed after the Death of Saul, which are here omitted.

ted. As the coming of the Amalekite to David with the News of it; his Lamentation over Saul and Jonathan; his anointing at Hebron over the Tribe of Judah; the Death of Abner, and then of Ishbosheth. After which this Author relates the Promotion of David to be King of all the Tribes of Israel, by the full Consent of all the People.

All Israel gathered themselves together to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy flesh.] By all Israel is meant the Elders of all their Tribes. 2 Sam. v. 1. where this Verse is explained.

Ver. 2. And moreover, in time past, when Saul was king, thou wast he that leddest out, and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD thy God said unto thee, thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be ruler over my people Israel.] See 2 Sam. v. 2. where there are the very same Words.

Ver. 3. Therefore came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron, before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Israel.] See there 2 Sam. v. 3.

According to the word of the LORD by Samuel.] These Words are added unto those in the Book of Samuel, to shew how the People came to know that God told David (as they say in the foregoing Verse) he should govern Israel. Samuel declared it to him, and published it, no doubt, among the People.

Ver. 4. And David and all Israel went to Jerusalem, which is Jebus.] See concerning this Place, Judges xix. 10.

Where the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land.] See 2 Sam. v. 6.

Ver. 5. And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, thou shalt not come hither. Nevertheless, David took the castle of Zion, which the city of David.] The insolent Language of the Jebusites is recorded more largely, in 2 Sam. v. 6. where see what I have noted.

Ver. 6. And David said, Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites first, shall be chief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went up first, and was chief.] It is evident Joab was before this in a great Station, commanding all the Forces of Judah; as may be gathered from 2 Sam. ii. 13, 14. and iii. 22, 23. But now he was a Commander in Chief of all the Forces both of Judah and Israel; which made him very powerful: Or, perhaps, Abishai being his elder Brother, was General of the Forces before; and this Place gives an Account how Joab came to have the Pre-eminence, by this great Atchievement.

Ver. 7. And David dwelt in the castle, therefore they called it, the city of David.] Because here he chose to have his constant Residence: In order to which he enlarged and adorned it with many Buildings, as it here follows.

Ver. 8. And he built the city round about, even from Millo round about. See 2 Sam. v. 9.

And Joab repaired the rest of the city.] He repaired perhaps the Fortifications, which had been, in the Time of the Siege, much shattered. And, as Conradus Pellicanus thinks, built some Houses, for the quartering of his Soldiers.

Ver. 9. So David waxed greater and greater: for the LORD of hosts was with him.] The WORD of the LORD was his Help, as the Targum expresses it. See 2 Sam. v. 10.

Ver. 10. These also are the chief of the mighty men whom David had, who strengthened themselves with him in his kingdom.] Having touch'd upon David's Promotion to the Throne, and his Settlement in Sion, he next thought fit to relate who those valiant Men were that assisted him in his Advancement, and helped to establish him in his Authority. They were such in all likelihood as had accompanied him, during his Persecution by Saul; when they gave David many Proofs of their Valour and Affection, as they also did afterward.

And with all Israel, to make him king.] A great many of the Israelites, as is related in the next Chapter, came to David before the Death of Saul; Believing he was designed by God to be their King.

According to the word of the LORD, concerning Israel.] That David should be King over all Israel: Which Word was delivered by Samuel, and known to all the People, as well as to Saul and Jonathan.

Ver. 11. And this is the number of the mighty men whom David had; Jashobeam an Hachmonite, the chief of the captains: he lifted up his spear against three hundred, slain by him at one time.] I have explained this upon 2 Sam. xxii. 8. where I observed, how Kimchi reconciles this Place to that, which saith he slew eight hundred. But I now think it plainer to say, That he slew eight hundred with his own Hand, and thereby routed the Enemy, and put them to Flight; in which five hundred more were killed in the Pursuit. All which might be said to be slain by him; because the Slaughter he made was the Cause the rest were slain. Or, as Mayers (upon Seder Olam) interprets it; after he had slain three hundred, he was so little tired, that he slew as many more as made eight hundred.

Ver. 12. And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo the Ahohite.] The Son of Ahohi, as Kimchi understands it; for this is not the Name of a Country, but of a Family.

Who was one of the three mighties.] See 2 Sam. xxiii. 9.

Ver. 13. He was with David at Pas-dammin.] The same with Ephes-dammin, 1 Sam. xvii. 1.

And there the Philistines were gathered together to battle, where was a parcel of ground full of barley, and the people fled from before the Philistines.

Ver. 14. And they set themselves in the midst of that parcel, and delivered it, and slew the Philistines; and the LORD saved them by a great deliverance.] All this is related, and hath been explained in 2 Sam. xxiii. 9. 10, 11, 12.

Ver. 15. Now three of the thirty captains went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam, and the host of the Philistines encamped in the valley of Rephaim.] See there, ver. 13.

Ver. 16. And David was then in the hold, and the Philistines garison was then at Bethlehem.] See there, ver. 14.

Ver. 17. And David longed and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Bethlehem, that is at the gate.] See ver. 15. He did not desire any one should venture to fetch him some of this Water, but in a very hot Day, said, as we sometimes do, What would I not give for a Draught of those cool and refreſhing Waters? Which he remembred he had drunk of freely in his Youth.

Ver. 18. And the three brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD.

Ver. 19. And ſaid, My God forbid it me, that I ſhould do this thing: ſhall I drink the blood of theſe men that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it: therefore he would not drink it. Theſe things did theſe three mighties.] See all this explained in that Place, ver. 16, 17.

Ver. 20. And Abiſhai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his ſpear againſt three hundred, he ſlew them, and had a name among the three.] See 2 Sam. xxiii. 18. There are but two here mentioned; the third, Abarbinel thinks, was Adina the Son of Shiza, mentioned ver. 42. who is ſaid to be a Captain of the Reubenites, and thirty with him.

Ver. 21. Of the three he was more honourable than the two, for he was their captain.] Perhaps he was the firſt, and led them on, in that bold Exploit at Bethlehem.

Howbeit, he attained not unto the firſt three.] But came ſhort of them in their great Atchievements.

Ver. 22. Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, the ſon of a valiant man of Kabzeel, who had done many acts, he ſlew two lion-like men of Moab; alſo he went down and ſlew a lion in a pit in a ſnowy day.] See 2 Sam. xxiii. 20.

Ver. 23. And he ſlew an Egyptian, a man of great ſtature, five cubits high, &c.] The Country of Egypt was famous for Men of vaſt Bigneſs, as we learn from Herodotus, L. ii. cap. 130, 143, 153, 175, 176. See Huetius in his Quæſtiones Alnætanæ, L. ii. p. 180. where he obſerves out of Pliny, that in Æthiopia there was a People that were eight Cubits high, L. vi. cap. 30. L. vii. cap. 2.

Ver. 24. Theſe things did Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three mighties.] See all this explained in the forenamed Book, 2 Sam. xxiii. 21, 22.

Ver. 25. Behold, he was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the firſt three.] He ſets a Mark of Honour upon him as a Man of great Reputation among the thirty; tho' he did not riſe up to the Pitch of the firſt three, nor of Abiſhai, tho' it is likely he excell'd the third. See there, ver. 23.

And David ſet him over his guard.] The Cerethites and Pelethites. Or, as ſome take it, he made him Preſident of his Council, as the Hebrew Word imports, (ſo Kimchi) there being a rare Conjunction in him of Wiſdom with Valour.

Ver. 26. Alſo the valiant men of the armies were Aſahel the brother of Joab, Elbanan the ſon of Dodo of Bethlehem.] See there, ver. 24. Theſe were chief Commanders in the Army, either Colonels, as we ſpeak, or Captains; and they were under the Command of the three foregoing great Men, who were over them, as they were over the Soldiers. But theſe great Men were below the firſt three: Who are ſaid in the tenth Verſe of this Chapter, to be mighty men to David, (as the Words are in the Hebrew) becauſe they attended upon him continually, as the Keepers of his Body; and had no other Command.

Ver. 27. Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite.] See 2 Sam. xxiii. 25.

Ver. 28. Ira the ſon of Ikkeſh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Antothite.] See there, ver. 26. All the reſt that follow are mentioned in that Chapter of the ſecond Book of Samuel, with ſome Difference in their Names, as I have there noted. Some others alſo are added, being Men of great Note, tho' not equal to the above-named. Particularly, he relates who were the chief Commanders, in the Borders of the Kingdom beyond Jordan, v. 42, &c. This appears by the Names of their Country, which was beyond that River.

There is a little Difficulty in the thirty eighth Verſe, where Joel, who is called Igal in 2 Sam. xxiii. 36. (there being nothing more common than ſuch Alterations in Names) is ſaid to be the Brother of Nathan: Which ſeems not to conſiſt with what is ſaid in the other Place, that he was the ſon of Nathan. But the Account of this is eaſy, for he might be both, if he was his adopted Son, for want of Children: The Word Son often ſignifying no more than a Nephew, as the Word Brother doth one near of Kin. As for the reſt of the Variations, Conradus Pellicanus reſolves, that we need not trouble our ſelves about the Errors of Tranſcribers, which we may acknowledge, in ſuch Matters as theſe, without any Prejudice to Faith, Truth, or good Manners. So he concludes this Chapter.

CHAP. XII.

Verſe 1. NOW theſe are they that came to David to Ziklag, while he yet kept himſelf cloſe, becauſe of Saul the ſon of Kiſh: and they were among the mighty men, helpers of the war.] This Author thought fit to do thoſe the Honour of being remembred (which is omitted in the Book of Samuel) who came and joined themſelves to David, when he was in Exile: And were afterward very aſſiſtant to him in his Wars. They are ſaid to come to him, while he kept himſelf cloſe becauſe of Saul: Becauſe they pitying David's Condition, who was forced to ſkulk in ſecret Places to ſecure himſelf from Saul's Fury, deſigned to help him, and it is likely left their Habitations, and went to ſeek him: Tho' they did not actually join him till he came to Ziklag.

Ver. 2. They were armed with bows, and could uſe both the right hand and the left.] Which gave them a great Advantage in War: And made them more valuable Soldiers. See Judges xx. 16.

In hurling ſtones, and ſhooting arrows out of a bow.] They were excellent Slingers, as well as Archers.

Even of Sauls brethren of Benjamin.] There was ſome extraordinary Cauſe which moved ſome of Saul's Kindred, as well as of his Tribe to deſert him, and go over to David. Either the great Virtue of David attracted them, or they abhorred to ſee an innocent Perſon ſo violently perſecuted; or, perhaps, they were pious Persons, who had a great Regard to the Words of Samuel, concerning David's Right to the Kingdom.

Ver. 3. The chief was Ahiezer, then Joash, the sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite, and Jeziel and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth, and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite.] There is mention before of Asmaveth (ch. viii. 36.) as descended from Micah the Son of Mephibosheth, the Grand-Son of Saul.

Ver. 4. And Ismaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty man among the thirty, and over the thirty.] I suppose there were thirty Benjamites came over to David at one time, and this was their Leader.

And Jeremiah, and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Josabad the Gederathite.

Ver. 5. Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite.

Ver. 6. Elkanah, and Jesiah, and Azareel, and Joezer, and Jashobeam the Korhites.

Ver. 7. And Joelah, and Zebadiah, the sons of Jeboram of Gedor.] These were the principal Persons among the thirty, mentioned ver. 4. the rest perhaps were not of such Note.

Ver. 8. And of the Gadites there separated themselves] From their Countrymen and Families, which they left to follow David.

Unto David, into the hold of of the wilderness.] There are several Holds, or inaccessible Places mentioned, where David secured himself from Saul's Persecution. See 1 Sam. xxii. 4. xxiii. 14. xxiv. 22. But some think he still speaks of those that came to David at Ziklag: Which may be called a Hold, they think, as the City of David is (ch. xi. 7.) because he fortified it.

Men of might, and men of war, fit for the battle, that could handle shield and buckler.] Under these are comprehended all Weapons of War, which they could manage skillfully; being bred to it, and wanting no courage to engage any Enemy.

Whose faces were like the faces of lions, and were as swift as the roes upon the mountains.] They had a Fierceness in their Countenances; which terrified their Enemies: Who durst not look them in their Face, but ran away as soon as they saw them. But they could not save themselves by flight, being pursued so swiftly by these Men, that they overtook them and slew them. Bochart observes out of Aristotle, that Lions have Faces more like Men, than any other Creatures, but very stern and terrible.

Ver. 9. Ezer the first, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third.] They are reckoned up thus distinctly, according to the Dignity and Precedence which they had in their own Country; or according to the Order wherein they came to David.

Ver. 10. Mishmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth,

Ver. 11. Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh,

Ver. 12. Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth,

Ver. 13. Jeremiah the tenth, Machbani the eleventh.

Ver. 14. These were the sons of Gad, captains of the host: one of the least was over an hundred, and the greatest over a thousand.] They did not bring an Host of Men with them, but they had been Commanders of the Army in their own Country. Or, when David came to the Crown, he thought them worthy to be preferred, and the lowest of them was made a Centurion.

Ver. 15. These are they that went over Jordan in the first month, when it had overflowed all his banks.] This is an Instance of their fearless Valour, that they ventured over Jordan in the most dangerous Season: And perhaps swam over, when the Stream was most rapid and violent, to help their Brethren. See Josh. iii. 15.

And they put to flight all them of the vallies, both toward the east, and toward the west.] When Saul was engaged to attend the Motions of the Philistines, it is likely some People both of the Eastern and Western Countries, which bordered upon Jordan, laid hold of this Opportunity to invade and spoil the Land thereabout; which moved these Men to go to their Relief, and God gave them a great Victory over them. Where these Valleys lay, and what Enemies these Men encountred, is no where recorded.

Ver. 16. And there came of the children of Benjamin, and Judah, to the hold unto David.] Besides those of Saul's Kindred before mentioned, there were others of that Tribe, together with some of Judah, who came to him when he was in the Hold, mentioned ver. 8. which I conjectured might be Ziklag; but I rather think it was some of the Holds he was in, when he lay in the Wilderness.

Ver. 17. And David went out to meet them.] They were so considerable, either for their Number, or Quality, that David went out (attended no doubt with some of his Men) to meet them, before they came to the Hold.

And answered and said unto them.] After the first Salutation which they made him, he replied in the following Words.

If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, my heart shall be knit unto you.] As much as to say, if you be really Friends, you are welcome, and I will make a League with you.

But if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies, seeing there is no wrong in my hands, the God of our fathers look thereon, and rebuke it.] He knew himself to be so innocent, both with respect to Saul and all other Men, whom he had no way injured, that he doubted not God would protect him, and do him right against these Men, if they came with bad Intentions to him. What should make him suspect there might possibly be some Treachery designed, is not now to be known. Perhaps some had before this come with Pretences of great Kindness to him, whom he had found to be false: Which made him now more cautious whom he entertained.

Ver. 18. Then the spirit came upon Amasai, who was chief of the captains.] The Spirit of Power, saith the Targum: That is, God powerfully moved him with an heroical Boldness, and Resolution, in the Name of them all, to profess their Fidelity to David, in such pathetical Words, as convinced him they were Friends. Rasi compares with this, those Words in Judges vi. 34. But none hath discoursed so well upon these Words as Maimonides, who observes, that by by the Spirit in ſuch Places as this, is not to be underſtood, a Power to ſpeak or declare any thing: But only to excite thoſe who felt it, to do ſome excellent thing either for particular Perſons, or the whole Church. With this Power Moſes was endued, when he came to Man's Eſtate, and was moved to ſmite the Egyptian who injured one of his Brethren. Which Power did not leave him, but remained ſtill with him when he fled into Midian. See Exod. ii. 17. This Power exerted it ſelf in David after he was anointed, 1 Sam. xv. 13. xvii. 34. See More Nevochim, Par. ii. cap. 45.

And he ſaid, thine are we, David, and on thy ſide thou ſon of Jeſſe:] He ſeems to have broken out out into this Speech with a ſudden Violence, being unable to hear with Patience their Fidelity queſtioned. For the Words and he ſaid, are not in the Hebrew Text; nor thoſe are we: But only, Thine, David, &c. Which is a broken Speech, expreſſing great Paſſion.

Peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers.] He moſt affectionately wiſhes all Happineſs to him, and to all that came to his Aſſiſtance: Which implies a Deſire they might not proſper, if they did not now ſincerly come to his Help.

For thy God helpeth thee.] God they ſaw was on his Side, who by his marvellous Deliverances of him, had ſhewn he had a ſpecial Affection to him, and Care of him: And therefore they believed would bleſs thoſe that came to his Help.

Then David received them, and made them captains of the band.] He preferred them to conſiderable Commands in his Army, when he came to be King: For it is not likely he would ſet them above thoſe, who had ſerved him all the Time of his Exile; they being but new Comers.

Ver. 19. And there fell ſome of Manaſſeh to David (when he came with the Philiſtines againſt Saul to battle, but they helped them not.] It ſeems they offered their Service to David, when he was going with the Philiſtines to help them againſt Saul, in the laſt Battle which he fought. This ſhews a ſtrange Zeal for David, and Abhorrence of Saul's Enmity to him, that they ſhould then join their Forces with him, when he took part with the Philiſtines. But neither they, nor the reſt of David's Men were admitted to fight in that Battle.

For the lords of the Philiſtines, upon advertiſement, ſent him away, ſaying, He will fall to his maſter Saul, to the jeopardy of our heads).] Firſt kill them, and then flee to Saul and make his Peace with him, at the Coſt of their Heads. See 1 Sam. xxix. 3, &c.

Ver. 20. As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manaſſeh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zilthai, captains of the thouſands that were of Manaſſeh.] Theſe came to him, in that nick of Time, when he went from the Philiſtines, in his return to Ziklag. Which fell out very opportunely, for they being valiant Men, aſſiſted him againſt that Band of Robbers, the Amalekites, who had burnt Ziklag, and carried Captive their Wives and Children. He had indeed only ſix hundred Men with him in that Expedition, but theſe were of the Number, who, as it follows, did him great Service in Recovery of his Loſſes.

Ver. 21. And they helped David againſt the band of the rovers, for they were all mighty men of valour.] They were not at all diſheartned, when they found David in ſuch exceeding great Diſtreſs; but being moſt valiant Captains, offered their Service to him in the Purſuit of his Enemies.

And were captains in the hoſt.] In their own Country they had been Commanders of a Company of Men; many of which, it is likely, they brought over to David with them. Or, they followed after them, as is intimated in the following Words.

Ver. 22. For at that time day by day, there came to David to help him.] After the Battle wherein Saul was ſlain, ſo many reſorted to him every Day, that his Forces grew very conſiderable.

Until it was a great hoſt, like the hoſt of God.] A very formidable Hoſt. Which he compares to the Hoſt of Heaven (the Stars or the Angels) becauſe they were numerous, and many of them illuſtrious Perſons.

Ver. 23. And theſe are the Numbers of the bands that were ready armed to the war, and came to David to Hebron.] The great Reſort to him at Ziklag, mentioned in the foregoing Verſe, made greater Numbers flock to him, when by God's Direction he went to Hebron: And they brought their Arms with them, that they might be ready to fight for him.

To turn the kingdom of Saul to him, according to the word of the LORD.] They remembred what Samuel had ſaid, and reſolved to anoint him King, 2 Sam. ii. 4.

Ver. 24. The children of Judah that bare ſhield and ſpear, were ſix thouſand and eight hundred ready armed to the war.] In the Place before-named we read, the Men of Judah came and anointed him King: Which ſignifies the whole Tribe conſented to it. Therefore theſe ſix thouſand and eight hundred Men were only the firſt that came, and perhaps appeared in the Name of the reſt.

Ver. 25. Of the children of Simeon, mighty men of valour for the war, ſeven thouſand and one hundred.] Tho' David was anointed King only over the Tribe of Judah, (one of Saul's Poſterity reigning over Iſrael) yet ſome of other Tribes came and owned David for their King; particularly a great Number of the Tribe of Simeon, who were near Neighbours to Judah.

Ver. 26. Of the children of Levi, four thouſand and ſix hundred.] Thoſe came out of ſeveral Tribes, into which they were diſperſed, yet all agreed to ſhew their Affection to David.

Ver. 27. And Jehoiada was the Leader of the Aaronites.] He was not the High-Prieſt, for Abiathar held that Place: But he was Chief, as Jarchi thinks, of one of the Courſes of the Prieſts; and now the chief Commander of thoſe of the Family of Aaron, who came to invite David to take the Government upon him. He was a Man of War alſo, and brought theſe Prieſts armed with him: For it is ſaid, of all that that came to David to Hebron, (ver. 23.) that they were ready armed for the War; in Case any should oppose their Design. See Selden de Succession. ad Pontificatum, Lib. i. Cap. 3.

And with him were three thousand and seven hundred.] Besides those of the Levites before-named.

Ver. 28. And Zadok a young man, mighty of valour, and of his fathers house twenty and two captains.] It is likely, he is the same Person who was made High-Priest in Solomon's time who was now very young, but had a great deal of Courage; whom two and twenty of his Family followed, who were Commanders of so many Companies.

Ver. 29. And of the children of Benjamin, the kindred of Saul, three thousand.] We read of several of this Tribe, and of Saul's Kindred, that came to David before this, (ver. 1, 2, 16.) but now a greater Number came over to him: Which shews his Interest to be considerably grown among them.

For hitherto the greatest part of them had kept the ward of the house of Saul.] But still a Multitude of them (as it is in the Hebrew) adhered to the House of Saul, and endeavoured to keep the Crown in that Family. And, as Solomon Jarchi, and D. Kimchi, and others understand it, the three thousand before-mentioned being of Saul's Kindred, were of that Mind, looking upon his Grand-son as the lawful Heir of the Kingdom, who ought to succeed in it: But now they altered their Opinion, and came to David.

Ver. 30. And of the children of Ephraim, twenty thousand and eight hundred, mighty men of valour, famous throughout the house of their fathers.] This was so great a Number, that by their Defection from the House of Saul, it must needs be extremely weakned: Especially since they were Men of such great Account in that Tribe.

Ver. 31. And of the half tribe of Manasseh, eighteen thousand.] He speaks of those on this Side Jordan for of those beyond it on the other Side, he speaks afterward, ver. 37.

Which were expressed by name, to come and make David king.] These were appointed to go in the Name of the rest of their Brethren, and assure David of their Affection to him: Being picked (as we speak) out of the whole Tribe, for this Purpose. And some think the Names of these Men were set down in the publick Register of the Kings of Judah: From which this Author transcribed it.

Ver. 32. And of the children of Issachar, which were men that had understanding of the times.] The Targum, and many of the Jews, (particularly Maimonides in Rosch Hashanah) take this to signify their Skill, in computing the Beginning of their Years, and Months, and Intercalations, that it might be certainly known when their Feasts were to celebrated. Others think they were great Astronomers: Whence the Hebrew Doctors say, that the name of this Tribe was engraven in the Saphire in the High-Priest's Breast-plate, and that their Banner was of a Sky-Colour, having the Figures of the Sun, Moon, and Stars wrought in it, because of their Skill in the Motions of the Heavenly Bodies. Others take it to signify their Skill in the Weather, whereby they knew the proper Season for Sowing, Planting, Reaping, and Navigation. Many such like Fancies there are, which seem impertinent to the present Business: Which required Men of great Abilities in political Affairs; who could discern what was fit to be done in the various Cases of human Life: And particularly what was good for the Commonwealth in all Turns of Affairs. Thus Solomon Jarchi himself. They knew how to advise and give Counsel, according to the Nature and Circumstances of all Cases: Which sort of Men David stood in great need of at this time, to consult the best means to confirm him in his kingdom.

To know what Israel ought to do.] These Words shew they were Men skillful in secular Affairs: And now, I suppose, told the Israelites it was the proper Time to think of David, and make him their King; after the Philistines had gained so great a Victory over Saul, and destroyed his Family. For none was so likely to quell the Philistines as he, who had so often beaten them.

The heads of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their commandment.] These two hundred were eminent Persons among them; and were of such known Wisdom and Judgment, that they had all the rest of their Tribe at their Beck.

Ver. 33. Of Zebulun, such as went forth to battle, expert in war, with all instruments of war, fifty thousand.] This is the greatest Number of any Tribe that went over to David: That is, gave him Assurance of their Readiness to assist him to make him King of Israel. For it is not likely, that so many as are here mentioned, went to Hebron, as soon as David came thither.

Which could keep rank.] Men well disciplined, Or, as some understand it, Men that would stand their ground, and not flinch, when they were assaulted by their Enemies.

They were not of double heart.] But all sincerely affected to David, tho' there were so many of them. Thus some understand it; but others think, it rather relates to the foregoing Words, that they had not a counterfeit Courage, but would stand to it (as we speak) with a firm Resolution, to die rather than stagger in their Undertaking. For this is affirmed of them all, that they came with a perfect Heart unto David, (ver. 38.) and therefore needs not to be said of these in particular, there being no Reason to suspect their Loyalty.

Ver. 34. And of Naphtali, a thousand captains, and with them, with shield and spear, thirty and seven thousand.

Ver. 35. And of the Danites expert in war, twenty and eight thousand and six hundred.

Ver. 36. And of Asher, such as went forth to battle, expert in war, forty thousand.

Ver. 37. And on the other side of Jordan, of the Reubenites, and of the Gadites, and of the half tribe of Manasseh, with all manner of instruments of war for the battle, an hundred and twenty thousand.] Here were so many thousands of valiant Men expert in War, reckoned up in the several Tribes of Israel; that Saul could not well have been overthrown in Battle by the Philistines, if God had not forsaken him, and the Hearts of his People had not been alienated from him.

Ver. 38. All these men of war that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel: and all the rest of Israel were of one heart to make David king.] After the Death of Ishbosheth (see 2 Sam. v.) all Israel, communi consilio, with one Consent (as Maimonides explains this Phrase, with one Heart, More Nevochim, P. i. Cap. 39.) came and joined with their Brethren, who were gone over to him. And they were such a Number, Men of such undaunted Spirits and expert in war, who crouded in to him, that the like is not to be found in any History. For, as Herodotus saith in his Polyhymnia, in the Army of Xerxes there were πολλοὶ μὲν ἄνθρωποι, ὀλίγοι δὲ ἄνδρες, a World of People, but few Men; that is, Men of Courage and Conduct: With which David's Army so abounded, that every one of this vast Number seems to have been fit to command in an Army.

Ver. 39. And there they were with David three days eating and drinking.] The famous Historian Dion (as Victorinus Strigelius here observes) saith, he never saw a more splendid and pompous Show than that was, when the Emperor Severus entred Rome. But here was a far more noble Feast, which lasted three Days, for three hundred forty eight thousand and eight hundred brave Men.

For their brethren had prepared for them.] They who were before actually gone over to David, and others about Hebron, hearing of such a great Concourse of People, had made a Preparation for their Entertainment.

Ver. 40. Moreover, they that were nigh, even unto Issachar, and Zebulon, and Naphtali.] All the neighbouring Countries brought in Provisions for those who dwelt more remote: Their common Concernments begetting great Love and Kindness (as there ought always to be, especially on such Occasions) for all their Brethren, tho' never so distant from them.

Brought bread on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen.] Whom they employed in that Country, in carrying Burdens: For Horses were very scarce among them. So Bochart observes, that they did not only ride upon Mules; but some of them were ἀχθαφόροι, imployed in carrying Burdens, as these were: Others were ζευγῖται, yoaked to draw Chariots, Lib. II. Hieroz. P. i. Cap. 19. The same he observes of Oxen, that tho' they seem made rather for the Plough, yet they made them serve for the other Purpose also, of bearing Burdens.

And meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep abundantly] All sort of Provisions for a great Feast.

For there was joy in Israel.] Their Hearts were enlarged with Joy, to see an End of their Division, by their Union under such a King; as they might reasonably hope would procure great Happiness to them.

CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. AND David consulted with the captains of thousands, and hundreds, and with every leader.] With all the principal Persons in Authority, who had any Command over others. For it is a dangerous thing for a Prince, especially in the Beginning of his Reign, to rely wholly upon himself alone, and not advise with others.

Ver. 2. And David said unto all the congregation of Israel.] Who were represented by those great Men, whom he had called together for their Advice.

If it seem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God.] Whom, I suppose, he intended to consult, as well as them.

Let us send abroad unto our brethren every where, that are left in the land of Israel.] Who were not there present.

And with them also the priests and Levites which are in the cities and suburbs, that they may gather themselves unto us.] Whose Assistance was very necessary, in the sacred Work which he intended.

Ver. 3. And let us bring again the ark of our God to us.] In the Book of Samuel this is said to have been done after that which here follows, in the next Chapter, concerning Hiram and David's Wars with the Philistines; and so it was. Only David (as became a good King, whose first Care is about Religion) took Advice with the Elders of the People, as soon as he came to the Crown, concerning the bringing up of the Ark of God. Which was put in Execution afterward, when they had gone to their several Countries, and spoken with the People about it; and a Time was appointed for their meeting to do it. In the mean time Hiram sent his Ambassadors to him, and the Philistines came twice to disturb him, and were beaten by him: And then all the People met in a vast Number (it is probable at some solemn Festival) to bring the Ark to its Place.

For we enquired not at it in the days of Saul.] They were not sollicitous in his Days to find a fit Place, for the Residence of the Ark of God, where they might conveniently attend upon his Worship and Service. For they were hindered by perpetual Wars, and contented themselves with going to Gibeon, where the Tabernacle was; tho' without the Presence of God in it. But it is probable, that Saul, after David fled from him, and he was haunted by that evil Spirit that oft came upon him, grew so prophane that he was not concerned about Religion. So the Words are in the Hebrew, We enquired not of it, or, about it.

Ver. 4. And all the congregation said, that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.] They were convinced of their Negligence, and piously disposed to comply with the King's Desire.

Ver. 5. So David gathered all Israel together.] Some chosen Persons out of all the Tribes with their Attendants: (who represented all the rest) which were thirty thousand, 2 Sam. vi. 1.

From Shihor of Egypt, even to the entring of Hemath.] The former of these, Shihor was the Southern Bounds, as Hemath was the Northern of the Land of Canaan. And by Sihor (called in other Places the River of Egypt) the Targum, and most of the Jews, even Abarbinel himself, understand the River Nile. But there is great Reason to take it for a little Branch of that River, as I have shewn upon Gen. xv. 18. And see upon Num. xxxiv. 5. Josh. xiii. 3.

To bring the ark of God from Kirjath-jearim.] Where it had been a long time, ever ſince it returned out of the Land of the Philiſtines. See 1 Sam. vi. ult. vii. 1.

Ver. 6. And David went up, and all Iſrael to Baalah, that is, to Kirjath-jearim, which belongeth to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of the LORD, that dwelleth between the cherubims, whoſe name is called on it.] See 2 Sam. vi. 1.

Ver. 7. And they carried the ark of God in a new cart, out of the houſe of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio drave the cart.] They had ſo long been without it, that they had forgot, how it ought to be carried. See 2 Sam. vi. 3.

Ver. 8. And David and all Iſrael played before God with all their might, and with ſinging, and with harps, and with pſalteries, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.] See there, Verſe 5.

Ver. 9. And when they came to the threſhing-floor of Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark, for the oxen ſtumbled.

Ver. 10. And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Uzza, and he ſmote him, becauſe he put forth his hand to the ark: and there he died before God.

Ver. 11. And David was diſpleaſed, becauſe the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza; wherefore that place is called Perez-uzza to this day.] All this hath been explained in the forenamed place, ver. 6, 7, 8.

Ver. 12. And David was afraid of God that day, ſaying, How ſhall I bring the ark of God home to me?] See there, v. 9. It is an old Obſervation that pœna ad unum, metus ad plures pervenit, Puniſhment falls upon one, the Fear of it falls upon all: Which juſtifies the Severity of God, as not contrary to his Mercy, in ſuch Caſes.

Ver. 13. So David brought not the ark home to himſelf to the city of David, but carried it aſide into the houſe of Obed-edom the Gittite.] See there alſo ver. 10.

Ver. 14. And the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his houſe three months: And the LORD bleſſed the houſe of Obed-edom, and all that he had.] See there ver. 11. The Targum here pretends to give us an Account how God bleſſed this Family, by increaſing it prodigiouſly with a numerous Iſſue; of which the Jews were ſo deſirous, that they could think of no greater Bleſſing. For his Wife and eight Daughters (ſays that Paraphraſt) the Wives of his Sons, brought each of them at one Birth eight Sons: So that Fathers and Sons made up fourſcore and one. But tho' Hiſtory acquaints us with wondrous Births of many Children at a Time; yet there is no Ground to believe this of ſo many in one Family.

CHAP. XIV.

Ver. 1. NOW Hiram king of Tyre ſent meſſengers to David, and timber of cedars, with maſons and carpenters, to build him an houſe.

Ver. 2. And David perceived that the LORD had confirmed him king over Iſrael, for his kingdom was lift up on high, becauſe of his people Iſrael.] See both theſe Verſes explained in 2 Sam. v. 11, 12. where the ſame Thing is related, almoſt in the ſame Words.

Ver. 3. And David took more wives at Jeruſalem: and David begat more ſons and daughters.] After he came from Hebron, and had poſſeſſed himſelf of Jeruſalem, he took more Wives and Concubines alſo, as we read 2 Sam. v. 13. But they are all here called Wives, for ſo they were: Tho' not principal Wives (as Pellicanus notes) that is, not ſuch as governed the Family, for that the Concubines did not.

Ver. 4. Now theſe are the names of his children which he had in Jeruſalem; Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,

Ver. 5. And Ibhar, and Eliſhua, and Elpalet.

Ver. 6. And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

Ver. 7. And Eliſhama, and Beeliada, and Eliphalet.] In 2 Sam. v. 14, 15, 16. there are but eleven mentioned, whereas here are thirteen; of which I gave ſome Account in that Place. To which I ſhall here add, that ſome of them died in their Childhood, which are reckoned here, but not in the other Place. For here are two Eliphalets, the firſt of which dying young, the laſt was ſo called to preſerve his Memory. So Kimchi writes very judiciouſly; perhaps neither the firſt Eliphalet, nor Nogah, are mentioned in the Book of Samuel, becauſe they were not then living, but they are recorded here: Becauſe the Author of this Book propoſed to himſelf to give an Account of all David's Sons born at Jeruſalem, as he ſaith ver. 4. As for the Difference between Elpalet ver. 5. and Eliphalet in this Verſe, Simeon de Muis hath well obſerved, it ought not to make any one think there is an Error either here or in any other Place: For that King of France who is commonly called Clodovæus, is called by Caſſiodore Luduinus, Ludovicus, and in Hincmar Hludovicus: Such Differences there are in the Pronunciation of the ſame Name, the Examples of which are infinite, as he ſpeaks in his Varia Sacra.

Ver. 8. And when the Philiſtines heard that David was anointed king over Iſrael, all the Philiſtines went up to ſeek David: and David heard of it, and went out againſt them. See 2 Sam. v. 17.

Ver. 9. And the Philiſtines came and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim.] This Phraſe ſpread themſelves, ſeems to import that they were very numerous, and aſſured themſelves of Victory. See there ver. 18.

Ver. 10. And David enquired of God, ſaying, ſhall I go up againſt the Philiſtines? And wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD ſaid unto him, go up, for I will deliver them into thine hand.

Ver. 11. So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David ſmote them there. Then ſaid David, God hath broken in upon mine enemies by mine hand, like the breaking forth of waters: therefore they called the name of that place, Baal-perazim.] See theſe Verſes explained in 2 Sam. v. 19, 20.

Ver. 12. And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burnt with fire.] No wonder they could not preſerve ſuch Gods as could not preſerve them. Which David would not honour, as they had done the Ark when they took it, but burnt them. See there, ver. 21.

Ver. 13. And the Philiſtines yet again ſpread themſelves abroad in the valley.

Ver. 14. Therefore David enquired again of God; and God ſaid unto him, go not up after them, turn away from them, and come upon them over againſt the mulberry-trees.

Ver. 15. And it ſhall be, when thou ſhalt hear a ſound of going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou ſhalt go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee, to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtines.

Ver. 16. David therefore did as the Lord commanded him: and they ſmote the hoſt of the Philiſtines from Gibeon even to Gazer.] See there, 2 Sam. v. 22, 23, 24, 25.

Ver. 17. And the fame of David went out into all lands, and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.] Upon all thoſe, upon whom the Fame of him came: That is, all the neighbouring Countries.

CHAP. XV.

Verſe 1. AND David made him houſes in the city of David.] He had need of many Houſes, becauſe he had many Wives and Children, as we read before: Who could not all well live in one Houſe, unleſs we ſuppoſe it to be very large, and to contain many Apartments, which may be called Houſes.

And prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent.] As we read in 2 Sam. vi. 17. For he did not think fit to bring the Tabernacle from Gibeon, becauſe he intended ſhortly to build an Houſe for the Ark. Or, as Conradus Pellicanus thinks, the Tabernacle of Moſes, having been long neglected, was grown ruinous: And he thought it better to prepare a new Tabernacle, than repair the old.

Ver. 2. Then David ſaid, none ought to carry the ark of God but the Levites: for them hath the LORD choſen to carry the ark of God, and to miniſter unto him for ever.] The former Miſcarriage, when they brought up the Ark from Kirjath-jearim, had taught him to uſe it with greater Reverence, according to the Preſcription of the Law; which ordered the Levites to carry it upon their Shoulders. See Numb. iv. 15. vii. 9.

Ver. 3. And David gathered all Iſrael together to Jeruſalem, to bring up the ark of the Lord unto his place, which he had prepared for it. See 2 Sam. vi. 15.

Ver. 4. And David aſſembled the children of Aaron and the Levites.] Whom he ordered ſhould be ſent for before, when he firſt attempted to bring up the Ark, but we do not read that they came, (ch. xiii. 2, 5.) therefore now he actually got them together.

Ver. 5. Of the ſons of Kohath: Uriel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twenty.] The Sons of Kohath are mentioned in Exod. vi. 17, 18. and Uriel is none of them: Therefore he was his Grand-Son, who proved ſo famous, that his Deſcendants are rekoned in the firſt Place.

Ver. 6. Of the ſons of Merari; Aſaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty.

Ver. 7. Of the ſons of Gerſhom; Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

Ver. 8. Of the ſons of Elizaphan: Shemaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.] He was the Son of Uzziel, the youngeſt Son of Kohath. See Exod. vi. 18, 23. Num. iv. 3.

Ver. 9. Of the ſons of Hebron: Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourſcore.

Ver. 10. Of the ſons of Uzziel: Amminadab the chief, and his brethren, an hundred and twelve.] Theſe two laſt named were the Sons of Kohath.

Ver. 11. And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts.] I have obſerved here before, that Zadok was in the greateſt Favour with David: And therefore is mentioned firſt, tho' Abiathar was the High-Prieſt, and Zadok only the ſecond Prieſt. See upon 2 Sam. xv. 27, 29.

And for the Levites, for Uriel, Aſaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab.] The ſix Perſons mentioned in the foregoing Verſes.

Ver. 12. And ſaid unto them, ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: ſanctify your ſelves, both ye and your brethren, that you may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Iſrael, unto the place that I have prepared for it.] This Sanctification was by waſhing their Bodies, and Garments, abſtaining from their Wives, and other Purifications. See Exod. xix. 10, 15.

Ver. 13. For becauſe ye did it not at the firſt, the LORD our God made a breach upon us.] It ſeems that Prieſts and Levites were not well acquainted with the Law; or, the Ark having been very long in one Place, they had forgot how it ought to be removed: And did not ſanctify themſelves, and ſeriouſly conſider their Duty. At leaſt, they that were then preſent (for the Chief were not then aſſembled, as I ſaid v. 4.) were ignorant, or careleſs.

For that we ſought him not after the due order.] This good King doth not wholly excuſe himſelf, and lay all the Blame on them: But puts himſelf into the Number of thoſe, who were negligent in this Matter. For it was his Duty as well as theirs, to look into the Law, and pray to God for his Direction. There were four Faults committed. Firſt, In putting the Ark into a Cart, which ſhould have been carried by the Levites on their Shoulders. Secondly, The Levites were not permitted to touch the Ark, as Uzza did. Thirdly, He was no Levite, and therefore more grievouſly offended. (Numb. xvi. 28.) Laſtly, He wanted Faith, that God would take Care of the Ark. This laſt David could not help: But the three firſt he might have prevented.

Ver. 14. So the prieſts and the Levites ſanctified themſelves, to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Iſrael.] From this Place, and ſome others, (as Joſh. iii. 3.) Buxtorf truly infers, I think, that all the Tribe of Levi had a Right to carry the Ark, the Prieſts as well as others. But while they were in the Wilderneſs, they that were bare Levites commonly did it, becauſe the Prieſts were few, and had other Employment. But the Prieſts being Levites might do it when they pleaſed, or were appointed to it. See Hiſtor. Arcæ, cap. viii. ſect. 2.

Ver. 15. And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their ſhoulders, with the ſtaves thereon, as Moſes commanded, according to the word word of the LORD.] The Children of Kohath had this peculiar Privilege: Who are the Levites here mentioned, Numb. iv. 4.

Ver. 16. And David ſpake to the chief of the Levites.] To thoſe ſix Perſons before mentioned, ver. 5, 6, &c.

To appoint their brethren to be ſingers with inſtruments of muſick, pſalteries, and harps, and cymbals.] They that were Chief among them, knew who could ſing well, and play upon ſuch Inſtruments as are here mentioned: The beſt of which were to be ordered to perform this Service.

Sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.] Singing ſo loud that all might hear, and have their Hearts lifted up with Joy in God. See 2 Chron. xx. 19. Here it may be obſerved, that tho' David did not build the Temple, yet he ordered how the Service of God ſhould be performed there, in a more ſolemn Manner than it had been hitherto, with ſinging and muſical Inſtruments. Which began now when the Ark was brought to the Place prepared for it; and was ordered afterwards to be conſtantly performed every Day, ch. xvi. 4, 42. And indeed there was ſcarce any ſolemn Service performed to their Gods, either by Greeks or Barbarians, without both Vocal and Inſtrumental Muſick, as the illuſtrious Ezekiel Spanhemius hath obſerved out of Strabo, L. x. p. 467. See him upon Callimachus his Hymn to Diana, ver. 245. where he notes out of Plutarch, that their Muſical Inſtruments were three (as they were here) and upon ver. 245. that Muſick was thought to be a thing ſo heavenly, that their Gods were accounted the Inventors of the principal Inſtruments of it. See upon ver. 295. Certain it is that the Greeks were not the Inventors of them, but they had them out of the Eaſt, as he ſhews upon ver. 249. Which appears by the Names of ſome of them, which are plainly extant in the Bible, as Bochartus hath obſerved.

Ver. 17. So the Levites appointed Heman the ſon of Joel: and of his brethren, Aſaph the ſon of Berechiah: and of the ſons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the ſon of Kuſhaiah.] Theſe three were the Principal who were appointed to govern the reſt.

Ver. 18. And with them their brethren of the ſecond degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel.] The LXX take Ben for an Appellative, and join it with the next, as if he had ſaid, Zechariah the Son of Jaaziel. But the Jews take it for a proper Name of one of the Singers (as we do) and David Kimchi thinks this is the Perſon to whom David directed the Ninth Pſalm to be ſung by him, upon the Occaſion of the Death of Saul; for it is ſaid to be Laben, which he underſtands to be to Ben the Singer.

And Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaſeiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphaleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the porters.] This was the Office of theſe of the ſecond Degree: Who were alſo, when their Attendance was over, inſtructed in Muſick, and aſſiſted in it when they were not in the other Employment.

Ver. 19. So the ſingers, Hemen, Aſaph, and Ethan, were appointed to ſound with cymbals of braſs.

Ver. 20. And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah.] Here is no mention made of Ben; which ſome imagine is, becauſe before they came to execute their Office, he fell ſick, or died: And Azaziah, who was not mentioned before, came in his Room: But was not ſo eminent as he, and therefore put in the laſt Place.

With pſalteries on Alamoth.] Or, with Alamoth. Which being joined with Pſalteries, is thought by ſome to be a muſical Inſtrument. But Strigelius, from the Derivation of the Word, thinks that Alamoth ſignifies that theſe Men ſung the Baſe, as thoſe in the next Verſe did the Treble.

Ver. 21. And Mattithiah, and Eliphaleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps on the Sheminith.] Some take Sheminith to ſignify an Harp with eight Strings.

To excel.] The Hebrew Word Lenatzeach, coming from Natzach, to ovecome, is thought by Strigelius to ſignify a Voice higher than all the reſt.

Ver. 22. And Chenaniah chief of the Levites.] A principal Perſon among them, but not before-mentioned: So that it doth not appear of what Family he was.

Was for ſong.] Or, as it is tranſlated in the Margin, was for Carriage; that is, for managing of the Voice. He taught them how to ſing, as the following Words tell us, he inſtructed about the Song, becauſe he was skilful. Being a great Artiſt in ſinging, he was the Præcentor: For ver. 27. he is called Maſter of the Song. Which Lud. Cappellus thinks ſignifies as much, as that he guided them to keep time, by the Elevation of his Hand, or of a Wand. So the LXX. ἄρχων τῶν ᾠδῶν, who is properly called the Præcentor among us: Who among the ancient Salii was called Vates: He being the prime Singer while they were dancing; as Gutberletius obſerves in his Book De Saliis, cap. xi.

Ver. 23. And Berechiah, and Elkanah were door-keepers for the ark.] Their Office at preſent was, to guard the Ark as it paſſed along, that none might touch it.

Ver. 24. And Shebaniah, and Jehoſhaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amaſai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer the prieſts, did blow with the trumpets before the ark of God.] For this was the Office of the Prieſts, as we read in Numbers x. the beginning.

And Obed-edom, and Jehiah were door-keepers for the ark.] When it was ſettled at Jeruſalem, they kept the Door of the Tent prepared for it; that none might approach it but the High-Prieſt at proper Seaſons.

Ver. 25. So David and the elders of Iſrael, and the captains over hundreds, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, out of the houſe of Obed-edom with joy.] With Muſick and Dancing. See 2 Sam. vi. 5, 12, 15.

Ver. 26. And it came to paſs when God helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams.] Some underſtand this of the Strength that God gave them to carry the Ark without fainting, tho' they went up a

ſteep

ſteep Hill, to ſettle it in the Place, where it was to reſt. But it is not likely, God impoſed ſuch great Burdens on them in his Service, that it was hard to bear them, without an extraordinary Aſſiſtance. I think the Meaning rather is, that he preſerved them from committing any Error, ſo that they carried it without Offence. Or, as Junius takes it, God gave them Eaſe, and others were ordered to take their Place, when they had gone ſome Part of the Way. For, tho' it was not an heavy Burthen, yet they could not but proceed with Fear and Trembling, leſt they ſhould incur God's Diſpleaſure, as Uzzah did. Then they, that is, the Levites, offered upon their own Account the Sacrifices here mentioned; beſides thoſe which the King offered, as we read 2 Sam. vi. 13. And ſeven Bullocks, and as many Rams being offered, ſome think, that every time the Ark reſted, for the Levites to reſt themſelves, a Bullock was offered with a Ram: Which was ſeven times between the Houſe of Obed-edom, and the City of David.

Ver. 27. And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen.] Pure white Garments were proper (as Grotius here notes) in Divine Miniſtrations. And Kimchi thinks, that the Levites, who bare the Ark, and the Singers, being thus clothed upon this ſolemn Occaſion, David being Muſical, and bearing his Part among them, choſe to appear in the very ſame Habit. Juſt, ſaith he, as among Chriſtians, their Kings and Princes, when they go in Proceſſion with the Clergy, are clothed like them. And by this perhaps may be underſtood what Michal meant when ſhe found fault with David for uncovering himſelf: Which does not ſignify, that he appeared naked, but put off his Royal Robes, and put on thoſe that did not belong to him. But it muſt be confeſſed, that fine Linen was the Apparel of Kings, and great Men.

And all the Levites that bare the ark, and Chenaniah the maſter of the ſong, with the ſingers.] Theſe were all clothed in fine Linen.

David alſo had upon him an ephod of linen.] Which was an honorary Veſtment allowed to thoſe who were not Levites, as I have ſhewn upon 1 Sam. ii. 18. See my Notes there, and upon 2 Sam. vi. 14.

Ver. 28. Thus all Iſrael brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, with ſhouting, and with ſound of the cornet, and with trumpets and with cymbals, making a noiſe with pſalteries and harps.] See upon 2 Sam. vi. 15.

Ver. 29. And it came to paſs as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul looking out at a window, ſaw king David dancing and playing: and ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart.] And expreſſed as much, when he came to his Houſe, in Words of great Contempt. See 2 Sam. vi. 16, 20. She was a proud Woman, and 'tis likely had no great Senſe of Religion, which in the Reign of Saul (as we read before, xiii. 3.) was much neglected.

CHAP. XVI.

Ver. 1. SO they brought the ark of God, and ſet it in the midſt of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt-ſacrifices, and peace-offerings before God.

Ver. 2. And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings, and the peace-offerings, he bleſſed the people in the name of the LORD.] The Targum tranſlates it, in the name of the WORD of the LORD. Which ſhews that Interpreter took the WORD to be Jehovah.

Ver. 3. And he dealt to every one of Iſrael, both man and women, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of fleſh, and a flagon of wine.] Theſe three Verſes have been explained upon 2 Sam. vi. 17, 18, 19. See there.

Ver. 4. And he appointed certain of the Levites.] In their Courſes.

To miniſter before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank, and praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael.] To declare unto the People the wonderful Works God had done for Iſrael (for that is to record) and to give him Thanks, and to extol his Almighty Goodneſs, and all his glorious Perfections. As none could ſacrifice but the Prieſts of the Seed of Aaron; ſo none could miniſter in the Temple but the Levites: Which was unalterably eſtabliſhed by the Law of God. But it was in the Power of their King to aſſign the Prieſts or Levites ſeveral Functions in the Service of God, as Grotius obſerves from this Place. They were appointed to be Singers, with Inſtruments of Muſick, by the Prophets, as we are told in 2 Chron. xxix. 25. and David, as a Prophet, not as a King, appointed this Divine Service, xxiii. 2. But the Application of Perſons to their ſeveral Offices is every where aſcribed to King David, and afterwards to Solomon; and Jehoſhaphat, who was no Prophet, ordered the Prieſts and Levites to go and teach the People. So David here appointed who ſhould ſing, who ſhould be Porters, and diſcharge other Duties. See De Imper. ſum. poteſt. circa ſacra, Cap. x. p. 270. Edit. Pariſ.

Ver. 5. Aſaph the chief.] Some of whoſe Divine Compoſures we have in the Book of Pſalms.

And next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel, with pſalteries, and with harps: but Aſaph made a ſound with cymbals.] By whom all the reſt were directed to take their ſeveral Parts in this Service.

Ver. 6. Benaiah alſo, and Jahaziel the prieſts, with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.] At the Morning and Evening-Service theſe Prieſts attended with Trumpets, as the Levites did with other Muſical Inſtruments.

Ver. 7. Then on that day David delivered firſt this pſalm.] Or, as it may be plainly tranſlated out of the Hebrew, This David appointed (or ordained) in the firſt place at that time; viz. that God ſhould be praiſed by Aſaph and his Collegues in the Manner following. Which ſolemn Service began on the Day when he brought up the Ark, and ever after was continued.

To thank the LORD, into the hand of Aſaph and his brethren.] To give him Thanks (as Conradus Pellicanus well gloſſes) for all his Benefits he had beſtowed on his People Iſrael, and which he intended to beſtow upon all the People of this World by his Son Chriſt.

Ver. 8.

Ver. 8. Give thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people.] Out of Psalm xcvi. and cv. which, I suppose, David had made before this Time, he now composed one Hymn to be daily used in the Divine Service: Wherein the Divine Perfections are admirably set forth, that the People might be excited to his Fear, Love, and Obedience. I have sufficiently explained the Sense of every Verse in my Paraphrase upon the Psalms: But shall here touch upon them again, out of that good, and truly great Man now mentioned, who thus glosses upon this Verse. O ye Ministers and Worshippers of the most High, celebrate with Heart and Voice all the Benefits you have received from him the Fountain of all Good; and if you suffer any Evil, or want any Thing, pray to him for Relief; and being taught by happy Experience how good he is, proclaim it to all the World, and teach them, that all Things depend upon his Pleasure and Order.

Ver. 9. Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him, talk you of all his wondrous works.] Praise him with Heart and Voice: Declare his wonderful Works, wherein he hath testified his Omnipotence, and his Wisdom to be faithful.

Ver. 10. Glory ye in his holy name, let the heart of them rejoyce that seek the LORD.] Look upon this as your highest Happiness, and make your Boast of it, that he is your God: And let their Heart rejoyce who seek his Favour as their chiefest Good.

Ver. 11. Seek the LORD and his strength, seek his face continually.] Being sensible of your own Weakness, depend upon his power for help: And seek his Clemency and Mercy with humble Prayer on all Occasions. The Ark is called God's Strength in other Places, 2 Chron. vi. 41. Psalm lxxviii. 61. and therefore here they are exhorted to fall down before it and implore his Mercy.

Ver. 12. Remember his marvellous works that he hath done.] For the Preservation of his People, and the Punishment of their Enemies.

His wonders, and the judgments of his mouth.] He would have them reflect upon the Plagues of Egypt, which came upon them in a wonderful Manner, at the Command of Moses. Or perhaps, he means by Judgments the Laws he gave them at Mount Sinai, Exod. xxi. 1.

Ver. 13. O ye seed of Israel his servant, ye children of Jacob his chosen ones.] This is your Duty, as you are the Off-spring of a most faithful Servant of his: O ye Posterity of Jacob, whom God hath chosen for his People; not for your Merits, but out of his free Love to one that loved him.

Ver. 14. He is the LORD our God, his judgments are in all the earth.] The great LORD of all Things, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob is our God: Who rules the whole World by his Providence.

Ver. 15. Be ye mindful always of his covenant, the word that he commanded to a thousand generations.] Never forget his most gracious Covenant, wherein he promises to be ever propitious to you, if you keep his Law.

Ver. 16. Even of the covenant whith he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Isaac.] This Covenant he made with your Fathers, and confirmed it with an Oath, that it should never fail.

Ver. 17. And hath confirmed the same to Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant.] And what he first promised to Abraham, and confirmed to Isaac by a solemn Oath, he establish'd to Jacob by an inviolable Law, to endure for ever. See Gen. xvii. 1, 2. xxii. 16, &c. xxvi. 3. xxviii. 13.

Ver. 18. Saying, unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the land of your inheritance.] He gave him an undoubted Title to that good Land; and afterward put his Posterity into actual Possession of it.

Ver. 19. When ye were but few, even a few, and strangers in it.] Remember your former Condition, when you were the smallest of all Nations, poor and little esteemed; were Strangers in the Land, which now you enjoy.

Ver. 20. And when they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people.] When you wandred up and down, from one Country to another: Having no settled Dwelling-place.

Ver. 21. He suffered no man to do them wrong.] Tho' they were in Danger to be oppressed by those who had not the Fear of God before their Eyes, yet they were safe every where under the divine Protection.

Yea, he reproved kings for their sakes.] When great Princes did but attempt to offer any Violence to them, he presently made them feel his Hand against them.

In Seder Olam Rabba they say, that thus far they sung in the Morning.

Ver. 22. Saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.] So that they durst not so much as touch them, but used them as if they had been Kings and Lords of the Land. So precious were you in his Eyes, as if to do them the least harm had been the Crime of Treason against the Divine Majesty.

Grotius thinks, they are called God's anointed, because they had in their Family, Jus Regium; and therefore Nicolaus Damascenus and Justin call them Kings. Kimchi more plainly translates the Word anointed, My great Men, or Princes: For Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, were honoured by Kings, Abimelech and Pharaoh, as if they had been anointed Kings. Whence the Children of Heth say to Abraham, thou art a Prince of God, that is, a great Prince, in the midst of us, Gen. xxiii. 6. St Hierom thinks, that all the Israelites when they came out of Egypt, were called God's anointed, because they were under his special Protection, by the Cloud that covered them, as Cyrus was called his anointed, because he was chosen by him to a special Office, to be the Deliverer of his People, and restore them to their own Land.

Ver. 23. Sing unto the LORD all the earth: shew forth from day to day his salvation.] Let not only the Israelites praise him, but all the People of the Earth acknowledge their great Creator; proclaim his promised Salvation by Christ, without Intermission.

Here began the Song between the two Evenings (if we may believe the Jews in Seder Olam Rabba) unto those Words, ver. 36. Let all the People say Amen.

Ver. 24.

Ver. 24. Declare his glory among the heathen: his marvellous works among all nations.] Let them ſpread his Fame among all Nations, and celebrate every where his aſtoniſhing Works.

Ver. 25. For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praiſed: he alſo is to be feared above all gods.] He is the great Creator of all Things, and the Donor of all Good, who therefore cannot be ſufficiently magnified and praiſed: And none ought to ſhare with him in his Worſhip and Service.

Ver. 26. For all the gods of the people are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.] For all the Gods which the Heathen worſhip, are empty Names, who can do nothing: It is the LORD God of Iſrael, who made the Sun, Moon, and Stars, (which the Gentiles worſhip) who therefore only is to be adored.

Ver. 27. Glory and honour are in his preſence, ſtrength and gladneſs are in his place.] To him only we ought to aſcribe Glory, Honour, and Power: In him alone we ought to confide, to him we ought to cleave, and in his Clemency and Favour perpetually rejoyce.

Ver. 28. Give unto the LORD, ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and ſtrength.] Let not his Worſhip be confined to the People of Iſrael, but let all ſorts of People, from one End of the World to the other, acknowledge him to be the Great GOD, who governs the whole World.

Ver. 29. Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him, worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs.] Acknowledge all his glorious Attributes, wherein he excels all Beings: Offer unto him the Sacrifice of Praiſe and Thankſgiving; proſtrate yourſelves before him in the humbleſt Manner, and adore his moſt holy and gracious Majeſty.

Ver. 30. Fear before him all the earth.] Let all the Inhabitants of the Earth tremble before him, and humble themſelves unto him.

The world alſo ſhall be ſtable, that it be not moved.] For if they humbly ſubmit themſelves to his Goſpel, and implore his Grace, he will amend the World, and confirm them in all that is good; and not ſuffer ſo many Nations to wander in ſuch Labyrinths of Error.

Ver. 31. Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoyce: and let men ſay among the nations, the LORD reigneth.] Let all the Inhabitants in Heaven and Earth be glad and rejoyce: For the Lord will not only be known in Judæa, but moſt gloriouſly reign in all Nations.

Ver. 32. Let the ſea rore, and the fulneſs thereof.] By the fulneſs of it, is meant its ſwelling to the very Top of the Banks, as Bochartus obſerves.

Let the Fields rejoyce, and all that is therein.

Ver. 33. Then ſhall the trees of the wood ſing out at the preſence of the LORD, becauſe he cometh to judge the earth.] Theſe two Verſes he thus paraphraſes, Let the vaſt Sea, and all that live in the Waters triumph; let the dry Land and all living Creatures therein exult for Joy: Let the Trees and all the Fruit that grows on them, ſing to the Lord for his Benefits. For the Creator of all comes to reſtore Mankind, and reſume them into his Favour; for whom all theſe Things acknowledge they were created.

Ver. 34. O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.] Whatſoever we are or can do, we owe it to his Divine Bounty: Unto whom we ought to give perpetual Thanks, and hope in his Mercy for ever.

Ver. 35. And ſay ye, Save us, O God of our ſalvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and glory in thy praiſe.] Let all, both Jews and Gentiles ſay, Save us, O LORD our God, moſt Juſt, Merciful, and Powerful: and gather thoſe who now are diſtant from, and oppoſite to one another, by Variance and Hatred, into the Unity of Faith and Charity: That all Nations may unanimouſly give Thanks unto thee, and glory in this, that they are always praiſing thee.

Some have imagined, that Ezra added theſe Words after they came out of Captivity: But David rather uttered them by the Spirit of Prophecy, concerning the happy Union of Jews and Gentiles.

Ver. 36. Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael for ever and ever.] Unto the great Creator and Sovereign of the World, God moſt bleſſed for ever, let all Men every where never ceaſe to give Bleſſing and Praiſe.

And all the people ſaid Amen, and praiſed the LORD.] At the End of this Hymn (the two laſt Verſes of which are the Concluſion of Pſalm cvi. 47, 48.) all the people expreſſed their Deſire that God might be for ever praiſed in this manner, by ſaying, Amen. From whence Vitringa obſerves the great Antiquity of this ſacred Rite, of ſaying Amen at the Concluſion of all our Prayers, and Benedictions. Which was continued after the Captivity, as we find Nehem. viii. 6. And he notes there Rules which the Jewiſh Doctors give concerning the Pronunciation of this Word, by the People, Firſt, That it be not pronunced too haſtily and ſwiftly, but with a grave and diſtinct Voice. And then not louder than the Tone of him that bleſſed. And laſtly, It was to be expreſſed in Faith: With a certain Perſuaſion, that God would bleſs them and hear their Prayers. De Synag. Veteri, Lib. iii. Par. ii Cap. 18.

Ver. 37. So he left there before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, Aſaph and his brethren to miniſter before the ark continually, as every days work required.] To ſing Hymns proper to the Seaſon.

Ver. 38. And Obed-edom, with their brethren threeſcore and eight.] He was one of the principal Singers under Aſaph, ver. 5.

Obed-edom alſo the ſon of Jeduthun, and Hoſah to be porters.] This is another Obed-edom: Who is joined with Jehiah, as Door-keeper for the Ark, xv. 24. But Jehiah, I ſuppoſe, was alſo called Hoſah.

Ver. 39. And Zadok the prieſt.] He was the ſecond Prieſt, as I have often noted, Deputy to the High-Prieſt.

And his brethren the prieſts, before the tabernacle of the LORD, in the high places that was in Gibeon.] As Aſaph and his Brethren miniſtred at Jeruſalem: So others were appointed to miniſter ſter a Gibeon: Where the Tabernacle of Moſes was, and the Altar of Burnt-offering, ever ſince the Slaughter of the Prieſts by Saul. See 2 Chron. i. 3. Here the ordinary Worſhip of God was performed, and therefore the Prieſts attended at this Place to offer Sacrifice, which the Levites could not do, ver. 40. But the extraordinary Worſhip was where the Ark was placed, at Jeruſalem; where Abiathar the High-Prieſt attended upon David: That if he had any Occaſion to conſult the Divine Majeſty, (which could be done only before the Ark) he might be ready to do it for him. But Zadok, the Chief of the Secondary Prieſts, always attended at Gibeon.

Ver. 40. To offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD upon the altar of the burnt-offering continually, morning and evening, and to do according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Iſrael.] For this Part of the Divine Service could be performed no where but there where the Altar was, nor by any body but by the Prieſts: And therefore David took care it ſhould be conſtantly performed here, tho' he was not preſent every Day at thoſe Sacrifices, which were offered for all the People of Iſrael, whereſoever they were. The Prieſts alſo took care to trim the Lamps, and ſet the Shew-bread on the Table, and to do all other things which the Law required.

Ver. 41. And with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the reſt that were choſen, who were expreſſed by name, to give thanks to the LORD, becauſe his mercy endureth for ever.] As Aſaph and his Brethren took care of the Muſick at Jeruſalem, where no Sacrifices were offered, but only Hymns ſung, and Prayers made: So did Heman and Jeduthun (who were with Zadok) at Gibeon, where they ſung and played on Inſtruments when the Morning and Evening Sacrifices were offered.

Ver. 42. And with them Heman and Jeduthun, with trumpets and cymbals.] It ſhould be tranſlated, with them (Heman and Jeduthun) there were trumpets and cymbals.

For thoſe that ſhould make a ſound, and with muſical inſtruments of God.] All the Utenſils of the Tabernacle and Temple were ſacred and ſet apart for that Uſe: Not only thoſe of the Altar, but even theſe Inſtruments of Muſick, which David ordained to praiſe the Lord withal. They were not common, but conſecrated to God to be uſed in his Service alone: And therefore called muſical inſtruments of God, both here and in 2 Chron. vii. 6. that is, ſacred ones: Whence thoſe that ſung the Song of Victory over the Beaſt, Revel. xv. 2. are ſaid to have in their Hands the harps of God: That is, not profane or common, but ſacred Harps, the Harps of the Temple, for there they ſung their Anthem, as Mr Mede obſerves, Book i. Diſcourſe 2.

And the ſons of Jeduthun were porters.] To the Tabernacle, as others of them were to the Ark, ver. 38.

Ver. 43. And all the people departed every man to his houſe: and David returned to bleſs his houſe.] See 2 Sam. vi. 19, 20.

CHAP. XVII.

Ver. 1. NOW it came to paſs as David ſat in his houſe, that David ſaid to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in an Houſe of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD remaineth under curtains.

Ver. 2. Then Nathan ſaid unto David, Do all that is in thine heart, for God is with thee.

Ver. 3. And it came to paſs the ſame night, that the word of God came to Nathan, ſaying,

Ver. 4. Go and tell David my ſervant, Thus ſaith the LORD, thou ſhalt not build me an houſe to dwell in.] Theſe four Verſes have been explained before, 2 Sam. vii. in the five firſt Verſes.

Ver. 5. For I have not dwelt in an houſe ſince the day that I brought up Iſrael, unto this day, but I have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.] This Verſe is the very ſame with the ſixth Verſe of that Chapter in Samuel: Only there it is ſaid, I have walked in a tent, and in a tabernacle; and here, I have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.] Both which ſignify, that he had no ſettled Place wherein to dwell, but walked or went, where the Tent, or Tabernacle, was pitched for him. For the Words may be tranſlated, I went out of the tent into the tent: That is, when they marched in the Wilderneſs, the Ark was taken out of the Tent, and when they reſted it was put into the Tent again: And not into a Houſe built of Cedar. Or, this may refer to the Tranſlation of the Ark from the Tabernacle by Moſes, unto the Tent made for it by David.

Ver. 6. Wherefore I have walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I a word to any of the judges of Iſrael, (whom I commanded to feed my people) ſaying, Why have ye not built me an houſe of cedars?] See 2 Sam. vii. 7.

Ver. 7. Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David, thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, I took thee from the ſheep-cote, even from following the ſheep, that thou ſhouldeſt be ruler over my people Iſrael.

Ver. 8. And I have been with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee, aad have mad e hee a name like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

Ver. 9. Alſo I will ordain a place for my people Iſrael, and will plant them, and they ſhall dwell in their place, and ſhall be moved no more; neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs waſte them any more: (as at the beginning] He ſpeaks here, as if now, and not before, they were poſſeſſed of the Land of Canaan: For under David's Government they were ſettled and flouriſhed; whereas under the Judges they had no reſt.

Ver. 10. And ſince the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Iſrael:) moreover, I will ſubdue all thine enemies. Furthermore I tell thee, that the LORD will build thee an houſe.

Ver. 11. And it ſhall come to paſs, when thy days be expired, that thou muſt go to be with thy fathers, that I will raiſe up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall be of thy ſons, and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

Ver. 12. He ſhall build me an houſe, and I will eſtabliſh his throne for ever.

Ver. 13. I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee.] All theſe Verſes, which are ſet down almoſt in the ſame Words, in 2 Sam. vii. from ver. 7. to ver. 16. are there explained.

Ver. 14. But I will ſettle him in mine houſe, and in my Kingdom for ever, and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for evermore.] That is, in my Church, which is the Houſe of God, wherein he dwelt; and which he governed, ruled, and protected as his peculiar People. It is very obſervable, that in 2 Sam. vii. 16. ſpeaking to David, he calls them, thine houſe, and thy Kingdom: But here, mine houſe, and my kingdom. Which confirms, what I noted upon the former Place, that this principally belongs to the Meſſiah, of whom David was but a Figure.

Ver. 15. According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion, ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David.] See there, 2 Sam. vii. 17.

Ver. 16. And David the king came and ſat before the LORD, and ſaid, who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto?] He came and took his Place before the Ark, and then ſtood up, and made the following Prayer to God, as I have explained it 2 Sam. vii. 18.

Ver. 17. And yet this was a ſmall thing in thine eyes, O God, for thou haſt alſo ſpoken of thy ſervants houſe for a great while to come, and haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high degree, O LORD God.] This is likewiſe explained there, ver. 19. but the latter Part of that Verſe is expreſſed in different Words, for there he ſaith, Is this the manner of men, O LORD, but here, thou haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high Degree, O LORD God. This was not after the manner of Men, to treat a poor Shepherd, as if he were a great Prince: But ſo he had dealt with David. But Victorinus Strigelius thinks, the Hebrew Words will bear this Tranſlation, which in his Opinion is better than our own, Thou haſt looked upon me in the form of a man, who art in the higheſt the LORD God. Which he looks upon as a Prophecy of the Meſſiah, who was really the LORD God, but appeared in the Form of a Man. The LXX come near this Senſe in the former Part of the Words, ἐπεῖδές με ὡς ὄρασις ἀνθρώπου, Thou haſt look'd upon me, as the aſpect of man. So Chriſtophorus Helvicus interprets it in his Elenchus Judæorum.

Ver. 18. What can David ſpeak more to thee for the honour of thy ſervant? for thou knoweſt thy ſervant.] He could deſire no more for the Increaſe of his Honour: Which is an Explication of what is ſaid 2 Sam. vii. 20. See there.

Ver. 19. O LORD, for thy ſervants ſake, and according to thine own heart, haſt thou done all this greatneſs, in making known all theſe great things.] In 2 Sam. vii. 21. it is ſaid for thy Word's ſake, that is, for the ſake of thy promiſe to thy Servant, as this Place explains it. He had paſſed his Word to David by his Prophets out of his own mere Goodneſs, without any other Motive. See there. It may be alſo thought to ſignify, for the ſake of the Meſſiah, who is the Word of God: And by Way of Eminence is called his ſervant, Iſaiah xlii. 1. xlix. 5.

Ver. 20. O LORD, there is none like thee neither is there any God, beſides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.] This is more fully expreſſed in 2 Sam. vii. 22.

Ver. 21. And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of greatneſs and terribleneſs, by driving out nations from before thy people whom thou haſt redeemed out of Egypt?] See 2 Sam. vii. 23. As in the former Verſe he acknowledges his Happineſs, in being beloved of God; ſo in this, the great Honour God had done him, in making him King of ſuch a People.

Ver. 22. For thy people Iſrael didſt thou make thine own people for ever, and thou, LORD, becameſt their God.] See there, Verſe 24.

Ver. 23. Therefore now, LORD, let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, be eſtabliſhed for ever, and do as thou haſt ſaid.] See ver. 25.

Ver. 24. Let it ever be eſtabliſhed, that thy name may be magnified for ever, ſaying, the LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael, even a God to Iſrael: and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed before thee.] See ver. 20. where the ſame Thing is ſaid, only the Title of God is a little here enlarged. For there it is only ſaid, The LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael; but here, The LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael, ever a God to Iſrael. Or, as it may be tranſlated, The LORD of hoſts the God of Iſrael, is a God to Iſrael, that is, moſt Gracious and Merciful, as appeared in many Things, particularly in beſtowing ſuch a King upon them.

Ver. 25. For thou, O my God, haſt told thy ſervant, that thou wilt build him an houſe: therefore thy ſervant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.] See there, ver. 17.

Ver. 26. And now, LORD, thou art God, (and haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant.)] See ver. 28.

Ver. 27. Now therefore let it pleaſe thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou bleſſeſt, O LORD, and it ſhall be bleſſed for ever.] this is delivered a little more largely in 2 Sam. vii. 29. See there.

CHAP. XVIII.

Ver. 1. NOW after this it came to paſs, that David ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them, and took Gath and her towns out of the hand of the Philiſtines.] This Chapter hath been fully explained in 2 Sam. viii. What Differences there are in any Expreſſion, is there noted, and an Account given of them, to which I refer the Reader. Only it may be obſerved upon this Verſe, that in the Book of Samuel it is ſaid, he took Metheg-ammah out of their Hand; but here Gath and her Towns: Which are all one in Abarbinel's Account, who takes Metheg-ammah for a Region or Province, which comprehended Gath and her Towns. We may obſerve alſo in ver. 11. the great Piety of David, who had in his Heart to build a ſplendid Houſe for God's Habitation: And when he was prohibited by God to do it (becauſe he had been engaged in ſo many Wars, and ſhed a great deal of Blood) he could not ſatisfy himſelf without doing ſomething towards it: By preparing Materials for it, and conſecrating a great deal of Treaſure to be employed in the Building, and no other Uſe. For that's the Meaning of what is here ſaid, that he dedicated unto the LORD the gold and ſilver which he brought from ſeveral Nations: That is, he conſecrated, or ſolemnly deputed them to this holy Uſe, that it might not be lawful hereafter to employ them to any other.

and

Ver. 16. It is obſerved by Druſius, that there were two Ahimelechs; one the Grand-ſon of Ahitub, the other the Son of Abiathar: Who by the Change of a Letter is here called Abimelech. Miſcel. Cent. I. cap. 46.

CHAP. XIX.

THIS Chapter alſo hath been ſo fully explained in 2 Sam. x. that there is no need of adding any thing. Unleſs I obſerve, that the Country which there is called ſimply Maacah, is here called ver. 6. Aram-maachah. Which is the Foundation of their Opinion who think this was in Syria, as I there obſerved. But it is plain the Scripture makes Maacah a City of Canaan, Deut. iii. 14. Joſhua xii. 4, 5. and other Places. But it lying beyond Jordan on the Borders of Syria, it had the Name of Aram added to it: Becauſe the People were in their Manners more Syrians than Canaanites, as Bochartus conjectures. In like manner, Aram Bethrehob he thinks belonged to Canaan, in the North Part of it, not far from Emath, that is, Epiphania. See Numb. xiii. 41. And Maachah was in the Tribe of Manaſſeh, as Rehob in the Tribe of Aſher, Joſh. xiii. 11. xix. 28. As for what is ſaid here, that they hired thirty two thouſand chariots, the meaning muſt be, ſo many Men, who fought in Chariots, when they ſaw Cauſe. For in the Book of Samuel, it is ſaid expreſly that they hired twenty thouſand Footmen from Zoba, and twelve thouſand Men of Aſhtoh: Which make up the thirty two thouſand here mentioned. Which if it ſhould be underſtood of ſuch a Number of Chariots, there would have been no Footmen in their whole Army, which is incredible: As it is that they ſhould have ſo many Chariots. See 1 Sam. xiii. 5.

CHAP. XX.

Ver. 1. AND it came to paſs after the year was expired, at the time that kings go out to battle, Joab led forth the power of the army, and waſted the country of the children of Ammon, and came and beſieged Rabbah, (but David tarried at Jeruſalem) and Joab ſmote Rabbah and deſtroyed it.] See 2 Sam. xi. 1. where the Hiſtory of David's Adultery with Bathſheba, and the Murder of Uriah follows: Which is here omitted, it being there ſo largely related, that nothing could be added to it.

Ver. 2. And David took the crown of their king from off his head, and found it to weigh a talent of gold, and there were precious ſtones in it, and it was ſet upon Davids head; and he brought alſo exceeding much ſpoil out of the city.

Ver. 3. And he brought out the people that were in it, and cut them with ſaws, and with harrows of iron, and with axes: even ſo dealt David with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And David and all the people returned to Jeruſalem.] See 2 Sam. xii. 30, 31. where theſe two Verſes are explained.

Ver. 4. And it came to paſs after this, that there aroſe war at Gezer with the Philiſtines, at which time Sibbechai the Huſhathite ſlew Sippai that was of the children of the giant, and they were ſubdued.] An Account is given of this in 2 Sam. xxi. 11. where this Giant is called Saph; who was, as I obſerve there, of the Race of the Anakims. See Deut. ix. 2.

Ver. 5. And there was war again with the Philiſtines, and Elhanan the ſon of Jair ſlew Lahmi the brother of Goliah the Gittite, whoſe ſpears ſtaff was like a weavers beam.] See there, 2 Sam. xxi. 19.

Ver. 6. And yet again there was war at Gath, where was a man of great ſtature, whoſe fingers and toes were four and twenty, ſix on each hand, and ſix on each foot: and he alſo was the ſon of the giant.

Ver. 7. But when he defied Iſrael, Jonathan the ſon of Shimea, Davids brother, ſlew him.

Ver. 8. Theſe were born unto the giant in Gath; and they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his ſervants.] Theſe three Verſes are explained in the fore-named Place, 2 Sam. xxi. 20, 21, 22. After which follows the Hymn which David compoſed in Commemoration of his many Deliverances from theſe and other Enemies, eſpecially from Saul: Which is here omitted, becauſe not only there largely recorded, but alſo in the Book of Pſalms.

CHAP. XXI.

Ver. 1. AND Satan ſtood up againſt Iſrael, and provoked David to number Iſrael.] It is ſaid in 2 Sam. xxiv. 1. that God being angry with Iſrael, moved David: That is, ſuffered Satan to move him. This is ſufficiently explained there: Only here the Phraſe ſtood up is to be obſerved. Which was the Poſture of thoſe who charged and accuſed any Perſon of a Crime, in a Court of Juſtice. See 1 Kings xxii. 21. Thus Satan is repreſented as the Accuſer of the Brethren, in the Book of the Revelation: And here to lay ſome Sin to the Charge of the Iſraelites, which he repreſented to God as a Reaſon to puniſh them: For it is the way of the Holy Scripture thus to bring down theſe Things, and accommodate them to the loweſt Capacities.

Ver. 2. And David ſaid to Joab, and to the rulers of the people.] Who, it is plain by 2 Sam. xxiv. 4. were with Joab when the King gave this Command.

Go, number Iſrael from Beerſheba even unto Dan; and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

Ver. 3. And Joab anſwered, The LORD make his people an hundred times ſo many as they be: but my lord the king, are they not all my lords ſervants? why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be a cauſe of treſpaſs to Iſrael?] See what I have noted upon 2 Sam.

xxiv. 3. It is ſomething ſtrange that Joab ſhould ſee the Danger of this, and David not think of it; no not when it was ſo plainly repreſented to him. But the beſt Men are ſometimes very drowſy, and apprehend not thoſe Things which plainly appear to thoſe who are not ſo good.

Ver. 4. Nevertheleſs, the kings word prevailed againſt Joab: wherefore Joab departed, and went thro' all Iſrael, and came to Jeruſalem.] Unto which they came at the End of nine Months and twenty Days, as is more largely related in 2 Sam. xxiv. from ver. 4. to ver. 9.

Ver. 5. And Joab gave the ſum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Iſrael were a thouſand thouſand and an hundred thouſand men that drew ſword: and Judah were four hundred threeſcore and ten thouſand men that drew ſword.] This Account of their Number differs much from that given in 2 Sam. xxiv. 9. concerning which ſee what I have there noted.

Ver. 6. But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them.] Some think he took no Account of Levi becauſe they were not Warriors, and ſuch only as were fit for War, David deſired to be ſatisfied how many they were. And Benjamin they think was ſo diminiſhed in the Time of the Judges, that they were to be ſpared. But theſe, it were eaſy to ſhew, are not good Reaſons; and no other Reaſon is to be ſought for, than that given here in the very next Words.

For the kings word was abominable to Joab.] He did all this againſt his Will, and at laſt the Work was ſo odious to him, that he was quite tired with it: And therefore broke off before he took the Number of theſe two Tribes.

Ver. 7. And God was diſpleaſed with this thing, therefore he ſmote Iſrael.] He reſolved to puniſh them, becauſe it was for their Sins that God permitted David to indulge himſelf in this Vanity.

Ver. 8. And David ſaid unto God, I have ſinned greatly, becauſe I have done this thing: but now, I beſeech thee, do away the Iniquity of thy ſervant, for I have done very fooliſhly.] See 2 Sam. xxiv. 10. where I have explained this, and given the beſt Account I could of the Nature of this Sin.

Ver. 9. And the LORD ſpake unto Gad, Davids ſeer, ſaying.] This is expreſſed a little more largely in 2 Sam. xxiv. 11. See there.

Ver. 10. Go and tell David ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things, chuſe thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.] He ſpeaks to him ſo ſolemnly in the Name of the LORD, that he might attend the more ſeriouſly to what he ſaid, and look upon it as peremptorily reſolved.

Ver. 11. So Gad came to David, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, chuſe thee

Ver. 12. Either three years famine, or three months to be deſtroyed before thy foes, (while that the ſword of thine enemies overtaketh thee) or elſe three days the ſword of the LORD, even the peſtilence in the land, and the angel of the LORD deſtroying throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael: now therefore adviſe thy ſelf, what word I ſhall bring again to him that ſent me.] In the Book of Samuel it is ſaid, the Prophet propounded ſeven Years of Famine, and here but three. Of which Difference I have given an Account upon 2 Sam. xxiv. 13.

Ver. 13. And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD, (for very great are his mercies) but let me not fall into the hand of man.] See there upon ver. 14. I only add here, that the Peſtilence is more propely called the Hand of the LORD, than other common Calamities: For they have viſible Cauſes, but none know whence this ſudden Deſtruction comes, but immediately from the Hand of God; when there is no Alteration that we can ſee in the Air, or other Elements (as we call them). And therefore the Angel of the LORD is ſaid to have ſmote the Army of Sennacherib, with ſuch a Peſtilence, as Joſephus reaſonably conjectures.

Ver. 14. So the LORD ſent a peſtilence upon Iſrael: and there fell of Iſrael ſeventy thouſand men.] This is more largely expreſſed in 2 Sam. xxiv. 15. See my Annotations there.

Ver. 15. And God ſent an angel unto Jeruſalem to deſtroy it: and as he was deſtroying, the LORD beheld.] This ſeems to import that there were more Angels than one employed to deſtroy in ſeveral Places of the Country: And that the Angel ſent to Jeruſalem had begun to ſlay ſome of the Inhabitants: But God took pity of them; beholding, perhaps, their ſerious Repentance.

And he repented him of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed, It is enough, ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD ſtood by the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.] See there upon ver. 16.

Ver. 16. And David lift up his eyes, and ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn ſword in his hand.] Whence the Peſtilence is called, ver. 12. the ſword of the LORD.

Stretched out over Jeruſalem.] As ready to do Execution upon the People there.

Then David and the elders of Iſrael, who were clothed in ſackcloth, fell upon their faces.] It appears by their Habit, that they (and the People of Jeruſalem with them, ver. 15.) were humbling themſelves before God for their Sins, and deprecating his Diſpleaſure: For Mourners were wont to clothe themſelves in Sackcloth.

Ver. 17. And David ſaid unto God, Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbred? even I it is that have ſinned, and done evil indeed; but as for theſe ſheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my fathers houſe; but not on thy people, that they ſhould be plagued.] See 2 Sam. xxiv. 17.

Ver. 18. Then the angel of the LORD commanded Gad to ſay to David.] This ſeems to ſignify that Gad was ſent upon his former Meſſage (ver. 9.) by an Angel, who came with that Command from God.

That David ſhould go and ſet up an altar unto the LORD, in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.] See there, ver. 18.

Ver. 19. And David went up at the ſaying of Gad, which he ſpake in the name of LORD.] See there, ver. 19.

Ver. 20.

Ver. 20. And Ornan turned back, and saw the angel; and his four sons with him hid themselves.] Or, when he saw the Angel, he turned his Face from him; (as did his four Sons, who likewise saw him) being afraid at so glorious an Appearance.

This Book, as I observed in the beginning, supplies some Things omitted in the Book of Samuel, among which this is one. For nothing is said there of Araunah's seeing the Angel, but only of David's seeing him.

Now Ornan was threshing wheat.] For the greatest Persons did not, in those Days, disdain such Employments.

Ver. 21. And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked, and saw David, and went out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.] See 2 Sam. xxiv. 20.

Ver. 22. Then David said to Ornan, Grant me the place of this threshing-floor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD.] This he said, after Ornan had first desired, to know the Cause of his coming to him.

Thou shalt grant it me for the full price, that the plague may be stayed from the people.] By offering a Sacrifice to appease the Divine Anger. See ver. 21.

Ver. 23. And Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen also for burnt-offerings, and the threshing-instruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat-offering, I give it all.] He offered the Ground to the King, as a free Gift; with every thing that was necessary for Sacrifice. See 2 Sam. xxiv. 22, 23.

Ver. 24. And king David said to Ornan, Nay, but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt-offerings without cost.

Ver. 25. So David gave to Ornan for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight.] This confutes their Opinion, who think there were no Shekels but of Silver. See 2 Sam. xxiv. 24. where I have shewn, that this Account of the Sum of Money which he paid, doth not disagree with that which is given there in that Place.

Ver. 26. And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings. See there, ver. 25.

And called upon the LORD.] By Thanksgivings for his Mercy, beseeching the Continuance of it.

And he answered him from heaven by fire upon the altar of burnt-offering.] This was the highest Token of God's gracious Acceptance of any Sacrifice. See Lev. ix. 24. The Jews say thus God consumed the Sacrifices of Abel, and of Noah, and of Abraham, when they first dedicated Altars to him. It is certain from the Holy Scriptures, thus God testified his Acceptance of the Sacrifices of Gibeon and Elijah in antient Times. Which Julian himself had not the Hardiness to deny. See St Cyril, contra Julianum, L. x. And indeed this was known by the Heathen: For Servius upon Virg. Æneid. xii. ver. 200. saith, that in the old Temples Sacrifices were no other ways consumed, quam igne divino precibus impetrato, than by Divine Fire obtained by Prayers. See other Testimonies out of Heathen Antiquity, in Huetius his Quæst. Alnetanæ, p. 216, &c.

Ver. 27. And the LORD commanded the Angel, and he put up his sword into the sheath thereof.] Which it seems was brandished over Jerusalem, till this Sacrifice was offered.

Ver. 28. At that time when David saw that the LORD had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, then he sacrificed there.] That is, he continued to offer his Sacrifices in that Place, where there was such a manifest Appearance of God, and a Testimony of his Acceptance of his Sacrifices. So that from this time he did not go to Gibeon, where Sacrifices were wont to be offered upon the brazen Altar. Which, as it follows, was then there, together with the Table, the Candlestick, and the Fire that came down from Heaven in the Days of Moses (as Seder Olam Rabba saith cap. xiv.) And here Zadok and his Brethren ministred, while the ark was in Zion, and with them Heman and others, xvi. 29, 40, 41.

Ver. 29. For the tabernacle of the LORD which Moses made in the wilderness, and the altar of the burnt-offering, were at that time in the high place at Gibeon.] The Targum calls this high Place, the Sanctuary in Gibeon: For this Word comprehended the whole sacred House, as in 1 Sam. ix. 13.

Ver. 30. But David could not go before it to enquire of God.] He thought it not fit to go thither at this Time, tho' that was the Place to which they alway resorted to beg Mercy of God by Sacrifice.

For he was afraid because of the sword of the angel of the LORD.] As he thought God had consecrated this Place for his Service, and that he ought immediately to sacrifice here, and not stay till he could go to Gibeon: So perhaps he thought there might still be Danger, that the Angel might smite Jerusalem, if he did not continue to worship God here. Where he knew, by some means or other, God intended his Temple should be built for his perpetual Honour in this Place. The Altar also now erected here, was set up by the Command of God, as well as that of Moses: So that he thought he might most acceptably serve God here.

CHAP. XXII.

Ver. 1. THEN David said, this is the house of the LORD God.] He seems to have been inspired by God with this Thought, that here he would have his Temple to be built. At least, he concluded this, because the Angel bad him build an Altar here, which was for Sacrifice: And here God testified his Presence, as he did at the Erection of the first Altar, Lev. ix. 24. He seems to have respect to the Words of Jacob, Gen. xxviii. 16, 17.

And this is the alter of burnt-offering for Israel.] That is, here all their Sacrifices shall be offered, when the Temple is built. From which Words Maimonides concludes, it was utterly unlawful to build God an house any where else, or to offer Sacrifice in any other Place but this.

Ver. 2.

Ver. 2. And David commanded to gather together the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael.] That is, thoſe they called Proſelytes, who perhaps were better ſkilled in ſuch Works, as here follow, than the Children of Iſrael. Or, as R. Solomon Jarchi thinks, theſe being ſervile Works, he would not employ the free People of Iſrael therein: Which Example Solomon afterward followed, 1 Kings v. 15. ix. 22. 2 Chron. ii. 1. viii. 7. But we muſt not from hence infer, as ſome have done, that Proſelytes were not as free as other Subjects: For they did not ſettle among the Jews upon any Condition, of being under any kind of Servitude.

And he ſet maſons to hew wrought ſtones to build the houſe of God.] Tho' God had forbidden him to build him an Houſe, yet he thought he might prepare Materials for the Building: Which God ſo much approved, that he was pleaſed to ſhew him a Model of ſuch an Houſe as he would have, as we read ch. xxviii. 19.

Ver. 3. And David prepared iron in abundance, for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joinings; and braſs in abundance without weight.] The Word which we tranſlate joinings, the Targum tranſlates hinges.

Ver. 4. Alſo cedar trees in abundance: for the Zidonians, and they of Tyre brought much cedar wood to David.] There being great Friendſhip between them and David.

Ver. 5. And David ſaid, Solomon my ſon is young and tender, and the houſe that is to be builded for the LORD, muſt be exceeding magnifical, of fame, and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.] He conſidered with himſelf theſe two things, the Youth of Solomon (of which ſee 1 Kings iii. 7.) and then the Magnificence of the Structure that was to be built; both which he thought required his Care, to make what Preparation he could for ſuch an Undertaking. For young Men are wont to be careleſs, and rarely capable of great Deſigns. Learned Men have obſerved, that this Temple was ſo ſtately and rich, that it exceeded all others in the World: The famous Temple of Diana at Epheſus, being not to be compared with it. See Dr Spencer, L. iii. de Leg. Hebr. cap. 2. Diſſert. 6.

Ver. 6. Then he called for Solomon his ſon, and charged him to build an altar for the LORD God of Iſrael.] By this it was apparent, and, I ſuppoſe, well known, that he intended him for his Succeſſor: Which made the Crime of Adonijah the greater, who endeavoured to put him by.

Ver. 7. And David ſaid to Solomon, My ſon, as for me, it was in my mind to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God.] See in 2 Sam. vii 1, 2.

Ver. 8. But the word of the LORD came to me, ſaying, Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly, and haſt made great wars: thou ſhalt not build an houſe unto my name, becauſe thou haſt ſhed much blood upon the earth in my ſight.] This Reaſon is not mentioned in the Book of Samuel, but here is recorded to ſhew, that tho' David's Wars were warranted, and ſucceeded by God, in an extraordinary Manner, yet it did not ſuit ſo well with the Divine Majeſty, to have an Houſe built him by one who had ſhed ſo much blood, as by one that reigned in Peace and Quietneſs. That he might be an Emblem of the King of peace, the LORD of the Church, who was prefigured in all ſuch great Tranſactions. There may be reſpect alſo here, to the Blood of Uriah, and thoſe worthy Men ſlain together with him, by the Contrivance of David: Which made him unworthy to be honoured with ſuch an Undertaking as this. David himſelf takes Notice of this Blood-guiltineſs, as a Thing which was always in God's Eye, Pſal. li. 4. where he ſaith, I have done this evil in thy ſight: As God here ſaith, thou haſt ſhed blood in my ſight. See more below, chap. xxviii. 3.

Ver. 9. Behold, a ſon ſhall be born to thee, who ſhall be a man of reſt, and I will give him reſt from all his enemies round about: for his name ſhall be Solomon, and I will give peace and quietneſs unto Iſrael in his days.] Here are two Reaſons, why his Son ſhould have this Honour: Becauſe God would give him Reſt from all his Enemies, and Iſrael ſhould live in Peace and Quietneſs in his Days. Which made his Reign a proper Seaſon for this great Work.

Ver. 10. He ſhall build an houſe for my name, and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will be his father, and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom over Iſrael for ever.] This can belong to none in the proper and full Senſe of the Word, but Chriſt alone. For Solomon reigned but forty Years, and after that his Kingdom was torn in Pieces. Therefore to Chriſt the Author to the Hebrews applies them, Hebr. i. 5.

Ver. 11. Now, my ſon, the LORD be with thee, and proſper thou, and build the houſe of the LORD thy God, as he hath ſaid of thee.] He would not have him doubt, but be as confident as he was, that God would proſper him in this Work; becauſe he ordered him to undertake it.

Ver. 12. Only the LORD give thee wiſdom and underſtanding, and give thee charge concerning Iſrael, that thou mayeſt keep the law of the LORD thy God.] When he committed Iſrael to his Care.

Ver. 13. Then ſhalt thou proſper, if thou takeſt heed to fulfil the ſtatutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moſes with concerning Iſrael: be ſtrong, and of good courage, dread not, nor be diſmayed.] Nothing gives a man ſuch an undaunted Courage, as a Conſcience of well doing, in exact Obedience to God's Commands.

Ver. 14. Now behold, in my trouble,] In a tumultuous Reign, full of various Troubles,

I have prepared for the houſe of the LORD an hundred thouſand talents of gold, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver; and of braſs and iron without weight (for it is in abundance:) timber alſo and ſtone have I prepared, and thou mayeſt add thereto.] His Heart was ſo bent to ſhew his Gratitude to God, that he would have done a great Deal more for him, if he had been able. Tho' this was ſuch a vaſt Treaſure which he amaſſed (not out of Covetouſneſs, but purely for the Honour and Service of of God) that it hath ſeemed to ſome incredible. For if we take this to be meant of the greater Talent, it makes ſuch an immenſe Sum, that it exceeds the Riches of any of the Roman Emperors, or other former Monarchs. For in the Time of Trajan, when that Empire was largeſt, the Money that was in his Treaſury, did not exceed ſeventy three thouſand Talents, as Bodinus obſerves in his Book de Republ. L. vi. cap. 2. But a better Man than he, our Brerewood, hath computed theſe Talents to make ſo many Millions, that he thinks the Word Kikkar ſhould not be tranſlated Talent in this Place; but only a Maſs, or Cake of Gold and Silver. And ſo Guil. Budæus obſerves in his Book de Aſſe, that there was in Homer's Time a Talent of leſſer Value: For he ſpeaks of two Talents, which were given, with other Things, as a Reward of a Victory obtained in ſome Exerciſes. Such Talents, he thinks, we are to underſtand in this place: For David reigned about the Time of the Kingdom of the Aſſyrians, which was near the Time of Homer. See Beckius upon the Targum in this Place. Of the ſame Opinion is Jacobus Capellus, and Junius and Tremellius, as appears by the Sum to which they make theſe Talents to amount, viz. five hundred thouſand Dollars of Gold, and as much of Silver. And more lately Hermannus Witſius hath computed, that half ſo many Talents of the Sanctuary (as ſome call them) amounts to twenty thouſand five hundred eighty five Tuns of Gold. Which he ſhews David had Opportunity to heap together, in his Miſcell. Sacra, Tom. 2. Exerc. x. Sect. 17, 18.

Ver. 15. Moreover, there are workmen with thee in abundance, hewers and workers of ſtone and timber, and all manner of cunning men for every manner of work.] Who were all to be paid, as well as the Labourers, and Carriers of Burdens, out of this Money: Which required a very great Sum.

Ver. 16. Of the gold, the ſilver, and the braſs and the iron, there is no number.] The Meaning is, the Quantity of Braſs and Iron was not numbred, as that of the Gold and Silver was.

Ariſe, therefore, and be doing, and the LORD be with thee.] He would not have him now go about the Work, but begin it when he was ſettled on his Throne: Nothing doubting the Lord would proſper it.

Ver. 17. David alſo commanded all the princes of Iſrael to help Solomon his ſon, ſaying.] By adviſing him, and encouraging the People in their Labours.

Ver. 18. Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you reſt on every ſide?] What God hath already done for them, was a Ground of Hope he would further them in this Work; which was for his Service.

For he hath given the Inhabitants of the land into mine hand, and the land is ſubdued before the LORD and before his people.] For God was the Author of all thoſe Wars, and gave them all their Victories.

Ver. 19. Now ſet your heart and your ſoul to ſeek the LORD your God, ariſe therefore, and build ye the ſanctuary of the LORD your God, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy veſſels of God, into the houſe that is to be built to the name of the LORD.] He beſeeches them not to neglect this Opportunity, which he ſpake of in the foregoing Verſe, viz. the Time of Peace which God had given them; which was fit for ſuch a Work. Strigelius compares theſe Words with thoſe of Chriſt, while ye have the Light, walk in the Light. And indeed the Ark and the Tabernacle had been too long ſeparated, and therefore ſuch Preparation, being made for it, it was time to bring the Ark with all the holy Veſſels, in the Tabernacle, together into a ſettled Place, by building the Sanctuary for them.

CHAP. XXIII.

Ver. 1. SO when David was old, and full of days, he made Solomon his ſon king over Iſrael.] Declared him his Succeſſor, but did not reſign his Throne to him, nor make him his Coadjutor.

Ver. 2. And he gathered together all the princes of Iſrael with the prieſts and the Levites,] It is likely he took this Opportunity to declare before them all, that Solomon ſhould be King after his Deceaſe. But the principal End of this Aſſembly was, that he might acquaint them with a new Regulation of the Prieſts and Levites in their Miniſtration: Which he intended to eſtabliſh by a Divine Direction, as we read xxviii. 12, 13. This was a Work becoming his elder Years, after he had long obſerved and weighed the Inconveniencies of their preſent Method, and the Neceſſity of putting Things into a better Order. For nothing is more uſeful or more beautiful than good Order, as Strigelius obſerves out of Xenophon in his Oeconomicks. And therefore the Church of God was highly obliged to David, for diſtinguiſhing the Degrees and Offices of the Levites: Appointing ſome to take Care of the Divine Rites and Ceremonies (as his Words are); others to govern the publick Judgments; others to watch and guard the Temple; others to celebrate the Praiſes of God with Singing and Inſtruments of Muſick.

Ver. 3. Now the Levites were numbred from the age of thirty years and upward.] So Moſes appointed, Numb. iv. 3. for then they were come to their full Strength, and fit for Service: Which laſted till they were fifty years old, and no longer. For then they generally began to decay, and grew leſs able to bear Burdens: Which was their Work then, to carry the Tabernacle when it was to be removed, and all the Utenſils belonging to it. Which Work being now at an End, they ſeem to have continued till their Death to diſcharge their Buſineſs at the Temple: Which was more eaſy, after that was built, and required leſs Labour.

And their number by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thouſand.] The Prieſts are not included in this Number: Which is ſo great that it may very well incline us to think, that many of them ſerved rather for State and Ornament, than for Neceſſity. Abarbinel here cries out, "See whether in all the Countries there "were ſo many Singers and Muſicians, and "other Officers employed in their Temples, "as there was in the Houſe of the Sanctuary.

"Who

" Who ever ſaw the like? Who ever beheld " ſuch Sanctity, ſuch Ornaments, and ſuch " Praiſing of God?

Ver. 4. Of which twenty and four thouſand were to ſet forward the work of the houſe of the LORD.] Theſe were employed about the Sacrifices and Offerings, which they killed, and ſlayed, and waſhed: And ſerved the Prieſts in all other Parts of their Miniſtry about them. Which being very numerous, there were the greater number of Levites to attend this Work, viz. a thouſand every Week: For they took their Courſes, which being twenty and four, in ſo many Weeks they came about again. See their Buſineſs, ver. 28, 29.

And ſix thouſand were officers and judges.] God appointed Judges and Officers to be ſettled in all their Gates, Deut. xvi. 18. but many think, there had been a long Neglect in this Matter: And that David himſelf could not reſtore their Judicatures to their ancient Order, and Dignity, till the latter End of his Reign. For being hindred by perpetual Wars, he was forced to be content with ſuch Judicatures as had been wont to be executed (which in many Things was very defective) only reſerving Appeals to himſelf, in Cauſes of great Moment, 2 Sam. xv. 2. But now he takes Care of this ſo neceſſary a Part of Government, and having numbred the Levites, appointed them their certain Buſineſs, which had been before unſettled and undetermined: Employing them both in Eccleſiaſtical and Civil Affairs, as Bertram diſcourſes in his Book De Republ. Jud. p. 124. But a late Writer makes a doubt, whether the Iſraelites obſerved that Command of Moſes at all, when they came into the Land of Canaan; the Heads of their Tribes taking upon them, for a long Time, to determine all controverted Matters. But now the Levites were conſtituted, in the Cities where they dwelt, to be both Officers and Judges. All agree, that Shoterim commonly ſignify ſuch Officers as execute the Sentence of the Judges. See my Notes upon Deut. xvi. 18. and other places. But here, being placed before Judges, we are not to take them for ſuch inferior Perſons, but for Men of greater Authority; whom the Targum calls Governors: Such as our Juſtices of the Peace are, who ſaw good Order kept according to the Law: As the Judges were ſuch as decided Cauſes in their ſeveral Courts. See Campegius Vitringa, in his Book, De Synag. Veteri, Lib. I. Par. ii. Cap. 8.

Ver. 5. Moreover, four thouſand were porters.] Who were to take Care that no unclean Perſon entred into the Temple; or any thing brought into it which ought not to be there; or any thing carried out of it which belonged only to that Place: And that nothing was done about the Door of the Court, which might diſturb the People at their Prayers.

And four thouſand praiſed the LORD with the inſtruments which I made (ſaid David) to praiſe therewith.] Thus he hath given an Account how the whole thirty eight thouſand (mentioned v. 3.) were diſpoſed of to their Offices. And this laſt four thouſand had ſome among them that were more eminent than the reſt; being their Inſtructors, both in Singing and Playing upon Inſtruments: And perhaps ſome of them, being very ſkillful in Muſick, contrived Inſtruments, and commanded them to be made.

Ver. 6. And David divided them into courſes among the ſons of Levi, namely Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari.] They took their Turns of waiting, ſome going off, and others coming on, to perform all the fore-mentioned Duties: Which David, the man of God, ordered (as he ſpeaks 2 Chron. viii. 14.) by the Direction of Gad and of Nathan the Prophets, who had a Command for it from God, as we read in this Book, ch. xxix. 25.

Ver. 7. Of the Gerſhonites were Laadan and Shimei.] Who were their immediate Anceſtors, is not ſaid, nor is it material to be known.

Ver. 8. The ſons of Laadan; the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.] It is likely they were not his Sons, but ſome of his Poſterity: For ſo the Word Sons ſignifies in the Verſes following.

Ver. 9. The ſons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three. Theſe were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.] This Shimei was deſcended from one of the three Sons of Laadan.

Ver. 10. And the ſons of Shimei were Jahath, Zina, and Jeuſh, and Beriah. Theſe four were the ſons of Shimei.] That is, the Sons of that Shimei, Brother of Laadan, mentioned ver. 7.

Ver. 11. And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the ſecond.] He is called Zina in the foregoing Verſe.

But Jeuſh, and Beriah had not many ſons.] As their two elder Brothers had.

Therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their fathers houſe.] They were accounted but as one Family: And not called by the Name of their Fathers, Jeuſh, and Beriah; but by the Name of Shimei their Grand-father.

Ver. 12. The ſons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, Uzziel, four.] See Exod. vi. 18.

Ver. 13. The ſons of Amram; Aaron and Moſes.] Exod. vi. 20.

And Aaron was ſeparated, that he ſhould ſanctify the moſt holy things, he and his ſons for ever, to burn incenſe before the LORD, to miniſter unto him, and to bleſs in his name for ever.] The Buſineſs of Aaron and his Sons was very different from the reſt of the Levites: For they were ſet apart for the ſpecial Services of the Prieſthood; to ſanctify, that is, to miniſter in an holy Manner, the moſt holy Things. His Sons burnt Incenſe every Day; and the High-Prieſt went into the moſt holy Place, on the great Day of Expiation, with the Blood of Expiation: And when he came out, bleſſed the People, as the Prieſt who offered Incenſe did every Day, at the Concluſion of the Sacrifice.

Ver. 14. Now concerning Moſes the man of God, his ſons were named of the tribe of Levi.] Tho' Moſes was ſo great a Man, the ſupreme Governor of his People while he lived, and had ſuch Familiarity with the Divine Majeſty; yet his Sons were not advanced to any Dignity, but he left them ſimple Levites, not ſo much as Prieſts. Such was the wonderful Humility and Modeſty of this holy Man, that he did not aim at great Things for his Poſterity. Which perhaps haps is here noted, that none might presume, because of their noble Descent to meddle with the Priesthood: Which was settled in the Family of Aaron; as the Civil Government of the People was left to Joshua, a Man of another Tribe, and Moses his Servant.

Ver. 15. The Sons of Moses were Gershom and Eliezer, Exod. xviii. 3, 4.

Ver. 16. Of the Sons of Gershom, Shebuel was the Chief.] Who is called Shobael, xxiv. 20.

Ver. 17. The Sons of Eliezer were, Rehabiah the Chief. And Eliezer had none other Sons.] The Word for Chief in the Hebrew is, the first: That is, the First-born, after whom he had no other Son: But a great many Grand-sons, who are frequently called Sons.

But the Sons of Rehabiah were very many.] Which in the Hebrew is thus expressed, were highly multiplied. From whence the Targum took a Conceit (as several Jewish Doctors have done) that they were multiplied to above six hundred thousand: Merely, because the same Phrase is used of the Children of Israel, in Exod. i. 7. that they multiplied exceedingly in Egypt; that is, to this Number, Exod. xii. 17. Whereby they imagine God fulfilled his Intentions to Moses, if he would not intercede for the Israelites, that he would make him a great Nation, ix. 14. But these are idle Speculations; wherein they abound, since they were abandoned by God.

Ver. 18. Of the Sons of Izhar; Shelomith the Chief.] Who is called Shelomoth, xxiv. 22.

Ver. 19. Of the Sons of Hebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jehaziel the third, and Jehaneam the fourth.

Ver. 20. Of the Sons of Uzziel; Micah the first, and Josiah the second.

Ver. 21. The Sons of Merari; Mahli, and Mushi: The Sons of Mahli, Eleazar, and Kish:

Ver. 22. And Eleazar died, and had no Sons, but Daughters and their Brethren, the Sons of Kish took them.] Their Cousins married them, as the Targum expounds it.

Ver. 23. The Sons of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

Ver. 24. These are the Sons of Levi, after the House of their Fathers; even the Chief of the Fathers; as they were counted by Number of Names by their Polls, that did the Work for the Service of the House of the LORD, from the Age of twenty Years and upwards.] They were numbred twice, as they were in the Time of Moses: The first time all from thirty, the second time from twenty. And these here mentioned were of the last sort; who were fit to minister in some Things belonging to the Service of the Levites, at twenty Years old: Tho' they were not employed in the rest till thirty. See upon Numb. viii. 24. where they are ordered to begin at five and twenty; tho' they did not compleatly minister till thirty.

Ver. 25. For David said, The LORD God of Israel hath given Rest unto his People, that they may dwell in Jerusalem for ever.] That is, constantly attend upon the Service of God there settled. Which was the Reason for this new Order, that the Levites should begin their Ministry at twenty Years of Age: Because Israel having Rest was very much multiplied, and there being greater Resort to Jerusalem, the Levites had more Work to do at the Temple. But it must here be noted, that those Words for ever, suppose their Obedience to God, (as in Chapter xxviii. 4.) in which if they failed, they were not to continue in Jerusalem, but be expelled out of it.

Ver. 26. And also unto the Levites: they shall no more carry the Tabernacle, nor any Vessels of it for the Service thereof.] It should rather be translated, As concerning the Levites: They were no longer to have that burdensome Work of carrying the Tabernacle and its Vessels when they were removed: But had a much easier Service; which they might begin sooner than formerly: It requiring not so much Strength of Body, as Readiness of Mind.

Ver. 27. For by the last Words of David, the Levites were numbred from twenty Years old and above.] This was his last Will about this Matter: after he had well considered what they had to do, and what Number was necessary to perform every Part of this Duty. For some of which they were able enough at twenty Years of Age: When they might be called Probationers till they were thirty. And there would not have been a sufficient Number for all the Work, unless they had come to it at the Age of twenty.

Ver. 28. Because their Office was to wait on the Sons of Aaron,] Which the Levites were able to do at the Age of twenty Years. To attend, for Instance, at the Tabernacle; but not to carry the Ark or the Tabernacle.

For the Service of the House of the LORD.] This is a general Expression of what they were to do; the Particulars of which follow; to assist in the Courts, and in the Chambers, in making clean the holy Vessels, and cleansing the Courts, and taking Care nothing was wanting for the Service of the Sanctuary.

Ver. 29. Both for the Shew-bread, and for the fine Flour for the Meat-offering, and the unleavened Cakes, and for that which is baked in the Pan, and for that which is fried,] They were to prepare the Shew-bread, to be set on the Table every Week by the Priests; and to see that there was a just Quantity of fine Flour, for the Meat-Offering Morning and Evening; and that the unleavened Cakes were rightly made: With every Thing that was to be baked or fried. Of which in the second Chapter of Leviticus.

And for all Manner of Measure and Size.] They were to see also that the just Measure for Things liquid, and the just Size for Things dry were exactly kept, and not altered. For all Measures and Weights (by which all that were used in the Country were to be made) were kept in the Sanctuary, in the Custody of the Levites. Hence it is, that we read often of the Shekel of the Sanctuary: Not that there were two sorts of Shekels, one Sacred, and another Civil; but because Weights and Measures were reckoned inter Sacra, among holy Things: The Examples, as I said, of them all being kept in the Sanctuary. And so they were in the Temples of the Pagans, and afterwards in Christian Churches: As appears by Justinian's Novels, cxxviii. Cap. 15. So Villalpandus and our Bishop Walton have observed. Unto which may be added, that Constantine the Great had gone before him in this:

For he commanded the Cubit whereby the Egyptians measured the Increase of Nilus, and was kept in the Temple of Serapis, to be translated into one of the Christian Churches, that there it might be preserved the safer by true Religion; as both Socrates and Sozomen testify in their Ecclesiastical History, Lib. i. Cap. 18. Lib. v. Cap. 3. Julian indeed caused it to be restored to Serapis: But that Temple being burnt, Russinus tells us the Church had it again in its Possession. All which shews, that this ancient Piece of Religion, to preserve Weights, and Measures, as sacred Things, continued after the Time of David; and perhaps was before it.

Ver. 30. And to stand every Morning to thank and praise the LORD, and likewise at Even.] At the Time when the Priests offered the Morning and Even Sacrifice.

Ver. 31. And to offer all Burnt Sacrifices unto the LORD in the Sabbaths, in the New-Moons, and on the set Feasts by Number,] It was no Part of their Business to offer Burnt-Sacrifices, which belonged to the Priests alone. Therefore the Meaning is, to praise and give Thanks to God at the Offering of Sacrifices at those Solemnities, as well as every Morning and Even. And to see there were a just Number of Sacrifices then offered as the Law prescribed.

According to the Order commanded unto them continually before the LORD.] That is, in their Courses, wherein they were commanded to wait continually when their Turn came.

Ver. 32. And that they should keep the Charge of the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and the Charge of the holy Place, and the Charge of the Sons of Aaron their Brethren, in the Service of the House of the LORD.] These Words belong to those that went just before; signifying, that in their Order, when their Course came to attend, they served either about the Tabernacle, or preparing the Shew-bread in the holy Place, or in any other Things, wherein the Priests had Occasion to employ them: And the rest of their Time they spent at home, in their several Cities; where they studied, and taught the Law.

CHAP. XXIV.

Ver. 1. NOW these are the Divisions of the Sons of Aaron: The Sons of Aaron; Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.] To avoid all Confusion, now that they were much increased, David distributed the Priests, as he had done the Levites, into several Courses. Which, no doubt, was by a Divine Direction as well as the other: Or rather, there was greater Reason he should have God's Order for it: They being higher Ministers of his, than the Levites were.

Ver. 2. But Nadab and Abihu died before their Father, and had no Children: Therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the Priest's Office.] From these two all the Families of the Priests descended, who were now to be disposed into a regular Performance of their Duty.

Ver. 3. And David distributed them, both Zadok of the Sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the Sons of Ithamar,] These two (Zadok and Ahimelech) were the chief Persons, in David's Days, of the Posterity of those Sons of Aaron, Eleazar and Ithamar.

According to their Offices in their Service.] He determined, when they and those Priests who depended on them, should perform their Office in the Temple-Service.

Ver. 4. And there were more Chief Men found of the Sons of Eleazar, than of the Sons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided.] Accordingly David divided them into certain Classes and Courses, as the Targum expounds it.

Among the Sons of Eleazar there were sixteen Chief Men of the House of their Fathers, and eight among the Sons of Ithamar, according to the House of their Fathers.] He appointed therefore sixteen Courses of the Sons of Eleazar, under as many Heads of their Families: And half as many of the Posterity of Ithamar. Which Kimchi, and other Hebrew Doctors, explain in this Manner. In the Days of Moses there were but eight Courses in the whole: Four of Eleazar's Family, and four of Ithamar's. But in Samuel's Days they were grown to sixteen: Eight of the one, and as many of the other. But in the End of David's Reign they were enlarged to twenty four Courses; two Thirds of which were assigned to the Sons of Eleazar, because they were more numerous than the other: And the Sons of Ithamar continued as they were before; having eight Courses. But the Holy Scriptures never mention any settled Courses till this Time (as Dr. Lightfoot observes in his Temple-Service, Chap. vi.) tho' their Doctors assert it to explain that Precept, Deut. xxviii. 6.

Ver. 5. Thus were they divided by Lot,] That there might be no Occasion for Complaint: When all was ordered by a Divine Disposition, according to very ancient Custom. For the Choice of Persons by Lot, into sacred Offices, was used from the Beginning of the World, as Grotius observes in his Book, De Imper. Sum. Potest. circa Sacra, Cap. x. Sect. 5.

One Sort with another;] Both the Sons of Eleazar, and of Ithamar were thus chosen, who should wait together.

For the Governours of the Sanctuary,] The Words in the Hebrew are, Share Kodesh: Which signify the principal Ministers about Holy Things.

And Governours of the House of God,] There is no Word for House in the Hebrew; where we only read Share Elohim: Which seem to signify the chief Judges.

Were of the Sons of Eleazar, and of the Sons of Ithamar.] These two Families had obtained the chief Functions both in the Temple, and in the Civil Government: Wherein they could not be distributed so well any way as by Lot; without Danger of Envy among themselves.

Ver. 6. And Shemaiah the Son of Nethaneel the Scribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the King and the Princes, and Zadok the Priest, and Ahimelech the Son of Abiathar, and before the Chief of the Fathers of the Priests and Levites.] In perpetual Memory of the Thing (as Conradus Pellicanus thinks) this Divine Writer sets down the Name of the publick Notary, by whom their Names were written, and put into the Urn, out of which the Lots were to be drawn. Which, that there might be no Suspi-

Suſpicion of Fraud, were drawn before the King, the Princes, both the Chief Prieſts, (the High-Prieſt, and the Sagan) and before the chief Perſons of the ſeveral Families of Prieſts and Levites. Whence it is reaſonable to conclude, that David did not make this Regulation, by his mere Royal Power, but by a Divine Direction. Which he had in this, as in the Order he gave about the building of the Temple; (chap. xxviii.) and he ſeems here not to have acted by an abſolute Authority, but to have adviſed with the High-Prieſt, and other Perſons of great Note, how to proceed.

One principal Houſhold being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar.] Theſe Words are ſomething obſcure: But the meaning is, that one of the principal Families of Eleazar was firſt taken, and then one of Ithamar's; and after that one of Eleazar's again, and ſo by turns till all was done: That is, till there were eight of each. After which, thoſe of Eleazar alone were diſtributed under their ſeveral Heads.

Ver. 7. Now the firſt Lot came forth to Jehoiarib, the ſecond to Jedaiah.] The firſt Lot that was drawn out of the Urn had the Name of Jehoiarib upon it: So that his Family had the Precedence, and waited in the firſt Place. This was eſteemed a great Honour; for Joſephus reckons himſelf noble, not only becauſe he was deſcended ἐξ ἱερέων from the Prieſts, but ἐκ τῆς πρώτης ἐφημερίδος τῶν εἰκοσιτεσσάρων, but from the firſt Courſe of the four and twenty. For this made a great Difference: Mattathias alſo, the Father of the Maccabees, deſcended from Jehoiarib, as we read, 1 Maccab. ii. 54.

Ver. 8. The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim.] I have nothing to obſerve concerning theſe, and the reſt that follow to Verſe 19. but only that Zachariah the Father of John Baptiſt was of the eighth Courſe of theſe Prieſts, viz. that of Abijah, mentioned ver. 10. as we read in the firſt of St. Luke. For as Joſephus teſtifies, this Order of the Courſes continued till his Time, that is, till the Deſtruction of the ſecond Temple.

Ver. 19. Theſe were the Orderings of them in their Service to come into the Houſe of the LORD, according to their manner, under Aaron their Father,] Under the Inſpection of the High-Prieſt, who being the Succeſſor of Aaron, is called by his Name. He took care that this Order ſhould be obſerved in ſuch manner, as is here preſcribed: None of them anticipating their Courſe, nor thruſting in themſelves to attend before their Time, but waiting till their Time came. And then every Courſe ſerved a Week, coming in on the Sabbath; and going out the next before the burning of the Incenſe at the Morning Sacrifice, when the Shew-bread was ſet on the Table, as Scaliger obſerves out of the Jewiſh Writers, in his Notes upon the Fragments at the End of his Book De Emend. Temporum, p. 54. Upon the three great Feſtivals indeed, when all Prieſts, as well as others, were bound to appear before God, they came out of their Courſe, and, that they might not be idle, officiated in ſuch Things as properly belonged to thoſe Solemnities. But the ordinary Buſineſs, for the daily Burnt-ſacrifice, and the Freewill-offerings, was managed by thoſe only whoſe Courſe it was to wait. And thus the Jews underſtand thoſe Words, Deut. xviii. 6, 7. The Levite (i. e. the Prieſts who were of that Tribe) that ſhall come to the Place which the LORD his God ſhall chuſe, (that is, at the three ſolemn Feaſts) then he ſhall miniſter in the Houſe of the LORD his God, as all his Brethren the Levites do, (which is meant of the Prieſts, for they only miniſtred before God, not the Levites) they ſhall have like Portion to eat; that is, of the Sacrifices which were then offered at thoſe ſolemn Times, they were to have their Share, with the reſt of the Prieſts then in Attendance, but the Levites did not eat of them:

Beſide that which cometh by the Sale of his Patrimony, or, as it is in the Hebrew, by the Sale of his Fathers.] That is, ſay they, except the Portion of the daily Sacrifices, and Freewill-offerings, which by the Ordinance of their Fathers, Moſes and Aaron, belonged only to thoſe Prieſts, who were in their ordinary Attendance in their Week.

As the LORD God of Iſrael had commanded him.] By his Servant David.

Ver. 20. And the reſt of the Sons of Levi were theſe: Of the Sons of Amram; Shubael: of the Sons of Shubael; Jehdeiah.] Now he ſpeaks of the reſt of the Levites, who were not Prieſts, who are mentioned in the foregoing Chap. xxiii. 16, 17, &c. and here named again to diſtinguiſh them from the Prieſts, and to ſhew that they alſo had their Places aſſigned them by Lot, ver. 31. I have nothing to note concerning thoſe that follow between this Verſe and that, but only this: That ſeveral are mentioned as deſcended from Merari, who are not mentioned in the foregoing Chapters, nor any where elſe. For which, no queſtion, the Author of this Book had good Authority, tho' we cannot, without the Help of ſuch Records as he peruſed, give an Account of it. See Buxtorf's Anticritica, p. 1014.

Ver. 31. Theſe likewiſe caſt Lots over againſt their Brethren the Sons of Aaron, in the Preſence of David the King, and Zadok and Ahimelech, and the Chief of the Fathers of the Prieſts and Levites,] There was the like Solemnity uſed in their Diſtribution, as there was in that of the Prieſts, by caſting Lots: Whereby they knew what Levites ſhould wait, in every Courſe with the Sons of Aaron.

Even the principal Fathers over againſt their younger Brethren.] This is expreſſed very obſcurely; but the meaning is, that the elder and younger had their Places by Lots, not by Seniority of Houſes. They that were of greater Dignity drew Lots againſt thoſe that were of leſs: And they were to take their Courſes, as they fell; either to the elder or the younger Family.

CHAP. XXV.

Ver. 1. MOreover David, and the Captains of the Hoſt,] It is abſurd to think, that the Commanders in War meddled with ordering the Tribe of Levi, and the Service of the Temple. Therefore by the Hoſt we are to underſtand derſtand (as our Mr. Thorndike well obſerves) the Companies of Prieſts, that waited upon the Service of God at the Temple: The Captains of whom, (i. e. the chief Leaders) together with David, divided the Singers, as they had done the Prieſts, c. xxiv. 3, 6, 7. Tho' elſewhere c. xxiii. 6. David alone is mentioned to have done it. Rights of the Church, p. 230.

Separated to the Service,] Of God in the Temple.

Of the Sons of Aſaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun,] Theſe were the chief Perſons among the Levites, whoſe Families were ſeparated to the following Service.

Who ſhould propheſy,] Sing Pſalms, which David and other Prophets compoſed. For theſe young Men were not Prophets, as their Fathers were but are ſaid to propheſy, becauſe they ſung in the Service of God thoſe Divine Prophetical Hymns, which were compoſed by their Fathers, who were Men divinely inſpired. Thus the Talmudiſts ſay in Bava Bathra, cap. i. that all the Hymns we find in the Bible were made by Adam, Melchiſedec, Abraham, Moſes, Aſaph, Heman, Jeduthun, and David: Who collected them into one Volume. But this is a fooliſh Tradition and very new.

With Harps, and Pſalteries, and with Cymbals,] There were alſo Pipes, or Hautbois uſed upon ſeveral Occaſions, together with the Trumpets. The Difference between theſe three here mentioned, is better deſcribed by Dr. Lightfoot out of Joſephus, than by any I have met withal; who obſerves, that the other Iſraelites, if allied to the Prieſts by Marriage, might if they had Skill, join in this Inſtrumental Muſick; but none beſides the Levites in the Vocal. See his Temple Service, chap. vii. ſect. 2. where he likewiſe notes what Pſalms were to be ſung every Day of the Week.

And this was the firſt Office of the Levites; the two other are explained in the two following Chapters.

And the Number of the Workmen, according to the Service was,] It had better be tranſlated, the Number of the Men of the Miniſtery (i. e. of thoſe who miniſtred in ſinging and playing on Inſtruments) according to their Service, was, as follows.

Ver. 2. Of the Sons of Aſaph; Zaccur, and Joſeph, and Nethaniah, and Aſrelah, the Sons of Aſaph, under the Hands of Aſaph,] Under his Government, as their Præcentor: Or, who taught and inſtructed them, in Singing and Muſick.

Which propheſied according to the Order of the King.] The Targum underſtand this, as if Aſaph propheſied by the Holy Ghoſt, and was conſtituted the Head of theſe by the King. But the Word Prophecy is of very large Extent; ſignifying ſometimes, as I ſaid before, nothing more, but ſinging divinely inſpired Hymns. Thus Miriam is called a Propheteſs (Exod. xv. 20.) becauſe ſhe led up the Women to praiſe God, with Timbrels and Dances. And indeed Muſick and Singing were in ancient Times had in ſuch Eſteem and Veneration, that they who excelled in this Faculty, were look'd upon as Perſons divinely moved. So Quintilian obſerves, as a known Truth, L. i. Inſtit. cap. 10. Quis ignorat, muſicen tantum jam illis antiquis temporibus non ſtudii modo, verum etiam venerationis habuiſſe, ut iidem muſici, & vates judicarentur. Who is ſo ignorant as not to know that Muſick in thoſe ancient Times, was not only ſo much ſtudied, but had in ſuch Veneration, that the ſame Men who were Muſicians, were accounted Prophets and wiſe Men.

Ver. 3. Of Jeduthun: the Sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jeſhaiah, Haſhabiah, and Mattithiah, ſix, under the Hands of their Father Jeduthun.] Here are but five named: But it appears afterward (ver. 17. when the Lots were caſt) there was another, whoſe Name was Shimei. Who being now very young, and not yet able either to ſing or to play, is not named in this Verſe. But that he might be inſtructed and learn both, he is choſen to be the Head of a Courſe, when he ſhould be fit for it. Thus D. Kimchi explains this Matter.

Who propheſied with a Harp, to give thanks, and to praiſe the LORD.] The Harp was a moſt noble Inſtrument, in which Jeduthun ſeems to be peculiarly ſkilled, and therewith praiſed God; which is called propheſying.

Ver. 4. Of Heman: the Sons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romanti-ezer, Joſhbekaſhah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth.] He had the moſt numerous Iſſue of theſe three; and they all had Families who were employed in this Service.

Ver. 5. All theſe were the Sons of Heman, the King's Seer,] He was a Prophet, in whoſe Company the King delighted: And with whom he adviſed in difficult Affairs.

In the Words of God,] Eſpecially in Divine Matters.

To lift up the Horn,] In the Temple they uſed alſo Wind Muſick: Which many think to have been Trumpets made of Horn: But the Prieſts only blew with Trumpets in the Temple, while the Levites ſung to thoſe other Inſtruments. Therefore others underſtand this, of the Hymns they ſung to magnify the Power, Greatneſs, and Exaltation of David's Kingdom: Or, rather, of the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, whom Zachary in his Song, Luke i. 69. calls the Horn of Salvation. For the Power of any thing in Scripture is expreſſed by a Horn; in which lies the Strength of ſome Creatures. And from theſe Words Victorinus Strigelius gathers, that Heman was David's Seer in politick Affairs, which belonged to the Confirmation and Settlement of his Kingdom. Cornu enim ſignificat regimen & regnum; for a Horn ſignifies Government, and Kingdom. But the firſt Senſe ſeems to me to be moſt natural, that at ſtated Times they blew aloud with Trumpets made of Horns: For ſuch, I ſuppoſe, they might uſe, tho' the Prieſts only could blow with the Silver Trumpets. And thus the famous Bochartus interprets theſe Words, at ſet Times to blow aloud with Trumpets made of Horns. In his Preface to his Hierozoicon.

And God gave to Heman fourteen Sons and three Daughters.] Some have fancied there are fifteen mentioned in the foregoing Verſe: But the the Jews look upon Romanti-ezer as one Name; and ſo we take it: Which is juſtified by ver. 31.

Ver. 6. All theſe were under the Hands of their Father, for Song in the Houſe of the LORD, with Cymbals, Pſalteries, and Harps, for the Service of the Houſe of God,] The whole Number of theſe was four and twenty, who under their ſeveral Fathers, Aſaph, Jeduthun, and Heman, regulated the Choir in their Singing and Muſick: Being the Inſtructors and Governors of thoſe who were under them. It is likely they ſet the Pſalms to Muſick which David compoſed: Or, if he himſelf modulated them, they ſung them in the Tunes he directed, with the Muſical Inſtruments here mentioned.

According to the King's Order, to Aſaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.] Theſe were Prophets, who compoſed many of the Songs, which their Sons ſung by their Direction: As appears from 2 Chron. xxix. 10. where it is ſaid they ſung Praiſes, in the Words of David and Aſaph the Seer.

Ver. 7. So the Number of them, with their Brethren, that were inſtructed in the Songs of the LORD, even all that were cunning, was two hundred fourſcore and eight.] This was the whole Number of thoſe who were skilful in Singing, who, under the Perſons before-mentioned, were diſtributed (as it here follows) into ſeveral Courſes, after the ſame Manner that the Prieſts had been: With whom they were to attend in their Order. For twelve of theſe Singers, with their Governor, came and waited every Week; at the End of which they were ſucceeded by other twelve, till the Courſe was finiſhed: And then it began again, where it did at firſt. Now twelve times twenty four amount to two hundred fourſcore and eight.

It is no wonder that there were ſo many of them found very ſkilful in Singing and Muſick: For David himſelf was a great Muſician and Poet, and every one knows how much the Inclination of the ſupreme Governor ſerves to the promoting of Arts among the People.

Ver. 8. And they caſt Lots, Ward againſt Ward,] Being thus diſtributed into twenty four Courſes, they caſt Lots, one Courſe againſt another, which ſhould wait firſt, and in order ſucceed one another.

As well the Small as the Great, the Teacher as the Scholar.] So that they did not begin and ſucceed one another, according to the Order of Age, or of Learning, but as God diſpoſed them by their Lot. The laſt Words [the Teacher as the Scholar] the LXX tranſlate τελείων ϗ μανθανόντων, thoſe that were perfect, and thoſe that were learners. They were called perfect who were Maſters of their Art, able to inſtruct others, who learnt of them.

Ver. 9. Now the firſt Lot came forth for Aſaph to Joſeph,] Who was not his eldeſt Son; ſee ver. 2. After the Word Joſeph, we are to ſupply the Words that follow, in the reſt of theſe Claſſes, who with his Brethren and Sons were twelve: Otherwiſe the Number of two hundred fourſcore and eight, ver. 7. will not be compleat.

The ſecond to Gedaliah,] Who was the eldeſt Son to Jeduthun, ver. 5.

Who with his Brethren and Sons were twelve.] Theſe Words, as Raſi obſerves, are to be referred to Joſeph as well as Gedaliah: For he mentions them both, in one and the ſame Verſe; and therefore he only ſaith once with reſpect to both, he and his Sons and Brethren. Where by Brethren is meant their Kindred.

Ver. 10. The third to Zaccur, he, his Sons and his Brethren were twelve.] He was the eldeſt Son of Aſaph, ver. 2.

Ver. 11. The fourth to Izri, &c.] Called Zeri, ver. 3. who was the ſecond Son of Jeduthun.

Ver. 12. The fifth to Nethaniah, &c.] This Lot fell upon the third Son of Aſaph, ver. 2.

Ver. 13. The ſixth to Bukkiah, &c.] Who was the eldeſt Son of Heman, ver. 4.

Ver. 14. The ſeventh to Jeſharelah, &c.] Called Aſarelah, ver. 2. the youngeſt Son of Aſaph.

Ver. 15. The eighth to Jeſhaiah, &c.] Who was the third Son of Jeduthun, ver. 3.

Ver. 16. The ninth to Mattaniah, &c.] Who was the third Son of Heman, ver. 4.

Ver. 17. The tenth to Shimei, &c.] The youngeſt Son of Jeduthun, as I have noted upon ver. 3.

Ver. 18. The eleventh to Azareel, &c.] The third Son of Heman, who is called Uzziel in the ſame Verſe.

Ver. 19. The twelfth to Haſhabiah, &c.] The fourth Son of Jeduthun, ver. 4.

Ver. 20. The thirteenth to Shubael, &c.] The fourth Son of Heman, called there Shebuel, ver. 4.

Ver. 21. The fourteenth to Mattathiah, &c.] Who was the fifth Son of Jeduthun, ver. 3.

Ver. 22. The fifteenth to Jeremoth, &c.] The fifth Son of Heman, ver. 4.

Ver. 23. The ſixteenth to Hananiah, &c.] The next Son of Heman.

Ver. 24. The ſeventeenth is Joſhbekaſhah, &c.] Who was the eleventh Son of Heman.

Ver. 25. The eighteenth to Hanani.] Who was the ſeventh Son of Heman.

Ver. 26. The nineteenth to Mallothi, &c.] Who was the twelfth Son of Heman.

Ver. 27. The twentieth to Eliathah, &c.] Who was the eighth Son of Heman.

Ver. 28. The one and twentieth to Hothir, &c.] Who was the eleventh Son of Heman.

Ver. 29. The two and twentieth to Giddalti, &c.] Who was the ninth Son of Heman.

Ver. 30. The three and twentieth to Mahazioth, &c.] Who was the youngeſt Son of Heman.

Ver. 31. The four and twentieth to Romanti-ezer, &c.] The tenth Son of Heman.

Thus all things were diſpoſed, for the preſerving Order, and avoiding all Diſputes about Precedence: There being no Reſpect had in this Divine Diſtribution to their Birth, but the younger in Courſe preceded the elder.

CHAP. XXVI.

Ver. 1. Concerning the Diviſions of the Porters.] As ſome of the Levites were choſen to be Singers (of which an Account is given in the foregoing Chapter) ſo others were appointed appointed to be Porters. Which were fixed Offices, (as Dr. Lightfoot obſerves) which they might not change: None of them being permitted to intrude into the Office of the other: And neither of them into the Prieſthood. It was an Office of great Dignity, and Men of the beſt Quality were put into it: They having the Charge of the holy Things, ver. 20, 22, 24, 26.

Of the Korhites was Meſhelemiah.] Called Shelemiah, ver. 14.

The Son of Kore, of the Sons of Aſaph.] Not of Aſaph the Muſician, mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, for he was of the Family of Gerſhon (ver. 41.) but of another Aſaph, called Eliaſaph, and ſometimes Jaſaph, of the Line of Kohath, chap. vi. 23. ix. 19.

Ver. 2. And the Sons of Meſhelemiah were, Zechariah the firſt-born, Jedaiel the ſecond, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,

Ver. 3. Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the ſixth, Elioenai the ſeventh.

Ver. 4. Moreover, the Sons of Obed-edom were Shemaiah the firſt-born, Jehozabad the ſecond, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth,

Ver. 5. Ammiel the ſixth, Iſſachar the ſeventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God bleſſed him.] With a numerous Off-ſpring, as the Targum gloſſes upon the laſt Words: Becauſe he entertained the Ark in his Houſe with great Reverence. Upon which Account God did him the Honour to let him ſee of his Sons and Grand-Sons fourſcore and two: Who were chief Men among the Levites. This the Targum had ſaid before, one only being wanting of this Number. See upon c. xiii. 14. But what the Scripture ſaith is ſufficient to ſhew how God bleſſed him with a numerous Poſterity, without the Help of ſuch monſtrous Stories, as ſome of the Jews relate.

Ver. 6. Alſo unto Shemaiah his Son were Sons born, that ruled throughout the Houſe of their Father:] Being Men of great Authority in that Family.

For they were mighty Men of Valour.] Which was requiſite in Men who had this Office: For they were to watch and guard the Houſe of God, Night and Day. And not only to open and ſhut the Doors of the Mountain of the Houſe, and of the Court of the Women (for the Prieſts opened and ſhut the Gates of the other Courts) but to attend there to prevent any thing that might be done to the Prejudice of the Peace, Safety and Purity of the Place. And likewiſe, as appears by what follows, they had the Guard of ſome Treaſures, which required Men of Courage to defend them.

Ver. 7. The Sons of Shemaiah; Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad, whoſe Brethren were ſtrong Men; Elihu and Semachiah.] Their Names are recorded, with two of their Brethren, or Couſins; who are likewiſe noted to be ſtrong Men. That is, not only Men of great bodily Strength, but of great Courage and Reſolution. So it is tranſlated in the Margin, out of the Hebrew, Sons of Valour. But Strength of Body was a principal Requiſite in this Service; for the Doors of the Temple were ſo maſſy and weighty, that the Hands of many Men (as Joſephus ſaith) were needful to open and ſhut them.

Ver. 8. All theſe of the Sons of Obed-edom: they and their Sons and their Brethren, able Men for Strength for the Service, were threeſcore and two of Obed-edom.] This was a great Number, which he lived to ſee deſcended from him, and from his Sons.

Ver. 9. And Shelemiah had Sons and Brethren, ſtrong Men, eighteen.] Still their Strength is mentioned, as a Qualification for this Service.

Ver. 10. Alſo Hoſah of the Sons of Merari had Sons; Simri the Chief (for tho' he was not the firſt-born, yet his Father made him the Chief.)] Becauſe his elder Brother was feeble, or ſome other way unfit for the Service. For, as Jacob gave the Kingdom to Judah, and the Prieſthood to Levi, and put Reuben his firſt-born from his Right, becauſe of his Crime: So there was ſome weighty Cauſe, no doubt, why this Man had the Right of Primogeniture given him, which was not to be altered upon the Account of Affection, Deut. xxi. 16, 17.

Ver. 11. Hilkiah the ſecond, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth: All the Sons and Brethren of Hoſah were thirteen.] Who are not all named, but theſe who are the Principal.

Ver. 12. Among theſe were the Diviſions of the Porters, even among the chief Men,] They were diſtributed into Courſes, as the Prieſts and Levites were: And theſe were principal Commanders over them: Being the moſt illuſtrious among their Brethren, and therefore particularly named.

Having Wards one againſt another,] Having Charges, or Cuſtodies anſwerable to their Brethren: That is, to the Levites, who attended as theſe did.

To miniſter in the Houſe of the LORD.] This was not a vile Miniſtry (as the Word Porter ſounds among us) but they were like the ſtanding Guard of a King in his Palace: And ſo the Word, I obſerved before, had better be rendred. See ix. 17. Who kept the Treaſures of the Temple, as it follows, v. 20, 26. and Officers and Judges alſo were choſen out of them, (v. 29, 30, 32.) which ſhews they were eminent Perſons: Some of them being very learned and wiſe, ver. 14. Tho', I ſuppoſe, they were not Judges of the Law, but of other Matters.

Ver. 13. And they caſt Lots as well the ſmall as the great,] Without Reſpect to their Age or Dignity.

According to the Houſe of their Fathers.] Every Family having a diſtinct Lot drawn for it.

For every Gate.] That it might be determined at what Gate of the Temple they were to wait.

Ver. 14. And the Lot Eaſtward fell to Shelemiah;] Who is called Meſhelemiah, ver. 1.

Then for Zechariah his Son (a wiſe Counſellor) they caſt Lots, and his Lot came out Northward.] He was as much reputed for Prudence, as others were for Strength, or Valour: And it was as neceſſary in the Management of many of their Affairs.

Ver. 15. To Obed-edom Southward, and to his Sons, the Houſe of Aſuppim.] Many learned Men take Aſuppim to ſignify the Treaſury of the Temple, or the Place where Things dedicated were laid up. This they ground, firſt, upon the Import of the Word, which betokens Collections, or Gatherings, as we tranſlate it in the Margin: And ſecondly, becauſe Obed-edom (whoſe Sons are here ſaid to be placed at Aſuppim) is ſaid in the 2 Chron. xxv. to have the Cuſtody of the Treaſures. But tho' this be granted, it remains ſtill a very difficult Matter to find where Aſuppim was. After a long Diſcuſſion of it, Dr. Lightfoot concludes, that Aſuppim were two Gates in the Weſtern Wall, which ſtood moſt South, or neareſt to Jeruſalem; and that the Houſe of Aſuppim was a large Building which run between them, and was a Treaſury of divers Rooms for laying up Things that ſerved the Uſe of the Temple. See Temple-Service, Chap. v. Sect. 3.

Ver. 16. To Shuppim and Hoſah the Lot came forth Weſtward, with the Gate Shallecheth, by the Cauſey of the going up,] This Gate which in Solomon's Time was called Shallecheth, in the Time of Herod's Temple was called the Gate of Coponius. Which is ſaid here to be by the Cauſey of the going up: Becauſe it was by that Aſcent which Solomon made for his own Paſſage up from his own Houſe to the Temple, 1 Kings x. 5. 2 Chron. ix. 4. Which Joſephus thus expreſſes (as Dr. Lightfoot obſerves) A Gate led to the King's Houſe from the Temple, the Valley between them being filled up for the Paſſage. From whence the Gate was called by the Name of Shallecheth, which ſignifies caſting up; becauſe of the Cauſey that was caſt up to lead to it, from the King's Palace: This being the ordinary Way to the Houſe of God.

Ward againſt Ward.] I ſuppoſe the Meaning is, that they gaurded each of theſe Gates of Aſuppim: Or, as others take it, they guarded by Turns; when one went off, another coming on. But the moſt learned Dr. Alix, (whom I conſulted about it) thinks theſe Words ſignify, that their Stations were at the four Points of Heaven, oppoſite one to the other.

Ver. 17. Eaſtward were ſix Levites, Northward four a Day, Southward four a Day, and toward Aſuppim two and two.] That is, two at each Gate of Aſuppim, before-mentioned. The Diſtribution of the Porters into four and twenty Courſes, is not ſo plainly and diſtinctly ſet down in Scripture, as is the Diſtribution of the Prieſts and Singers. Yet (as Dr. Lightfoot obſerves) it may be fairly concluded, from two Places: whereof this is one, in theſe two Verſes, 16, 17. where the Fathers of the Porters are ſummed up, to the very ſame Number, that the firſt Fathers of the other Courſes were, viz. to four and twenty. Among all the Porters (ſaith Kimchi on this Place) there where four and twenty, according to the reſt of the Courſes; ſix on the Eaſt-ſide, four on the North, four on the South, at Aſuppim two and two, (four in all) four on the Weſt, and two at Parbar: Behold four and twenty. The other Place is, 2 Chron. viii. 14. where the Porters go in the very ſame Equipage (as he ſpeaks) as to the Matter of Diviſion into Courſes, with the Prieſts, and the Singers. See Temple-Service, Chap. vii.

Ver. 18. At Parbar Weſtward, four at the Cauſey, and two at Parbar.] This Gate, it appears from this Place, was in the Weſt-Quarter, and the Weſt-gate to the Cauſey or Shallecheth. It ſignifies, ſome think, the ſame with Parvar, which betokens Suburbs: For it led to the Suburbs, that is, that Part of the City which was called Millo. Which was the Valley at the weſt-end of Mount Moriah, in which Jeruſalem, and Sion met: Repleniſhed with Buildings in David's and Solomon's Time, 2 Sam. v. 9. 1 Kings xi. 27. See Dr. Lightfoot in his Survey of the Temple, Chap. v. Sect. 2.

Ver. 19. Theſe are the Diviſions of the Porters among the Sons of Kore, and among the Sons of Merari.] Theſe Courſes were made up of the Levites, of theſe two great Families.

Ver. 20. And of the Levites, Ahijah was over the Treaſures of the Houſe of God, and over the Treaſures of the dedicated Things.] By the Treaſures of the Houſe of God, are meant ſuch things as were of ordinary Uſe and Employment in the Temple: Such as the Veſſels, Veſtments, Tithes, Wine, Oil, and other Things, that were commonly uſed. Together with ſuch, as were offered to the Treaſury; either as a due (as was the half Shekel) or voluntarily, as Money or Veſſels, for the Repair of the Houſe of God, and Advancement of the Service there. By the Treaſures of dedicated Things are meant whatſoever their Kings, or great Commanders had conſecrated and dedicated for Divine Uſes: Which lay as a Stock for the Temple, and Monuments of their Devotion.

Ver. 21. As concerning the Sons of Laadan: the Son of the Gerſhonite Laadan, chief Fathers, even of Laadan the Gerſhonite, were Jehieli.] This was an eminent Man of that Family. See xxiii. 7.

Ver. 22. The Son of Jehieli; Zetham, and Joel his Brother,] See xxiii. 8. where he is called Jehiel.

Which were over the Treaſures of the Houſe of the LORD.] From hence Dr. Lightfoot gathers, that as ſome of the Treaſures of the Houſe of God were under the Care and Charge of the Porters; (ſee ix. 26.) So the reſt, and the Treaſures of dedicated Things, were committed to the Care and Charge of other Levites, who were neither Porters, nor Singers.

Ver. 23. Of the Amramites, and the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites.] Several Perſons of theſe Families were employed as they that are mentioned in the foregoing Verſe.

Ver. 24. And Shebuel the Son of Gerſhom, the Son of Moſes, was Ruler of the Treaſures.] This is the ſole Honour, that we read of hitherto, conferred upon any of the Poſterity of Moſes. One of which was advanced to a great Authority, being the Overſeer of all the Treaſures, and their Officers. By Treaſures, I ſuppoſe, is here meant thoſe of the Houſe of the Lord; for another was over the dedicated Things, v. 26.

Ver. 25. And his Brethren by Eliezer; Rehabiah his Son, and Jeſhaiah his Son, and Joram his Son, and Zichri his Son, and Shelomith his Son.] Theſe, I ſuppoſe, were under Shebuel, as their chief Ruler.

Ver. 26. Which Shelomith and his Brethren, were over all the Treaſures of the dedicated Things.] Here is another of Moſes his Poſterity (by his younger Son) preferred to a great Office: To have the Charge of thoſe Things which were dedicated for the Service of God, in which his Brethren were to aſſiſt him.

Which

Which David the King,] Out of his great Piety, had dedicated in Abundance, to the Building of the Temple, xxii. 14.

And the chief Fathers, the Captains over thouſands and hundreds,] Such as by the Counſel of Jethro (Exod xviii.) were conſtituted to aſſiſt in the Government of the People.

And the Captains of the Hoſt had dedicated.] The great Military Men, imitated the Rulers in the Civil Government, in this Piety. Or ſuch as are called Captains of the Hoſt, xxv. 1.

Ver. 27. Out of the Spoils won in Battles, did they dedicate to maintain the Houſe of the LORD.] As David gave a vaſt Treaſure to the Building of the Houſe; ſo theſe Men dedicated a Part of their Spoil, to the Support and Repair of it, as there ſhould be Occaſion, after it was built.

Ver. 28. And all that Samuel the Seer, and Saul the Son of Kiſh, and Abner the Son of Ner, and Joab the Son of Zeruiah had dedicated,] He mentions particularly ſome great Benefactors; to honour their Memory, and to be Examples to Poſterity. And Samuel ſeems to have begun, and led the Way to the reſt that followed. For he, I ſuppoſe, by the Spirit of Prophecy, foreſaw the Nation would be ſo well ſettled in the Land, that an Houſe would be built, for the Service of God. And therefore he dedicated Part of the Spoils, which he got, in the Battles he fought, while he was Judge of the People of Iſrael. Which Example, Saul, Abner, and Joab imitated. And they all took it from the ancient Piety of the great Patriarch Abraham; who gave the Tenth of the Spoils which he won to Melchiſedech God's High-Prieſt. The like did the Princes of the People of Iſrael, after their Victory over the Midianites; as we read Numb. xxxi.

And whoſoever had dedicated any thing,] There were many, no doubt, who were diſpoſed to the ſame Piety beſides theſe named.

It was under the Hand of Shelomith, and of his Brethren.] He was a Man of eminent Probity and Prudence: Otherwiſe ſo great a Truſt would not have been repoſed in him.

Ver. 29. Of the Izharites, Chenaiah, and his Sons were for the outward Buſineſs,] That is, the Buſineſs, without the City of Jeruſalem; which neither belonged to the Singers, nor the Porters, whoſe Buſineſs was within the City. But what this outward Buſineſs was, is not eaſily reſolved. Kimchi, and other Hebrew Doctors, think, it was to cut down Trees in the Woods, and to hew Stones, and to ſee the Fields plough'd, and the Vineyards and Gardens planted and dreſſed, which by devout Perſons had been dedicated to the Service of God. But there doth not ſeem to be any thing belonging to ſuch Matters, in theſe Words. For tho' Shoterim or Officers, might poſſibly have ſomething to do in ſuch Matters; yet what Buſineſs there was in theſe Things for the Judges (on whom theſe Officers attended) none can imagine. And this outward Buſineſs being over Iſrael, as it here follows, it does not denote their Care of the Fruits conſecrated by the Iſraelites, nor the Government of thoſe who gathered thoſe Fruits: But ſome Authority over the Iſraelites themſelves; ſuch as is deſcribed in the following Verſe. See Bertram de Repub. Jud. p. 26. whoſe Opinion is approved by Conringius: Which is, that they were Aſſeſſors with the ordinary Judges.

Over Iſrael,] Not over all the People of Iſrael, but over a Part of them: For thoſe about Jordan were under another Juriſdiction, as appears by the next Verſe.

For Officers and Judges.] For ſuch Employments as are mentioned in the following Verſe.

Ver. 30. And of the Hebronites, Haſhabiah and his Brethren, Men of Valour, a thouſand and ſeven hundred, were Officers among them of Iſrael on this Side Jordan Weſtward,] This was a vaſt Number: Therefore their Officers were of ſeveral ſorts, (as it follows) not only in Divine, but in Civil Affairs.

In all Buſineſs of the LORD, and in the Service of the King.] The Work or Buſineſs of the LORD, was to take Care of all Things belonging to Religion: Among which Divine Employments, no doubt, this was the Chief, to judge the People according to the Law of God; and to ſee their Sentence put in Execution. For their Judges judged for the LORD, as Jehoſhaphat tells them, 2 Chron. xix. 6. And they had Officers, called Shoterim, to ſee their Judgment take Effect. But the Word Shoterim doth not ſignify merely the Miniſters of the Judges: But alſo ſuch Perſons who had ſome Miniſtry committed to them; to correct Offenders, and to puniſh them; or to bring them before the Judges to be puniſhed by them. For they are not only joined with Judges (as I have often before obſerved) but frequently put before them in this Book. And therefore it is hard to find one Word to comprehend the whole Work of theſe Officers: Who were employed both in Peace and in War, as our learned Nicolas Fuller obſerves in his Miſcellanies, Lib. ii. Cap. 20.

As for the Buſineſs of the King, ſome think, it was the gathering his Tribute, or perhaps publiſhing his Orders and Commands, and the like. See Grotius de Jure Sum. Pot. circa Sacra, p. 390.

Ver. 31. Among the Hebronites was Jerijah the chief, even among the Hebronites, according to the Generations of their Fathers.] He was the principal Perſon among the Sons of Hebron, as we find before, xxiii. 19.

In the fortieth Year of the Reign of King David, they were ſought for, and there were found among them mighty Men of Valour, at Jazer in Gilead.] In the laſt Year of King David's Reign, not only theſe Things mentioned in this Chapter were eſtabliſhed; but all the other Ordinances which we read of in the foregoing, as the Hebrew Commentators obſerve. And his Care extended itſelf to the utmoſt Parts of his Dominion, where he ſought for Men fit to be put into theſe Offices, on the other Side of Jordan: And found many Perſons of great Courage at Jazer in Gilead, and the Territory belonging to it; among whom Jerijah was the Chief: Jazer was a City given to the Children of Merari, Joſh. xxi. 39.

Ver. 32. And his Brethren, Men of Valour, were two thouſand ſeven hundred chief Fathers, whom David made Rulers over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half Tribe of Manasseh,] This was a great Number, to be employed in so small a Country; when on the other Side of Jordan (besides those under Chenaiah) there were but one thousand and seven hundred. But the Reason was, that they lived a great Way from Jerusalem; and therefore needed more to inspect, and admonish them of their Duty; lest they should forget their Relation to the Temple, or grow sluggish in the Worship of God, or embrace the Religion of their Neighbours; as Pellicanus observes.

For every Matter pertaining to God, and Affairs of the King.] It was the more necessary, there should be such a Number of Officers among them; to keep them in their Obedience to the King, as well as in their Duty to God. For there was Danger of their Desertion from their Sovereign, who lived at a great Distance, and was separated from them by the River Jordan. And nothing could be more pernicious, as he likewise observes, than the Rending of the Kingdom, and Neglect of the Divine Service.

From these Words it appears very plainly, as Joannes Vorstius notes, (in his Dissertation de Synedriis Hebræorum, Sect. 36.) that the same Persons took Care of the Things, or Causes pertaining to God, and those concerning the King. For nothing hindred, that one and the same College of Judges might judge both kind of Things, whether Spiritual, as we distinguish, or Civil. And he thinks, no Interpretation of the Things of God, and the Things of the King, is so probable, as that which I have given before: That by the Things of God, are meant such Things as might be judged by the Divine Law; and the Things of the King, such as could not be determined by the Law, but were left to the Judgment of the King. Who could not abrogate the ancient Laws, being bound to study the Book of the Law all the Days of his Life (Deut. xvii.) and judge according to it. But all Things being not there defined, or not so clearly and plainly that they could be determined by those Laws, the King, or those whom he intrusted in his stead, gave Sentence in such Matters: And could make new Laws, provided they did not contradict the old.

CHAP. XXVII.

Ver. 1. NOW the Children of Israel after their Number, to wit, the chief Fathers and Captains of thousands and hundreds, and their Officers, that served the King in any Matter of the Courses, which came in and went out Month by Month, throughout all the Months of the Year, of every Course were twenty and four thousand.] After the Settlement of Ecclesiastical Affairs, here is an Account given, how the Militia, as we may call it, of the Kingdom was settled in such Order, that it might be serviceable. They were distributed into XII Legions, consisting each of twenty four thousand Men; who were commanded by one of the Chief of the Fathers: Under whom there were Captains of thousands, such as we now call Colonels, which were twenty four in every Legion commanding a thousand Men. And then Centurions under them, or Captains of hundreds; and under them inferior Officers. Each of these Generals attended, with the Legions, one Month for the Security of the King and Kingdom: At the End of which they marched off, and another Legion, with their General, succeeded. So that their Course came but once in a Year, for one Month, which made it no considerable Burthen to them: There being so many valiant Men then in the Nation, that without much Damage such a Number might be in Arms, for so short a Season. Pellicanus thinks, this Order was instituted in the Beginning of David's Reign, but was interrupted by many Wars he had abroad; and not renewed till his last Years, when he established it again, and left his Kingdom to Solomon thus governed. See Bertram de Repub. Jud. p. 133. who observes, that after this, we never read of the Cherethites and Pelethites; these Troops being settled in their room.

Ver. 2. Over the first Course for the first Month, was Jashobeam the Son of Zabdiel: and in his Course were twenty and four thousand.] Now he sets down the Names of the chief Commander of every Legion: And Jashobeam seems to have been the first of his mighty Men, mentioned xi. 11. 2 Sam. xxiii. 8.

Ver. 3. Of the Children of Perez, was the chief of all the Captains of the Hosts for the first Month.] The fore-named Jashobeam was of the Children of Pharez, the Son of Judah: Which Tribe had the Honour to have the first chief Commander chosen out of it.

Ver. 4. And over the Course of the second Month, was Dodai, an Ahohite, and of his Course was Mikloth also the Ruler: in his Course likewise were twenty and four thousand.] This Dodo (as he is called in 2 Sam. xxiii. 9.) was another of David's mighty Men: Who had for his Lieutenant (when he was absent) Mikloth; who, we may suppose, is therefore here mentioned, because he was a Person of great Eminence, and had some considerable Command in this Course.

Ver. 5. The third Captain of the Host for the third Month, was Benaiah the Son of Jehoiada, a chief Priest:] Or rather, a chief Prince, as the Hebrew Word Cohen often signifies. See upon 2 Sam. viii. 18. xx. 26. For it is certain, neither Benaiah, nor his Father were High-Priests, or second Priests; but Abiathar and Zadok were in those Offices.

And in his Course were twenty and four thousand.

Ver. 6. This is that Benaiah, who was mighty among the thirty, and above the thirty:] He was one of David's Worthies, who had done such mighty Acts, that this Divine Writer did not think fit here to mention him, without a Mark of Honour set upon him. See 2 Sam. xxiii. 20, 23.

And in his Course was Ammizabad his Son.] He was his Deputy, when his Father could not attend this Duty himself; having another Office of great Dignity, wherein he served, as Captain of the Cherethites and Pelethites, 2 Sam. viii. 18. Of whom, I observed before, we never read after the Time of David: But 'tis likely were kept up while they lived, tho' there was no need of them, after these Courses were settled.

Ver. 7. The fourth Captain for the fourth Month, was Asahel the Brother of Joab,] This confirms Pellicanus his Opinion, that David inſtituted theſe Courſes in the Beginning of his Reign: For Aſahel was killed while David reigned in Hebron, before he was King over all Iſrael, and ſettled at Jeruſalem. He alſo was one of David's Worthies, 2 Sam. xxiii. 24.

And Zebadiah his Son after him.] He had the Honour to ſucceed his Father in this great Command, when he was ſlain.

Ver. 8. The fifth Captain for the fifth Month, was Shamhuth the Izrahite, &c.] It is very probable, that this was that valiant Man called Shammah, 2 Sam. xxiii. 11. and Shammath in this Book, xi. 27.

Ver. 9. The ſixth Captain for the ſixth Month, was Ira the Son of Ikkeſh the Tekoite, &c.] He is mentioned among the thirty mighty Men in 2 Sam. xxiii. 26. and in this Book, c. xi. 28.

Ver. 10. The ſeventh Captain for the ſeventh Month, was Helez the Pelonite of the Children of Ephraim, &c. He is called the Paltite in 2 Sam. xxiii. 26. and for the Honour of that Tribe, he is ſaid here to be of the Children of Ephraim.

Ver. 11. The eighth Captain for the eighth Month, was Sibbecai the Huſhathite of the Zarhites, &c.] One of that Family that was eminent in the Tribe of Judah, deſcended from Caleb, ii. 53. He ſlew one of the Sons of the Giant, in a Battle with the Philiſtines, 2 Sam. xxi. 18.

Ver. 12. The ninth Captain for the ninth Month, was Abiezer the Anetothite, of the Benjamites.] He alſo is mentioned among the thirty mighty Men in 2 Sam. xxiii. 27.

Ver. 13. The tenth Captain for the tenth Month, was Maharai the Netophathite of the Zarhites, &c.] One of the ſame mighty Men, 2 Sam. xxiii. 28.

Ver. 14. The eleventh Captain for the eleventh Month, was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the Children of Ephraim.] Who is alſo there mentioned, v. 36. but here it is added of what Tribe he was.

Ver. 15. The twelfth Captain for the twelfth Month, was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel, &c.] He is called Heled in this Book, Chap. xi. 30. and Heleb in 2 Sam. xxiii. 29.

Ver. 16. Furthermore, over the Tribes of Iſrael:] Beſides the twelve great Captains before mentioned, who commanded, each of them, twenty and four thouſand Men; every Tribe had a Ruler, (who are called the Princes of the Tribes of Iſrael, ver. 22.) who had the chief Authority among them, under the King.

The Ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the Son of Zichri: of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the Son of Maachah.] He reckons up the Tribes in Order according to their Birth-right, by Leah.

Ver. 17. Of the Levites, Haſhabiah the Son of Kemuel:] He is mentioned before, xxvi. 30.

Of the Aaronites, Zadok.] They were not a diſtinct Tribe, but of a diſtinct Order, from the reſt of the Levites: And therefore had a peculiar Chief to preſide over them, viz. Zadok. Who (as Bertram thinks) had the chief Authority at the Tabernacle in Gibeon, as Abiathar had at Jeruſalem, where the Ark was.

Ver. 18. Of Judah, Elihu one of the Brethren of David:] Called Eliab in 1 Sam. xvi. 6.

Of Iſſachar, Omri the Son of Michael.] He was the fifth Son of Leah, and therefore is reckoned next to Judah, who was the fourth, Gen. xxx. 17, 18.

Ver. 19. Of Zebulun, Iſhmaiah the Son of Obadiah:] He was the next Son of Leah, Gen. xxx. 20.

Of Naphtali, Jerimoth the Son of Azriel.] Tho' Dan was the Firſt-born of Bilhah, (Gen. xxx. 6.) yet that Tribe is put laſt, and Naphtali, who was the next Son, put before him. For what Reaſon we cannot tell.

Ver. 20. Of the Children of Ephraim, Hoſhea the Son of Azaziah: of the half Tribe of Manaſſeh, Joel the Son of Pedaiah.] This is meant of that half Tribe, which had its Portion on this Side Jordan, near to Ephraim.

Ver. 21. Of the half Tribe of Manaſſeh in Gilead,] On the other Side Jordan, where the Reubenites and Gadites were.

Iddo the Son of Zechariah:] It doth not appear of what Family he was, but it is likely, one of that Tribe.

Of Benjamin, Jaaziel the Son of Abner.] It ſeems, the Family of Abner, who was the greateſt Man in the Kingdom of Iſrael, continued in high Authority after his Death.

Ver. 22. Of Dan, Azareel the Son of Jeroham. Theſe were the Princes of the Tribes of Iſrael.] That is, of thoſe Tribes before-mentioned. But Gad and Aſher are omitted, of which we can give no certain Account. Perhaps they were under the Government of the Ruler of ſome neighbouring Tribe. For Aſher dwelling in very narrow Bounds between Naphtali and Zebulon, might be under the Command of him that governed either of them: And Gad, ſome think, was comprehended under the Reubenites.

Ver. 23. But David took not the Number of them] That is, of Iſrael, whom he had ſpoken of before.

From twenty Years old and under:] But only of thoſe who were above the Age of twenty Years.

Becauſe the LORD had ſaid he would increaſe Iſrael like to the Stars of the Heavens.] This was the Reaſon, Pellicanus thinks, that God was ſo angry with David for numbring the People: Which he had promiſed ſhould be ſo many, that they ſhould not be numbred. Which Promiſe God would have to be believed, without attempting to prove the Truth of it. But theſe Words ſeem to me, to confute that Opinion: For they rather ſignify, that David forbore to number all the People, becauſe he would not queſtion that Promiſe, and contented himſelf with an Account of thoſe that were fit to go to War, xxi. 4. See my Notes upon 2 Sam. xxiv. 10.

Ver. 24. Joab the Son of Zeruiah began to number, but he finiſhed not,] For he did not number thoſe of Levi and Benjamin; as we read before in this Book, c. xxi. 6.

Becauſe there fell Wrath for it againſt Iſrael,] This ſeems to import, that before Joab had finiſhed his Account, the Plague began; which put a Stop to his Proceedings.

Neither was the Number put in the Account of the Chronicles of King David.] An Account of the the Number as far as he went, was given by Joab to the King: But the King being ſenſible of his Error, would not have it recorded in the Publick Regiſters of the Kingdom, as other Things of daily Occurrence were. Yet the Memory of it is preſerved in theſe holy Books, to teach all Poſterity not to put their Truſt in the Arm of Fleſh.

Ver. 25. And over the King's Treaſure was Azmaveth the Son of Adiel: and over the Store-houſes in the Fields, in the Cities, and in the Villages, and in the Caſtles, was Jehonathan the Son of Uzziah.] The former of theſe was the principal Officer in the Exchequer, as we now ſpeak, who received the King's Money from the Under-Officers, and was accountable for it; and lived at Jeruſalem, where he iſſued it out, according to the King's Orders. But there was another in the Country out of Jeruſalem, who received the Tribute of all Kinds, which the People were to pay him: Which he laid up in Store-houſes, that were built in ſeveral Places for that Purpoſe.

Ver. 26. And over them that did the Work of the Field for Tillage of the Ground, was Ezri the Son of Chelub.] Beſide the Tribute paid by the People of Corn, Wine, Oil, &c. the King had Land of his own; where he kept Servants to till the Ground. And this Perſon was ſet over them, to ſee they were not idle, and that they were honeſt in gathering the Fruits of the Earth, and ſending them to the Store-houſes.

Ver. 27. And over the Vineyards was Shimei the Ramathite:] He looked after the Vine-dreſſers.

Over the Increaſe of the Vineyards, for the Wine-Cellars, was Zabdi the Shiphmite.] His Office was to ſee the Wine preſſed out of the Grapes, and carried into the Cellars; where it was laid up.

Ver. 28. And over the Olive-trees, and the Sycomore-trees that were in the low Plains, was Baal-hanan the Gederite:] This ſhews, that David was a great Husband, as we ſpeak, and had Ground proper for all Sort of Fruits; which was managed by his own Servants. For, as I have often obſerved, the greateſt Men in thoſe Times ſtudied the Improvement of their Ground of what Sort ſoever it was.

And over the Cellars of Oil was Joaſh.] It appears from many Places, that a great Part of their Revenue lay in Oil: Which requir'd great Care, as Wine did, in the looking after it.

Ver. 29. And over the Herds that fed in Sharon, was Shitrai the Sharonite: and over the Herds that were in the Valleys, was Shaphat the Son of Adlai.] He had great Store of Cattle alſo in his Paſtures, particularly in Sharon, which was a Place noted for its Fruitfulneſs, as we read in the Prophet Iſaiah, Chap. xxxiii. 9. xxxv. 2. And ſo St. Hierom teſtifies, Omnis Regio Saron, &c. all the Region of Saron, about Lidda, Joppa, and Jamnia, was apt for feeding of Flocks. See Iſaiah lxv. 10. There was another Saron beſides this near the Mediterranean, which was in the Eaſt beyond Jordan, (as I obſerved upon c. v. 16. of this Book) where the Gadites inhabited, who abounded in Cattle: And therefore were planted by Moſes in this Region, and in Baſhan, which was another rich Country for Paſture. See L'Empereur upon Bava Kama. And therefore here David, it is likely, bred a great many Cattle, both in the Mountains, and in the Valleys; and had particular Officers, to look after them, they being very many. For here, as he obſerves out of Maimonides, there were great Numbers of Calves bred, which Women had the Care of, and were brought from hence to other Places, to be ſold.

Ver. 30. Over the Camels alſo, was Obil the Iſhmeelite:] An Iſhmeelite was the fitteſt Perſon to look after the Breed of Camels, becauſe that Country abounded with them, and they beſt underſtood their Nature. And this Perſon ſeems to have had his Name from his Office. For as Ibil, in Arabick ſignifies a Camel, ſo Abal and Abil, a Keeper of Camels: As Bochart notes in his Hierozoicon, P. i. Lib. ii. Cap. 2.

And over the Aſſes, was Jehdeiah the Meronothite.] This was a great Part of Men's Riches in old Times; for we find Ana, feeding his Father's Aſſes in Gen. xxxvi. 24. In which Book we find them reckoned among the Wealth of the antient Patriarchs. And the Iſraelites took no leſs than threeſcore and one thouſand of them from the Midianites, Num. xxxi. 34. And in this Book we read of two thouſand taken from the Hagarens, c. v. 21. And when the Jews returned out of the Captivity of Babylon, they were become ſo rich that they brought away with them ſix thouſand ſeven hundred and twenty Aſſes; as Nehemiah relates c. vii. 69.

Ver. 31. And over the Flocks, was Jaziz the Hagarite. All theſe were the Rulers of the Subſtance which was King David's.] The Flocks of Sheep, no doubt, were very numerous, but among all the Flocks and Herds there is no mention made of Swine, as Bochartus obſerves. Nor had the Patriarchs any, that we read of when mention is made of their Poſſeſſions. Nor had Job any in Arabia, tho' he had a vaſt Number of other Cattle. Nor did the Iſraelites ever take any of theſe, as Spoil from their Enemies. And therefore Gadara, where Swine were kept in Judæa (as we read in the Goſpel) was a Greek City, not a Jewiſh, as Joſephus tells us. See Hierozoicon, P. i. Lib. i. Cap. 51.

Ver. 32. Alſo Jonathan, David's Uncle, was a Counſellor, a wiſe Man, and a Scribe:] He was one of the Privy-Council; being a Man of great Wiſdom, and alſo ſkilful in the Law; for ſo the Word Sopher (which we render Scribe) ſignifies. A very learned Author thinks it ſignifies a Secretary of State, or rather a Chancellor.

And Jehiel the Son of Hachmoni, was with the King's Sons.] He alſo, no doubt, was a Man of great Underſtanding, being a Tutor, as we ſpeak, or Governor to the King's Sons.

Ver. 33. And Ahithophel was the King's Counſellor, and Huſhai the Archite was the King's Companion.] Ahithophel ſeems to have been Preſident of the Council: But Huſhai was his Favourite (being called David's Friend) in whoſe Company he moſt delighted, and whom he truſted with his greateſt Secrets.

Ver. 34. And after Ahithophel, was Jehoiada the Son of Benaiah, and Abiathar:] After Ahithophel had made away himſelf, theſe two were the principal Counſellors; as Kimchi and other Jewiſh Doctors underſtand theſe Words. But others think, the Meaning is, that next to him these two were accounted the ableſt Men that David adviſed withal: But after him, for he was eſteemed the Man of greateſt Prudence.

And the General of the King's Army was Joab.] The Targum hath a ſtrange Expoſition of this Verſe, which is this; When there was War to be made, they conſulted Ahithophel, and after that they aſked Counſel of Urim and Thummim by Jehoiada, the Head of the Sanhedrin; and by Abiathar the High-Prieſt: And ſo the Cherethites and Pelethites by the Authority of Urim and Thummim, went to fight under the Command of Joab, the General of the Army. In the Expoſition of which there are a great many fooliſh Deſcants, which I ſhall not mention.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Ver. 1. AND David aſſembled all the Princes of Iſrael, the Princes of the Tribes,] Theſe ſeeem to be the ſame, one being the Explication of the other: And they are thoſe Perſons mentioned ver. 16, 17, &c. of the foregoing Chapter.

And the Captains of the Companies that miniſtred to the King by Courſe,] That is, thoſe great Commanders, over four and twenty thouſand a-piece, mentioned in the beginning of the foregoing Chapter.

And the Captains over the thouſands, and Captains over the hundreds,] The Commanders of every one of thoſe thouſands, with the Centurions who commanded the ſeveral Companies, conſiſting of an hundred.

And the Stewards over all the Subſtance and Poſſeſſion of the King, and of his Sons,] Who are mentioned alſo in ver. 25, 26, &c. of the foregoing Chapter: And appear by this to have been conſiderable Perſons.

With the Officers,] Who were about his Perſon.

And with the mighty Men, and with all the valiant Men,] Thoſe who were eminent for their Services in War, of whom he had ſpoken in Chap. xi. and xii.

Unto Jeruſalem.] All theſe he called to attend him in the chief City of the Kingdom, that he might commend Solomon to them as his Succeſſor, and this Government which he had ſettled. See Bertram de Repub. Jud. p. 150. This ſeems to have been a diſtinct Aſſembly from that mentioned c. xxiii. 2. being more general, and conſiſting of many Perſons, who were not then in ſuch Offices, as are here named.

Ver. 2. Then David the King ſtood upon his Feet, and ſaid,] He was ſitting in his Throne, I ſuppoſe, when they came in, but then ſtood up in Reſpect to ſo great an Aſſembly, and that he might be the better heard. When he firſt declared Solomon to be his Succeſſor, and cauſed him to be anointed, he lay upon his Bed, being very Palſick and Decrepit, as we read 1 Kings i. But intending now to have him anointed again, in the midſt of his Princes, and great Commanders (c. xxix. 22.) whom he could not aſſemble, when on a ſudden he commanded him to be anointed before: He rouſed up himſelf, and roſe from his Couch, and came out of his Chamber, and made Orations, and gave Advice for Things to come, as Dr. Lightfoot obſerves.

Hear me, my Brethren, and my People,] He calls the great Men his Brethren, both becauſe they had a Share in the Government with him, and to expreſs his Affection to them. 'Tis likely they were attended by ſome other Perſons, whom he calls my People.

I had in mine Heart to build an Houſe of Reſt for the Ark of the Covenant of the LORD,] A fixed Place, where the Ark might be ſettled, and not carried about, as it had been hitherto, 2 Sam. vii. 1.

And for the Footſtool of our God,] Here the Conjunction and, as our Mr. Mede obſerves, is exegetical, and the ſame with, that is: According to which Expreſſion the Prophet Jeremiah ſaith, Lament. ii. 1. that the LORD had caſt down the Beauty of Iſrael, and remembred not his Footſtool, (that is, the Ark of the Covenant, which was their Glory) in the Day of his Anger, Book I. p. 500. For the Divine Glory, ſitting upon the Wings of the Cherubims, over the Mercy Seat (Pſal. lxxx. 2.) his Feet, as we ſpeak after the Manner of Men, reſted upon the Ark. And therefore the Targum thus paraphraſes it, The Footſtool of the Throne of Glory. And thence it is ſometimes called, The Ark of the Covenant of the LORD of Hoſts, who ſitteth upon the Cherubims, 1 Sam. iv. 4.

And had made ready for the Building.] Laid up great Treaſures, which he deſigned to defray the Charges of the Building. See chap. xxii.

Ver. 3. But God ſaid unto me,] In the Targum, the Memra, WORD of the LORD.

Thou ſhalt not build an Houſe for my Name, becauſe thou haſt been a Man of War, and haſt ſhed Blood.] See my Notes upon Chap. xxii. 8. To which I ſhall here add, that Bloodſhed was accounted a Thing ſo heinous, that tho' one had killed another only accidentally, yet he was bound to flee for it to a City of Refuge, or elſe he might have been killed himſelf. And among the ancient Greeks (as Petitus ſhews in his Book of the Attick Laws, L. vii. p. 512.) he that killed another involuntarily, was baniſhed from his Country for a Year. But David is here forbidden to build God a Temple, merely becauſe he had been engaged in War and Bloodſhed, tho' it was on a pious Account. And thus alſo among the ancient Greeks (as Grotius obſerves) they ſtood in need of an Expiation, who without any Blame had defiled their Hands in Blood. And accordingly among the Greek Chriſtians there was a Canon, long obſerved in that Church, which kept Men from the Holy Communion for a Time, who had killed an Enemy in any War. See L. ii. De Jure Belli, & Pacis, cap. xxv. ſect. 9. But Oſiander, conſidering this Paſſage in Grotius, thinks, that in theſe Words, David's Warring and Bloodſhed is not alledged, ratione alicujus vitii, &c. upon the Account of any Blemiſh, which hindred him from building a Houſe for God, but merely upon the Account of the vaſt Buſineſs wherein he was engaged: For being employed continually in warlike Actions, he was not at leiſure for ſuch a Building; which was

was to be the Work of Peace and Quietneſs. David alſo is expreſly ſaid to have managed the Wars of the LORD, being but his Inſtrument to puniſh the Enemies of his People Iſrael. And therefore could not be blemiſhed by being thus employed to God, nor made uncapable thereby to build his Temple. For he gloried and triumphed in theſe Wars and in the Victories he got: For which he ſung Praiſe to God, Pſalm lx. Add to all this, that the Account which Solomon gives to Hiram, why his Father did not build God an Houſe, was that he was otherwiſe employed, 1 Kings v. 3. But I leave this to better Judgments.

Ver. 4. Howbeit, the LORD God of Iſrael choſe me before all the Houſe of my Father, to be King over Iſrael for ever:] See 1 Sam. xvi. 13. Pſal. lxxviii. 68.

For he hath choſen Judah to be the Ruler;] See Gen. xlix. 10.

And of the Houſe of Judah, the Houſe of my Father; and among the Sons of my Father, he liked me, to make me King over all Iſrael.] For till his Days it was not known out of what Family of Judah a King ſhould be choſen, from whom the MESSIAH ſhould come.

Ver. 5. And of all my Sons (for the LORD hath given me many Sons) he hath choſen Solomon my Son, to ſit upon the Throne of the Kingdom of the LORD over Iſrael.] For he was beloved of God from his Birth, 2 Sam. xii. 25. and plainly deſigned by God to be his Succeſſor, 2 Sam. vii. 13. and here in this Book, c. xxii. 9. So that David ſware he ſhould reign after him, and accordingly performed it, 1 Kings i. 17, 35. This he declares now to them all, when he was going out of the World: That they might reverence Solomon as a Perſon placed upon the Throne by Divine Appointment; and not out of any partial and fond Affection of his to him, preferred before his elder Brethren.

Ver. 6. And he ſaid unto me, Solomon thy Son he ſhall build my Houſe, and my Courts: for I have choſen him to be my Son, and I will be his Father.] See 2 Sam. vii. 13. and this Book, c. xxii. 9.

Ver. 7. Moreover, I will eſtabliſh his Kingdom for ever, if he be conſtant to do my Commandments, and my Judgments, as at this Day.] The laſt Words import, that hitherto Solomon was very towardly (as we ſpeak) and gave great Hopes he would continue ſtedfaſt in his Obedience to God, as his Father David had done.

Ver. 8. Now therefore in the Sight of all Iſrael the Congregation of the LORD,] Who were here preſent by their Repreſentatives: To whom he now addreſſes his Speech, that they might give the ſame Exhortation to their Neighbours.

And in the Audience of our God,] Who was preſent in all their publick Aſſemblies, as I have noted upon Judges xx. 1. See there.

Keep, and ſeek for all the Commandments of the LORD your God:] It is not enough to know the Will of God, if we do not keep it; that is, obſerve his Commands, and live in the Practice of our Duty. But that we may know it, it is neceſſary to ſeek it; that is, to enquire after it, and ſtudy the Laws of God. For no Man (as Grotius here obſerves) ſhall be excuſed by a ſupine Ignorance.

That ye may poſſeſs this good Land, and leave it for an Inheritance for your Children after you for ever.] It was in vain to expect the Continuance of God's Favour to them; who had brought them into this good Land, unleſs they continued ſtedfaſt in his Obedience. This was the only Way to Settlement in their Poſſeſſions.

Ver. 9. And thou, Solomon my Son, know thou the God of thy Father,] To know God is, in Scripture Language, to acknowledge and love him. As God is ſaid to know the Way of the Righteous; that is, to approve and love it, Pſal. i. ult. Solomon had the greater Reaſon to do this, becauſe God had been ſo very gracious to his Father David, and choſen him, before all his Brethren, to be his Succeſſor.

And ſerve him with a perfect Heart, and a willing Mind:] His Love was to be expreſſed by Obedience to God, and that intirely and chearfully: Out of Choice, not by Conſtraint; not to gain the good Opinion of Men, but the Favour of God. For hearty Piety, and not merely the outward Appearance of it, is the ſureſt Support of a Prince's Power and Authority: And will diſpoſe his Subjects to love and reverence him as ſincerely, as he doth God.

For the LORD ſearcheth all Hearts, and underſtandeth all the Imaginations of the Thoughts:] He preſſes him with two Arguments unto Sincerity in his Obedience. The firſt is in theſe Words; becauſe God cannot be deceived with external Services; for he looks into the Hearts, and diſcerns the moſt ſecret Motions there: Which cannot be hid from him, but is privy to every Thought, and to the very Beginning of them.

If thou ſeek him, he will be found of thee; but if thou forſake him, he will caſt thee off for ever.] This is the other Argument; God is not tied to any Man, but upon Condition of his hearty Obedience. As he behaves himſelf towards God, ſo God will deal with him.

Ver. 10. Take heed now, for the LORD hath choſen thee to build an Houſe for the Sanctuary:] That is, for the Ark to dwell in, for that was the principal Furniture of the Sanctuary. The Targum thus expreſſes it, The MEMRA, Word of the LORD hath choſen thee, &c.

Be ſtrong and do it.] Being a young Man, he might be diſcouraged from undertaking ſo great Work: But he bids him go about it ſtrenuouſly; becauſe God had choſen him to do it.

Ver. 11. Then David gave to Solomon his Son the Pattern of the Porch, and of the Houſes thereof,] Abarbinel is very confident that the Word Ulam, which we tranſlate Porch, is a general Word uſed in this Place for the whole Houſe. The Deſcription of which David gave Solomon, with all the Apartments belonging to it: Eſpecially of the Houſes thereof, which were two: The Outward, called the Holy Place, and the Inward, called the Holy of Holies: Which were diſtinct Houſes, being ſeparated by a Partition: And accordingly the former is called the geater Houſe, 2 Chron. iii. 5. being much larger in its Dimenſions than the other. At the Entrance of which there was a Porch, the Model of which David gave him, as well as of the Houſes.

And

And of the Treaſuries thereof, and of the upper Chambers thereof, and of the inner Parlours thereof,] There were ſeveral Rooms againſt the Walls of the Houſe round about, as we read 1 Kings vi. 5. which are here called by ſeveral Names, according to the Uſe wherein they were employed. And the fore-named Abarbinel here obſerves, out of Middoth and Tamid, and other Books, that the Temple was built like an high Tower, reaching up to Heaven, there being three upper Stories one above another, and the firſt Story three times higher than that of Moſes, viz. thirty Cubits.

And of the Place of the Mercy-Seat.] Where that ſhould be placed, in the Holy of Holies.

Ver. 12. And the Pattern of all that he had by the Spirit,] in the Hebrew, of all that he had in the Spirit with him: That is inſpired into him. It being an Houſe for God to dwell in, it was fit that it ſhould not be of a mere Human, but of a Divine Contrivance, as the Tabernacle built by Moſes was. Therefore God ſuggeſted to David by his Spirit, how he would have it made in all the Parts before-mentioned, and in thoſe that follow: For thoſe Words refer to both. See ver. 19.

Of the Courts of the Houſe of the LORD, and of all the Chambers round about,] How large the Courts ſhould be, and how many, and what Rooms adjoining to them, was all ordered by a ſpecial Direction from God.

Of the Treaſuries of the Houſe of God, and of the Treaſuries of the dedicate things.] From the laſt Words moſt are of Opinion, it may be concluded, that in theſe Places all the Utenſils belonging to the Tabernacle which Moſes made, and the Tabernacle itſelf (which was no longer uſed after Solomon's Temple was built) were laid up and preſerved. By which perhaps was ſignified, as Conſtantine L' Empereur conjectures (upon Middoth, p. 87.) that all the Ceremonies of Moſes ſhould one Day be decently laid aſide, and ſomething better come in their Room.

Ver. 13. Alſo for the Courſes of the Prieſts, and the Levites, and for all the Work of the Service of the Houſe of the LORD, and for all the Veſſels of Service in the Houſe of the LORD.] He diſpoſed of the Courſes of the Prieſts and Levites (before-mention'd) by the ſame Spirit, and how they ſhould be employed, and what Veſſels they ſhould uſe in God's Service.

Ver. 14. He gave of Gold by weight, for Things of Gold, for all Inſtruments of all manner of Service; Silver alſo for all Inſtruments of Silver, by weight, for all Inſtruments of every kind of Service:] He gave Materials alſo, in a juſt Proportion to the Inſtruments that were to be made, either of Gold or Silver.

Ver. 15. Even the Weight for the Candleſticks of Gold, and for the Lamps of Gold, by weight for every Candleſtick, and for the Lamps thereof: and for the Candleſticks of Silver by weight, both for the Candleſtick, and alſo for the Lamps thereof, according to the Uſe of every Candleſtick.] By this we learn that there were Candleſticks of Silver, as well as of Gold. The former of which were leſſer, to be carried in their Hands from place to place, as there was Occaſion. But the latter were fixed in the Sanctuary, and in Solomon's Houſe were ten in Number, 1 Kings vi. 49.

Ver. 16. And by weight he gave Gold for the Tables of Shew-bread for every Table, and likewiſe Silver for the Tables of Silver;] There was but one Table for the Shew-bread: but there were ſeveral others attending upon it, whereon were ſet ſuch Veſſels as belonged to it. For as he made more Candleſticks than were in the Tabernacle; ſo, it appears by this, he alſo augmented the Tables, which were no leſs than ten, 2 Chron iv. 8.

Ver. 17. Alſo pure Gold for the Fleſh-hooks, and the Bowls, and the Cups, and for the Golden Baſons he gave Gold by weight for every Baſon; and likewiſe Silver by Weight for every Baſon of Silver:] Aſſigning ſuch a Portion of Gold or Silver to every Baſon, as would make it as large as he propoſed. Many of the Jews by the Hebrew Word Kepuri (which we tranſlate Baſons) underſtand Spoons, which had the Figure of Oxen and Lions on the Head of them; which they imagine was the Beginning of Solomon's Offence. But the Word rather imports ſome Veſſel, wherein they received the Blood of the Sacrifice of Expiation.

Ver. 18. And for the Altar of Incenſe, refined Gold by weight;] It was covered with Gold, as the Cherubims were, 1 Kings vii. 49.

And Gold for the Pattern of the Chariot of the Cherubims, that ſpread out their Wings, and covered the Ark of the Covenant of the LORD.] It ſeems David contriv'd theſe two Cherubims, beſides thoſe which Moſes had made. Of which ſee what I have noted upon 1 Kings vi. 23, 28. They are called the Chariot, becauſe God is ſaid not only to ſit, but to ride upon the Cherubims, (Pſal. xviii. 10.) as the LORD of Hoſts: And therefore they are deſcribed in Ezekiel, as having Wheels on which they ran. The other made by Moſes were moſt properly his Seat, but theſe repreſented him as filling the whole Houſe.

Ver. 19. All this, ſaid David, the LORD made me to underſtand in writing by his Hand upon me, even of the Work of this Pattern.] God made him underſtand all this ſo plainly and diſtinctly, as if it had been written on his Mind, as the ten Commandments were upon the Tables of Stone in the Mount. But ſome of the Jews think the meaning is, that God revealed theſe Things firſt to ſome of the Prophets, Samuel (iv. 22.) or Nathan, or Gad, who delivered all to David in Writing, as the Mind of God. However it was, God was pleaſed thus himſelf to give Inſtructions about the Structure of the Temple, and all belonging to it; that it might breed in the People's Mind a greater Reverence, when they came to worſhip him there: And, as Joſeph de Voyſon obſerves, the Jews in Beracoth ſay, that their Minds might be lifted up when they came to the Temple, from earthly Things, to Things ſpiritual and celeſtial.

Ver. 20. And David ſaid to Solomon his Son, be ſtrong, and of good Courage, and do it:] He repeats what he had ſaid before, ver. 10. the more to excite and encourage him to this Work, which was to do the Work of God.

Fear not, neither be diſmayed, for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee, he will not fail thee, nor forſake thee, until thou haſt finiſhed nished all the Work for the Service of the House of the LORD.] He thought that he might possibly fear Disturbance from Enemies abroad, of which David had a great many: But he bids him be confident, he should not be disquieted in his Work; which should go on prosperously, by the Blessing of God, till it was finished. Of which he might be the more assured, if he reflected how God had blessed David himself all his Life long.

Ver. 21. And behold, the Courses of the Priests, and the Levites, even they shall be with thee, for all the Service of the House of God, and there shall be with thee for all Manner of Workmanship every willing skilful Man for any Manner of Service: also the Princes and all the People will be wholly at thy Commandment.] It is a probable Conjecture of Conradus Pellicanus, that he now presented Solomon with a List of all the Courses of God's Ministers, as God had directed him to establish them: Assuring him, that God would dispose them to be serviceable unto him in all that he had to do, for the carrying on of the Work. Which should have the Help and Assistance of all other skilful Persons, whom he would make willing to further it: And that he would make all the Princes and the People obedient to him in all things. This was one Reason, no doubt, of calling this Assembly together, that they might be engaged to be aiding to Solomon, in promoting so pious a Work.

CHAP. XXIX.

Ver. 1. Furthermore, David the King said unto all the Congregation, Solomon my Son, whom alone God hath chosen, is yet young and tender, and the Work is great: for the Palace is not for Man, but for the LORD God.] He stirs them up to the Assistance of his Son, by these Considerations, That he was a Person chosen by God, not by him, for this Work: And yet he needed their Help, because he was but a Youth, (see 1 Kings iii. 7.) and the Work itself was to be very magnificent, suitable to the Majesty that was to dwell therein, viz. the LORD himself; who dwells not (as the Apostle speaks) in Temples made with Hands: But was present there by a glorious Light, which represented his Majesty.

Ver. 2. Now I have prepared with all my Might, for the House of my God, the Gold for Things to be made of Gold, and the Silver for Things of Silver, and the Brass for Things of Brass, the Iron for Things of Iron, and Wood for Things of Wood; Onyx Stones, and Stones to be set, glistering Stones, and of divers Colours, and all Manner of precious Stones, and Marble Stones in abundance.] We read of his great Preparation for this Building before, c. xxii. 14, &c. only nothing is said there concerning precious Stones: The Use of which in the Ornament of any Part of the Temple, is not known. Ludolphus speaking of the Word Phuc, which we translated glistering, saith, that as David provided all Things for the Fabrick of the Temple, so he provided for the Clothing of the Priests with rich Garments, and also with such Things as were good for bodily Health, as this was, which was not only κοσμητικόν, for Ornament, but θεραπευτικόν, for Medicine and Preservation of Health. But perhaps Phuc being famous among those things which Women used for setting off their Beauty, it may possibly here be a metaphorical Word, for all such Stones as may set off the Building. See his Commentary upon the Æthiopick History, Lib. i. Cap. 7. N. 51.

Ver. 3. Moreover, because I have set my Affection to the House of my God, I have of mine own proper Good, of Gold and Silver, which I have given to the House of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy House.] Besides what he had devoted and dedicated to this Use, he gave, out of what remained for his own Occasions, a further Sum for the Building of the House; which is mentioned in the next Verse.

Ver. 4. Even three thousand Talents of Gold, of the Gold of Ophir,] The Gold of Ophir here mentioned, was that which came out of Arabia; where Bochartus hath proved, there was a Country of that Name abounding with Gold. For in David's Time the Ophir of India was not known, Solomon being the first that attempted a long Voyage thither. So we are to understand the Word Ophir in the Book of Job, xxii. 24. xxviii. 16. For in his Time they had not learned to traffick into those far distant Countries, where the other Ophir in India was. See my Notes upon 1 Kings ix. 18. This Gold here mentioned, was of a purer Sort than that in c. xxii. 14. which was coarser than the Gold of Ophir.

And seven thousand Talents of refined Silver, to overlay the Walls of the Houses withal.] There are two Things, which Dr. Lightfoot hath remarked in these two Verses. One is, that it is said, this Preparation was above what he had prepared for the holy House, and yet he saith he had prepared it for the House of God. The other is, That mention is made here of Silver to overlay the House withal: Whereas it is evident, that within the House itself, all the Overlaying was of Gold. Therefore it is thus to be understood, That besides the Store of Gold that David had provided for the gilding of the House, both in the holy and most holy Place; he had also laid by a Stock both of Gold and Silver, to gild the Chambers over the Porch, (for there were divers Upper-Chambers, the Height of it being an hundred and twenty Cubits) and to beautify the Side-Chambers, and the other Rooms that were about the Courts. All this Gold and Silver amounted to such a vast Sum of our Money, that it is not easy to give an Account of it. See Calvisius ad Annum Mundi 2933.

Ver. 5. The Gold for Things of Gold, and the Silver for Things of Silver, and for all Manner of Work to be made by the Hands of Artificers.] That there might be enough to pay all sort of Workmen their Wages, as well as to provide them Materials to work withal.

And who then is willing to consecrate his Service this Day unto the LORD?] The Hebrew Phrase to fill his Hand (as it is in the Margin) signifies to make an Offering: Unto which he excites them by his Example, as a thing which would be very grateful unto God.

Ver. 6. Then the Chief of the Fathers and Princes of the Tribes of Israel, and the Captains of of thouſands, and of hundreds, with the Rulers over the King's Work, offered willingly.] All thoſe great Men, mentioned Chapter xxvii. made their cheerful Contributions.

Ver. 7. And gave for the Service of the Houſe of God, of Gold five thouſand Talents, and ten thouſand Drams; and of Silver ten thouſand Talents; and of Braſs, eighteen thouſand Talents; and one hundred thouſand Talents of Iron.] What every particular Perſon gave is not here recorded: But the Whole amounted to theſe Sums, which was very great.

Ver. 8. And they with whom precious Stones were found, gave them to the Treaſure of the Houſe of the LORD, by the Hand of Jehiel the Gerſhonite.] For he and his Sons were Keepers of the Treaſure of God's Houſe, c. xxvi. 21, 22. and were appointed to receive ſuch Offerings.

Ver. 9. Then the People rejoyced, for that they offered willingly,] They that made the Offering rejoyced; for they did it with a good Will, and not by Conſtraint.

Becauſe with perfect Heart they offered willingly to the LORD:] This is the Virtue which St. Paul calls ἁπλότης, Singleneſs of Heart: Which hath Reſpect purely to the Service of God, the Honour of Religion, and the Good of his Church, 2 Corinth. viii. 2. ix. 11, 13.

And David the King alſo rejoyced with great Joy.] It was a ſingular Comfort to him in his old Age, to ſee the People ſo well diſpoſed, and his Exhortation ſo effectual upon their Heart: Which gave him a good Hope, this Work would not fail to be ſpeedily accompliſhed.

Ver. 10. Wherefore David bleſſed the LORD before all the Congregation: and David ſaid, Bleſſed be thou, LORD God of Iſrael our Father, for ever and ever.] All this he aſcribed to the Grace of God; whom he therefore bleſſed and praiſed, for giving them ſuch an Heart.

Ver. 11. Thine, O LORD, is the Greatneſs, and the Power, and the Glory, and the Victory, and the Majeſty: for all that is in the Heaven and in the Earth, is thine, thine is the Kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as Head above all.] This is a moſt noble Declaration of the Senſe he had of the Divine Excellencies and Perfections, with a thankful Acknowledgment of his Immenſity, Power, Goodneſs, Eternity, and Majeſty, which are the Properties or Attributes of God. The Targum, and the Talmudiſts, apply theſe to the wonderful Works of God, in this Manner, Thine, O LORD, is the Greatneſs, for thou createdſt the World; and the Power, for thou broughteſt our Fathers out of Egypt, and carriedſt them thro' the Red Sea; and revealedſt thyſelf in Glory upon Mount Sinai, to give the Law to thy People; and obtainedſt Victory over Amalek, Sion, Og, and the Canaanites; and madeſt the Sun and the Moon ſtand ſtill, by the Spirit of thy Glory, till thy People were vindicated of their Enemies. For all Things both in Heaven and in Earth, are the Work of thy Hands; thou ſupporteſt and ruleſt all Things; and thou art exalted above all the Angels in Heaven, as well as all the Kings upon Earth.

Ver. 12. Both Riches and Honour come of thee, and thou reigneſt over all, and in thine Hand is Power and Might, and in thine Hand it is to make great, and to give Strength unto all.] The Targum thus paraphraſes it; The Riches of the Wealthy, and the Glory of Kings and Dominions is given them by thee; thou ruleſt over all, and they are in thy Power: Who art able to multiply, and ſtrengthen all Things; that is, to increaſe thoſe to great Numbers who are diminiſhed, and to ſtrengthen thoſe who are feeble and weak.

Ver. 13. Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praiſe thy glorious Name.

Ver. 14. But who am I, and what is my People, that we ſhould be able to offer ſo willingly after this ſort?] In the Targum it is thus paraphraſed, who haſt given ſuch Plenty, that we are able to offer theſe Gifts. He ſhould have added, and alſo given us an Heart to part with them for thy Service.

For all Things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee.] We only return to thee what thine own Hand hath bleſſed us withal, as the Targum expreſſes it. And ſo the ancient Chriſtians were wont to ſay at their Offertory, τὰ σὰ ἀπὸ τῶν σῶν, thine from thine. That is, thy own Goods from thy own People. In like Manner we ought to acknowledge God in all ſpiritual things; referring every good Thought, good Purpoſe, good Work, to his Divine Grace, from whom we receive it: Beſeeching him, as David doth here in this Prayer, (v. 18.) to preſerve it in us.

Ver. 15. For we are Strangers before thee, and Sojourners, as were all our Fathers: our Days on the Earth are as a Shadow, and there is none abiding.] He acknowledges that there were not Proprietors of that good Land wherein they dwelt but only his Tenants; who held all they had of him: And that but a very ſhort Term; after which they muſt leave all as their Fathers had done. The Words may be thus paraphraſed in ſhort, We have but the Uſe of theſe Things for a little while, and ſo have parted with no great Matter unto thee. Thoſe Words, as a Shadow, the Targum thus paraphraſes. As the Shadow of a Bird which flieth through the Air, ſo are our Days upon the Earth. That is, ſoon gone, as the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks.

Ver. 16. O LORD our God, all this Store that we have prepared, to build thee an Houſe for thine holy Name, cometh of thine Hand, and is all thine own.] He could not often enough repeat his Senſe of this, that they had given him nothing but what was his own; which he had moſt bountifully beſtowed on them.

Ver. 17. I know alſo, my God, that thou trieſt the Heart, and haſt Pleaſure in Uprightneſs. As for me, in the Uprightneſs of mine Heart I have willingly offered all theſe Things.] But the higheſt Satisfaction was, that God had beſtowed upon him an Heart, to do what he had done willingly, with a ſincere Reſpect to the Service of God, and not out of vain Glory. For the Truth of which he appeals to God himſelf, who could not be deceived with falſe Shews and Pretences.

And now have I ſeen with Joy, thy People which are preſent here, to offer willingly unto thee.] It was a great additional Comfort to him, that God had given ſuch a Heart unto his People.

Ver. 18. O LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel our Father, keep this for ever in the Imagination of the Thoughts of the Heart of thy People, and prepare their Heart unto thee.] He could not desire a greater Blessing for them, than that he who had given them such a pious Heart, would preserve them in the same good Disposition: And confirm and establish them therein. So the last Words are better translated in the Margin, establish their Heart unto thee. Which the Targum paraphrases, dispose their Heart to fear thee.

Ver. 19. And give unto Solomon my Son a perfect Heart to keep thy Commandments, thy Testimonies, and thy Statutes, and to do all these Things, and to build the Palace for the which I have made Provision.] To have a due Respect to all God's Precepts (in the Observation of every one of which, Perfectness of Heart consists) he knew would be the best Security for the performing what David designed. For then he would not be disobedient to his Father's dying Words.

Ver. 20. And David said to all the Congregation, Now bless the LORD your God. And all the Congregation blessed the LORD God of their Fathers, and bowed down their Heads, and worshipped the LORD and the King.] They worshipped both with the same Gesture, but with a different Mind; God with Religious Worship, the King with Civil: Giving God Thanks for all his Benefits, and thanking the King for all the Care he had taken, during his Reign, for their Prosperity. But some think, this Worship was not paid to David, but to Solomon; it being the Manner thus to acknowledge the King, when he was inthroned. So they bowed their Knees to our Saviour, in Mockery of him, as a pretended King.

Ver. 21. And they sacrificed Sacrifices unto the LORD, and offered Burnt-offerings unto the LORD on the Morrow after that Day,] For the Ark was now at Jerusalem, where this great Congregation was assembled, c. xxviii. 1. and therefore they offered Peace-offerings and Burnt-offerings to God in that Place, on the Morrow after their Meeting: For there was not time to do it on that Day, when the foregoing Things were done.

Even a thousand Bullocks, a thousand Rams, and a thousand Lambs, with their Drink-offerings and Sacrifices in Abundance for all Israel:] That is, together with the numerous Burnt-offerings, a great many Peace-offerings (which are here meant by Sacrifices) sufficient for the Entertainment of all the Israelites, who were there present, to feast upon; as the Manner was, and as it follows in the next Verse.

Ver. 22. And did eat and drink before the LORD on that Day with great Gladness,] For the greatest Part of Peace-offerings were given to the Persons that offered them, to entertain their Friends withal, as hath been often observed. And they are said to eat and drink before the LORD, because it was a sacred Feast, kept before the Ark at Jerusalem, the Place which God had chosen, according to the Law, Deut. xii. 11, &c.

And they made Solomon the Son of David King the second time,] This is supposed to have been done after David's Death, when Solomon was anointed for himself, as reigning pleno Jure, in Subjection to none: As he was anointed the first time by David's Command. But there are great Men of another Opinion; that he was twice anointed while David lived: First, in the Presence of a few of David's Servants, as we read 1 Kings i. and now, in the Presence of all the great Men of Israel, the Princes of the Tribes, Captains of Thousands and Hundreds. See Bertram de Repub. Jud. p. 130, 131. And indeed, we are led to this by the Connexion with the foregoing Words: For the Persons who now made him King the second time, were those before-mentioned, who sacrificed and feasted thereupon with great Joy: After David's long Speech to them. Dr. Lightfoot indeed observes, that there is mention three times of Solomon's being made King: Twice in this Book, c. xxiii. 1. and here in this Place: And in 1 Kings i. So that there may be a Question made, Whether he was made King three times, or only twice. But this Place seems to settle the Doubt; for when upon the Aspiring of Adonijah, he was anointed, it was the first time that David shewed who should succeed him. See 1 Kings i. 21, 27. and that must be concurrent, or the same with that making him King mentioned in this Book, c. xxiii. 1. and this anointing in the midst of the Princes and great Commanders, was the second time. Abarbinel is of the same Opinion, that he was anointed at first before a few; and now more publickly before the whole Nation.

And anointed him unto the LORD to be the chief Governor,] After the Death of David, who perhaps now resigned the Government of the Kingdom to him, finding he had not long to live.

And Zadok to be Priest.] This hath inclined many to think the anointing forementioned was after the Death of David: Because Abiathar was not put out of his Office till the beginning of Solomon's Reign. But I see no Reason why we may not think he was anointed to be Priest, as Solomon was to be King in David's Life-time: Tho' he was not actually put into the Office till after he was dead, when Abiathar was thrust out. It was necessary he should be anointed, because the Succession to the High-Priesthood, in the Line of Eleazar, had been long interrupted; and Abiathar of the Line of Ithamar was still alive. This Reason the Jews give why he was anointed; which was not necessary, they say, but in this Case: It being sufficient otherwise, only to cloath him with the Priestly Vestments. But see Selden de Succes. in Pontif. L. ii. cap. 9. who will incline one to be of another Opinion.

Ver. 23. Then Solomon sat on the Throne of the LORD] So the Throne of this Kingdom is called, because this was God's Land, and Israel his People, over whom he still remained their King: And Solomon reigned over them, not by Inheritance, but by his special Appointment. The Targum thus expresses it, He sat upon the Royal Throne, according to the Word of the MEMRA, WORD of the LORD.

As King instead of David his Father, and prospered, and all Israel obeyed him.] From the beginning of his Reign, his People were all obedient to him: Whereas, it was a long Time before Saul could be ſettled on his Throne; and it was longer before all Iſrael ſubmitted to David.

Ver. 24. And all the Princes and the mighty Men,] All the Soldiery, as well as the Heads of the Tribes, and the great Commanders.

And all the Sons likewiſe of King David] Who were then alive.

Submitted themſelves unto Solomon the King.] Sware Allegiance to him. For ſo the Hebrew Phraſe ſignifies, they gave the Hand under Solomon. For putting the Hand under the Knee, or the Thigh of a Perſon, was a Token of Subjection to him: And was anciently uſed, when they ſolemnly promiſed any thing to a Superior, by an Oath, Gen. xxiv. 2. c. xlvii. 29. Which Cuſtom, if it did not continue in Uſe in Solomon's Days, yet that which was ſignified by it, was expreſſed in the ancient Phraſe.

Ver. 25. And the LORD magnified Solomon exceedingly in the Sight of all Iſrael, and beſtowed upon him ſuch Royal Majeſty, as had not been on any King before him in Iſrael.] Which appears from the foregoing Books, which ſhew, that neither David, nor Saul, nor any of the Judges, (who governed before them) lived in ſuch Splendor, as was in the Court of Solomon.

Ver. 26. Thus David the Son of Jeſſe reigned over all Iſrael.] That is, this is a brief Account of what David did during his Reign, eſpecially in the latter End of it.

Ver. 27. And the Time that he reigned over Iſrael, was forty Years; ſeven Years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three Years reigned he in Jeruſalem.] See 2 Sam. v. 5.

Ver. 28. And he died in a good old Age, full of Days, Riches, and Honour:] Abundantly ſatisfied, that he had lived long enough, in as great Plenty and Glory as he could deſire.

And Solomon his Son reigned in his ſtead.] Having this particular Satisfaction, to ſee his Son ſit on his Throne, likely to reign in greater Glory than he had done. This was the LORD's doing, who diſpoſes the Hearts of all the great Men, and his elder Brethren, and the whole Kingdom to ſubmit to him, who was but a young Man.

Ver. 29. Now the Acts of David the King firſt and laſt,] A larger Account of all that he did, from the Beginning to the End of his Reign.

Behold, they are written in the Book of Samuel the Seer, and in the Book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the Book of Gad the Seer.] Here are three diſtinct Titles given to thoſe three Perſons: Samuel being called Roeh, and Nathan is called Nabi, and Gad is called Choſeh. But whether they have diſtinct Significations, denoting ſeveral Ways of receiving Divine Inſpirations, or ſeveral Degrees of it, I am not able to determine. But this we may certainly affirm, with Theodoret (in his Preface to the Book of the Kings) that the Prophets beſides the Edition of their Prophecies, publiſhed alſo very frequently the Hiſtory of their own Times. And Samuel began to write the Life of David, which Nathan and Gad finiſhed: Out of which theſe Things here recorded were extracted.

Ver. 30. With all his Reign and his Might,] That is, how he governed his People, and how he warred with their Enemies; and got glorious Victories over them: With all the reſt that he did, both as a Prophet, and as a King.

And the Times that went over him, and over Iſrael,] All the Troubles which he endured, and which befel the People of Iſrael (which are called Times in Pſalm xxx. 16.) or, more ſimply the meaning may be, all the Revolutions that were in publick Affairs, in his Days.

And over all the Kingdoms of the Countries.] That is, the neighbouring Countries, ſuch as the Philiſtines, Moab, Amalek, Syria, Damaſcus, the Ammonites, &c. The Loſs of which Hiſtory is very much bewailed, but God knows better than we, what was fit to be preſerved for the Uſe and Benefit of his Church.

A COMMENTARY UPON THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

AS there are ſome Things here omitted, which are recorded in the firſt Book of the Kings: So there are ſeveral Things contain'd in this Book, of which no mention is made there; particularly in the Hiſtory of Jehoſhaphat, and Hezekiah. And many other Things there mentioned, are here more fully and clearly explained; as will be obſerved in the Acts of Abijah, Aſa, Joaſh, and other Kings of Judah: Upon which Account St. Hierom ſaith of this Book, it is ſuch, and of ſo great Uſe, that he, who without it, will pretend to the Underſtanding of the Prophets, will expoſe himſelf to Scorn.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. AND Solomon the Son of David was ſtrengthened in his Kingdom,] After the Death of Adonijah and Joab, he was confirmed in his Authority and Government.

And the LORD his God was with him, and magnified him exceedingly.] In the Targum it is paraphraſed, The WORD of the LORD was his Helper, and raiſed him to a great Height of Glory.

Ver. 2. Then Solomon ſpake unto all Iſrael, to the Captains of Thouſands, and of Hundreds, and to the Judges, and to every Governor in all Iſrael, the Chief of the Fathers.] Before that great Aſſembly, mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, in the Midſt of which he was anointed, went home, Solomon diſcourſed with them about his Intentions of going to Gibeon to worſhip God, by offering a great Sacrifice, and deſired them to accompany him.

Ver. 3. So Solomon and all the Congregation with him, went to the High Place that was at Gibeon,] This Verſe ſhews, that this was the Thing about which he ſpake unto them. See 1 Kings iii. 4.

For there was the Tabernacle of the Congregation of God, which Moſes the Servant of the LORD had made in the Wilderneſs.] But it was there without the Ark, which was in the City of David, while the Tabernacle was in Gibeon. How theſe came to be ſeparated, ſo that the Ark was without the Tabernacle and its Veſſels; and the Veſſels, and the Altar with the Tabernacle without the Seat of the Glory of God, is not eaſy to be reſolved. Conradus Pellicanus ſuppoſes, that even then, in thoſe Days, God would have them to know, he did not regard the ceremonious Worſhip, when the People were under the Government and Inſtruction of ſuch Men as Samuel and David: And they were free from Idolatry. Then the LORD did not exact ſo ſtrictly the legal Services, as he did in Times of Peace and Tranquillity, when they were moſt neceſſary for the People; leſt, after their Cuſtom, when they lived in Eaſe and Proſperity, they ſhould fall into Superſtition, and admire the Rites of the Gentiles. And with ſuch Queſtions as theſe he thinks the Jews may be very ſtrongly urged, How came it to paſs that in the Days of Samuel and David, the legal Worſhip was not obſerved more preciſely? How came the Ark to be ſeparated from the Altars, which were made for the Ark, and not the contrary? Who diſpenſed with David to build another Tabernacle for the Ark, and neglect that built by Moſes? And how came Solomon to ſacrifice in another Place, than that which the LORD had choſen?

Ver. 4. But the Ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim, to the Place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a Tent for it at Jeruſalem.] See 2 Sam. vi. 2, 17.

Ver. 5. Moreover, the brazen Altar that Bezaleel the Son of Uri, the Son of Hur, had made, he put before the Tabernacle of the LORD:] One would think that this Altar did not ſtand in its right Place, till Solomon ſet it where it uſed to ſtand: But the Words may be tranſlated as in the Margin, was there before the Tabernacle.

And Solomon and the Congregation ſought unto it.] I think this is better tranſlated by Victorinus Strigelius, Solomon and the Congregation were wont to frequent it; with Sacrifices by which they ſought the Favour of God.

Ver. 6. And Solomon went up thither to the brazen Altar before the LORD, which was at the Tabernacle of the Congregation,] This is ſaid to be before the LORD, tho' the Ark was not there, becauſe God was pleaſed graciouſly to accept the Sacrifices offered before the Place, where he was wont to dwell, tho' wanting the Token of his glorious Preſence.

And offered a thouſand Burnt-offerings upon it.] He offered them by the Miniſtry of the Prieſts. And Burnt-offerings here ſignifies (as Pellicanus with great Reaſon thinks) the Sacrifice of Peace-offerings, the general Name being put for the ſpecial. For it is not reaſonable to think, a thouſand Offerings were wholly burnt upon the Altar: But in all Probability he made a Feaſt for all that were there preſent, as had been done when this great Aſſembly offered ſo freely at his Inauguration, 1 Chron. xxix. 22.

Ver. 7. In that Night did God appear to Solomon,] Immediately after the Offering of theſe Sacrifices.

And ſaid unto him, Aſk what I ſhall give thee.] See 1 Kings iii. 5. This was a Declaration that he accepted his Prayers which accompanied thoſe Sacrifices, and would grant whatſoever he deſired.

Ver. 8. And Solomon ſaid unto God, Thou haſt ſhewed great Mercy unto David my Father, and haſt made me to reign in his Stead.] An admirable Example unto thoſe who make Petitions unto God, that they ſhould in the firſt Place thank him for the great Benefits they have received, 1 Kings iii. 6.

Ver. 9. Now, O LORD God, let thy Promiſe unto David my Father be eſtabliſhed: Viz.] That God would be a Father to him, and make him his Son, 2 Sam. vii. 14.

For thou haſt made me King over a People, like the Duſt of the Earth in Multitude.] 1 Kings iii. 8.

Ver. 10. Give me now Wiſdom and Knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this People:] This is a proverbial Speech, for governing the People, both at Home and Abroad, in Peace and in War. See Num. xxvii. 17. Deut. xxxi. 2.

For who can judge this thy People, that is ſo great?] Among ſuch a numerous People, he knew there would be ſo many, and ſo various and many Times difficult Cauſes brought before him, that it would be impoſſible to hear them and judge aright, without a Divine Spirit. See upon 1 Kings iii. 9.

Ver. 11. And God ſaid to Solomon, Becauſe this was in thine Heart, and thou haſt not aſked Riches, Wealth or Honour, nor the Life of thine Enemies neither yet haſt aſked long Life, but haſt aſked Wiſdom and Knowledge for thy ſelf, that thou mayeſt judge my People, over whom I have made thee King:

Ver. 12. Wiſdom and Knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee Riches, and Wealth, and Honour, ſuch as none of the Kings have had that have been before thee, neither ſhall there any after thee have the like.] Theſe two Verſes have been ſufficiently explained in the ſame Chapter, 1 Kings iii. 11, 12, 13. only it may be obſerv'd he doth not ſay he would give him the Life of his Enemies, becauſe he was to be a peaceable King.

Ver. 13. Then Solomon came from his Journey to the High Place that was at Gibeon, to Jeruſalem, from before the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and reigned over Iſrael.] We put in theſe Words, from his Journey, which was not needful, for the Words may be tranſlated exactly, Solomon came from the High Place, &c. and ſo it follows, from before the Tabernacle. For the Particle Lamed ſignifies not only to but from. So, R. Jonas, whom Kimchi calls a famous Grammarian, ſaith that it is here put for Mem, i. e. from. But Kimchi himſelf is Author of our Tranſlation, who is followed by Junius and Tremellius, and others, but comes to the ſame Purpoſe.

Ver. 14. And Solomon gathered Chariots and Horſemen: and he had a thouſand and four hundred Chariots, and twelve thouſand Horſemen,] See upon 1 Kings x. 26.

Which

Which he placed in the Chariot-Cities, and with the King at Jeruſalem.] The Chariot-Cities were ſuch wherein there was good Paſturage for the Horſes.

Ver. 15. And the King made Silver and Gold at Jeruſalem as plenteous as Stones, and Cedar-trees made he as the Sycomore-trees that are in the Vale for Abundance.] See there, v. 27.

Ver. 16. And Solomon had Horſes brought out of Egypt, and Linen Yarn: the King's Merchants received the Linen Yarn at a Price.

Ver. 17. And they fetcht up, and brought forth out of Egypt a Chariot for ſix hundred Shekels of Silver, and an Horſe for an hundred and fifty: and ſo brought they out Horſes for all the Kings of the Hittites, and for the Kings of Syria, by their Means.] Theſe two Verſes are there alſo explained. See 1 Kings x. 28, 29. From this Place the famous Bochartus gathers, that the Chariots of Egypt in Solomon's Time were drawn by four Horſes: For the Tribute which was exacted for a Chariot, was four Times as much as was paid for a ſingle Horſe. See his Hierozoicon, P. i. Lib. ii. Cap. 9.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. AND Solomon determined to build the Houſe for the Name of the LORD,] Wherein the LORD ſhould be worſhipped: As his Father David had deſigned and directed.

And an Houſe for his Kingdom.] A Royal Palace for himſelf, and thoſe who ſhould ſucceed him. But he finiſhed God's Houſe before he began his own.

Ver. 2. And Solomon told out threeſcore and ten thouſand Men to bear Burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to hew in the Mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred to overſee them.] Here are three hundred more than are mentioned in the Book of the Kings: Concerning which Difference, ſee what I have noted there, (v. 13.) and need not be repeated here.

Ver. 3. And Solomon ſent to Huram the King of Tyre, ſaying, As thou didſt deal with David my Father, and didſt ſend him Cedars to build him an Houſe to dwell therein, even ſo deal with me.] Hiram (as he is called in the Book of the Kings) firſt ſent to him, to congratulate his Succeſſion to the Throne, and then Solomon ſent to him: As I have noted there. See 1 Kings v. 1.

Ver. 4. Behold, I build an Houſe to the Name of the LORD my God,] That is, he purpoſed to build, as it is expreſſed 1 Kings v. 5. and he had alſo diſpoſed things ſo, that he was ready to go about it.

To dedicate it to him,] For his Worſhip and Service.

And to burn before him ſweet Incenſe, and for the continual Shew-Bread,] So this Bread is called in Numb. iv. 7. becauſe it ſtood before the LORD continually, being renewed every Week, as we read Exod. xxv. 30. and other Places.

And for the Burnt-offerings Morning and Evening, on the Sabbaths, and on the new Moons, and on the ſolemn Feaſts of the LORD our God:] He reckons up ſeveral Parts of the Divine Service, which was there to be performed: Hiram, as I have elſewhere obſerved, being no Stranger to the God of Iſrael.

This is an Ordinance for ever to Iſrael.] Which God himſelf had appointed.

Ver. 5. And the Houſe which I build is great: for great is our God above all Gods.] It was no large Structure which he built, but very magnificent; ſuitable to the glorious Majeſty of him that dwelt therein.

Ver. 6. But who is able to build him an Houſe, ſeeing the Heaven, and Heaven of Heavens cannot contain him?] He would not have Hiram imagine, that he had ſuch low Notions of God, as to think he could be confined and comprehended in any Houſe, tho' ever ſo large, being immenſe beyond all Conception.

Who am I then that I ſhould build him an Houſe, ſave only to burn Sacrifice before him?] It would have been an high Preſumption then, for him, or any Man elſe, to build him an Houſe, for any other End, but only for his Worſhippers to aſſemble there; he being pleaſed in a ſpecial Manner to be preſent in that Place. The Targum thus paraphraſes this, The Heavens are the Throne of his Glory, the Earth is his Footſtool, the Abyſs, and all People are ſupported by the Spirit of his WORD. Which carries in it a Notion which the Author had of the ever-bleſſed Trinity.

Ver. 7. Send me now, therefore, a Man cunning to work in Gold, and in Silver, and in Braſs, and in Iron, and in Purple, and Crimſon, and Blue, and that can ſkill to grave with the cunning Men that are with me in Judah and in Jeruſalem, whom David my Father did provide.] There were admirable Artiſts in all theſe Works, at Tyre: Whom he deſired to be ſent to him; that they might aſſiſt thoſe whom David had provided, but were not ſo ſkilful as thoſe of Tyre.

Ver. 8. Send me alſo Cedar-trees, Fir-trees, and Algum-trees out of Lebanon:] Or, Almug-trees, concerning which, ſee what I have noted upon 1 Kings x. 11. To which may be added, that Beckius hath lately conjectur'd, This was a Tree brought originally out of Arabia, as the Prefix al notes. And then it was brought out of that Ophir which was in Arabia, and planted in Lebanon. For there, this Place tells us, theſe Trees grew, as well as Cedars and Firs.

(For I know, that thy Servants can ſkill to cut Timber in Lebanon) and behold my Servants ſhall be with thy Servants.] The Tyrians were more expert in cutting down and hewing Timber (they dealing much in it) and therefore he deſires to entertain them as his principal Workmen, with whom he ſhould join.

Ver. 9. Even to prepare me Timber in Abundance: for the Houſe which I am about to build, ſhall be wonderful great.] In the Hebrew, Great and wonderful. This relates not ſo much to the Bigneſs of it (tho' taking in all the Courts belonging to it, it was of large extent) but to the admirable Contrivance, and Riches of it.

Ver. 10. And behold, I will give to thy Servants the Hewers, that cut Timber, twenty thouſand Meaſures of beaten Wheat,] That is, of Wheat ground, or fine Flour, as R. Jonas, a famous Grammarian, expounds it; whom many Chriſtians follow.

And twenty thouſand Meaſures of Barley, and twenty thouſand Baths of Wine, and twenty thouſand

ſand Baths of Oil.] All this was Proviſion for the Workmen; for whoſe Subſiſtence Solomon took Care, during their Labour: Beſides what he gave to Hiram every Year, for his Houſehold. See upon 1 Kings v. 11. What this Meaſure, called Corus, was, is uncertain: But many learned Men think it the ſame with an Omer; which was the moſt ancient Word. For, we never find the other uſed in the Books of Moſes, nor in the Prophets; but only in Ezekiel (xlv. 14.) and in the Books of the Kings, Chronicles, and Ezra. But Joſephus and the LXX often have the Word Corus inſtead of Omer, which was the largeſt Meaſure of dry Things, containing, as Epiphanius ſaith, thirty Buſhels.

Ver. 11. Then Huram, the King of Tyre, anſwered in Writing, which he ſent to Solomon, Becauſe the Lord hath loved his People, he hath made thee King over them.

Ver. 12. Huram ſaid moreover, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, that made Heaven and Earth, who hath given to David the King a wiſe Son, endued with Prudence, and Underſtanding, that he might build an Houſe for the LORD, and an Houſe for his Kingdom.] From theſe two Verſes, Victorinus Strigelius thought it certain, that Huram was a Proſelyte to the true Religion: Becauſe he firſt of all, owns the God of Iſrael to be JEHOVAH, the Maker of Heaven and Earth; for none but the Iſraelites called God by that Name, and when they would diſtinguiſh him from Idols and all Creatures, they confeſs him to be the Creator of the World, as Huram here doth. And, ſecondly, he congratulates the Iſraelites the Happineſs they enjoy'd under ſuch a King, which was the Effect of his Love to God and his Church. And, laſtly, he declared his Love to the Church, not only in Embaſſies, and Letters, but in real Acts of Kindneſs, ſending to Solomon Materials to build the Houſe of God, and Artificers the beſt in the World. But the firſt of theſe Reaſons is not good; for as my moſt learned Friend Dr. Alix hath obſerved to me, the Name of Jehovah was known to the Tyrians from the Time of Gideon, as we learn from the Words of Sanchoniathon.

Ver. 13. And now I have ſent a cunning Man (endued with Underſtanding) of Huram my Fathers.] A Man of great Skill and long Experience, being the principal Workman employed by his Father. So the Targum ſeems to underſtand the Word Abi to ſignify a Maſter or chief Workman. But Beckius upon this Place, thinks it moſt probable, that Abi was his Surname, as we call it: And tranſlate this Verſe, He ſent him a Man of great Skill, viz. Huram Abi. For it was very common among the Eaſtern People, to call Men by the Name of Ab, and Abi, or Aba, and Abu, as he obſerves. And thus Luther tranſlates theſe Words, Huram Abi; to whom may be added Emanuel Sa, a Perſon very ſkilful in this Language.

Ver. 14. The Son of a Woman of the Daughters of Dan, and his Father was a Man of Tyre,] The Targum ſaith, ſhe was a Woman of the Tribe of Naphtali; becauſe 'tis ſaid ſo in 1 Kings vii. 14. and therefore he reconciles theſe two Places; by a Daughter of Dan, he means of a Man called Dan, who was of the Tribe of Naphtali: Which being near to Tyre, ſhe married one of that Nation. Or, as Jarchi and Kimchi will have it, he was a Jew, but dwelt at Tyre: As Obed-edom was called a Gittite, becauſe he dwelt in Gath, but was a Levite. See my Notes upon 1 Kings vii. 14.

Skilful to work in Gold, and in Silver, in Braſs, in Iron, in Stone, and in Timber, in Purple, in Blue, and in fine Linen, and in Crimſon: alſo to grave any Manner of Graving, and to find out every Device which ſhall be put to him,] Theſe laſt Words argue this Man to have been a great Artiſt, who could contrive any Thing that was propounded to him, though never wrought before.

With thy cunning Men, and with the cunning Men of my Lord David thy Father.] This ſeems another Argument, that Huram was of the true Religion, becauſe he honoured David with the Name of his Lord; as he doth Solomon in the next Verſe. Or, as others think, he was become tributary to them; his Country very much depending upon them for Corn.

Ver. 15. Now therefore, the Wheat and the Barley, and the Oyl, and the Wine which my Lord hath ſpoken of, let him ſend unto his Servants:] For their Support in their Labour.

Ver. 16. And we will cut Wood out of Lebanon, as much as thou ſhalt need, and we will bring it to thee in Flotes by Sea to Joppa, and thou ſhalt carry it up to Jeruſalem.] The Hebrew Word Rapſodoth (which we tranſlate Flotes) is of the ſame Signification with Daberoth, 1 Kings v. 9. as a learned Jew notes. By which are meant, Timber bound together, which was drawn thro' the Sea and thro' Rivers. Such Flotes were uſed, eſpecially in the River Tygris (as Beckius here notes out of an Hebrew Author) which was ſo ſwift, that Veſſels were wont to be overturned by the Stream: And therefore they employed theſe Flotes alone, made of Reeds tied cloſe together; upon which both Men and Burdens went down the River. See my Notes upon 1 Kings v. 9.

Ver. 17. And Solomon numbred all the Strangers that were in the Land of Iſrael, after the numbring wherewith David his Father had numbred them; and they were found an hundred and fifty thouſand, and three thouſand and ſix hundred.] Theſe were the Reliques (as Kimchi thinks) of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuſites, mentioned afterwards c. viii. 7. But they were not Idolaters; for then David would not have ſuffered them to dwell in the Land: But they worſhipped God alone, tho' they did not embrace the Jewiſh Religion wholly, by being circumciſed. Thoſe David had numbred, that he might know their Strength and their Condition. Which did not proceed from ſuch Vanity, as moved him to number his own People, but out of a prudent Care, that they might be diſtinguiſhed from Jews, and be employed in ſuch Work, as he did not think fit to put upon the Iſraelites. See 1 Chron. xxii. 2.

Ver. 18. And he ſet threeſcore and ten thouſand of them to be Bearers of Burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to be Hewers in the Mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred Overſeers to ſet the People a-work.] This he had ſaid before, v. 2. but now relates of what Condition they were, who were put to theſe ſervile Employments. They

that were the Overſeers (whom the LXX call ἐργοδιώκται) were, I ſuppoſe, of the Children of Iſrael.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. THEN Solomon began to build the Houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem in Mount Moriah,] See what I have noted concerning Moriah, upon Gen. xxii. 2. To which may be here added, That Part of this Mountain was in the Tribe of Judah, and Part of it in the Tribe of Benjamin: So that the Temple is aſcribed to them both. To Judah, in Pſalm lxxviii. 68, 69. to Benjamin, Deut. xxxiii. 12. For the greateſt Part of the Courts were in the Tribe of Judah: But the Altar, the Porch, the moſt holy Part of the Temple, where the Ark and the Cherubims were, in the Tribe of Benjamin.

Where the LORD appeared unto David his Father, in the Place that David had prepared in the Threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.] The Targum here derives the Sanctity of this Place from many noble Things that were done there in ancient Times. For in this Place, ſaith he, Abraham worſhipped the Name of the LORD, and here he offered up his Son Iſaac, but he was delivered by the MEMRA (the WORD) of the LORD, and a Ram ſubſtituted in his Place. Here Jacob prayed when he fled from his Brother Eſau; and here the Angel appeared to David, and ordered him to offer Sacrifice in the Threſhing-floor of Ornan. By which Appearance and Sacrifice this Mountain was conſecrated to be a Place where the Temple ſhould be built. See 1 Chron. xxi. 26. But Maimonides (in his Treatiſe of the Building of the Temple) carries this a great deal higher. For here, ſaith he, Noah built an Altar when he came out of the Ark, (as Abraham did when he offered his Son) yea, here Cain and Abel offered their Sacrifices, as Adam the firſt Man had done before them. And more than that, he will have it, that he was created in this Place; whence the Saying of their wiſe Men, Man was made in the very Place of his Expiation. But this is unworthy of Maimonides, who is not wont to follow ſuch Conceits as this, which is borrowed from a fooliſh Book called Pirke Elieſer.

Ver. 2. And he began to build in the ſecond Day of the ſecond Month, in the fourth Year of his Reign.] See 1 Kings vi. 1. In the preceding Winter it was not fit to build, and in the firſt Month the Paſchal Feaſt hindred, as Jarchi here obſerves. And Dr. Alix takes this to have been a Sabbatick Year, in which the People were free from the Tillage of their Ground.

Ver. 3. Now theſe are the Things wherein Solomon was inſtructed for the building of the Houſe of God.] He had been inſtructed by David his Father, who gave him a Model, according to which he built it. See 1 Chron. xxviii. 11, &c. The Targum tranſlates theſe Words very clearly, which in the Hebrew are a little obſcure, Theſe are the Dimenſions of the Foundation of the Temple, which Solomon began to build. So in our Margin we tranſlate the Word, not inſtructed, but founded. And thus, Beckius thinks, it is moſt properly to be underſtood, becauſe Solomon did not receive from his Father a Delineation of the whole Fabrick of the Temple, but only of the Porch, and of the Courts, and ſome other Things: As the forenamed Place tells us.

The Length by Cubits after the firſt Meaſure, was threeſcore Cubits, and the Breadth twenty Cubits.] He projected the Sanctuary, and the Oracle, both together; and in their firſt Deſcription they were to be in Length ſixty Cubits: That is, forty for the Sanctuary, and twenty for the moſt holy Place. Or, as ſome think, by the firſt Meaſure, is here meant that Meaſure which Moſes followed in building of the Tabernacle: For in proceſs of Time, the Cubits altered, and were larger. See 1 Kings vi. 2. But this is doubtful.

Ver. 4. And the Porch that was in the Front of the Houſe, the Length of it was according to the Breadth of the Houſe, twenty Cubits,] So we read expreſly, 1 Kings vi. 2. that the Breadth was twenty Cubits.

And the Height was an hundred and twenty:] This is a very different Account from that in the Book of the Kings, where it is ſaid to be thirty Cubits. But Abendana hath briefly ſummed up what their Authors ſay to reconcile theſe two Places. Some think it probable, that the Porch was but thirty Cubits high, but the whole Temple higher. Thus Kimchi. Others, that the Porch and all were of the ſame Height: But from the Foundation to the Roof was but thirty Cubits: Tho' above the Roof there were ὑπερῷα, Upper-rooms, which were ninety Cubits high. See upon 1 Kings vi. 3. And indeed it is not likely, that this Houſe is lower than the ſecond Temple, which by the Command of Cyrus was to be threeſcore Cubits. Ezra vi. 3. And ſee Joſephus Lib. vii. Cap. 8.

And he overlaid it within with pure Gold.] As he did the reſt of the Houſe.

Ver. 5. And the greater Houſe he cieled with Fir-tree, which he overlaid with fine Gold, and ſet thereon Palm-trees and Chains.] By the greater Houſe he means the Sanctuary, or holy Place: Which was larger than the moſt Holy, as was before noted.

Ver. 6. And he garniſhed the Houſe with precious Stones for Beauty:] This ſhews the Uſe to which the precious Stones, that were dedicated by David, and by his Princes, were employed, 1 Chron. xxix. 2, 8. which ſerved not merely for the Garments of the High-Prieſt, but for the Houſe itſelf, which was garniſhed with them. Tho' I do not know, but the Obſervation of Bochartus may be true, that theſe Stones are called precious Stones, tho' they were common, becauſe they excelled the reſt in Greatneſs, Fineneſs, and in their poliſhing, Hierozoicon, P. ii. Lib. v. Cap. 7.

And the Gold was Gold of Parvaim.] It is a great Miſtake of Abraham Mylius, and others, who take this Place to have been Peru: Which the great Man now mentioned hath proved to be Taprobana, (ſee upon 1 Kings ix. 26.) which was called Parvaim, and with a ſmall Change, Parvan, and Provan: From whence he conjectures came the Name of Taprobana, which is compounded of Taph (which in Arabick ſignifies a Shore or Coaſt) and Parvan, Lib. ii. Phaleg.

leg. Cap. 28. The Jews, after their Manner, ſay the Gold was called the Gold of Parvaim, becauſe it was of a deep red Colour, like the Blood of Parim, that is, Bullocks, and ſignifies the moſt excellent Gold; as L'Empereur notes upon Middoth: Though others of them ſay it was a Place.

Ver. 7. He overlaid alſo the Houſe, the Beams, the Poſts, and the Walls thereof, and the Doors thereof with Gold, and graved Cherubims on the Walls.] See 1 Kings vi. 21, 22, 29.

Ver. 8. And he made the moſt holy Houſe, the Length whereof was according to the breadth of the Houſe, twenty Cubits, and the Breadth thereof twenty Cubits: and he overlaid with Gold amounting to ſix hundred Talents.] The very ſame is ſaid, 1 Kings vi. 20. only here is added the Quantity of Gold, which he expended upon this Place, which was very great.

Ver. 9. And the Weight of the Nails was fifty Shekels of Gold:] Each Nail, I ſuppoſe, whereby the Plates of Gold were faſtened to the Boards, coſt fifty Shekels.

And he overlaid the upper Chambers with Gold.] Theſe ſeem to be the Chambers mentioned 1 Chron. xxviii. 11. of which David gave him a Model. But Dr. Lightfoot thinks, that over the holy Place there were no Chambers at all, in the Temple of Solomon, but it was all open to the Roof. Over the moſt holy Place, indeed there was an upper Room of ten Cubits high; but why that ſhould be called Chambers in the plural Number, and why it ſhould be overlaid with Gold, ſince there was none came into it, nor any way to come there, is not eaſy to apprehend. And as for the ſide Chambers that were on the Outſide of the Houſe, there was no Reaſon they ſhould be overlaid with Gold, ſince they were Places, wherein their Corn, and Wine, and Tythes, and Firſt-Fruits, and ſuch like Things were laid up. Therefore by the Hebrew Word Eljoth we are not to underſtand upper Chambers, but the upper Floor, or the Roof of the Holy and moſt holy Place; which were overlaid with Gold every where; both the Floor on which they trod, and the Walls round about, and the Roof over-head. See his Temple-Service. Chap. xv. Sect. 3.

Ver. 10. And in the moſt holy Houſe he made two Cherubims of Image Work,] I do not know why we thus tranſlate the laſt Words, for the Hebrew which we tranſlate Image, hath nothing of that Signification in it: Unleſs we take the Word Zaazum to be the ſame with Zeeazim. which ſome of the Jews ſay, ſignifies their Faces were like to Boys. And accordingly many underſtand theſe Words, they had the Figure of Youths, or Boys. But Beckius, upon the Targum, in this Place ſeems to me to have given a more rational Account of the Word, which he derives from the Root Zaa, and tranſlates it the Work of Motions, or moveable Work, for they ſtood upon their Feet, ver. 13. as ready to move. In which he follows Porſterus and Buxtorfius.

And overlaid them with Gold.] For they were made of Olive Wood, and were not like thoſe of Moſes, of beaten Gold. See upon 1 Kings vi. 23, 28.

Ver. 11. And the Wings of the Cherubims were twenty Cubits long: one Wing of the one Cherub was five Cubits, reaching to the Wall of the Houſe: and the other Wing was likewiſe five Cubits, reaching to the Wing of the other Cherub.

Ver. 12. And one Wing of the other Cherub was five Cubits, reaching to the Wall of the Houſe: and the other Wing was five Cubits, alſo joining to the Wing of the other Cherub.

Ver. 13. And the Wings of theſe Cherubims ſpread forth themſelves twenty Cubits:] See theſe three Verſes explained, 1 Kings vi. 24, 25, 26. where the Height of theſe Cherubims is alſo ſet down.

And they ſtood on their Feet,] See 1 Kings vi. 26.

And their Faces were inward.] In the Hebrew, towards the Houſe: That is, toward the inner Houſe, or holy Place, as Jarchi expounds it: Whoſe Words are, Their Heads were not erect, that they ſhould look outwards; but they bended down, that they might look one upon another.

Ver. 14. And he made a Vail of Blue, and Purple, and Crimſon, and fine Linen, and wrought Cherubims thereon. That is, the Vail before the moſt holy Place; which is the Partition mentioned in 1 Kings vii. 21.

Ver. 15. Alſo he made before the Houſe,] Before the Entrance into the Sanctuary.

Two Pillars of thirty and five Cubits high,] They were not each of them thus high, but both of them together, as it is explained 1 Kings vii. 15.

And the Chapiter that was on the Top of each of them, was five Cubits.] In the Form of a Crown, as the Targum expreſſes it. See 1 Kings vii. 16.

Ver. 16. And he made Chains, as in the Oracle,] See 1 Kings vi. 21.

And put them on the Heads of the Pillars, and made an hundred Pomegranates, and put them on the Chains.] There were an hundred in two Rows, two hundred in all. See 1 Kings vii. 20.

Ver. 17. And he reared up the Pillars before the Temple, one on the right Hand, and the other on the left; and called the Name of that on the right Hand, Jachin, and the Name of that on the left, Boaz.] See 1 Kings vii. 21. The Targum on theſe Words make this Commentary; he called the one Jachin, becauſe Nachon, the Kingdom of the Houſe of David was eſtabliſhed; and the other Boaz, from the Name of the Patriarch of that Royal Houſe of Judah, from whom all their Kings were derived.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. Moreover, he made an Altar of Braſs, twenty Cubits the length thereof, and twenty Cubits the breadth thereof, and ten Cubits the height thereof.] The making this Altar ſo many Cubits high, may ſeem to contradict God's Command, Exod. xx. 26. But ſee what I have noted there, to ſhew how the Aſcent might be ſo contrived, that the Prieſt's Nakedneſs ſhould not be diſcovered. The making it of Braſs alſo, was, no doubt, by the Direction of God, who told David how ſuch Things ſhould be made, 1 Chron. xxviii. as L'Empereur very well obſerves.

Ver. 2. Alſo he made a molten Sea of ten Cubits from brim to brim, round in compaſs, and five Cubits the height thereof, and a Line of thirty Cubits did compaſs it round about.] This, and the following Verſes are explained 1 Kings vii. 23.

Ver. 3. And under it was the Similitude of Oxen, which did compaſs it round about, ten in a Cubit compaſſing the Sea round about,] Theſe Oxen are called Knops in 1 Kings vii. 24. which were little Protuberances, or Bunches round about the Lips of the Laver, in the Figure of Oxen. There were ten of them in every Cubit, and the Circumference being thirty Cubits, there were three hundred of them in one Row: And they being caſt in two Rows one under another, were ſix hundred in all.

Two Rows of Oxen, were caſt, when it was caſt.] They were not faſtened on afterward, but caſt together with the Veſſel itſelf. So Kimchi, and Jarchi. The latter of which thus explains it: They were not joined to it by Nails or Soder, but all caſt together with the Sea.

Ver. 4. It ſtood upon twelve Oxen, three looking toward the North, and three looking toward the Weſt, and three looking toward the South, and three looking toward the Eaſt: and the Sea was ſet above upon them, and all their hinder Parts were inward.] See upon 1 Kings vii. 25.

Ver. 5. And the Thickneſs of it was an Hand breadth, and the Brim of it like the Work of the Brim of a Cup, with Flowers of Lilies, and it received and held three thouſand Baths.] See this Account reconciled with that in 1 Kings vii. 26. The Targum here thus paraphraſes, Three thouſand Baths of Things dry, and two thouſand of Things liquid. But others better explain it, that the Quantity of Water which was commonly in it, was two thouſand Baths; but if it were filled up to the Top, it would hold three thouſand.

Ver. 6. He made alſo ten Lavers, and put five on the right Hand, and five on the left, to waſh in them: ſuch things as they offered for the Burnt-offering, they waſhed in them; but the Sea was for the Prieſts to waſh in.] See there, 1 Kings vii. 38, 39.

Ver. 7. And he made ten Candleſticks of Gold,] See upon 1 Kings vii. 49.

According to their Form, and ſet them in the Temple, five on the right Hand, and five on the left.] Thoſe Words according to their Form, are thus tranſlated by the Targum, As was convenient or agreeable to them. Or the meaning may be, According to the Pattern which David gave him.

Ver. 8. He made alſo ten Tables, and placed them in the Temple, five on the right Side, and five on the left: and he made an hundred Baſons of Gold.] See upon 1 Kings vii. 48. Some have obſerved, that there was the very ſame Furniture made by Solomon for the moſt holy Place, that was made by Moſes; but in the holy Place there was an Augmentation made of ten Candleſticks, and ten Tables. But they ſhould have remembred, that Solomon alſo added two Cherubims, and of a larger Size, to the moſt holy Place, which were not there before.

Ver. 9. Furthermore, he made the Court of the Prieſts, and the great Court, and Doors for the Court, and overlaid the Doors of them with Braſs:] See 1 Kings vi. 36. where the Court of the Prieſts is called the inner Court, it being next the Sanctuary: And by the great Court here is meant the Court of the People, to which he made Doors.

Ver. 10. And he ſet the Sea on the right Side of the Eaſt End, over againſt the South;] See my Notes upon 1 Kings vii. 39.

Ver. 11. And Huram made the Pots, and the Shovels, and the Baſons, and Huram finiſhed the Work that he was to make for King Solomon for the Houſe of God:] See there, 1 Kings vii. 40. He did not ſtir from the Work, but finiſhed it all before he left Solomon's Service.

Ver. 12. To wit, the two Pillars, and the Pommels,] Or, the Globes, as we now ſpeak, and as the Targum tranſlates it.

And the Chapiters which were on the Top of the two Pillars, and the two Wreaths to cover the two Pommels of the Chapiters which were on the Top of the Pillars,] This is there explained, 1 Kings vii. 41.

Ver. 13. And four hundred Pomegranates on the two Wreaths, &c.] See ver. 42.

Ver. 14. And he made Baſes, &c.] See ver. 43.

Ver. 15. One Sea, and twelve Oxen under it,] See ver. 44.

Ver. 16. The Pots alſo, and the Shovels, and the Fleſh-hooks, and all their Inſtruments, did Huram his Father make to King Solomon for the Houſe of the LORD, of bright Braſs.] In the 1 Kings vii. 45. it is ſaid, which Hiram made: And that's the meaning here; for the Words are beſt tranſlated Hiram Abi, or Abif did make. See upon c. ii. 13. which ſeems more eaſy than other Expoſitions which may be given of the Words. For ſome think Solomon calls him his Father, out of great Reſpect to him; or, becauſe he was the Inventor of all this excellent Work, (as in Gen. iv. 20, 21.) or it is a ſhort Speech, for Hiram and his Father.

Ver. 17. In the Plain of Jordan did the King caſt them, in the Clay Ground between Succoth and Zaredathah.] See 1 Kings vii. 46.

Ver. 18. Thus Solomon made all theſe Veſſels in great Abundance,] More for Ornament and Grandeur than for neceſſary Uſe.

For the Weight of the Braſs could not be found out.] See 1 Kings vii. 47.

Ver. 19. And Solomon made all the Veſſels that were for the Houſe of God.] That is, for the Sanctuary.

The golden Altar alſo, and the Tables whereon the Shew-bread was ſet.] One Table only was made by Moſes, but Solomon made ten (ver. 8.) for the greater Convenience of the Prieſts in their Miniſtration: That they might have a Table at Hand, whereon to ſet the Bread which they took off, when they ſet on new upon the Table of Shew-bread. But it is not improbable, that Tables in the Plural are put for Table in the Singular, and that he ſpeaks of that on which the Bread ſtood before the LORD. Which, I ſuppoſe, was of Gold, as the other were of Silver.

Ver. 20. Moreover, the Candleſticks with their Lamps, that they ſhould burn after the Manner,] Which God had appointed in the Law of Moſes.

Before the Oracle, of pure Gold;] Here the Targum calls the Oracle, the Houſe of Expiations:

Becauſe into this moſt holy Place the High-Prieſt went with the Blood, to make Atonement on the great Day of Expiation.

Ver. 21. And the Flowers, and the Lamps, and the Tongs made he of Gold, and that perfect Gold.] The Hebrew Word Miklot, which ſignifies Perfection, denotes Gold moſt purified, as Kimchi ſaith their Doctors expound it. But he thinks it ſignifies ſimply, all theſe Veſſels were of Gold.

Ver. 22. And the Snuffers, and the Baſons, and the Spoons, and the Cenſers of pure Gold:] See upon 1 Kings vii. 50.

And the Entry of the Houſe, the inner Doors thereof for the moſt holy Place, and the Doors of the Houſe of the Temple were of Gold.] They were not intirely of maſſy Gold, but of Wood (as we read 1 Kings vi. 31, &c.) covered with Plates of Gold, ver. 35. and ſee 1 Kings xviii. 16.

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. THUS all the Work that Solomon made for the Houſe of the LORD, was finiſhed: and Solomon brought in all the Things that David his Father had dedicated; and the Silver, and the Gold, and all the Inſtruments, put he among the Treaſures of the Houſe of God.] See 1 Kings vii. 51. David, we read, 1 Chron. xxii. 14. made ſuch vaſt Preparations for building of this Houſe, that there was more than could be ſpent in the Work. What remained therefore, Solomon would not employ to his own Uſe, but laid it up in the Treaſures of God's Houſe.

Ver. 2. Then Solomon aſſembled the Elders of Iſrael, and all the Heads of the Tribes, the Chief of the Fathers of the Children of Iſrael unto Jeruſalem, to bring up the Ark of the Covenant of the LORD, out of the City of David which is in Zion.] See 1 Kings viii. 1.

Ver. 3. Wherefore all the Men of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves unto the King] That is, all the Perſons fore-mentioned.

In the Feaſt, which was in the ſeventh Month.] 1 Kings viii. 2. The Feaſt of Tabernacles, which they kept ſeven Days; and the Feaſt of Dedication, which laſted as many, c. vii. 9.

Ver. 4. And all the Elders of Iſrael came, and the Levites took up the Ark.] That is, they whoſe Office it was to carry it.

Ver. 5. And they brought up the Ark, and the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and all the holy Veſſels that were in the Tabernacle, theſe did the Prieſts and the Levites bring up.] See 1 Kings viii. 3.

Ver. 6. Alſo King Solomon and all the Congregation of Iſrael that were aſſembled unto him before the Ark, ſacrificed Sheep and Oxen, which could not be told nor numbred for Multitude.] See 1 Kings viii. 5. The Obſervation of Victorinus Strigelius upon this Hiſtory is very pious: That nothing is more lovely in human Things, than ſuch Concord as here appeared among all Orders of Men; both of Teachers and Learners, Magiſtrates, Soldiers, and People, who were all combined to promote the Service and Honour of God. Such Unity ought to be ſtudied by Chriſtian People, that we may be all one, as our Saviour prayed!

Ver. 7. And the Prieſts brought in the Ark of tht Covenant of the LORD unto his Place, to the Oracle of the Houſe in the moſt holy Place, even under the Wings of the Cherubims.] The very ſame Words are in 1 Kings viii. 6. See there.

Ver. 8. For the Cherubims ſpread forth their Wings over the Place of the Ark, and the Cherubims covered the Ark and the Staves thereof above.] And this Verſe alſo is the ſame with 1 Kings viii. 7.

Ver. 9. And they drew out the Staves of the Ark, that the Ends of the Staves were ſeen from the Ark before the Oracle, but they were not ſeen without. And there it is unto this Day.] Or, they are there, as the Margin hath it out of 1 Kings viii. 8. where there are the ſame Words. And when that Book was written, they were exactly true; but when this Author tranſcribed them into this Book, after the Captivity, there was then neither Staves, nor Ark remaining. Therefore he only relates how Solomon ſettled Things. See my Notes there.

Ver. 10. There was nothing in the Ark ſave the two Tables which Moſes put therein at Horeb, when the LORD made a Covenant with the Children of Iſrael, when they came out of Egypt.] Theſe Words alſo are there explained. See 1 Kings viii. 10.

Ver. 11. And it came to paſs when the Prieſts were come out of the holy Place,] Whither they carried the Ark, and ſet it in its Place.

For all the Prieſts that were preſent were ſanctified, and did not then wait by Courſe.] As David had appointed in the ordinary Service at the Temple. But upon this extraordinary Occaſion they all attended (tho' it was not their Courſe) at leaſt as many as could, and were ſanctified to do all the Duties of this great Day. For, as Kimchi obſerves, there were ſuch a Multitude of Sacrifices offered, that the Service of them all was neceſſary.

Ver. 12. Alſo the Levites which were the Singers, all of them of Aſaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, with their Sons and their Brethren; being arrayed in white Linen, having Cymbals, and Pſalteries, and Harps,] According to their ſeveral Families, as the Targum well explains it, viz. thoſe of the Family of Aſaph, &c.

Stood at the Eaſt End of the Altar,] Where the Talmudiſts ſay there were two Deſks for them to ſtand in and ſing. One of which had fifteen Steps, on which they ſung thoſe Songs, called the Songs of Degrees or Steps. For there is no better Account, L' Empereur thinks, can be given of that Name.

And with them an hundred and twenty Prieſts ſounding with Trumpets.] Who joined with the Levites it appears by the next Verſe in praiſing God.

Ver. 13. It came even to paſs as the Trumpeters and Singers were as one, to make one Sound to be heard in praiſing and thanking the LORD,] When they were all ready, as one Man, to make with one Voice a loud Sound.

And when they lift up their Voice with the Trumpets and Cymbals, and Inſtruments of Muſick, and praiſed the LORD, ſaying,] As ſoon as they began to ſound, and play on the Inſtruments, and ſing the following Words.

For he is good, for his Mercy endureth for ever:] Many think they ſung the whole Pſalm, which thus begins, O give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good, &c. And ſo the LXX in this Place, ἐξομολογεῖσθε τῷ Κυρίῳ, &c. And the Vulgar in like Manner.

That then the Houſe was filled with a Cloud, even the Houſe of the LORD;] In the Hebrew there is nothing anſwering to the Word even: But the whole may be thus plainly rendred, The Houſe was filled, with the Cloud of the Houſe of the LORD. That is, with the Cloud that was wont to be in the moſt holy Place, and was the Token of the gracious Preſence and Favour of the Divine Majeſty among them.

Ver. 14. So that the Prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter by reaſon of the Cloud: for the Glory of the LORD had filled the Houſe of God.] See 1 Kings viii. 19. It is a pious Reflection, which Victorinus Strigelius makes upon this Place: Which admoniſheth us, ſaith he, Firſt, of the Preſence of God in his Church; and, Secondly, of the Abrogation of the Levitical Worſhip. It is a moſt ſweet Promiſe of our Saviour, Where two or three are gathered in my Name, I will be there preſent in the midſt of them. Thus when the Levites here ſung his Praiſes, the Houſe of God was filled with a Cloud, which was the Token of his Preſence: And when the Auditors of the Apoſtles prayed, (Acts iv. 31.) the whole Houſe where they were aſſembled was ſhaken, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt: But the Levitical Prieſts being unable to diſcharge their Office, after the Majeſty of the LORD filled the Houſe; it was a plain Signification that their Miniſtry and Way of Worſhip ſhould ceaſe, when the Meſſiah came, in whom the Fulneſs of the Godhead dwelt bodily.

CHAP. VI.

Ver. 1. THEN ſaid Solomon, the LORD hath ſaid that he would dwell in the thick Darkneſs.] When Solomon ſaw that Token of the Divine Preſence, he made this Speech to the Prieſts. See 1 Kings viii. 12. and the following Verſes. For there is little in this Chapter, but what is there explained: The Senſe, and commonly the very Words being the ſame. The Paraphraſe of the Targum upon theſe Words is very remarkable, which is this, The LORD would have his SHECHINAH, or glorious Preſence, to reſide in his City Jeruſalem, in his Sanctuary, which I have built to the Name of his WORD; and behold a thick Cloud covereth it. This Notion of God's dwelling in Darkneſs was among the Heathen (who hence learn'd it) for Juſtin Martyr obſerves, that Orpheus and another ancient Writer, call God Παγκρυφον, altogether hidden. And the Lacedæmonians, who pretend to be of Kin to the Jews, had a Temple dedicated to Ζεὺς Σκοτινὸς, Jupiter the Dark, as Strabo relates out of Pauſanias. See Meurſ. Miſcell. Lacon. L. i. C. 1.

Ver. 2. But I have built an Houſe of Habitation for thee, and a Place for thy dwelling for ever.] See there, 1 Kings viii. 13.

Ver. 3. And the King turned his Face, and bleſſed the whole Congregation of Iſrael, (and all the Congregation of Iſrael ſtood)] Who were in the great Court before the Houſe. See there, ver. 14.

Ver. 4. And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, who hath with his Hands fulfilled that which he ſpake with his Mouth to my Father David, ſaying,] The ſame with what is there ſaid, ver. 15.

Ver. 5. Since the Day that I brought forth my People out of the Land of Egypt, I choſe no City among all the Tribes of Iſrael to build an Houſe in, that my Name might be there, neither choſe I any Man to be a Ruler over my People Iſrael.] The laſt Words of this Verſe, are very different from thoſe 1 Kings viii. 16. where it is ſaid, but I choſe David to be over my People Iſrael. Till whoſe Time there was no ſettled Succeſſion of a Ruler, that he, and his Poſterity ſhould reign over them; but God raiſed up Judges out of what Tribe and Family he pleaſed: And when he made Saul King, did not continue that Dignity in his Family, as he did to David.

Ver. 6. But I have choſen Jeruſalem, that my Name might be there, and have choſen David to be over my People Iſrael.] But now he declared both the City wherein he would dwell, and alſo the Perſon and Family, whom he would have to govern Iſrael.

Ver. 7. Now it was in the Heart of David my Father to build an Houſe for the Name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

Ver. 8. But the LORD ſaid to David my Father, Foraſmuch as it was in thine Heart to build an Houſe for my Name, thou didſt well in that it was in thine Heart.

Ver. 9. Notwithſtanding thou ſhalt not build the Houſe, but thy Son which ſhall come forth out of thy Loins, he ſhall build the Houſe for my Name.

Ver. 10. The LORD therefore hath performed his Word that he hath ſpoken: for I am riſen up in the room of David my Father, and am ſet on the Throne of Iſrael, as the LORD promiſed, and have built the Houſe for the Name of the LORD God of Iſrael.] All theſe four Verſes are in the ſame Words, 1 Kings viii. 17, 18, 19, 20. See there. I ſhall only therefore obſerve here, how the Targum tranſlates the laſt Words of this Verſe; built an Houſe to the Name of the WORD of the LORD God of Iſrael. In which he makes the WORD a diſtinct Perſon from the LORD God of Iſrael, but LORD God alſo; elſe he would not have built an Houſe for his Name, that he might be there worſhipped and ſerved.

Ver. 11. And in it have I put the Ark, wherein is the Covenant of the LORD, that he made with the Children of Iſrael.] There is no Difference between theſe Words, and thoſe 1 Kings viii. 21. but that there he ſaith, I have ſet there the Place of the Ark; which is the ſame in Effect with theſe Words; which ſignify he had put the Ark in the moſt holy Place.

Ver. 12. And he ſtood before the Altar of the LORD, in the Preſence of all the Congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his Hands,] See upon 1 Kings viii. 22.

Ver. 13. For Solomon had made a brazen Scaffold, of five Cubits long, and five Cubits broad, and three Cubits high, and had ſet it in the midſt of the Court, and upon it he ſtood, and kneeled down upon his Knees before all the Congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his Hands towards Heaven.]

ven.] This Verſe is added to what we read in the Book of the Kings: And, as Solomon Jarchi obſerves, hath relation to what goes before: in the Preſence of all Iſrael. For he was advanced higher than they, that he might be ſeen and heard of all.

Ver. 14. And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, there is no God like thee in the Heaven, nor in the Earth; which keepeſt Covenant, and ſheweſt Mercy unto thy Servants, that walk before thee with all their Hearts.] See 1 Kings viii. 23. where there are the ſame Words.

Ver. 15. Thou which haſt kept with thy Servant David my Father that which thou haſt promiſed him; and ſpakeſt with thy Mouth, and haſt fulfilled it with thine Hand, as it is this Day.

Ver. 16. Now therefore, O LORD God of Iſrael, keep with thy Servant David my Father that which thou haſt promiſed him, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a Man in my Sight to ſit upon the Throne of Iſrael; yet ſo, that thy Children take heed to their way to walk in my Law, as thou haſt walked before me.] Theſe two Verſes, with very little Difference, are in 1 Kings viii. 24, 25.

Ver. 17. Now then, O LORD God of Iſrael, let thy Word be verified, which thou haſt ſpoke unto thy Servant David.

Ver. 18. (But will God in very Deed dwell with Men on the Earth? behold, Heaven, and the Heaven of Heavens cannot contain thee; how much leſs this Houſe which I have built!] See there, ver. 26, 27. I ſhall only add the Gloſs of Kimchi upon the laſt Words, Thou art rather the Place of this World, and comprehendeſt all Things, than the World the Place of thee, which cannot comprehend thee. Wherefore then have I built this Temple? It was only that thy gracious Preſence might dwell there, hearing the Prayers, which ſhall be made in this Place. So the next Words import.

Ver. 19. Have Reſpect therefore to the Prayer of thy Servant, and to his Supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the Cry, and the Prayer, which thy Servant prayeth before thee:] See there, ver. 28.

Ver. 20. That thine Eye may be open upon this Houſe Day and Night, upon the Place whereof thou haſt ſaid, that thou wouldſt put thy Name there, to hearken unto the Prayer which thy Servant prayeth towards this Place.] Thoſe Words, that thine Eyes may be open, the Targum expounds, by his Divine Providence and Protection, in this Place of the Reſidence of his gracious Preſence, as the Words there are.

Ver. 21. Hearken therefore unto the Supplications of thy Servant, and of thy People Iſrael, which they ſhall make towards this Place: hear thou from thy Dwelling-place even from Heaven; and when thou heareſt, forgive.] See 1 Kings viii. 30.

Ver. 22. If a Man ſin againſt his Neighbour, and an Oath be laid upon him to make him ſwear, and the Oath come before thine Altar in this Houſe.] See there ver. 31. Whereby it appears, that a Man who was to purge himſelf of any Treſpaſs, whereof he was accuſed againſt his Neighbour, by an Oath, was to do it at the Temple, before the Altar of God, from whom he expected Remiſſion of Sin.

Ver. 23. Then hear thou from Heaven, and do, and judge thy Servants, by requiting the Wicked, by recompenſing his way upon his own Head, and by juſtifying the Righteous, by giving him according to his Righteouſneſs.] See there, 1 Kings viii. 32.

Ver. 24. And if thy People Iſrael be put to the worſe before the Enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; and ſhall return and confeſs thy Name, and pray, and make Supplication before thee in this Houſe,

Ver. 25. Then hear thou from the Heavens, and forgive the Sin of thy People Iſrael, and bring them again unto the Land which thou gaveſt to them and to their Fathers.] Theſe two Verſes are, in a manner, the very ſame with thoſe 1 Kings viii. 33, 34.

Ver. 26. When the Heaven is ſhut up, and there is no Rain, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; yet if they pray towards this Place, and confeſs thy Name, and turn from their Sin, when thou doſt afflict them:] This and all the reſt, to v. 32. are the ſame, in a manner, with 1 Kings viii. 35, 36, &c. And therefore ſee the Explication of them there: And in v. 29. he deſires, that all Prayers, whether for private or publick Concerns that were made here, might be heard.

Ver. 27. Then hear thou from Heaven, and forgive the Sin of thy Servants, and of thy People Iſrael, when thou haſt taught them the good Way wherein they ſhould walk; and ſend Rain upon thy Land which thou haſt given unto thy People for an Inheritance.

Ver. 28. If there be Dearth in the Land, if there be Peſtilence, if there be Blaſting, or Mildew, Locuſts or Caterpillers; if their Enemies beſiege them in the Cities of their Land; whatſoever Sore, or whatſoever Sickneſs there be:

Ver. 29. Then what Prayer, or what Supplication ſoever ſhall be made of any Man, or of all thy People Iſrael, when every one ſhall know his own Sore, and his own Grief, and ſhall ſpread forth his Hands in this Houſe:

Ver. 30. Then hear thou from Heaven thy Dwelling-place, and forgive, and render unto every Man according unto all his Ways, whoſe Heart thou knoweſt: (for thou only knoweſt the Hearts of the Children of Men)

Ver. 31. That they may fear thee, to walk in thy Ways ſo long as they live in the Land which thou gaveſt unto our Fathers.

Ver. 32. Moreover, concerning the Stranger, which is not of thy People Iſrael, but is come from a far Country for thy great Name's ſake, and thy mighty Hand, and thy ſtretched out Arm; if they come and pray in this Houſe:

Ver. 33. Then hear thou from the Heavens, even from thy Dwelling-place, and do according to all that the Stranger calleth to thee for; that all People of the Earth may know thy Name, and fear thee, as doth thy People Iſrael, and may know that this Houſe which I have built, is called by thy Name.] Theſe two Verſes are there alſo explained in v. 41, 42, 43. Unto which I ſhall here add this pious Reflection which Dr. Jackſon makes upon them. "Solomon knew the "Goodneſs of God to be ſo great, that it "could not be a whit leſſened towards Iſrael, "how far ſoever it was extended towards other "People. Happy had it been for that Nation, "if their Charity had been like this of their "heavenly Father. But it was their ſeeking "to ingroſs God's promiſed Bleſſings to Man-

"kind,

" kind, which brought that grievous Curſe " upon them, under which they groan at this " Day."

Ver. 34. If thy People go out to War againſt their Enemies, by the Way that thou ſhalt ſend them, and they pray unto thee toward this City which thou haſt choſen, and the Houſe which I have built for thy Name:

Ver. 35. Then hear thou from the Heavens their Prayer, and their Supplication, and maintain their Cauſe.

Ver. 36. If they ſin againſt thee, (for there is no Man that ſinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them over before their Enemies, and they carry them away Captives unto a Land far off or near;

Ver. 37. Yet if they bethink themſelves in the Land whither they are carried Captives, and turn, and pray unto thee in the Land of their Captivity, ſaying, We have ſinned, we have done amiſs, and have dealt wickedly.

Ver. 38. If they return to thee with all their Heart, and with all their Soul, in the Land of their Captivity, whither they have carried them Captives, and pray toward their Land which thou gaveſt unto their Fathers, and toward the City which thou haſt choſen, and toward the Houſe which I have built for thy Name:

Ver. 39. Then hear thou from the Heavens, even from thy Dwelling-place, their Prayer, and their Supplications, and maintain their Cauſe, and forgive thy People which have ſinned againſt thee.] All theſe Verſes are, with ſome ſmall Variation in a few Words, and a large Addition to the laſt Verſe in 1 Kings viii. 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50.

Ver. 40. Now, my God, let (I beſeech thee) thine Eyes be open, and let thine Ears be attent unto the Prayer that is made in this Place.] He ſums up all theſe Words, beſeeching him, that the Prayer which was preſented to him here, for any Bleſſing, of what Sort ſoever it was, might be graciouſly accepted by him.

Ver. 41. Now therefore, ariſe, O LORD God, into thy Reſting-Place, thou, and the Ark of thy Strength: let thy Prieſts, O LORD God, be clothed with Salvation, and let thy Saints rejoyce in Goodneſs.] Theſe Words are Part of Pſalm cxxxii. 8, 9. with a little Alteration. Wherein he beſeeches God to take up his Habitation here, together with his Ark (whereby ſuch Wonders and Miracles had been wrought) and ſtir from hence no more. And then, that he would defend his Prieſts, who miniſtred to him here; that they might obtain his Bleſſings for others: So that all the People might rejoice in his great Bounty to them. The Targum here tranſlates the firſt Words after a remarkable Manner, Now therefore, before the LORD God, reſt in thy Glory, thou, and the Ark of thy Strength. Upon which Words an unanſwerable Queſtion is made by Beckius to the Jews, Who is this, thou, who, according to their Paraphraſe, reſts before Jehovah? Their Mouths are ſtopped, unleſs they acknowledge another Jehovah, that is, the WORD of God, (as he is commonly called in the Targum) the ſecond Perſon in the ever bleſſed Trinity.

Ver. 42. O LORD God, turn not away the Face of thine Anointed,] Since he had appointed Solomon to be the King of his People, he hoped God would have a Regard to his humble Petition. For as to look upon one, or lift up the Countenance upon him, is to have a kind Reſpect to him: So to turn away the Face, is to reject and refuſe him.

Remember the Mercies of David thy Servant.] This is another Argument for Hope, that his Prayer would be granted: Becauſe God had ſuch a great Kindneſs for David, that he had made very large and moſt gracious Promiſes unto him, and his Seed after him.

CHAP. VII.

Ver. 1. NOW when Solomon had made an End of praying, the Fire came down from Heaven, and conſumed the Burnt-offering, and the Sacrifices; and the Glory of the Lord filled the Houſe.] See 1 Kings viii. 11. This is added to what is recorded in that Book, to ſhew God's gracious Acceptance of Solomon's Prayer and Sacrifices; to give him Aſſurance he would be preſent in this Place, and grant all their Petitions. Of which he gave two Demonſtrations: One by Fire ſent down from Heaven to conſume the Sacrifices; the other by the glorious Cloud filling the whole Houſe. By the former of theſe, the firſt Sacrifice that we read of in Scripture (that of Abel) it is generally thought was declared to be acceptable unto God, Gen. iv. 4. And when the Tabernacle was erected, and Aaron conſecrated, there was the ſame Teſtimony given of God's Preſence there, as here at the Conſecration of the Temple, Levit. ix. 24. See what I have there noted, and in other Places. I ſhall only farther add, that the like miraculous Token of God's Acceptance was ſhewn, when Elijah conteſted with the Prieſts of Baal (1 Kings xviii.) and when David offered Sacrifice in the Threſhing-floor of Araunah, 1 Chron. xxi. 26. which had Relation to what was now done: For David ſacrificed in the very Place where the Temple was built; and therefore by both theſe Miracles God declared he would be worſhipped in this Place. They differ only in this, that by the firſt God admoniſh'd David where the Temple ſhould be built: And by this he approved and conſecrated it when it was built. Dr. Jackſon moſt judiciouſly adds, that thus was the Conſecration of the Son of God to his eternal Prieſthood confirmed by the Apparition of the Holy Ghoſt in a Flame of Fire; which was the Accompliſhment of the Appearance of Aaron's Conſecration, and of this at the Conſecration of the Temple.

Ver. 2. And the Prieſts could not enter into the Houſe of the LORD, becauſe the Glory of the LORD had filled the LORD's Houſe.] See Exod. xl. 35. and 1 Kings viii. 11. But another great Man (Dr. Alix) thinks it pertinent here to obſerve that there was no ſuch thing in the ſecond Temple: Tho' the Lord Chriſt was to appear in it, and make the Glory of the laſt Houſe greater than the firſt. For the Appearance of the Flames of Fire on the Day of Pentecoſt, was not in the Temple, but in Jeruſalem: When the Meſſiah was exalted to his heavenly Sanctuary, and the Temple devoted to Deſtruction by the Romans.

Ver. 3. And when all the Children of Iſrael ſaw how the Fire came down, and the Glory of the LORD upon the Houſe,] Here was a great Aſſurance, that God would be preſent in this Place, in that the Glory of the LORD not only filled the Houſe; but appeared upon the Houſe: So that all the People might ſee it, and not only have the Word of the Prieſts for it. By this they were ſatisfied, that it was God's Houſe, where he would accept their Sacrifices, hear their Prayers, and beſtow his Bleſſing upon them. There is no mention here made of the Cloud, as in the Book of the Kings: But that is comprehended, as Abarbinel obſerves, in the Glory and the Fire, which were in the Cloud. It came down at the firſt like a Cloud, and then broke out in ſuch a Light and Splendor, as they were not able to behold: And a Flame came out upon the Altar, and conſumed the Sacrifices that lay upon it.

They bowed themſelves with their Faces to the Ground upon the Pavement, and worſhipped,] They bowed down to the Middle of their Body, and fell proſtrate upon the Floor, which was the moſt profound Adoration. Theſe were two diſtinct Acts of Worſhip (bowing and falling flat on the Face) but here are joined together upon this great Occaſion, as Dr. Hyde obſerves in his Relig. Vet. Perſarum, Cap. 1. where he notes out of Maimonides, that the Pavement was kept very clean: It being unlawful for any one to come into the Court with their Shoes on their Feet, or ſo much as to ſpit there.

And praiſed the LORD, ſaying, For he is good, for his Mercy endureth for ever.] They praiſed and gave Thanks to God (as they had great Reaſon to do, the Fire from Heaven and the Cloud of Glory being manifeſt Tokens of God's Preſence among them) in the ſame Words which the Prieſts had uſed, who ſung the eighty ſixth Pſalm. See ver. 13.

Ver. 4. Then the King and all the People offered Sacrifices before the LORD.] They had offered Sacrifices before; but now they renew them, and offer more in Acknowledgment of this Aſſurance of God's Love unto them.

Ver. 5. And King Solomon offered a Sacrifice of twenty and two thouſand Oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand Sheep:] See 1 Kings viii. 63. where it is ſaid, he offered only twenty thouſand Oxen; which was a vaſt Number, but not incredible: Nor are theſe two Places inconſiſtent, as I have there ſhewn.

So the King and all the People dedicated the Houſe of God.] Thus the Dedication of the Temple ended.

Ver. 6. And the Prieſts waited on their Offices: the Levites alſo with Inſtruments of Muſick of the LORD,] They are called Muſical Inſtruments of the LORD, becauſe David had made them, as it here follows, to praiſe the Lord withal, becauſe his Mercy endureth for ever. See 1 Chron. xv. 16.

When David praiſed by their Miniſtry:] For they ſung the Pſalm of Praiſe which he compoſed 1 Chron. xvi. 7, &c. In the Hebrew the Words are behallil Dabid bejatham, with the Hallel (that is, the Hymn of Praiſe) which David had put into their Hands, for that Purpoſe.

And the Prieſts ſounded the Trumpets before them, and all Iſrael ſtood.] For that was the common Poſture of Worſhip, whether in Prayer or Praiſes.

Ver. 7. Moreover Solomon hallowed the Middle of the Court that was before the Houſe of the LORD: for there he offered Burnt-offerings, and the Fat of the Peace-offerings, becauſe the brazen Altar which Solomon had made, was not able to receive the Burnt-offerings, and the Meat-offerings, and the Fat.

Ver. 8. Alſo at the ſame time Solomon kept the Feaſt ſeven Days, and all Iſrael with him, a very great Congregation, from the entring in of Hamath, unto the River of Egypt.

Ver. 9. And in the eighth Day they made a ſolemn Aſſembly: for they kept the Dedication of the Altar ſeven Days, and the Feaſt ſeven Days.] Theſe Verſes, and the next, are explained in 1 Kings viii. 64, 65, 66.

Ver. 10. And on the three and twentieth Day of the ſeventh Month, he ſent the People away into their Tents, glad and merry in Heart, for the Goodneſs that the LORD had ſhewed unto David, and to Solomon, and to Iſrael his People.] The Targum thus gloſſes upon the laſt Words of this Verſe, which expreſſes the Joy of the People, for the Goodneſs of the LORD, ſhewn unto David, in the opening of the Doors of the Sanctuary; and unto Solomon, whoſe Prayer God had accepted, and vouchſafed his glorious Preſence, in the Houſe he had built; and unto his People Iſrael, in his gracious Acceptance of their Sacrifices, and ſending down Fire from Heaven to conſume them.

Ver. 11. Thus Solomon finiſhed the Houſe of the LORD, and the King's Houſe: and all that came into Solomon's Heart to make in the Houſe of the LORD, and in his own Houſe, he proſperouſly effected.] See 1 Kings ix. 1.

Ver. 12. And the LORD appeared to Solomon by Night,] See 1 Kings ix. 2.

And ſaid unto him, I have heard thy Prayer, and have choſen this Place to myſelf for an Houſe of Sacrifice.] As appeared by the Fire which came down from Heaven, and conſumed the Sacrifice at the Conſecration of this Houſe.

Ver. 13. If I ſhut up Heaven that there be no Rain, or if I command the Locuſts to devour the Land, or if I ſend Peſtilence among my People.] Famine and Peſtilence were two ſore Puniſhments, wherewith God afflicted them for their Sins: And the former of them was cauſed ſometimes by want of Rain, and ſometimes by Locuſts, who eat up what the Earth produced for their Suſtenance.

Ver. 14. If my People, which are called by my Name, ſhall humble themſelves, and pray, and ſeek my Face, and turn from their wicked Ways: then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their Sin, and will heal their Land.] He had petitioned for the Divine Favour and Clemency, upon no other Condition.

Ver. 15. Now mine Eyes ſhall be open, and mine Ears attent unto the Prayer that is made in this Place.] Some take theſe Phraſes to ſignify, that he will always diſcern, whether they were ſuch as they ought to be: But they rather have the ſame Senſe with the next Verſe, that he would have a gracious Reſpect to them, and te ſtify it by hearing their Prayers, as he deſir'd, c. vi. 40.

Ver. 16. For now I have choſen and ſanctified this Houſe, that my Name may be there for ever: and mine Eyes and mine Heart ſhall be there perpetually.] See this explained 1 Kings ix. 3.

Ver. 17. And as for thee, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy Father walked, and do according to all that I have commanded thee, and ſhalt obſerve my Statutes and my Judgments.] See there v. 4.

Ver. 18. Then will I ſtabliſh the Throne of thy Kingdom, according as I have covenanted with David thy Father, ſaying, there ſhall not fail thee a Man to be Ruler in Iſrael.

Ver. 19. But if ye turn away, and forſake my Statutes and Commandments, which I have ſet before you, and ſhall go and ſerve other Gods, and worſhip them:

Ver. 20. Then will I pluck them up by the Roots out of my Land which I have given them; and this Houſe which I have ſanctified for my Name, will I caſt out of my Sight, and will make it to be a Proverb, and a By-word among all Nations.

Ver. 21. And this Houſe which is high, ſhall be an Aſtoniſhment to every one that paſſeth by it; ſo that he ſhall ſay, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this Land, and unto this Houſe?

Ver. 22. And it ſhall be anſwered, Becauſe they forſook the LORD God of their Fathers, which brought them forth out of the Land of Egypt, and laid hold on other Gods, and worſhipped them, and ſerved them: therefore hath he brought all this Evil upon them.] This and the foregoing Verſes are the ſame with thoſe 1 Kings ix. 6, 7, 8, 9. and there have been explained.

CHAP. VIII.

Ver. 1. AND it came to paſs (at the End of twenty Years, wherein Solomon had built the Houſe of the Lord, and his own Houſe)] See 1 Kings ix. 10.

Ver. 2. That the Cities which Huram had reſtored to Solomon, Solomon built them, and cauſed the Children of Iſrael to dwell there.] This is a ſhort Relation of what is more largely told in the Book of the Kings, c. ix. 12, 13. only here we are further informed, that theſe Cities being reſtored to Solomon, who had given them to Huram, (who diſliked them) Solomon built them ſo, that his own Subjects became the Inhabiters of them.

Ver. 3. And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah, and prevailed againſt it.] This Country lay between Euphrates, which was the Eaſtern Bounds of it; and Damaſcus, which was the Weſtern, as Bochartus hath demonſtrated in his Phaleg. Lib. ii. Cap. 7.

Ver. 4. And he built Tadmor in the Wilderneſs,] See an Account of this in the 1 Kings ix. 18.

And all the Store-Cities which he built in Hamath.] All the Cities wherein he laid up Proviſion for War, were in this Country of Hamath-zobah, as well as Tadmor.

Ver. 5. Alſo he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, fenced Cities with Walls, Gates, and Bars.] Only one of theſe Cities is mentioned in the Book of the Kings, viz. the nether. But both of them were built before, and he now only repaired, enlarged, beautified, and made them ſtrong Places. See 1 Kings ix. 17.

Ver. 6. And Baalath, and all the Store-Cities that Solomon had,] That is, elſewhere as well as in the Land of Hamath.

And all the Chariot-Cities, and the Cities of Horſemen, and all that Solomon deſired to build in Jeruſalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the Land of his Dominion.] See 1 Kings ix. 19.

Ver. 7. As for all the People that were left of the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, which were not of Iſrael;

Ver. 8. But of their Children who were left after them in the Land, whom the Children of Iſrael conſumed not; them did Solomon make to pay Tribute until this Day.

Ver. 9. But of the Children of Iſrael did Solomon make no Servants for Work: but they were Men of War, and Chief of his Captains, and Captains of his Chariots and Horſemen.] Theſe three Verſes are the ſame with 1 Kings ix. 20, 21, 22.

Ver. 10. And theſe were the Chief of King Solomon's Officers, even two hundred and fifty, that bare Rule over the People.] How this agrees with the Book of the Kings, where 'tis ſaid they were five hundred and fifty, ſee upon 1 Kings ix. 23.

Ver. 11. And Solomon brought up the Daughter of Pharaoh out of the City of David,] Where ſhe firſt dwelt, 1 Kings iii. 1.

Unto the Houſe that he had built for her:] See 1 Kings vii. 8.

For he ſaid, My Wife ſhall not dwell in the Houſe of David King of Iſrael, becauſe the Places are holy whereunto the Ark of the LORD hath come.] All Houſes into which the Ark had come, were not thereby made holy, for then the Houſe of Obed-edom would have been ſo. But where it had been ſettled ſo long, as it had been in David's Houſe, and had a Tabernacle made for it, there was a ſpecial Regard to the Place, where it had made its Abode: And Solomon would not ſuffer a Stranger (for ſo his Wife was, tho' proſelyted) to keep her Court there. For 'tis not likely, ſhe, and all her Servants had embraced the Law of Moſes, though they had renounced Idolatry: And ſo might many ways defile a Place, which had been made ſacred, by a divine Preſence in it: Many other Reaſons are given by Interpreters, to which I refer the Reader; and only add, that Abarbinel thought it ſufficient to ſay, That it would have founded very ill, to hear the People ſay, That Pharaoh's Daughter dwelt where the Ark of God had inhabited. And he looks upon this as an Argument, that the Heart of Solomon continued hitherto right with God, and had no Intentions to commit thoſe Sins he afterwards did: And therefore God at this time vouchſafed him the Gift of Prophecy.

Ver. 12. Then Solomon offered Burnt-Offerings unto the LORD, on the Altar of the LORD, which he had built before the Porch:] That is, he ſettled the daily Sacrifice at the Temple.

Ver. 13. Even after a certain Rate every Day, offering according to the Commandment of Moſes, on the Sabbaths, and on the new Moons, and on the ſolemn Feaſts, three times in the Year; even in the

Feaſt

Feaſt of unleavened Bread, and in the Feaſt of Weeks, and in the Feaſt of Tabernacles.] He firſt took Care the Law of Moſes ſhould be ſtrictly obſerv'd, which preſcrib'd what Offerings ſhould be offered every Day, Exod. xxix. 38, 39. and at ſeveral other ſolemn Times, here mentioned. Exod. xxiii. 14. and other Places.

Ver. 14. And he appointed according to the Order of David his Father, the Courſes of the Prieſts to their Service, and the Levites to their Charges, to praiſe and miniſter before the Prieſts, as the Duty of every Day required:] Next of all he took Care to confirm and eſtabliſh the Orders which David had made, for the regular Attendance of the Prieſts and Levites upon the Service of God. Who were but few in the Days of Moſes, in Compariſon of what they were now; and therefore David diſpoſed them ſo, that all Confuſion might be avoided: And alſo aſſigned them new Employments, in ſinging the Hymns which he compoſed, and playing upon muſical Inſtruments, whereby he made the Service of God more beautiful and cheerful. See 1 Chron. xxiv, xxv.

The Porters alſo by their Courſes, at every Gate:] Theſe Words ſhew that the Porters were diſtributed, into twenty four Courſes, as well as the Prieſts and Levites: Though this Order of David's be not there expreſly mentioned. See what I have noted upon 1 Chron. xxvi. 27, 28.

For ſo had David the Man of God commanded.] He is called by the Name of the Man of God, as Moſes was: Becauſe after Moſes there was none like him, ſo divinely inſpired, to raiſe the publick Worſhip of God, to a higher Pitch, by his heavenly Hymns; and to direct the Manner of its Performance in ſuch Order, that God was ſerved (if I may uſe here thoſe Words of his) in the Beauty of Holineſs. For tho' Solomon, as Strigelius obſerves, was a very wiſe Man in natural Knowledge, and in political Affairs, and in moral and divine Things: Yet he was much inferior to David in Piety, and in the Gift of Prophecy; as the Book of Pſalms alone is ſufficient to teſtify: In which there are ſo many glorious Predictions of the MESSIAH.

Ver. 15. And they departed not from the Commandment of the King unto the Prieſts and Levites, concerning any Matter, or concerning the Treaſures.] Whatſoever had been ordered by David in all other Matters, Solomon ſettled them, and the Prieſts and Levites obeyed him.

Ver. 16. Now all the Work of Solomon was prepared unto the Day of the Foundation of the Houſe of the LORD, and until it was finiſhed: ſo the Houſe of the LORD was perfected.] Care was taken, that there ſhould be no Stop to the Building of God's Houſe: Becauſe all Materials were prepared before he began it; and every Thing projected how it ſhould be done, in every Part of it.

Ver. 17. Then went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and to Eloth, at the Sea-ſide in the Land of Edom.] After he had finiſhed all thoſe great Works of the Houſe of the LORD, and his own Houſe, and built many Cities, as before recited; he deſigned to improve Navigation, which the Jews did not much underſtand. And for that End he went to theſe Places, on the Red Sea. See 1 Kings ix. 26. Eloth (as is obſerved by the learned Nic. Fuller in his Miſcellanies, Lib. iv. Cap. 20.) lay neareſt to him, which appears from Deut. ii. 8. where we read that the Iſraelites paſſing by the Country of Edom, came firſt to Eloth and then to Ezion. But Solomon went firſt to Ezion, though further off, becauſe there was Ναυπήγιον, the Place where Ships were built and fitted up: Which Solomon made Haſte, with the greateſt Diligence and Speed to inſpect, and ſee in what Forwardneſs they were.

Ver. 18. And Huram ſent him by the Hands of his Servants, Ships, and Servants that had Knowledge of the Sea; and they went with the Servants of Solomon to Ophir, and took thence four hundred and fifty Talents of Gold, and brought them to King Solomon.] Beſides thoſe Ships which Solomon had built, Huram ſent more, who brought able Seamen with them to manage the whole Fleet. See there v. 27, 28. where only four hundred and twenty Talents are ſaid to be brought: Of which I have there given an Account, and ſhewn it doth not diſagree with this Place.

CHAP. IX.

Ver. 1. AND when the Queen of Sheba heard of the Fame of Solomon, ſhe came to prove Solomon with hard Queſtions at Jeruſalem, with a very great Company, and Camels that bare Spices, and Gold in abundance, and precious Stones: and when ſhe was come to Solomon, ſhe communed with him of all that was in her Heart.

Ver. 2. And Solomon told her all her Queſtions, and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he told her not.] There is little in this Chapter, but what is related in 1 Kings x. where ſee concerning theſe two Verſes, ver. 1, 2, 3. I ſhall only add, That the hard Queſtions ſhe came to ask were not the curious Inquiries into the Secrets of natural Things, or new political Matters, but about Things pertaining to Piety, and the Service of God. For our Saviour ſaith, ſhe came to hear the Wiſdom of Solomon, and ſhould therefore riſe up in Judgment againſt that Generation, who would not learn of him: And in 1 Kings x. 1. it is ſaid, the Fame ſhe heard of Solomon was concerning the Name of the LORD: Which moved her to this Journey.

Ver. 3. And when the Queen of Sheba had ſeen the Wiſdom of Solomon, and the Houſe that he had built,

Ver. 4. And the Meat of his Table, and the ſitting of his Servants, and the Attendance of his Miniſters, and their Apparel, his Cup-bearers alſo, and their Apparel, and his Aſcent by which he went up into the Houſe of the LORD; there was no more Spirit in her.

Ver. 5. And ſhe ſaid to the King, It was a true Report which I heard in mine own Land, of thine Acts, and of thy Wiſdom.

Ver. 6. Howbeit, I believed not their Words, until I came, and mine Eyes had ſeen it: and behold, the one half of the Greatneſs of thy Wiſdom was not told me: for thou exceedeſt the Fame that I heard.

Ver. 7. Happy are thy Men, and happy are theſe thy Servants, which ſtand continually before thee, and hear thy Wiſdom.] All that is contained tained in the foregoing Verſes, is related in the ſame Words, (with very little Difference) in 1 Kings x. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. where ſee what I have noted.

Ver. 8. Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to ſet thee on his Throne, to be King for the LORD thy God:] In theſe Words ſhe ſays a great Deal more than is there related ver. 9. for ſhe here calls the Throne of Iſrael, the Throne of the LORD, and acknowledges Solomon to be made King for the LORD his God; that is, not only to rule by his Authority, and as his Viceroy, but for his Glory, and to promote his Religion.

Becauſe thy God loved Iſrael, to eſtabliſh them for ever, therefore made he thee King over them, to do Judgment and Juſtice.] See upon 1 Kings ix. 9.

Ver. 9. And ſhe gave the King an hundred and twenty Talents of Gold, and of Spices great Abundance, and precious Stones: neither was there any ſuch Spice as the Queen of Sheba gave King Solomon.

Ver. 10. And the Servants alſo of Huram, and the Servants of Solomon which brought Gold from Ophir, brought Algum-trees and precious Stones.

Ver. 11. And the King made of the Algum-trees, Terraſſes to the Houſe of the LORD, and to the King's Palace, and Harps and Pſalteries for Singers; and there were none ſuch ſeen before in the Land of Judah.] This and the two foregoing Verſes are explained in 1 Kings x. 10, 11, 12.

Ver. 12. And King Solomon gave to the Queen of Sheba all her Deſire, whatſoever ſhe aſked, beſides that which ſhe had brought unto the King: ſo ſhe turned, and went away to her own Land, ſhe and her Servants.] The laſt Clauſe concerning his Preſents (viz. beſides that which ſhe had brought unto the King) is expreſſed much otherwiſe in 1 Kings x. 13. Where the Words are, beſides that which Solomon gave her of his Royal Bounty; what is here explained to have been done, to requite her for the great Preſents ſhe had made the King.

Ver. 13. Now the Weight of Gold that came to Solomon in one Year, was ſix hundred and threeſcore and ſix Talents of Gold.] See there, ver. 14.

Ver. 14. Beſides that which Chapmen and Merchants brought: and all the Kings of Arabia, and Governors of the Country brought Gold and Silver unto Solomon.] See there, ver. 14.

Ver. 15. And King Solomon made two hundred Targets of beaten Gold, ſix hundred Shekels of beaten Gold went to one Target.

Ver. 16. And three hundred Shields made he of beaten Gold: three hundred Shekels of beaten Gold went to one Shield: and the King put them in the Houſe of the Foreſt of Lebanon.] See both this and the foregoing Verſe there explained, ver. 16, 17.

Ver. 17. Moreover, the King made a great Throne of Ivory, and overlaid it with pure Gold.

Ver. 18. And there were ſix Steps to the Throne, with a Footſtool of Gold, which were faſtened to the Throne, and Stays on each Side of the ſitting Place, and two Lions ſtanding by the Stays.] Theſe and the following Verſes are explained in 1 Kings x. 18, 19, 20, 21. Where there are the ſame Words; only here is mention made of a Footſtool of Gold, which is not taken Notice of there.

Ver. 19. And twelve Lions ſtood there on the one Side and on the other, upon the ſix Steps. There was not the like made in any Kingdom.

Ver. 20. And all the drinking Veſſels of King Solomon were of Gold, and all the Veſſels of the Houſe of the Foreſt of Lebanon were of pure Gold, none were of Silver; it was not any thing accounted of in the Days of Solomon.

Ver. 21. For the King's Ships went to Tarſhiſh with the Servants of Huram: every three Years once came the Ships of Tarſhiſh, bringing Gold, and Silver, Ivory, and Apes, and Peacocks.] See 1 Kings x. 22.

Ver. 22. And King Solomon paſſed all the Kings of the Earth in Riches and Wiſdom.

Ver. 23. And all the Kings of the Earth ſought the Preſence of Solomon, to hear his Wiſdom that God had put in his Heart.

Ver. 24. And they brought every Man his Preſent, Veſſels of Silver, and Veſſels of Gold, and Raiment, Harneſs and Spices, Horſes and Mules, a Rate Year by Year.] See of theſe Verſes, 1 Kings x. 23, 24, 25.

Ver. 25. And Solomon had four thouſand Stalls for Horſes and Chariots,] See 1 Kings x. 26. and what I have noted there to make this Place and that agree together.

And twelve thouſand Horſemen, whom he beſtowed in the Chariot-Cities, and with the King at Jeruſalem.] See there. It is evident that in David's Time they had no Horſes: For Abſalom, when he had loſt the Battle (wherein he periſhed) rode upon a Mule, to make his Eſcape, and David ordered his own Mule to carry Solomon to be anointed. And indeed the Country did not produce them: But Solomon, being able to make great Expences, had them brought out of Egypt, and maintained this Number of Chariots, which reſembled thoſe of the Grecians; that is, they were ſmall with two Wheels apiece, carrying a Man or two ſtanding or leaning forward. The following Kings could not be at this Charge, but upon this Occaſion ſent for Succour from Egypt, and then mention is always made of their Horſes.

Ver. 26. And he reigned over all the Kings, from the River, even unto the Land of the Philiſtines, and to the Border of Egypt.] That is, they were Tributaries to him. See 1 Kings iv. 26.

Ver. 27. And the King made Silver in Jeruſalom as Stones,] This is an hyperbolical Expreſſion, ſignifying ſuch Abundance of it, as exceeded all Belief.

And Cedar-trees made he as the Sycomore-trees, that are in the low Plains, in Abundance.] This is a wild Fig-tree, with which thoſe Countries abound; bearing Fruit not unlike to Figs, but much ſweeter, and have no little Seeds in them; and being not ſo good as others are little eſteemed, but commonly ſold only to the poorer Sort of People, as Leon Rawholf informs us in his Travels, Part I. Chap. 4.

Ver. 28. And they brought unto Solomon Horſes out of Egypt, and out of all Lands.] Such as Cappadocia, which was famous for a noble Breed of Horſes. See 1 Kings x. 28. But Egypt is here eſpecially mentioned, becauſe it was nearer, and no Place afforded more. From whence, even till the Captivity, they ſought for Supplies, as appears by Zedekiah's ſending Ambaſſadors to Egypt, requeſting Horſes from thence, Ezek. xvii. 15.

Ver. 29. Now the reſt of the Acts of Solomon, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the Book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the Viſions of Iddo the Seer, againſt Jeroboam the Son of Nebat?] In the firſt Book of the Kings it is only ſaid, that his Acts were written in the Book of the Acts of Solomon. See chap. xi. 41. But here we are told the particular Books wherein they were recorded. And the laſt of theſe Authors (viz. Iddo) wrote alſo the Acts of Rehoboam, c. xii. 15. of this Book: And ſome ſuppoſe he lived till the Time of Aſa, c. xv. 1. where he is called Obed. Howſoever that be, it appears, by this, that the Prophets, as I noted before, were alſo Hiſtorians, who gave an Account of what paſſed in their Times; out of whoſe Work this ſhort Hiſtory was extracted. And Abarbinel is of Opinion, that there were two Books or Catalogues written of the Acts of Solomon: One de rebus prioribus, of what paſſed in the Beginning of his Reign, giving an Account of his great Buildings, and of the Splendor wherein he lived, and the Proſperity he enjoyed; and theſe were written by Nathan: The other, de rebus poſterioribus, giving an Account of what paſſed in the latter End of his Life; how he doted upon Women, and fell into Idolatry, and was threatned with terrible Puniſhments, and had ſeveral Adverſaries raiſed againſt him, &c. which were all written by Ahijah the Shilonite. And ſome of theſe Things were alſo recorded by another Author, Iddo; who wrote concerning the Acts of Jeroboam, which could not be related, without touching upon ſome Part of Solomon's Reign. Theſe three did not join to make one Book, but ſeverally and diſtinctly gave an Account of ſuch Things as occurred to their Knowledge: Out of which it is probable, Ezra took many Things, which he hath ſupplied in this Book.

Ver. 30. And Solomon reigned in Jeruſalem over all Iſrael, forty Years.

Ver. 31. And Solomon ſlept with his Fathers, and he was buried in the City of David his Father, and Rehoboam his Son reigned in his Stead.] Theſe two Verſes are the laſt Words of 1 Kings xi. 42, 43.

CHAP. X.

Ver. 1. AND Rehoboam went to Shechem, for to Shechem were all Iſrael come to make him King.

Ver. 2. And it came to paſs when Jeroboam the Son of Nebat (who was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the Preſence of Solomon the King) heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt.] See 1 Kings xii. where this Chapter is ſo fully explained, that little is to be added here.

Ver. 3. And they ſent and called him:] The Targum well tranſlates it, for they ſent, giving a Reaſon why he returned from Egypt.

So Jeroboam and all Iſrael came and ſpake to Rehoboam, ſaying,

Ver. 4. Thy Father made our Yoke grievous, now therefore eaſe thou ſomewhat the grievous Servitude of thy Father, and his heavy Yoke that he put upon us, and we will ſerve thee.] This Verſe is the ſame in Senſe with 1 Kings xii. 4. and ſo are thoſe that follow, with thoſe that follow there; where ſee them explained. I ſhall only add, that if this Complaint of Solomon's hard Uſage of them was true, it is probable that when he was corrupted by the Love of Money and ſtrange Women, and fell into Idolatry, he alſo oppreſſed his Subjects; being unable to maintain ſuch great Expences, and ſo many Wives and Concubines, and building them Places for Religious Worſhip (beſides other Things before-mentioned) put him unto, without greater Treaſures than he had heaped up to ſupport them. At leaſt they began to be exhauſted, which tempted him to theſe ill Courſes to keep them full.

Ver. 5. And he ſaid unto them, Come again unto me after three Days. And the People departed.] The reſt of this Chapter is ſo much the very ſame, not only in Senſe, but alſo in Words, with what we had before in the Book of the Kings, that I ſhall not tranſcribe it.

CHAP. XI.

Ver. 1. AND when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he gathered of the Houſe of Judah and Benjamin, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen Men which were Warriors, to fight againſt Iſrael, that he might bring the Kingdom again to Rehoboam.

Ver. 2. But the Word of the LORD came to Shemaiah the Man of God, ſaying,

Ver. 3. Speak unto Rehoboam the Son of Solomon King of Judah, and to all Iſrael in Judah and Benjamin, ſaying,

Ver. 4. Thus ſath the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up, nor fight againſt your Brethren: return every Man to his Houſe, for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the Words of the LORD, and returned from going againſt Jeroboam.] Theſe four Verſes I have explain'd in my Notes upon 1 Kings xii. 21, 22, 23, 24.

Ver. 5. And Rehoboam dwelt in Jeruſalem, and built Cities for Defence in Judah.] That is, he ſtrengthened his Frontiers againſt the ten Tribes that were revolted from him.

Ver. 6. He built even Bethlehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

Ver. 7. And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,] We are told in 1 Chron. iv. 32. that Etam was a Town in the Tribe of Simeon: Therefore this ſhews that ſome Portion of that Tribe adhered to the Houſe of David, after Jeroboam made this Rent in the Kingdom.

Ver. 8. And Gath, and Mareſhah, and Ziph,

Ver. 9. And Adoraim, and Lachiſh, and Azekah,

Ver. 10. And Zorah, and Aijalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah, and in Benjamin, fenced Cities.] It is apparent from hence, that by building Cities of Defence, ver. 5. is meant only repairing, and fortifying them: For they were built before, but perhaps he now enlarged ſome of them, and made them more capacious.

Ver. 11. And he fortified the ſtrong Holds, and put Captains in them, and Store of Victual, and of Oyl and Wine.] Theſe ſtrong Holds, I ſuppoſe, were in the Heart of his Country, which he furniſhed with good Garriſons and Proviſions; that they might be able to maintain a Siege, in Caſe their Enemies ſhould make an Irruption into his Country.

Ver. 12. And in every ſeveral City he put Shields and Spears, and made them exceeding ſtrong, having Judah and Benjamin on his Side.] Who were two warlike and valiant Tribes, by whoſe Aſſiſtance he made every one of theſe Cities a Magazine; out of which, upon Occaſion, Soldiers might be furniſhed with Arms: Which was a neceſſary Precaution in doubtful Times, for the Preſervation of his Kingdom.

Ver. 13. And the Prieſts and the Levites that were in all Iſrael, reſorted to him out of all their Coaſts.] So the Tribe of Levi was added to the Tribe of Judah; tho' not all the Cities wherein they dwelt: Which they were forced to leave, when they would not conform to the idolatrous Worſhip, which Jeroboam had ſet up. The Tribe of Simeon likewiſe was ſo intermixed with Judah, that, in all Probability, more Cities of it beſides that before-mentioned, if not all, became one Body with it; which made Judah a very powerful Kingdom.

Ver. 14. (For the Levites left their Suburbs, and their Poſſeſſion, and came to Judah and Jeruſalem: for Jeroboam and his Sons had caſt them off from executing the Prieſt's Office unto the LORD.] After the right Manner, according to the Law of Moſes. For they refuſed to offer Sacrifices before his Calves in Dan and Bethel; and he would not let them go to do their Duty at Jeruſalem, the Place which the LORD had choſen; and therefore they left their Dwellings and Poſſeſſions, and went to live there. He mentions Jeroboam's Sons as well as himſelf; becauſe they were his principal Counſellors, and Aſſiſtants in the Change he made in Religion.

Ver. 15. And he ordained him Prieſts for the High Places, and for the Devils, and for the Calves which he had made.)] See 1 Kings xii. 28, 29, &c. A new Religion being ſet up by Jeroboam, deviſed out of his own Head, wherein he ordained a Solemnity in the eighth Month, which was not of God's Inſtitution, all that he did was prophane; the Prieſts prophane, the Feaſts prophane; and ſo were the Sacrifices and the whole Worſhip. And therefore he calls (as Bochartus well obſerves) the Objects of their Worſhip, Devils and not Gods: And the Miniſters of this Religion he calls not Cohen Prieſts, but Chemarim, Hoſea x. 5. And their Solemnities, inſtead of the Feaſt of God, he calls the Day of their King, Hoſea vii. 5. (becauſe inſtituted by their King, and not by God) and the Place of Worſhip, inſtead of Beth-el he calls Beth-aven, (Hoſea x. 5, 8.) that is, not the Houſe of God, but the Houſe of Wickedneſs, or of Idolatry. For the Ointment (as he ſpeaks) being turned into deadly Poiſon, the Inſcription ought not to remain upon the Pot or Box, wherein it was contained. See his Hierozoicon, Par. i. Lib. ii. Cap. 34. p. 357. There is a late Writer indeed (Antonius van Dale) who labours to perſuade us, that the Word Seirim (which we tranſlate Devils) ſignifies no more than Goats; which were worſhipped in Egypt: From whence Jeroboam lately coming brought this Worſhip along with him. But who can think the Iſraelites would have been drawn to adore ſo filthy a Creature? Which was worſhipped by the Egyptians, as ſeveral other hairy Creatures were, and the Image of them held in great Veneration, (Pan being repreſented below in that Form) as Bochartus hath obſerved: Yet ſignified alſo Dæmons, which appeared in that Shape. Thus the ancient Interpreters, the Chaldee, the Syriack, the Arabick, and all the Jews underſtand it, as the ſame learned Man hath largely ſhewn, in the ſame Book, Lib. ii. Cap. 53. pag. 643.

Ver. 16. And after them out of all the Tribes of Iſrael, ſuch as ſet their Hearts to ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael, came to Jeruſalem, to ſacrifice unto the LORD God of their Fathers.] The good Example of the Prieſts and Levites moved many pious People to quit their Habitations and Eſtates, rather than forſake, or not have the Exerciſe of their Religion.

Ver. 17. So they ſtrengthened the Kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the Son of Solomon ſtrong, three Years: for three Years they walked in the Way of David and Solomon.] Though the Number of People that came to him out of all the Tribes, added great Strength to Rehoboam's Kingdom; yet his Power was chiefly owing unto God: Who protected and aſſiſted them, as long as he and his People continued in the Way of his Predeceſſors, David and Solomon. From which laſt Words ſome conclude Solomon was a Penitent, becauſe he is mention'd here as an Example of true Piety, as well as David. But it cannot be certainly inferred hence, becauſe this may relate only to the greateſt Part of his Reign, before he lapſed in his old Age, and forſook the Law of Moſes. The Book of Eccleſiaſtes is a better Proof of it, which the Jews generally think, was written when he was old: Wherein he ſenſibly expreſſes the Vanity of all Earthly Things; and particularly ſpeaks with great Deteſtation of bad Women, by whom he had been ſeduced, Eccleſ. vii. 26. Here it is to be obſerved, that the Corruption of Judah and Iſrael began in the fourth Year of Rehoboam, (ſee xii. 1.) and from thence begin the three hundred and ninety Years of their Iniquity, mentioned by Ezekiel, iv. 5. which laſted to the Siege of Jeruſalem by Nebuchadnezzar.

Ver. 18. And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the Daughter of Jerimoth the Son of David, to Wife,] We never read of Jerimoth among the Sons of David, but only here. Some think he was by a Concubine who is not named.

And Abihail the Daughter of Eliab the Son of Jeſſe.] His Grand-Daughter; for he was David's eldeſt Brother.

Ver. 19. Which bare him Children; Jeuſh and Shamariah, and Zaham.] He ſpeaks, I ſuppoſe, of the latter of theſe Wives, who bare him theſe Children.

Ver. 20. And after her he took Maachah the Daughter of Abſalom, which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.] This Wife was his firſt Couſin (as we call ſuch Perſons) being the Daughter of his Uncle: If this be meant of Abſalom the Son of David. But it is evident this was another Perſon of the ſame Name, of Gibeah, which was in the Tribe of Benjamin, (xiii. 2.) whereas Abſalom the Son of David was of Judah.

Ver. 21. And Rehoboam loved Maachah the Daughter of Abſalom above all his Wives, and his Concubines: (for he took eighteen Wives, and threeſcore Concubines, and begat twenty and eight Sons, and threeſcore Daughters.)] So great was their Deſire of having Abundance of Children in thoſe Days, that they intrenched upon the Law of God, who commanded their Kings ſhould not multiply Wives. But David indulged himſelf in it, and Solomon a great deal more: And ſo did Rehoboam, and Abijah, who had both of them a numerous Iſſue. For Virginity in thoſe Days was not accounted a Virtue: And the greateſt Unhappineſs in a married Eſtate was Barrenneſs.

Ver. 22. And Rehoboam made Abijah the Son of Maachah the chief, to be Ruler among his Brethren:] He was his eldeſt Son by his beloved Wife, whom he put in Authority over all the reſt which he had by her, and by his former Wives.

For he thought to make him King.] Such Power, I have obſerved before, they then challenged: And in order to it, he ſeems to have committed unto Abijah the Management of all Affairs, under himſelf.

Ver. 23. And he dealt wiſely, and diſperſed all his Children throughout all the Countries of Judah and Benjamin,] Upon which Words Kimchi gloſſes very well: He thought ſeriouſly of this Thing, and fearing a Rebellion, broke all his Sons, (that is, did not ſuffer them to live together) and diſperſed them into all Parts of the Country under his Government, that he might confirm the Kingdom in the Hand of his Son Abijah. Thus Abraham anciently ſent his Sons which he had by Keturah into other Countries, that they might not be troubleſome to Iſaac, who he intended ſhould be his Heir: And thus Jehoſhaphat did in following Times after this, xxi. 3.

Unto every fenced City:] Of which, I ſuppoſe, he made them Governors in Chief, and committed a great Care to them: Theſe Cities being frontier Places, as I obſerved v. 5. where it is probable, he had truſty Perſons to watch and obſerve them, that they entred not into any Combinations to defeat his Deſign.

And he gave them Victual in Abundance:] He provided for them amply, that they might not be diſcontented, but live at their Eaſe.

And he deſired many Wives.] This might poſſibly be for his Children, that they might in their ſeveral Governments live very pleaſantly. But, conſidering his Temper, moſt Interpreters think it was for himſelf; being not ſatisfied with thoſe Wives he had already, but ſtill deſiring more.

CHAP. XII.

Ver. 1. AND it came to paſs when Rehoboam had eſtabliſhed the Kingdom, and had ſtrengthened himſelf,] When he thought himſelf ſafe, and out of all Danger.

He forſook the Law of the LORD,] His evil Inclinations began to appear; which he deriv'd, it is likely, from his Mother, who was an Ammoniteſs. See 1 Kings xiv. 21.

And all Iſrael with him.] See 1 Kings xiv. 22, 23, 24.

Ver. 2. And it came to paſs, that in the fifth Year of King Rehoboam, Shiſhak King of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem (becauſe they had tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD,)] See 1 Kings xiv. 25. Their Apoſtaſy was in the fourth Year of his Reign, (after they had been three Years obedient, xi. 17.) therefore God ſpeedily corrected them, that he might reduce them to his Service, before they were ſettled in their Impiety.

Ver. 3. With twelve hundred Chariots, and threeſcore thouſand Horſemen: and the People were without Number,] That is, the Footmen in his Army.

That came with him out of Egypt; the Lubims, the Sukkiims, and the Ethiopians.] There is no doubt, the Lubims were the People of Libya, a famous Country in Africa, adjoining to Egypt. And the Sukkiims are the People called Troglodytes, who lived near the Red Sea; and had that Name Troglodytes, becauſe they dwelt ἐν τρώγλαις, in Caves and Dens of the Earth: Which is the very Signification of the Hebrew Word Succha; which in that Language imports not only Tabernacles, but alſo Caves or Dens, as in Pſalm x. 9. Job xxxviii. 40. From this People there was a Town, upon the Coaſt of the Red Sea, called Succhæ; and at this Day, with a little Alteration Suachen, as Bochartus obſerves in his Phaleg. Lib. iv. Cap. 29. As for the People called Cuſh (which we tranſlate Ethiopians) they were either thoſe to the South of Egypt, or the Scenitæ in Arabia: For I have obſerved elſewhere, it was a Name common to both. See the ſame moſt learned Author in the ſame Book, Cap. 33.

Ver. 4. And he took the fenced Cities which pertained to Judah,] Where the Sons of Rehoboam were Governors: Who perhaps there periſhed.

And came to Jeruſalem.] The frontier Towns being taken, nothing hindred his coming hither: For truſting to his fenced Cities, he had raiſed no Army to oppoſe Shiſhak: Or if he had, they durſt not oppoſe his Progreſs.

Ver. 5. Then came Shemaiah the Prophet to Rehoboam, and to the Princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jeruſalem becauſe of Shiſhak,] As to a Place of more Safety than the Country; or perhaps to conſult what to do, in a Time of ſo great Danger.

And ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD, ye have forſaken me, and therefore have I alſo left you in the Hand of Shiſhak.] The Chaldee tranſlates this, ye have forſaken my Fear, that is, his Worſhip, and turned to Idols: Therefore God gave them up into the Power of an Idolater.

Ver. 6. Whereupon the Princes of Iſrael,] They are called the Princes of Iſrael, becauſe there were many Iſraelites among them; and they had all lately been comprehended under this Name.

And the King humbled themſelves, and they ſaid, The LORD is righteous.] Sorrowfully confeſſed, that that the LORD had moſt juſtly puniſhed them for their Sins.

Ver. 7. And when the LORD ſaw, that they humbled themſelves, the Word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, ſaying, They have humbled themſelves, therefore I will not deſtroy them, but I will grant them ſome Deliverance, and my Wrath ſhall not be poured out upon Jeruſalem by the Hand of Shiſhak.] Their Humiliation prevailed with God ſo far, that he moderated his Anger, and reſpited the Deſtruction which was coming upon them; promiſing he would not ſuffer Shiſhak to do ſo much Miſchief as he deſigned. Yet he ſeems to intimate, that if they went on to provoke him, he would uſe ſome other Hand to ruin them.

Ver. 8. Nevertheleſs, they ſhall be his Servants; that they may know my Service, and the Service of the Kingdoms of the Countries.] He reſolved to let them feel the Difference between him and all other Lords and Maſters: And how much more happy they were while they continued to worſhip and ſerve him, than when they fell under a foreign Yoke.

Ver. 9. So Shiſhak King of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem,] Which was baſely yielded up to him, ἀμαχητὶ, without ſtriking a Stroke, as Dionyſius Halicarnaſſ. ſpeaks; who is thought by learned Men to have Reſpect to this Place, when he ſaith, that Seſoſtris made an Expedition into Paleſtine, Λαβὼν ἀμαχητὶ τὺς ἀνθρώπυς ἐν αὐτῷ, taking all the Men there without fighting. And it was to be aſcribed only to the great Goodneſs of God, that he did not poſſeſs himſelf abſolutely of the whole Country, and make it a Province ſubject and tributary to the King of Egypt. For unleſs God had diverted him, he might have done what he pleaſed; it being in his Power to extirpate the Jewiſh Nation.

And took away the Treaſures of the Houſe of the LORD, and the Treaſures of the King's Houſe, he took all: he carried away alſo the Shields of Gold which Solomon had made.

Ver. 10. Inſtead of which King Rehoboam made Shields of Braſs, and committed them to the Hands of the Chief of the Guard, that kept the Entrance of the King's Houſe.

Ver. 11. And when the King entred into the Houſe of the LORD, the Guard came and fetcht them, and brought them again into the Guard-Chamber.] Theſe three Verſes have been explained in 1 Kings xiv. 25, 26, 27, 28. Only from hence may be gathered, that the Golden Shields were made for State, to be uſed by his Guard when they attended him to the Houſe of the LORD: This being the Uſe of the brazen Shields which were made in their ſtead.

Ver. 12. And when he humbled himſelf, the Wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not deſtroy him altogether:] When he ſaw his Danger he humbled himſelf, before Shiſhak came to Jeruſalem: And after he had taken and ranſacked it, he humbled himſelf ſtill more; and thereby diverted that utter Deſtruction, which ſuch an Army might have brought upon him, and which their Sins deſerved. For it appears by the Language of the Prophet, God was moſt highly provoked by the Defection of Judah ſo ſuddenly from him, to pour out his Wrath upon them.

And in Judah Things went well:] They began again to proſper. But the Words in the Hebrew being, there were good Things in Judah, they may be underſtood of the Reformation made in the whole Kingdom: Many good Things being found among them, in the midſt of their Corruption. For the Prieſts, I ſuppoſe, kept up the Worſhip of God in its Purity, and many good People joined in it: Eſpecially ſuch as had fled from the Idolatry of Jeroboam.

Ver. 13. So King Rehoboam ſtrengthned himſelf in Jeruſalem, and reigned:] He repaired the fenced Cities, which Shiſhak had taken; and recovered ſo much Strength, that he reigned with ſome Authority

For Rehoboam was one and forty Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſeventeen Years in Jeruſalem, the City which the LORD had choſen out of all the Tribes of Iſrael, to put his Name there: And his Mother's Name was Naamah, an Ammoniteſs.] See 1 Kings xiv. 21.

Ver. 14. And he did Evil, becauſe he prepared not his Heart to ſeek the LORD.] This ſeems to ſignify, that after his Humiliation for his Sins, he relapſed again into them, (tho' it may relate to his firſt Provocation) and the Reaſon is here given, becauſe his Heart was not intent (as the Targum expounds it) to ſeek Inſtruction from the LORD.

Ver. 15. Now the Acts of Rehoboam, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the Book of Shemaiah the Prophet,] Which was extant when Ezra made this ſhort Abſtract out of it. For Prophets, as I obſerved before, wrote the Hiſtory of their own Times; as Jarchi ſays, they did their own Prophecies.

And of Iddo the Seer, concerning Genealogies?] The Targum hath it, Genealogies of the Houſe of David: Which he ſet down in the Hiſtory he wrote of Things done in his Time.

And there were Wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.] See 1 Kings xiv. 30.

Ver. 16. And Rehoboam ſlept with his Fathers, and was buried in the City of David; and Abijah his Son reigned in his ſtead.] As he had deſigned in his Life-time. See xi. 22, 23.

CHAP. XIII.

Ver. 1. NOW in the eighteenth Year of King Jeroboam, began Abijah to reign over Judah.] See 1 Kings xv. 1.

Ver. 2. And he reigned three Years in Jeruſalem: (his Mother's Name alſo was Michaiah the Daughter of Uriel of Gibeah,)] He gives a different Account above, ix. 20, 21. for there his Mother is called Maachah, and her Father's Name is ſaid to be Abſalom: And ſo we read, 1 Kings xv. 2. The Targum therefore, to reconcile theſe two Places, add a long Gloſs, in theſe Words, Becauſe ſhe was his legal Wife, her Name was changed from Maachah to Michajah, which was a more honourable Name: And the Name of her Father chang'd into Uriel, that no mention might be made of the Name of Abſalom. But this Reaſon is frivolous, for ſhe is ſaid to be the Daughter of Abſalom in the Place above-named. Therefore a better Account of this is given by Jarchi and by Kimchi, who who ſay, that her intire Name was Michaiah Maachah; and her Father's entire Name was Uriel Abſalom. See what I have noted upon 1 Kings xv. 2.

And there was War between Abijah and Jeroboam.] 1 Kings xv. 7.

Ver. 3. And Abijah ſet the Battle in Array, with an Army of valiant Men of War, even four hundred thouſand choſen Men: Jeroboam alſo ſet the Battle in Array againſt him, with eight hundred thouſand choſen Men, being mighty Men of Valour.] Here was ſuch a vaſt Army brought into the Field, that the whole Strength of both Sides was engaged in the Controverſy, about the reſtoring the Kingdom of Iſrael to the Houſe of David, who had but half the Number of Men that was on Jeroboam's Side; but thought they had the better Cauſe, and ſeemed by Abijah's Speech to have put ſuch Truſt in God for Succour, that they doubted not of Succeſs.

Ver. 4. And Abijah ſtood upon Mount Zemaraim, which is in Mount Ephraim,] It ſeems Abijah had entred into the Country of the Iſraelites, and there drew up his Army, on the Hill afterwards called Samaria.

And ſaid, Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Iſrael.] A great many might hear his Voice, from ſo advantageous a Place; but all the eight hundred thouſand could not. But he deſired what he ſaid might be reported to them; and it is very likely he deſired a Parley before they fought, to ſee if they could accommodate Matters without ſhedding Blood.

Ver. 5. Ought you not to know,] They did know, but he means they ought to conſider and acknowledge.

That the LORD God of Iſrael gave the Kingdom over Iſrael to David for ever, even to him and his Sons by a Covenant of Salt?] See concerning this Expreſſion, Covenant of Salt, Num. xviii. 19. The Targum here expounds it, as the Waters of the Sea, which never alter their Saltneſs. But it rather ſignifies a ſolemn Covenant made by Sacrifice, which was always ſalted, Levit. ii. 13.

Ver. 6. Yet Jeroboam the Son of Nebat, the Servant of Solomon the Son of David, is riſen up, and has rebelled againſt his Lord.] Tho' he had the Warrant of a Prophet to take the Kingdom; yet his own Ambition firſt led him to it; as we may gather from 1 Kings xi. 27.

Ver. 7. And there are gathered unto him vain Men, the Children of Belial,] Such, one would think, his principal Partakers were, who ſo eaſily changed their Religion, that it ſhewed they regarded neither God nor Man: As the Word Belial ſignifies. See my Notes upon 1 Kings xii. 24. And here it may be further noted, that the high Offenders of all Sorts are called by the Name of Children of Belial. As thoſe ungodly Men, who like a Torrent came upon David with all Manner of Violence, are called the Floods of Belial, 2 Sam. xxii. 5. and the ſacrilegious Sons of Eli, 1 Sam. ii. 12. and the filthy Beaſts of Gibeah, Judges xix. 22. and blood-thirſty Men, 2 Sam. xvi. 7. and perjur'd Perſons, 1 Kings xx. 10. and pernicious Counſellors, Nahum i. 11.

And have ſtrengthened themſelves againſt Rehoboam the Son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young,] He was one and forty Years old when he came to his Kingdom; but not bred up to military Affairs, in which he was raw, and unexperienced, in a Time of long Peace.

And tender-hearted.] This doth not ſo much aggravate their Crime, as reflect upon his Father, who wanted Courage, as this Phraſe ſignifies. But if we take it in this Senſe, Abijah overſhot himſelf: For Rehoboam gathered a great Army, and would have fought, if God, by his Prophet, had not forbidden him. And if that was his Meaning, that he had a tender Regard to God's Commands, and yielded immediately to them, he ſpake the Truth; for he was fearful then to offend God, and ſo could not withſtand them, as it here follows.

Ver. 8. And now ye think to withſtand the Kingdom of the LORD, in the Hand of the Sons of David:] But he would not have them think, that God would always be of that Mind, and let them quietly enjoy what they had uſurped. For the Kingdom which he governed was not ſet up by ſuch vain Perſons as advanced Jeroboam; but the LORD himſelf; whom they ſhould not be able to withſtand.

And ye be a great Multitude;] Or, tho' you be far more in Number than we; being two to one, ver. 3.

And there are with you golden Calves, which Jeroboam made you for Gods.] It may be better tranſlated, but there are with you, &c. i. e. you have forſaken the LORD, and worſhipped other Gods (for ſo the golden Calves were eſteemed by God) and therefore your vaſt Forces will do you no Service.

Ver. 9. Have you not caſt out the Prieſts of the LORD, the Sons of Aaron and the Levites,] This they could not deny, whatſoever they might pretend againſt the Charge of forſaking the LORD.

And have made you Prieſts after the Manner of the Nations of other Lands?] Without any Regard to the Family they were of, and out of any Part of the Country. See 1 Kings xii. 31.

So that whoſoever cometh to conſecrate himſelf with a young Bullock and ſeven Rams,] Any one that could make this Expence might conſecrate himſelf to be a Prieſt.

The ſame may be a Prieſt of them that are no Gods.] The Targum expreſſes it thus, is the Prieſt of him that is not the WORD of the LORD. By which it appears (as from innumerable other Places) the Divine WORD was the God of Iſrael, worſhipped in the moſt holy Place.

Ver. 10. But as for us, the LORD is our God,] So it follows in the Targum, unto us the WORD of the LORD is our Helper, he is our God.

And we have not forſaken him:] Not quite departed from him; tho' in ſome Part Abijah (who ſpake theſe Words) had done Evil in the Sight of the LORD, as his Father had done; and his Heart was not perfect with God, 1 Kings xv. 3.

And the Prieſts which miniſter unto the LORD are the Sons of Aaron, and the Levites wait upon their Buſineſs.] The Service of God was orderly derly performed in his Houſe, by ſuch only as were appointed to it by himſelf.

Ver. 11. And they burn unto the LORD every Morning and every Evening, Burnt-ſacrifices and ſweet Incenſe: the Shew-bread alſo ſet they in Order upon the pure Table, and the Candleſtick of Gold, with the Lamps thereof, to burn every Evening:] There was nothing omitted, either Day or Night, which the Law required: And he mentions theſe Things thus particularly, that he might put the Iſraelites in mind how the Worſhip of God was with great Solemnity kept up in Judah, which in ſome Years the Iſraelites had not ſeen, and perhaps had forgot. But he mentions here only one Candleſtick and its Lamps, becauſe, as ſome think, Shiſhak had carried away the reſt; or, rather, becauſe Solomon had made the other ten Candleſticks for Ornament, ſo that they had not Lamps in them every Night, which burnt only in the great Candleſtick made by Moſes, from Evening until Morning. See Levit. xxiv. 2, 3.

For we keep the Charge of the LORD our God; but ye have forſaken him.] The Targum here again thus expreſſes it, We keep the Charge of the WORD of the LORD our God. This gives us reaſon to think, that Abijah kept up the publick Worſhip of God very regularly: Tho' he did Evil in the Sight of the LORD privately.

Ver. 12. And behold, God himſelf is with us for our Captain, and his Prieſts with ſounding Trumpets to cry alarm againſt you:] Upon the ſounding of which Moſes promiſed they ſhould be remembred before the LORD, and ſaved from their Enemies, Numb. x. 9. This ſeems to be added as an Amplification of their ſtrict Obſervance of the Law of God in all Things, in War as well as in Peace, which gave them a good Hope that he would be with them. And here it may be noted, that it doth not appear, that the Prieſts were forbidden any Functions in a Civil Life: For they went to War, and performed the Office of Trumpeters in the Army, as well as in the Temple.

O Children of Iſrael, fight ye not againſt the LORD God of your Fathers, for you ſhall not proſper.] So he concludes his Speech, that if they fought, it was not ſo much againſt him, as againſt the LORD whom their Fathers worſhipped and they had forſaken, and therefore ſhould not ſucceed. None of the great Captains and Commanders, whoſe Speeches are recorded in Heathen Authors, ever ſpoke more movingly than this King of Judah did.

Ver. 13. But Jeroboam cauſed an Ambuſhment to come about behind them: ſo they were before Judah, and the Ambuſhment was behind them.] We read of no Anſwer to this Speech; but Jeroboam ſeems to have been ſo much touched with it, that he would not truſt to his Numbers, but uſed Policy, and like a great Captain, laid an Ambuſh behind the Army of Judah, while he faced them with his main Body, drawn up in Battle Array: For he had ſuch a prodigious Multitude with him, that he had Men enough to ſpare upon any Deſign, and more than enough to fight alſo.

Ver. 14. And when Judah looked back,] Hearing a great Noiſe, it is like, behind them.

Behold, the Battle was before, and behind:] Which put them into ſore Diſtreſs.

And they cried unto the LORD, and the Prieſts ſounded with the Trumpets.] They were not diſmayed, but implored Help from God; which the Prieſts gave them Hopes to obtain. For the Sounding with the Trumpets, was an imploring of the Divine Aid, which God had promiſed (as I before noted) when they ſounded.

Ver. 15. Then the Men of Judah gave a Shout:] To terrify their Enemies, by this Token of their Confidence, that they ſhould have the Victory.

And as the Men of Judah ſhouted, it came to paſs, that God ſmote Jeroboam and all Iſrael before Abijah and Judah.] This is thus expreſſed by the Targum, when the Alarm ſounded, the WORD of the LORD cauſed Jeroboam and all Iſrael to fall, and to be ſlain by Abijah. For to ſmite, commonly ſignifies in Scripture Language to kill.

Ver. 16. And the Children of Iſrael fled before Judah: and God delivered them into their Hands.] They ſeem not to have ſtruck a Stroke, but to have been ſo diſmayed, that they run away; and in the Chaſe were ſlain in vaſt Numbers.

Ver. 17. And Abijah and his People ſlew them with a great Slaughter: ſo there fell down ſlain of Iſrael, five hundred thouſand choſen Men.] This is the greateſt Slaughter that we ever read of in any Story, as Bochartus obſerves: But it is not incredible, when we conſider that God fought for them, and chaſtiſed the Idolatry of the Iſraelites to ſuch a Degree, that the Jews killed an hundred thouſand of them, more than they had in their own Army. So Joſephus alſo long ago obſerves, that there never was ſuch a Slaughter heard of, either among the Greeks or Barbarians.

Ver. 18. Thus the Children of Iſrael were brought under at that Time,] Very much humbled, but not made ſubject to the Houſe of David.

And the Children of Judah prevailed, becauſe they relied upon the LORD God of their Fathers.] It was not by their own Valour that they obtained this great Victory; but by their leaning (or relying) upon the WORD of the LORD God of their Fathers, as the Targum expreſſes it.

Ver. 19. And Abijah purſued after Jeroboam, and took Cities from him,] He followed his Blow (as we ſpeak) and did not content himſelf with beating them in the Field, but purſued the Iſraelites into their Country, and poſſeſſed himſelf of ſome of their Cities.

Beth-el with the Towns thereof,] From whence, it is likely, Jeroboam removed the Golden Calf, unto ſome Place of greater Safety: Or elſe the Deſtruction of it would have been mentioned.

And Jeſhanah with the Towns thereof, and Ephraim with the Towns thereof.] There was a City, as well as a Tribe call'd Ephraim (John xi. 54.) which ſome think was the ſame with Ophrah.

Ver. 20. Neither did Jeroboam recover Strength again in the Days of Abijah: and the LORD ſtruck him, and he died.] Some have made it a Doubt, who it is of whom it is ſaid that God ſtruck him. And in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. xxi. the Jews ſay it was Abijah: For Jeroboam lived a long long Time, but Abijah reigned only three Years: God not granting him a longer Life, becauſe of his Ingratitude for ſo great a Victory; or as others will have it, becauſe, when he took Bethel he did not deſtroy nor carry away the Golden Calf, but let it remain, altho' he had reproached the Iſraelites with it, ver. 8. But it is uncertain, as I ſaid, whether it was there when the City was taken: And the next Verſe plainly ſhews, that Abijah while he lived was mighty: And therefore it was Jehoram who was ſtruck, and died a Year or two after this Blow. And as long as he lived, after this Defeat, ſome think he was full of Anguiſh, and ſuch Pain in his Bowels, as Jeroboam had, c. xxi. 19. Thus Abarbinel, and many others.

Ver. 21. But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen Wives, and begat twenty and two Sons, and ſixteen Daughters.] Not after this Victory, but before he was King, in the Time of his Father; for he lived not long after this Succeſs.

Ver. 22. And the reſt of the Acts of Abijah, and his Ways, and his Sayings, are written in the Story of the Prophet Iddo.] In the Targum it is, they are written in the Midraſch of the Prophet Iddo: That is, in his Commentary, as we tranſlate the Hebrew Word here, in the Margin of our Bible. See c. xii. 15. This King was a very wiſe Man, (as appears by the excellent Oration above-mentioned) and in familiar Converſation drop'd many remarkable Sayings, like the Proverbs of Solomon, which Iddo thought worthy to be recorded and tranſmitted to Poſterity.

CHAP. XIV.

Ver. 1. SO Abijah ſlept with his Fathers, and they buried him in the City of David, and Aſa his Son reigned in his Stead: in his Days the Land was quiet ten Years.] There was no War declared, but only ſome private Bickerings between his Subjects and Baaſha's. See 1 Kings xv. 16.

Ver. 2. And Aſa did that which was good and right in the Eyes of the LORD his God.] See concerning this Verſe and the next, in 1 Kings xv. 11, 12.

Ver. 3. For he took away the Altars of the ſtrange Gods, and the High Places, and brake down the Images, and cut down the Groves.] By this it appears, that tho' Abijah maintained the publick Worſhip of God (as I obſerved c. xiii. 11.) yet there were alſo ſtrange Gods worſhipped in ſome Places.

Ver. 4. And commanded Judah to ſeek the LORD God of their Fathers, and to do the Law and the Commandment.] I ſuppoſe he ſet forth Royal Edicts, requiring the People to worſhip the LORD alone, and to obſerve all the Laws of Moſes.

Ver. 5. Alſo he took away out of all the Cities of Judah, the High Places] There were High Places in the open Fields (mentioned before, ver. 3.) and alſo in the Cities, which were all taken away by him.

And the Images:] In the Hebrew the Sun-Images, as we tranſlate it in the Margin. Certain it is, that the Word Hammanim imports ſomething belonging to the Sun, which Buxtorf renders Solares Statuæ, Sun-Statues; becauſe, ſaith Jarchi, they were ſet on the Tops of Houſes, and ſo expoſed to the Sun: Whence Junius and Tremellius called them Subdiales Statuæ; but Abarbinel thinks they were in the Form of the Sun, made after the Similitude of that Globe, and worſhipped by thoſe who took the Sun for their God. Others think they were Temples built for the Worſhip of the Sun: Which the Vulgar Latin follows.

And the Kingdom was quiet before him.] No Body made Oppoſition to him.

Ver. 6. And he built fenced Cities in Judah:] On the Frontiers of his Kingdom.

For the Land had reſt, and he had no War in thoſe Years, becauſe the LORD had given him reſt.] The Targum thus explains it, becauſe the Land of Iſrael reſted, neither did they more war againſt him in thoſe Years: That is, the Iſraelites and their King made no Attempt upon him, nor endeavoured to vindicate the late great Loſs they had received, by the ſingular Providence of God over him. But the meaning may rather be, that the Land of Judah (which he is ſpeaking of) which had hitherto endeavoured to reduce the ten Tribes to the Obedience of the Houſe of David, now attempted nothing, nor was aſſaulted by them or others.

Becauſe the Lord had given him Reſt.] Of which he made this good Uſe, in providing for War in the Time of Peace.

Ver. 7. Therefore he ſaid unto Judah, Let us build theſe Cities, and make about them Walls and Towers, Gates and Bars,] But he ſhewed his Wiſdom in this alſo, that he did not go about this Work without the Advice of his Counſel, and the Elders of Judah.

While the Land is yet before us;] Which the Targum thus expounds, while the Inhabitants of the Land are ſubdued to us. Or, as Jarchi, while the Kingdom is eſtabliſhed before us. That is, while it is in our Power, as this Phraſe ſignifies.

Becauſe we have ſought the LORD our God, we have ſought him, and he hath given us reſt on every Side: ſo they built and proſpered.] None gave him the leaſt Diſturbance, till he had finiſhed his Works.

Ver. 8. And Aſa had an Army of Men that bare Targets and Spears, out of Judah three hundred thouſand, and out of Benjamin that bare Shields and drew Bows, two hundred and fourſcore thouſand, all theſe were mighty Men of Valour.] He was provided alſo of a great Army, if there were any Occaſion to uſe it, as well as of Places of Defence. Some think he raiſed theſe Men after he heard Zerah intended an Invaſion upon him: But it rather ſignifies his great Care to have an Army in Readineſs, when he ſaw no Danger of any Enemy.

Ver. 9. And there came out againſt them Zerah the Ethiopian,] King of the Arabians, as Cuſh here ſignifies: And muſt neceſſarily be ſo underſtood in c. xxi. 16. and 2 Kings xix. 9. See what I have there noted. And Bochartus in his Phaleg, L. iv. Cap. 2. where he ſhews they were a very powerful Nation.

With an Hoſt of a thouſand thouſand, and three hundred Chariots, and came to Mareſhah.] A City upon the Borders of Judah, Joſh. xv. 44.

Ver. 10. Then Aſa went out againſt him, and they ſet the Battle in Array in the Valley of Zephathath at Mareſhah.] He did not ſtay till he entred his Country, but went to fight him upon the Frontiers of it.

Ver. 11. And Aſa cried unto the LORD his God, and ſaid,] Before he began to fight, he implored the Help of Heaven: Which he did, I ſuppoſe, in the Face of all his Army, that they might look up to God as their Strength and Salvation.

LORD, it is nothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no Power:] Or, as the Targum renders it, there is none beſides thee, who helpeſt both the Strong and the Weak.

Help us, O LORD our God, for we reſt on thee, and in thy Name we go againſt this Multitude:] In the Targum it is, we rely upon thy WORD, in the Name of thy WORD we go forth: That is, by his Authority, in Confidence of his Power, and in the Defence of his Kingdom and Religion.

O LORD, thou art our God, let not Man prevail againſt thee.] Nothing could more inſpire them with Courage, than to believe, he look'd upon their Cauſe as his own, while they owned him for their God.

Ver. 12. So the LORD ſmote the Ethiopians before Aſa, and before Judah, and the Ethiopians fled.] As the Iſraelites had done not long before, c. xiii. 15.

Ver. 13. And Aſa and the People that were with him, purſued them unto Gerar:] This was a City of the Philiſtines, who, it's likely, were their Allies, and Confederates in this War.

And the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themſelves, for they were deſtroyed before the LORD, and before his Hoſt;] The Victory was ſo intire, that they could not rally their Forces to renew the Fight. It is not ſaid what Number were ſlain, but the Word deſtroy ſignifies that very many periſhed: For they fought againſt the LORD, and his Hoſt, who made a great Deſtruction among them.

And they carried away very much Spoil.] From the Men that were ſlain in the Field of Battle, and thoſe that run away and left their Baggage behind them: For he ſpeaks in the next Verſes of the Spoil of their Cities, and of the Fields about them.

Ver. 14. And they ſmote all the Cities round about Gerar,] Into which it is likely the Ethiopians fled.

For the fear of the LORD came upon them:] Seeing ſo vaſt an Hoſt defeated, they had no Courage to defend themſelves.

And they ſpoiled all the Cities, for there was exceeding much Spoil in them.] Partly by their own Riches, and partly by the Booty which the Ethiopians afforded them.

Ver. 15. They ſmote alſo the Tents of Cattle, and carried away Sheep and Camels in Abundance, and returned to Jeruſalem.] The Abundance of Camels which they had, ſhew they were Arabians; and the Scenitæ and Nomades (as Bochartus obſerves) did not live all the Year in the open Air, but had Tents both for themſelves and their Cattle in Winter-Time. And they that dwelt in Tents, are oppoſed to thoſe who lived in the open Field, who are ſaid ἀγραυλεῖν. Thus Eſau and Jacob are diſtinguiſhed; the former of which is ſaid to be a Man of the Field, and the other to dwell in Tents, Gen. xxv. 27.

CHAP. XV.

Ver. 1. AND the Spirit of God came upon Azariah the Son of Oded.] Some think he was alſo called Oded, ver. 8. but had the Name of Azariah given him, to diſtinguiſh him from his Father.

Ver. 2. And he went out to meet Aſa, and ſaid unto him, Hear ye me, Aſa, and all Judah and Benjamin, The LORD is with you,] As appear'd by the late glorious Victory, they had obtained by his Help, c. xiv. 13.

While ye be with him;] While you continue to worſhip him alone.

And if ye ſeek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forſake him, he will forſake you.] He would not have them preſume of his continued Favour, if they forſook his Worſhip and Service: And therefore admoniſhes them to ſtick cloſe to him, otherwiſe he would forſake them. The Targum thus expreſſes it, the WORD of the LORD is your Helper, while you walk in his Ways, &c.

Ver. 3. Now for a long Seaſon Iſrael hath been without the true God,] The Targum explains it very clearly, there have been many Days, ſince the Houſe of Iſrael departed from the Houſe of David, becauſe of Jeroboam: In which they have not worſhipped the true God, but the Golden Calves.

And without a teaching Prieſt, and without Law.] For all the Prieſts were gone into the Land of Judah: And the Iſraelites neglected the Study of the Law, as the Targum explains the laſt Words. But there are a great Number of learned Men, who will have theſe Words, and thoſe that follow, relate to the Times of the Judges; when they were more manifeſtly in ſuch a Condition as is here deſcribed. And truly Campegius Vitringa hath learnedly aſſerted this Opinion, in his Book De Synagoga Veteri, Pars II. L. i. Cap. 6.

Ver. 4. But when they in their Trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Iſrael, and ſought him, he was found of them.] If we follow the common Interpretation, which reſpects the preſent and future State of Iſrael, theſe Words ſhould thus be tranſlated, If in their Trouble they had turned, &c. they ſhould have found him.

Ver. 5. And in thoſe Times there was no Peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great Vexations were upon all the Inhabitants of the Countries.] We do not read of ſuch Troubles hitherto in the Kingdom of Iſrael; therefore the Words muſt be tranſlated, In thoſe Times (if they continue to diſpleaſe God) there ſhall be no Peace, &c. No Quiet, no Safety, but they ſhall be infeſted both by external Wars, and inteſtine Diſcords. Which was fulfilled, filled, as we find in their Hiſtory, 1 Kings xv, xvi, &c.

Ver. 6. And Nation was deſtroyed of Nation, and City of City:] Theſe Words alſo muſt be tranſlated in the future Tenſe, Nation ſhall be deſtroyed of Nation, &c. Where by Nation is meant Tribe: One of which fought againſt another, in thoſe Times, when there was no certain ſettled Succeſſion in the Kingdom; but whoſoever killed their King, hoped to make a Party to help him to get into the Throne.

For God did vex them with all Adverſity.] For God ſhall ſet them one againſt another, with mutual Slaughters, and all thoſe Evils that accompany Civil Wars. The Targum here again tranſlates it, the WORD of the LORD, &c.

Ver. 7. Be ye ſtrong therefore, and let not your Hands be weak:] To root out Idolatry; which had brought ſuch Calamities upon the Iſraelites, and would ſtill bring more.

For your Work ſhall be rewarded.] As they might learn from their late great Victory over Idolaters.

Ver. 8. And when Aſa heard theſe Words, and the Prophecy of Oded the Prophet,] A ſhort Expreſſion, being as much as the Son of Oded the Prophet. Tho' ſome think the Father propheſied, as well as the Son, and foretold the ſame Calamities; the more to awaken them, and confirm them in the Belief of what Azariah ſaid.

He took Courage,] This explains the foregoing Words, be ſtrong therefore, to be meant of an undaunted Reſolution to aboliſh Idolatry: Which required great Courage, when ſo many were addicted to it, and had practiſed it both in the Days of Rehoboam and Abijah.

And put away the abominable Idols out of all the Land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the Cities which he had taken from Mount Ephraim,] Or which had been taken, viz. by Abijah.

And renewed the Altar of the LORD that was before the Porch of the LORD.] At the Entry of the Court of the Prieſts.

Ver. 9. And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the Strangers with them out of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, and out of Simeon: (for they fell to him out of Iſrael in Abundance,] Tho' the Simeonites had their Portion out of the Tribe of Judah, when the Land was divided by Joſhua; yet it appears from hence, as well as from other Places, that they joined themſelves to the reſt of the Iſraelites, when the Kingdom was rent by Jeroboam. But now great Numbers of them came over to Aſa: Which they might eaſily do, for one Side of their Tribe adjoined to Judah, as the other to Dan.

When they ſaw that the LORD his God was with him,)] The Targum here again renders it, When he ſaw the WORD of the LORD was his Helper.

Ver. 10. So they gathered themſelves together at Jeruſalem, in the third Month, in the fifteenth Year of the Reign of Aſa.] This ſeems to have been a voluntary Aſſembly by common Agreement, rather than by the King's Commandment or Invitation: Unleſs we ſuppoſe it to have been at one of the great Feſtivals when they were bound by God to go up to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 11. And they offered unto the LORD the ſame Time,] In the Hebrew, in that Day; which the Targum takes to have been in the Feaſt of Weeks, which in the New Teſtament is called Pentecoſt; which was kept in the third Month, called Sivan.

Of the Spoil which they had brought,] From Zerah, and from the Cities they took about Gerar.

Seven hundred Oxen, and ſeven thouſand Sheep.] Which they offered beſides the appointed Offerings at the Feaſt. And they ſeem to have been partly Burnt-offerings, in Acknowledgement of God's Goodneſs for their great Victory, and partly Peace-offerings, in eating of which they made the following Covenant.

Ver. 12. And they entered into a Covenant to ſeek the LORD God of their Fathers, with all their Heart, and with all their Soul;] Engaged themſelves by a ſolemn Oath to worſhip the LORD alone, and profeſſed to do it ſincerely, and with intire Affection to him. But this doth not ſignify that Aſa had no Fault: For it appears by the next Chapter, that he had a great many.

Ver. 13. That whatſoever would not ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael, ſhould be put to death,] If any Body did either publickly or privately worſhip any other God, they agreed the Sentence of the Law ſhould be executed upon him, which was Death, Deut. xvii. 2.

Whether ſmall or great, whether Man or Woman.] That is, without any Reſpect to Perſons; no Conſideration being had of any one's Dignity, nor the Weakneſs of their Sex moving Pity and Compaſſion.

Ver. 14. And they ſware unto the LORD with a loud Voice, and with Shouting, and with Trumpets, and with Cornets.] Theſe were Expreſſions of the Joy, mentioned in the next Verſe, wherewith they took this Oath. The Difference between Trumpets and Cornets, it is not worth enquiring after: The former ſeem to have been made of Metals, the other of Horns or Wood.

Ver. 15. And all Judah rejoiced at the Oath:] The main Body of the People. And tho' there might be ſome Idolaters ſecretly lurking among them, yet they all gave thoſe outward Tokens of their Joy, to ſee the Worſhip of God thus eſtabliſhed.

For they had ſworn with all their Heart, and ſought him with their whole Deſire,] That is, they profeſſed to do this moſt ſincerely and heartily; and many of them, no doubt, did at that time reſolve to worſhip God alone, tho' afterward they apoſtatized from him.

And he was found of them: and the LORD gave them Reſt round about.] They reaped the happy Fruit of this Reformation, in the great Peace which they enjoyed, without Diſturbance from any of their Neighbours.

Ver. 16. And alſo concerning Maachah the Mother of Aſa the King,] His Grand-Mother, as the Targum obſerves: It being uſual in Scripture to call ſuch their Parents, Exod. ii. 18.

He removed her from being Queen,] This was a great Teſtimony of the Uprightneſs of this King, that he would not ſuffer ſuch a near Relation to retain her Idols, or any Authority:

His

His Love to God overcometh his Affection to his Parents. See 1 Kings xv. 13. Jacobus Capellus thinks this ſtirred up Baaſha to make War upon him; for having liv'd peaceably with him a long Time, upon this he broke out into Hoſtility. Hiſtor. Sacra & Exot. ad Annum Mundi 3053.

Becauſe ſhe had made an Idol in a Grove:] Or rather, an Aſherah, or Aſtarte, for ſo Laaſherah is tranſlated by the LXX. And, in all Probability, Aſtarte, the famous Goddeſs of Syria, was the Deity which was worſhipped by Maachah, as Mr. Selden obſerves in his de Diis Syris, Syntagm. ii. Cap. 2. And thus Abarbinel upon Jerem. xliv. makes Aſherah to be the ſame with the Queen of Heaven there mentioned, viz. the Moon.

And Aſa cut down her Idol, and ſtamped it, and burnt it at the Brook Kidron.] He deſtroyed it with the utmoſt Contempt, 1 Kings xv. 13.

Ver. 17. But the high Places were not taken away out of Iſrael:] It is ſaid twice in the foregoing Chapter, that he did take away the high Places, ver. 3 and 5. But that was of Judah: Whereas out of the Territories he had conquered in the Land of Iſrael, we are here informed, he was not able to remove them. Or elſe the Meaning is, that he gave Orders for the taking them away every where; but they were not obeyed: Or, as others think, he took away thoſe high Places that were for the Service of other Gods; but let thoſe alone where the true God alone was worſhipped.

Nevertheleſs the Heart of Aſa was perfect all his Days.] He heartily hated all idolatrous Worſhip, as long as he lived.

Ver. 18. And he brought unto the Houſe of God the Things that his Father had dedicated, and that he himſelf had dedicated, Silver, and Gold, and Veſſels.] See upon 1 Kings xv. 15.

Ver. 19. And there was no more War unto the five and thirtieth Year of the Reign of Aſa.] That is, as ſome interpret it, there was no War with the Ethiopians, or ſuch like People; tho' with Baaſha he had perpetual War, 1 Kings xv. 16. But Jacobus Capellus in the Place above-named, would have the Words thus tranſlated, There was no War in the Kingdom of Aſa, till the thirty fifth Year, viz. of the Kingdom of Iſrael, not of Judah, or Aſa: For this was the thirty fifth Year after Jeroboam rent the Kingdom from the Houſe of David. In which he follows Torniellus; as he doth Beroaldus and Junius, tho' he would not vouchſafe to name them; but more of this in the Beginning of the next Chapter.

CHAP. XVI.

Ver. 1. IN the ſix and thirtieth Year of the Reign of Aſa, Baaſha King of Iſrael came up againſt Judah,] The War was begun in the Concluſion of the five and thirtieth Year; and in the Beginning of the ſix and thirtieth he made this Invaſion. But this diſagrees ſo much with what is ſaid in 1 Kings xv. 33. that Interpreters labour hard to reconcile them; for by that Place it appears, that Baaſha began his Reign in the third Year of Aſa, and reigned no more than four and twenty Years: From whence it follows, that he was dead, nine or ten Years before the thirty ſixth Year of Aſa. It is a ſhort Way of ſolving this which Joſephus ſeems to take, Lib. viii. Ant. Cap. 6. by ſuppoſing a Miſtake in the Tranſcriber from the Original Copy, in which it was not the ſix and thirtieth of Aſa's Reign, but the ſix and twentieth, which was the laſt Year of the Reign of Baaſha; who died, he thinks, immediately after Benhadad had defeated his Intentions of building Ramah; but moſt think this too bold a Suppoſal; and therefore I gave in few Words another Account of this Difficulty in my Notes upon 1 Kings xvi. 8. viz. that this was the ſix and thirtieth Year ſince the Diviſion of the Kingdom, after the Death of Solomon, when Iſrael was rent from Judah: For ſo many Years were now paſt ſince that Time; viz. twenty Years in the Reign of Rehoboam and Abijah, and fifteen of Aſa's Reign, when many of the Iſraelites came to him, (xv. 10.) Thus Sedar Olam Rabba, Ralbag, Abarbinel alſo, with a great Number of eminent modern Writers, both Proteſtants and Papiſts; ſuch as Junius, Piſcator, Cocceius, Jacobus Capellus, Lightfoot, Mariana, Torniellus, Sanctius, Salianus and Petavius himſelf, with many others. It is not ſaid indeed, that Baaſha came up in the thirty ſixth Year of the Kingdom of Judah, but in that Year of the Reign of King Aſa: But they make Account, that the Kingdom of Judah and of Aſa were all one, and ſo they might eaſily be put one for the other. And whereas it is objected, That the Scripture is not wont to reckon the Years of any King from any other Term, but the Time wherein he began to reign; they produce an Example to the contrary from 2 Sam. xv. 7. where Abſalom is ſaid to have gone to Hebron in the End of forty Years, and there conſpired againſt his Father; which Years Sedar Olam reckons from the Beginning of the Kingdom, or the Inauguration of Saul. And our Dr. Lightfoot alledges another Inſtance in the thirty ſixth Chapter of this Book, v. 9. where Jehoiachin is ſaid to be eight Years old, when he began to reign; that is, ſaid he, in the eighth Year of Nebuchadnezzar: For he was eighteen Years old, as appears from 2 Kings xxiv. 8. But this Difference, I think, may be better reconciled another Way, as I ſhall obſerve on that Place. I ſhall here only add, that as this is the moſt ancient Way of ſolving this Difficulty, ſo they that go another are forc'd to ſuppoſe, that theſe Words do not relate to the Beginning of the Reign of Aſa, but to ſomething elſe; for Inſtance, to the Beginning of his Wars with Iſrael, which Kimchi endeavours to make out; but I ſhall not trouble the Reader with it, for many good Men think Joſephus in the Right.

And built Ramah,] That is, made a Wall about it, and fortified it.

To the Intent that he might let none go out, or come in to Aſa King of Judah.] The late Defection of ſo many of his Subjects, as fell from him to the Houſe of David (xv. 9.) was the Occaſion of ſetting a ſtrong Guard in this Place, which was the Paſſage between the Dominions of Iſrael and Judah, 1 Kings xv. 17.

Ver. 2. Then Aſa brought out Silver and Gold, out of the Treaſures of the Houſe of the LORD, and of the King's Houſe, and ſent to Ben-hadad King of Syria, that dwelt at Damaſcus, ſaying,]

This is a little more largely related in 1 Kings xv. 18. See my Notes there.

Ver. 3. There is a League between me and thee, as there was between my Father and thy Father: behold, I have ſent thee Silver and Gold; go, break thy League with Baaſha King of Iſrael, that he may depart from me.

Ver. 4. And Ben-hadad hearkened unto King Aſa, and ſent the Captains of his Armies againſt the Cities of Iſrael; and they ſmote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the Store-Cities of Naphtali.

Ver. 5. And it came to paſs, when Baaſha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his Work ceaſe.

Ver. 6. Then Aſa the King took all Judah, and they carried away the Stones of Ramah, and the Timber thereof; wherewith Baaſha was a building, and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.] Theſe four Verſes are the very ſame (with ſmall Variation) with thoſe in 1 Kings xv. 19, 20, 21, 29. See my Notes there.

Ver. 7. And at that Time Hanani the Seer came to Aſa King of Judah, and ſaid unto him,] Here follows a remarkable Hiſtory added to what we read in the Book of the Kings: Which relates the great Weakneſs of Aſa in his declining Years, and God's Diſpleaſure at it.

Becauſe thou haſt relied on the King of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God,] Who had promiſed great Victories to him, by the Prophet Azariah, if he did well, xv. 7.

Therefore is the Hoſt of the King of Syria eſcaped out of thine Hand.] Whom God would have overthrown, as he did the Ethiopians, if they had continued their League with Baaſha, and come to his Aſſiſtance againſt Aſa. But now the Syrians were reſerved to be a Scourge to his Family.

Ver. 8. Were not the Ethiopians and the Lubims a huge Hoſt, with very many Chariots and Horſemen?] See xiv. 9. By the Lubims are meant the People of Libya, or the Africans beyond Egypt; who are ſometimes in Scripture called Phut, and ſometimes Lubim, from the Arabick Word Lub, which ſignifies dry or thirſty, as Bochartus obſerves: For ſuch was the Country which this People inhabited, Terra ſitiens, (as Lucian calls it) a thirſty Land. They are noted by Authors to have had abundance of Horſemen and Chariots, in which they fought, as Xenophon tells us. And Herodotus ſaith, the Greeks learnt from them τέτρορας ἵππους ζευγνῦναι, to yoke four Horſes together to draw a Chariot.

Yet becauſe thou didſt rely on the LORD, he delivered them into thine Hand.] See xiv. 11. The Words of Conradus Pellicanus upon this Verſe are ſo pious, that I think fit to tranſcribe them. "Aſa committed a triple Offence; in "diſtruſting the Goodneſs of God for Help, "and calling to his Aid an Infidel and impious "King; when he had lately had ſuch an Ex"periment of God's Clemency in his Triumph "over the King of Ethiopia. Nothing of"fends God ſo much as Diſtruſt in his Good"neſs toward the Faithful; as an entire Faith "and Confidence in his Mercy pleaſes him a"bove all Things. Upon which Account Da"vid was ſo highly in his Favour, tho' other"wiſe guilty of ſundry Crimes."

Ver. 9. For the Eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole Earth, to ſhew himſelf ſtrong in the Behalf of them, whoſe Heart is perfect towards him.] He exerciſes a moſt watchful Providence over thoſe throughout the whole World, who ſincerely commit themſelves unto him, and depend upon him in well-doing, and will not fail to protect them. For theſe Words, as Mr. Mede obſerves, are of the ſame Import with thoſe in the Prophecy of Zechariah, iv. 11. where the ſeven Eyes of the LORD are ſaid to run to and fro thro' the Earth; which took ſuch Care of that one Stone which Zerubbabel had laid for the Foundation of the Temple, that the Work could not be diſappointed, but ſhould certainly at length be finiſhed, Par. i. Diſcourſe 10.

Herein thou haſt done fooliſhly; therefore from henceforth thou ſhalt have Wars.] The Heart of Aſa is ſaid to have been perfect all his Days, in the foregoing Chapter, v. 17. And ſo it was in the Matter of the outward Worſhip of God at the Temple; of which he was there ſpeaking. But in the latter End of his Life he was defective in his inward Truſt and Confidence in God: Which is called Fooliſhneſs; both becauſe it was a ſinful Thing, and very pernicious. For God expoſed him to his Enemies, as a Puniſhment for relying on Man more than his Friendſhip.

Ver. 10. Then Aſa was wroth with the Seer,] This was ſtill a greater Sin, to be ſo angry with his Reprover (tho' he had his Commiſſion from God) as to put him in Priſon. But Anger is no good Adviſer; and when Men forget God, they are not themſelves.

And put him in a Priſon Houſe;] In the Stocks which were in the Priſon, as Tremellius tranſlates it, in domum cippi.

For he was in a Rage with him, becauſe of this Thing.] For which he ought to have thanked, and rewarded him.

And Aſa oppreſſed ſome of the People at the ſame Time.] He inſlaved them, as the Targum tranſlates it; that is, in the latter Part of his Reign he grew ſomething tyrannical, and no Wonder, when he relied not upon God, but upon human Power, and was full of Pride and Paſſion.

Ver. 11. And behold, the Acts of Aſa, firſt and laſt, lo, they are written in the Books of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael.] Not in theſe Books of the Kings which we have in the Bible: But in thoſe written by the Prophets, mentioned xii. 15.

Ver. 12. And Aſa in the thirty and ninth Year of his Reign, was diſeaſed in his Feet until his Diſeaſe was exceeding great:] He had the Gout; which increaſed to ſuch an Heighth, that he died of it, as Pellicanus thinks: Which was a juſt Puniſhment upon him, for putting the Prophet's Feet in the Stocks. Ut per id quod peccaverat, per id puniretur; That his Offence might be ſeen in his Puniſhment.

Yet in his Diſeaſe he ſought not to the LORD, but to the Phyſicians.] It was not a Fault that he deſired the Help of Phyſicians; but that he truſted to their Skill, more than to the Goodneſs and Power of God; which he did not implore, but continued in his former Fault, of putting Confidence in Man. And ſo Grotius thinks, he did not ſin in ſeeking Help from the Syrians, but in truſting to them more than God, and hiring them with Things conſecrated to God, Lib. ii. De Jure Belli & Pacis, Cap. xv. Sect. 9. An excellent Perſon whom I have often mentioned (Dr. Alix) is of Opinion, that theſe Phyſicians were Heathens; for we never read of any before in the ſacred Story, but among the Egyptians: And the Heathen Phyſicians in thoſe Days were a ſort of Charmers.

and

Ver. 13. And Aſa ſlept with his Fathers, and died in the one and fortieth Year of his Reign.

Ver. 14. And they buried him in his own Sepulchres, which he had made for himſelf in the City of David,] In the Hebrew the Words are, they buried him in his Sepulchres; the Plural Number being uſed, as many think, for the Singular; which is frequent in the Scripture: But the Words rather reſpect the Form of their Monuments in that Nation, which contained many Sepulchres: That is, ſeveral Cells wherein dead Bodies were laid. And it is likely, he made one for himſelf, which he added to the reſt of the Sepulchres in that Vault, or Monument.

And laid him in the Bed, which was filled with ſweet Odours, and divers Kinds of Spices prepared by the Apothecaries Art:] To all his other Offences he added this Vanity, (as Conradus Pellicanus thinks) that he ordered his Body to be buried after the Manner of the Gentiles, rather than like the People of God: Tho' it muſt be confeſſed, it was an ancient Cuſtom to embalm Bodies, which was uſed in the Burial of Jacob. But what is here related doth not ſeem to be meant of any thing done to the Body, but to the Bed on which it lay; which, among the Romans, was very ſtately for great Perſons. See Suetonius in the Life of Julius Cæſar, Cap. 84. For the Heathens were wont to burn their Goods with them, to ſerve them in the other World.

And they made a very great Burning for him.] The Greeks and Romans burnt dead Bodies; throwing Frankincenſe, Myrrh, Caſſia, and other fragrant Things into the Fire: And theſe in ſuch vaſt Quantity, that Pliny repreſents it as a Piece of Profaneneſs, to beſtow ſuch Heaps of Frankincenſe upon a dead Body, when they offered it to their Gods by Crumbs, Lib. xii. Nat. Hiſt. Cap. 18. But the Iſraelites had no ſuch Cuſtom; but from the ancient Egyptians perhaps learnt the Cuſtom, not of burning Bodies, but of burning many Spices at their Funerals; as we find not only here, but at the Funeral of Jehoram, c. xxi. 9. and of Zedekiah, Jerem. xxxiv. 5. Kimchi here ſays, that they burnt the Bed on which they lay, and other Houſhold-Stuff, that none might have the Honour to uſe them when they were gone.

If we may believe what the Jews ſay in Juchaſin, when Gamaliel the Son of Simeon, the Grand-child of Hillel (at whoſe Feet St. Paul ſat) was buried, Onkelos burnt ſeventy Pound of Frankincenſe upon his Sepulchre. But this is a Fable invented to raiſe the Credit of the Targum of Onkelos, which was not known till many Ages after. But the beſt of the Jews believe this burning of ſweet Spices and Woods was firſt intended, merely to prevent the Offence which the Smell of dead Bodies might poſſibly ſometimes give. But the Vanity of ſome Men made them exceed beyond Neceſſity.

CHAP. XVII.

Ver. 1. AND Jehoſhaphat his Son reigned in his ſtead, and ſtrengthened himſelf againſt Iſrael.] The firſt Thing he did after he came to the Crown, was to put his Kingdom in a good Poſture of Defence, againſt the King and People of Iſrael; who had given Diſturbance to his Father, xvi. 1, &c.

Ver. 2. And he placed Forces in all the fenced Cities of Judah, and ſet Gariſons in the Land of Judah, and in the Cities of Ephraim, which Aſa his Father had taken.] He fortified his frontier Cities, and increaſed the Gariſons in the reſt of the Country, and in thoſe Cities which his Father took from Iſrael. We do not read indeed of any Cities that Aſa took, but Abijah poſſeſſed himſelf of ſeveral, which Aſa kept and took for his own, xiii. 19. and Jehoſhaphat put ſuch Forces in them as might ſecure them to himſelf.

Ver. 3. And the LORD was with Jehoſhaphat,] The Targum, according to the uſual Language of that Paraphraſt, ſaith, The WORD of the LORD was his Helper.

Becauſe he walked in the firſt Ways of his Father David,] Before he committed thoſe foul Sins, in the Matter of Urijah; but ſome read it, of his Father, and of David, for Aſa in the Beginning of his Reign was very pious, as David was. And thus it is ſome Reflection upon Aſa, for his Offences in the latter End of his Life: His Son being noted to have followed him as he was in his firſt Days, not in his old Age.

And ſought not unto Baalim.] Which were the Gods worſhipped in all the Eaſtern Countries round about them.

Ver. 4. But ſought the LORD God of his Father, and walked in his Commandments, and not after the Doings of Iſrael.] As he worſhipped not the Gods of other Countries, ſo he did not join with the Iſraelites in worſhipping God by the Calves.

Ver. 5. Therefore the LORD eſtabliſhed the Kingdom in his Hand, and all Judah brought up Jehoſhaphat Preſents,] As they uſed to do in thoſe Countries, in the Beginning of their King's Reign. See 1 Sam. x. 27, 28. and 1 Kings x. 25.

And he had Riches and Honour in Abundance.] Riches procure Men Honour, when they make ſuch a good Uſe of them, as he did.

Ver. 6. And his Heart was lift up in the Ways of the LORD:] He had very generous Reſolutions, as Strigelius renders it, to promote the true Worſhip of God, and all Goodneſs; his Mind being raiſed above all Fear and Diſcouragement.

Moreover, he took away the high Places and Groves out of Judah.] The Meaning is plain, that thoſe high Places wherein they ſacrificed to Idols, he deſtroyed, as Aſa had done in the Beginning of his Reign; but in the latter End, ſome had reſtored them again. There is no need therefore of their Amendment, who fancy that anciently inſtead of Veoth, moreover, there was Velo, he did not; that ſo it may agree with 1 Kings xxii. 43. and with the twentieth Chapter of this Book, v. 33. As if the Meaning was, that tho' he was couragious above all that had been before him; yet the People were ſo accuſtomed to Sacrifices in high Places, that he durſt not take them away. This is true, that where they offered to the true God, he did not take them away; but thoſe wherein Idols were worſhipped were aboliſhed.

Ver. 7. Alſo in the third Year of his Reign, he ſent to his Princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, to teach in the Cities of Judah.] He ſent ſome that were of his Counſel, to ſee the People taught; by removing all Impediments, and making the People come to hear the Prieſts and the Levites; for it had been to little Purpoſe to take away their Idols, if they had not been withal better inſtructed: And the Prieſts and the Levites would not have had much Authority among the People, if they had not been back'd by ſuch great Perſons as are here mentioned. Grotius indeed will have it, that theſe great Men did themſelves inſtruct the People: For, as the Jews obſerve, it was not proper to the Prieſts and Levites, but all learned Men might teach the People; and theſe who were of the King's Counſel were certainly learned in the Law. But the two next Verſes tell us, that Prieſts and Levites were ſent along with them, who taught in Judah; and therefore I take the Meaning to be, that Jehoſhaphat being very deſirous to have the People underſtand their Duty, took this ſingular and extraordinary Courſe to ſend ſome Princes, together with the Prieſts and Levites, upon this weighty Buſineſs: The latter, that they might teach the People, the former to ſee them do it carefully, and require the People to come and receive Inſtruction, and to be obedient to what they heard. Thus Jarchi and other Interpreters explain it; It belonged to the Prieſts and Levites to inform the People of their Duty, as it is written, Deut. xxiv. 8. and theſe political Perſons went along with them, to quicken the People to hear them, and compel them to obey them, and do according to their Commands. See Nehem. viii. 9. Campegius Vitringa hath a long Diſcourſe to this Purpoſe in his Synag. Vet. Par. ii. Lib. i. Cap. 9. where he takes this to be an Indication that the People in thoſe Times had little ſolemn publick Inſtruction; and thinks it a good Proof that there were no Synagogues in the Country in thoſe Days, as there were in After-times, wherein the People were conſtantly inſtructed in the Senſe of the Divine Law. Mr. Thorndike indeed rightly obſerves, that the Words of Moſes, Deut. xxiv. 8. are not rightly alledged by Jarchi to this Purpoſe; but there is another Place, Deut. xvi. 18. from whence he alſo concludes (Religious Aſſemblies, p. 23.) that this Teaching conſiſted in declaring the Obligation of the Law by the Judges of it, the Prieſts and Levites; and the Princes were Officers with Power to inforce the Execution of it. See Malachi ii. 7.

Ver. 8. And with them he ſent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Aſahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites.] Theſe, no doubt, were eminent Men among the Levites, as the two Prieſts Eliſhama, and Jehoram were, who were joined with them.

Ver. 9. And they taught in Judah, and had the Book of the Law of the LORD with them,] That they might teach with the greater Authority, by reciting the very Words of that ſacred Book. But from hence Vitringa argues, that the Books of Moſes were ſcarce among the People in thoſe Days: For if there had been then publick Synagogues, wherein the Law had been read (as it was afterward, every Sabbath-day) there had been no need of carrying a Copy of the Law with them; which they might have had in every Synagogue.

And went about throughout all the Cities of Judah, and taught the People.] Which is too plain an Argument, that there were not ſettled Teachers in every City; who on all Occaſions inſtructed the People: Nor doth it appear by this Hiſtory, that theſe great Men who were ſent to ſee the People inſtructed, ſettled ſuch conſtant Teachers in every City, to inſtruct them when they were gone. The Prieſts and Levites, no doubt, were ready to teach the People in their Cities where they dwelt: And there is good Reaſon to think, that moſt Part of the Prophets, who were the great Inſtructors of the People, were Prieſts and Levites. But it is as certain, that the Charge of teaching the People belonged to thoſe Prophets who were not Prieſts and Levites, as much as to thoſe that were, as Mr. Thorndike obſerves in the ſame Place.

Ver. 10. And the Fear of the LORD fell upon all the Kingdoms of the Lands, that were round about Judah, ſo that they made no War againſt Jehoſhaphat.] God took care to prevent any Diſturbance, while they were about this pious Work, by ſtriking a Terror into all their Neighbours; who, it is likely, were ſenſible, that it was in vain to aſſault them, while they continued firm in their Religion. For they could not but obſerve how much their Proſperity depended on that; and that they never fell into their Enemies Hands, but when they fell off from God.

Ver. 11. Alſo ſome of the Philiſtines brought Jehoſhaphat Preſents, and Tribute Silver;] They were ſo far from giving him any Diſturbance, that ſome of his Neighbours complimented him by Preſents, and voluntarily paid their Tribute; which, it is likely, they had neglected in the Time of ſome of his Predeceſſors; tho' impoſed on them by David, who had conquered the Philiſtines.

And the Arabians brought him Flocks, ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred Rams, and ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred He-goats.] The Riches of the Arabians conſiſted in Cattle, as Fuller obſerves out of Strabo and Pliny, in his Miſcellanies, Lib. iii. Cap. 16. And the Scripture informs us, how they abounded in both ſorts of Flocks here mentioned, Iſaiah lx. 7. Ezek. xxvii. 21. And theſe perhaps were their Tribute, they having been brought under the Jews: Or rather their Preſent, by which they ſought Jehoſhaphat's Friendſhip, and put themſelves under his Protection.

Ver.

Ver. 12. And Jehoſhaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah Caſtles, and Cities of Store.] He built very ſtrong Towers (as Jarchi underſtands it) and Cities wherein he laid up Proviſions of Wine and Corn.

Ver. 13. And he had much Buſineſs in the Cities of Judah:] To ſettle Religion, and purge out Idolatry; as well as to provide for their Safety, by Fortifications, and whatſoever was neceſſary for the Preſervation of publick Tranquillity.

And the Men of War, mighty Men of Valour, were in Jeruſalem.] He kept the principal Officers in his Army near to himſelf; that he might adviſe with them upon any Emergency.

Ver. 14. And theſe are the Numbers of them according to the Houſe of their Fathers: of Judah, the Captains of Thouſands; Adna the Chief, and with him mighty Men of Valour, three hundred thouſand.] He mentions only the Commanders in Chief; under whom were a great Number of Captains of Thouſands, and Captains of Hundreds, who are not named.

Ver. 15. And next to him was Jehohanan the Captain, and with him two hundred and fourſcore thouſand.] In the Hebrew, (as it is noted in the Margin) the firſt Words are, at his Hand was, &c. Which may ſeem to import, that he was Lieutenant-General (as we ſpeak) to the former great Man, who aſſiſts him in the Management of that Army. But the following Words plainly ſignify, that he was another Commander in Chief, having under him a great Body of Men, tho' not equal to the former. And as the Targum tranſlates the firſt Words (whom Jarchi follows) he encamped near to the former.

Ver. 16. And next to him was Amaſiah the Son of Zichri, who willingly offered himſelf unto the LORD; and with him two hundred thouſand mighty Men of Valour.] Some think, he ſerved as a Voluntier, without any Stipend; or that he vowed himſelf to the Service. Kimchi thinks that he offered Gold and Silver to the Treaſury, for the Service of the LORD.

Ver. 17. And of Benjamin; Eliada a mighty Man of Valour, and with him armed Men, with Bow and Shield, two hundred thouſand.] All the former were of Judah; now he mentions thoſe of Benjamin, and the eminent Perſons who commanded them.

Ver. 18. And next him was Jehozabad, and with him an hundred and fourſcore thouſand, ready prepared for the War.] See v. 16. If we put all theſe Numbers of valiant Men together, they make a great Demonſtration of the wonderful Bleſſings of God upon Jehoſhaphat: Who, tho' he had little more than the third part of the Kingdom which David had, yet went much beyond him, in Proportion, in the Number of able Men that were ſubject to him. For David when he numbred the People, found but thirteen hundred thouſand; and Jehoſhaphat had ſeveral Bodies of good Troops, which all together amounted to eleven hundred and ſixty thouſand; not reckoning the Gariſons, which were in the ſtrong Holds. Nor is there any thing incredible in this, for we read the like in prophane Hiſtories. The great Thebes, for Inſtence, (as Tacitus relates in his Annales, Lib. ii.) furniſhed ſeven hundred thouſand Soldiers, of its own Inhabitants alone. But it is farther obſervable, how God bleſſed the Reign of theſe two laſt Kings, Aſa and Jehoſhaphat; in that when Abijah the Father of Aſa could ſcarce bring into the Field four hundred thouſand Men, (xiii. 3.) his Grand-ſon was able to muſter almoſt three times that Number.

Ver. 19. Theſe waited on the King,] That is, theſe great Men, who had ſuch numerous Forces at their Command, attended the King's Perſon always, whereſoever he went.

Beſides thoſe whom the King put in the fenced Cities, throughout all Judah.] He made Governors of all ſtrong Places, who conſtantly attended their Duty there, and were under the Direction of the great Men before-mentioned; who did not only wait upon the King, but, as Pellicanus conjectures, preſided over the whole Kingdom, and were ready upon any Occaſion to ſend abroad the King's Orders, and take Care of the publick Concerns.

CHAP. XVIII.

Ver. 1. NOW Jehoſhaphat had Riches, and Honour in Abundance,] So he had before this Time, (xvii. 5.) but now they were more increaſed.

And joined Affinity with Ahab.] For his Son married Athaliah the Daughter of Ahab, 2 Kings viii. 18. and Chap. xxi. ver. 6. of this Book. His great Proſperity tempted him to this Affinity with an abominable Idolater; having ſome Conceit, perhaps, that he might again unite by this Marriage, the two Kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah.

Ver. 2. And after certain Years,] After there had been Peace three Years between Iſrael and Syria, as it is explained, 1 Kings xxii. 1.

He went down to Ahab to Samaria.] The Affinity between them, was the Occaſion, I ſuppoſe, of this Viſit.

And Ahab killed Sheep and Oxen for him in abundance, and for the People that were with him,] He entertained both Jehoſhaphat and all his Attendants, with great Splendor: Which is not mentioned in the Book of the Kings, tho' the Subſtance of this Chapter is the ſame with that above-mentioned; and is there explained.

And perſuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.] He careſſed him ſo at this Feaſt, and uſed ſuch Arguments as prevailed with him to undertake this Expedition.

Ver. 3. And Ahab King of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, Wilt thou go up with me to Ramoth-gilead?] What he had conſented unto in the midſt of their Merriment, he ſeems now to reſolve more deliberately. See 1 Kings xxii. 4.

And he anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my People as thy People, and will be with thee in the War.] The Prophet Hanani had given his Father a Caution againſt this, xvi. 7. and Jehoſhaphat is reproved for it afterwards, c. xix. 2. xx. 37. The Targum expounds the laſt Words thus, That which happens to thee, ſhall happen to me, in this War.

Ver. 4. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the King of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee, at the Word of the LORD to Day.

Ver. 5. Therefore the King of Iſrael gathered together of Prophets four hundred Men, and ſaid unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to Battle, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up; for God will deliver it into the King's Hand.

Ver. 6. But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a Prophet of the LORD beſides, that we might enquire of him?] Theſe three Verſes are the ſame in Senſe, and almoſt in Words, with thoſe which I have explained in 1 Kings xxii. 5, 6, 7.

Ver. 7. And the King of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one Man, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him; for he never propheſieth good unto me, but always evil: the ſame is Micaiah, the Son of Imla. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the King ſay ſo.] See there v. 8.

Ver. 8. And the King of Iſrael called for one of his Officers, and ſaid, Fetch quickly Micaiah the Son of Imla.] He ſeems to have thought, that Micaiah would be backward to come, becauſe he knew the King's Hatred to him; and therefore he bids the Officer (who was a Perſon of Quality) quicken him.

Ver. 9. And the King of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, ſat either of them on his Throne, clothed in their Robes, and they ſat in a void Place, at the entring in of the Gate of Samaria,] The very ſame we read there v. 10. And the Targum explains it thus; they ſat in a Semicircle, as the Court of Judgment uſed to do, that they might ſee one another, and all the People ſtood before them.

And all the Prophets propheſied before them.] All the falſe Prophets, as the Targum underſtands it, who pretended to the Gift of Prophecy, which the following Words ſhew to be the Meaning.

Ver. 10. And Zedekiah the Son of Chenaanah, had made him Horns of Iron, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, with theſe thou ſhalt puſh Syria, until they be conſumed.

Ver. 11. And all the Prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the Hand of the King.

Ver. 12. And the Meſſenger that went to call Micaiah, ſpake to him, ſaying, Behold, the Words of the Prophets declare good to the King with one Aſſent: let thy Word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of theirs, and ſpeak thou good.

Ver. 13. And Micaiah ſaid, as the LORD liveth, even what my God ſaith, that will I ſpeak.] There is no Difference between theſe Verſes, and thoſe in 1 Kings xxii. 11, 12, 13, 14.

Ver. 14. And when he was come to the King, the King ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go up to Ramoth-gilead to Battle, or ſhall I forbear? and he ſaid, Go ye up, and proſper, and they ſhall be delivered into your Hand.

Ver. 15. And the King ſaid to him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee, that thou ſay nothing but the Truth to me, in the Name of the LORD?

Ver. 16. Then he ſaid, I did ſee all Iſrael ſcattered upon the Mountains, as Sheep that have no Shepherd; and the LORD ſaid, Theſe have no Maſter; let them return therefore every Man to his Houſe in Peace.

Ver. 17. (And the King of Iſrael ſaid to Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee, that he would not propheſy good unto me, but evil?)

Ver. 18. Again he ſaid, Therefore hear the Word of the LORD.] Some think, he ſpake theſe Words to the By-ſtanders: But this is confuted by 1 Kings xxii. 19. where the Words are, hear thou therefore, ſpeaking again to the King.

In all that follows to the End of the Chapter, there is ſcarce any Difference between it, and what is recorded in the Book of the Kings, where I have explained it; and will not here tranſcribe what the Reader may find there.

CHAP. XIX.

Ver. 1. AND Jehoſhaphat King of Judah returned to his Houſe in Peace to Jeruſalem.] I ſuppoſe, as ſoon as the Battle was over, he immediately went to Jeruſalem; to return Thanks to God for his wonderful Preſervation.

Ver. 2. And Jehu the Son of Hanani the Seer,] See 1 Kings xvi. 1.

Went out to meet him,] Before he came into the City: That being admoniſhed by him, he might be the more affected with the Mercy of God towards him in his Deliverance.

And ſaid to King Jehoſhaphat, Shouldeſt thou help the Ungodly, and love them that hate the LORD?] As much as to ſay, This is contrary to common Reaſon, which taught the Gentiles to make no Friendſhip with ſuch as were God's Enemies. So Callimachus in his Hymn to Ceres, v. 117, 118.

Δάμητερ, μὴ τῆνος ἐμὶν φίλος, ὅς τοι ἀπεχθὴς,
Ἔξαι, μηδ' ὁμότοιχος, ἐμοὶ κακογείτονες ἐχθροί.

O Ceres, he ſhall be none of my Friend, who is hated by thee: Nor ſhall he live under my Roof: Such Neighbours are odious unto me. Where the illuſtrious Spanhemius hath obſerved many the like Sayings among the Heathens; and ſhews, how the ancient Greeks abhorred to lodge in the ſame Houſe with a Murderer, or other grievous Criminals; with whom they would not eat, much leſs be with them in their ſacred Aſſemblies; looking upon them as impure Creatures.

Therefore is Wrath upon thee from before the LORD.] Upon which Account God threatens to puniſh him: Which ſome think he did by raiſing ſuch numerous Enemies to invade him, as we read of in the next Chapter. But moſt of all, by ſuffering all his Sons to be murdered by their elder Brother, c. xxi. 4. And his Grand-children by Jehu, 2 Kings ix. 27. c. x. 13, 14.

Ver. 3. Nevertheleſs, there are good Things found in thee,] For the ſake of which, he ſo far pardoned his Error, as not to puniſh him in his own Perſon, but in his Poſterity.

In that thou haſt taken away the Groves out of the Land, and haſt prepared thine Heart to ſeek God.] The chief Thing wherein he pleaſed God was by aboliſhing idolatrous Worſhip; which he had done rigorouſly, and ſerved God with a ſincere Heart.

Ver. 4. And Jehoſhaphat dwelt at Jeruſalem:] Being ſettled at Jeruſalem after his Viſit to Ahab and the War with Syria, he had Time to reflect upon his Eſcape out of the late Battle, and the Reproof of the Prophet: At which he was ſo far from being angry (as his Father Aſa had been, c. xvi. 7.) that he laid it to Heart, and ſeriouſly reſolved upon a farther Reformation, in other Matters, as well as Religion.

And he went out again through the People,] He had ſent out his Officers before (c. xvii. 7.) who went out by his Authority, and acted in his Name, about this very Buſineſs; but now he went in Perſon, as then by his Orders.

From Beerſheba to Mount Ephraim,] The former of theſe had always been the utmoſt Bound Southward of the Tribe of Judah: And the latter, ſince the Diviſion of the Kingdom, had been the Northern Bound, as before the Diviſion was Dan.

And brought them back unto the LORD God of their Fathers.] Since the laſt Reformation, it ſeems ſome had revolted to their former Idolatry, whom he now reduced; eſpecially thoſe Cities which his Father had taken in Mount Ephraim (c. xv. 8.) who being Iſraelites, might have been drawn in again to worſhip the Calves.

Ver. 5. And he ſet Judges in the Land, throughout all the fenced Cities of Judah, City by City.] That is, in every one of theſe Cities. Or, as Bertram thinks it ſhould be tranſlated, for City and City: That is, he placed Judges in the principal Cities, unto which all Cauſes were brought from the leſſer Cities and Villages. This was a Means both to have Juſtice done between Man and Man, and alſo to preſerve them in the Worſhip of God, when Judges were ready at Hand, to call thoſe to an Account, who went after other Gods.

Ver. 6. And ſaid to the Judges, Take heed what ye do: for ye judge not for Man, but for the LORD, who is with you in the Judgment.] He gave them this very ſolemn Admonition, when he ſettled them in their Places. Which the Targum thus tranſlates, Ye do not judge before the Sons of Men, but before the WORD of the LORD; and his glorious Preſence reſides among you in the Act of Judgment. Which is a moſt illuſtrious Teſtimony that the ancient Jews believed more Perſons than one in the Deity.

Ver. 7. Wherefore now, let the fear of the LORD be upon you, take heed and do it:] That is, do as I command you, judge according to the Law: For ſuch as God is, ſuch you ought to be, ſince you are in his Place.

For there is no Iniquity with the LORD our God, nor Reſpect of Perſons, nor taking of Gifts.] He bids them remember that as the Nature of God is perfectly juſt, ſo he cannot be moved to do Iniquity by Reſpect to the greateſt, or Pity to the meaneſt, or by any Gift be bribed to do unjuſtly; whom they ought to imitate, being intruſted by him with his Authority.

Ver. 8. Moreover, in Jeruſalem did Jehoſhaphat ſet of the Levites, and of the Prieſts, and of the Chief of the Fathers of Iſrael,] Many were of Opinion, that as before he ſpeaks of the Courts conſiſting of XXIII Judges, which were ſettled in every conſiderable City of the Kingdom; ſo here he ſpeaks of the High Court of all, conſiſting of LXX, called by the Jews the Great Sanhedrin ſitting at Jeruſalem; whither Appeals were made in all Cauſes, that could not be determined below. But if this be true, Jehoſhaphat was the firſt that we can find who ſettled this excellent Conſtitution: Of which we can find no Footſteps in the Books of Joſhua, Judges, Ruth, Samuel, or in the foregoing Kings, as I have diſcours'd at large upon Deut. xvi. 18. xvii. 9. See my Notes there. And there is little in the ſucceeding Times to perſuade us of it; for Ezra and Nehemiah ſet up no ſuch Judicature, as that the Jews call Sanhedrin; which ſeems to have been wiſely conſtituted, when they fell under the Government of the Macedonian Princes, from whoſe Language they borrowed the Name. Tho' Jehoſhaphat therefore ſettled Judges in Jeruſalem, yet the Number of them is not certain.

For the Judgment of the LORD, and for Controverſies,] Theſe Words are variouſly expounded, ſome underſtanding by the Judgment of the LORD, Cauſes about ſacred Matters, others pecuniary Matters; and by Controverſies, ſome underſtanding Civil Cauſes, others Criminal and Capital. It is ſufficient, I think, to ſay, they tried all Sorts of Cauſes.

When they returned to Jeruſalem.] That is, when Jehoſhaphat, and thoſe that attended him, returned from the other Cities, where they had appointed Judges (ver. 5.) he conſtituted this ſupreme Court in the chief City of his Kingdom. I ſay, ſupreme Court, for there were not two of them, one for Eccleſiaſtical, the other for Civil Cauſes, as ſome have imagined: But one Court judged both, as Grotius hath very well proved, from the very Account here given of this Matter. For Jehoſhaphat bids theſe Judges try what Cauſe ſoever ſhould come to them, ver. 10. and adds, between Blood and Blood, between Law and Commandment, Statutes and Judgments: Which ſhews there was no Kind of Buſineſs in Controverſy, which did not come before this one Court. Nor do thoſe Words, ver. 11. prove the contrary, as he ſhews in his Book, De Imperio ſum. Poteſt. circa Sacra, Cap. xi. Sect. 15.

Ver. 9. And he charged them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye do in the Fear of the LORD, faithfully, and with a perfect Heart.] He gives them the ſame ſolemn Charge, which he had given the other Judges (ver. 7.) that having the Fear of God before their Eyes, they ſhould do righteous Judgment, and not ſuffer themſelves to be any way corrupted; for God would judge all over again.

It is a moſt memorable Saying of Cicero; That Judges being ſworn to do Juſtice, ſhould remember when they come to paſs Sentence, Deum ſe habere teſtem, id eſt, ut ego arbitror, mentem ſuam, qua nihil homini dedit ipſe Deus divinius: That he hath God a Witneſs of what he doth, even his own Conſcience, than which God himſelf hath given unto Man nothing more Divine, L. iii. De Officiis, Cap. 10. Where he hath left this excellent Inſtruction alſo, That a Man muſt lay aſide the Perſon of a Friend, when he puts on the Perſon of a Judge.

Ver. 10. And what Cauſe ſoever ſhall come to you of your Brethren that dwell in their Cities,] By way of Appeal from the other Cities, where the Judges were wont to refer Matters of great Difficulty to this ſupreme Court at Jeruſalem, where the Judges were moſt learned.

Between Blood and Blood,] When the Queſtion was, who was next of Kin to an Eſtate, and ſhould ſucceed him that was deceaſed. So ſome underſtand the Word Blood to ſignify Kindred. But Jarchi underſtands it of a Queſtion, whether a Murder was voluntary, or a Man was killed by Chance.

Between Law and Commandment, Statutes and Judgments,] Some take the Word Law to be a general Word, the Species of which follow. So that it is as much as to ſay, ye ſhall judge concerning all Manner of Laws: Firſt of Commandments, ſuch as have a natural Equity in them; then Statutes, or poſitive Laws belonging to Rites and Ceremonies; and Judgments, concerning thoſe Precepts, which direct the Manner of Proceeding in Judgment.

Ye ſhall even warn them that they treſpaſs not againſt the LORD, and ſo Wrath come upon you, and upon your Brethren:] This ſeems to be a Command, that they ſhould not only pronounce a righteous Sentence in every Cauſe that came before them, but that they ſhould admoniſh him who was in the Wrong (and all other Perſons in the like Caſe) to beware of injuring their Neighbours for the Time to come.

This do, and ye ſhall not treſpaſs.] But worthily diſcharge their Office.

Ver. 11. And behold, Amariah the Chief Prieſt] See concerning him, what I have noted upon 1 Chron. vi. 9, 10, &c.

Is over you in all Matters of the LORD; and Zebadiah the Son of Iſhmael, the Ruler of the Houſe of Judah, for all the King's Matters:] Many underſtand by the Matters of the LORD, all Things ſacred; and by the King's Matters, all Civil and Political Cauſes. But Grotiut hath judiciouſly obſerved (in his Book De Imperio ſum. Poteſt. circa Sacra, Cap. xi. Sect. 15.) that it is moſt agreeable to the Scripture to underſtand by the Things of God, thoſe which were defined by the Law of God, and were to be judged by that Law: And by the King's Matters, ſuch as not being defined by the Divine Law, were left to the Judgment of the King. Of which Kind were all Deliberations about what was expedient or not expedient. And thus he obſerves, the moſt learned of the Jewiſh Interpreters explain theſe Words, in his Book De Jure Belli & Pacis, Lib. i. Cap. 3. Sect. 20. But which way ſoever we diſtinguiſh the Things of God and the King's Things, yet one and the ſame Court took Cognizance of them both: Only with this Difference, that the Court had different Preſidents according to the Nature of the Cauſes. In Things pertaining to God, Amarias the High-Prieſt ſat as the firſt Judge; in Things pertaining to the King, Zebadiah a principal Perſon about the King had the Chair, and was the Moderator. For, as the High-Prieſt was moſt converſant in the Law of God, and therefore fitteſt to direct in ſuch Matters; ſo the chief Ruler about the King, was moſt exerciſed in Matters left undetermined by the Law, and ſo fitteſt to preſide in ſuch Conſultations.

There are indeed very learned Men, who think theſe Words plainly prove two different Courts; in one of which Eccleſiaſtical Matters were determined, in the other Civil; in the former of which Amarias preſided; in the latter, Zebadiah. Thus Corn. Bertram, in his Book De Republ. Judaica, p. 137, 139. whom Conſt. L'Empereur defends in his Annotations on that Place, and endeavours to prove out of Deuteronomy, that God himſelf inſtituted an Eccleſiaſtical Senate, diſtinct from the Civil, p. 389. But this is not a fit Place to meddle further with that Controverſy: I ſhall only ſay, that I think Grotius hath ſufficiently confuted this Opinion in the Book and Chapter before-mentioned, De Imperio, &c. And in his Annotations alſo upon St. Matthew v. 22. (on thoſe Words ἔνοχος ἔσται τῷ συνεδρίῳ) where he makes this Paraphraſe, upon this Speech of Jehoſhaphat. Do not deſpond, as not able to diſcharge ſo weighty an Office, for want of ſuch Learning and Knowledge as is neceſſary for ſuch a Work: You have excellent Men to guide you with their Counſel. Such is the Prince of the Senate, Amarias the Prieſt, a Man ſkilled in Judgment; and if any thing fall out belonging rather to Civil Prudence than to the Knowledge of the Law, Sabadias the Iſhmaelite is ready at Hand, who is a principal Perſon in ſuch Kind of Deliberations. And beſides (as it here follows) you have the Levites their Aſſeſſors, who are very well ſkilled in many Arts.

Alſo the Levites ſhall be Officers before you.] Some of the Levites were Members of this great Court, who ſat in Judgment, ver, 8. The reſt, who were not Judges, were Miniſters under them to ſee their Sentence executed. But it appears by this Place, that the Word Shoterim doth not here ſignify, as in others, meer Apparitors who ſummoned Men to the Court; or ſuch Officers as executed the Sentence of the Court; but Perſons of ſome Authority, who had Power to make Offenders ſenſible of the Juſtice of the Sentence, and convince them of their Error: Which was a great Encouragement to the Judges to undertake this Office, and to judge uprightly.

Deal couragiouſly, and the LORD ſhall be with the good.] He bids them not be afraid of any Man: For God, who employed them, would ſtand by them and defend them, if they were good and upright Judges. The Targum hath it, the WORD of the LORD will help you, who is good.

CHAP. XX.

Ver. 1. IT came to paſs after this alſo, that the Children of Moab, and the Children of Ammon,] Theſe ſeem to have been the Principal in this Invaſion; the other, here mentioned (in the next Verſe, and in ver. 22.) to have been Auxiliaries. For ſuch was the ancient Way of making War, and ſtill is to this Day, to call in the Aſſiſtance of their Neighbours: As appears by the Romans more eſpecially, whoſe Armies conſiſted of their own Legions, on whom they chiefly relied, and their Auxiliaries; who agreed neither in their Diſcipline, nor in their Language, nor in their Affection, as Vegetius obſerves in his Book De Re Militari, Lib. ii. Cap. 2. and therefore could not do ſuch Service, Service. For which Cauſe (as he obſerves in the Beginning of this third Book) they took Care their Socii Militares ſhould never exceed the Number of their own Soldiers; which is a Rule laid down by Livy and Tacitus.

And with them other beſide the Ammonites] It ought to be tranſlated, and with them the Meunims: Who were a People in Arabia, near the Moabites and Ammonites. See my Annotations upon Judges x. 12. and in this Book, c. xxvi. 6, 7. and Bochartus in his Phaleg, Lib. ii. Cap. 22.

Came againſt Jehoſhaphat to battle.] Made an Invaſion upon his Country.

Ver. 2. Then there came ſome that told Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, There cometh a great Multitude againſt thee from beyond the Sea,] That is the Dead-Sea, as it is called in Scripture.

On this ſide Syria,] The Targum tranſlates it, From the Weſtern Part of Syria; for the Dead-Sea was the Weſtern Bounds of that Country. And it is likely the Syrians joined againſt him, to revenge the Aſſiſtance he gave to Ahab.

And behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar, which is Engedi.] A Place where there was a great Foreſt of Palm-trees. It ſeems he had but ſlender Intelligence, for he heard not of their Motion, till they were upon the Borders of his Country.

Ver. 3. And Jehoſhaphat feared,] Having been lately told by the Prophet (c. xix 2.) that God was very angry with him.

And ſet himſelf to ſeek the LORD, and proclaimed a Faſt throughout all Judah.] Faſting was generally joined with Prayer in Times of Diſtreſs: Unto which he publickly called the whole Nation, that they might obtain Help from God.

Ver. 4. And Judah gathered themſelves together, to aſk help of the LORD: even out of all the Cities of Judah they came to ſeek the LORD.] The Targum tranſlates it, to aſk Mercy of him, and to beg his Direction, and to hear his holy Word. For ſome Part of the Law was read upon thoſe ſolemn Days. Vitringa takes this to be an Argument, that there were no Synagogues in every City in thoſe Days. For there would have been no need they ſhould come out of their Cities, and all reſort to Jeruſalem, to faſt and pray and hear the Law there; which might have been done at home in their Synagogues, as well as in the Temple; tho' not indeed in ſuch a ſolemn Manner, as it was performed by ſuch a vaſt Conflux of People, in one Place, to make their Supplications to God. De Vet. Synag. Pars ii. L. i. Cap. 9.

Ver. 5. And Jehoſhaphat ſtood in the Congregation of Judah and Jeruſalem, in the Houſe of the LORD] For there was a Throne, the Hebrew Doctors tell us, in the Court of the Iſraelites, where their Kings prayed to God, or ſpake to the People, as there was Occaſion. So Jehoſhaphat did, and in following Times, Hezekiah and Joſiah; after the Example of Solomon, who began this Cuſtom, c. vi. 13.

Before the new Court.] The moſt Learned in theſe Matters, confeſs they do not know what is meant by the new Court. Some think it probable, that it was only ſome Enlargement that Jehoſhaphat had made of the Court of the People, to render it more capacious: But others are of Opinion, that it ſignifies the Court of the Women, which was now made diſtinct from the Court of the Men. See 1 Chron. xv. 3. Thus Conſtantine L' Empereur thinks that the Court of the Women was not built by Solomon, but added in after Times, Annot. in Cod. Middoth, Cap. ii. Sect. 5. Where he diſputes, that according to the Miſnah, this Court when it was made, did not ſurround the Court of Iſrael; but the Breadth of them was equal, according to the Delineation there.

Ver. 6. And ſaid, O LORD God of our Fathers, art thou not God in Heaven? and ruleſt not thou over all the Kingdoms of the Heathen? and in thine Hand is there not Power and Might, ſo that none is able to withſtand thee?] This is the moſt admirable Prayer, that we read any of their Kings made; expreſſing the greateſt Confidence in God, and repreſenting to him the Juſtice of their Cauſe. He begins with an Acknowledgment of God's ſupreme and irreſiſtible Power, which extends itſelf every where over all Creatures in Heaven and Earth, who are every one of them ſubject to his Authority.

Ver. 7. Art not thou our God, who didſt drive out the Inhabitants of this Land before thy People Iſrael, and gaveſt it to the Seed of Abraham thy Friend for ever?] Then he remembers the peculiar Relation the People of Iſrael had to him, and the Promiſe to Abraham, and the Deed of Gift which he made of this Country to him, and to his Poſterity for ever, as a Reward of his Fidelity to him.

Ver. 8. And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a Sanctuary therein for thy Name, ſaying,] Next to that, he remembers, that they had been long poſſeſſed of this Country, wherein an Houſe had been built for his Worſhip by Solomon: To whom God promiſed at the Conſecration of it, that he would have Regard to the Prayers made in that Place; and in the ſixth Chapter of this Book, and in 1 Kings viii. The Targum here again ſaith, this Sanctuary was built to the Name of thy WORD, as in the foregoing Verſe God is ſaid to have driven out the Inhabitants of this Land by his WORD.

Ver. 9. If when Evil cometh upon us, as the Sword, Judgment,] Some tranſlate it, the Sword of Judgment, that is, the puniſhing Sword. But if Judgment ſignify any particular Puniſhment, diſtinct from the Sword, it muſt be wild Beaſts, or Captivity: For Peſtilence and Famine are particularly mentioned in the following Words. The Targum tranſlate it, Slaughter of the Sword, which was a ſore Judgment.

We ſtand before this Houſe, and in thy Preſence (for thy Name is in this Houſe) and cry unto thee in our Affliction, then thou wilt hear and help.] See 1 Kings viii. 38, 39.

Ver. 10. And now behold, the Children of Ammon, and Moab, and Mount Seir,] Some think this explains what is meant by others beſide the Ammonites (as we tranſlate ver. 1.) viz. Edomites. So the Targum in that Place, With theſe the Edomites, who joined with the Ammonites. But ſee there.

Whom thou wouldſt not let Iſrael invade, when they came out of the Land of Egypt, but they turned from them, and deſtroyed them not.] He repreſents in the next Place the foul Ingratitude of their Enemies (added to their Injuſtice) in invading their Country, unto which they had an undoubted Title; when the Iſraelites did not do them the leaſt Harm, as they went to take Poſſeſſion of it, but took the Pains to march a long Way about to come at it, rather than give them any Diſturbance in their Country.

Ver. 11. Behold, I ſay, how they reward us, to come to caſt us out of thy Poſſeſſion, which thou haſt given us to inherit.] It is a moſt odious Thing not to make grateful Returns of Benefits received; but to return Evil for Good is the higheſt Wickedneſs; which in this Caſe was aggravated by this, that they made an Attempt not only upon the Rights of the Iſraelites, but of God himſelf; whoſe Land this was, which they held of him as their LORD.

Ver. 12. O our God, wilt thou not judge them?] He appeals to the Juſtice of God, the righteous Judge, who rights thoſe that ſuffer wrong, eſpecially when they have no Helper. To judge in this Place ſignifies to puniſh, as in Exod. vi. 6. Pſalm ix. 16. where theſe Words, the LORD is known by the Judgment which he executeth, are thus interpreted by Druſius, the LORD is known by the juſt Puniſhment which he inflicts. In his Miſcellanies, Cent. i. Cap. 18.

For we have no Might againſt this great Company that cometh againſt us: neither know we what to do, but our Eyes are upon thee.] This is the laſt Argument he uſes to obtain Help from God; the weak Condition wherein he and his People were, which made them the Objects of the Divine Pity; eſpecially ſince they placed all their Confidence and Hope in him alone. But it may ſeem ſtrange that he ſhould ſay they had no Might againſt this Multitude, when he had ſo many hundred thouſand Men at Command, as are mentioned, Chap. xvii. 14, 15, 16, &c. To which it may be replied, that perhaps this was ſuch a ſudden Invaſion, that he had not Time to gather a conſiderable Body to oppoſe them: Or rather, he diſtruſted the greateſt Army, and acknowledged them to be of no Force, if God was not with them; on whom he intirely relied, and not on the Number and Valour of his Soldiers, tho' both were very great.

Victorinus Strigelius hath ſuch a devout Reflection upon this Prayer of Jehoſhaphat, that it will not be unacceptable, I perſuade myſelf, to the pious Reader, if I here tranſcribe it. In this weak and declining Condition wherein the Church now is, when the Devil is very outragious, becauſe he knows his Time to be ſhort, &c. let us ſay daily with Jehoſhaphat, we know not what to do; but our Eyes are upon thee. Thine is the Kingdom, the Power and the Glory. Thou art our King and our Shepherd; we are thy People, and the Sheep of thy Paſture. Thou only art powerful, we are infirm: But thy Power will be perfected in our Weakneſs. Not unto us, O LORD, not unto us, but to thy Name give the Glory; for thy Mercy, and for thy Truth's Sake. Do not remember our Iniquities, but ſave us for thy Mercy's Sake; for we are brought very low. Help us, O God of our Salvation, for the Glory of thy Name: Deliver us and be merciful to our Sins, for thy Name's Sake. Save us, O LORD our God, that we may give Thanks unto thy holy Name, and triumph in thy Praiſe. Such Addreſſes to God (ſo he concludes) will illuſtrate this Prayer of Jehoſhaphat, better than the largeſt Commentaries.

Ver. 13. And all Judah ſtood before the LORD, with their little ones, their Wives, and their Children.] The more to move the Divine Compaſſion towards them.

Ver. 14. Then upon Jehaziel, the Son of Zechariah, the Son of Benaiah, the Son of Jeiel, the Son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the Sons of Aſaph, came the Spirit of the LORD in the midſt of the Congregation.] He ſeems not to have been a Prophet before this Time; when a ſudden Inſpiration came upon him from God, to comfort this great Aſſembly with aſſured Hope of Deliverance, before they ſtirred from the Place where they had prayed.

Ver. 15. And he ſaid, Hearken ye, all Judah, and ye Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and thou King Jehoſhaphat, thus ſaith the LORD unto you, Be not afraid, nor diſmayed by Reaſon of this great Multitude, for the Battle is not yours, but God's.] As it was God's Cauſe which they now aſſerted, ſo they might be aſſured he would maintain it, by overthrowing their Enemies.

Ver. 16. To morrow go ye down againſt them:] Jeruſalem, where they now were, was ſituated on a high Hill, and therefore he ſaith they ſhould go down againſt theſe Enemies; who are ſaid in the next Words to come up.

Behold, they come up by the Cliff of Ziz, and ye ſhall find them at the End of the Brook (or Valley) before the Wilderneſs of Jeruel.] God was ſo very gracious to them, as, by this Prophet, not only to aſſure them of Victory, but to inform them of the very Time, and Place, and Manner of it: The Time was the very next Morning; the Place is mentioned in the latter End of this Verſe, as the Time is in the Beginning; and the Manner, in the Concluſion of the foregoing Verſe, that it ſhould be by the Hand of God, and not by their own; who ſhould be only Spectators of the Victory which God himſelf would give them: So it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 17. Ye ſhall not need to fight in this Battle; ſet your ſelves, ſtand ye ſtill, and ſee the Salvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jeruſalem: fear not, nor be diſmayed; To morrow go out againſt them,] He repeats what he had ſaid before (which he knew would be the greateſt Comfort to them) that they ſhould have no Conflict with their Enemies; but only ſtand ſtill in their Place, and ſee the Hand of God overthrowing them all. In which there was a notable Accompliſhment of Solomon's Prayer, which Jehoſhaphat recited.

For the LORD will be with you.] The WORD of the LORD will be your Helper, as the Targum expounds it.

Ver. 18. And Jehoſhaphat bowed his Head, with his Face to the Ground: and all Judah and Jeruſalem fell before the LORD, worſhipping the LORD.] The King gave moſt humble Thanks to God, as did all the People with him, after his Example.

to

Ver. 19. And the Levites, of the Children of the Kohathites, and of the Children of the Korhites,] Who were then waiting in their Courſe at the Temple.

Stood up to praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael with a loud Voice on high.] They ſung Praiſe to God before the Army went out, as if the Victory had been already obtained. And they raiſed their Voice as high as they could, to expreſs their full Aſſurance of Succeſs. This, I ſuppoſe, they did by the Order of Jehoſhaphat.

Ver. 20. And they roſe up early in the Morning, and went forth into the Wilderneſs of Tekoa:] That is, the Army, who were to ſtand and face the Enemy, went forth from Jeruſalem.

And as they went forth, Jehoſhaphat ſtood, and ſaid, Hear me, O Judah, and ye Inhabitants of Jeruſalem,] It is likely he ſtood in the Gate of the City, thro' which they marched out, and ſpake theſe Words to the ſeveral Companies as they paſſed by him.

Believe in the LORD your God, ſo ſhall ye be eſtabliſhed; believe his Prophets, ſo ſhall ye proſper.] The Targum tranſlates it, Believe in the WORD of the LORD your God, believe his Law, and his Prophets, &c. God having made them a gracious Promiſe, expected their Belief of it, and Dependance on it: Otherwiſe they had no Reaſon to hope for Victory.

Ver. 21. And when he had conſulted with the People,] That is, with the Elders and Heads of their Tribes, who repreſented the reſt; without whoſe Conſent he was loth to do any Thing in a Time of common Danger.

He appointed Singers unto the LORD, and that ſhould praiſe the Beauty of Holineſs,] It may be tranſlated, ſhould praiſe his moſt ſacred Majeſty; tho' it is commonly thought he ordered them to praiſe the LORD, with the ſame State, Pomp, and Ornament, that they worſhipped in the Temple; in the ſame Habit, in that Order, and Magnificence, wherein they appeared in the Holy Place.

As they went out before the Army,] This was an Argument of great Courage and Aſſurance, that they led on the Army; declaring to their Enemies, that God (whoſe Miniſters they were) was coming againſt them.

And to ſay, praiſe the LORD, for his Mercy endureth for ever.] This was the uſual Song, which they ſung at the Temple, ver. 13.

Ver. 22. And when they began to ſing and to praiſe,] Before they had marched many Steps.

The LORD ſet Ambuſhments againſt the Children of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir, which were come againſt Judah, and they were ſmitten.] Or, ſmote one another, as it is in the Margin. The Targum tranſlates it, The WORD of the LORD ſet Ambuſhments, &c. By which that Paraphraſt underſtands, his Angelical Miniſters which attended him; who ſmote ſome of them ſecretly, and the reſt thinking it was done by their Neighbours, fell upon them as their Enemies. But the Meaning ſeems rather to be, that the Ambuſhments which they had laid againſt Judah, by a Confuſion among themſelves made by a Divine Hand, fell upon a Part of their own Army, miſtaking them for their Enemies.

Ver. 23. For the Children of Ammon and Moab ſtood up againſt the Inhabitants of Mount Seir, utterly to ſlay and deſtroy them: and when they had made an End of the Inhabitants of Seir, every one helped to deſtroy another.] They of Mount Seir were ordered to fall upon Judah, out of an Ambuſhment; but by ſome Miſtake they fell upon the Ammonites, their own Confederates; and they and the Moabites fell upon them, till they had intirely deſtroyed thoſe of Seir. And when that was done, they continued in ſuch Confuſion, that they fell one upon another, ſtill imagining they were deſtroying the Jews, who came upon them very early in the Morning, as the Prophet had directed.

Ver. 24. And when Judah came toward the Watch-Tower in the Wilderneſs, they looked unto the Multitude, and behold, they were dead Bodies fallen to the Earth, and none eſcaped.] Inſtead of meeting with any Enemy to oppoſe them, they ſaw them all lye dead upon the Ground; for this Tower, it is probable, ſtood upon the Cliff of Ziz (mentioned v. 16.) from whence they could behold how their Army lay.

Ver. 25. And when Jehoſhaphat and his People came to take away the Spoil of them, they found among them in abundance, both Riches with the dead Bodies, and precious Jewels (which they ſtript off for themſelves)] As they found rich Garments upon their Bodies, ſo they found great Treaſure among their Baggage (as we call it) and many precious Jewels; which they brought along with them, I ſuppoſe, that they might appear the more glorious, in the Triumph which they promiſed themſelves over the Jews.

More than they could carry away: and they were three Days in gathering the Spoil, it was ſo much.] They could not carry all the Spoil at once, but ſpent three Days in collecting it, and diſpoſing of it; for there was vaſt Proviſion, no doubt, which they had made for the Subſiſtence of ſuch a Multitude; and a great many Beaſts for the Carriages that brought it to them.

Ver. 26. And on the fourth Day they aſſembled themſelves in the Valley of Berachah; for there they bleſſed the LORD: and therefore the Name of the ſame Place was called, the Valley of Berachah, unto this Day.] One cannot think, that they deferred to give God Thanks for ſo ſignal a Victory, till four Days after it; but then they did it in a more ſolemn Manner than they could at firſt; the whole Body of the People aſſembling together, to acknowledge God's Goodneſs to them: Which they did in ſuch a remarkable Manner, that it gave to the Place ever after the Name of the Valley of Bleſſing.

Ver. 27. Then they returned every Man of Judah and Jeruſalem, and Jehoſhaphat in the Forefront of them, to go to Jeruſalem with Joy.] This is a further Inſtance of their Thankfulneſs to God for their Victory, that they did not return every Man to his own Home, after this Overthrow; throw; but firſt went back to Jeruſalem, to bleſs him again for hearing their Prayers, and making good his Promiſes.

For the LORD had made them to rejoyce over their Enemies.] This they did with great Joy, wherewith God had filled their Hearts, by making them triumph over ſuch powerful Enemies.

Ver. 28. And they came to Jeruſalem with Pſalteries, and Harps, and Trumpets, unto the Houſe of the LORD.] To expreſs by theſe the Greatneſs of their Joy, and proclaim their Thankfulneſs to God.

Ver. 29. And the Fear of God was on all the Kingdoms of thoſe Countries,] On all the neighbouring Nations, who heard of this glorious Victory without fighting.

When they had heard that the LORD fought againſt the Enemies of Iſrael.] Here the Targum hath it, When they heard that the WORD of the LORD fought, &c.

Ver. 30. So the Realm of Jehoſhaphat was quiet; for his God gave him Reſt round about.] Here again the Targum ſaith, The WORD of his God gave him Reſt.

Ver. 31. And Jehoſhaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five Years in Jeruſalem: and his Mother's Name was Azubah the Daughter of Shilhi.] See 1 Kings xxii. 42. It is likely, his Mother was a very religious Woman, who had taken Care to bring up Jehoſhaphat in the Fear of the LORD; and happy had it been for him and his Family, if he had taken Care to marry his Son to ſuch another Woman.

Ver. 32. And he walked in the Way of Aſa his Father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the Sight of the LORD.] Whatſoever other Faults he had, he kept cloſe to the Worſhip of God alone, and did many other good Things as the Law of Moſes directed.

Ver. 33. Howbeit, the high Places were not taken away;] This ſhews, that the Meaning of thoſe Words, xvii. 6. is, that the high Places wherein God was worſhipped, were not taken away; though thoſe wherein Idols were ſerved, were deſtroyed.

For as yet the People had not prepared their Hearts unto the God of their Fathers.] The Reaſon of it is here given, the People could not bear it; for their Hearts were not diſpoſed to ſerve God exactly according to the Law of Moſes; but though they renounced Idolatry, and worſhipped none but the LORD, yet they would not have his Worſhip, by Sacrifices, reſtrained to one Place alone, but have the Liberty to ſacrifice elſewhere.

Ver. 34. Now the reſt of the Acts of Jehoſhaphat, firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the Book of Jehu the Son of Hanani, who is mentioned in the Book of the Kings of Iſrael.] He was an eminent Prophet in the Time of Baaſha King of Iſrael, and lived to the End of Jehoſhaphat's Reign. See 1 Kings xvi. 1, 7. He, as ſeveral other Prophets, wrote the Hiſtory of his own Time, out of which Monuments theſe Books were collected; and his Work was ſo highly eſteemed, that it was regiſtred in the Book of the Kings of Iſrael; which were Commentaries, as Huetius thinks, of what daily paſſed. Demonſtr. Evang. p. 202.

Ver. 35. And after this] That is, after the LORD had given him ſuch a glorious Victory, and ſtruck Terror into all his Enemies, and given him Reſt and Quiet round about.

Did Jehoſhaphat King of Judah join himſelf with Ahaziah King of Iſrael, who did very wickedly.] This was a great Weakneſs, to make Friendſhip with the Son, when he had been ſo ſharply reproved for joining with his Father Ahab, (c. xix. 2.) eſpecially ſince he was no better, but a very wicked Idolater; and tho' he did not join with him in making War, but only in Trade, yet God took it ill of him, and threatned to puniſh him for it, ver. 37. Into this he was betrayed by the Affinity which was between them, which ſhews how dangerous it is to marry with Idolaters.

Ver. 36. And he joined himſelf with him to make Ships to go to Tarſhiſh: and they made the Ships in Ezion-gaber.] They were Ships of Tarſhiſh made to go to Ophir; as we learn from 1 Kings xxii. 48, 49. where I have ſhewn, how this Place and that agree. Bochart thinks there was a Place called Tarſhiſh in the Indian Ocean near to Ophir (that is Taprobana) which the Phœnicians called by the ſame Name with the other Tarſhiſh, becauſe the ſame Commodities come from both. See his Phaleg, Lib. iii. Cap. 7.

Ver. 37. Then Eliezer the Son of Dodavah of Mareſhah, propheſied againſt Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, Becauſe thou haſt joined thyſelf with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy Works.] In the Targum it is again, The WORD of the LORD hath deſtroyed thy Works. Which he laid to Heart ſo much, that when Ahaziah afterwards deſired to join in ſome Voyage with him, he would not conſent; as we read in 1 Kings xxii. 29.

And the Ships were broken that they were not able to go to Tarſhiſh.] They were ſhatter'd in the very Place where they were built, in Ezion-gaber. See 1 Kings xxii. 48.

CHAP. XXI.

Ver. 1. NOW Jehoſhaphat ſlept with his Fathers, and was buried with his Fathers in the City of David: and Jehoram his Son reigned in his ſtead.] By his own Appointment, as appears from v. 3. He was deſigned King in the ſeventeenth Year of the Reign of Jehoſhaphat, and crowned in the twenty third Year, and afterward reigned eight Years; three with his Father, and five alone. See v. 5.

Ver. 2. And he had Brethren, the Sons of Jehoſhaphat,] They had the ſame Father, if not the ſame Mother; which made his Wickedneſs in killing them the more unnatural.

Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah:] The fourth Son is diſtinguiſhed in the Hebrew from the firſt, by the Addition of hu, the firſt being called Azariah, this Azariahhu.

All theſe were the Sons of Jehoſhaphat King of Iſrael.] He was King of Iſrael in a large Senſe, many of Iſrael being ſubject to him. So Ahaz is alſo called, xxviii. 19. where I ſhall give ſome further Account of it.

Ver. 3. And their Father gave them great Gifts of Silver and Gold,] After the Manner of the ancient Patriarchs. See Gen. xxv. 6.

And of precious Things,] The Hebrew Word ſignifies any thing that is excellent in its Kind; whether Jewels or Garments, or Fruits of the Earth, as Beckius obſerves out of Solomon Abu Melech.

With fenced Cities in Judah:] Over which he made them Governors. This he did very prudently, for providing ſo well for them, that they might not be tempted to envy the Kingdom to their Brother; nor quarrel among themſelves. But as Strigelius obſerves out of Cicero, Sæpe optima cogitata peſſime cadunt: Things excellently deſigned, have often very ill Event. For theſe Riches of theirs made their Brother firſt fear them; and then, being wickedly covetous, he was tempted to make them away, that he might get what they had into his Poſſeſſion.

But the Kingdom gave he to Jehoram, becauſe he was the firſt-born.] He could not but know his wicked Diſpoſition, by his Inclination to Idolatry; but was ſwayed purely by his being the Firſt-born, to ſettle the Kingdom upon him, tho' not ſo deſerving as his Brethren. For ſuch was the Power of the Kings of Judah, (as Conringius obſerves) that they took upon them to diſpoſe of the Kingdom, as if it had been their Patrimony. Some think, he ſuperſtitiouſly obſerved that Law, Deut. xxi. 13. for ſometime the younger Sons were preferred to the elder, as we find in the Sons of Joſiah, 2 Kings xxxi. 36. But (as Mr. Selden ſhews) common Uſage was otherwiſe, Lib. ii. De Succeſſione ad Pontif. Cap. 1. p. 202. where he tranſlates theſe Words, Regnum autem tranſmiſit, &c. not he gave, but he tranſmitted the Kingdom to Jehoram,

Ver. 4. Now when Jehoram was riſen up to the Kingdom of his Father, he ſtrengthned himſelf, and ſlew all his Brethren with the Sword,] Being advanced to the Throne, his firſt Buſineſs was, to make himſelf ſo ſtrong, that he might be able without Danger to murder all his Brethren. Which he did; that neither they nor their Poſterity might ever pretend to the Crown. Perhaps they were inclined to the true Religion, and therefore he made them away; leſt they ſhould oppoſe him, when he went about to alter it, and bring in the old Idolatry.

And divers alſo of the Princes of Iſrael.] Several of the moſt eminent Perſons in the Country, ſuch as the Judges, eſtabliſhed by Jehoſhaphat in Jeruſalem, and in the Country; leſt they ſhould revenge the Death of his Brethren. See Grotius.

Ver. 5. Jehoram was thirty and two Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight Years in Jeruſalem.

Ver. 6. And he walked in the Way of the Kings of Iſrael, like as did the Houſe of Ahab: for he had the Daughter of Ahab to Wife: and he wrought that which was evil in the Eyes of the LORD.] Theſe two Verſes are the very ſame with 1 Kings viii. 17, 18. where ſee what I have noted.

Ver. 7. Howbeit the LORD would not deſtroy the Houſe of David, becauſe of the Covenant that he had made with David, and as he promiſed to give a Light to him, and to his Sons for ever.

Ver. 8. In his Days the Edomites revolted from under the Dominion of Judah, and made themſelves a King.

Ver. 9. Then Jehoram went forth with his Princes, and all his Chariots with him, and he roſe up by Night, and ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him in, and the Captains of the Chariots.

Ver. 10. So the Edomites revolted from under the Hand of Judah unto this Day. The ſame time alſo did Libnah revolt from under his Hand; becauſe he had forſaken the LORD God of his Fathers.] There is little Difference between theſe four Verſes, and what we read in 2 Kings viii. 19, 20, 21, 22. I ſhall only note here, that this was the firſt Puniſhment God inflicted on him, for his Sin, in not following his good Father, but turning unto Idols.

Ver. 11. Moreover, he made high Places in the Mountains of Judah,] For the Worſhip of ſtrange Gods.

And cauſed the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem to commit Fornication, and compelled Judah thereto.] He not only gave them a bad Example, and enticed them to Idolatry: But by Threatnings and Compulſions he endeavoured to conſtrain them to conform to his Example.

Ver. 12. And there came a Writing from Elijah the Prophet,] It is certain Elijah was taken up into Heaven in the Time of Jehoſhaphat: Therefore Joſephus and the LXX imagine, (as Grotius obſerves) that from thence he ſent a Letter: Which is no more wonderful, than that Judas Maccabæus ſhould ſee in a Divine Dream Onias and Jeremiah praying for the People, (2 Maccab. xv.) ſo that the Meaning may be, that Eliſha ſaw Elijah appear to him, and bid him write theſe Words, and ſend them to Jehoram. But our Dr. Lightfoot is of Opinion, that it is not meant of that Elijah, who was carried up to Heaven, but of another of his Name, who ſent this Letter. His Reaſon is, becauſe he is always called Elijah the Tiſhbite, and never Elijah the Prophet. See him upon Luke i. 17. But in this, I think, he is ſingular; and it is not true, that he is always called the Tiſhbite: but ſometimes ſimply Elijah; and in 1 Kings xix. 16. God calls him Prophet. Therefore Kimchi ſeems to me to have given the moſt natural and plaineſt Senſe of theſe Words, in his Commentary on this Place: That Elijah foreſeeing, by the Spirit of Prophecy, before he went to Heaven, the Wickedneſs of Jehoram, ſpake theſe Words to one of the Prophets, and charged him to put them down in Writing, and ſend them in a Letter to Jehoram, when he grew ſo impious as is here related; and let him know, that Elijah commanded this Writing to be delivered to him: That ſo Jehoram being affected with it, as if it had been ſent from Heaven, might be moved to repent of the Evil he had done. And indeed this Paſſage will bear this Senſe, if we take the Words, from Elijah, not to relate to the firſt Words, there came; but to the immediately precedent, a Writing. He did not ſend a Writing, but it was ſent as his Writing. For there is nothing in the Words to intimate that this was written after his Death, but delivered after his Death: So that it might have been written (for any thing that appears to the contrary) by Elijah himſelf, before he was taken up into Heaven.

Saying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of thy Father David,] He ſeems to upbraid him with his Degeneracy from ſo pious an Anceſtor, as David was from whom he deſcended.

Becauſe thou haſt not walked in the Ways of Jehoſhaphat thy Father, nor in the Ways of Aſa King of Judah.] His Sin was the greater, becauſe both his Father and his Grand-Father had left him an excellent Example.

Ver. 13. But haſt walked in the Ways of the Kings of Iſrael, and haſt made Judah and the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem to go a Whoring, like the Whoredoms of the Houſe of Ahab,] He was not only an Idolater himſelf, nor only by his Example corrupted others, but uſed his Authority to draw, or rather to force them into idolatrous Worſhip; and that of the very worſt Sort.

And alſo haſt ſlain thy Brethren of thy Father's Houſe, which were better than thyſelf.] This ſeems to ſignify that they were pious Perſons, who abhorred Idolatry: And therefore his Sin was the more heinous in cutting them off, proceeding from Enmity to God, as well as to them.

Ver. 14. Behold, with a great Plague will the LORD ſmite thy People, and thy Children, and thy Wives, and all thy Goods.] There was no Calamity that could be thought of (as Vict. Strigelius obſerves) which did not befal this wicked Prince, whoſe Kingdom was deſtroyed and depopulated by the fierceſt Nations; his Treaſures ranſack'd; his Wives carried into Captivity; his Children ſlain; and he himſelf laboured under a ſore Diſeaſe for two Years; and when he was dead had not the Honour of Royal Sepulture, ſuch as his Anceſtors had. All which Calamities were threatned in the Writing ſent him in the Name of Elijah; that he might not think they came by Chance, but by the ſpecial Direction of Almighty God, as a Puniſhment for his Wickedneſs. But why ſhould his People ſuffer, who are threatned in the firſt Place to be plagued? The Reaſon was, becauſe their baſe Fear made them comply with him in his Idolatry: And beſides, he was puniſhed by the Loſs of them.

Ver. 15. And thou ſhalt have great Sickneſs by Diſeaſe of thy Bowels,] A Dyſentery miſerably tormented him.

Till thy Bowels fall out,] For what ſhould he do with Bowels, who had no Pity and Compaſſion on his own Brethren?

By Reaſon of the Sickneſs Day by Day.] For two Years, as it is interpreted ver. 19. For Days ſometimes ſignifies a Year: And in the Hebrew the Words are, Days upon Days, that is, one Year after another.

Ver. 16. Moreover, the LORD ſtirred up againſt Jehoram the Spirit of the Philiſtines,] Who invaded him on the Weſt-ſide of his Kingdom, as the Arabians did on the Eaſt-ſide: Who ſtood in ſuch Awe of his Father, that they brought him Preſents, c. xvii. 11.

And the Arabians that were near to the Ethiopians.] It ſhould be tranſlated, that were near to the Cuſhites, a People inhabiting the inmoſt Parts of Arabia, not far from Nabathea and Negid, which was then called Cuſh, in the Confines of the Territories of Babylon, which was the ancient Cuſh: By which Name Arabia, or ſome Part of it is to be underſtood in many Places. See xiv. 9. and 2 Kings xix. 9. Whence the Topaz of Cuſh muſt be underſtood of the Topaz of Arabia, not of Ethiopia: In which Country there are no precious Stones, as Ludolphus was aſſured by a Prieſt of Ethiopia, and is confirmed by our Merchants. See Dr. Hyde in his late Book De Relig. Veterum Perſarum, Cap. i. p. 37. and my Annotations on the Place abovementioned.

The Hebrew Phraſe aljad, (at hand) is well tranſlated near by us, for ſo it ſignifies plainly in other Places. And Forſterus perhaps hath rightly obſerved, that the Bounds and Limits of Countries were called jad (i. e. a Hand) becauſe a Hand was there placed, to denote that there was the End of the Territory, which reached no farther.

Ver. 17. And they came up into Judah, and brake into it,] For his Soldiers were not able to defend it from this Irruption on both Sides.

And carried away all the Subſtance that was found in the King's Houſe, and his Sons alſo,] Whom they ſlew, c. xxii. 1.

And his Wives;] All except Athaliah, who hid herſelf, it is likely, in ſome ſecret Place, with her youngeſt Son.

So that there was never a Son left him, ſave Jehoahaz the youngeſt of his Sons.] Who is alſo called Ahaziah, c. xxii. 1. and by the Interpoſition of one Letter Azariah, ver. 6.

Ver. 18. And after all this, the LORD ſmote him in his Bowels with an incurable Diſeaſe.] He lived to ſee all theſe Calamities, which the Prophet threatned, come upon him: And then the WORD of the LORD, ſaith the Targum, ſmote him with a Diſeaſe, for which there was no Remedy.

Ver. 19. And it came to paſs in Proceſs of Time, after the End of two Years, his Bowels fell out by Reaſon of his Sickneſs: ſo he died of ſore Diſeaſes:] The laſt Words ſeem to import, that there was a Complication of other Diſeaſes, together with his Dyſentery: All which were very grievous, and a ſuitable Puniſhment to his horrid Wickedneſs.

And his People made no burning for him, like the burning for his Fathers.] See upon c. xvi. 14.

Ver. 20. Thirty and two Years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem eight Years, and departed without being deſired:] Some think the Meaning is, he was weary of his Life, being ſo full of Pain, as to deſire to die, rather than live in ſuch Miſery. But the moſt natural Senſe is, that his People did not wiſh he ſhould live any longer, but were glad his Reign was ſo ſhort: As appeared by their Contempt of him, in making no Burning for him, nor burying him in the Sepulchre of the Kings, as it here follows.

Howbeit they buried him in the City of David, but not in the Sepulchre of the Kings.] They ſhewed ſome Reſpect to him, but not ſuch as expreſſed any Eſteem of him.

CHAP.

CHAP. XXII.

Ver. 1. AND the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem made Ahaziah his youngeſt Son, King in his Stead:] They declared him King, and ſet him on his Father's Throne: But the Kingdom was his of Right, without the Suffrage of the People.

For the Band of Men that came with the Arabians to the Camp,] Mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 16.

Had ſlain all the Eldeſt. So Ahaziah the Son of Jehoram King of Judah reigned.] This Band of Men came up with the Arabians, but, it ſeems, acted by themſelves; and killed thoſe in cold Blood, whom the Arabians had carried Captive, c. xxi. 17.

Ver. 2. Forty and two Years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one Year in Jeruſalem:] Many ways there are to reconcile this with 2 Kings viii. 26. where it is ſaid he was two and twenty Years old when he began to reign. See my Annotations on that Place. The ſhorteſt and plaineſt Way is to acknowledge an Error in the Copyiſt or Tranſcriber. For ſome Greek Copies have here XXII Years old; and ſo it is in the Syriack and Arabick Tranſlations. And our great Primate Uſher found it ſo, in a Copy which he procured, at great Charge, from that of the Patriarch of Antioch. Piſcator alſo acknowledges, there is no other way, that he knew, to ſolve this Doubt.

His Mother's Name alſo was Athaliah the Daughter of Omri.] His Grand-Daughter, for ſhe was Ahab's Daughter, c. xxi. 6. and ſee 2 Kings viii. 26.

Ver. 3. He alſo walked in the Ways of the Houſe of Ahab: for his Mother was his Counſellor to do wickedly.] She had the greater Power of him, becauſe ſhe had ſaved him together with herſelf, when the other Wives and Children of Jehoram were carried away Captive. And ſhe is ſaid to have adviſed him to do wickedly, becauſe ſhe led him into a worſe Idolatry than that of Jeroboam's: Which is called the Way of the Houſe of Ahab; not becauſe they were the firſt Inventors of it, but the chief Eſtabliſhers of it in theſe Parts. It did not conſiſt merely in the Worſhip of God by an Image, which was the Way of Jeroboam, but in the Worſhip of other Gods beſide the God of Iſrael, viz. Baal-gods, or Baalim: Suppoſing either by theſe to have eaſier Acceſs to the Sovereign God, the LORD of Hoſts; or that theſe they might reſort unto at all Times, and for all Matters, as being nearer at Hand, and not of ſo high a Dignity; whereas Jehovah the God of Iſrael, moſt High, either managed not ſmaller Matters, or might not be troubled with them. For ſuch was the Conceit of the Heathen, that the Souls of great Men after Death, had the Honour to be Agents between the ſupreme God and Men, as being of a middle Nature between them; which the Greeks called Dæmons, and the Scriptures call Baalim. See Mr. Mede, Book i. Diſcourſe xliii. 243.

Ver. 4. Wherefore he did Evil in the Sight of the LORD, like the Houſe of Ahab: for they were his Counſellors after the Death of his Father, to his Deſtruction.] His Father was ſo bad, that there was no need any other ſhould endeavour to ſeduce him, while he lived: But when he was dead, his Mother's Kindred thought it neceſſary to confirm him in his Idolatry.

Ver. 5. He walked alſo after their Counſel,] In other Matters as well as Religion.

And went with Jehoram the Son of Ahab King of Iſrael, to war againſt Hazael King of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead: and the Syrians ſmote Joram.] Tho' he would not imitate his Grand-Father in that which was good in him, yet he followed his bad Example; in joining with Ahab's Son, as Jehoſhaphat had with Ahab, in the like War.

Ver. 6. And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, becauſe of the Wounds which were given him at Ramah, when he fought with Hazael King of Syria. And Azariah the Son of Jehoram King of Judah, went down to ſee Jehoram the Son of Ahab at Jezreel, becauſe he was ſick.] Theſe two Verſes have been explained in 2 Kings viii. 28, 29.

Ver. 7. And the Deſtruction of Ahaziah was of God by coming to Joram: for when he was come, he went out with Jehoram againſt Jehu the Son of Nimſhi, whom the LORD had anointed to cut off the Houſe of Ahab.] See how this was done in 2 Kings ix. 21, 27. and what I have noted there.

Ver. 8. And it came to paſs that when Jehu was executing Judgment upon the Houſe of Ahab, and found the Princes of Judah, and the Sons of the Brethren of Ahaziah, that miniſtred to Ahaziah, he ſlew them.] As they were going to Samaria. See 2 Kings x. 13, 14.

Ver. 9. And he ſought Ahaziah: and they caught him (for he was hid in Samaria) and brought him to Jehu: and when they had ſlain him, they buried him, becauſe (ſaid they) he is the Son of Jehoſhaphat, who ſought the LORD with all his Heart. So the Houſe of Ahaziah had no Power to keep ſtill the Kingdom.] The Story of his Death is related here a little more particularly than in the Book of the Kings. See what I have noted there concerning the whole, 2 Kings ix. 27, 28.

Ver. 10. But when Athaliah the Mother of Ahaziah ſaw that her Son was dead, ſhe aroſe and deſtroyed all the Seed Royal of the Houſe of Judah.] See 2 Kings xi. 1.

Ver. 11. But Jehoſhabeath the Daughter of the King,] i. e. Of the former King, Jehoram.

Took Joaſh the Son of Ahaziah, and ſtole him from among the King's Sons that were ſlain, and put him and his Nurſe in a Bed-chamber.] See concerning this my Annotations upon 2 Kings xi. 2.

So Jehoſhabeath the Daughter of King Jehoram, the Wife of Jehoiada the Prieſt (for ſhe was the Siſter of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah, ſo that ſhe ſlew him not.] She was the Siſter of Ahaziah by the Father's Side, tho' not by the Mother's: For Jehoram had many Wives, as we read in the foregoing Chapter.

Ver. 12. And he was with them hid in the Houſe of God ſix Years, and Athaliah reigned over the Land.] See in the Place above-named what I have noted about the Place wherein he was hid in the Houſe of God; which the Targum here fancies was in the very Holy of Holies: Into which none but the High-Prieſt might enter, and that but once a Year. But if this ſhould paſs for Truth, we muſt not underſtand it of the moſt holy Place itſelf, but of ſome Chamber over it, as Beckius there obſerves, which will not juſtify this Expoſition; for, as I have obſerved before, there was no Entrance into the Room over it; nor is there any ground to think there was any Building over it.

CHAP. XXIII.

Ver. 1. AND in the ſeventh Year Jehoiada ſtrengthened himſelf, and took the Captains of Hundreds, Azariah the Son of Jeroham, and Iſhmael the Son of Jehohanan, and Azariah the Son of Obed, and Maaſeiah the Son of Adaiah, and Eliſhaphat the Son of Zichri, into Covenant with him.] It is not to be ſuppoſed that he took all the Captains of Hundreds that were in the Nation, into Confederacy with him; but ſuch whom he could depend upon, whoſe Names are here mentioned.

Ver. 2. And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the Cities of Judah,] Theſe Captains went about, and communicated the Deſign to the Levites, as Men that might be truſted with it.

And the Chief of the Fathers of Iſrael,] Some of which were under the Government of the King of Judah; and others, perhaps, were known to be well affected to Religion, and ſo were invited to give their Aſſiſtance. But it is moſt likely that Judah is here called Iſrael (as in ſeveral other Places) the principal Men of Authority of which were acquainted with Jehoiada's Intentions.

And they came to Jeruſalem.] To ſettle their Reſolution with Jehoiada.

Ver. 3. And all the Congregation made a Covenant with the King in the Houſe of God: and he ſaid unto them, Behold, the King's Son ſhall reign, as the LORD hath ſaid of the Sons of David.] When all the fore-named Perſons were aſſembled at the Temple, the young King was produced, and they all ſware to be faithful to him. See 2 Kings xi. 4. Where, in the following Verſes, moſt of this Chapter hath been explained already.

Ver. 4. This is the Thing that ye ſhall do; A third Part of you entring on the Sabbath of the Prieſts and of the Levites, ſhall be Porters of the Doors;

Ver. 5. And a third Part ſhall be at the King's Houſe; and a third Part at the Gate of the Foundation; and all the People ſhall be in the Courts of the Houſe of the LORD.] See 2 Kings xi. 5, 6, 7. where this is delivered a little more largely.

Ver. 6. But let none come into the Houſe of the LORD, ſave the Prieſts, and they that miniſter of the Levites,] Who were then in waiting in their Courſe.

They ſhall go in, for they are holy:] They were conſecrated to the Service of God, and were bound to attend there.

But all the People ſhall keep the Watch of the LORD.] That is, of the Houſe of the LORD, as was ſaid before, ver. 5.

Ver. 7. And the Levites ſhall compaſs the King round about, every Man with his Weapons in his Hand, and whoſoever elſe cometh into the Houſe, he ſhall be put to death: but be you with the King when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.] It appears by 2 Kings xi. 8. that Part of the Levites were aſſigned to be the King's Guard; which did not belong to their Office (which was to guard the Temple, and miniſter there) but upon this extraordinary Occaſion they were thus employed, as Men upon whoſe Fidelity Jehoiada might rely.

Ver. 8. So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the Prieſt had commanded, and took every Man his Men that were to come in on the Sabbath, with them that were to go out on the Sabbath: for Jehoiada the Prieſt diſmiſſed not the Courſes.] This is more diſtinctly ſet down in 2 Kings xi. 7. to which I refer the Reader.

Ver. 9. Moreover, Jehoiada the Prieſt delivered to the Captains of Hundreds, Spears, and Bucklers, and Shields, that had been King David's, which were in the Houſe of God.] Theſe ſeem to have been hung up as Trophies in the Houſe of God, after David's Victories. See there, ver. 10.

Ver. 10. And he ſet all the People (every Man having his Weapon in his Hand) from the right Side of the Temple, to the left Side of the Temple, along by the Altar and the Temple, by the King round about.] See there, ver. 11.

Ver. 11. Then they brought out the King's Son, and put upon him the Crown, and gave him the Teſtimony, and made him King: and Jehoiada and his Sons anointed him,] The ſame is ſaid 2 Kings xi. 12. only one thing is here added, that he was anointed by Jehoiada and his Sons; among whom Zacharias was one, whom the King moſt baſely requited. The Targum here hath a long Fable, that this was the Crown taken from the Head of the King of Ammon, wherein was a Magnet, &c.

And ſaid, God ſave the King.] They ſaid this, with clapping their Hands, as we read in the Book of the Kings.

Ver. 12. Now when Athaliah heard the Noiſe of the People, running and praiſing the King, ſhe came to the People into the Houſe of the LORD.] They ran from Place to Place proclaiming the King, and praiſing God, for ſetting him upon the Throne. This is more briefly related in 2 Kings xi. 13.

Ver. 13. And ſhe looked, and behold, the King ſtood at his Pillar, at the entring in, and the Princes, and the Trumpets by the King: and all the People of the Land rejoyced, and ſounded with Trumpets, alſo the Singers with Inſtruments of Muſick, and ſuch as taught to ſing praiſe. Then Athaliah rent her Clothes, and ſaid, Treaſon, Treaſon.] In this Verſe ſomething is added concerning their Expreſſions of Joy, with Inſtruments of Muſick, &c. otherwiſe it is the ſame with 2 Kings xi. 14.

Ver. 14. Then Jehoiada the Prieſt brought out the Captains of Hundreds that were ſet over the Hoſt, and ſaid unto them, Have her forth of the Ranges: and whoſo followeth her, let him be ſlain with the Sword. For the Prieſt ſaid, Slay her not in the Houſe of the LORD.] See 2 Kings xi. 15. where this is expreſſed more plainly.

Ver. 15. So they laid Hands on her; and when ſhe was come to the entring of the Horſe-gate, by the King's Houſe, they ſlew her there.] See

2 Kings

2 Kings xi. 16. For no doubt an Uſurper may be ſlain, by thoſe who have the ſupreme Power and Authority; whether it be in the King, or the Senate, or the People, as Grotius ſpeaks. To which he adds the Tutors of young Kings who are their Pupils, ſuch as Jehoiada, L. i. De Jure Belli & Pacis, Cap. iv. Sect. 8. where he very wiſely ſubjoins, that he cannot allow any private Man to have a Right to kill an Uſurper, Sect. 19. Such a one Athaliah was, for ſhe had no Right to reign, but invaded the Throne, by a tyrannical Force, as Schichard calls it, Cap. i. Theorem iii. De Jure Regio.

Ver. 16. And Jehoiada made a Covenant between him, and between all the People, and between the King, that they ſhould be the LORD's People.] I have explain'd this in 2 Kings xi. 17. where it is expreſly ſaid this Covenant was made between the LORD, and the People and the King. See there. Unto which I may here add, that there is no ſuch Difference between theſe two Verſes, as may be imagined. For Jehoiada the Prieſt ſuſtaining the Perſon of God, the Covenant was made with God, not with Jehoiada, who only repreſented God, to whom they promiſed Obedience.

Ver. 17. Then all the People went to the Houſe of Baal, and brake it down, and brake his Altars, and his Images in Pieces, and ſlew Mattan the Prieſt of Baal before the Altars.] See 2 Kings xi. 18.

Ver. 18. Alſo Jehoiada appointed the Offices of the Houſe of the LORD by the Hand of the Prieſts the Levites, whom David had diſtributed in the Houſe of the LORD, to offer the Burnt-offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the Law of Moſes, with rejoicing and with ſinging, as it was ordained by David.] What is ſet down briefly, at the End of that 18th Verſe, that the Prieſt appointed Officers over the Houſe of the LORD, is here ſet down more largely in this Verſe, and in the next. The firſt Words of which ſound thus in the Hebrew, he put the Offices, the Offices of the Houſe of the LORD, in the Hand of the Prieſts and Levites: Who perhaps had been put out of their Offices, by the former wicked Kings, or by Athaliah, and now were reſtored by Jehoiada, according to the Regulation made by David.

Ver. 19. And he ſet the Porters at the Gates of the Houſe of the LORD, that none which was unclean in any thing ſhould enter in.] Theſe alſo had been conſtituted by David. See 1 Chron. xxvi. 1, &c. For there is no earthly King, as Maimonides obſerves, whoſe Palace is not incompaſſed with ſtrong Guards: And therefore much more fit was it that the Dwelling-Place of God, the King of Kings, ſhould be ſurrounded by his Miniſters, Prieſts and Levites, who ſhould carefully watch that nothing did pollute it.

Ver. 20. And he took the Captains of Hundreds, and the Nobles, and the Governors of the People, and all the People of the Land, and brought down the King from the Houſe of the LORD: and they came thro' the high Gate into the King's Houſe, and ſet the King upon the Throne of the Kingdom.] He would have thoſe who had begun this Work, ſee it accompliſhed: And therefore they all accompanied the King from the Temple to his Palace, and ſaw him ſet on the Throne of his Father (ſee 2 Kings xi. 19.) whereby he took Poſſeſſion of the Kingdom, to which he had been anointed in the Temple.

Ver. 21. And all the People of the Land rejoiced: and the City was quiet, after that they had ſlain Athaliah with thi Sword.] See this explained in 2 Kings xi. 20.

CHAP. XXIV.

Ver. 1. JOaſh was ſeven Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty Years in Jeruſalem: his Mother's Name alſo was Zibeah of Beerſheba.

Ver. 2. And Joaſh did that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, all the Days of Jehoiada the Prieſt.] Theſe two Verſes are the ſame with thoſe 2 Kings xii. 1, 2.

Ver. 3. And Jehoiada took for him two Wives, and he begat Sons and Daughters.] He did not take theſe two Wives for the King, but for himſelf: Which was contrary to the conſtant Tradition of the Jews, that the High-Prieſt was to be ſo pure, as to have but one Wife at a Time: Which they endeavour to prove by Scripture, from Levit. xxi. 13, 14. The Gemara Babylonica reports this, and Maimonides aſſerts it (ſee Braunius in his Selecta Sacra, L. iii. Cap. 2.) Therefore Jehoiada is ſuppoſed to have had two Wives before he was High-Prieſt; or rather, one being dead, he took another. Or, as the Talmudiſts will have it, after he had divorced one he married another, as Mr. Selden obſerves, L. iii. Uxor Hebr. Cap. 19. But after all, it is not certain that Jehoiada was High-Prieſt, for he is every where called Jehoiada the Prieſt; and but once only ver. 6. the Chief: Which doth not neceſſarily imply that he was the High-Prieſt, but only a great Man, becauſe of his Relation to the Royal Family; or becauſe he was the chief Head of one of the XXIV Families of the Prieſts. But he ſeems to be diſtinguiſhed from the High-Prieſts in 2 Kings xii. 9, 10. and is not mentioned either in Ezra vii. or 1 Chron. vi.

Ver. 4. And it came to paſs after this, that Joaſh was minded to repair the Houſe of the LORD.] As is related ſomething more particularly in 2 Kings xii. 4, &c.

Ver. 5. And he gathered together the Prieſts and the Levites, and ſaid unto them, Go out unto the Cities of Judah, and gather of all Iſrael Money to repair the Houſe of your God from Year to Year,] That ſomething might be done every Year, till the Temple was put into good Repair. What Money this was that they were to collect, we are informed 2 Kings xii. 4.

And ſee that ye haſte the Matter: howbeit the Levites haſtened it not.] Things were in ſo bad a Condition, that it required the Work ſhould be begun with Speed: Yet ſuch was the Negligence of the Levites, and the Backwardneſs perhaps of the People to part with their Money, that in the twenty third of this King's Reign, nothing was done; as we are informed in 2 Kings xii. 6.

Ver. 6. And the King called for Jehoiada the Chief, and ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou not required required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah, and out of Jeruſalem, the Collection, according to the Commandment of Moſes the Servant of the Lord, and of the Congregation of Iſrael, for the Tabernacle of Witneſs?] Such Oblations as were freely made in Moſes his Time for the building of the Tabernacle. See Exod. xxxv. 5. There was alſo, beſide this voluntary Oblation, a Tax ſet upon them. See Exod. xxx. 12, 13. It is called the Tabernacle of Witneſs, becauſe here were kept the two Tables in the Ark, which witneſſed the Covenant between God and them. See upon Exod. xxv. 16.

Ver. 7. For the Sons of Athaliah, that wicked Woman, had broken up the Houſe of God,] That is, Ahaziah, and the Sons of his Brethren mentioned c. xxii. 8. For his Brethren themſelves were carried Captive before their Father died, c. xxi. 17. Or, as Abarbinel expounds it, ſhe being a wicked Woman, played the Whore with another Man, by whom ſhe had ſeveral Baſtards, who committed this Impiety. Therefore they are called the Sons of Athaliah, their Father being unknown.

And alſo all the dedicate Things of the Houſe of the LORD] Which ſhould have been employed in the Reparation of it.

Did they beſtow upon Baalim.] Gave them either to adorn the Temples of thoſe falſe Gods, or to promote their Worſhip.

Ver. 8. And at the King's Commandment they made a Cheſt, and ſet it without, at the Gate of the Houſe of the LORD.] This is more largely related in 2 Kings xii. 9. See there.

Ver. 9. And they made a Proclamation thro' Judah and Jeruſalem, to bring in to the LORD the Collection that Moſes the Servant of God laid upon Iſrael in the Wilderneſs.] One like to that, according as every Man ſhould freely offer.

Ver. 10. And all the Princes, and all the People rejoyced, and brought in, and caſt into the Cheſt,] The great Men ſet ſo good an Example to the People, that they cheerfully joined with them in this good Work.

Until they had made an End.] Till every Body had given ſomething, or all that had a Mind had offered, and they ſaw no more would be given: Or till the Temple was repaired, and the Work finiſhed.

Ver. 11. Now it came to paſs, that at what Time the Cheſt was brought unto the King's Office, by the Hand of the Levites,] Who brought it from the Gate of the Houſe of the LORD (ver. 8.) that the King's Officers might examine what the Contribution amounted unto.

And when they ſaw that there was much Money, the King's Scribe, and the High-Prieſt's Officer came and emptied the Cheſt, and took it, and carried it to his Place again.] By the Hands of the Levites who brought it thither.

Thus they did Day by Day, and gathered Money in Abundance.] This is related a little more largely than in 2 Kings xii. 10. See what I have noted there.

Ver. 12. And the King and Jehoiada gave it to ſuch as did the Work of the Service of the Houſe of the LORD, and hired Maſons and Carpenters to repair the Houſe of the LORD, and alſo ſuch as wrought Iron and Braſs, to mend the Houſe of the LORD.] See 2 Kings xii. 11, 12, 13, &c. where this is more diſtinctly related. Only here we are told who put the Money into the Hands of thoſe that were to overſee the Work, viz. the King and Jehoiada, which is not there mentioned.

Ver. 13. So the Workmen wrought, and the Work was perfected by them, and they ſet the Houſe of God in his State, and ſtrengthened it.] For the Men were ſo honeſt, that there was no Time ſpent in calling them to an Account, how they laid out the Money; which they did very faithfully, 2 Kings xii. 15.

Ver. 14. And when they had finiſhed it, they brought the reſt of the Money before the King and Jehoiada, whereof were made Veſſels for the Houſe of the LORD, even Veſſels to miniſter, and to offer withal, and Spoons, and Veſſels of Gold and Silver: and they offered Burnt-offerings in the Houſe of the LORD continually, all the Days of Jehoiada.] It is likely Athaliah and her wicked Sons had embezzel'd the holy Veſſels, and employed them to the Service of Baalim. But till the Temple was compleatly repaired, none of the Money was converted to this other pious Uſe, of purchaſing Veſſels for the Sanctuary, as we are diſtinctly told in 2 Kings xii. 13.

Ver. 15. But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of Days when he died; an hundred and thirty Years old was he when he died.] He ſeems to have lived long after this Work was finiſhed, being well ſtricken in Years when he undertook it. Many ſuch Examples of long-lived Men are collected by Primate Uſher in his Chronologia Sacra, Pars i. Cap. xii. p. 70.

Ver. 16. And they buried him in the City of David among the Kings,] This ſhews a good Diſpoſition in the King and the People at this Time, tho' they ſoon changed after he was dead and buried.

Becauſe he had done good in Iſrael] The good he had done was in Judah, which is often in this Hiſtory called Iſrael; becauſe they were the Principal Tribe among the Iſraelites, and were indeed the true Iſrael of God, while they continued to Worſhip him ſincerely.

Both towards God, and towards his Houſe.] He had been an Inſtrument in reſtoring the Divine Worſhip, which now they were ſenſible was a great Bleſſing; and in repairing the Decays which were in the Temple, and furniſhing it with Veſſels for the Divine Service.

Ver. 17. Now after the Death of Jehoiada,] In his Life-time they durſt not attempt this, for tho' he was old and feeble he retained great Authority.

Came the Princes of Judah, and made Obeiſance to the King:] Some of the great Men, who in their Hearts continued Baalites, deſired to be admitted into the King's Preſence, and made their Addreſſes with great Reverence, pretending the greateſt Devotion to his Service: And ſo falling into Diſcourſe with him concerning the State of Religion, and other Affairs, deſired at laſt, they might have leave to worſhip Baal, which Jehoiada had deſtroyed.

Then the King hearkened unto them.] To this dangerous Diſcourſe he liſtned and conſented to them: For fair Words and Flatteries eaſily deceive Princes, as Grotius here obſerves: And they wanted not ſpecious Reaſons to perſuade the the King not to be ſo ſtrict, as to permit no God to be worſhipped but only one. Some of the Jews fancy, that they flattered him with a Conceit, that he himſelf was worthy of divine Honour, being wonderfully preſerved ſix Years in the Houſe of God; as the People flattered Herod after his Oration, ſaying, It is the Voice of a God, not of a Man.

Ver. 18. And they left the Houſe of the LORD God of their Fathers, and ſerved Groves and Idols:] Tho' at the firſt, it is likely, theſe great Men only worſhipped Baal themſelves; yet they had their Emiſſaries who perſuaded the People to join with them. So that the Houſe of God was deſerted, and they worſhipped Idols in the Groves.

And Wrath came upon Judah and Jeruſalem for this their Treſpaſs.] Which God puniſhed by the Hand of Hazael, King of Syria. See 2 Kings xii. 17, 18.

Ver. 19. Yet he ſent Prophets to them, to bring them back again unto the LORD, and they teſtified againſt them: but they would not give Ear.] God's Goodneſs was wonderful in ſending his Meſſengers to reduce ſuch a baſe People, whoſe Wickedneſs was no leſs wonderful, in that they hearkened to the great Men among them rather than to the Prophets of Almighty God.

Ver. 20. And the Spirit of God came upon Zechariah the Son of Jehoiada the Prieſt, which ſtood above the People, and ſaid unto them,] He had a Divine Motion to ſpeak publickly to the People and reprove them; which that he might do and be heard of all, he got up into an high Place, where they might all both ſee and hear him. L'Empereur in his Annotations upon Codex Middoth, p. 80. thinks, he got up into ſome Deſk or Pulpit in the Court of the Prieſts.

Thus ſaith God, Why tranſgreſs ye the Commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot proſper? becauſe ye have forſaken the LORD, he hath alſo forſaken you.] This he ſpake with great Vehemence, and, it is likely, enlarged upon this Subject ſo long, that it raiſed their Indignation. It is very remarkable, that tho' he ſpake by the Spirit of Prophecy, yet he only applied the general Prediction of Moſes (Deut. xxxi. 16.) unto the preſent Time; that they might all learn to have a greater Regard to Moſes, and continually meditate in his Law; unto which if they had attended, they would have eaſily diſcerned, who were true Prophets, and who were falſe.

Ver. 21. And they conſpired againſt him, and ſtoned him with Stones, at the Commandment of the King] Who, it is likely, was preſent when he reproved them; or, being told what he ſaid, ſent an Order to kill him; which ſhews their Error, who think Joaſh was not an Idolater himſelf, but only connived at the great Mens Idolatry, and gave them Liberty to exerciſe it. Joſephus rightly accuſes him of this Sin, of which if he had not been guilty, he would not ſure have ſlain the LORD's Prophet, who reproved it.

In the Court of the Houſe of the LORD.] This ſhews, that they were there aſſembled; of which he took the Advantage, to put them in mind of their Duty; and, if we may believe the Jews, it was upon the great Day of Expiation; for as Bochartus obſerves, Hierozoicon, Par. i. Lib. ii. Cap. 1. Plebeius furor nullos habet limites, maxime cum Religionis velum illi obtenditur; Popular Fury hath no Bounds, eſpecially when the Veil of Religion is thrown over it.

Ver. 22. Thus Joaſh the King remembred not the Kindneſs which Jehoiada his Father had done to him, but ſlew his Son:] This Sin, beſides the Contempt of God's Prophet, and of the Place where he was murdered, had an horrid Ingratitude in it; he being the Son of him, to whom the King owed his Life and his Kingdom; who aſſiſted his Father at his Unction, as ſome think, becauſe it is ſaid, chap. xxiii. 11. Jehoiada and his Sons anointed him. But if Jehoiada was High-Prieſt, this Son is not reckoned among the Succeſſors of Aaron, in 1 Chron. vi. And therefore it is likely he was a younger Son of Jehoiada; for if he had been his eldeſt, he would have had ſufficient Authority, without the Spirit of Prophecy, to reprove Joaſh for his Idolatry; as Azariah reſiſted Uzziah when he would have uſurped his Office. Ludovicus Capellus therefore thinks it probable, that his Brother the High-Prieſt conniving at Joaſh's Apoſtaſy, this younger Brother was inſpired by God to reprove it; which Boldneſs Joaſh and his Courtiers thought they might puniſh with ſome Colour, by alledging, that he was not moved by God to it, but by his juvenile Heat, and Raſhneſs, which they ſtirred up the People to chaſtiſe. See Chronol. ſacra, p. 285.

And when he died, he ſaid, The LORD look upon it, and require it.] And ſo he did, both by external Wars, v. 23. and by a Conſpiracy againſt him, v. 25. It is not to be thought, that he died with a Spirit of Revenge; but by the Spirit of Prophecy foretold God would puniſh them for their hard Uſage of him. Thus the Apoſtle, 1 Tim. iv. 14. ſpeaks of Alexander the Copper-Smith, who had greatly oppoſed him, The LORD reward him according to his Work; which may be underſtood as a Sentence pronounced againſt him.

The Jews tell a ſtrange Story in the Gemara Sanhedrin, Cap. xi. how Nebuzaradan, when he burnt the Temple, ſaw Blood bubbling up in a certain Place; and enquiring into the Matter, he underſtood, that a Prieſt and Prophet of the LORD had been ſlain there, becauſe he foretold their Deſtruction. Whereupon he killed all the Doctors of the Law, but ſtill the Blood was not at reſt; then all the Scholars in their Schools, but ſtill it was not quiet; then all the Prieſts, and at laſt many thouſands of the People, but ſtill it continued to bubble: So that he ſaid, Zachariah, Zachariah, wouldeſt thou have me to deſtroy all the Nation? and then it reſted, Sect. xxiv. In other Books they ſay, there were ſeven Tranſgreſſions upon this Day, in which they kill'd a Prieſt, a Prophet, a Judge, ſhed innocent Blood, polluted the Court of the Lord's Houſe, and the Sabbath, and the Day of Expiation.

Ver. 23. And it came to paſs at the End of the Year, that the Hoſt of Syria came up againſt him:] God was very ſpeedy in puniſhing this and the reſt of the Wickedneſs they had committed.

And they came to Judah and Jeruſalem, and deſtroyed deſtroyed all the Princes of the People from among the People,] Who had adviſed King Joaſh to reſtore the Worſhip of Baal; this was a diſtinct War from that mentioned in 2 Kings xii. 17, 18. Here Hazael is not ſaid to have come up, but only his Army, and that a ſmall Party. There it is not ſaid, he took Jeruſalem; but here he deſtroyed all the Princes. There it is ſaid, Joaſh diverted Hazael from him by Preſents; here, that they ſpoiled the City, and ſent the Prey to Syria. We are therefore thus to underſtand the Whole, that when they did Evil in the Sight of the LORD, he ſent Hazael to afflict them, who, we read in the Book of Kings, took Gath, and ſet his Face, as if he meant to ſet upon Jeruſalem; whereupon Joaſh took the hallowed Things, and thereby procured his Departure from them; but in the End of the Year, Zachariah being murdered, this other War begun, which is here related in this Book.

And ſent all the Spoil of them unto the King at Damaſcus.] Who was not here at this Invaſion, but contented himſelf to ſend a few Forces againſt Judah, as the next Words tell us.

Ver. 24. For the Army of the Syrians came with a ſmall Company of Men, and the LORD delivered a very great Hoſt into their Hand,] This declar'd the Puniſhment the more remarkably to proceed from the Hand of God, who took away their Courage, ſo that with a great Hoſt they could not reſiſt an Handful of their Enemies.

Becauſe they had forſaken the LORD God of their Fathers:] According to the Prophecy of Zechariah, v. 20.

So they executed Judgment againſt Joaſh.] They left him in a miſerable Condition; for all Puniſhments are called JUDGMENTS among the Hebrews.

Ver. 25. And when they were departed from him, (for they left him in great Diſeaſes)] Many think, he was ſorely wounded in the Battle; which brought him into great Diſeaſes; and they increaſed, it is likely, by the Grief and Anguiſh of his Mind, to ſee his Country ruin'd; and by the Hatred and Contempt into which he was fallen, which encouraged his own Servants (as it follows) to conſpire againſt him.

His own Servants conſpired againſt him, for the Blood of the Sons of Jehoiada the Prieſt,] This doth not denote they killed more of his Sons than one; but, according to the frequent Uſe of this Language, the Plural Number is put for the Singular.

And ſlew him on his Bed, and he died:] Perhaps they were of his Bed-Chamber, and ſo could more eaſily compaſs their Deſign. Howſoever, he was ſo weak and feeble that he could make no Reſiſtance, and was ſo little eſteemed, that his Guard minded not what became of him. This Bed was in his Houſe of Millo, as we read 2 Kings xii. 21. which is ſaid to be in the Way to Silla; becauſe there was another Houſe of Millo, from which this is thus diſtinguiſhed.

And they buried him in the City of David, but they buried him not in the Sepulchres of the Kings.] The ſame is ſaid of Ahaz, xxviii. 27. Tho' the People could not puniſh wicked Kings for their Impieties while they lived; yet they ſet Blots upon their Memory when they were dead, as Grotius obſerves, Lib. i. de Jure Belli & Pacis, Cap. iii. Sect. 16. Egregio Temperamento, as he ſpeaks, by a moſt admirable Temperament; wherewith the Sacredneſs of the ſupreme Power was preſerved, and yet Kings out of Fear of future Judgment were kept from altering Religion. But it may be doubted, whether this was done perpetually; for we find bad Kings builded themſelves Sepulchres, 2 Kings xxi. 18, 26.

Ver. 26. And theſe are they that conſpired againſt him; Zabad the Son of Shimeath an Ammoniteſs, and Jehozabad the Son of Shimrith a Moabiteſs.] They were mungrel Fellows, whoſe Fathers were Jews, but their Mothers Aliens; for ſo the Manner of this impious People was, to make Marriages contrary to the Law.

Ver. 27. Now concerning his Sons, and the Greatneſs of the Burdens laid upon him, and the repairing of the Houſe of God, behold they are written in the Story of the Book of the Kings.] Some by Burdens underſtand the ſore Puniſhments God inflicted on him, called in Scripture, The Burden of the LORD. Others, the great Tribute laid upon him by the Syrians; which was a heavy Burden, and a ſore Puniſhment.

And Amaziah his Son reigned in his ſtead.] Though the Father was not beloved, it did not hinder the Succeſſion of his Son.

CHAP. XXV.

Ver. 1. Amaziah was twenty and five Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine Years in Jeruſalem: and his Mother's Name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem.] See 2 Kings xiv. 1.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, but not with a perfect Heart.] He followed the right Religion, and worſhipped God aright, but not with ſuch Sincerity as David his Father did, 2 Kings xiv. 3. See Grotius upon c. xxvi. 4. where he obſerves his Son did in Fact what the Law required, but not with a ſolid Piety.

Ver. 3. And it came to paſs, when the Kingdom was eſtabliſhed to him, that he ſlew his Servants that had killed the King his Father.] They ſeem to have been Men of ſome Power and Intereſt in the Court, whom he durſt not meddle withal till he was well ſettled in his Authority. See 2 Kings xiv. 5.

Ver. 4. But he ſlew not their Children, but did as it is written in the Law in the Book of Moſes, where the LORD commanded, ſaying, The Fathers ſhall not die for the Children, neither ſhall the Children die for the Fathers, but every Man ſhall die for his own Sin.] The very ſame is obſerved there, 2 Kings xiv. 6.

Ver. 5. Moreover, Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them Captains over thouſands, and Captains over hundreds, according to the Houſes of their Fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin:] All that belonged to one Family, he put under the Command of one Leader; whereby they became the more unanimous.

And he numbred them from twenty Years old and above, and found them three hundred thouſand choice Men, able to go forth to War, that could handle handle Spear and Shield.] Behold here, how their Iniquities had diminiſhed their Numbers, ſince the Days of Jehoſhaphat (i. e. in the Space of eighty two Years) for this King could bring but three hundred thouſand fighting Men into the Field, and Jehoſhaphat brought near four Times as many. See upon Chap. xvii. ult.

Ver. 6. He hired alſo an hundred thouſand mighty Men of Valour out of Iſrael, for an hundred Talents of Silver.] In two Things he ſhewed his Heart was not perfect with God; (as it is noted v. 2.) for, firſt, he ſinned in making a League with the X Tribes, contrary to what the Prophet Azariah had declared, Chap. xix. And, ſecondly, he invited them to Battle without any Provocation; whereas he ſhould have done, as the LORD commanded, 1 Kings xii. 24. and left them to end their Quarrels among themſelves; only repelling them if they had invaded him, but no more.

Ver. 7. But there came a Man of God to him, ſaying, O King, let not the Army of Iſrael go with thee;] This was the Prophet Amos, Father of the Prophet Iſaiah, if we will believe the Jews, particularly Kimchi upon this Place; but this is a fooliſh Tradition, built on a Miſtake that Amos the Prophet was Iſaiah's Father.

For the LORD is not with Iſrael, to wit, with all the Children of Ephraim.] In the Targum it is, The WORD of the LORD will not help Iſrael; who had highly offended him by the Idolatry, which Jeroboam of the Tribe of Ephraim introduced.

Ver. 8. But if thou wilt go, do it, be ſtrong for the Battle: God ſhall make thee fall before the Enemy: for God hath Power to help and to caſt down.] If he had a ſettled Reſolution not to deſiſt, the Prophet bid him go and try, whether with the greateſt Power he could muſter up, he ſhould be able to prevail againſt the LORD; who could either help a few, or deſtroy a great many.

Ver. 9. And Amaziah ſaid unto the Man of God, But what ſhall we do for the hundred Talents, which I have given to the Army of Iſrael?] That which ſtuck with him was the Money he was likely to loſe; for they would not return that, if he diſmiſſed them from his Army.

And the Man of God anſwered, The LORD is able to give thee much more than this.] This Objection was preſently anſwered, if he would but obey God, and truſt in his Goodneſs; who was able to give his faithful Servants more than that came to. And as Grotius notes, he is rich enough, who is impoveriſhed for God's Sake.

Ver. 10. Then Amaziah ſeparated them, to wit, the Army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go home again:] This argued ſome Goodneſs in him, tho' his Heart was not perfect with God.

Wherefore their Anger was greatly kindled againſt Judah, and they returned home in great Anger.] Becauſe they looked upon them as Enemies of God, and durſt not imploy them: St. Hierom thinks they carried Idols along with them.

Ver. 11. And Amaziah ſtrengthened himſelf,] With his own Men only.

And led forth his People, and went to the Valley of Salt, and ſmote of the Children of Seir,] Who dwelt in Mount Seir.

Ten thouſand.] See 2 Kings xiv. 7. where this Story is told more briefly; for what follows in the next Verſe, is there omitted.

Ver. 12. And other ten thouſand left alive, did the Children of Judah carry away captive, and brought them unto the Top of the Rock, and caſt them down from the Top of the Rock, that they were broken all in Pieces.] This was a very ancient Puniſhment among the Romans, as we learn from Livy, Plutarch, Dionyſius Halicarnaſſæus, and others; and was uſed among other Nations, as Mr. Selden ſhews, Lib. i. De Synedriis, Cap. 17. where he obſerves an illuſtrious Example of this among the Iſraelites, who threw Jezabel down upon the Stones out of the Windows, by the Command of Jehu.

Ver. 13. But the Soldiers of the Army, which Amaziah ſent back, that they ſhould not go with him to Battle,] The Men of Ephraim, whom the Prophet forbad him to join withal; and were therefore ſent home.

Fell upon the Cities of Judah, from Samaria, even unto Beth-horon;] They went away from Amaziah in a great Rage, (v. 10.) which inſtigated them to revenge the Affront put upon them, in this Manner; taking hold of the fair Opportunity, which preſented itſelf, by his War with Edom, which had drained his Country of all the Forces that ſhould have oppoſed them.

And ſmote three thouſand of them, and took much Spoil.] Thus Amaziah was puniſhed for having entred into a Society with Idolaters, tho' at the Prophet's Reproof he broke it off; and God, it is not unlikely, alſo ſuffered this Calamity to fall upon him, becauſe he uſed his Victory over the Edomites with too much Cruelty.

Ver. 14. Now it came to paſs, after that Amaziah was come from the Slaughter of the Edomites, that he brought the Gods of the Children of Seir,] Which he ſhould have burnt with Fire.

And ſet them up to be his Gods, and bowed down himſelf before them, and burned Incenſe unto them.] A moſt prodigious Sottiſhneſs, as the Prophet ſhews him in the next Verſe. Ahaz was wiſer, (tho' very wicked) who ſacrificed to the Gods of thoſe People who had overcome him; hoping they might be perſuaded to help him alſo, xxviii. 23. Or, perhaps, Amaziah worſhipped them, for Fear they ſhould owe him a Spite, and contrive ſome Miſchief againſt him, in Revenge of what he had done againſt the Edomites. See Dr. Jackſon, in his Book of the Original of Belief, Chap. xvii. Parag. 5. 10.

Ver. 15. Wherefore the Anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Amaziah, and he ſent unto him a Prophet, which ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou ſought after the Gods of the People, which could not deliver their own People out of thine Hand?] Nothing need be ſaid more to convince him of his monſtrous Stupidity; of which no Account could be given, unleſs we ſuppoſe them to have been ſuch beautiful Images, that he looked upon them till he fell in Love with them, and doted upon them, ſo that he was bewitched into a ſenſeleſs Idolatry. Fabius Maximus (as Strigelius here notes) was much wiſer, wiſer, who having conquered Tarentum, and being asked what ſhould be done with their Gods, Deos iratos Tarentinis relinqui juſſit, bad them leave their Gods that were angry with the Tarentines: For what Vanity is it, (as he adds) to hope for any Safety from thoſe, that cannot preſerve themſelves? But ſuch is the Madneſs of Idolaters, that it is reproved by ſober Heathens.

Ver. 16. And it came to paſs as he talked with him, that the King ſaid unto him, Art thou made of the King's Counſel?] Yes, undoubtedly, for he was made ſo by God; and did nothing but what belonged to his Office, Jerem. i. 10. But Amaziah thought not of this; but ſcornfully aſked him, Who made him a Counſellor of State?

Forbear; why ſhouldſt thou be ſmitten?] He bids him meddle no more in this Matter, leſt he ſhould be provoked to deal with him, as they did with Zachariah, xxiv. 21.

Then the Prophet forbare, and ſaid, I know that God hath determined to deſtroy thee, becauſe thou haſt done this, and haſt not hearkened unto my Counſel.] He forbare to adviſe or reprove him any further, but only denounced the Sentence God had paſſed upon him, for this Contempt of him, and his other Sins; which came to paſs, v. 20, 27.

Ver. 17. Then Amaziah King of Judah took Advice,] He would not be adviſed by the Prophet; but conſulted thoſe that led him to his Deſtruction.

And ſent to Joaſh the Son of Jehoahaz, the Son of Jehu King of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, let us ſee one another in the Face.] He was adviſed, it ſeems, without firſt deſiring Satisfaction for the Damage done him, (v. 12.) in which perhaps Joaſh had no Hand, to make War upon him, and provoke him to Battle. See 2 Kings xiv. 17, 18, &c. where this, and the following Verſes are explained.

Ver. 18. And Joaſh King of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah King of Judah, ſaying, the Thiſtle that was in Lebanon, ſent to the Cedar that was in Lebanon, ſaying, Give thy Daughter to my Son to Wife: and there paſſed by a wild Beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trode down the Thiſtle.

Ver. 19. Thou ſayeſt, Lo, thou haſt ſmitten the Edomites, and thine Heart lifteth thee up to boaſt: abide now at Home, why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thine Hurt, that thou ſhouldeſt fall, even thou and Judah with thee?] See this explained there, 2 Kings xiv. 9, 10.

Ver. 20. But Amaziah would not hear, for it came of God, that he might deliver them into the Hand of their Enemies, becauſe they ſought after the Gods of Edom.] God blinds the Minds of thoſe whom he intends to deſtroy for their Sins.

Ver. 21. So Joaſh the King of Iſrael went up, and they ſaw one another in the Face, both he and Amaziah King of Judah, at Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah.] For there was another Beth-ſhemeſh in the Tribe of Naphtali, Joſh. xix. 38. Judges i. 33.

Ver. 22. And Judah was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled every Man to his Tent.] Theſe two Verſes are in the ſame Words, 2 Kings xiv. 11, 12.

Ver. 23. And Joaſh the King of Iſrael took Amaziah King of Judah, the Son of Joaſh, the Son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-ſhemeſh, and brought him to Jeruſalem, and brake down the Wall of Jeruſalem, from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner-gate, four hundred Cubits.] See there v. 13.

Ver. 24. And he took all the Gold and the Silver, and all the Veſſels that were found in the Houſe of God with Obed-edom,] The Targum here explains it, that Obed-edom conſecrated theſe Veſſels to God's Service, when David brought the Ark to his Houſe, and God bleſſed him for his Care in looking after it; but Kimchi judges better, who takes Obed-edom to have been ſet over theſe Treaſures, in the Cuſtody of which his Son ſucceeded him.

And the Treaſures of the King's Houſe, the Hoſtages alſo, and returned to Samaria.] Theſe Hoſtages the Targum takes for the Sons of the principal Men of the City; with whom the Generality of the Hebrew Interpreters agree: So Jarchi; the Children of Iſrael did not reſtore to Amaziah the Kingdom of Judah, but upon Condition, that he ſhould give him the Children of great Men for a Security of his Fidelity, and that he ſhould not rebel againſt him hereafter.

Ver. 25. And Amaziah the Son of Joaſh, King of Judah, lived after the Death of Joaſh Son of Jehoahaz, King of Iſrael, fifteen Years.] See upon 2 Kings xiv. 17.

Ver. 26. Now the reſt of the Acts of Amaziah, firſt and laſt, behold, are they not written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael?] See there, v. 18.

Ver. 27. Now after the Time that Amaziah did turn away from following the LORD, they made a Conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem, and he fled to Lachiſh: but they ſent to Lachiſh after him, and ſlew him there.] He turned from God before the Death of Joaſh; therefore this Conſpiracy was laid a great while before it was diſcovered; and then he fled to Lachiſh, where it took Effect. Or, as Jacobus Capellus conjectures (in his Hiſt. ſacra & exotica) the Wars abroad put a Stop to this Sedition at home: But when they were over, and he returned home, and had a Son, then the Conſpiracy was renewed again, under the ſpecious Name of being Guardians to the young Prince, and taking better Care of him, than his Father was likely to do.

Ver. 28. And they brought him upon Horſes, and buried him with his Fathers in the City of Judah.] That is, in the City of David, as it is explained, 1 Kings xiv. 20.

CHAP. XXVI.

Ver. 1. THEN all the People of Judah took Uzziah,] Who was called alſo Azariah, 2 Kings xiv. 21. xv. 1.

Who was ſixteen Years old, and made him King in the room of his Father Amaziah.] They made him King, when he was ſixteen Years old; for his Father left him an Infant of four Years old: So that there was an Interregnum of twelve Years, the Kingdom being adminiſtred by a Vice-Roy, or by the High-Prieſt and the Elders. See Ludovicus Capellus in his Chronologia Sacra, p. 182.

Ver. 2. He built Eloth, and reſtored it to Judah, after that the King ſlept with his Fathers.] He repaired it, after he had retaken it from the Iſraelites: This being, I ſuppoſe, one of the Cities, that the Soldiers, whom his Father Amaziah diſmiſſed, had taken, (ſee 2 Kings xiv. 22.) and which, while he lived, he could not recover.

Ver. 3. Sixteen Years old was Uzziah when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and two Years in Jeruſalem: his Mother's Name alſo was Jecoliah of Jeruſalem.

Ver. 4. And he did that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, according to all that his Father Amaziah did.] Theſe two Verſes are the very ſame with thoſe 2 Kings xv. 2, 3. See there.

Ver. 5. And he ſought God in the Days of Zechariah,] He perſiſted in the true Religion, as long as Zechariah lived. By whom is not meant him whoſe Book of Prophecies is extant in the Bible, for he lived three hundred Years after; nor the Son of Jehoiada, who was ſlain ſome Years ago: But it is probable, the Son of that Zechariah, who was called after his Father's Name, and was eminent for his Divine Wiſdom.

Who had Underſtanding in the Viſions of God:] It is not ſaid he was a Prophet, but that he was a Man very ſkilful in expounding the ancient Prophecies, and giving Inſtruction out of them; as Grotius underſtands it.

And as long as he ſought the LORD, God made him to proſper.) Of which he gives Inſtances in the following Verſes.

Ver. 6. And he went forth and warred againſt the Philiſtines, and brake down the Wall of Gath, and the Wall of Jabneh, and the Wall of Aſhdod, and built Cities about Aſhdod, and among the Philiſtines.] From this Verſe, unto the fifteenth, this Divine Writer ſhews, how excellent a Prince this was, and how God proſpered him, while he continued truly religious: For he was ſkilled in Huſbandry as well as in warlike Affairs; and was very ſolicitous for the Good of his People. The former of theſe is mentioned v. 10. and the other in the reſt of the Verſes; which tell us, how prudently he demoliſhed all the Fortifications of his Enemies, on the Frontiers; and provided his own Frontiers with Works, Gariſons, Arms and Engines of War.

Ver. 7. And God helped him againſt the Philiſtines, and againſt the Arabians that dwelt in Gurbaal, and the Mehunims.] I have noted often before, that theſe Mehunims were a People in Arabia deſerta. See 1 Chron. iv. 41. 2 Chron. xx. 1. Judges x. 11, 12. of which this Place gives a clear Proof.

Ver. 8. And the Ammonites gave Gifts to Uzziah,] Made him Preſents, that they might preſerve his Friendſhip.

And his Name ſpread abroad, even to the entring in of Egypt, for he ſtrengthened himſelf exceedingly.] His Power grew ſo very great, that he was formidable, not only to the Philiſtines in the Weſt, and to the Arabians and others in the Eaſt, but to the Borders of Egypt in the South.

Ver. 9. Moreover, Uzziah built Towers in Jeruſalem at the Corner-gate, and at the Valley-gate, and at the Turning of the Wall, and fortified them.] In his Father's Time the Wall of Jeruſalem was broken down four hundred Cubits, as we read in the foregoing Chapter, v. 23. which, it is likely, was built again before this Time: But Uzziah made it ſtronger by Towers, which he built for its Defence; one of which was at that very Gate where the Breach ended, viz. the Corner-gate.

Ver. 10. Alſo he built Towers in the Deſert,] To defend the Shepherds from the ſudden Incurſions of their Enemies; particularly the Arabs, who had formerly broken in upon them, xxi. 16.

And digged many Wells, for he had much Cattle, both in the low Country and in the Plains: Huſbandmen alſo, and Vine-dreſſers in the Mountains,] Some therefore take the Towers forementioned to have been Country-houſes, where Huſbandmen dwelt; and where their Cattle in hard Weather were ſheltered, and the Fruits of the Earth were laid up.

And in Carmel:] By this is not meant the famous Mount of that Name, (for that was not in the Tribe of Judah) but a very fertile Country, as the Word Carmel ſignifies in ſeveral Places, Iſaiah xvi. 10. Jerem. ii. 7. xlviii. 33.

For he loved Huſbandry.] As the greateſt Men (I have often obſerved) did in ancient Times, and followed the Plough, and fed Cattle themſelves. See 1 Kings xix. 19.

Ver. 11. Moreover, Uzziah had an Hoſt of fighting Men that went out to War by Bands,] They were ſent out by Parties, ſeveral Ways; for it appears by what follows they were very numerous.

According to the Number of their Account, by the Hand of Jeiel the Scribe,] He was the Secretary of War, (as we now ſpeak) who took an Account of the ſeveral Bands of Men, that went out, and of the Number whereof they conſiſted.

And Maaſeiah the Ruler, under the Hand of Hananiah, one of the King's Captains.] Theſe two, I ſuppoſe, were great Officers, who were to overſee Jeiel, that there was no Fraud in his Account.

Ver. 12. The whole Number of the Chief of the Fathers of the mighty Men of Valour, were two thouſand and ſix hundred.] This is ſufficient to ſhew he had a very great Army, (there being ſo many principal Perſons employed to command them) but a particular Account is given of them in the next Verſe.

Ver. 13. And under their Hand was an Army, three hundred thouſand and ſeven thouſand and five hundred, that made War with mighty Power, to help the King againſt the Enemy.] Perhaps theſe were a ſtanding Force, ready to repel their Enemies if they invaded them; beſides that Hoſt, which went forth by Bands, to annoy their Enemies on all Sides, (v. 11.) and then he was grown much more powerful than his Father. See xxv. 5.

Ver. 14. And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the Hoſt, Shields, and Spears, and Helmets, and Habergeons, and Bows, and Slings to caſt Stones.] All Sorts of Arms, both defenſive and offenſive; offenſive; but here is no mention of Swords; with which, I ſuppoſe, all the People were always provided.

Ver. 15. And he made in Jeruſalem Engines, invented by cunning Men, to be on the Towers, and upon the Bulwarks, to ſhoot Arrows and great Stones withal:] The Targum by theſe Engines underſtands Towers perforated: Whereas the Text plainly tells us, they were Engines, out of which they ſhot Arrows and threw Stones, from the Towers and from the Walls. Bochartus thinks, the Word properly imports, they were contrived for the Projection of Stones, Lib. iii. of his Phaleg, Cap. vii. and in his Canaan, Lib. i. Cap. xxxv.

And his Name ſpread far abroad,] Beyond the entring in of Egypt (v. 8.) unto diſtant Countries.

For he was marvellouſly helped till he was ſtrong.] God aided him ſo wonderfully in all his Undertakings, that he feared no Enemy, v. 7.

Ver. 16. But when he was ſtrong, his Heart was lifted up to his Deſtruction:] To the Loſs of all his Authority. How hard is it to bear great Proſperity with Moderation and humble Thankfulneſs!

For he tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD his God, and went into the Temple of the LORD, to burn Incenſe upon the Altar of Incenſe.] What ſhould tempt him to this Folly, it is hard to give an Account. Perhaps he had a vain Ambition to imitate Heathen Princes, who in many Places executed the Prieſthood alſo. And Jacobus Capellus thinks, that which puffed him up with Pride, was, that now he had not only a Son, viz. Jotham, but a Grand-ſon, Ahaz, ad A. M. 3231.

Ver. 17. And Azariah the Prieſt went in after him, and with him fourſcore Prieſts of the LORD, that were valiant Men.] See my Annotantions on 1 Chron. vi. 10.

Ver. 18. And they withſtood Uzziah the King, and ſaid unto him,] It is plain by this, that they did not withſtand his Attempt by Force of Arms; but by Reaſons, Perſuaſions, and Exhortations. And perhaps, they ſurrounded the Altar, ſo that he could not, without offering Violence to them, approach it.

It appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn Incenſe unto the LORD, but to the Prieſts the Sons of Aaron, that are conſecrated to burn Incenſe:] They repreſented to him, that he invaded the Office of the Prieſts, who were conſecrated to this Service; which he was not, and therefore ought not to meddle with it.

Go out of the Sanctuary, for thou haſt treſpaſſed,] He had gone too far already, in going into the Holy-Place; whereby he had offended the Divine Majeſty; but they beſeech him to proceed no further.

Neither ſhall it be for thine Honour from the LORD God.] They repreſent to him, that he could get no Honour, but loſe very much by aſpiring to this Dignity of the Prieſthood, which the LORD had placed in other Hands.

Ver. 19. Then Uzziah was wroth, and had a Cenſer in his Hand to burn Incenſe:] Which he would not lay aſide upon their Admonition; but fell into a great Paſſion, becauſe he was hindred in that which he deſigned.

And while he was wroth with the Prieſts,] And perhaps threatning, that he would have his Will.

The Leproſy even roſe up in his Forehead,] Where it could not be concealed, but was apparent to all that were preſent.

Before the Prieſts in the Houſe of the LORD, from beſide the Incenſe-Altar.] Where they ſtood to keep him from it.

Ver. 20. And Azariah the chief Prieſt, and all the Prieſts looked upon him, and behold, he was leprous in his Forehead, and they thruſt him out from thence,] There was no need to uſe Force to thruſt him out, for he haſted himſelf, as it follows, to be gone: Therefore they only admoniſhed him moſt earneſtly to depart, becauſe the Law permitted not a Leper to remain in a City, much leſs to come into the Houſe of God.

Yea, himſelf haſted alſo to go out, becauſe the LORD had ſmitten him.] And he was afraid of a ſorer Puniſhment, if he ſtaid there. See Grotius De Imperio S. P. circa ſacra, p. 251.

Ver. 21. And Uzziah the King was a Leper unto the Day of his Death,] The Puniſhment was Capital for meddling raſhly with Divine Miniſtrations, as we ſee from the Beginning, in the Caſe of Nadab and Abihu, Levit. x. 1, 2. and ſee Numb. iii. 10. xviii. 7. Now the Leproſy was a Kind of Death, becauſe it ſeparated thoſe who were ſmitten with it from the Society of Men, as if they were dead, and no Part of this World.

And dwelt in a ſeveral Houſe being a Leper, for he was cut off from the Houſe of the LORD:] In the Hebrew the Words are, he dwelt in an Houſe of Freedom; ſo ſuch Places were called, becauſe ſuch as were there, were exempt from the common Affairs, and ſhut up from the Converſation of Men; whence ſuch as are laid in their Grave, are ſaid to be free among the Dead, (Pſal. lxxxviii. 5.) becauſe removed from all the Affairs and Converſation of the World. See Dr. Hammond upon that Place, Annot. c.

And Jotham his Son was over the King's Houſe, judging the People of the Land.] See 2 Kings xv. 5.

Ver. 22. Now the reſt of the Acts of Uzziah, firſt and laſt, did Iſaiah the Prophet, the Son of Amos, write.] This ſhews, the Prophets were wont (as I have before obſerved) to write the Hiſtory of their own Times. For Iſaiah propheſied in the Beginning of Uzziah's Reign, and, as Abarbinel thinks, before Hoſea, who lived in the ſame Period of Time, and propheſied before Jeremiah, and Ezekiel.

Ver. 23. So Uzziah ſlept with his Fathers, and they buried him with his Fathers in the Field of the Burial which belonged to the Kings;] This was in the City of David, as we read in 2 Kings xv. 7.

For they ſaid, He is a Leper:] Therefore he was not buried in the Sepulchre of the Kings his Predeceſſors; but had a ſeveral Burial-place when he was dead, as he had a ſeveral Houſe while he lived.

And Jotham his Son reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXVII.

Ver. 1. JOtham was twenty and five Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen Years in Jeruſalem: his Mother's Name alſo was Jeruſhaſh, the Daughter of Zadok.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, according to all that his Father Uzziah did:] The very ſame is ſaid in 2 Kings xv. 33, 34.

Howbeit, he entered not into the Temple of the LORD.] Some imagine, he was ſo frighted at what befel his Father, that he did not ſo much as go into the Court of the Temple, or that he did not offer Sacrifices in the Temple, but in High-Places. But this doth not well agree with the Words foregoing: Therefore the Meaning rather is, that he imitated his Father in all that was good in him; but did not profanely enter into the Temple to offer Incenſe, as he did.

And the People did yet corruptly.] For they offered Incenſe in High-Places, 2 Kings xv. 35. and, as ſome think, committed Idolatry.

Ver. 3. He built the high Gate of the Houſe of the LORD,] It was built before by Solomon, but he repaired it, (2 Kings xv. 35.) and, as ſome think, added a very glorious Structure to it.

And on the Wall of Ophel he built much.] The Targum tranſlates it, a Palace: But others underſtand by Ophel an high Place, or Cliff, where there was a Tower. Pellicanus thinks, the Meaning is, that he much beautified, as well as repaired the Porch of the Lord's Houſe, which was an hundred and twenty Cubits high.

Ver. 4. Moreover, he built Cities in the Mountains of Judah, and in the Foreſts he built Caſtles and Towers.] That is, he took Care to fortify his Kingdom ſtrongly on all Sides, againſt his Enemies.

Ver. 5. He fought alſo with the King of the Ammonites, and prevailed againſt them.] This People had been entirely ſubdued by David, as we read 2 Sam. x. and c. xii. 31. but now it ſeems they had recovered ſo much Strength, that they invaded the Country of Judah; but were overthrown by Jotham.

And the Children of Ammon gave him the ſame Year an hundred Talents of Silver, and ten thouſand Meaſures of Wheat, and ten thouſand of Barley.] He made them Tributaries to him; and they began the very ſame Year to pay the Tribute.

So much did the Children of Ammon pay unto him, both the ſecond Year and the third.] Either this was the Agreement, that for three Years they ſhould make this Acknowledgment; or, at the three Years End they grew ſo ſtrong again, that they refuſed to continue it longer.

Ver. 6. So Jotham became mighty, becauſe he prepared his Ways before the LORD his God.] Directed his Counſels and Actions aright, according to the Rule of God's Word. Solomon Jarchi here obſerves, that all the Kings of Judah had ſome ill Thing laid to their Charge, but only Jotham: For David himſelf ſinned grievouſly in the Matter of Uriah: Solomon was drawn away by his Wives to countenance Idolatry: Rehoboam forſook the Law of God; and Abijah walked in his Steps: Aſa took the Treaſures of God's Houſe, and ſent them to the King of Syria; and likewiſe put the Prophet in the Stocks: Jehoſhaphat entred into Society with the Wicked; and ſo he goes on with the reſt. But in Jotham (ſaith he) there is no Fault found, which is a wonder, when there were ſo few good People among them. For his Integrity was not ſo great, as the Corruption of his People, who immediately after his Death joined with Ahaz in his abominable Idolatries.

Ver. 7. Now the reſt of the Acts of Jotham, and all his Wars, and his Ways,] He had Wars not only with the Ammonites, but with the Syrians, and with the Ten Tribes, as may be gathered from 2 Kings xv. 37.

Lo, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Iſrael and Judah.] The Affairs of the Kings of Judah are commonly ſaid to be recorded in the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah: But this King's Actions, it ſeems, were ſo eminent, that the Iſraelites alſo recorded ſome of them in their Books.

Ver. 8. He was five and twenty Years old when he began to reign, and reigned ſixteen Years in Jeruſalem.] This was ſaid before, v. 1. and it is not eaſy to give an Account, why it is here repeated; unleſs it be true, which Kimchi ſaith, that Jotham was born the ſame Year that his Father was ſtruck with a Leproſy, but was not King till he grew up, and was inſtructed in the Government; which was managed during his Minority by the Princes of the People: But Jacobus Capellus rather thinks, he reigned ſixteen Years by himſelf alone; and then took his Son into Society with him in the Government of the Kingdom.

Ver. 9. And Jotham ſlept with his Fathers, and they buried him in the City of David: and Ahaz his Son reigned in his ſtead.] See 2 Kings xv. 38.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Ver. 1. AHAZ was twenty Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen Years in Jeruſalem: but he did not that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, like David his Father.] See 2 Kings xvi. 2. where there are the very ſame Words.

Ver. 2. For he walked in the Ways of the Kings of Iſrael, and made alſo molten Images for Baalim.] He not only worſhipped the golden Calves, (which was the Way of the Kings of Iſrael) but many other Gods of the Nations round about; which are all comprehended under the Name of Baalim. See what I have noted upon Judges ii. 11.

Ver. 3. Moreover, he burnt Incenſe in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom,] Where Moloch was worſhipped.

And burnt his Children in the Fire,] Or, made them to paſs thro' the Fire; for the Words are ambiguous. The Targum here ſaith, the WORD of the LORD ſnatched Hezekiah out of the Fire; becauſe he foreſaw three Saints would ſpring from him; and here he tells a long Tale of Hananiah, Miſhael and Azariah, who were thrown into the fiery Furnace.

After the Abominations of the Heathen, whom the LORD had caſt out before the Children of Iſrael.] This was the moſt deteſtable Idolatry that was practiſed among the ancient Inhabitants of Canaan, as appears from Levit. xviii. 21. xx. 2, 3, 4, &c.

Ver. 4. He ſacrificed alſo, and burnt Incenſe in the High-Places.] Not unto God, but unto his Idols, whom he worſhipped alſo on the Hills, and under every green Tree; as it here follows.

Ver. 5. Wherefore the LORD his God] The LORD is called his God, becauſe he was ſo by the Right of his Dominion over him, and his Kindneſs to him for his Father's ſake.

Delivered him into the Hand of the King of Syria,] That by this Puniſhment he might return from his evil Ways. Theſe two Kings, Rezin King of Syria, and Pekah King of Iſrael, ſeem to have come upon him together, whereby he was put to ſome Diſtreſs.

And they ſmote him,] That is, the Syrians ſlew many of his People.

And carried away a great Multitude of them Captives, and brought them to Damaſcus:] This was after that Invaſion mentioned 2 Kings xvi. 5.

And he was alſo delivered into the Hand of the King of Iſrael, who ſmote him with a great Slaughter.] As is related in the next Verſe.

Ver. 6. For Pekah the Son of Remaliah ſlew in Judah an hundred and twenty thouſand in one Day, which were all valiant Men; becauſe they had forſaken the LORD God of their Fathers.] Who therefore forſook them, and took away their Courage, that they could make no Reſiſtance; for otherwiſe, it had not been poſſible to make ſo great a Slaughter in one Day.

Ver. 7. And Zichri, a mighty Man of Ephraim, ſlew Maaſeiah the King's Son, and Azrikam the Governor of the Houſe, and Elkanah that was next to the King.] They ſeem to have taken Jeruſalem, (tho' they did not keep it) and to have ſlain theſe great Perſons. The Targum tranſlates the laſt Words, the Arkapta of the King: That is, as ſome interpret it, the Captain of his Hoſt. But our Tranſlation comes neareſt to the Hebrew, Second to the King: Who was inferior to the King alone; inſomuch that the LXX tranſlate it δἰάδοχον, he that immediately followed the King, and ſucceeded him; his Viceroy, as ſome interpret it.

Ver. 8. And the Children of Iſrael carried away Captive of their Brethren two hundred thouſand Women, Sons and Daughters, and took alſo away much Spoil from them,] This is an Argument that they were quite diſpirited, and had no Heart to defend themſelves, being not only ſlaughtered like Sheep, but carried Captive by Droves.

And brought the Spoil to Samaria.] Into their own Country, towards Samaria; but they had not yet brought it into the City of Samaria, ver. 13.

Ver. 9. But a Prophet of the LORD was there, whoſe Name was Oded:] By this it appears that God continued his Prophets among the Iſraelites, to bring them to Repentance, if they would have hearkened to their Admonitions.

And he went out before the Hoſt that came to Samaria,] Bringing their Captives and Spoil in great Triumph thither.

And ſaid unto them, Behold, becauſe the LORD God of your Fathers was wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your Hand,] He would not have them lifted up with their Victory; which was not to be aſcribed ſo much to their Valour, as to the Anger of God againſt Judah, who abandoned them to their Fury.

And ye have ſlain them in a Rage that reacheth up unto Heaven.] That had no Meaſure, and cried to Heaven for Vengeance upon the Iſraelites.

Ver. 10. And now ye purpoſe to keep under the Children of Judah and Jeruſalem] This ſeems to denote that they had ſacked Jeruſalem.

For Bond-men and Bond-women unto you:] To uſe them as Slaves of another Nation, of whom they might make Money, by ſelling them to their Neighbour, or make them Drudges to ſerve them for nought.

But are there not with you, even with you, Sins againſt the LORD your God?] He bids them conſider, that they who thought themſelves God's Favourites becauſe he had made them ſo victorious, had Sins enough to anſwer for; for which if he puniſhed them as they deſerved, they might be reduced to the ſame Condition with the Brethren of Judah.

Ver. 11. Now hear me therefore, and deliver the Captives again, which ye have taken captive of your Brethren: for the fierce Wrath of the LORD is upon you.] If they did not ſet them at Liberty, he threatens ſudden Deſtruction, which was ready to break forth upon them for their Cruelty.

Ver. 12. Then certain of the Heads of the Children of Ephraim, Azariah the Son of Johanan, Berechiah the Son of Meſhillemoth, and Jehizkiah the Son of Shallum, and Amaſa the Son of Hadlai, ſtood up againſt them that came from the War,] Theſe Perſons had ſome Goodneſs in them, as well as Courage, and great Authority with the People and Soldiers.

Ver. 13. And ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall not bring in the Captives hither:] That is, into the City of Samaria.

For whereas we have offended againſt the LORD already,] By making ſuch an unmerciful Slaughter of their Brethren.

Ye intend to add more to our Sins, and to our Treſpaſs: for our Treſpaſs is great, and there is fierce Wrath againſt Iſrael.] Or, tho' our Treſpaſs is great, and deſerves to be puniſhed, with a fierce Wrath, as we have exerciſed againſt Judah.

Ver. 14. So the armed Men left the Captives and the Spoil, before the Princes and all the Congregation.] To diſpoſe of them as they pleaſed. A wonderful Inſtance of Obedience, in reſtoring not only the Captives which were very valuable, but all the Spoil alſo, which, no doubt, was conſiderable. What might not theſe great Men have done to bring them to repent of their Idolatry, if they had been truly religious, and exerted their Authority?

Ver. 15. And the Men which were expreſſed by Name,] There were ſome nominated and appointed, I ſuppoſe, by the Heads of the People, to take care of the Captives, and ſee them well treated.

Roſe up, and took the Captives, and with the Spoil clothed all that were naked among them, and arrayed them, and ſhod them, and gave them to eat, and to drink, and anointed them,] They not only gave them neceſſary Suſtenance, but refreſhed their Wearineſs, like the good Samaritan in the Parable, who poured Oil and Wine into the Wounds of a poor Traveller. This was an extraordinary Goodneſs, not only to releaſe poor Captives without doing them Hurt, or making any Gain of them, but to diſmiſs them with a Viaticum (as Strigelius ſpeaks) giving them all things neceſſary for their Return home. And it was ſtill a greater Kindneſs to provide Vehicles (as it here follows) for the infirm Multitude, and bring them to their own Country without hard Travel.

And carried all the feeble of them upon Aſſes, and brought them to Jericho, the City of Palm-trees, to their Brethren: then they returned to Samaria.] So great was the Power of the Prophet at this Time, that he turned their barbarous Cruelty into the tendereſt Humanity. But, as I ſaid, they were not ſo eaſily converted from Idolatry, unto which they had ſo ſtrong an Inclination, that nothing could perſuade them to forſake it.

Ver. 16. At that time did King Ahaz ſend unto the King of Aſſyria to help him.] When Rezin King of Syria invaded him, 2 Kings xvi. 6, 7. This is the firſt Time that we read of the King of Aſſyria, excepting 2 Kings xv. 19. where Pul King of Aſſyria is mentioned as a powerful Prince, who invaded the Iſraelites. Before his Time we read nothing of that Monarchy, which grew by Degrees to its Greatneſs from ſmall Beginnings. For in David's Time, or whenſoever Pſalm lxxxiii was written, the King of Aſſyria was but a petty Prince, like thoſe of Moab and Ammon, and the like, with whom he joined, (ver. 8.) to enſlave the Iſraelites; but now had ſwallowed up all thoſe little Princes, and grown to ſuch an Height that none could ſtand before them. But if their large Empire had been a long ſtanding, we ſhould in all Probability have heard of them before this Time, as we do often afterwards.

Ver. 17. For again the Edomites had come and ſmitten Judah, and carried away Captives.] When Rezin fell upon them, the Edomites took that Advantage, and made great Ravage in the Land of Judah.

Ver. 18. The Philiſtines alſo had invaded the Cities of the Low-country,] Which lay next to them.

And of the South of Judah, and had taken Beth-ſhemeſh, and Ajalon, and Gederoth, and Shoco with the Villages thereof, and Timnah with the Villages thereof, Gimzo alſo and the Villages thereof: and they dwelt there.] They prevailed ſo far as to make an Inroad further into the Country of Judah; and not only poſſeſſed themſelves of the Cities here mentioned, but ſettled in them. For in this weak Condition into which Ahaz was fallen, they took their Revenge for the Miſchief, which Uzziah had done them, who ſubdued them as far as Gath, c. xxvi. 6.

Ver. 19. For the LORD brought Judah low, becauſe of Ahaz] It was purely upon his Account that God gave them up into the Hand of the Philiſtines; for that very Year in which Ahaz died, the Prophet Iſaiah foretold his Son ſhould afflict them, Iſa. xiv. 27, 28, 29. and accordingly Hezekiah ſmote them as far as Gaza, 2 Kings xviii. 8.

King of Iſrael;] We cannot gather from hence, that he is called King of Iſrael, becauſe he walked in their Ways, for a good King is ſo called, c. xx. 2. And the Maſorites obſerve, that ſix Times we read the King of Iſrael inſtead of King of Judah, becauſe they all deſcended from Iſrael. So Beckius here expounds it, in a large Senſe, he was King of Iſrael: For Iſrael is not here oppoſed to Judah, but comprehends it. Therefore the Targum hath, the King of Judah: And ſo the LXX, and the Vulgar Latin. For Iſrael was once the Name of the whole People, and after the Diviſion of the Kingdom, the two Tribes were ſtill a Part of Iſrael in the ancient Senſe of the Word. See Buxtorf, who obſerves out of the Hebrew Grammarians, that the Manner of the Scripture is to put the Genus ſometimes for the Species, and the Species for the Genus. Vindiciæ Hebr. Veritatis, Cap. 7. Par. ii.

For he made Judah naked,] Deprived them of the Divine Protection, by his foul Tranſgreſſions.

And tranſgreſſed ſore againſt the LORD.] The Targum renders it, the Houſe of Judah ceaſed from the Worſhip of God; which Ahaz, in a Manner wholly aboliſhed, and thereby tranſgreſſed more grievouſly than all his Predeceſſors.

Ver. 20. And Tiglath-pilezer King of Aſſyria came unto him,] As he deſired, by the Meſſengers he ſent to him, ver. 10.

And diſtreſſed him, but ſtrengthened him not.] In 2 Kings xvi. 9. it is ſaid, that he did help him; how therefore did he diſtreſs him? Both theſe are true, for as he did come to his Aſſiſtance againſt the King of Syria, ſo he took Damaſcus, carried the People Captive, and delivered Ahaz from the Power of the Syrians, 2 Kings xvi. 7, 8, 9. But this did Ahaz little Good, for he helped him not to recover the Cities the Philiſtines had taken from him, nor did he lend him any Forces, nor enable him to recruit his own; but rather weakned him by exhauſting his Treaſures, and by deſtroying Samaria, whereby the Way was opened to invade his Country the more eaſily in the next Reign. Thus many Countries in latter Ages, by calling in the Aſſiſtance of ſome foreign Prince againſt their Enemies, have been overrun, and conquered by thoſe who came to their Help.

Ver. 21. For Ahaz took away a Portion out of the Houſe of the LORD, and out of the Houſe of the King, and of the Princes, and gave it unto the King of Aſſyria: but he helped him not.] Did not make his Condition better, but ſo much the worſe. See 2 Kings xvi. 8.

Ver. 22. And in the Time of his Diſtreſs did he treſpaſs yet more againſt the LORD:] He was not at all amended by the ſore Calamities which fell on him, but introduced more Idolatry than had been practiſed before.

This

This is that King Ahaz.] The Word Hu is ſometimes a Word of Contempt, as Kimchi obſerves, Gen. xxxvi. ult. Numb. xxvi. 9. And Ahaz deſerved to be branded, as the moſt notorious Offender that had ever been among the Kings of Judah: And was remarkable for this alſo, that he never proſpered in any thing he undertook.

Ver. 23. For he ſacrificed unto the Gods of Damaſcus, which ſmote him:] A moſt monſtrous Stupidity, to imagine they had any Power over him, who could not defend themſelves from Tiglath-Pilezer: But being of Opinion that they were Gods, he ſacrificed to them to appeaſe them, that they might do him no further Hurt; doing as the ancient Romans, who wooed by larger Sacrifices the Gods of their Enemies to come over to their Side, and be their Friends; as Dr. Jackſon diſcourſes, in his Original of Unbelief, Chap. xvii. Paragr. 5.

And he ſaid, Becauſe the Gods of the Kings of Syria help them, therefore will I ſacrifice to them, that they may help me:] Not againſt the Syrians, but he fooliſhly imagined they might help him againſt the Edomites, Philiſtines, and other Enemies.

But they were the ruin of him and of all Iſrael.] They were ſo far from being his Friends, that they proved the Deſtruction of him, and of his whole Country: For tho' it was not in their Power to do him either Harm or Good, yet his worſhipping of them undid him and all his People.

Ver. 24. And Ahaz gathered together the Veſſels of the Houſe of God, and cut in Pieces the Veſſels of the Houſe of God,] That the Prieſts might not be able to miniſter before God for want of them, c. xxix. 19. and that he might employ the Money he made of them (for what he cut in Pieces, I ſuppoſe, he ſold) in building Altars, (as it follows) in every Corner of Jeruſalem.

And ſhut up the Doors of the Houſe of the LORD,] That no Man might come to worſhip God there, but ſacrifice every where, but only where they ſhould: And this continued till the Beginning of his Son's Reign, c. xxix. 3.

Ver. 25. And in every ſeveral City of Judah he made High-Places to burn Incenſe unto other Gods,] He took care the People ſhould not think of going up to Jeruſalem; by erecting, at his own Charge, High-Places in every City, wherein to perform Divine Service to what God they pleaſed.

And provoked to anger the LORD God of his Fathers.] With whom he did not join other Gods, but worſhipped him not at all.

Ver. 26. Now the reſt of his Acts, and of all his Ways, firſt and laſt, behold they are written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael.] In 2 Kings xvi. 19. it is only ſaid, they were written in the Book of the Kings of Judah: But Ezra it ſeems found that the Book of the Kings of Iſrael contained ſome memorable Paſſages of his Reign; there being, as is here recorded, great Wars between them and Judah.

Ver. 27. And Ahaz ſlept with his Fathers, and they buried him in the City, even in Jeruſalem: but they brought him not into the Sepulchres of the Kings of Iſrael:] They are called the Kings of Iſrael, becauſe they had an ancient Right to govern the whole twelve Tribes.

And Hezekiah his Son reigned in his Stead.

CHAP. XXIX.

Ver. 1. HEzekiah began to reign when he was five and twenty Years old, and he reigned nine and twenty Years in Jeruſalem: and his Mother's Name was Abijah the Daughter of Zechariah.] See upon 2 Kings xviii. 1, 2. where I have noted, that Ahaz therefore was very young when he begat Hezekiah. And we may grant, as Jacobus Capellus thinks, that he was but ten Years old (tho', as I have there ſhewn, Bochartus thinks he was more) for tho' this was wonderful, yet not incredible, as his Words are. For he refers us to Scaliger in his firſt Oration againſt Paræus, where he mentions a City, in which a Boy not twelve Years old begat a Child, of a Girl, a Couſin of his not ten Years old: And adds, Rem notam narro, &c. I tell a known Story, whoſe Memory is ſtill freſh in Aquitain. See his Hiſtor. ſacra & exotica, ad Annum Mundi 2292.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, according to all that David his Father had done.] The ſame is recorded in 2 Kings xviii. 2.

Ver. 3. He, in the firſt Year of his Reign, in the firſt Month,] This demonſtrates his great Piety and Zeal for God, that he began ſo ſoon to reform Religion, and did not ſtay till he was eſtabliſhed in his Throne. For the ſureſt way to eſtabliſh himſelf, he thought was to eſtabliſh true Religion; tho' he run a great Hazard in attempting the aboliſhing Idolatry, which had been confirmed by ſome Years Preſcription.

Opened the Doors of the Houſe of the LORD,] Which his Father had ſhut up, c. xxviii. 24.

And repaired them.] For by long Neglect they were gone to Decay.

Ver. 4. And he brought in the Prieſts and the Levites,] Whoſe Buſineſs it was to take Care of Religion, and look after Things ſacred, and admoniſh Kings of their Duty. But Hezekiah was beforehand with them, and prevented their Endeavours; not only exciting them to reform what was amiſs, but uſing the moſt proper Arguments to preſs them to it.

And gathered them together into the Eaſt-ſtreet,] Which was before the Eaſt-gate of the Temple, where the Entrance into it was.

Ver. 5. And ſaid unto them, Hear me, ye Levites, ſanctify now yourſelves, and ſanctify the Houſe of the LORD God of your Fathers, and carry forth the filthineſs out of the Holy-Place.] The Abomination, as the Jews tranſlate it: That is, the Altar of Damaſcus, and all the Idols that were upon it. See 2 Kings xvi, 10, &c. Theſe were brought by Ahaz into the Temple; that is, into the Court of the Prieſts, which is called the Holy-Place, in Levit. vi. 16, &c.

Ver. 6. For our Fathers have treſpaſſed, and done that which was evil in the Eyes of the LORD our God, and have forſaken him,] He urges them to this pious Work, from the Conſideration of the great Sin of their Forefathers, and their horrible Contempt of the Service of God, as it follows in the next Words.

And have turned away their Faces from the Habitation of the LORD, and turned their Backs.] This seems to signify that Ahaz brought in a Way of Worship directly contrary to the Law of God; which commanded them to worship toward the Ark, which was plac'd in the West: But he ordered they should turn their Backs upon that (which was a Disrespect, and Contumely to the Divine Majesty) and worship toward the East, where he had set his Altar: And at last he shut up the Doors of the Temple, that they should not worship there at all, as it is again observed in the next Verse.

Ver. 7. Also they have shut up the Doors of the Porch,] That none might enter into the Temple, but it might be left a desolate Place.

And put out the Lamps,] The Priests having nothing to do there.

And have not burnt Incense, nor offered Burnt-offerings in the holy Place, unto the God of Israel.] But made high Places in every City, to burn Incense unto other Gods, as it is ver. 25. of the foregoing Chapter.

Ver. 8. Wherefore the Wrath of the LORD was upon Judah and Jerusalem,] After the Confession of their Sins, he represents to them the Calamities wherewith God had punished them.

And he hath delivered them to Trouble, to Astonishment, and to Hissing, as you see with your Eyes.] Sent such a pannick Fear and Terror into them (such as is mentioned c. xx. 22.) that they could not stand before their Enemies, but became a Scorn to them; for it had not been possible, that they should slay such a vast Number of them in one Day (as we read c. xxviii. 6.) if they had not been perfectly astonished, and bereaved of their Senses.

Ver. 9. For lo, our Fathers have fallen by the Sword, and our Sons and our Daughters, and our Wives are in Captivity for this.] Or rather, were in Captivity, till the tender Mercy of God released them; and it is likely some were still in Captivity to other Nations, tho' the Israelites had dismissed their Captives; for they were distressed in Ahaz's Time by the Edomites, and Philistines; the former of which carried away Captives, as we read c. xxviii. 17, 18.

Ver. 10. Now it is in mine Heart to make a Covenant with the LORD God of Israel, that his fierce Wrath may turn away from us.] He resolved therefore to renew the Covenant between God and the People, because he foresaw there was immediate Destruction impending upon the whole Nation for their Iniquities, unless they did heartily and speedily repent of them; for they were grown to the greatest Heighth of Impiety, his Father having by Degrees proceeded to the utmost Pitch of Idolatry; which though God had many Ways punished very severely, yet he persisted in his Wickedness; and to the very End of his Life amended nothing, but grew worse and worse; therefore this good King thought it absolutely necessary forthwith to make a thorough Reformation, and engage the whole Nation in a solemn Covenant to worship God purely. Thus Conradus Pellicanus.

Ver. 11. My Sons, be not now negligent:] He beseeches the Levites, in the most tender Language, no longer to go along with the People in their Error, but to bestir themselves to make them better.

For the LORD hath chosen you to stand before him, to serve him, and that you should minister unto him, and burn Incense.] This was the Work of the Priests, unto whom he speaks as well as to the Levites, remembring them what their Office was, to which they were peculiarly chosen, viz. to take care to see his Laws observed, and to minister to him, according to his Directions; and therefore not to omit the Performance of their Duty in the House of God, now that it was open to them.

Ver. 12. Then the Levites arose, Mahath the Son of Amasai, and Joel the Son of Azariah, of the Sons of the Kohathites: and of the Sons of Merari; Kish the Son of Abdi, and Azariah the Son of Jehalelel: and of the Gershonites; Joah the Son of Zimmah, and Eden the Son of Joah:

Ver. 13. And of the Sons of Elisaphan; Shimri, and Jeiel: and of the Sons of Asaph; Zechariah, and Mattaniah:

Ver. 14. And of the Sons of Heman; Jehiel, and Shimei: and of the Sons of Jeduthun; Shemaiah, and Uzziel.] These were principal Persons among the Levites, who readily complied with the King's Exhortation, and engaged their Brethren also (as it here follows) in the same Work, which they undertook, of cleansing the House of the LORD.

Ver. 15. And they gathered their Brethren, and sanctified themselves,] By washing their Bodies, I suppose, and other Rites prescribed by the Law.

And came, according to the Commandment of the King, by the Words of the LORD, to cleanse the House of the LORD.] The King had a great Power in Things commanded by God: The Exercise of which Power is here very properly called, The Commandment of the King, by the Words of the LORD: Or, as in the Margin, In the Business of the LORD. The like we read c. xxx. 12. See Grotius in his Book de Imperio summarum Potestatum circa sacra, p. 59.

Ver. 16. And the Priests went into the inner Part of the House of the LORD, to cleanse it,] That is, into the Sanctuary (for into the most Holy none might go but the High Priest) whither the Levites might not come.

And brought out all the Uncleanness that they found in the Temple of the LORD, into the Court of the House of the LORD.] That is, the Court of the Priests, where the Levites attended upon them, and ministred unto them.

And the Levites took it to carry it out abroad into the Brook Kidron.] They cast the Filth into the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, or Tophet, thro' which Kidron ran, 2 Kings xxiii. 10, 12.

Ver. 17. Now they began on the first Day of the first Month to sanctify,] This was the Month Abib, as our great Primate Usher observes, but not on the Day he was made King, but nine Months after his Father's Death: See his Chronolog. sacra, p. 82.

And on the eighth Day of the Month came they to the Porch of the LORD:] Which they cleansed together with the outward Courts, and the Chambers

Chambers of the Temple, in which they ſpent eight Days more, as the next Words ſignify: The Houſe having been long ſhut up, and no Body coming into it, muſt needs be full of Duſt, and the Veſſels become ruſty; in the ſcouring of which, and reſtoring them to their Splendor, and wiping the Walls of the Houſe, they muſt neceſſarily ſpend a great deal of Time, for the Neglect had been great, and their Diligence extraordinary; it being probable, that this Sanctification was by waſhing both the Walls of the Houſe, and the Floor, and every Thing elſe.

So they ſanctified the Houſe of the LORD in eight Days, and in the ſixteenth Day of the firſt Month they made an End.] The Pollution was ſo univerſal, and their Exactneſs ſo great in reſtoring all Things to their Purity, that they could not finiſh their Work in leſs Time. Some think they ſpent eight Days in cleanſing all the Places from Filth; and other eight Days in ſanctifying the Temple, and all belonging to it; tho' how this Sanctification was performed, we are not told.

Ver. 18. Then they went in to Hezekiah the King, and ſaid, We have cleanſed all the Houſe of the LORD, and the Altar of Burnt-offering, with all the Veſſels thereof, and the Shew-bread Table, with all the Veſſels thereof.] All which they ſet in their right Places, after they had removed all Defilements from them.

Ver. 19. Moreover, all the Veſſels which King Ahaz in his Reign did caſt away in his Tranſgreſſion,] The Targum explains it very ſignificantly, Which he prophaned, and rendred abominable by Idols of other Countries, particularly from Damaſcus. And ſo Kimchi, Which he tranſlated to idolatrous Uſes.

Have we prepared and ſanctified:] The Targum gives a quite contrary Senſe of the Words, We have ſet them apart and hidden them, and prepared others in their Place. And indeed the Talmudiſts (as Beckius here obſerves upon the Targum) are of Opinion, that all the Veſſels which Ahaz profaned in his Reign were ſet aſide, and others conſecrated in their ſtead; for they thought them not any longer fit to be employed in the Divine Service: But Kimchi underſtands theſe Words as we do, that they purged and purified the Veſſels which he had profaned.

And behold, they are before the Altar of the LORD.] Before the Altar of Burnt-offering (I ſuppoſe) unto which they went the next Morning, and offered Sacrifices; with the Blood of which, perhaps, they were further purified.

Ver. 20. Then Hezekiah the King roſe early, and gathered the Rulers of the City, and went up to the Houſe of the LORD.] Now he engaged the principal Perſons in the City to join with him in his Reformation of Religion, when all Things were ready for the Performance of the Duties thereof.

Ver. 21. And they brought ſeven Bullocks, and ſeven Rams, and ſeven Lambs, and ſeven He-goats, for a Sin-offering for the Kingdom, and for the Sanctuary, and for Judah:] It is very obſervable, that the Word Tſaphir, which here ſignifies the He-goat, was never uſed by the Hebrews till after the Captivity of Babylon, when we find it in Daniel, who lived in the Captivity, c. viii. 21. And here being uſed, and in no other Place beſide, it is ſome Argument, that Ezra was the Author of this Book, which he wrote after their Return from that Captivity, in which he had learned the Chaldee Language, and thence mixed ſome Chaldee Words with the Hebrew, whereof this is one: And therefore Daniel, to explain it, adds the Hebrew Word Seir to it; juſt as in the New Teſtament, the Word ὁ πατὴρ is added to Abba.

And he commanded the Prieſts the Sons of Aaron to offer them on the Altar of the LORD.] There are two Laws in the Books of Moſes, requiring a Sacrifice to be offered for the Sin of the whole Congregation, when they were in an Error. The firſt is in Levit. iv. 13, 14. where a Bullock is required to be offered, when they were ignorantly ſeduced to do ſomething forbidden by the Law, tho' they did not forſake their Religion. The other is in Numb. xv. 22, 23, 24. where a Goat is commanded to be offered together with a Bullock, when they acted contrary to their Religion, and were fallen by Error into the Practice of external Rites: And the Bullock was offered for a Burnt-offering in Token that they owned no other God but the LORD, nor any other Religion but that preſcribed by Moſes: And the Goat for a Sin-offering, that they might expiate the Guilt they had contracted, by doing contrary to their Religion. Now this good King Hezekiah being ſenſible, that they had not only acted contrary to their Religion, but in effect aboliſhed it, by ſhutting up the Doors of the Temple, and omitting the daily Sacrifice, and every where exerciſing ſtrange Worſhip, appointed ſeven Bullocks for a Burnt-offering, and as many Goats for a Sin-offering (tho' the Law never requir'd more than one Goat) thinking theſe numerous Sacrifices (together with Rams and Lambs) were, if not neceſſary, yet very fit, becauſe of the great and long Neglect of his Divine Service, and becauſe of the Multitude and long Continuance of their other Sins againſt the LORD, for which they now begged Forgiveneſs. Thus after the Captivity they offered twelve Bullocks for Burnt-offerings, and twelve Goats for Sin-offerings (Ezra viii. 35.) according to the Number of the Children of Iſrael: For as they knew one Goat was neceſſary, ſo they thought a great Number would be becoming in ſuch Caſes.

Ver. 22. So they killed the Bullocks, and the Prieſts received the Blood, and ſprinkled it on the Altar: likewiſe when they had killed the Rams, they ſprinkled the Blood upon the Altar: they killed alſo the Lambs, and they ſprinkled the Blood upon the Altar.] According to the Direction of the Law, Levit. viii. 15.

Ver. 23. And they brought forth the He-goats for the Sin-offering, before the King and the Congregation, and they laid their Hands upon them.] As the Law alſo directed, Levit. iv. 14, 15. viii. 22.

Ver. 24. And the Prieſts killed them, and they made Reconciliation with their Blood upon the Altar, to make Atonement for all Iſrael: for the King commanded that the Burnt-offering, and the Sin-

Sin-offering ſhould be made for all Iſrael.] The Burnt-offering, to acknowledge the LORD to be the only God; and the Sin-offering, to make Expiation for all their Offences againſt his ſupreme Authority. And they were made not only for Judah, but for all Iſrael; a great many of the Ten Tribes being now joined to them.

Ver. 25. And he ſet the Levites in the Houſe of the LORD with Cymbals, with Pſalteries, and with Harps, according to the Commandment of David, and of Gad the King's Seer, and Nathan the Prophet: for ſo was the Commandment of the LORD by his Prophets.] What King David had ordained was approved by the Prophets; who liked the Deſign, and by Authority from God, ſettled this Courſe of Divine Service, 1 Chron. xxiii. 5. xxv. 1. 2 Chron. viii. 14. xxiii. 18. The Targum here tranſlates the laſt Words, For by the WORD of the LORD this Ordinance was made by the Prophets.

Ver. 26. And the Levites ſtood with the Inſtruments of David, and the Prieſts with the Trumpets.] Which were ordained by Moſes, Numb. x. 10.

Ver. 27. And Hezekiah commanded to offer the Burnt-offering upon the Altar: and when the Burnt-offering began, the Song of the LORD began alſo] When the Drink-offering was poured out, then began the Song; as the Practice is deſcribed in After-times, by the Son of Sirach, Eccleſ. i. 25, 26, &c. See Dr. Lightfoot in his Temple-Service. What the Song of the LORD was, we are told v. 30.

With the Trumpets, and with the Inſtruments ordained by David King of Iſrael.] See 1 Chron. xxv. 1, 6. Theſe Hymns and Doxologies were in the Nature of Prayers to God, as Mr. Mede obſerves, Book ii. Cap. 6. p. 365.

Ver. 28. And all the Congregation worſhipped, and the Singers ſang, and the Trumpets ſounded: and all this continued until the Burnt-offering was finiſhed.] They all adored, as ſoon as the Sacrifice and the Praiſes of God began, and continued praiſing God till all was done.

Ver. 29. And when they had made an End of offering, the King and all that were preſent with him, bowed themſelves and worſhipped.] As they began ſo they concluded the Service, with Adoration of the Divine Majeſty.

Ver. 30. Moreover, Hezekiah the King, and the Princes,] Who now joined with him, in furthering the Reformation.

Commanded the Levites to ſing Praiſe unto the LORD, with the Words of David, and of Aſaph the Seer:] Theſe were the Prophets who compoſed the Songs, that the Levites ſung, as I obſerved upon 1 Chron. xxv. 6. But the Author of the Pſalms aſcribed to Aſaph, (in the Book of Pſalms) ſeems to be one that lived in After-times; perhaps of the ſame Family with this famous Aſaph, who lived in David's Days, and ſo called by his Name.

And they ſang Praiſes with Gladneſs, and they bowed their Heads, and worſhipped.] Not only upon this Day, but continually, as David had appointed; and Jehoſhaphat in his Reign reſtored, xx. 19, 20. But this Order had been interrupted in the Time of ſucceeding idolatrous Princes, eſpecially in the Time of Ahaz; but now revived by this good King Hezekiah.

Ver. 31. Then Hezekiah anſwered and ſaid, Now ye have conſecrated yourſelves unto the LORD,] By offering Sacrifices of Reconciliation with him, whom they had acknowledged to be their LORD; and were a-new entred into their Office.

Come near, and bring Sacrifices, and Thank-offerings into the Houſe of the LORD. And the Congregation brought in Sacrifices and Thank-offerings,] Theſe were Peace-offerings, whereby they acknowledged God's great Goodneſs to them; and gave him Thanks for this happy Change of Religion.

And as many as were of a free Heart, Burnt-offerings.] Theſe were not like the Sacrifices of Thankſgiving, as Kimchi obſerves, which were in great part eaten by the Offerers: For Burnt-offerings were entirely conſumed upon the Altar, in Honour of God; and therefore it argued greater Piety, and Largeneſs of Heart to offer them.

Ver. 32. And the Number of the Burnt-offerings which the Congregation brought, was threeſcore and ten Bullocks, an hundred Rams, and two hundred Lambs: All theſe were for a Burnt-offering to the LORD.] Theſe were not ſo many in Number as had been offered in former Times; for the Nation was now grown poorer, in Compariſon to what it was heretofore.

Ver. 33. And the conſecrated Things were ſix hundred Oxen, and three thouſand Sheep.] All theſe were devoted to the Service of God, beſides the Burnt-offerings before-mentioned.

Ver. 34. But the Prieſts were too few,] For they who had ſacrificed to Idols were excluded from their Miniſtry; and they who had not, were not all prepared and ſanctified to do their Duty. For it appears by what follows, they were backward unto this Work, to which Hezekiah called them; and therefore could not prepare all the Burnt-offerings (which was their proper Work, Levit. i. 5.) much leſs all the other Sacrifices, which were numerous.

So that they could not flay all the Burnt-offerings:] This was the Work of the Prieſts, Levit. i. 6. and could not be done but by thoſe who were ſkilful in the Buſineſs. So Bochartus obſerves out of the Heathen Poet, that it was practiſed with great Art and Induſtry, (Μισύλλοντ' ὀπταμένως) by thoſe who had Knowledge and Skill to do it dextrouſly. Hierozoicon, Par. i. Lib. ii. Cap. 33. p. 324.

Wherefore their Brethren the Levites did help them till the Work was ended,] In Caſes of great Neceſſity, they did not ſtand nicely upon the Obſervation of the Ceremonial Law. For both now, and in the Days of Joſiah, (xxxiv. 11.) ſome Things were admitted, which that Law did not allow. For as now the Levites flayed the Sacrifices, (which was the Work of Prieſts alone, Levit. i. 6.) ſo all the People were allowed to keep the Paſſover in the ſecond Month; and the Levites offered the Paſchal Lambs, which were brought by thoſe that were unclean, and the unclean eat them.

And until the other Prieſts had ſanctified themſelves:] Then the Levites might no longer continue to do their proper Work.

For the Levites were more upright in Heart to ſanctify themſelves, than the Prieſts.] In the foregoing Reign, as Jarchi thinks, ſuch as feared God (that is, would not worſhip Idols) were forced to conceal themſelves, and lie hid: So that when Hezekiah came to the Crown, they did not preſently appear, nor were they forward to be cleanſed and ſanctified. But the Levites were Men of greater Integrity than the Prieſts; at leaſt there were more Men of Zeal found among them, that readily offered themſelves to the Service of God. See xxx. 17.

Ver. 35. And alſo the Burnt-offerings were in Abundance, with the Fat of the Peace-offerings, and the Drink-offerings for every Burnt-offering.] This is another Reaſon why the Number of the Prieſts was not ſufficient to diſcharge the Work of this Day; becauſe there were not only Abundance of Burnt-offerings to be flayed, but the Fat of Peace-offerings to be burnt, and a Drink-offering to attend every Burnt-offering; which muſt neceſſarily employ many Hands.

Ver. 36. And Hezekiah rejoyced, and all the People, that God had prepared the People:] Had given this good Mind to them, to join ſo forwardly in this Reformation.

For the Thing was done ſuddenly.] Which argued a divine Motion, whereby they were excited without long Perſuaſions.

CHAP. XXX.

Ver. 1. AND Hezekiah ſent to all Iſrael and Judah, and wrote Letters alſo to Ephraim and Manaſſeh,] I look upon the laſt Words as ſignifying, that more particularly he wrote Letters to theſe two Tribes, as he ſent Meſſengers to the reſt; for they were the Tribes neareſt to him, whom he could not command, but only invite and admoniſh them of their Duty: For they were bound by the Law, as well as the People of Judah, (ſee v. 5.) and great Numbers of them had ſettled themſelves in the Land of Judah, in the Reign of Aſa, xv. 9.

That they ſhould come to the Houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, to keep the Paſſover unto the LORD God of Iſrael.] This was a Feſtival that uſed to be celebrated in this very Month wherein he began his Reformation; which he reſolved therefore to keep with great Solemnity; and it could be kept no where but at Jeruſalem, whither he invited the Iſraelites to come: And it ſeems, Hoſhea King of Iſrael, at this Time did not forbid the Meſſengers of Hezekiah to come and invite them, nor his People to go; as Jacobus Capellus obſerves: Which I cannot but look upon as a remarkable Inſtance of God's Goodneſs towards this ſinful People in the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, that he raiſed up, at the very laſt when they were ripe for Deſtruction, ſuch a King to reign over them, as had ſo much Goodneſs in him, that he did not hinder any of his Subjects who would go and worſhip at Jeruſalem. Nor did he prohibit thoſe from coming into his Country, who were ſent to invite them to it. So that the Iſraelites could not pretend they were compelled to be Idolaters, for fear of the King's Diſpleaſure.

Ver. 2. For the King had taken Counſel, and his Princes, and all the Congregation in Jeruſalem, to keep the Paſſover in the ſecond Month.] The Time being elapſed, (by ſuch Means as here follow) for its Obſervation in the firſt Month, (which was the proper Seaſon) he took Advice with thoſe who were his proper Council in ſuch Matters, to keep it in the next. For by the Princes and all the Congregation in Jeruſalem, are meant the great Synagogue, conſiſting of the Senate of that City, and the other Senators called from other Places. So Grotius underſtands it, upon St. Matthew x. 17. And thus our Mr. Thorndike alſo, in fewer Words; He means the Conſiſtory, called the Princes, as they are called in the Prophet Jeremiah xxvi. 10, 11. See Rights of the Church, p. 231. For Jehoſhaphat having ſettled Judges in every City, it is likely they remained in ſome Authority till this Time.

Ver. 3. For they could not keep it at that Time,] At the Time appointed by the Law, on the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month; for the Reaſon here following.

Becauſe the Prieſts had not ſanctified themſelves ſufficiently, neither had the People gathered themſelves together at Jeruſalem.] Ahaz had made ſuch Confuſion in the Worſhip of God, by ſhutting up the Doors of the Temple, (that no Divine Service might be there performed) and by erecting Idols every where, and many other Ways; that as the Prieſts by long Diſuſe could not be ſanctified ſo ſoon as was neceſſary, nor the People have time to aſſemble, ſo the Temple itſelf could not be purged till the ſixteenth Day of the firſt Month (xxix. 17.) and conſequently the Time was paſt for keeping the Paſſover, which was to have been on the fourteenth: They thought it beſt therefore to adjourn it to the next Month, rather than ſtay till the next Year; eſpecially ſince God himſelf allowed in ſome Caſes, thoſe that could not keep it in the firſt Month, to keep it in the ſecond, (Numb. ix.) and what was allowed to particular Perſons, they thought might be allowed to the whole Congregation of Iſrael.

Ver. 4. And the Thing pleaſed the King, and all the Congregation.] The Advice of the Great Council was approved by the King, and by every one elſe.

Ver. 5. So they eſtabliſhed a Decree,] This was the Work of a Court, or Great Council.

To make Proclamation throughout all Iſrael,] By the King's Authority.

From Beer-ſheba even to Dan,] From one End of the Country to the other.

That they ſhould come to keep the Paſſover unto the LORD God of Iſrael at Jeruſalem: for they had not done it of a long Time in ſuch Sort as it was written.] The Ten Tribes had never kept it, ſince the Diviſion of the Kingdom by Jeroboam (at leaſt not in ſuch a Manner as the Law preſcribed) being hindred by his threatning Interdicts from going to Jeruſalem; as their Forefathers were by their long tedious Travels in the Wilderneſs, Joſh. v. And as for Judah, it appears from v. 26. they had never kept it with ſuch Solemnity, ſince the Time of Solomon.

Ver. 6. So the Poſts went with the Letters from the King and his Princes throughout all Iſrael and Judah,] They ſent Poſts, that timely Notice might might be given to every one, to prepare themſelves for this Service.

And according to the Commandment of the King, ſaying, Ye Children of Iſrael, turn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael, and he will return to the Remnant of you that are eſcaped out of the Hand of the Kings of Aſſyria.] That is, Pul and Tiglath Pileſer, who had carried a great many of them captive, 2 Kings xv. 29. 1 Chron. v. 26.

Ver. 7. And be not ye like your Fathers, and like your Brethren, which treſpaſſed againſt the LORD God of their Fathers, who therefore gave them up to Deſolation, as you ſee.] And would certainly give them up alſo, if they continued to provoke him, as they did.

Ver. 8. Now be ye not ſtiff-necked, as your Fathers were,] It is a Metaphor (as I have obſerved elſewhere) from refractory Oxen which will not go forward, but withdraw their Necks and their Shoulders from the Yoke, and go backward.

But yield yourſelves unto the LORD,] In the Hebrew, give your Hand; concerning which Phraſe, ſee 1 Chron. xxix. 24.

And enter into his Sanctuary, which he hath ſanctified for ever:] Come to worſhip at Jeruſalem, which was the only Place appointed by God for his Service, as long as that Law laſted.

And ſerve the LORD your God, that the Fierceneſs of his Wrath may turn away from you.] Which otherwiſe was ready to make an utter End of them; as it had done of their Brethren.

Ver. 9. For if ye turn again unto the LORD, your Brethren and your Children ſhall find Compaſſion before them that lead them captive, ſo that they ſhall come again into this Land: for the LORD your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his Face from you, if ye return unto him.] Theſe were the Contents of the Letter, which Hezekiah ſent throughout all Iſrael; concluding with a moſt exuberant Grace, (as Strigelius juſtly calls it) which not only promiſed to them that they ſhould continue in their Land; but they alſo, who were carried captive, ſhould be reſtored to them. This, no doubt, Hezekiah had Authority from God to declare to them, that he might move them to Repentance. For Moſes had declared this, which Hezekiah applies to them in their Circumſtances.

Ver. 10. So the Poſts paſſed from City to City, through the Country of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, even unto Zebulun: but they laughed them to ſcorn, and mocked them.] Being long accuſtomed to ſerve other Gods, their Hearts were ſo hardened, that the Generality of the Ten Tribes ſcoffed at this moſt gracious Invitation to Repentance: For which they paid very dearly ſhortly after, Salmanaſſer coming ſix Years after this, and taking Samaria, and carrying the whole Nation captive, 2 Kings xvii. 6. xviii. 10.

Ver. 11. Nevertheleſs, divers of Aſher and Manaſſeh, and of Zebulun, humbled themſelves, and came to Jeruſalem.] Here is not ſo much as one of Ephraim mentioned; but in ſome other Tribes there were thoſe found, who laid to Heart their Apoſtaſy, and came to Jeruſalem, humbly begging Pardon. Yet Ephraim is mentioned afterwards as partaking of the Paſſover, (v. 18.) ſome of them, it is likely, upon Conſideration, following the Example of their Brethren, tho' at firſt they mocked at the Meſſage.

Ver. 12. Alſo in Judah the Hand of God was to give them one Heart, to do the Commandment of the King, and of the Princes,] There was a marvellous Unanimity in Judah; who were ſo obedient to the Motions of the Divine Grace, (without which ſo great a Change could not have been made) as generally to comply with the King's Proclamation, made with the Conſent of the Princes.

By the Word of the LORD.] They looked upon it as a divine Command, which was brought to them by that Authority. And it appeared ſo to be, by the mighty Power of God, which wrought their Hearts to a chearful Obedience.

Ver. 13. And there aſſembled at Jeruſalem much People, to keep the Feaſt of unleavened Bread in the ſecond Month, a very great Congregation.] This confutes the Fancy of the Talmudiſts, who ſay, Hezekiah added a Month to this Year by Intercalation; that is, made another Month Adar, which was the laſt Month of the Year; and ſo kept this Paſſover in the firſt Month of the next Year. But this is directly contrary to the expreſs Words of this Verſe, which ſays, they kept it in the ſecond Month. Nor is the Opinion of the Karaites truer, who fancy, that tho' they kept the Paſſover in the ſecond Month, yet they did not keep all the Parts of it, but only offered the Sacrifice of the Paſchal Lamb: The Feaſt of unleavened Bread being performed in the firſt Month. But this doth not agree with v. 21. which ſaith expreſly, they kept the Feaſt of unleavened Bread ſeven Days.

Ver. 14. And they aroſe, and took away the Altars that were in Jeruſalem, and all the Altars for Incenſe took they away,] They began as ſoon as they came to Jeruſalem, to ſhew their Zeal againſt Idolatry, by throwing down the Altars that Ahaz had erected in High-Places, either for Sacrifice, or burning Incenſe; which were very many. See xxviii. 24.

And caſt them into the Brook Kidron.] They ſtamped them to Powder, I ſuppoſe, and then caſt it into this Brook.

Ver. 15. Then they killed the Paſſover on the fourteenth Day of the ſecond Month: and the Prieſts and the Levites were aſhamed,] They bluſhed to ſee the People ſo forward, and themſelves ſo negligent.

And ſanctified themſelves, and brought in the Burnt-offerings into the Houſe of the LORD.] They that had not done it already, (xxix. 34. and v. 3. of this Chapter) now ſanctified themſelves, that they might perform their Office; there being many Sacrifices to be offered upon this Day. See upon Deut. xvi. 2.

Ver. 16. And they ſtood in their Places after their Manner, according to the Law of Moſes the Man of God:] That they might diſpatch their Buſineſs the more readily.

The Prieſts ſprinkled the Blood, which they received of the Hand of the Levites.] Private Perſons, as well as the Levites, might receive the Blood from the Beaſt, but the Prieſts alone could ſprinkle it.

Ver. 17. For there were many in the Congregation that were not ſanctified: therefore the Levites had the Charge of the killing of the Paſſovers,] The Paſſover doth not only ſignify the Paſchal Lamb, but all the Sacrifices that accompanied it, as I have ſhewn in the fore-named Place, Deut. xvi. 2.

For every one that was not clean to ſanctify them unto the LORD.] Abundance of the People, that came to keep this Paſſover, were not clean; and therefore there needed the more Sacrifices to be offered for their cleanſing, which was one Reaſon why the Levites were employed in it, otherwiſe there had not been a ſufficient Number to perform this Duty.

Ver. 18. For a Multitude of the People, even many of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, Iſſachar and Zebulun, had not cleanſed themſelves,] And therefore ought not, according to the Law, to have come to the Sanctuary, much leſs eaten the Paſſover.

Yet did they eat the Paſſover otherwiſe than it was written:] They did not underſtand, after ſuch a long Night of Ignorance and Superſtition, what Ceremonies were required for their cleanſing: Or rather, they had not Time to uſe them. Yet having an eager and pious Deſire to commemorate their wonderful Deliverance out of the Egyptian Bondage, they were permitted in their Uncleanneſs to eat the Paſſover, leſt they ſhould be diſcouraged, if they were denied it, in their Return to the true Religion.

But Hezekiah prayed for them, ſaying, The good LORD pardon every one,] He had a Confidence that God was ſo gracious, that he would not ſtand ſtrictly upon the Obſervation of external Rites, when he ſaw Mens Hearts honeſt and upright.

Ver. 19. That prepareth his Heart to ſeek God, the LORD God of his Fathers,] Who with pure and holy Intentions came diſpoſed to worſhip God, and acknowledge him to be the LORD.

Tho' he be not cleanſed according to the Purification of the Sanctuary.] But wanted ſuch ritual Purifications as were required of thoſe that were admitted to worſhip God at the Sanctuary.

Ver. 20. And the LORD hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the People.] Some imagine that God ſmote them with ſome Diſeaſe, becauſe of their Impurity, which upon his Prayer was cured. But the Scripture uſes this Phraſe, for granting Pardon, and freeing Men from the Guilt of Sin: As is apparent from Iſa. vi. 10. leſt they ſhould be converted, and be healed, i. e. pardoned.

Ver. 21. And the Children of Iſrael that were preſent at Jeruſalem, kept the Feaſt of unleavened Bread ſeven Days with great Gladneſs:] Which was appointed to be obſerved after the killing of the Paſſover. See Exod. xii. 15, 16, &c.

And the Levites and the Prieſts praiſed the LORD Day by Day, ſinging with loud Inſtruments unto the LORD.] All the ſeven Days they ſang Praiſes to God with Muſick, when the Sacrifices were offered.

Ver. 22. And Hezekiah ſpake comfortably unto all the Levites that taught the good Knowledge of the LORD:] He encouraged them to continue to inſtruct the People more fully in their Duty, by commending them for their Care and Diligence; and promiſing, it is likely, to reward them, for what they had done in propagating the true Knowledge of God.

And they did eat throughout the Feaſt ſeven Days, offering Peace-offerings, and making Confeſſion to the LORD God of their Fathers.] Acknowledging his great Goodneſs unto them, which is called confeſſing, in the holy Language, 1 Chron. xvi. 23, 24.

Ver. 23. And the whole Aſſembly took counſel to keep other ſeven Days:] They adviſed, it is likely, with thoſe mentioned, ver. 2.

And they kept other ſeven Days with Gladneſs.] They did not obſerve other ſeven Days of unleavened Bread; but offered Sacrifices, with Praiſes and Thankſgivings, and Feaſting, ſeven Days.

Ver. 24. For Hezekiah King of Judah did give to the Congregation a thouſaad Bullocks, and ſeven thouſand Sheep; and the Princes gave to the Congregation a thouſand Bullocks, and ten thouſand Sheep:] Part of theſe Sacrifices were offered unto God, and the Prieſts had another Part, and the reſt was diſtributed to the Multitude, that they might feaſt and be merry all the ſeven Days, which was an extraordinary Solemnity; but by this Means not only all the Iſraelites were provided for who kept this great Feaſt, but all the Strangers alſo that came with them to Jeruſalem.

And a great Number of the Prieſts ſanctified themſelves.] So that there were a ſufficient Number to offer the Sacrifices, and to ſprinkle the Blood, tho' not to flay them all.

Ver. 25. And all the Congregation of Judah, with the Prieſts and the Levites, and all the Congregation that came out of Iſrael, and the Strangers that came out of the Land of Iſrael, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoyced.] From hence we may conclude, that many Strangers that were in the Kingdom of Iſrael became Proſelytes at this Time, to the true Religion revived in Judah.

Ver. 26. So there was great Joy in Jeruſalem: for ſince the Time of Solomon the Son of David, King of Iſrael, there was not the like in Jeruſalem.] He held a wonderful great Feaſt for a vaſt Number of People, fourteen Days, as we read 1 Kings viii. 65.

Ver. 27. Then the Prieſts the Levites aroſe, and bleſſed the People:] That is, ſuch of the Levites as were Prieſts, ſtood up and diſmiſſed the Congregation with a Bleſſing: For it was their Office alone to bleſs, 1 Chron. xxiii. 13. And this Bleſſing is ordained in the Law of Moſes, by a divine Commandment, Numb. vi. 22, 23. and was continued by them as long as the Sanctuary ſtood. Yea, it was uſed, if we may believe the Jews, not only in the Temple, but in the Synagogues; not only in the Land of Canaan, but in all Countries where they met to worſhip God; and they think themſelves bound to it by the Divine Law. See Campegius Vitringa, in his Book De Synagoga Veteri, P. ii. L. iii. Cap. 20.

And their Voice was heard, and their Prayer came up to his holy Dwelling-Place, even unto Heaven.] This ſhews that their Bleſſing was a Prayer to God to bleſs them, of which the Bleſſing ordained dained by Moſes is a Proof. And perhaps God at this Time, by ſome viſible Token, teſtified his Acceptance of them; but it is not likely the Divine Writer would have concealed ſuch a Miracle.

CHAP. XXXI.

Ver. 1. NOW when all this was finiſhed,] In the latter End of the ſecond Month, after the Paſſover, and the following Feſtivals were over, and they had received good Inſtructions from the pious Levites (xxx. 22.) they now produced the Fruit of all this, by deſtroying the Monuments of Idolatry.

All Iſrael that were preſent, went out to the Cities of Judah, and brake the Images in Pieces, and cut down the Groves, and threw down the high Places, and the Altars] Which Ahaz had made in all the fenced Cities of Judah, chap. xxviii. 25.

Out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim alſo and Manaſſeh, until they had utterly deſtroyed them all.] They had no Authority in the Kingdom of Iſrael, to which Ephraim and Manaſſeh belonged; but ſome think that as Hezekiah ſent Letters to all Iſrael to come and keep the Paſſover, ſo he went by a Divine Motion to thoſe Tribes which were neareſt to him, and without the Conſent of Hoſhea King of Iſrael, deſtroyed their Images, and other idolatrous Monuments: But theſe Words may ſignify no more than that he did this in all Parts of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, who were fallen off to Judah, and come under his Government, chap. xv. 9.

Then all the Children of Iſrael returned every Man to his Poſſeſſion into their own Cities.] This argues great Zeal, that they would not return Home, till they had done all they could to eſtabliſh and promote true Religion. Of ſo great Import it is (as Pellicanus here obſerves) to have a good King, and a well inſtructed People.

Ver. 2. And Hezekiah appointed the Courſes of the Prieſts, and the Levites after their Courſes, every Man according to his Service,] He reſtored the Order which David had inſtituted, which had been interrupted ſince the Days of Jehoſhaphat, who walked in the Ways of David, c. xvii. 3.

The Prieſts and the Levites for Burnt-offerings, and for Peace-offerings, to miniſter and to give thanks, and to praiſe] Not only upon ſuch ſolemn Feaſts as the Paſſover (which they had lately kept) but every Day they ſung praiſe to God, when the Sacrifices were offered.

In the Gates of the Tents of the LORD.] That is, in the LORD's Houſe, which anciently was a Tent, as he repreſents to David, 2 Sam. vii. 6. And all Houſes were called by that Name, Pſalm lxix. 25.

Ver. 3. He appointed alſo the King's Portion of his Subſtance, for the Burnt-offerings, to wit, for the Morning and Evening Burnt-offerings, and the Burnt-offerings for the Sabbaths, and for the New Moons, and for the ſet Feaſts, as it is written in the Law of the LORD.] There was a particular Sacrifice, I ſuppoſe, offered for the King every Day, at his own Coſt and Charge: Beſides which, Hezekiah likewiſe maintained the Morning and Evening Sacrifices every Day, and eſpecially on the Sabbaths, and New Moons, and ſolemn Feaſts; becauſe the Condition of the People was ſo low, that they could not every one pay the Tax that was laid on them, on Purpoſe for the Maintenance of theſe Sacrifices: Yet the Firſt-fruits and the Tenths he ordered to be carefully paid, as it here follows; and theſe Words, it is poſſible, may mean no more, but that he made an Allowance out of his own Eſtate, for the Support of all the Expences ordinary and extraordinary, at the Altar.

Ver. 4. Moreover, he commanded the People that dwelt in Jeruſalem,] That by their good Example, others might be ſtirred up to their Duty.

To give the Portion of the Prieſts and the Levites, that they might be encouraged in the Law of the LORD.] For the Service of God could not be maintained, unleſs there was a due Proviſion made for the Maintenance of his Miniſters, who were always ſupported out of the publick Stock; for they who miniſter to the Community, ought by the Law of Nature (as Eſtius well obſerves) to be maintained by it; for their Miniſtry is not appointed for themſelves, but for the Salvation of all the People.

Ver. 5. And as ſoon as the Commandment came abroad, the Children of Iſrael brought in Abundance the Firſt-fruits of Corn, Wine, and Oil, and Honey,] The Targum tranſlates the Word, Honey of Dates, as the Jews commonly underſtand it, and ſo expound Deut. viii. 8. where ſeven Sorts of Things are mentioned, of which they brought the Firſt-fruits: But tho' Honey was not offered in Sacrifice to God (which is their Reaſon why they will not here underſtand Honey, properly ſo called) yet I ſee no Reaſon why they might not bring the Firſt-fruits of it, and give it to the Prieſts for their own Uſe.

And of all the Increaſe of the Field,] Which Kimchi expounds of the Fruits of the reſt of the Trees, viz. Fig-trees and Pomegranates.

And all the Tythe of all Things brought they in abundantly.] They paid Tythe, ſaith he, not only of the Corn, but of the Fruit-trees, and of the Herbs, which were not due by the Law; ſuch Herbs as thoſe mentioned by our Saviour, Mint, Annis, and Cummin, Mat. xxiii. 23. tho' theſe ſeem to have been of a later Date, invented by the Phariſees.

Ver. 6. And concerning the Children of Iſrael and Judah, that dwelt in the Cities of Judah,] As many of the Iſraelites as were under the Power and Dominion of Judah, did the ſame that they did.

They alſo brought in the Tythe of Oxen and Sheep,] As the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem had brought in the Tythe of ſuch Things as are fore-mentioned, which they had in their Store-houſes; ſo they in the Country brought in alſo the Tythe of Oxen and Sheep, which were not kept in the Cities.

And the Tythe of holy Things, which were conſecrated unto the LORD their God,] That is, ſaith Jarchi, the Tythe which the Levites paid to the Prieſts: But Kimchi takes it for Things conſecrated, conſecrated, which they had dedicated to God's Service; of which they alſo gave Tythe, tho' they were exempted from the Law of the Tything.

And laid them by Heaps.] In a great Abundance, as is before ſaid.

Ver. 7. In the third Month they began to lay the Foundation of the Heaps, and finiſhed them in the ſeventh Month.] They began to offer Firſt-fruits in the third Month, when their Harveſt began; and finiſhed the Tything in the ſeventh Month, when their Harveſt was ended, Exod. xxiii. 16.

Ver. 8. And when Hezekiah and the Princes came and ſaw the Heaps, they bleſſed the LORD and his People Iſrael.] They gave Thanks to God, who had given them ſuch Plenty of good Things, and likewiſe given them an Heart to offer ſo plentifully; and they commended the People, and prayed God to increaſe their Store; for that's the Meaning of bleſſing the People, praiſing their Liberality, and praying God to reward it.

Ver. 9. Then Hezekiah queſtioned with the Prieſts and the Levites concerning the Heaps.] Aſking them, as ſome underſtand it, what they meant to let them lie ſo careleſly, as if they were neglected, and did not lay them up in ſome ſafe Place; but others think he means, how it came to paſs, that there were ſtill ſuch great Heaps left, and no more ſpent: Which the following Anſwer ſeems to favour, tho' the next Words incline to the former.

Ver. 10. And Azariah the chief Prieſt of the Houſe of Zadok,] The Head of the Family of the Prieſts of the Line of Zadok.

Anſwered him, and ſaid, Since the People began to bring the Offerings into the Houſe of the LORD,] Which was from the very Beginning of Harveſt.

We have had enough to eat, and have left Plenty; for the LORD hath bleſſed his People, and that which is left is this great Store.] His Meaning ſeems to be, that they had not ſpared to make uſe of the plentiful Proviſion which was brought to them; and had alſo laid up as much as they had Room to receive, and all theſe Heaps were ſtill left.

Ver. 11. Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare Chambers in the Houſe of the LORD, and they prepared them.] To build new Store-houſes, beſides thoſe which Solomon had made; becauſe there was not Room enough wherein to lay all the Offerings and Tythes, and other dedicated Things.

Ver. 12. And brought in the Offerings, and the Tythes, and the dedicated Things faithfully: Over which Cononiah the Levite was Ruler, and Shimei his Brother was the next.] As he took Care they ſhould all be faithfully laid up, ſo he ſet truſty Perſons to ſee that they were no leſs faithfully preſerved, for their proper Uſes: Of which theſe two Brethren were the Chief.

Ver. 13. And Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Aſahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Iſmachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, were Overſeers under the Hand of Cononiah, and Shimei his Brother,] Theſe were inferior Officers, under the Command of the two fore-named Brethren, who had the principal Overſight, and theſe were Aſſiſtants to them.

At the Commandment of Hezekiah the King, and Azariah the Ruler of the Houſe of God.] For ſo it was ordered by the King, with the Advice of Azariah, who was before-mentioned (ver. 10.) as a chief Perſon among the Prieſts.

Ver. 14. And Kore the Son of Imnah the Levite, the Porter toward the Eaſt,] At the Entrance of the Houſe of God.

Was over the Freewill-offerings of God, to diſtribute the Oblations of the LORD,] Unto the Prieſts and Levites, to whoſe Uſes they were appropriated by God: Or, as ſome think, to give out ſo much Flour, Oil, Wine, Frankincenſe, &c. as was neceſſary for the Sacrifices.

And the moſt holy Things.] So they called the Burnt-offerings, and the Offerings for Sin, and the Treſpaſs-offerings, and the two Lambs for Peace-offerings, on the laſt Day of the Feaſt of Tabernacles; as Beckius obſerves out of Maimonides.

Ver. 15. And next him were Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeſhua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in the Cities of the Prieſts, in their ſet Office, to give to their Brethren by Courſes, as well to the Great as to the Small.] Theſe were to take Care of thoſe who ſtaid in their Cities, while others came in their Courſes to wait at Jeruſalem: None of which wanted the Portion allotted to them, both for themſelves, and for their little Children.

Ver. 16. Beſides their Genealogy of Males, from three Years old and upward, even unto every one that entreth into the Houſe of the LORD, his daily Portion for their Service in their Charges, according to their Courſes.] Tho' none of the Levites were permitted to come into the Houſe of the LORD, to do Service, till they were twenty Years old; yet their Males (as Mr. Selden obſerves from this Place) who were three Years old or more, were allowed to come into the Temple with their Parents; and in the Diſtribution, the other Infants being pretermitted, theſe were provided for. Kimchi here obſerves, that Males under three Years old were not capable of entring into the Houſe of the LORD: But Females neither then, nor after they were older, were capable of this Privilege.

Ver. 17. Both to the Genealogy of the Prieſts by the Houſe of their Fathers, and the Levites from twenty Years old and upward, in their Charges by their Courſes.] Theſe Words twenty Years old (as the ſame great Perſon obſerves) relate not to the Prieſts but to the Levites; who, according to the Law of Moſes, were not obliged to their Function, till they were thirty Years old, Num. iv. 3. But David, in the latter End of his Reign, a little before the Building of the Temple, admitted them to officiate at the Age of twenty Years, 1 Chron. xxiii. 26, 27. See Selden, de Succeſſion. ad Pontif. Lib. ii. Cap. 4.

Ver. 18. And to the Genealogy of all their little Ones, their Wives, and their Sons, and their Daughters, through all the Congregation:] The fore-named Officers gave to every Family their Portion; not only to the Prieſts, but to their Wives and Children; of which (it appears by theſe Verſes) an exact Regiſter was kept, according to which they made their Diſtribution.

For in their ſet Office they ſanctify'd themſelves in Holineſs.] Or rather, according to the Hebrew, for in Faith, or with Fidelity (ſome tranſlate it in the Margin in Truſt) they ſanctified themſelves in Holineſs; that is, attended upon their Miniſtry at the Houſe of God, nothing doubting they ſhould be provided of all things neceſſary; for this ſeems to be a Reaſon, why ſuch Care was taken of their Wives and Children, becauſe their Huſbands were wholly given up to the Service of God, and could not follow any other Employment, whereby to provide for the Maintenance of their Families.

Ver. 19. Alſo of the Sons of Aaron the Prieſts, which were in the Fields of the Suburbs of their Cities, in every ſeveral City,] Care was taken of thoſe that lived in the Country, tho' at the greateſt Diſtance, as well as of thoſe that lived in or near Jeruſalem, or waited in their Courſes there. They that were not in waiting, but at home with their Families, had Proviſion made for them, as if they had been at the Houſe of God.

The Men that were expreſſed by Name, to give Portions to all the Males among the Prieſts, and to all that were reckoned by Genealogies among the Levites.] The fore-named Perſons were intruſted with this Buſineſs, to ſee that none wanted a Maintenance.

Ver. 20. And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and wrought that which was good and right and truth before the LORD his God.] Whatſoever he thought was pleaſing to God, conformable to the Law, and profitable for his People, he performed with Integrity of Heart.

Ver. 21. And in every Work that he began in the Service of the Houſe of God, and in the Law and in the Commandments, to ſeek his God, he did it with all his Heart, and proſpered.] Whatſoever he went about, either for the Advancement of Religion, or the good Government of his People, he did it ſincerely, and with great Zeal; ſo that God proſpered him both in Peace and in War.

CHAP. XXXII.

Ver. 1. AFTER theſe Things, and the Eſtabliſhment thereof,] After the Reformation of Religion, and the Eſtabliſhment of it, by ſettling the Maintenance of the Prieſts and Levites, (whom he appointed, according to the Ordinance of David, to attend in their Courſes) he proſpered ſo, that he reſolved to be ſubject no longer to the King of Aſſyria; who thereupon came and invaded his Country, 2 Kings xviii. 7.

Sennacherib, King of Aſſyria, came and entred into Judah,] This was in the fourteenth Year of the Reign of Hezekiah, 2 Kings xviii. 13.

And encamped againſt the fenced Cities,] Many of which he took; God thinking fit to try the Faith of Hezekiah, and by diſappointing Sennacherib, to get himſelf the greater Glory.

And thought to win them for himſelf.] To conquer the whole Country, even Jeruſalem itſelf.

Ver. 2. And when Hezekiah ſaw, that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purpoſed to fight againſt Jeruſalem,] His Succeſs puffed him up, ſo that he deſigned, as plainly appeared, to beſiege the capital City of the Kingdom.

Ver. 3. He took Counſel with his Princes, and his mighty Men,] Tho' the Prophet Iſaiah had aſſured him of God's Protection, he did not neglect to conſult the beſt Means of his Preſervation.

To ſtop the Waters of the Fountains which were without the City:] To fill them up with Earth, that it might not be known there was any Water there; which they turned another Way, and by Pipes and Channels under Ground brought it to Jeruſalem.

And they did help him.] Aſſiſted him in this Work.

Ver. 4. So there was gathered much People together who ſtopt all the Fountains, and the Brook that ran through the midſt of the Land,] That is Gihon, as Kimchi underſtands it, which ſome take to be Kidron; it was no eaſy Thing to dry up this Brook; but it is ſuppoſed, the Head of it was not far from the City, which being ſtopped up, they diverted the Current; and by Conveyance under Ground, brought it into great Pits within the City; which received the Water for the Uſe of the People. For we read afterward, v. 30. of his ſtopping up a Courſe of Water, which was above, and bringing it down to this Weſt-ſide of the City.

Saying, Why ſhould the Kings of Aſſyria come and find much Water?] Water was ſcarce in this Country; therefore they thought it prudent to diſtreſs their Enemies by the Want of it. He ſpeaks of Kings, in the plural Number, either becauſe there were many Kings that ſerved under the King of Aſſyria, or becauſe he was the great King, as he ſtiled himſelf.

Ver. 5. Alſo he ſtrengthned himſelf, and built up all the Wall that was broken,] There was a great Breach made in it by Joaſh King of Iſrael in the Days of Amaziah, chap. xxv. 25. Which, I ſuppoſe, was repaired in his Son's Days, who was a very powerful Prince, chap. xxvi. 9. and therefore he ſpeaks here of ſome other Breach, which had been made ſince that Time; and perhaps in the ſame Place, where thro' Neglect the Wall might poſſibly be fallen down.

And raiſed it up to the Towers,] It was broken down from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner-Gate, (as we read in the fore-named Places) where there were Towers, for the Defence of the Gates, unto which he carried the Wall; ſo that it was intirely raiſed up again.

And another Wall without,] He compaſſed the City with another Wall without the old one, for its ſtronger Defence.

And repaired Millo in the City of David,] Some underſtand by Millo the Wall that was about Sion, on the North Part of the City: Or the Street within the City from the Palace to the Temple; which he repaired, that is, fortified and made ſtrong with a Wall, to defend the Entrance of it.

And made Darts and Shields in Abundance.] Both offenſive and defenſive Weapons, of which he took Care there ſhould be no Want.

Ver. 6. And he ſet Captains of War over the People, and gathered them together to him in the Street of the Gate of the City,] In the Street of the principal Gate which was very large.

And ſpake comfortably to them, ſaying,] Encouraged them to ſtand by him, in Defence of their City, Religion, and Liberties, which he aſſured them God would protect; as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 7. Be ſtrong, and couragious, be not afraid, nor diſmayed for the King of Aſſyria, nor for all the Multitude that is with him: for there be more with us than with him.] It is the Part of a good Commander to ſhew himſelf undaunted before his Soldiers; but eſpecially to perſuade them, that having a good Cauſe, God is on their Side; which the Targum in the next Verſe explains thus, The WORD of the LORD our God is our Helper; which ſignifies, as Beckius there thinks, more Perſons than one in the holy Trinity.

Ver. 8. With him is an Arm of Fleſh, but with us is the LORD our God, to help us, and to fight our Battles. And the People reſted themſelves upon the Words of Hezekiah King of Judah.] Relied on what he ſaid, as if it had been ſpoken to them by God himſelf.

Ver. 9. After this did Sennacherib King of Aſſyria ſend his Servants to Jeruſalem (but he himſelf laid Siege againſt Lachiſh, and all his Power with him) unto Hezekiah King of Judah, and unto all Judah, that were at Jeruſalem, ſaying,] See 2 Kings xviii. 17, &c. in which Place, and in c. xix. 10, &c. the following Speech is ſet down more largely, which here is abridged.

Ver. 10. Thus ſaith Sennacherib, King of Aſſyria, Whereon do ye truſt, that ye abide in the Siege of Jeruſalem?] 2 Kings xviii. 19. the laſt Words ſeem to ſignify, that for fear of the King of Aſſyria, they durſt not ſtir out of the Gates of Jeruſalem; for ſo we tranſlate the laſt Words in the Margin, the ſtrong Hold of Jeruſalem.

Ver. 11. Doth not Hezekiah perſuade you to give over your ſelves to die by Famine, and by Thirſt, ſaying, The LORD our God ſhall deliver us out of the Hand of the King of Aſſyria?] 2 Kings xviii. 22. He did not intend, it appears by this, to ſtorm the City, but to keep them pent up till they were ſtarved.

Ver. 12. Hath not the ſame Hezekiah taken away his high Places, and his Altars, and commanded Judah and Jeruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall worſhip before one Altar, and burn Incenſe upon it?] It is evident from hence, that the Worſhip of one God alone was known to be the Religion of the Jews; but Sennacherib would have had them believe, Hezekiah had diſhonoured him by confining his Worſhip and Service to one narrow Corner; which was before diffuſed and ſpread all over the City and Country; and therefore would not help them. See there, 2 Kings xviii. 22.

Ver. 13. Know ye not what I and my Fathers have done unto all the People of other Lands? Were the Gods of the Nations of thoſe Lands any Ways able to deliver their Lands out of mine Hand?] If the LORD had a Mind to help them, he would have them believe that he was not able; becauſe no Gods had been able to deliver thoſe that worſhipp'd them, from his Power.

Ver. 14. Who was there among all the Gods of thoſe Nations, that my Fathers utterly deſtroyed, that could deliver his People out of mine Hand, that your God ſhould be able to deliver you out of mine Hand?] Upon this Argument he enlarges himſelf very much in 2 Kings xix. 32, 33, 34, 35.

Ver. 15. Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor perſuade you in this Manner, neither yet believe him: for no God of any Nation or Kingdom was able to deliver his People out of mine Hand, and out of the Hand of my Fathers: how much leſs ſhall your God deliver you out of mine Hand?] See 2 Kings xviii. 29, 30.

Ver. 16. And his Servants ſpake yet more againſt the LORD God, and againſt his Servant Hezekiah.] The Targum tranſlates it, They ſpake perverſely againſt the WORD of the LORD God, &c. Which plainly declares, that Paraphraſt took the WORD of God to be a Divine Perſon, whoſe Servant Hezekiah was.

Ver. 17. He wrote alſo Letters to rail on the LORD God of Iſrael, and to ſpeak againſt him, ſaying,] One of theſe Letters is ſet down at large in 2 Kings xix. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14.

As the Gods of the Nations of other Lands have not delivered their People out of mine Hand, ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his People out of mine Hand.] He inſiſts upon this ſo often and ſo long, it being the moſt popular Argument he could uſe.

Ver. 18. Then they cried with a loud Voice in the Jews Speech, unto the People of Jeruſalem, that were on the Wall, to affright them, and to trouble them, that they might take the City.] By a Surrender of it into their Hand. See 2 Kings xviii. 26, 27, &c.

Ver. 19. And they ſpake againſt the God of Jeruſalem, as againſt the Gods of the People of the Earth, which were the Work of the Hands of Man.] They ignorantly fancied, there was no Difference between the God of the Univerſe, whom the Jews worſhipped, and the Gods of particular Countries, who pretended to no Power but only there; though in Truth they had no Power at all, being made by thoſe that worſhipped them.

Ver. 20. And for this Cauſe Hezekiah the King, and the Prophet Iſaiah, the Son of Amos, prayed, and cried to Heaven.] See 2 Kings xix. 1, 2, &c. 25, 26, &c.

Ver. 21. And the LORD ſent an Angel, which cut off all the mighty Men of Valour, and the Leaders and Captains in the Camp of the King of Aſſyria:] With a vaſt Number of common Soldiers, as we read 2 Kings xix. 35. The Hebrew Text no where mentions the Name of the Angel, nor the Time of the Year when this Stroke was given, nor the Kind of Plague whereby they were deſtroyed; but the Targum ſaith, the WORD of the LORD ſent Gabriel to do this Execution, who in the Paſſover Night ſmote them with Lightning; which is related in the Babylonian Talmud, after the ſame Manner; as Beckius obſerves upon the Targum.

One would think, that Artabanus had read or heard ſomething of this ſudden and dreadful Overthrow, when he diſſuaded Xerxes from invading Greece, being ſwoln with Confidence that nothing could withſtand him. Doſt thou not obſerve, ſaith he, how the higheſt and magnificent Buildings are wont to be ſtruck with Thunder, when the lower eſcape? Φιλέει γὰρ ὁ Θεὸς τὰ ὑπερέχοντα πάντα κολοέειν, For God loves to depreſs all Things that are lifted up. And a little after, in the ſame Speech, he admoniſhes him; Οὐ γὰρ ἐᾷ φρονέειν ἄλλον μέγα ὁ Θεὸς ἢ ἑωυτόν, For God doth not allow any other to think highly of themſelves, but only himſelf. Herodotus, Lib. vii. Cap. 10.

So he returned with Shame of Face to his own Land. And when he was come into the Houſe of his God, they that came forth of his own Bowels, ſlew him there with the Sword.] See 2 Kings xix. 37. And with him the Aſſyrian Empire began to fall, and never recovered its former Strength; tho' it ſtill continued in great Power. For the next Year after Sennacherib's Death, the Medes revolted; being encouraged to it, no doubt, by this great Defeat at Jeruſalem: And by their Example ſeveral other Nations fell off from the Aſſyrians, and aſſerted their Liberty; as Hermannus Conringius hath obſerved out of Herodotus, in his Adverſaria Chronologica, Cap. iv. But ſtill their Monarchy continued, as appears by what follows in the next Chapter of this Book.

Ver. 22. Thus the LORD ſaved Hezekiah, and the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem from the Hand of Sennacherib the King of Aſſyria, and from the Hand of all other, and guided them on every Side.] That is, defended them from all their Enemies; juſt as a Shepherd doth his Sheep, whom he leads into Places of Safety.

Ver. 23. And many brought Gifts unto the LORD to Jeruſalem, and Preſents to Hezekiah King of Judah:] His Neighbours were ſo far from moleſting him, that many came to worſhip God, and to do Honour to Hezekiah, who was ſo highly in God's Favour.

So that he was magnified in the Sight of all Nations from thenceforth.] That is, all the neighbouring Countries, who heard of theſe Things, had him in great Eſteem.

Ver. 24. In thoſe Days Hezekiah was ſick to the Death, and prayed unto the LORD: and he ſpake unto him, and he gave him a Sign.] Or, as it is in the Margin, wrought a Miracle for him. See a large Account of this in the twentieth Chapter of the ſecond Book of the Kings, and my Annotations there: Unto which this may be added, that Pliny ſaith, The Application of a very fat Fig to an hard Swelling, is a preſent Remedy. Carbunculi, ſi ſine Ulcere eſt, quàm pinguiſſimum ficum imponi pene ſingulare remedium eſt, Lib. xxiii. Nat. Hiſtor. Cap. 7. But the Schechin, wherewith Hezekiah laboured, (which we tranſlate Boil) was not of this Sort; for the Word ſignifies the worſt Kind of Ulcers: And therefore there was nothing in this Application of a Lump of Figs to leſſen the Wonder.

Ver. 25. But Hezekiah rendered not again according to the Benefit done unto him:] In his Deliverance from ſo powerful an Enemy, as he could not reſiſt, and from ſuch a dangerous Diſeaſe, as was incurable, without the ſpecial Hand of God.

For his Heart was lifted up;] By the Embaſſy ſent to him from the King of Babylon, who came to enquire of the Wonder done in the Land: Which, together with the Slaughter of Sennacherib's Army, his ſhameful Retreat, the Preſents which had been ſent him from other Countries, and the Fame which he had got, made him have too high an Opinion, tho' not of his Power, which was very ſmall; yet of his Piety, which was very great. But inſtead of making him thankful, he grew ſo preſumptuous of God's Favour, as to be forgetful of his Benefits.

Therefore there was Wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jeruſalem.] Who, it ſeems, were as inſenſible as himſelf of the Mercies they had received; contenting themſelves, that they were not Idolaters, tho' they were not truly pious, and mindful of God's Benefits.

Ver. 26. Notwithſtanding, Hezekiah humbled himſelf for the Pride of his Heart] Upon the Admonition which the Prophet Iſaiah gave him; and the ſevere Sentence he pronounced againſt him, and his Family.

(Both he and the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem)] Who were awakened by the ſame Threatning.

So that the Wrath of the LORD came not upon them in the Days of Hezekiah.] But Peace and Truth was in his Days, as he ſpeaks, 2 Kings xx. 19.

Ver. 27. And Hezekiah had exceeding much Riches and Honour: and he made himſelf Treaſuries for Silver, and for Gold, and for precious Stones, and for Spices, and for Shields, and for all Manner of pleaſant Jewels;] All which he ſhewed to the King of Babylon's Ambaſſadors, 2 Kings xx. 13.

Ver. 28. Store-houſes alſo for the Increaſe of Corn, and Wine, and Oil; and Stalls for all manner of Beaſts, and Cotes for Flocks.] In the Hebrew the Words are, for Beaſt and Beaſt; that is, every Beaſt: as in Eſther ix. 21. Year and Year; that is, every Year: and v. 28. Generation and Generation, i. e. every Generation.

Ver. 29. Moreover, he provided him Cities, and Poſſeſſions of Flocks, and Herds in Abundance: for God had given him Subſtance very much.] The great Riches of theſe Countries conſiſted in Abundance of Cattle, of all Sorts, as I have oft obſerved.

Ver. 30. This ſame Hezekiah alſo ſtopped the upper Water-Courſe of Gihon,] He ſeems to ſpeak of the ſame Thing which is mentioned before, v. 4. being a Work of ſuch great Labour and Art, that Ezra thought fit to make it memorable, by taking a more particular Notice of it, among his great Works. From the mention of the upper Water-Courſe, Kimchi gathers, there were ſeveral Streams of this Torrent.

And brought it ſtraight down to the Weſt-ſide of the City of David.] The Rivulet, I ſuppoſe, had many Windings before, and did not come ſtraight down to the City, as now it was made to do.

And Hezekiah proſpered in all his Works.] It is likely, he contrived many other Things for the Benefit of the City of Jeruſalem; none of which miſcarried.

Ver. 31. Howbeit, in the Buſineſs of the Embaſſadors of the Princes of Babylon, who ſent unto him him to enquire of the Wonder that was done in the Land,] Which is mentioned at large, 2 Kings xx. 10, 11. Iſaiah xxxviii. 7, 8. In the former of which Places I have endeavoured to give an Account of it. But Bochartus, I find, ſtrongly oppoſes the Opinion of the Body of the Sun's going back: In his Canaan, Lib. i. Cap. xiv. p. 4. where he obſerves, that the Scripture in both Places ſpeaks of the Shadow's going back ten Degrees; and then it is ſaid, the Sun went back, that is, the Shadow of the Sun, or the Light of the Sun, which ſucceeded to the going back of the Shadow. And it muſt be confeſſed, that if the Sun had gone back, it would not have been a Miracle in Judea alone, but all the World over: And the King of Babylon needed not have ſent to enquire about the Wonder in that Land, becauſe it would have been a Wonder in his Land, and in all Lands, as well as in Judea. And ſo it was, for I have obſerved there out of Herodotus, that in Egypt they knew ſomething of the unuſual Motion of the Sun: And perhaps they now obſerved it in Babylon, and only ſent to enquire whether Iſaiah foretold it, which was a great Wonder. I have met alſo with one, who thinks, that the Babylonians being Worſhippers af the Sun, it was Part of Hezekiah's Sin, that he did not take this Occaſion to perſuade the Ambaſſadors to worſhip God, who made and commanded the Sun; and could ſtop the Courſe of it when he pleaſed.

God left him to try him, that he might know all that was in his Heart.] God ſuffered him to behave himſelf according to his own Inclinations, without any ſpecial Motion from him; that Hezekiah might know, he was not ſo ſtrong as he imagined, if he were left to himſelf without God. But it is generally thought, the laſt Words relate rather to God, who made Proof of him, as he had done of many other good Men, whether he would entirely obey him, or not. He tries none in that Senſe, of which St. James ſpeaks, viz. for an ill Intent, or to lead Men to Deſtruction; but for a good End, to improve them, and bring them to Salvation. Thus he tempted Abraham, Gen. xxii. 1. and the Children of Iſrael, Exod. xv. 25. xvi. 5. and Ezekiel, and many others, that it might appear, how they ſtood affected to him: Which God, no doubt, knew, and now ſaw the Pride and Vanity that lurked in Hezekiah's Heart; which was hid from every one but God himſelf, who now ſuffered him to diſcover it for his Humiliation. For it was a greater Crime to be again puffed up, as he had been before his dangerous Sickneſs.

Ver. 32. Now the reſt of the Acts of Hezekiah, and his Goodneſs, behold, they are written in the Viſion of Iſaiah the Prophet, the Son of Amoz,] Who hath recorded his Prayer, which he made to God in his Sickneſs.

And in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael.] See xxvii. 7.

Ver. 33. And Hezekiah ſlept with his Fathers, and they buried him in the chiefeſt of the Sepulchres of the Sons of David:] Which was a Part of that Honour which they did him, mentioned in the next Words; for he deſerved it above all the Kings which they had ſince the Time of David.

And all Judah and the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem did him Honour at his Death:] Buried him, perhaps, with ſuch Solemnity and Expences as were made at the Funeral of King Aſa, c. xvi. 14. Maimonides ſaith, they appointed a Company of Students in the Law to ſit at his Sepulchre, and to mourn ſeven Days together. See Schikcard in his Jus Regium, p. 173. But this I look upon as merely Rabbinical.

And Manaſſeh his Son reigned in his Stead.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Ver. 1. Manaſſeh was twelve Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and five Years in Jeruſalem:] See 2 Kings, c. xxi. 1. where his Mother's Name is ſet down, which is here omitted.

Ver. 2. But did that which was Evil in the Sight of the LORD, like unto the Abominations of the Heathen, whom the LORD had caſt out before the Children of Iſrael.] The very ſame Words are in the fore-named Place, ver. 2. And here it follows ver. 9. that he did worſe than thoſe abominable Heathen; not only committing all the Sins of his Forefathers, but endeavouring to exceed them, and leave nothing undone wholly to ſubvert the Worſhip of God.

Ver. 3. For he built again the High-Places which Hezekiah his Father had broken down, and he reared up Altars for Baalim,] Imitated Ahab King of Iſrael, as it is explained there, 2 Kings xxi. 3.

And made Groves, and worſhipped all the Hoſt of Heaven, and ſerved them.] Theſe Groves, I ſuppoſe, were made about the Temple, which was utterly forbidden, Deut. xvi. 21. being an Heatheniſh Rite, (Judges vi. 25.) and mentioned by Iſaiah (lxvi. 17.) among the abominable Idolatries which they practiſed ſecretly in their Gardens. Yet the Jews in After-times did plant Trees about their Proſeuchæ, their Oratories, or Places of Prayer, as Scaliger obſerves in his Fragmenta, at the End of his Book De Emend. Temporum, p. 25. But they were not in the Law touching the Temple.

Ver. 4. Alſo he built Altars in the Houſe of the LORD,] In the Court of the Prieſts. See 2 Kings xxi. 4.

Whereof the LORD had ſaid, In Jeruſalem ſhall my Name be for ever.] This was the greater Profanation, becauſe God had choſen this Place to ſettle his Preſence in it.

Ver. 5. And he built Altars for all the Hoſt of Heaven, in the two Courts of the Houſe of the LORD.] In the Court of the People of Iſrael, and in the Court of the Gentiles. See there ver. 5.

Ver. 6. And he cauſed his Children to paſs thro' the Fire in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom:] There is mention made only of his Son in the Book of the Kings, but here of his Children, whom he conſecrated to Moloch.

Alſo he obſerved Times, and uſed Enchantments, and uſed Witchcraft, and dealt with a familiar Spirit, and with Wizards: he wrought much Evil in the Sight of the LORD to provoke him to Anger.] He ſeems to have ſtudied to find out what God had forbidden in his Law, that he might practiſe it. See there, 1 Kings xxi. 6.

Ver.

Ver. 7. And he ſet a carved Image (the Idol which he had made) in the Houſe of God, of which God had ſaid to David, and to Solomon his Son, In this Houſe, and in Jeruſalem, which I have choſen before all the Tribes of Iſrael, will I put my Name for ever.] This Verſe and the next are the ſame with 2 Kings xxi. 7, 8. where ſee my Annotations. I ſhall only add here, That this ſeems to have been an Image of more than ordinary note, which he ſet up with a great Deal of Ceremony. For among the Heathens, whom he imitated, Images did not become Gods, that is, were not made Objects of Worſhip, till being placed in the moſt holy Part of their Temples, there they were conſecrated by being anointed and crowned, by Sacrifices, Prayers and Adorations; and then ſetting up Candles burning before them: All which was concluded with a Feſtival, which ſometimes was made anniverſary. Many plain Inſtances there are of this, particularly in Minutius Fœlix, who mentions the Unction, Coronation, Adoration, and Prayers, whereby they were conſecrated.

Ver. 8. Neither will I any more remove the Foot of Iſrael from out of the Land which I have appointed for your Fathers; ſo that they will take heed to do all that I have commanded them, according to the whole Law, and the Statutes and the Ordinances by the Hand of Moſes.

Ver. 9. So Manaſſeh made Judah and the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem to err, and to do worſe than the Heathen, whom the LORD had deſtroyed before the Children of Iſrael.] A moſt prodigious Change, from the Height of Piety in his Father's Time, into the Sink of Impiety in this. Which ſtrange Viciſſitude of Things ſhould admoniſh us not to be ſecure, as Victorinus Strigelius notes; who being Profeſſor of Theology at Heidelburg, left this Remark in his Lectures on this Place, near an hundred and forty Years ago. Now we have the Word of God abundantly, in all Wiſdom; and pious Princes patronize both thoſe that preach, and thoſe that learn the Goſpel. But this Plenty of the Word we now enjoy (I tremble to ſpeak it, but I muſt ſpeak it, becauſe it will come to paſs) ſhall be taken away: And that ſad mournful Time will come, when the publick Aſſemblies of the Church ſhall be ſcattered, and a few pious Souls ſhall meet with Fear in a Corner, to communicate among themſelves the Fragments of the heavenly Doctrine, and give God thanks for thoſe Remainders: Which we have ſeen fulfilled in that Country, and in France, and other Places.

Ver. 10. And the LORD ſpake to Manaſſeh and to his People:] By his Servants the Prophets. See ver. 18. The Jews ſay in Seder Olam Rabba, cap. xx. that Joel, Nahum, and Habbakuk propheſied in his Time; but he was ſo wicked that they would not ſo much as mention his Name in the Beginning of their Prophecies; which is not a good Reaſon.

But they would not hearken.] Neither he nor his People regarded what they ſaid.

Ver. 11. Wherefore the LORD brought upon them the Captains of the Hoſt of the King of Aſſyria,] The Royal Family failing in Babylon, the King of Aſſyria (Eſſarhaddon) brought that Kingdom under his Yoke again, and held it thirteen Years, as Primate Uſher obſerves in his Annals. And he hearing, from the Ambaſſadors of Merodach Baladan, what great Treaſures were in Jeruſalem, and that Hezekiah was dead, and Manaſſeh had forſaken that God who did ſuch great Things for his Father, ſent an Army againſt him, which he could not withſtand.

Which took Manaſſeh among the Thorns,] In a Thicket where he had hid himſelf, but was diſcovered.

And bound him with Fetters,] With Iron Chains faſtened to his Wriſts, or to his Legs, as we underſtand it.

And carried him to Babylon.] Which the King of Aſſyria, it is likely, had made his Seat, to ſecure his late Conqueſts. This was in the twenty ſecond Year of his Reign, as the Jews compute in Seder Olam Rabba, cap. xxiv. when they carried away with him the Idol in Dan, according to Judges xviii. 30. But however that be, it is very evident the Aſſyrian Monarchy was not fallen by the Defection of the Medes and other Nations, which I before mention'd, but ſtill continued in great Power; Babylon itſelf, which rebelled at the ſame Time with the Medes, being again ſubdued to its Obedience, as appears by their ſending Manaſſeh bound hither. So that they had not only Cœlo-Syria and Phœnicia, but Meſopotamia and Chaldæa under their Dominion, as Conringius obſerves, in the Book before named, upon the fore-going Chapter, ver. 21. How long their Power continued the Scripture doth not tell us; but Manaſſeh after his Return from his Captivity, ſeems to have been a free Prince, ſubject unto none, maintaining Forces in all his fenced Cities, ver. 14. of this Chapter.

Ver. 12. And when he was in Affliction, he beſought the LORD his God, and humbled himſelf greatly before the God of his Fathers,] This was three and thirty Years before his Death, as the Jews make Account, in the Book before mentioned. But both Kimchi and Abarbinel confeſs that this relies upon a weak Foundation, as doth the other Thing, that he was carried away in the twenty ſecond Year of his Reign.

Ver. 13. And prayed unto him, and he was entreated of him, and heard his Supplication, and brought him again to Jeruſalem into his Kingdom. Then Manaſſeh knew that the LORD he was God.] So true it is that Vexatio dat Intellectum, Trouble and Vexation give Underſtanding, and make Men know God and themſelves. Which is not univerſally true, for ſome are far from being brought to a right Senſe by their Miſeries; as Ahaz, this King's Grand-father, was never without ſome ſore Affliction or other, and yet never relented. But tho' R. Johadan was ſo charitable as to think that Manaſſeh had his Part in the other World, yet the Doctors in the Title Sanhedrin (Cap. xi. Sect. 1.) exclude him from any Portion in it, and ſay he was only reſtored to his Kingdom, but not to Life eternal. For this is the Doctrine they there lay down, There were three Kings, and four private Men, who have no Portion in eternal Life: The three Kings are Jeroboam, Ahab, and Manaſſeh; the four private Men, Balaam, Doeg, Ahitophel, and Gehazi.

Gehazi. But they have no Ground for this Sentence pronounced upon Manaſſeh, but the Wickedneſs of his Succeſſor; from whence they argue the Father's Repentance was not ſincere: The Folly of which ſufficiently appears from this Hiſtory of him and his Father Hezekiah.

Ver. 14. Now after this, he built a Wall without the City of David, on the Weſt-ſide of Gihon, in the Valley, even to the entring in at the Fiſh-gate, and compaſſed about Ophel, and raiſed it up a very great Height, and put Captains of War in all the fenced Cities of Judah.] He provided for the Safety of his Kingdom, and in the firſt Place built a Wall for the Defence of Jeruſalem; which ſome think was that which his Father made (c. xxxii. 5.) which he repaired and ſtrengthened, after it had been thrown down, perhaps by the King of Aſſyria's Forces, when they carried him captive. The Fiſh-gate was the Gate where they ſold Fiſh (as the Targum expounds it) which was brought from Joppa. Concerning Ophel, ſee xxvii. 3.

Ver. 15. And he took away the ſtrange Gods, and the Idol out of the Houſe of the LORD, and all the Altars that he had built in the Mount of the Houſe of the LORD, and in Jeruſalem, and caſt them out of the City.] He had profaned the Houſe of the LORD, but had not ſhut up the Doors, as Ahaz did; and therefore he is ſaid only to have purged it from Idols, but not to have opened it, as Jacobus Capellus obſerves. Here particular Notice is taken of the Idol mentioned ver. 7. which confirms what I have noted there.

Ver. 16. And he repaired the Altar of the LORD, and ſacrificed thereon Peace-offerings and Thank-offerings,] For now he was ſenſible there was no other God but the LORD, who had wonderfully delivered him out of Captivity, and reſtored him to his Kingdom, when he implored his Mercy.

And commanded Judah to ſerve the LORD God of Iſrael.] This was a Proof of his true Repentance, that he endeavoured to bring his People back to the Service of God, whom he had miſled (ver. 9.) to the Worſhip of Idols. But as Kimchi notes, he was not able to do ſo much good as he had done miſchief, for the People continued their Inclination to Idolatry, and neglected the Study of the Law of God. For in Joſiah's Reign (which preſently followed) it was Matter of great Surprize that they found the Book of the Law, when they were repairing the Temple; the Copies of it, as the Jews think, having been deſtroyed in the Time of Manaſſeh and Amon. But it is not credible which were preſerved in the Hands of the Ten Tribes, and without which the Church could not have been reform'd.

Ver. 17. Nevertheleſs, the People did ſacrifice ſtill in the High-Places, yet unto the LORD their God only.] This was an Error ſo rooted, that very good Kings could not correct it, ſuch as Aſa and Jehoſhaphat; in whoſe Days the People worſhipped the true God, but in an unlawful Place, as they now did.

Ver. 18. Now the reſt of the Acts of Manaſſeh, and his Prayer unto his God, and the Words of the Seers that ſpake to him, in the Name of the LORD God of Iſrael, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Iſrael.] So Judah is now called, who with Benjamin, were all that were left of the Children of Jacob, who was named Iſrael. But theſe Books here mention'd are not thoſe which we now have, but others that were loſt in the Captivity.

Ver. 19. His Prayer alſo, and how God was entreated of him,] He mentions his Prayer again; becauſe, I ſuppoſe, he made more than one. As if he had ſaid, how he continued to pray till God was entreated of him:

And all his Sin, and his Treſpaſs, and the Places wherein he built High-Places, and ſet up Groves and graven Images, before he was humbled:] This is one of the Places which plainly prove (as I have often noted) that Aſcherim (which we tranſlate Groves) ſignifies not the Groves themſelves, but the Images or Statues which were ſet up in them. For Groves are planted, not ſet up or erected, as it is here ſaid of Manaſſeh, that he ſet up Groves; that is, dedicated and conſecrated, as that Word ſignifies among Greek and Roman Writers. See xxxiv. 1. 2 Kings xiv. 23. Jerem. xvii. 2.

Behold, they are written among the Sayings of the Seers.] Or, of Hoſai, (as we tranſlate it in the Margin) who was a Prophet, it is likely, in thoſe Times, by whom many memorable Things in his Reign were recorded; particularly his Prayer, which he recorded, as Iſaiah did the Prayer of Hezekiah his Father.

Ver. 20. So Manaſſeh ſlept with his Fathers, and they buried him in his own Houſe: and Amon his Son reigned in his Stead.] See 2 Kings xxi. 18. It is likely he left it in his laſt Will, that he would be buried privately, as not worthy to lie by his Anceſtors.

Ver. 21. Amon was two and twenty Years old when he began to reign, and reigned two Years in Jeruſalem.] As the Sons of Jeroboam, and of Baaſha, and of Ahab, reigned two Years and no longer.

Ver. 22. But he did that which was evil in the Sight of the LORD, as did Manaſſeh his Father: for Amon ſacrificed to all the carved Images which Manaſſeh his Father had made, and ſerved them.] See 2 Kings xxi. 20, 21.

Ver. 23. And humbled not himſelf before the LORD, as Manaſſeh his Father had humbled himſelf;] He followed him in his Sin, but not in his Repentance.

But Amon treſpaſſed more and more.] Some of the Jews ſay, that he burnt the Book of the Law: Others, that he lay with his own Mother. But the great Sin which the holy Scriptures charge him with, is his Idolatry, which he more and more introduced, and never repented of it.

Ver. 24. And his Servants conſpired againſt him, and ſlew him in his own Houſe.

Ver. 25. But the People of the Land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt King Amon, and the People of the Land made Joſiah his Son King in his Stead.] Theſe two Verſes are the very ſame with thoſe 2 Kings xxi. 23, 24. See there.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Ver. 1. JOſiah was eight Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem one and thirty Years.

Ver. 2. And he did that which was right in the Sight of the LORD, and walked in the Ways of David his Father, and declined neither to the right Hand nor to the left.] Theſe two Verſes are the ſame with 2 Kings xxii. 1, 2. only there the Name of his Mother is ſet down, which here is omitted.

Ver. 3. For in the eighth Year of his Reign, while he was yet young, he began to ſeek after the God of David his Father:] He gave very early Proofs of his pious Inclinations; for when he was but ſixteen Years old, and had newly taken on him the Adminiſtration of Affairs, he began to worſhip God publickly, and propounded David to himſelf for his Pattern.

And in the twelfth Year he began to purge Judah and Jeruſalem from the high Places, and the Groves, and the carved Images, and the molten Images.] When he was twenty Years old, he begun to bring others to the true Religion, by reforming Abuſes in the Worſhip of God: For now he had got more Authority, and therefore deſtroyed idolatrous Worſhip, which he was inclined to do before, and had it in his Mind when he was a mere Youth. This is not ſo diſtinctly noted in the Book of the Kings, where nothing is recorded of him till what he did in the eighteenth Year of his Reign. And this is the more remarkable, becauſe he began the Reformation here ſpoken of, before Jeremiah begun to propheſy, which was not till the next Year, in the thirteenth of King Joſiah. See Jerem. i. 2.

Ver. 4. And they brake down the Altar of Baalim in his Preſence;] I have elſewhere obſerved that Baalim were Demi-Gods, as Mr. Mede truly calls them.

And the Images that were on high above them he cut down,] The Hebrew Word Chamamim, which we tranſlate Images, as moſt think, hath ſome Relation to the Sun; becauſe it comes from a Word that ſignifies Heat. And Aben-Ezra tranſlates it, Houſes made for the Worſhip of the Sun. The LXX ſometimes tranſlate it, εἴδωλα, ſometimes βδελύγματα, but do not tell us what Idols and Abominations theſe were. Jo. Geuſius thinks it was the Idol called Thammuz, by which Name Oſiris, Jupiter Ammon, or the Sun was underſtood: And indeed the Worſhip of all the Hoſt of Heaven is mentioned together with the Worſhip of Baalim, in the Idolatry which Manaſſeh committed, chap. xxxiii. 3.

And the Groves, and the carved Images, and the molten Images he brake in Pieces,] Here again Aſcherim ſignifies the Idols in the Groves; for the Groves themſelves were not broke in Pieces, but cut down.

And made Duſt of them, and ſtrowed it upon the Graves of them that had ſacrificed unto them.] To declare his Deteſtation of the ſmalleſt Remainders of them.

Ver. 5. And he burnt the Bones of the Prieſts upon their Altars, and cleanſed Judah and Jeruſalem.] Whereby he polluted theſe Altars, and made them abominable, and purged the Nation from their Idolatry, which was very great; for it is likely theſe were not Levitical Prieſts, but Prieſts made by their idolatrous Kings, either of other Nations, or ſuch as they could draw in of their own Nation (after the Manner of Jeroboam) to officiate to their ſtrange Gods.

Ver. 6. And ſo did he in the Cities of Manaſſeh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali,] Tho' Salmanaſſar had carried away the main Body of the ten Tribes from their own Land, yet there remained a great many of the poor People behind, as appears from this Place, and from ver. 9, 33.

With their Mattocks round about.] Some tranſlate it Mauls, others Forks, or ſuch like Inſtruments.

Ver. 7. And when he had broken down the Altars and the Groves, and had beaten the graven Images into Powder, and cut down all the Idols throughout all the Land of Iſrael, he returned to Jeruſalem.] For it appears by the Book of the Kings more fully, that he went himſelf in Perſon thro' the whole Country to ſee this Work done, which otherwiſe might have been performed negligently.

Ver. 8. Now in the eighteenth Year of his Reign,] When he was twenty ſix Years old he proceeded further, having diſpoſed the People to offer freely toward the Reparation of the Houſe of God, as it here follows.

When he had purged the Land and the Houſe,] That is, the Houſe of God.

He ſent Shaphan the Son of Azaliah, and Maaſeiah the Governor of the City, and Joah the Son of Joahaz the Recorder, to repair the Houſe of the LORD his God.] Here is a more perfect Narrative of the Reparation of the Temple than was given in the Book of the Kings, where only Shaphan is mentioned, as ſent to Hilkiah; but here two other Men of great Authority are joined with him, and ordered to ſee the Work ſet forward.

Ver. 9. And when they came to Hilkiah the High Prieſt, they delivered the Money that was brought into the Houſe of God, which the Levites that kept the Doors had gathered of the Hand of Manaſſeh and Ephraim, and of all the Remnant of Iſrael, and of all Judah and Benjamin, and they returned to Jeruſalem.] Theſe laſt Words import, that theſe Levites (having received what was given at the Door of the Tabernacle which they kept) travelled all the Country over, to collect what Money they could gather from well diſpoſed People, who contributed to this Work; which Money the three fore-named Perſons received from them when they returned to Jeruſalem: And beſides this, Shaphan alone ſeems to have been ſent to Hilkiah, to ſum up the Money that had been offered at the Temple for this Uſe, 2 Kings xxii. 4.

Ver. 10. And they put it in the Hand of the Workmen, that had the Overſight of the Houſe of the LORD,] Who were appointed to take Care of the Work, and to ſee it done.

And they gave it to the Workmen that wrought in the Houſe of the LORD, to repair and mend the Houſe.] The Overſeers gave it to the Artificers mentioned in the next Verſe, who were to buy Materials, and employ them in the Reparation.

Ver. 11. Even to the Artificers and Builders gave they it, to buy hewn Stone and Timber for Couplings, and to floor the Houſes which the Kings of Judah had deſtroyed.] It ſeems both the Outſide and Inſide, the Floor and the Roof, were run to Ruin by long Neglect, ſince the Days of Joaſh, when the Temple was laſt repaired:

Which

Which the Jews (in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. xxiv.) make account was two hundred and eighteen Years.

Ver. 12. And the Men did the Work faithfully:] So that no Account was taken of them.

And the Overſeers of them were Jahath, and Obadiah the Levites, of the Sons of Merari; and Zechariah, and Meſhullam, of the Sons of the Kohathites, to ſet it forward; and other of the Levites, all that could ſkill of Inſtruments of Muſick.] That is, all thoſe were well ſkilled in Muſick, and performed their Part in the Service of the Temple; which is here mentioned to ſignify that the principal Levites were ſet over this Work, to ſee it well done.

Ver. 13. Alſo they were over the Bearers of Burdens, and were Overſeers of all that wrought the Work in any manner of Service:] There being great Numbers of them, they might well inſpect every Perſon that was employed in this Work.

And of the Levites there were Scribes, and Officers, and Porters.] Theſe Overſeers were deputed to ſeveral Employments; for which none ſo fit as the Levites, who underſtood all manner of Things belonging to the Houſe of God, being to do conſtant Service there.

Ver. 14. And when they brought out the Money that was brought into the Houſe of the LORD,] And thereupon had begun the Reparation of the Houſe.

Hilkiah the Prieſt found a Book of the Law of the LORD given by Moſes.] The Word given is not in the Hebrew: Which muſt be applied not to the Book, but to the Law of the LORD given by Moſes. For we cannot certainly from hence conclude, that this was the very authentick Book, which Moſes laid up by the Ark. See 2 Kings xxii. 8. becauſe in the Hebrew it is ſaid the Book of the Law of the LORD by the Hand of Moſes: Which doth not ſignify, the Book was written by his own Hand, but that the Law therein contained was delivered to the People by the Miniſtry of Moſes: So the Phraſe, by the Hand, is uſed in very many Places, Exod. xxxv. 29. Levit. x. 11. xxvi. 45. Numb. iv. 37, 45, &c. See 2 Kings xviii. 8. and in this Book, xxxv. 6.

Ver. 15. And Hilkiah anſwered and ſaid to Shaphan the Scribe, I have found the Book of the Law in the Houſe of the LORD. And Hilkiah delivered the Book to Shaphan.] Who read it, 2 Kings xxii. 9.

Ver. 16. And Shaphan carried the Book to the King, and brought the King word back again, ſaying, All that was committed to thy Servants, they do it.] When he came to give an Account to the King, how he had executed his Command, (v. 8, 9, &c.) he delivered the Book to him.

Ver. 17. And they have gathered together the Money that was found in the Houſe of the LORD, and have delivered it into the Hand of the Overſeers, and to the Hand of the Workmen.] See 2 Kings xxii. 9.

Ver. 18. Then Shaphan the Scribe told the King, ſaying, Hilkiah the Prieſt hath given me a Book. And Shaphan read it before the King.

Ver. 19. And it came to paſs, when the King had heard the Words of the Law, that he rent his Clothes.] Theſe two Verſes are Word for Word in 2 Kings xxii. 10, 11. where I have explained them. I ſhall only here add, That Jacobus Capellus thinks, the reading of the Law, on every Sabbath and Feſtival, (which was divided for that Purpoſe, into ſeveral Sections) was as old as the Time of Joſhua; but was neglected in the Reign of wicked Kings, particularly in that of Ahaz. If it were again reſtored by Hezekiah, (which is uncertain) it was again aboliſhed by Manaſſeh; and perhaps not renewed when he repented; howſoever, diſcontinued again by Amon: So that both Prieſts and People omitting the reading of the Law, both publickly and privately, (for the publick Omiſſion cauſed a private Neglect) no Wonder, that upon finding the Book of the Law, and hearing it read, they were ſtartled at it, as if one were riſen from the Dead. Hiſtoria ſacra & exotica, ad Annum Mundi 3372.

Ver. 20. And the King commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam, the Son of Shaphan, and Abdon, the Son of Micah, and Shaphan the Scribe, and Aſaiah, a Servant of the King's, ſaying,] He that is called here Abdon, is in 2 Kings xxii. 12. called Achbor; otherwiſe there is no Difference between this Verſe and that.

Ver. 21. Go, enquire of the LORD for me, and for them that are left in Iſrael, and in Judah, concerning the Words of the Book that is found: for great is the Wrath of the LORD that is poured out upon us, becauſe our Fathers have not kept the Word of the LORD, to do after all that is written in this Book.

Ver. 22. And Hilkiah, and they that the King had appointed, went to Huldah the Propheteſs, the Wife of Shallum, the Son of Tikvath, the Son of Haſrah, Keeper of the Ward-robe (now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem, in the College) and they ſpake to her to that Effect.

Ver. 23. And ſhe anſwered them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Tell ye the Man that ſent you to me,

Ver. 24. Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring Evil upon this Place, and upon the Inhabitants thereof, even all the Curſes that are written in the Book which they have read before the King of Judah:

Ver. 25. Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burned Incenſe unto other Gods, that they might provoke me to Anger with all the Works of their Hands; therefore my Wrath ſhall be poured out upon this Place, and ſhall not be quenched.

Ver. 26. And as for the King of Judah, who ſent you to enquire of the LORD, ſo ſhall ye ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, concerning the Words which thou haſt heard,

Ver. 27. Becauſe thine Heart was tender, and thou didſt humble thyſelf before God, when thou heardeſt his Words againſt this Place, and againſt the Inhabitants thereof, and humbledſt thyſelf before me, and didſt rend thy Clothes, and weep before me; I have even heard thee alſo, ſaith the LORD.

Ver. 28. Behold, I will gather thee to thy Fathers, and thou ſhalt be gathered to thy Grave in Peace, neither ſhall thine Eyes ſee all the Evil that I will bring upon this Place, and upon the Inhabitants of the ſame. So they brought the King Word again.

There is little Difference in the Words between theſe Verſes, and 2 Kings xxii. 14, 15, &c. and none in the Senſe: He that is called there Harhas, is here called Haſrah, (ſome pronouncing his Name one Way, and ſome another.) And the Targum tranſlate thoſe Words, v. 27.

Thou didſt humble thyſelf before God, &c. in this Manner: Thou didſt humble thyſelf before the WORD of the LORD, when thou didſt hear his Words againſt this Place; which plainly ſuppoſe the WORD to be a Divine Perſon, who ſpake to Moſes, and gave him the Law.

Ver. 29. Then the King ſent and gathered together all the Elders of Judah and Jeruſalem.] See 2 Kings xxiii. 1.

Ver. 30. And the King went up into the Houſe of the LORD, and all the Men of Judah, and the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and the Prieſts and the Levites,] In 2 Kings xxiii. 2. it is ſaid, the Prieſts and the Prophets went up: The Levites are omitted there, as the Prophets are omitted here; but both make up a compleat Narrative of the Perſons that went up to the Houſe of the LORD; for among the Prieſts and Levites there were ſome Prophets, ſuch as Jeremiah, Zephaniah, and others.

And all the People, Great and Small: and he read in their Ears all the Words of the Book of the Covenant, that was found in the Houſe of the LORD.] One cannot think that Joſiah, and all the Nation, were wholly Strangers to the Words contained in this Book, (tho' perhaps they ſeldom had read it) who conſiders, that Jeremiah and other Prophets were now living, who were very converſant in this Book, and inſtructed the People out of it; but they did not ſufficiently attend to the Words of it, and therefore Joſiah gathered a ſolemn Aſſembly on Purpoſe, that they might hear it read, and be moved to obſerve that which moſt affected him: But it is not to be ſuppoſed, that the whole Book was all read at one Time, but by Parcels at ſeveral Times, that they might conſider and weigh it: Eſpecially that Paſſage in Deut. xxviii. 38. where Moſes foretold the Captivity of Samaria, and afterwards of Judah and their King; which Kimchi thinks, Hilkiah might bid Shaphan take ſpecial notice of and read it to the King; which, (if it be true) no Doubt, he remarked to the People, that, if it were poſſible, they might be brought to Repentance, and prevent the great Calamities, which were threatned to them.

Ver. 31. And the King ſtood in his Place, and made a Covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his Commandments, and his Teſtimonies, and his Statutes, with all his Heart, and with all his Soul, to perform the Words of the Covenant which are written in this Book.] See 2 Kings xxiii. 3.

Ver. 32. And he cauſed all that were preſent in Jeruſalem and Benjamin to ſtand to it. And the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem did according to the Covenant of God, the God of their Fathers.] He did not compel them, but they offered themſelves freely, upon his Perſuaſion, to renew their Covenant with God; and promiſed to be firm to it: Which, perhaps, at that Time they really reſolved, tho' they ſoon revolted.

Ver. 33. And Joſiah took away all the Abominations out of all the Countries that pertained to the Children of Iſrael,] This is more largely related in 2 Kings xxiii. 4, 5, 6. and the following Verſes.

And made all that were preſent in Iſrael to ſerve, even to ſerve the LORD their God.] He perſuaded them to perform all Acts of religious Worſhip unto God, and unto none elſe.

And all his Days they departed not from following the LORD, the God of their Fathers.] But tho' he ſuppreſſed all external Idolatry, yet in their Hearts they ſtrongly inclined to it, and often practiſed it; as appears from Jer. iii. 10. xxv. 3, 4, &c.

CHAP. XXXV.

Ver. 1. MOreover, Joſiah kept a Paſſover unto the LORD in Jeruſalem:] This was in the eighteenth Year of his Reign, immediately after he had made a glorious Reformation, by aboliſhing all Idolatry: And accordingly it is related next to that in 2 Kings xxiii. 21, 22, 23. but very briefly, as the other is very largely.

And they killed the Paſſover on the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month.] At the Time preſcribed by the Law, Exod. xii. 6. For there was no Need, it ſeems, to adjourn it till the ſecond Month, as they did in the Days of Hezekiah.

Ver. 2. And he ſet the Prieſts in their Charges, and encouraged them to the Service of the Houſe of the LORD,] To do their Duty in their ſeveral Places, ſo that nothing might be omitted, which was requir'd to be done at this great Feſtival.

Ver. 3. And ſaid unto the Levites that taught all Iſrael which were holy unto the LORD,] That is, the Levites were holy unto the LORD; and therefore may be rendered, and were holy, &c. i. e. peculiarly dedicated to this Service of miniſtering to the Prieſts, and inſtructing the People.

Put the holy Ark in the Houſe, which Solomon the Son of David, King of Iſrael, did build;] Jarchi thinks, that Manaſſeh, or his Son Amon, had removed the Ark from its Place, as other enormous Things had been done by ſuch wicked Kings, 2 Kings xvi. 14. and xxviii. 24. of this Book, which may give a more probable Senſe of thoſe Words, xxxiii. 23. that Amon treſpaſſed more and more, than that which ſome of the Jews mention: For it was a great Addition to his Sin, if he diſplaced the Ark. Other Jews indeed interpret it after another Manner, and make a Fable out of theſe Words, as Conſt. L'Empereur obſerves upon Codex Middoth, pag. 97. and Dr. Lightfoot, of the Temple, pag. 91. But nothing is more natural than to think, that Hilkiah himſelf had removed the Ark, while the Temple was repairing, there being Defects in the moſt holy Place as well as other Parts of it: And it was not fit to let the Ark be expoſed to the Workmen. Yet Jacobus Capellus thinks it better to ſay the Word Tenu ought not to be tranſlated, put, but keep, or look after the Ark in the Houſe which Solomon built: For now, that they were eaſed of carrying it on their Shoulders, they ought to employ themſelves more carefully in all other Offices about it; ad Annum Mundi 3374.

It ſhall not be a Burden upon your Shoulders:] That is, hereafter; for they were to carry it to a ſettled Place, there to remain; and then they would be obliged no further to bear it on their Shoulders, as they had done before it was fixed in the Temple.

Serve now the LORD your God, and his People Iſrael,] Serve God in Singing, and Playing upon Inſtruments, when the Sacrifices of God's People are offered, and you ſhall be excuſed from your former Burdens.

Ver. 4. And prepare yourſelves by the Houſes of your Fathers, after your Courſes, according to the Writing of David, King of Iſrael,] See 1 Chron. xxiii. and xxiv. and the following Chapters.

And according to the Writing of Solomon his Son.] See 2 Chron. viii. 14.

Ver. 5. And ſtand in the holy Place] In the Court of the Prieſts, where they were wont to ſtand, when they miniſtred unto God.

According to the Diviſions of the Families of the Fathers of your Brethren the People,] Who were to bring for every Family a Lamb, as Moſes commanded, Exod. xii. 3.

And after the Diviſion of the Families of the Levites.] Who were appointed to kill the Lamb for them.

Ver. 6. So kill the Paſſover, and ſanctify your ſelves, and prepare your Brethren,] That they might be capable to eat of it.

That they may do according to the Word of the LORD, by the Hand of Moſes.] Who commanded it to be eaten in one Houſe, Exod. xii. 46. He ſeems to require, that as the reſt of the Tribes came according to their Families, into which they were divided; ſo the Levites would give them a good Example, and come according to their Families.

Ver. 7. And Joſiah gave to the People of the Flock, Lambs and Kids,] For the Lamb might be taken either from the Sheep, or from the Goats, Exod. xii. 5.

All for the Paſſover-offerings, for all that were preſent, to the Number of thirty thouſand,] That the People might be at no Charge; at leaſt thirty thouſand Families were provided for at the King's Charge.

And three thouſand Bullocks: theſe were of the King's Subſtance.] Theſe Bullocks were for Offerings upon the ſeven Days of unleavened Bread, which followed the Paſſover.

Ver. 8. And his Princes gave willingly unto the People, to the Prieſts, and to the Levites:] As Joſiah provided Paſchal Lambs for the People, ſo ſome great Men provided not only for them, but for the Prieſts and the Levites; that they alſo might offer without Charge.

Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel,] It appears by theſe Words, that the Princes here mentioned, were not Rulers of the People, but the Chief of the Prieſts: For Hilkiah was the High-Prieſt; and the other two were the Heads of the two great Families of the Prieſts, Eleazar and Ithamar; who are called the Captains of the Hoſt, as I obſerved upon 1 Chron. xxv. 1. See my Annotations there. This is a little more largely and diſtinctly expreſſed by Bertram, in his Republica Judaica, Cap. xv. where he ſaith, Zechariah was the Chief among the ſecond Prieſts of the Race of Eleazar, who was properly called Nagid, the Captain of the Temple; as Jehiel was the moſt illuſtrious Perſon among the ſecond Prieſts, who were the Progeny of Ithamar, and was properly called Pakid; and was ſet over the Gerſhonites and Merarites, as Zechariah was over the Kohathites.

Rulers of the Houſe of God,] Who were the ſame with thoſe who in the New Teſtament are called the ἡγούμενοι of the Temple; who governed the reſt of the Prieſts. So Bertam, de Republica Judaica, p. 296, 300.

Gave unto the Prieſts for the Paſſover-offerings, two thouſand and ſix hundred ſmall Cattle,] That is, Lambs and Kids.

And three hundred Oxen.] That through the whole Feſtival they might be able to rejoice with their Brethren.

Ver. 9. Conaniah alſo, and Shemaiah, and Nethaneel, his Brethren, and Haſhabiah, and Jeiel, and Jozabad, Chief of the Levites,] Who were Men of Eſtates, as well as in great Offices among their Brethren.

Gave unto the Levites for Paſſover-offerings, five thouſand ſmall Cattle, and five hundred Oxen.] That they might be provided for, as well as the Prieſts, to make it a Time of univerſal Joy.

Ver. 10. So the Service was prepared, and the Prieſts ſtood in their Place, and the Levites in their Courſes, according to the King's Commandment.] All Things were diſpoſed for the offering the Paſchal Sacrifice; the Prieſts ſtanding in their Place, and the Levites attending them.

Ver. 11. And they killed the Paſſover,] That is, the Levites killed the Lamb, and gave the Blood to the Prieſts.

And the Prieſts ſprinkled the Blood from their Hands,] For they alone could perform this Part of the Service.

And the Levites flayed them.] That the Prieſts might have nothing to do, but to ſprinkle the Blood of every one of them; which took up a great deal of Time. See xxix. 34.

Ver. 12. And they removed the Burnt-offerings, that they might give according to the Diviſions of the Families of the People, to offer unto the LORD, as it is written in the Book of Moſes:] It ſeems, ſome of the Lambs were given by Joſiah for Burnt-offerings; and theſe they diſpatched as faſt as they could, that they might give the Paſchal Lamb to every Family according to their Diviſions, after it had been offered to the LORD: For this was the principal Offering upon this Day.

And ſo they did with the Oxen.] All of which were not given for Peace-offerings, but ſome for Burnt-offerings; which they alſo offered as faſt as they could, that they might not hinder the Paſchal Lamb from being offered.

Ver. 13. And they roaſted the Paſſover with Fire, according to the Ordinance:] See Exodus xii. 8, 9.

But the other holy Offerings ſod they in Pots, and in Caldrons, and in Pans,] Tho' the Paſchal Lamb was to be roaſted; yet the other Euchariſtical Sacrifices, which attended it, (as the Targum expounds it) might be boiled in Water.

And divided them ſpeedily among all the People.] Gave every one of the People a Portion of the Oxen, that were offered for Peace-offerings; and did it ſo ſpeedily, that they had

 Time

Time to take Care of themſelves, as it here follows.

Ver. 14. And afterwards they made ready for themſelves, and for the Prieſts: Becauſe the Prieſts the Sons of Aaron were buſied in offering Burnt-offerings and the Fat until Night; therefore the Levites prepared for themſelves, and for the Prieſts the Sons of Aaron.] This is a great Inſtance of the Zeal and Diligence of the Prieſts, for whom the principal Perſons among them had made a large Proviſion; but they did not eat of the Paſchal Lamb, nor of the Peace-offerings till Night, being employed in offering Burnt-ſacrifices, and burning the Fat till that Time; againſt which the Levites prepared for them and for themſelves.

Ver. 15. And the Singers the Sons of Aſaph were in their Place, according to the Commandment of David, and Aſaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the King's Seer; and the Porters waited at every Gate, they might not depart from their Service, for their Brethren the Levites prepared for them.] This ſeems to import, that the Singing and Muſick continued till all the Sacrifices were offered, that is, till Night; and none were ſuffered to depart from the Service, the Porters ſtanding at every Gate to hinder them, if they attempted it. And their Brethren, who were not Singers, took Care to provide for them their Portion, when they had done.

Ver. 16. So all the Service of the LORD was prepared the ſame Day to keep the Paſſover, and to offer Burnt-offerings upon the Altar of the LORD, according to the Commandment of King Joſiah.

Ver. 17. And the Children of Iſrael that were preſent, kept the Paſſover at that Time, and the Feaſt of unleavened Bread ſeven Days.] Theſe two Verſes are a ſummary Account of what went before, that the whole Solemnity was performed in every Part of it, according to the King's Direction.

Ver. 18. And there was no Paſſover like to that kept in Iſrael from the Days of Samuel the Prophet,] We do not read in the Book of Samuel of any Paſſover kept in his Days; therefore the Book wherein this was recorded is loſt, as many other Books of the Prophets are.

Neither did all the Kings of Iſrael keep ſuch a Paſſover as Joſiah kept, and the Prieſts and the Levites, and all Judah and Iſrael that were preſent, and the Inhabitauts of Jeruſalem.] The laſt Clauſe ſhews wherein his Paſſover went beyond all other. David and Solomon were greater Kings than he, and in ſeveral Reſpects kept greater Feſtivals; the Number of People, while the Ten Tribes were united to the other two, being greater, and the Multitude of Sacrifices alſo greater; but in this Joſiah excelled them all, that being nothing ſo rich, he was notwithſtanding ſo liberal, as to provide all the Sacrifices for the Prieſts, the Levites, and the People, at this Feaſt.

Ver. 19. In the eighteenth Year of the Reign of Joſiah was this Paſſover kept.] In the ſame Year wherein he repaired the Houſe of God, and the Book of the Law was found and brought to him; which, it is likely, put him in mind of this Duty, ch. xxxiv. 8.

Ver. 20. After all this, when Joſiah had prepared the Temple,] Some time after the Temple was repaired, and made fit for the Service of God, and they expected great Happineſs to enſue ſuch pious Works, there was an unexpected Change: Which is here noted, to teach us not to be confident, nor raſhly enterprize any thing, remembring the Viciſſitude of all earthly Things.

Necho King of Egypt] Whom the Targum calls Pharaoh the Lame, and ſo Kimchi, who ſaith he was lame in his Feet, and thence called by the Name of Claudus, as the Romans would have expreſſed it; who, from the like Diſpoſition of their Bodies, gave Names to their Emperors; ſuch as Craſſus, Barbaroſa, and others, as Beckius obſerves. This Lameneſs proceeded from ſome Wound he had received, for Necho ſignifies wounded.

Came up to fight againſt Carchemiſh by Euphrates:] The City Carcuſium ſtood upon that River, and belonged to the Aſſyrians, with whoſe King Necho came to fight, 2 Kings xxiii. 29.

And Joſiah went out againſt him.] See what I have noted there; unto which I ſhall here add, that by this it ſeems probable Joſiah was in Friendſhip with the King of Aſſyria, to whoſe Aſſiſtance he ſeems to have voluntarily gone with his Forces, by giving a Diverſion to the Egyptians. Certain it is, the Aſſyrian Empire was not yet fallen, for in Joſiah's Days the Prophet Zephaniah foretels the Deſtruction of Nineveh, ch. ii. 13, &c. Now Joſiah reigned in the Time of Cyaxarus King of the Medes, by whom Nineveh was deſtroyed, as Herodotus tells us. But it was then in a flouriſhing Condition, for Phraortis, the Predeceſſor of Cyaxarus, not contented with the Kingdom of the Medes, but invading the Aſſyrians, after he had ſubdued the Perſians, was defeated, and loſt a vaſt Army before Nineveh: Which Hermannus Conringius thinks might poſſibly move Joſiah to court the King of Aſſyria's Favour, by oppoſing himſelf to the King of Egypt, when he came to invade him. But a moſt judicious Perſon in this Kind of Learning (whom I have oft conſulted) thinks this all wrong; and that tho' Nineveh was not yet deſtroyed, yet the Empire was, in the eighteenth Year of Joſiah; from which ſome Governor got ſome little Part, and kept Nineveh till it was deſtroyed by Nabopollaſſar, in the firſt Year of his Reign. Therefore I ſhould have ſaid Joſiah was a Friend of the King of Babylon, rather than of the King of Aſſyria. But I muſt leave thoſe that are better ſkilled than I am in theſe Matters to judge of them.

Ver. 21. But he ſent Embaſſadors to him, ſaying, What have I to do with thee thou King of Judah? I come not againſt thee this Day, but againſt the Houſe wherewith I have War:] He had no Controverſy with him, and therefore prays him not to meddle in this War.

For God commanded me to make haſte:] And therefore deſires him not to give him any Stop in his Expedition. Some think he only pretended this, becauſe he knew Joſiah had a great Reverence to God, and in Obedience to him, might desist from his Purpose: And the Targum, with some of the Jews, think he calls his own Idol by the Name of God; tho' Kimchi thinks he speaks of the true God, who perhaps admonished him in a Dream, as he did Abimelech, or sent him such a Message by the Prophet Jeremiah (as Grotius supposes) many of whose Prophecies are directed to foreign Nations. Or, perhaps he meant, that he felt a strong Impulse unto this Undertaking, which he took to be from God.

Forbear thee from meddling with God, who is with me, that he destroy thee not.] Of which there was great Danger, if he opposed the divine Command.

Ver. 22. Nevertheless Josiah would not turn his Face from him, but disguised himself that he might fight with him,] And not be known to be the King of Judah.

And hearkened not unto the Words of Necho from the Mouth of God,] The Targum thinks that Josiah regarded not what Necho said, because he thought he spake only from his Idol, for he could not imagine that the God of Israel had spoken to him. But these Words import the contrary, and therefore Josiah should at least have enquired of God, whether it was his Mind that he should not oppose Necho.

And came to fight in the Valley of Megiddo.] A Place in the Tribe of Manasseh, Josh. xvii. 11. So that Josiah may seem to have come against him, because he passed thro' his Country without his Leave: But I rather think, as I said before, he was in the Interests of the King of Assyria. I observ'd upon 2 Kings xxiii. 29. that Herodotus tells the same Story, but mistakes the Name of Megiddo, and calls it Magdolim; which was a great City in Egypt, better known to him than the Cities in Syria or Phœnicia. He also adds, that after this Battle the King of Egypt took the great City in Syria called Cadytus; which Herm. Conringius thinks was the Name of Jerusalem among the old Egyptians: Adversaria Chronolog. Cap. xv. I think Jacobus Capellus hath well observed (in his Hist. sacra & exotica) that the Egyptians being a vain People, concealed from Herodotus, when he came to consult the Affairs of their Country, many Things that were true, and imposed upon his Belief many Things that were false. For Example, they did not tell him a Word of the Victory which Nebuchadnezzar got over Pharaoh Necho at Euphrates; but gloried in this Victory over the Syrians; ad A. Mundi 3425.

Ver. 23. And the Archers shot at King Josiah; and the King said to his Servants, have me away, for I am sore wounded.] His Disguise did not secure him; for still he appeared, I suppose, as a great Commander, at whom the Enemy would sooner aim than at common Men.

Ver. 24. His Servants therefore took him out of that Chariot, and put him in the second Chariot that he had;] As all great Captains have led Horses, that if one fail they may mount another (which was the Custom in Wars in ancient Time, as Bochart shews in his Hieroz. P. i. Cap. 2 & 9.) so when they fought in Chariots they had an empty one following them, into which they might go if the other proved unserviceable or inconvenient.

And they brought him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in one of the Sepulchres of his Fathers: And all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah.] After the Example of the Prophet Jeremiah: For as bad as they shewed themselves afterward to be, they had some Sense of the great Worth of this Prince.

Ver. 25. And Jeremiah lamented for Josiah, and all the singing Men and singing Women spake of Josiah in their Lamentations to this Day,] Whensoever they bewailed any Calamity, they mentioned that as the greatest that had befallen them.

And made them an Ordinance in Israel:] That they should never forget this fatal Stroke, after which they never saw good Days. This Statute was made by the supreme Authority, and was approved by the Prophet Jeremiah, who joined in this Lamentation; which warrants Christian Kings and Princes to appoint Days for the yearly Commemoration of great Calamities, or great Deliverances.

And behold they are written in the Lamentations.] Josephus, in his tenth Book of the Antiquities of the Jews, Chap. vi. imagines the Book of the Lamentations of Jeremiah, which now remains in the Bible, contains the mournful Ditties sung at Josiah's Funeral, and in After-times; which Opinion S. Hierom follows; at least in those Words, Lament. iv. 20. R. Solomon thinks Josiah was bewailed; but it is manifest all this is a Mistake, for that Book was written after the Destruction of Jerusalem, which is lamented in it, and the Words now mentioned plainly relate to Zedekiah, not to Josiah; who was not taken but killed. Therefore the Lamentations here mentioned are lost, which were written immediately after Josiah was slain.

Ver. 26. Now the rest of the Acts of Josiah, and his Goodness, &c.] That is, his Piety, or (as we translate it in the Margin) his Kindnesses, that is, his great Love to his People, of which there are great Instances in the foregoing Part of this History.

According to that which was written in the Law of the LORD,] Which he made his Rule in all that he did.

Ver. 27. And his Deeds first and last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.] It seems the Israelites, who were left in the Land of Samaria, continued to keep Records of what was done in the Land of Judah itself.

CHAP. XXXVI.

Ver. 1. THen the People of the Land took Jehoahaz the Son of Josiah, and made him King in his Father's stead in Jerusalem.] Not by Right of Succession, but by a Faction of the People.

Ver. 2. Jehoahaz was twenty and three Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three Months in Jerusalem.] See 2 Kings xxiii. 30, 31.

Ver. 3. And the King of Egypt put him down at Jerusalem, and condemned the Land in an hundred Talents of Silver, and a Talent of Gold.] He heard, it is possible, that he meditated Revenge for the Death of his Father, and therefore deposed him; and also set a great Fine upon upon the People who joined with him. See 2 Kings xxiii. 33.

Ver. 4. And the King of Egypt made Eliakim his Brother King over Judah and Jeruſalem, and turned his Name to Jehoiakim.] As a Mark he was made King by him, and owed his Dignity to his Favour. So Pharaoh changed the Name of Joſeph; and Nebuchadnezzar, the Names of Daniel and his three Companions.

And Necho took Jehoahaz his Brother, and carried him to Egypt.] See 2 Kings xxii. 24.

Ver. 5. Jehoiakim was twenty and five Years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven Years in Jeruſalem: And he did that which was evil in the Sight of the LORD his God.] See 2 Kings xxiii. 36, 37.

Ver. 6. Againſt him came up Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon,] The firſt Words, againſt him, are emphatical; for when he came up before, he did not come up properly againſt Jeruſalem, but againſt Pharaoh Necho; and therefore it is ſaid, not that he came up againſt that City, but merely that he came up into the Land, Jerem. xxxv. 11. when he made Jehoiakim his Servant three Years. So that this Coming up had no other Effect but to make him tributary to Nebuchadnezzar.

And bound him in Fetters to carry him to Babylon.] See 2 Kings xxiv. 1, &c. The Targum expounds it, he put brazen Chains upon his Hands and Fetters upon his Legs. But he did not carry him to Babylon, for Nebuchadnezzar altered his Mind, and permitted him to reign at Jeruſalem as his Tributary; tho' he carried away, as it follows, ſome of the Veſſels of the Temple, and alſo certain choice Perſons, as we read in the firſt of Daniel.

Ver. 7. Nebuchadnezzar alſo carried of the Veſſels of the Houſe of the LORD to Babylon, and put them in his Temple at Babylon.] He carried away a great many in the next King's Reign (2 Kings xxiv. 13, 14.) but it ſeems he begun to do it in this. And they were ſo hardened, as to believe thoſe falſe Prophets, who aſſured them theſe Veſſels ſhould ſhortly be brought again from Babylon, and give no Credit to Jeremiah, who told them they propheſied a Lie: For theſe Veſſels ſhould be ſo far from being brought from Babylon, that all the remaining Veſſels ſhould be carried after them, and there be till the Day when God viſited them. See Jerem. xxvii. 16, 17, 21, 22.

Ver. 8. Now the reſt of the Acts of Jehoiakim, and his Abominations which he did, and that which was found in him, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Iſrael and Judah.] There was a Book, it is likely, that had this Title; but what was ſaid there to be found of him, is not here mentioned. The Targum ſaith, the Iniquity that was found in him. But what was that Iniquity? To this they anſwer in the Talmud, that he had the Name of an Idol in his Forehead: Or, as others ſay, there were found in his Body certain Marks and Impreſſions in Honour of Idols. So St. Hierom, He had made thoſe Marks in his Body, which God had forbidden in Levit. xix. 28. See our learned Dr. Spencer, L. ii. De Leg. & Ritibus Hebr. Cap. xiv. Sect. 2. But there are thoſe that think it is meant of the innocent Blood that he ſhed, 2 Kings xxiv. 4. But that was the Sin of Manaſſeh; therefore the plaineſt Meaning is, that he was found guilty of diſloyal Intentions againſt the King of Babylon, which he concealed a great while, but at laſt they were diſcovered, 2 Kings xxiv. 1.

And Jehoiachin his Son reigned in his ſtead.

Ver. 9. Jehoiachin was eight Years old when he began to reign,] In 2 Kings xxiv. 8. it is ſaid, that he was eighteen Years old when he began to reign. See my Annotations on that Place: Unto which may be added, that Abarbinel thinks there is no Difference between theſe two Places; but that the Word for eight is governed by another that is wanting, ſignifying ten. But the common Solution is, that when his Father had reigned one Year, he made his Son joint Sovereign with him, that the People might be ſettled in their Affection to him, before he left the Throne; which was ten Years after. So long he reigned with his Father, and eight Years alone, which made eighteen Years in all. See Buxtorf in his Vindiciæ Hebr. Veritatis, Pars ii. Cap. 2. p. 408. But there are thoſe who take the Meaning to be, that he was eight Years old, when he (that is, his Father) began to reign: Or, as our Primate Uſher thinks, it was the eighth Year, not of his Age, but of the Captivity of Babylon, to which ſome principal Perſons were obnoxious; Chronologia Sacra, pag. ult. But ſome great Men think here is an Error of the Copiſt, for he was eighteen Years old.

And he reigned three Months and ten Days in Jeruſalem, and he did that which was evil in the Sight of the LORD.] It ſeems Nebuchadnezzar repented of his making him King; being afraid, as Kimchi thinks, that by the evil Counſel of his Courtiers, he would be perſuaded to rebel, after the Example of Jehoiakim. Jacobus Capellus thinks the People ſet him up to be their King, and therefore he reſolved to dethrone him, ſending his Servants againſt him, and then coming himſelf, and taking Jeruſalem. See 2 Kings xxiv. 10, 11.

Ver. 10. And when the Year was expired, King Nebuchadnezzar ſent and brought him to Babylon, with the goodly Veſſels of the Houſe of the LORD, and made Zedekiah his Brother King over Judah and Jeruſalem.] See 2 Kings xxiv. 11, 12. For God had threatened none of Jehoiakim's Seed ſhould ſit upon the Throne of David. They might be ſet upon his Throne, as the ſame Capellus obſerves, but not remain or continue poſſeſſed of it. Sedere enim dicuntur, non tranſitoria, ſed quæ aliquamdiu pedem figunt, ad A. M. 3399.

Ver. 11. Zedekiah was one and twenty Years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven Years in Jeruſalem.] See 2 Kings xxiv. 18.

Ver. 12. And he did that which was evil in the Sight of the LORD his God, and humbled not himſelf before Jeremiah the Prophet, ſpeaking from the Mouth of the LORD.] From the Mouth of the WORD of the LORD, ſaith the Targum: Which ſhews, that by the WORD here he meant a divine Perſon. It is a wonderful Thing, that having ſeen ſo many of the People carried away captive, together with their King Jehoiakim, they ſhould not at all relent; but go on in thoſe Ways which had led others to Deſtruction. But ſo incorrigible were this People, that Ezekiel tells us, they who were carried away captive (among whom he was one) perſiſted in their Rebellion, and were not at all amended. His whole Book is full of Complaints of their Impenitence. And in the thirteenth Chapter he tells us, they ſtill entertained falſe Prophets, (unto whom they hearkened rather than to Ezekiel) who ſaw Viſions of Peace for Jeruſalem, when there was no Peace; as he there ſpeaks, v. 16. that is, made the People believe, Jeruſalem ſhould not be taken; and ſo hardened their Hearts in their obſtinate Wickedneſs.

Ver. 13. And he alſo rebelled againſt King Nebuchadnezzar, who made him ſwear by God:] That he would be true and faithful to him.

But he ſtiffened his Neck, and hardened his Heart from turning unto the LORD God of Iſrael.] His Wickedneſs was ſo great, that God gave him up to commit this further Crime of Perjury, to his utter Ruin, 2 Kings xxiv. 20.

Ver. 14. Moreover, all the chief of the Prieſts and the People tranſgreſſed very much, after all the Abominations of the Heathen, and polluted the Houſe of the LORD, which he had hallowed in Jeruſalem.] There was ſuch an univerſal Corruption and that to ſuch an abominable Height, that there was no Hope of their growing better, they being perfectly ripe for utter Deſtruction.

Ver. 15. And the LORD God of their Fathers ſent to them by his Meſſengers, riſing up betimes, and ſending;] To riſe betimes ſignifies in Scripture to do a Thing with Care, Diligence and Affection: For good Huſbands, eſpecially Fathers of Families (from whom this Expreſſion is borrowed) were wont to get up early to look after their Buſineſs, and to quicken and encourage their Servants to their Duty. Such was the Compaſſion and Care of God for his People, that he gave them ſeaſonable, timely and early Admonitions to their Duty, and Notice of their Danger, before it was too late.

Becauſe he had Compaſſion on his People, and on his Dwelling-place:] To this Compaſſion they owed a Succeſſion of Prophets in every King's Reign, as I have before noted; who moſt earneſtly called upon them to reform. Yet, if they did in a good King's Reign grow ſomething better, they immediately revolted as ſoon as he was dead, and a bad one came in his Place. Such a ſtrange Propenſion they had to Idolatry! Which is the more wonderful, when we conſider, that this Nation, which was ſo prone to Idolatry, when they had ſo many Prophets among them to admoniſh them againſt it, were not at all inclined to it, when they had no more any Prophets to inſtruct them, nor any Miracles wrought among them; that is, after their Return from the Captivity of Babylon, when Prophecy in a little Time ceaſed; and yet they were ſtedfaſt in the Service of God, according to the Law of Moſes. The beſt Account that I am able to give of this, is, that before the Captivity ſufficient Care was not taken for the building of Synagogues for the Teaching of the Law, if there were any at all; for we find no Mention of them in theſe Books; whereas they abounded in every Place after the Captivity; inſomuch that the Jews ſay, there were ſeveral hundreds in Jeruſalem alone, wherein the Law was read and taught; which was a moſt powerful Means to keep them conſtant to the Religion they profeſſed; for, as Joſephus reports, by this Means the People came to be ſo acquainted with their Laws, that if any Perſon aſked any of them concerning them, ῥᾷον ἂν εἴποι πάντα, ἢ τὸνομα τὸ ἑαυτοῦ, He would more readily tell every Thing, than his own Name.

Ver. 16. But they mocked the Meſſengers of God, and deſpiſed his Words, and miſuſed his Prophets,] As the Corruption was univerſal, ſo they were incorrigible; not only rejecting, but deſpiſing, and ſetting at nought the Means of their Cure.

Until the Wrath of the LORD roſe againſt his People, till there was no Remedy.] Till the implacable Wrath of God came upon them; there being no Hope they would repent, and be healed, but they muſt die and periſh.

Ver. 17. Therefore he brought upon them the King of the Chaldees, who ſlew their young Men with the Sword in the Houſe of their Sanctuary,] Unto which, it is likely, they fled for Safety, after the Manner of all Nations, who took their holy Places to be inviolable; but they found no Protection there, the Chaldees being a rough Nation, and having no Regard to them.

And had no Compaſſion upon young Man, or Maiden, old Man, or him that ſtooped for Age: he gave them all into his Hand.] To kill them, or ſell them for Slaves, as he thought good.

Ver. 18. And all the Veſſels of the Houſe of God, great and ſmall,] Which are numbred in the next Book, Ezra i. 9, 10, 11.

And the Treaſures of the Houſe of the LORD, and the Treaſures of the King, and of his Princes; all theſe he brought to Babylon.] The former Treaſures, by a ſpecial Providence of God, were preſerved, and reſtored in the Reign of Cyrus to the Houſe of the LORD; but the other, it is likely, were look'd upon as Spoil, and ſpent by the King and his great Men.

Ver. 19. And they burnt the Houſe of God, and brake down the Wall of Jeruſalem, and burnt all the Palaces thereof with Fire, and deſtroyed all the goodly Veſſels thereof.] 2 Kings xxv. 9, 10. But it is a very abſurd Suppoſition of ſome, who think, that all the ſacred Books were now alſo burnt, and reſtored again by Ezra after the Captivity, out of his Memory. For who can believe, that among all the Prieſts and Prophets too, that were carried captive, none of them ſhould take Care to carry a Bible with them? Jeremiah alſo remaining in the Land, we may be confident was not without it. It is plain alſo, that Daniel had his Prophecy, and the Book of Moſes, in Babylon, Dan. ix. 2, 3. And Joſephus ſays, that Cyrus was ſhewn the Prophecy of Iſaiah, wherein his Name was expreſly mentioned; which ſhews, they had Copies of theſe Books in their Captivity. But this extravagant Fable was brought upon the Stage by the Apocryphal Eſdras, Chap. xiv. and was not known till the Beginning of the third Century, when that Author, half Jew half Chriſtian, lived.

Ver. 20. And them that had eſcaped from the Sword, carried he away to Babylon; where they were Servants to him and his Sons, until the Reign of the Kingdom of Perſia.] Which gave them Liberty to return to their Country. Such was the Law of War in ancient Times; all the People of a City or Country that were conquered, became Slaves to the Conqueror; and appertained to the publick or private Perſons, who had taken them, according to the Laws ſettled in every Nation for the Dividend of the Booty. Thus we find at the Sacking of Troy, all that remained alive, were made Slaves, even Queen Hecuba, and her Daughters. The Greek and Roman Hiſtory are full of ſuch Examples.

Ver. 21. To fulfil the Word of the LORD by the Mouth of Jeremiah, until the Land had enjoyed her Sabbaths: for as long as ſhe lay deſolate, ſhe kept Sabbath,] Becauſe the Jews, among other Precepts, had violated that of letting their Land reſt from ploughing and ſowing every ſeventh Year, God gave their Land a long Sabbath, or Reſt, for no leſs than ten times ſeven Years; which Jeremiah threatened, ch. xxv. 9, 12. & xxix. 10. If it be true, that they had neglected this Law for the Space of four hundred and thirty Years; but had ploughed their Ground, &c. in the ſeventh, as well as in all other Years; then the Judgment of God upon them was very remarkable, in making their Ground reſt and be free from Tillage, juſt as long as it ſhould have been, if they had obſerved his Law: For in the Space of four hundred and thirty Years, there ought to have been ſixty and five Years of Reſt and Intermiſſion. See Gulielmus Vorſtius upon David Ganz his Tzemuch David, p. 212.

To fulfil threeſcore and ten Years.] Theſe Years ended in the firſt or ſecond Year of Cyrus; but when they began is variouſly diſputed. Hermannus Witſius hath lately argued ſtrongly, that it was in the fourth Year of Jehoiakim: For then Jeremiah ſaid, The whole Land ſhall be a Deſolation, and theſe Nations ſhall ſerve the King of Babylon ſeventy Years, ch. xxv. 11. which is further explained, v. 17, 18. Which is the Opinion alſo of Hermannus Conringius in his Adverſaria Chronologica, Cap. xiv. and of Johannes Vorſtius in his Exercitatio ſecunda de Captivitate Babylonica. And thus our Uſher, ad A. Mundi 3394. Tho' other great Men date theſe LXX Years from the Captivity of Zedekiah. See Scaliger de Emend. Temporum, Lib. vi. p. 575.

Ver. 22. Now in the firſt Year of Cyrus King of Perſia, (that the Word of the LORD, ſpoken by the Mouth of Jeremiah, might be accompliſhed,) the LORD ſtirred up the Spirit of Cyrus, King of Perſia, that he made a Proclamation throughout all his Kingdom, and put it alſo in Writing, ſaying,

Ver. 23. Thus ſaith Cyrus, King of Perſia, all the Kingdoms of the Earth hath the LORD God of Heaven given me, and he hath charged me to build him an Houſe in Jeruſalem, which is in Judah; who is there among you of all his People? the LORD his God be with him, and let him go up.] Theſe two Verſes, which conclude this Book, begin the next, where I will explain them; and only take Notice here, that thus the Targum tranſlates this Proclamation: Thus ſaith Cyrus, King of Perſia, all the Kingdoms of this Earth hath the WORD of the LORD God of Heaven delivered unto me; and he commanded me to build him a Sanctuary in Jeruſalem, &c. Which evidently ſhews, this Paraphraſt believed the WORD dwelt in the Sanctuary.

A

BOOK

EZRA.

IT is generally thought by all Sorts of Writers, that Ezra himſelf wrote this Book which bears his Name; and there is the leſs Doubt of it, if he wrote the foregoing Book; for he begins this Book, as that ended, which is an Argument they had the ſame Author; it being an ancient Way of Writing, as Grotius obſerves out of Polybius, who concludes one Book, and begins the next with the ſame Words. But the learned Huetius is of Opinion, that Ezra did not write the firſt ſix Chapters of this Book, but ſome other Perſon: For it is evident they were written in the Time of Darius, when the Author ſpeaks of himſelf as then at Jeruſalem, ch. v. 3, 4, 9. Whereas Ezra went up from Babylon in the Reign of Artaxerxes, ch. vii. 1. and then it is manifeſt wrote the four remaining Chapters, as appears from ch. vii. 27, 28. ch. ix. 5. ch. x. 1. Therefore when the Talmudiſts and other Hebrew Doctors ſay Ezra wrote this Book, they are to be underſtood (he thinks) to ſpeak of the latter Part of it.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. NOW in the firſt Year of Cyrus King of Perſia] This is that famous Cyrus, who an hundred and forty Years before the Temple was deſtroyed, and two hundred Years before he was born, was mentioned by Name in the Prophecy of Iſaiah, as deſigned by God for the reſtoring his People, Iſa. xliv. ult. xlv. 1, 4. Which Prophecy, it is probable, Daniel ſhewed to Cyrus, which made him ſet forth the following Edict; which was not put forth in the firſt Year of his Empire, for then the Jews were not his Subjects, but the firſt Year after his Conqueſt of Babylon, where the Jews then lived in Captivity. See Scaliger, in his Iſagoge, Lib. iii. p. 260. and de Emend. Temporum, Lib. vi. p. 576.

(That

(That the Word of the LORD by the Mouth of Jeremiah the Prophet might be fulfilled)] Who foretold that after ſeventy Years were accompliſhed, the King of Babylon and the Chaldeans ſhould be deſtroyed, and the People of Judah reſtored to their own Land, chap. xxv. 12. xxix. 10.

The LORD ſtirred up the Spirit of Cyrus King of Perſia, that he made a Proclamation throughout all his Kingdom, and put it alſo in Writing, ſaying,] God, who had ſo long ago deſigned him for this Work, ſuggeſted theſe Thoughts to him, and excited him to proſecute them; which he did, not only by cauſing his Will and Pleaſure to be proclaimed, but to be put in Writing, that none might miſtake his Meaning.

Ver. 2. Thus ſaith Cyrus King of Perſia, The LORD God of Heaven] It is an Obſervation of Mr. Mede, that as before the Captivity, when they ſpake of God they called him the LORD of Hoſts; ſo the conſtant Style of the holy Books after the Captivity, is the God of Heaven: As here, and chap. vi. 10. vii. 21. But it is a Queſtion whether Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes penned theſe Writings themſelves, wherein they proclaimed the God of the Jews to be the LORD God of Heaven: Or, whether they were drawn up by ſome of the Jews that attended upon them. It ſeems likely to me, that God, who raiſed up the Spirit of Cyrus to be a peculiar Inſtrument of the freeing his People from Slavery, did enlighten his Mind to underſtand that there was but one only God whom the Jews worſhipped, and who ſpake in thoſe holy Books which were ſhewn him. And Artaxerxes might call the Law of Moſes, the Law of the God of Heaven, knowing the Jews worſhipped no other God, whoſe Law this was.

Hath given me all the Kingdoms of the Earth,] That is, all thoſe large Dominions which the Aſſyrians and Babylonians had enjoyed.

And he hath charged me to build him an Houſe at Jeruſalem, which is in Judah.] So he underſtood from Iſaiah xlv. 13. where God ſaith of Cyrus, He ſhall build my City, of which the Temple was the principal Part: And more plainly, chap. xliv. 28. He ſhall ſay to Jeruſalem, Thou ſhalt be built; and to the Temple, thy Foundation ſhall be laid. Joſephus hath thus paraphraſed upon theſe Words, Ἐπεί με ὁ Θεὸς τῆ οἰκουμένης ἀπέδειξε Βασιλέα, &c. Becauſe the greateſt God hath conſtituted me the King of the World, I believe him to be he whom the People of Iſrael adore. For he foretold me King by his Prophets, and that I ſhould build his Temple at Jeruſalem, in the Land of Judea.

Ver. 3. Who is there among you all of his People, &c.] Not of the Jews only, but of Iſrael alſo, who were under his Government, the Aſſyrians and Medes being his Subjects. And ſo Joſephus (as I obſerv'd before) ſays, that Zerobabel ſent the Edict of Cyrus into Media, to the reſt of the ten Tribes: To whom he not only makes a Promulgation of Liberty to go to their own Country, but deſires them to go, and prays God to be with them, and proſper them in building God's Houſe, whom he acknowledges to be the true and only God. This was a marvellous Encouragement to them.

Ver. 4. And whoſoever remaineth in any Place where he ſojourneth,] This ſeems to relate to ſuch as were deſirous to go up with their Brethren, but were forced to ſtay behind for Want of Neceſſaries to ſupport them in ſo long a Journey.

Let the Men of his Place help him with Silver, and with Gold, and with Goods, and with Beaſts,] He therefore requires his Officers to furniſh them with ſuch Things as they needed.

Beſides the Freewill-offering for the Houſe of God that is in Jeruſalem.] Which he ſuppoſed the richer Sort of Jews would readily make to aſſiſt their poor Brethren; tho' they themſelves being well ſettled in Babylon, did not think fit to ſtir till they ſaw how theſe would ſucceed.

Ver. 5. Then roſe up the Chief of the Fathers of Judah and Benjamin, and the Prieſts and the Levites, with all thoſe whoſe Spirit God had raiſed to go up,] There were ſome of other Tribes beſides Judah and Benjamin that went up (1 Chron. ix. 3.) though theſe were the principal, who all needed a ſpecial Motion from God to quicken and encourage them to this Enterprize; the Difficulties being ſo great which they were to encounter in a long Journey, and their Country lying waſte when they came thither; this made thoſe, who had got Poſſeſſions in Babylon, to chuſe to ſtay there.

To build the Houſe of the LORD which is in Jeruſalem.] This was the Deſign, which People of great Piety chearfully undertook, that the publick Worſhip of the true God might be reſtored, whom they now worſhipped only in private.

Ver. 6. And all they that were about them, ſtrengthned their Hands with Veſſels of Silver, with Gold, with Goods, and with Beaſts, and with precious Things,] Such was the Authority of the King, and ſuch was the Influence of God upon their Hearts, that all their Neighbours encouraged them to this Work, and enabled them to undertake this Journey to Jeruſalem.

Beſides all that was willingly offered.] Their Brethren freely offer'd them their Aſſiſtance, tho' they did not think fit to go along with them.

Ver. 7. Alſo Cyrus the King brought forth the Veſſels of the Houſe of the LORD, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jeruſalem, and had put them in the Houſe of his Gods:] Where by a ſingular Providence they had been preſerved till this Time, being look'd upon as ſacred Things, which Nebuchadnezzar would not turn to his own private Uſe, but dedicated to his Gods. Some think the Ark was among the ſacred Things which Cyrus cauſed to be reſtored; but it ſhould firſt be proved that it was carried away from Jeruſalem to Babylon, which no where appears to be true. The Argument they bring for it is, that in the ſecond Temple Sacrifices were offered as in the firſt, and all ſolemn Days obſerved, eſpecially the great Day of Expiation, when the Law ordained the Blood ſhould be ſprinkled before the Mercy-Seat, which could not be done when there was none; and there was none, if there was no Ark. But as the Jews univerſally acknowledge, this was one of the five Things wanting in the ſecond Temple; ſo, unleſs the divine Glory had been there alſo, the Ark would have ſignified little. Therefore it is more likely, that by the Abſence of theſe, God would ſignify, he was withdrawing his Preſence from that Houſe of Stone, to dwell in the Temple of Chriſt's Body; who offered himſelf to God, and thereby put an End to thoſe figurative Sacrifices.

Ver. 8. Even thoſe did Cyrus, King of Perſia, bring forth by the Hand of Mithredath, the Treaſurer,] This was a Name frequent among the Perſians, derived from their God Mithra; as Cyrus himſelf had his Name (Heſychius ſaith) from the Sun, which in their Language was called Kũ☉.

And numbred them unto Sheſhbazzar the Prince of Judah.] Which was another Name for Zerobabel, mentioned c. iii. 2, 8. and c. v. 14, 16. For it was common in the Time of the Captivity for the great Men of Judah to have two Names: One of their own Country, which was Domeſtick; another of the Chaldæans, which was uſed at Court, Dan. i. 7. Nehemiah had two Names; and this of Sheſhbazzar ſeems to have been a good Omen of their flouriſhing Condition; being compounded of two Words, ſignifying fine Linen and Gold. On the contrary, Zerobabel was a Name importing the Miſery of the People of Iſrael at that Time; for it is as much as an Exile, or Stranger in Babylon, where he was born. Thus pious Men, even in the midſt of the Honours they had at Court, (for Joſephus ſaith, Zerobabel was one of the Guard of the King's Body) were admoniſhed not to forget their Brethren, but ſympathize with them in their Miſeries.

Ver. 9. And this is the Number of them: thirty Chargers of Gold, a thouſand Chargers of Silver, nine and twenty Knives,] See Dr. Lightfoot, of the Temple, p. 233, 234.

Ver. 10. Thirty Baſons of Gold, Silver Baſons of a ſecond Sort four hundred and ten, and other Veſſels a thouſand.

Ver. 11. All the Veſſels of Gold and of Silver, were five thouſand and four hundred.] Here ſeems to be ſome Difficulty; for all the Veſſels that are ſpecially named, make no more in Number than two thouſand four hundred and ninety nine: To which many think this a ſufficient Anſwer, that it is ſaid in 2 Chron. xxxvi. 18. Nebuchadnezzar carried away all the Veſſels, both great and ſmall. Now in the Account that is here given, the larger Veſſels only, which were of greater Bigneſs and Price, are mention'd; but the groſs Sum comprehends all, both great and ſmall, and amounts to the Number of five thouſand and four hundred: But Tremellius ſolves this, by tranſlating the laſt Words of the former Verſe otherwiſe than we do; not of other Veſſels a thouſand, but other Veſſels by thouſands, viz. almoſt three thouſand, wanting one hundred; which our Mr. Mede judges a true Tranſlation, in his Daniel's Weeks, Book iii. p. 700.

All theſe did Sheſhbazzar bring up with them of the Captivity, that were brought up from Babylon unto Jeruſalem.] Which Reſtoration of the Jews to their own Land ſeems to be a greater Miracle than the firſt Conqueſt of it: For Joſhua did that by Force of Arms; but theſe Exiles recovered their Country without any Force at all; and were ſettled in it, notwithſtanding many great Impediments to hinder it.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. NOW theſe are the Children of the Province that went up out of the Captivity,] Some by the Province underſtand Babylon; in which theſe People were moſt of them born, and had all lived a long Time; but I think it more likely to be meant of Judea, which was made a Province when it was conquered, and Gedaliah conſtituted the Governor of it; and in this Book is called the Province of Judea, ch. v. 8.

Of thoſe which had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon had carried away unto Babylon,] Their Parents and Anceſtors had been carried away by him, and they in them.

And came again unto Jeruſalem and Judah, every one unto his City;] Jerem. xxxii. 15. Nehem. xi. 3. Their Land and their Cities had been laid ſo deſolate, and had been ſo long neglected, and were infeſted alſo by ſuch bad Neighbours, that it was a great Piece of Generoſity in theſe Men to return thither: And their Names are recorded to the eternal Honour of them, and of their Poſterity; they being the firſt Planters of this Country, after it had been laid waſte.

Ver. 2. Which came with Zerubbabel: Jeſhua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilſhan, Mizpar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah.] Theſe were their Heads, who undertook to conduct them; among whom Zerubbabel was the Prince, or Leader in Chief; as Jeſhua was High-Prieſt, who is mentioned next to him. Nehemiah, who follows after him, is not the ſame, whoſe Book comes after this; for he did not go now, but afterward; or, if he did, he returned to Babylon again. See our famous Reynolds in his Cenſure of the Apocryphal Books, Prælect. cxi. and cxviii. Nor is it likely, that this Mordecai was the ſame with him that was Eſther's Couſin, but ſome other Perſon; there being another of that Name mentioned in the Book of the Chronicles. See the ſame Reynolds, Prælect. cxlvii.

The Number of the Men of the People of Iſrael.] They who were called the Children of the Province before, are now called the People of Iſrael; for from him they were derived, though moſt of them were of the Tribe of Judah.

Ver. 3. The Children of Paroſh, two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two.] He begins firſt to reckon up the Families that went up; of which this was one of the largeſt, deſcended from Paroſh, who was their Anceſtor.

Ver. 4. The Children of Shephatiah, three hundred ſeventy and two.] This was another Family, deſcended from this Man. The ſame is to be ſaid of the reſt.

Ver. 5. The Children of Aaron, ſeven hundred ſeventy and five.] So many gave in their Names in Babylon, that they intended to return into Judæa: But it appears by Nehem. vii. 10. that there came no more thither than ſix hundred fifty and two; therefore it is ſuppoſed, that the reſt altered their Minds, or died by the Way. The ſame muſt be ſaid of ſeveral other Differences between this Account, and that in Nehemiah.

Ver. 6. The Children of Pahath-moab, of the Children of Jeſhua and Joab, two thouſand eight hundred and twelve.] Here ſeems to be two Families joined together, one from Pahath-moab, the other from Jeſhua-joab, (as the other may be tranſlated) which both together make the greateſt Body of thoſe that went up. And ſix more added themſelves; for in Nehem. vii. 11. they are ſaid to have been two thouſand eight hundred and eighteen.

Ver. 7. The Children of Elam, a thouſand two hundred fifty and four.

Ver. 8. The Children of Zattu, nine hundred forty and five.

Ver. 9. The Children of Zaccai, ſeven hundred and threeſcore.

Ver. 10. The Children of Bani, ſix hundred forty and two.

Ver. 11. The Children of Bebai, ſix hundred twenty and three.

Ver. 12. The Children of Azgad, a thouſand two hundred twenty and two.

Ver. 13. The Children of Adonikam, ſix hundred ſixty and ſix.

Ver. 14. The Children of Bigvai, two thouſand fifty and ſix.

Ver. 15. The Children of Adin, four hundred fifty and four.

Ver. 16. The Children of Ater of Hezekiah, ninety and eight.

Ver. 17. The Children of Bezai, three hundred twenty and three.

Ver. 18. The Children of Jorah, an hundred and twelve.

Ver. 19. The Children of Haſhum, two hundred twenty and three.

Ver. 20. The Children of Gibbar ninety and five.] Or, as it is in Nehemiah vii. 25. the Children of Gibeon; theſe being the Citizens of that City. For this is not the Name of a Man, but of a Place; and ſo are ſeveral that follow: Which hath made ſome think, that the foregoing are not the Names of Men, but of Cities or Countries, the People of which are called the Children of ſuch Places; which is frequent in the Scripture Language, where we read of the Children of Sion, the Children of Egypt, the Children of the Eaſt, &c.

Ver. 21. The Children of Beth-lehem, an hundred twenty and three.] Theſe were ſuch as belonged to that City; unto which they went up, ver. 1.

Ver. 22. The Children of Netophah, fifty and ſix.] This was a Town near to Bethlehem.

Ver. 23. The Men of Anathoth, an hundred twenty and eight.] A famous Place in the Tribe of Benjamin, where the Prophet Jeremiah was born. But there are thoſe who think it not improbable, that theſe were Cities in the Country of Babylon; which the Jews had built, and called by the Names of thoſe Cities in their own Country, from whence they were baniſhed; of which they were deſirous to preſerve a Remembrance. Thus the Spaniards at this Day have Cities in America, called Corduba, Granada, Carthagena, &c. that they may not ſuffer the Memory of their antient Country to periſh, when they were removed to a far diſtant Land. But I ſee no Ground for this.

Ver. 24. The Children of Azmaveth, forty and two.] Or, of Beth-Azmaveth, as it is called Nehemiah vii. 28.

Ver. 25. The Children of Kirjath-arim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, ſeven hundred and forty and three.

Ver. 26. The Children of Ramah and Gaba, ſix hundred twenty and one.] Theſe ſeem to have been Cities in the Tribe of Benjamin; and ſo, it's likely, were the foregoing, and ſome of thoſe that follow.

Ver. 27. The Men of Michmas, an hundred twenty and two.

Ver. 28. The Men of Bethel and Ai, two hundred twenty and three.

Ver. 29. The Children of Nebo, fifty and two.

Ver. 30. The Children of Magbiſh, an hundred fifty and ſix.

Ver. 31. The Children of the other Elam, a thouſand two hundred fifty and four.] There is another Elam mentioned ver. 7. which argues the former to be the Name of a Town; from which the very ſame Number of Perſons went up, that there did from this.

Ver. 32. The Children of Harim, three hundred and twenty.

Ver. 33. The Children of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, ſeven hundred twenty and five] Theſe were three Towns in the Tribe of Benjamin; which make it probable Harim was ſo likewiſe.

Ver. 34. The Children of Jericho, three hundred forty and five.

Ver. 35. The Children of Senaah, three thouſand and ſix hundred and thirty.] It is uncertain whether this be the Name of a Perſon, or of a Place; but the greateſt Number of Perſons went from hence, that did from any of the forementioned.

Ver. 36. The Prieſts:] Having numbred the People that went from Judah and Benjamin, he proceeds now to the Tribe of Levi; and firſt mentions the Prieſts.

The Children of Jedaiah of the Houſe of Jeſhua, nine hundred ſeventy and three.] He is mentioned in 1 Chron. xxiv. 7. as a principal Perſon among the Prieſts. See Dr. Lightfoot, p. 916.

Ver. 37. The Children of Immer, a thouſand fifty and two.] He is mentioned alſo in 1 Chron. xxiv. 14. as Head of one of the twenty four Courſes of Prieſts.

Ver. 38. The Children of Paſhur, a thouſand two hundred forty and ſeven.] He is mentioned alſo, 1 Chron. ix. 12.

Ver. 39. The Children of Harim, a thouſand and ſeventeen.] See 1 Chron. xxiv. 8. where he is mentioned as Head of another Courſe of the Prieſts.

Ver. 40. The Levites: the Children of Jeſhua and Kadmiel, of the Children of Hodaviah, ſeventy and four.] See Nehem. vii. 43.

Ver. 41. The Singers: the Children of Aſaph, an hundred twenty and eight.

Ver. 42. The Children of the Porters: the Children of Shallum, the Children of Ater, the Chil- dren of Talmon, the Children of Akkub, the Children of Hatita, the Children of Shobai, in all, an hundred thirty and nine.

Ver. 43. The Nethinims:] These are generally taken to be of the Race of the Gibeonites; who being given to the Service of the Temple, were called Nethinims, which imports as much as given. But this is a Mistake, the Nethinims being those whom David gave to help the Levites, as I have observed before.

The Children of Ziha, the Children of Hasupha, the Children of Tabbaoth,] It is not said, how many came from each Family: But it appears, there were several Families of them, and their whole Number is mentioned in ver. 58.

Ver. 44. The Children of Keros, the Children of Siaha, the Children of Padon.

Ver. 45. The Children of Lebanah, the Children of Hagabah, the Children of Akkub.] The Number of these Families, and those that follow, is not set down particularly; but they are all comprehended in that Sum mentioned ver. 58.

Ver. 46. The Children of Hagab, the Children of Shalmai, the Children of Hanan,

Ver. 47. The Children of Giddel, the Children of Gahar, the Children of Reaiah,

Ver. 48. The Children of Rezin, the Children of Nekoda, the Children of Gazzam,

Ver. 49. The Children of Uzzah, the Children of Paseah, the Children of Besai,

Ver. 50. The Children of Asnah, the Children of Mehunim, the Children of Nephushim,

Ver. 51. The Children of Bakbuk, the Children of Hakupha, the Children of Harhur,

Ver. 52. The Children of Bazluth, the Children of Mehida, the Children of Harsha,

Ver. 53. The Children of Barkos, the Children of Sisera, the Children of Thamah, Ver. 54. The Children of Neziah, the Children of Hatipha.

Ver. 55. The Children of Solomons Servants:] These were a distinct People among the Jews; but it is uncertain who they were. Some take them to have been originally descended from Slaves, whom Solomon took in War; and who afterwards became Proselytes. But there was no War in his Days; therefore others think, they were such of other Nations as came to serve Solomon in servile Work, during the building of the Temple; who being proselyted, he deputed them to the perpetual Conservation and Reparation of it; as Joshua had done the Gibeonites, to be Hewers of Wood and Drawers of Water there: Or, they were some of the Reliques of the Canaanites, who delivered up themselves to Solomon, 1 Kings ix. 20, 21. Whosoever they were, it appears from ver. 55. of this Chapter, that they had the same Employment with the Nethinims about the Temple, or something like it; for they are numbred together with them.

The Children of Sotai, the Children of Sophereth, the Children of Peruda,] These, and they that follow in the two next Verses, are the Families of the fore-named Persons.

Ver. 56. The Children of Jaalah, the Children of Darkon, the Children of Giddel.

Ver. 57. The Children of Shephatiah, the Children of Hattil, the Children of Pochereth of Zebaim, the Children of Ami.

Ver. 58. All the Nethinims, and the Children of Solomons Servants, were three hundred ninety and two.] This makes it probable, that the Nethinims and the Children of Solomon's Servants (as I said before) were employed in the same or the like Employment; being both mentioned together: To whose Honour it must be observed, that, tho' they were not of the Children of Israel, and were despised by them, (there being Decrees made by the Sanhedrin, as the Jews tell us, that they should not marry with the Gibeonites, who they fancy are here meant) yet they were more forward to return to Jerusalem, and build the House of the LORD, (where they were to serve in lower Ministries) than the Levites themselves. For there were greater Numbers of them returned than of the Levites and Singers, as appears by comparing this Verse with ver. 40, 41.

Ver. 59. And these were they which went up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsa, Cherub, Addan and Immer: But they could not shew their Fathers House, and their Seed, whether they were of Israel.] These are Names of some Cities in Chaldæa, or Mesopotamia, from whence many went along with them to Judæa: And, as some think, they were Jews or Proselytes, who were carried captive by Salmanasser into Assyria. Now these could not shew the Families from whence they were derived, and so could not obtain any certain Possession in Judæa; as the rest did, who knew to what Family and City they belonged.

Ver. 60. The Children of Delaiah, the Children of Tobiah, the Children of Nekoda, six hundred fifty and two.] These were Persons who could not make out their Pedigree; and yet were desirous to live among the People of God, and see his Worship restored.

Ver. 61. And of the Children of the Priests: the Children of Habaiah, the Children of Koz, the Children of Barzillai, (which took a Wife of the Daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite, and was called after their Name.)] This Person, whosoever he was, thought it so great an Honour to be descended from such a noble Family as that of Barzillai, that he chose to be called by that Name, which he preferred before his own in the Family of the Priests: By which vain Ambition he lost his Title to the Priesthood, because he could not make out his Pedigree from the Priests, but from Barzillai.

Ver. 62. These sought their Register among those who were reckoned by Genealogy, but they were not found:] The Words may be more plainly translated out of the Hebrew, in this Manner, these being numbred among the Priests, (or, reckoned in the Priestly Genealogy) sought the Register, the Record of it in Writing, but could not find it. The Jews were so careful to keep the Priesthood pure, that they preserved an exact Account of the Parents, the Kindred, and the Quality of every Priest; because there were some Women the Priests might not marry, whose Children were accounted impure; as Mr. Selden hath shewn at large, Lib. ii. De Success. ad Pontificatum, Cap. ii. p. 213. and Cap. iii. p. 215. But when the City and Temple were burnt, and the People carried away in a tumultuous confused Manner, into Babylon; lon; many Tables of Genealogy periſhed, and could not be recovered.

Therefore were they, as polluted, put from the Prieſthood.] Not permitted to perform the Office of Prieſts; becauſe it did not appear that they were legally deſcended from Prieſts.

Ver. 63. And the Tirſhatha] Some think, (particularly Jacobus Capellus) that by the Tirſhatha is here meant Zerubbabel: It being a general Name, they ſuppoſe, for all chief Governors. So Nehemiah is called, c. viii. 9. and x. 1. whom others therefore will have to be here meant; who was a kind of Judge, (as the Perſian Word ſignifies) and gave the Sentence which here follows, when he came to Judæa: Which was a good while after this firſt Company arrived there. Others interpret it, the King's Commiſſioner; for Zerubbabel was no more. See J. Rainolds, in his Cenſure of the Apocryphal Books, Prælect. cxviii.

Said unto them, that they ſhould not eat of the moſt holy Things,] That is, they ſhould not partake of the Sacrifices offered for Sin, nor of the right Shoulder of Peace-offerings, nor of the Shew-bread; which were all moſt holy, and the Portion of the Prieſts alone. This ſhews, that Tirſhatha, whoſoever he was, had great Power and Authority; who could lay ſuch a Reſtraint upon thoſe that had been held for Prieſts.

Till there ſtood up a Prieſt with Urim and with Thummim.] Till the LORD himſelf ſhould ſhew, (when he vouchſafed ſuch an High-Prieſt, as was in the firſt Temple) whether they were of the Line of Aaron, or no. He doth not quite reject and exclude them, but left them their Claim; yet would not admit them to enjoy that which was the ſole Right of the Prieſts: Which he could not determine whether it belonged to them; but the Oracle being ceaſed, waited till God, who knew all Things, ſhould declare it. Thus careful they were to diſtinguiſh Families, that Strangers might not come to inherit among God's People; and eſpecially that the Prieſthood might not be invaded, by any who were unqualified for it. See Buxtorf, in his Hiſtoria Urim & Thummim, p. 323, 327.

It is evident from this Place, that the Urim and Thummim were either loſt, or burnt with the Temple; and whether they were after this reſtored, that is, whether any Prieſt with this Authority was raiſed up after the Captivity was ended, we are no where informed. If there was, it was only (as Dr. Jackſon well ſpeaks, Book i. on the Creed, Chap. xi.) to give this People a Farewel of God's extraordinary ſpeaking to them, either by Prieſts or by Prophets, till Chriſt came. Joſephus confeſſes, that Revelation by Urim and Thummim did ceaſe two hundred Years before his Time: But more probably this, as other Kinds of Prophecy, and many extraordinary Tokens of God's Power and Preſence, (ſometimes moſt frequent in this Nation) did ceaſe with that Generation which returned from Captivity, or immediately after the finiſhing the ſecond Temple: As if, during all that Time (to uſe the Words of that great Man befote-mentioned) God had apponited a Faſt or Vigil, as an Introduction to the Fulneſs of Time; wherein (as Joel propheſied, v. 28.) God would pour out his Spirit upon all Fleſh; upon the Gentile, as well as the Jew, Malach. i. 11. For this Cauſe God impoſed this long Faſt upon the Jews, that he might humble them, and teach them, that he was not their God alone, but of the Gentiles alſo. The Jews generally acknowledge there was no Urim and Thummim under the ſecond Temple; and even they that ſay there was, (becauſe it was neceſſary the High-Prieſt ſhould have his Garments complete) yet ſay, there was no Anſwer from God given by it; which is as much as to ſay, there was none at all. See Buxtorf, Hiſt. Urim & Thummim, Cap. v.

Ver. 64. The whole Congregation together was forty and two thouſandthree hundred and threeſcore;] This was but a ſmall Number in Compariſon with that vaſt Multitude which came out of Egypt, yet more than double to that Number which was carried away Captive by Nebuchadnezzar. But here occurs a ſmall Difficulty (like that in the End of the foregoing Chapter) for if we put together the ſeveral Sums beforementioned, they amount to no more than twenty nine thouſand eight hundred and eighteen; ſo there wants above twelve thouſand to make up this Number of forty thouſand three hundred and threeſcore. But where ſhall we find them, ſay the Jews in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. xxix? To which they there anſwer, that they were of the reſt of the Tribes of Iſrael, who came up with thoſe of Judah and Benjamin. Or, they might be Levites, or other Iſraelites, who could not make out their Deſcent. Which is a very ſolid Anſwer, for there is no doubt but many of their Brethren of the Ten Tribes incorporated themſelves with the Two Tribes in Captivity, and took the Advantage of returning with them: Which may be the Meaning of thoſe Words in the firſt Chapter, ver. 5. Then roſe up the Chief of the Fathers of Judah and Benjamin, with all them whoſe Spirit God had raiſed to go up: That is, ſaith Diodate, all thoſe of other Tribes, according to 1 Chron. ix. 3.

Ver. 65. Beſides their Servants and their Maids, of whom there were ſeven thouſand three hundred thirty and ſeven:] Tho' all that returned were not Jews, but ſome of the ten Tribes joined with them; yet they did not amount, Slaves and all, to fifty thouſand. Now what is this Number to what they were in Jehoſhaphat's Time, when Judah had in it two hundred thouſand fighting Men?

And there were among them two hundred ſinging Men and ſinging Women.] Whether theſe were now become Servants is not certain; but it ſeems to be manifeſt from 1 Chron. xxv. 5, 6. that Women, as well as Men, ſung in the Houſe of the LORD.

Ver. 66. Their Horſes were ſeven hundred thirty and ſix: Their Mules two hundred forty and five.] Their Poverty appears, as by the ſmall Number of Servants that attended them, ſo by the little Parcel of Cattle which they had to carry them.

Ver. 67. Their Camels four hundred thirty and five: Their Aſſes ſix thouſand ſeven hundred and twenty.] Moſt of the People therefore travelled on Foot, for these would but suffice to carry their Baggage (as we speak) or little more.

Ver. 68. And some of the Chief of the Fathers, when they came to the House of the LORD which is at Jerusalem,] That is, to the Place in which the Temple stood, unto which it seems their pious Affections carried them, as soon as they came to Jerusalem.

Offered freely for the House of God, to set it up in his Place:] Made a new Offering besides that which they brought out of Babylon from their Brethren there, mentioned Chap. i. 4, 6. By this it appears, that the Jews were not made such poor Slaves in Babylon as wrought for their Lords and Masters, but had Liberty to trade and get Riches for themselves; some of them being advanced to considerable Offices in the King's Court. Otherwise they could not have been able to offer such Sums as are mentioned in the next Verse. And the like Contribution, tho' not so large, was made for the Support of the second Company that went up from Babylon, as Josephus tells us, Lib. xi. Cap. 4. where he saith, the Jews in Babylon gave their Brethren who were going to their own Country, a hundred Pound of Gold, and five thousand of Silver. But most of these rich Men continued still in Babylon, being well settled there, and in a thriving Condition: Insomuch that R. Eliezer was wont to say (as he is quoted by a converted Jew) The Bran only returned to Judæa, the fine Flour still remained in Babylon. See Jerem. xxix. 4, 5, 28. But this is a Conceit advanced to elude the Prophecies which belong to their Return from Babylon, and apply them to their present Capitivity from the Romans.

Ver. 69. They gave after their Ability unto the Treasure of the Work,] which was presently erected, according to the ancient Pattern in David's Time, 1 Chron. xxvi. 20.

Threescore and one thousand Drams of Gold, and five thousand Pound of Silver, and one hundred Priests Garments.] Garments, as well as Gold and Silver, were wont to be laid up in Treasures, as appears by our Saviour's Words, Lay up for yourselves Treasures, where neither Moth nor Rust do corrupt, Matth. vi. 20. Moths do not corrupt Silver and Gold, but only Garments. See Job xxvii. 16.

Ver. 70. So the Priests and the Levites, and some of the People, and the Singers, and the Porters, and the Nethinims, dwelt in their Cities,] They are here set down in that Order wherein they are reckoned from Verse 36. and the good Order is observed that was among them, every one going to the City where his Ancestors dwelt; and so did all Israel, as well as Judah and Benjamin, ch. vi. 16, 17. Thus the Foundation of this poor Commonwealth was laid in a marvellous Concord, there being no Strife nor Contention among them that came up, tho' of different Orders and Qualities; but they had one Heart and Soul like the first Christians, without which Unity no People can be preserved. And that it may be cherished, they must avoid those Things that destroy it, which are (as Joh. Wolphius here observes) principally φιλαυτία and πολυπραγμοσύνη, Self-love, and meddling in other Mens Matters.

And all Israel in their Cities.] When the Ten Tribes were carried Captives by Salmanasser into Assyria, they were not carried away intirely, but some of every Tribe left, who, with Judah and Benjamin, were afterwards carried to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, and now restored by Cyrus. By this our Primate Usher explains what we read afterward, ch. vi. 17, 18. that they offered twelve He-goats, according to the Number of the Children of Israel; ad A. Mundi 3468. And indeed there were some Reliques of the Ten Tribes till their last Destruction, Acts xxvi. 7.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. AND when the seventh Month was come, and the Children of Israel were in the Cities, the People gathered themselves together, as one Man, to Jerusalem.] We are no where told in what Month they began their Journey from Babylon. But from ch. vii. 9. we understand it was a Journey of four Months from thence to Jerusalem; so that we may safely conclude they came out in the Spring Time in the first or second Month, and having spent a short Time in settling themselves in their several Cities, the seventh approached, or drew nigh (so it must be understood, and should be rendered) in which was the first Feast that fell out after they came into Judæa; which they assembled themselves unanimously to celebrate at Jerusalem.

Ver. 2. Then stood up Jeshua the Son of Jozadak, and his Brethren the Priests,] He was the High-Priest, called Joshua in Haggai i. 1.

And Zerubbabel the Son of Shealtiel, and his Brethren,] He is called there the Governor of Judah, being appointed by the King of Persia to that Office. And he is there put before Joshua, as here he is put after: The Viceroy and the High-Priest being Pares dignitate aut suppares, as Bochartus speaks. See below ver. 8. and ch. iv. 3. and v. 2.

And builded the Altar of the God of Israel to offer Burnt-offerings thereon,] Which were the most ancient Offerings of all others.

As it is written in the Law of Moses the Man of God.] Where, in the very Beginning of the Book of Leviticus, there is an Order for the Burnt-Sacrifices before any other.

Ver. 3. And they set the Altar] Before they began to lay the Foundation of the Temple; for they would not have Sacrifices wanting while it was building.

Upon his Bases,] That is, in the Place, some think, where it anciently stood. Which was done, Maimonides saith, by the Authority of the Prophets, who were then among them. Here the Reader must remember what I have observed upon 1 Chron. ix. 11, 21, 23. that till the Temple could be built, they erected a Tabernacle wherein the Service of God was performed, as it was before Solomon's Temple was built. But I noted there, ver. 18. that it did not stand on Mount Moriah, but on Mount Sion; and therefore the Altar was also there, and not in the Place where it anciently stood till the Temple was finished.

(For

(For Fear was upon them, becauſe of the People of thoſe Countries)] The Particle ki, which we tranſlate for, ſignifies altho'; and ſo it had been better rendered here, Altho' they were in great Fear of their evil Neighbours, yet notwithſtanding they would not deſiſt from reſtoring the Worſhip of God; but if we take it as we tranſlate it, the Meaning is plain that they were the more zealous to reſtore the Worſhip of God, that they might upon all Occaſions flee to him for Succour againſt their Enemies, of whom they were in Dread.

And they offered Burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD, even Burnt-offerings, Morning and Evening;] Which is called in the Law of Moſes the continual Burnt-offering, Exod. xxix. 38, 39, 40, 41, 42. Numb. xxviii. 3, 6.

Ver. 4. They kept alſo the Feaſt of Tabernacles, as it is written,] Exod. xxiii. 16. The ſeventh Month was ſo remarkable for many Solemnities appointed to be held in it, that I cannot think they kept only the Feaſt of Tabernacles; for on the very firſt Day of the Month there was to be an holy Convocation, Numb. xxix. 1, &c. on which they began to offer Sacrifice, as it is ſaid here, ver. 6. And on the tenth Day was another holy Convocation, which was the moſt ſolemn in all the Year, being the great Day of Atonement, Numb. xxix. 7. With theſe, I ſuppoſe, they began; and eſpecially on the tenth Day begged Pardon of God for their Sins, which had caſt them out of their Land; and then proceeded on the fifteenth Day to thank God for their Reſtoration, by keeping the Feaſt of Tabernacles.

And offered the daily Burnt-offerings by Number, according to the Cuſtom, as the Duty of every Day required.] On every Day of the Feaſt, which laſted ſeven Days, there were ſpecial Sacrifices appointed by the Law, and in great Numbers; as may be ſeen, Numb. xxix. 13, 17, &c. which put this poor People to great Expences; but their Piety now was ſuch, that they valued nothing ſo much as the Service of God.

Ver. 5. And afterward offered the continual Burnt-offerings, both of the new Moons, and of all the ſet Feaſts of the LORD that were conſecrated, and of every one that willingly offered a Freewill-offering unto the LORD.

Ver. 6. From the firſt Day of the ſeventh Month began they to offer Burnt-offerings unto the LORD; but the Foundation of the Temple of the LORD was not yet laid.] The Meaning of theſe two Verſes is, that holy Rites of Sacrificing were reſtored, and ſo were kept and continued ever after in their ſeveral Seaſons, on the new Moons, and other feſtival Solemnities: And they began with the Morning and Evening Burnt-offering, which was never to be omitted, but in every Solemnity was to have the Precedence, and be offered in the firſt Place. See Numb. xxviii. 3, 4, &c.

Ver. 7. They gave Money alſo unto the Maſons, and to the Carpenters;] To prepare Materials for the Building.

And Meat, and Drink, and Oil unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre,] Who wanted theſe Things more than Money, as appears by the Hiſtory of Solomon's Building, 1 Kings v. 10.

To bring Cedar Trees from Lebanon to the Sea of Joppa:] As they had done in the Days of Solomon, 1 Kings v. 9.

According to the Grant that they had of Cyrus King of Perſia.] Who commanded, I ſuppoſe, thoſe of Tyre and Zidon to aſſiſt them.

Ver. 8. Now in the ſecond Year of their coming unto the Houſe of God at Jeruſalem,] That is, to the Place where the Houſe of God formerly ſtood.

In the ſecond Month,] All the Time before this, in the latter End of the laſt Year, was ſpent, it is probable, in removing the Rubbiſh, and preparing the Ground for laying the Foundation, as much as the Winter would permit; which was not a Seaſon to begin the Work; but after the Paſſover, I preſume, they entered upon it.

Began Zerubbabel the Son of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the Son of Jozadak, and the Remnant of their Brethren the Prieſts and the Levites, and all they that were come out of the Captivity unto Jeruſalem;] Here Zerubbabel is put before Jeſhua, as (ver. 1.) Jeſhua was put before him: Whereby we learn they were of equal Dignity, in the Account of the Jews; for Zerubbabel was not a King, but a Governor of the Province of Judea, under the King of Perſia, as Nehemiah was, chap. v. 14, 15. under whom there were Princes and Rulers, that is, the Heads of Families, ch. ix. 2. and below them, there were Captains of Thouſands, &c. and other Subaltern Officers, ch. x. 8, 14. and after all, in the fourth Place, the great Congregation: Which Bertram makes Account was the Government of the Jews, after their Return from the Captivity. See him, de Republica Judaica, Cap. xiii. where he undertakes to make out the four Orders from Nehem. v. 7, &c.

And appointed the Levites from twenty Years old and upward, to ſet forward the Work of the Houſe of the LORD.] For ſince the Time of David, they were thought fit at twenty Years of Age to attend the Service of God in his Houſe.

Ver. 9. Then ſtood Jeſhua with his Sons, and his Brethren;] Not Jeſhua the High-Prieſt beforementioned, but another Jeſhua, who was a Levite, mentioned chap. ii. 40.

Kadmiel and his Sons, the Sons of Judah together,] Who is called there Hodaviah.

To ſet forward the Workmen in the Houſe of God:] They being made Overſeers of the Work.

The Sons of Henadad, with their Sons, and their Brethren the Levites.] Theſe were afterwards added to the fore-named, as their Aſſiſtants.

Ver. 10. And when the Builders laid the Foundation of the Temple of the LORD, they ſet the Prieſts in their Apparel with Trumpets, and the Levites the Sons of Aſaph with Cymbals, to praiſe the LORD,] While the Sacrifices, I ſuppoſe, at the ſame Time were offered, they ſung Praiſe to God with ſuch Inſtruments as they had; which were only Cymbals, for it is like they had not yet got Harps and Lutes. The Apocryphal Eſdras ſaith, they laid the Foundation in the new Moon; but Calviſius thinks it more probable to have been laid the Day after, the new Moon being a Feſtival.

After the Ordinance of David King of Iſrael.] 1 Chron. xvi. 7. xxv. 1.

Ver. 11. And they ſung together by Courſe,] That is, anſwered one to another; for from hence was derived the Manner of praying and praiſing God in the Chriſtian Service alternatively, as Mr. Mede obſerves, Book i. Diſcourſe xvi. where he notes how the Seraphims cried one to another, ſaying, Holy, holy, holy, LORD God of Hoſts, &c. Iſaiah vi. 3.

In praiſing and giving thanks unto the LORD; becauſe he is good, for his Mercy endureth for ever towards Iſrael.] Thus many of the Pſalms of David begin, cvii. cxxviii. and cxxxvi. which laſt Pſalm, it is probable, was now ſung entirely, in every Verſe of which theſe Words are repeated, His Mercy endureth for ever.

And all the People ſhouted with a great Shout when they praiſed the LORD, becauſe the Foundation of the Houſe of the LORD was laid.] That is, every one expreſſed their Thankfulneſs and Joy, in ſuch Manner as they were able; the Prieſts and Levites with Singing and Muſick, and the People with Shouting, which is a natural Expreſſion of Joy, and as acceptable as the moſt artificial Compoſures.

Ver. 12. But many of the Prieſts and Levites, and Chief of the Fathers, who were ancient Men, that had ſeen the firſt Houſe,] As many of them might have done, it not being above threeſcore (or as ſome compute, ſixty one) Years ſince it was burnt: And ſome of them lived long after this, which was the firſt Year of Cyrus; for ſome prolonged their Days (as Huetius obſerves) till the ſecond Year of Darius Hyſtaſpis, which was eighteen Years after the firſt of Cyrus.

When the Foundation of this Houſe was laid before their Eyes, wept with a loud Voice, and many ſhouted aloud for Joy.] The younger Sort ſhouted, but many of the ancient People diſturbed their Acclamations with Howlings; for though the Temple was intended to be built as large as the former, upon the ſame Foundation; yet there were not ſuch goodly Stones to lay for the Foundation, as there was for Solomon's (1 Kings vii. 9, 10.) nor could they hope to build it ſo magnificently as he had done, nor was there any Appearance of the Divine Glory, or of a Prieſt with Urim and Thummim, and ſuch like Things; which indeed were ſad, but ought not to have made them weep ſo loud, and interrupt the publick Joy: Thankfulneſs for ſmall Beginnings would better have become them, than Complaints that their Condition was no better.

Ver. 13. So that the People could not diſcern the Noiſe of the Shout of Joy, from the Noiſe of the Weeping of the People:] There was a great Confuſion among them by theſe contrary Paſſions, which was very lamentable when God had been ſo very good to them all.

For the People ſhouted with a loud Shout, and the Noiſe was heard afar off.] Notwithſtanding which, the young People continued to ſhout as loud as they could, and made the Noiſe of their Joy be heard farther off than the others Weeping was.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. NOW when the Adverſaries of Judah and Benjamin] Theſe were the Samaritans, who were grieved at their Return, ver. 10.

Heard that the Children of the Captivity builded the Temple unto the LORD God of Iſrael,] They being Neighbours were ſoon informed, not only of their Return from Captivity, but of their building the Temple.

Ver. 2. Then they came to Zerubbabel, and to the Chief of the Fathers, and ſaid unto them, Let us build with you;] This People, no doubt, were deſirous to partake of the Privileges which were granted to the Jews by the King of Perſia; and ſo not only offered their Aſſiſtance towards the Building of the Temple, but would have been one People with them. So the following Words import.

For we ſeek your God as ye do, and we do ſacrifice unto him,] They pretend to be of the ſame Religion with them, which is the greateſt Bond of Union: But in Truth they were not; for tho' they worſhipped God, yet they joined other feigned Gods with him, and therefore could not be admitted into Communion with them at the Temple.

Since the Days of Eſar-haddon King of Aſſur, which brought us up hither.] The ſame with him mentioned 2 Kings xix. 39. who brought a ſecond Colony, after that brought by Salmanaſſer when he firſt conquered them, to people the Country better; and ſent a Prieſt alſo to inſtruct them, from whom they pretended to have received God's true Religion.

Ver. 3. But Zerubbabel, and Jeſhua, and the reſt of the Chief of the Fathers, ſaid unto them, You have nothing to do with us to build an Houſe unto our God,] They knew them very well what they were, viz. a mixed People, not purely of the Seed of Iſrael, and of a medley Religion, not worſhipping God purely; and therefore they would have nothing to do with them: And indeed they ſoon diſcovered their Hypocriſy by writing againſt the Work, which they would have hindred by making Diviſions, if they had been among them.

But we our ſelves together will build unto the LORD God of Iſrael, as King Cyrus the King of Perſia hath commanded us.] They reſolve to admit no other People to join with them, but to purſue the Grant which King Cyrus had made to them alone, and to none other. Theſe were the two Reaſons why they rejected them, becauſe they were not of the ſame People, and the King of Perſia had granted this Licence to build the Temple only to the Jews.

Ver. 4. Then the People of the Land] That is, the fore-named Samaritans.

Weakened the Hands of the People of Judah,] Diſcouraged them in their Undertakings by falſe Reports and Slanders, and perhaps by Threatnings.

And troubled them in Building,] Laid all the Impediments they could in their Way, by hindering Materials or Proviſions from coming to them, or by enticing away their Workmen, or ſuch like Means.

Ver. 5. And hired Counſellors againſt them, to fruſtrate their Purpoſe,] They bribed ſome of the Council of the King of Perſia to obſtruct the Work; a frequent Miſchief in Courts, as Grotius notes: Or, perhaps, they were ſome of the Officers of the King of Perſia in Samaria, Syria, and Judea, whom they corrupted to croſs this Deſign.

All the Days of Cyrus King of Perſia,] Who being engaged in War with the Lydians and Scythians, could not attend ſuch Affairs as this; but it went on ſlowly; which his Son Cambyſes regarded not at all, being no Friend of the Jews, nor of Religion.

Even until the Reign of Darius King of Perſia.] Till Darius the Son of Hyſtaſpis, who killing the Magi (who after Cambyſes had poſſeſſed themſelves of the Kingdom) was made King; and marrying Artoſſa the Daughter of Cyrus, and loving her very much, confirmed the Decree of Cyrus, and followed his Steps that he might ſtand the ſafer himſelf. It is a great Controverſy indeed between learned Men, whether this Darius, or Darius Nothus be here meant; and there are ſtrong Arguments on both Sides, which it is an immenſe Labour to examine, with the Objections againſt them. It hath been lately done in Brief by a judicious Writer, who after all is conſtrained to conclude with a NON LIQUET; but yet he thinks the moſt weighty Reaſons incline to Darius Hyſtaſpis: See Hermannus Witſius, Miſcellanea Sacra, Lib. i. Cap. xx.

Ver. 6. And in the Reign of Ahaſuerus,] Who this was, is very uncertain; there being many who think, that after Cyrus this was Nomen Gentilitium (as they call it) the Name of all their Kings (as Pharaoh was of all the Kings of Egypt) who were called Xerxes, or Artaxerxes (from Ahaſuerus, as Grotius thinks) beſides the Name they had before they came to the Crown. Some therefore ſay this was Cambyſes, (ſo Primate Uſher, ad A. M. 3476.) others Darius Hyſtaſpis, others Artaxerxes Mnemon, or Longimanus; whoſe Diſputes are very long about this Matter, but leave one no more ſatisfied than before he began to read them.

In the Beginning of his Reign, wrote they unto him an Accuſation againſt the Inhabitants of Judah and Jeruſalem.] Importing that they intended to ſet up for themſelves, and not to depend upon the King of Perſia.

Ver. 7. And in the Days of Artaxerxes] Who is before called Ahaſuerus, which is ſuppoſed to be his Chaldee Name, as Artaxerxes was his Perſian: But Dr. Alix, who had examin'd theſe Things, looks upon it as abſurd to ſuppoſe Ahaſuerus to have been the Name of all the Perſian Kings, and takes this Artaxerxes to have been the Son of Xerxes, viz. Artaxerxes Longimanus.

Wrote Biſhlam, Mithridath, Tabeel, and the reſt of their Companions, unto Artaxerxes King of Perſia;] Theſe Men firſt drew up the Letter, which they intended to ſend to the King, being Governors, I ſuppoſe, under him on this Side of Euphrates; ſuch as the Greeks call Tetrarchs.

And the Writing of the Letter was written in the Syrian Tongue, and interpreted in the Syrian Tongue.] The Meaning may be, that they ſent a brief Addreſs to the King in the Syrian Tongue, and expounded their Buſineſs more largely to ſome of his Counſellors in the ſame Tongue. Or, by the firſt we may underſtand the Letter or Characters, and by the other the Words: So that the Meaning is, it was wrote both in Syrian Characters, and in Syrian Words. For ſometimes a Letter or other Writing is ſent in the Character of one Language, and in Words of another; as Chaldee and Syrian Words are wrote in the Hebrew Characters, and we oft-times write Hebrew Words in the Engliſh Characters. But this Letter was wrote, and was to be read in the ſame Language.

Ver. 8. Rehum the Chancellor, and Shimſhai the Scribe, wrote a Letter againſt Jeruſalem to Artaxerxes the King,] Theſe two were principal Perſons in theſe Countries, who either joined with the other three before-mentioned in the ſame Letter, or wrote another Letter of the ſame Import.

In this Sort:] Containing the ſame Complaint againſt the Jews.

Ver. 9. Then wrote Rehum the Chancellor, and Shimſhai the Scribe, and the reſt of their Companions; the Dinaites, the Apharſathkites, the Tarpelites, the Apharſites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Suſanchites, the Dehavites, and the Elamites,] Theſe nine Nations came out of Aſſyria, Perſia, Media, Suſiana, and other Provinces of that vaſt Empire; who with one Conſent joined in this Letter or Petition. For, perhaps the King being loth to do any thing haſtily upon the Motion of that Letter mentioned ver. 8. ſent to have the Opinion of all theſe Nations, or the principal Perſons among them; and of all other on this Side the River Euphrates, as it here follows.

Ver. 10. And the reſt of the Nations, whom the great and noble Aſnapper brought over, and ſet in the Cities of Samaria, and the reſt that are on this Side the River,] Some take Aſnapper to be another Name for Salmanaſſer, or for Eſarhaddon, who ſent theſe Colonies hither. But it is more reaſonable to think he was ſome great Commander, who was intruſted by one or both of thoſe Kings to conduct them, and bring them over (the River Euphrates) and ſee them ſettled in theſe Countries.

And at ſuch a Time.] Which was expreſſed, no doubt, in the Letter; but here it is only noted in general, that the Year and the Day were mentioned, when it was ſubſcribed.

Ver. 11. This is the Copy of the Letter that they ſent unto him, even unto Artaxerxes the King: Thy Servants the Men on this Side the River, and at ſuch a Time.] This was the Title of their Letter: The Letter itſelf followeth.

Ver. 12. Be it known unto the King, that the Jews which came up from thee to us, are come unto Jeruſalem, building the rebellious and the bad City, and have ſet up the Walls thereof, and joined the Foundations.] This was a mere Calumny; for they attempted no ſuch Thing as to build the Walls of Jeruſalem. But they ſpeak in ambiguous Words (as Huetius obſerves) concerning the building of this City; which in one Senſe was true. For they built Houſes, without which it could not be inhabited; but they did did not go about to encompaſs it with Walls, to defend the City againſt the Incurſions of their Enemies; which was not begun till a great while after. They are fallacious Words therefore, whereby they impoſed upon the King's Belief, when they ſay, they ſet up the Walls thereof: For they only ſet up the Walls of their Houſes, not of their City. And there is a Demonſtration they did no more; for when it is ſaid there was an Order from the King, that this City ſhould not be built, and accordingly the Work was ſtopped, it is thus expreſſed, ver. 24. then ceaſed the Work of the Houſe of God, which is at Jeruſalem. It is not ſaid, the Work of building the Walls of the City ceaſed, (for they were about no ſuch Thing) but the Work of the Houſe of God, which was all they did. Thus wicked Men compaſs their Ends by Lies and Fallacies with which they prepoſſeſs Mens Minds againſt the Truth. As for their calling it a rebellious and bad City, there was ſome Colour for it; their latter Kings having rebelled againſt the King of Babylon. And beſides, the Laws and Cuſtoms of the Jews were ſuch, as would not permit them to conform to the Manner of other Nations; which made their Neighbours have an ill Opinion of them, as an unſociable People.

Ver. 13. Be it known now unto the King, that if this City be builded, and the Walls ſet up again, then will they not pay Toll, Tribute and Cuſtom,] They pretend, the Jews would be no longer in Subjection, if their City was built; but ſet up for themſelves, as a free People. By the firſt of theſe Words Grotius underſtands that which every Head paid to the King, which we call Poll-Money; by the ſecond, the Exciſe (as we now ſpeak) that was upon Commodities and Merchandize; and by the laſt, the Rent which their Land paid. But a late learned Man thinks, the firſt Word rather ſignifies that Part which every Man paid out of his Eſtate, according as it was valued; the ſecond, that which was paid for every Head; and the third, that which was paid upon the High-Ways, by every Traveller who brought in Wares, or carried them out. Herman. Witſius in his Miſcell. Pars ii. Exerc. xi. N. 20.

And ſo thou ſhalt endamage the Revene of the Kings.] They pretend to ſtudy nothing but the Profit of the King; and that neither he nor his Succeſſors might loſe any of the Duties owing to the Crown.

Ver. 14. Now becauſe we have Maintenance from the Kings Palace,] In the Hebrew it is, we are ſalted with the Salt of the Palace; i. e. received their Salary from the King, as Junius tranſlates it. For it ſeems, they received their Stipend in Salt, (from whence it was called a Salary) which the Son of Sirach mentions among the Things neceſſary to human Life, Eccluſ. xxxix. 31. And Homer calls it a divine Thing, becauſe, as Plutarch expounds him, it ſeaſons all Food, and gives a Reliſh to it. See Dr. Cudworth, of the Lord's Supper, p. 68.

And it was not meet for us to ſee the Kings Diſhonour:] It did not become them who received Maintenance from the King, to ſee him wronged any way.

Therefore have we ſent and certified the King,] Which they would have him think was the ſole Cauſe of their writing, to inform him in the Truth.

Ver. 15. That Search may be made in the Book of the Records of thy Fathers:] In the Chronicles of the Kings that had reigned before him; whom they call his Fathers, becauſe they were his Predeceſſors in that Kingdom, wherein he now reigned. This Search ſhews, this Letter was written a long Time after the Edict of Cyrus.

So ſhalt thou find in the Book of the Records, and know, that this City is a rebellious City, and hurtful unto Kings and Provinces, and that they have moved Sedition within the ſame of old Time: for which Cauſe was this City deſtroyed.] They mix ſome Truth with Abundance of Falſhood; for this City could not be rebellious in old Time, being ſubject to none; till in latter Times it was conquered by Nebuchadnezzar; againſt whom they rebelled.

Ver. 16. We certify the King, that if this City be builded again, and the Walls thereof ſet up, by this Means thou ſhalt have no Portion on this Side the River.] This was a moſt groundleſs Suggeſtion, that they ſhould either be able to conquer all the neighbouring Countries, as far as Euphrates, or draw them all into a Rebellion with them againſt the King.

Ver. 17. Then ſent the King an Anſwer unto Rehum the Chancellor, and to Shimſhai the Scribe, and to the reſt of their Companions that dwell in Samaria, and unto the reſt beyond the River, Peace, and at ſuch a Time.] This was a Matter of ſuch Concern, that the King diſpatched a ſpeedy Anſwer to be communicated to all the People mentioned, ver. 9, 10.

Ver. 18. The Letter which ye ſent unto us, hath been plainly read before me.] It was read, in all Likelihood, before the King in Council.

Ver. 19. And I commanded, and Search hath been made,] In the publick Records. See chap. v. 17. vi. 1, 2. Eſther ii. 23. vi. 1.

And it is found, that this City of old Time hath made Inſurrection againſt Kings, and that Rebellion and Sedition have been made therein.] One Inſtance or two of it in latter Times ſerved to faſten this odious Character upon them; as if they had been always guilty of theſe Crimes.

Ver. 20. There have been mighty Kings alſo over Jeruſalem, which have ruled over all Countries beyond the River;] Such indeed were David and Solomon; who, as their Records ſhewed, ruled over all Countries on this Side Euphrates.

And Toll, Tribute, and Cuſtom was paid unto them.] As now they were to the King of Perſia; which ſeemed to juſtify what theſe People ſuggeſted in their Letter, ver. 16. only they wanted ſuch mighty Kings as they then had, and were never likely to have ſuch again.

Ver. 21. Give ye now Commandment to cauſe theſe Men to ceaſe, and that this City be not builded,] He gave no Order about the Temple, but only about the City; which he was made to believe they were fortifying.

Until another Commandment ſhall be given from me.] He kept his Ears open, like a good King, to further Information; which if he ſhould have different from theirs, he might give other Orders. For this was not a Law of the Medes and Perſians that could not be revoked; but only an Edict, depending wholly upon the Will and Pleaſure of the King, which he might have Reaſon to alter hereafter.

Ver. 22. Take heed now, that ye fail not to do this: why ſhould Damage grow to the hurt of the Kings?] By their Negligence, if they permitted them to proceed to fortify Jeruſalem. It is very obſervable, that in neither of their Letters, nor in the King's Anſwer, there is not one Word of the Command which Cyrus gave; nor any thing ſaid of the building of the Temple; which was the great Thing in which they were employed; and the building of which could be no Damage to the King. But tho' we do not know by what Trick the Decree of Cyrus was now ſmothered, yet their Silence about it proves, (as the forenamed Dr. Alix ſuggeſts to me) that this Complaint was moved neither in the Time of Darius I. who lived in the Court of Cyrus, and married his Daughter, nor of Xerxes his Son, as Joſephus thinks, (taking Xerxes for Artaxerxes) but in the Beginning of Artaxerxes Longimanus; who began to reign ſeventy one Years after the firſt of Cyrus, in which the Edict was publiſhed.

Ver. 23. Now when the Copy of King Artaxerxes Letter was read before Rehum, and Shimſhai the Scribe, and their Companions, they went up in haſte to Jeruſalem unto the Jews,] So they of the Captivity are now called, though there were many Iſraelites among them; becauſe they chiefly conſiſted of the Tribes of Judah and Benjamin. But it muſt be noted, that all Iſrael (as this Author ſpeaks, ch. ii. ult.) are included under the Name of Jews. For Liberty was granted to them all by the Edict of Cyrus, (which cannot be noted too often) in Virtue of which they might return when they pleaſed. But the holy Writers mention only thoſe who returned in a Body; after which the Prophets admoniſh thoſe who remained in Captivity to return to their own Land; as we ſee in the Book of Zechariah.

And made them to ceaſe by Force and Power.] They threatened, I ſuppoſe, to force them to deſiſt, if they did not preſently obey the King's Order: Which was only that the City ſhould not be built; but the Temple being a Part of it, they would have it underſtood, that it was comprehended in this Order.

Ver. 24. Then ceaſed the Work of the Houſe of God, which is at Jeruſalem.] It did not quite ceaſe; for when the Jews underſtood that this Edict did not prohibit the building of the Temple, but only of the City, they went on with their Work again without aſking any Leave; ſince they knew Artaxerxes did not forbid it. But it went on ſo ſlowly, that in a Manner it ceaſed, till the Beginning of the Reign of Darius, as it here follows.

So it ceaſed unto the ſecond Year of the Reign of Darius King of Perſia.] They that take Darius Nothus to be here meant, are preſſed with very great Difficulties. For from the firſt Year of Cyrus, who gave Order for the building of the Temple, till the ſixth Year of Darius Nothus, in which they ſuppoſe it was finiſhed; there were at leaſt an hundred and thirteen Years, as Scaliger and Calviſius make Account; but as others think, an hundred and ſeventeen; and, according to Cocceius, an hundred forty and two. Now all this Time Zerubbabel was in the Government of Judæa, and Jeſhua in the High-Prieſthood; but ſo long an Authority in Church or State was never heard of in any Age; and they muſt have lived ſome time before and after, and conſequently they muſt be of a vaſt Age: And therefore ſo long a Space was not between the Beginning and the Concluſion of this Work. Beſides, Haggai ſuppoſes (ch. ii. 4.) that ſome remembred the Glory of the firſt Houſe, and compared it with the Glory of the ſecond: Which if this was in the ſixth Year of Darius Nothus, they muſt be at leaſt an hundred and fourſcore Year old; which is not likely. Several Solutions are given to this, which do not ſatisfy thoſe who believe Darius Hyſtaſpis is here meant; whoſe ſecond Year was the eighteenth after the firſt of Cyrus, as Huetius reckons. And this is the moſt ancient Opinion. But it is built only upon the Authority of Joſephus, who was followed by many after the ſecond Century; but before, they took this Darius to be Darius Ochus, as Dr. Alix aſſures me, who thinks the long Life of Zerubbabel and Jeſhua is no Objection againſt it; but is to be look'd upon as an extraordinary Effect of the divine Goodneſs, for the Re-eſtabliſhment of the Commonwealth, and of the Worſhip of God: As the Life of Jehoiada was prolonged for the ſame Reaſon, 2 Chron. xxiv. 15.

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. THEN the Prophets, Haggai the Prophet, and Zechariah the Son of Iddo,] The Grand-Child of Iddo; for his Father's Name was Berachiah.

Propheſied unto the Jews that were in Judah and Jeruſalem, in the Name of the God of Iſrael, even unto them.] Or rather againſt them, as the Hebrew Words may be interpreted: For they reproved them becauſe they did not build the Temple. They both propheſied in the ſecond Year of Darius, as appears by the Beginning of their Prophecies; one in the ſixth Month, the other in the eighth. This ſecond Year of Darius, as Dr. Alix obſerves to me, was a Sabbatic Year, from which there were ſeven Weeks, or forty nine Years, as well for the rebuilding of the Walls of Jeruſalem, which was in the twentieth of Artaxerxes, as for ſettling a right Policy in Church and State, which was finiſhed by Nehemiah, the 32d Year of Artaxerxes, which was alſo a Sabbatic Year. And from this ſecond of Darius, whom God gave Order by theſe Precepts to ſet upon this Work, he thinks, is the true Beginning of the ſixty two Weeks, (ſpoken of, Daniel ix.) till the Appearing of the Meſſiah.

Ver. 2. Then roſe up Zerubbabel the Son of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the Son of Jozadak, and began to build the Houſe of God which is at Jeruſalem:] It had been begun a good while ago, but went on very ſlowly, till theſe great Men, excited by the Prophets, ſet the Work forward.

And with them were the Prophets of God helping them.] Calling upon them to labour ſtrenuouſly in the Work; for God was with them, to protect, defend, and proſper them, Haggai i. 13, 14. ii. 4.

Ver. 3. At the ſame Time came to them Tatnai, Governor on this Side the River, and Shethar-boznai, and their Companions,] Theſe were Men in Authority under the King of Perſia, who managed the publick Affairs in theſe Countries; but ſeem to have been of a better Spirit than Rehum, and the reſt mentioned in the foregoing Chapter; who, it is likely, were either dead, or put out of their Places by this new King.

And ſaid thus unto them, Who hath commanded you to build this Houſe, and to make up this Wall?] They fairly queſtion them by what Authority they built the Temple, and the Wall about it; for they do not mean the Wall of the City, which was not building.

Ver. 4. Then ſaid we unto them after this Manner, What are the Names of the Men that make this Building?] Many take theſe to be ſtill the Words of Tatnai, and his Companions. But it is more natural to take them for the Anſwer of the Jews; who not only told them by what Authority they built the Temple, but alſo gave them the Names of thoſe, who were the great Undertakers of the Work; after which it is likely they enquired, v. 10. But then the Word What, is not the Note of an Interrogation, but is to be tranſlated, We ſaid unto them after this Manner, What were the Names, &c. From which Place Huetius argues, that he who wrote this Chapter, was now preſent when this Queſtion was aſked, and Anſwer made to it; and therefore Ezra was not the Writer; for this was in the ſecond Year of Darius, and he did not come to Jeruſalem till the ſeventh Year of Artaxerxes, called Longimanus, ch. vii. 1, 8.

Ver. 5. But the Eye of their God was upon the Elders of the Jews, that they could not cauſe them to ceaſe, till the Matter came to Darius;] By the Favour and good Providence of God, the King's Miniſters in thoſe Parts became their Friends, ſo far, as not to prohibit them to go on with their Work; but referred the Matter to the Conſideration of Darius himſelf; to whom they make a very fair and honeſt Report of the Caſe.

And then they returned Anſwer by Letter concerning this Matter.] The Matter being laid before Darius, they received Anſwer from him by Letter, what ſhould be done in it.

Ver. 6. The Copy of the Letter that Tatnai, Governor on this Side the River, and Shethar-boznai, and his Companions the Apharſachites, which were on this Side the River, ſent unto Darius the King.] The Apharſachites were one of the Nations mentioned before in the former Letter to Artaxerxes, ch. iv. 9. of which perhaps theſe two great Men were.

Ver. 7. They ſent a Letter unto him, wherein was written thus; Unto Darius the King, all Peace.] They ſeem to write with greater Affection than the former did, wiſhing the King all Proſperity and Happineſs, which the other did not, but only called themſelves his Servants, ch. iv. 11.

Ver. 8. Be it known unto the King, that we went into the Province of Judæa, to the Houſe of the great God,] So the Jews ſpake, to diſtinguiſh their God from all others, who were the Gods only of ſmall Countries, every one of which had their particular Gods.

Which is builded with great Stones,] The Talmudiſts, Jarchi and Kimchi, and others tranſlate it Marble Stones, and the Seventy choice Stones.

And Timber is laid in the Walls, and this Work goeth faſt on, and proſpereth in their Hands.] It was advanced ſo far, and ſuch Diligence was uſed, that if a Stop were not put to it, it would be ſpeedily finiſhed.

Ver. 9. Then aſked we thoſe Elders, and ſaid unto them, Who commanded you to build this Houſe, and to make up theſe Walls?

Ver. 10. And we aſked their Names alſo to certify thee, that we might write the Names of the Men that were the chief of them.] They made a very diligent Enquiry, that they might give the King a perfect Account of the Matter, and he might the better judge of it.

Ver. 11. And thus they returned us Anſwer, ſaying, We are the Servants of the God of Heaven and Earth, and build the Houſe that was builded theſe many Years ago, which a great King of Iſrael builded and ſet up.] They own their Religion which was of very ancient Standing; their God having been worſhipped many Ages ago in this Houſe, which was built by Solomon.

Ver. 12. But after that our Fathers had provoked the God of Heaven unto Wrath, he gave them into the Hand of Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon the Chaldæan; who deſtroyed this Houſe, and carried the People away into Babylon.] They give them a ſhort Account how it came to be deſtroyed for their Sins, and how they were puniſhed on that Account.

Ver. 13. But in the firſt Year of Cyrus, the King of Babylon, the ſame King Cyrus made a Decree to build this Houſe of God.

Ver. 14. And the Veſſels alſo of Gold and Silver of the Houſe of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the Temple that was in Jeruſalem, and brought them into the Temple of Babylon, thoſe did Cyrus the King take out of the Temple of Babylon, and they were delivered unto one whoſe Name was Sheſhbazzar, whom he had made Governor.

Ver. 15. And ſaid unto him, Take theſe Veſſels, go, carry them into the Temple that is in Jeruſalem, and let the Houſe of God be builded in his Place.

Ver. 16. Then came the ſame Sheſhbazzar, and laid the Foundation of the Houſe of God which is in Jeruſalem. And ſince that Time even until now, hath it been in building, and yet it is not finiſhed.] Theſe laſt Words ſhew, it had gone on very ſlowly and negligently ever ſince the firſt of Cyrus, they being in a poor Condition, and hindered in the Work by the Samaritans; after which the People grew ſluggiſh, being ſet upon building their own Houſes, which they carried on with greater Earneſtneſs, than the Houſe of God, as Haggai reproves them. However, in theſe laſt Verſes, the Jews gave Tatnai a faithful Account of the whole Matter; and he very worthily repreſented it to the King, as they informed him, without any Addition or Diminution of his own. For he did not accuſe them of building the Walls of Jeruſalem; which ſhews, he and his Companions were not their Enemies; but impartially wrote what they affirmed to be true.

Ver.

Ver. 17. Now therefore, if it ſeem good to the King, let there be ſearch made in the Kings Treaſure Houſe, which is there at Babylon,] Where the Records of the Kingdom were kept very carefully, as Treaſures uſe to be.

Whether it be ſo that a Decree was made of Cyrus the King, to build this Houſe of God at Jeruſalem, and let the King ſend his Pleaſure to us concerning this Matter.] It is likely the Elders deſired the Records might be ſearched and examined, whether they ſaid true or no; and accordingly the Governors reported their Deſires to the King, as a ſpeedy Way to be ſatisfied about this Matter. For theſe do not ſeem to be like the Samaritans in the foregoing Chapter, who endeavoured to obſtruct the Work, but were only deſirous to be informed of the Truth of what the Jews pretended, that ſo the Building of the Temple might either be permitted or prohibited, according as the King found the Grant of Cyrus to be.

CHAP. VI.

Ver. 1. THen Darius the King made a Decree, and ſearch was made in the Houſe of the Rolls, where the Treaſures were laid up in Babylon.] In the Houſe where the Records of the Kingdom were kept; but by what follows, it appears that in Babylon they found nothing.

Ver. 2. And there was found at Achmetha, in the Palace that is in the Province of the Medes, a Roll, and therein was a Record thus written:] They ſearched therefore at Achmetha, which was afterward called Ecbatana, where the Kings of Perſia ſometimes kept their Court; and there was found a Volume concerning the Affairs of Judæa, wherein was the following Record. This argued a great Goodneſs in Darius, that he did not preſently decree againſt them, becauſe nothing that they alledged was found in Babylon; but cauſed a ſearch to be made in another Place, where he knew Records were preſerved.

Ver. 3. In the firſt Year of Cyrus the King,] This perhaps was the Inſcription of the following Memorial.

The ſame Cyrus the King made a Decree concerning the Houſe of God at Jeruſalem, Let the Houſe be builded, the Place where they offered Sacrifices, and let the Foundations thereof be ſtrongly laid, the height thereof threeſcore Cubits, and the breadth thereof threeſcore Cubits:] Or, rather, the length thereof, as theſe laſt Words may be tranſlated. They had Liberty to make it of theſe Dimenſions if they pleaſed, but no bigger: And theſe exceeded the Proportions of Solomon's Temple, if we ſuppoſe it to have been thirty Cubits in height, except the Porch, which was an hundred and twenty. But I have ſhewn elſewhere, that it is probable all the Temple of Solomon was in length an hundred and twenty Cubits, and this Houſe was but half ſo high. This Joſephus ſaith, who ſaw this ſecond Temple, Lib. xv. Archæolog. Cap. 14. Ἐνδεῖ δ' αὐτῷ πρὸς τὸ μέγεθος εἰς ὕψος ἑξήκοντα πήχεις, &c. It wanted (ſpeaking of this Temple) to make it great, ſixty Cubits in height; for ſo much higher was the firſt Temple which Solomon built.

Ver. 4. With three Rows of great Stones, and a Row of new Timber; and let the Expences be given out of the Kings Houſe.] He ordered it to be built at his own Charge, for ſo he ſaith God commanded him, ch. i. 2. God hath charged me to build him an Houſe at Jeruſalem. Yet we do not find that the Jews made uſe of his Bounty, as Pellicanus obſerves, becauſe they would not provoke too much the Envy of the Samaritans, who were angry at his Kindneſs to them. And therefore they carried on the Work at their own Coſt, till Darius now commanded they ſhould have what they deſired out of his Revenue, to finiſh what they had begun.

Ver. 5. And alſo let the golden and ſilver Veſſels of the Houſe of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took forth out of the Temple which is at Jeruſalem, and brought unto Babylon, be reſtored, and brought again to the Temple which is at Jeruſalem, every one to his Place, and place them in the Houſe of God.] Thus far the Decree of Cyrus is recited, which juſtified the Truth of all the Allegations of the Jews, in the foregoing Chapter. Now follows the Decree of Darius thereupon.

Ver. 6. Now therefore, Tatnai, Governor beyond the River, Shethar-boznai, and your Companions the Apharſachites, which are beyond the River,] It is moſt likely that he ſet down in his Letter to theſe Men, the forementioned Decree of Cyrus, as it was found in the Records, and then gave the following Command.

Be ye far from thence:] Come not near Jeruſalem to give them any Hindrance or Diſturbance.

Ver. 7. Let the Work of this Houſe of God alone,] Obſtruct not the Work, but rather further it.

Let the Governor of the Jews, and the Elders of the Jews, build this Houſe of God in his place.] In the Place where it ſtood before. Zerubbabel is conſtantly called the Governor of the Jews, never their King, Haggai i. 1, 14. and ii. 2, 21. and ſo ſome of his Succeſſors, Malachi i. 9. For in Babylon, as Joſephus relates, he was σωματοφύλαξ a Keeper of the King's Body, and τῶν αἰχμαλώτων Ἰουδαίων ἡγεμών, the Captain of the Captive Jews; who in one Word was called Αἰχμαλωτάρχα. Therefore he was appointed by Cyrus, and afterwards by Darius, to govern the Province of Judæa in the King's Name, and at his Charge to ſee the Temple built at Jeruſalem. But learned Men give no Credit to what Joſephus ſays of his great Office in Babylon.

Ver. 8. Moreover, I make a Decree, what ye ſhall do to the Elders of theſe Jews,] Whoſe Names they had given in to him, ch. 5. 10.

For the building of this Houſe of God:] As he had ordered they ſhould not be hindred, ſo he made a further Order, that they ſhould give them Aſſiſtance in what they were about.

That of the Kings Goods, even of the Tribute beyond the River, forthwith Expences be given unto theſe Men, that they be not hindred.] That the Work might not ſtop for want of Money to go forward, which he ordered to be paid them without Delay.

Ver. 9. And that which they have need of, both young Bullocks, and Rams, and Lambs, for the Burnt-offerings of the God Heaven,] So he had learn'd to call the God of Iſrael, after the Example of Cyrus, who acknowledges God had made him ſo great, as he had Darius.

Wheat, Salt, Wine, and Oil,] For Meat-offerings to attend upon the Burnt-offerings.

According to the Appointment of the Prieſts which are at Jeruſalem,] This was a great Honour done to God's Miniſters, who might have whatſoever they deſired for his Service.

Let it be given them Day by Day without fail:] That the Morning and Evening Burnt-ſacrifices might never fail to be offered every Day.

Ver. 10. That they may offer Sacrifices of ſweet Savours unto the God of Heaven, and pray for the Life of the King, and of his Sons.] From this Place principally Mr. Mede proves at large that Sacrifices were a Rite of Supplication unto God; ſuch ones namely whereby the Supplicant came not with a naked Petition, but preſented ſomething unto his God, whereby to find Favour in his Sight, and obtain his Petition: Whence we find Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, where they pitched their Tents, to have built an Altar alſo (which was a Place for Sacrifice) and there called upon the Name of the LORD. And by this Place it appears, that the Sacrifices and Oblations preſented by Gentiles were not refuſed by the Jews, when they deſired their Prayers to God for them. The Hebrew Doctors indeed ſay, that all ſuch Sacrifices were Euchariſtical, not Hilaſtical, that is, Sacrifices of Thankſgiving or Acknowledgment to God (being Burnt-offerings,) not Sacrifices of Expiation, or Sin-offerings. So Maimonides in his Treatiſe of Sacrifices, All the Euchariſtical Sacrifices of the Gentiles were Burnt-offerings. There is a memorable Paſſage in Joſephus (Lib. ii. De Bello Judaico, Cap. 31.) concerning Eleazar the Prieſt, who being admoniſhed to admit the Sacrifices and Oblations of the Gentiles, acknowledged that their Anceſtors adorned the Temple with Gifts offered by the Gentiles, always accepting τῶν ἔξωθεν ἐθνῶν δορεὰν καὶ θυσίας, the Gifts and Sacrifices of external Nations.

The King and his Sons.] Here it muſt be noted, that Darius the Firſt had no Sons, but Darius the Second had, viz. Artaxerxes Mnemon, and Cyrus the younger, who were great Men, and reigned in ſome Manner with him. Artaxerxes Mnemon (as Dr. Alix makes account) was thirty five Years old in the ſecond Year of Darius; and Cyrus (who was ſlain in a Battle againſt his Brother) was a little younger.

Ver. 11. Alſo I have made a Decree, that whoſoever ſhall alter this Word, let Timber be pulled down from his Houſe, and being ſet up, let him be hanged thereon,] To make the Decree more valid and better obſerved, he added this Penalty; that if any acted contrary to it, a Beam ſhould be taken out of his own Houſe, and being ſet up, he ſhould be hanged thereon. But Lud. de Dieu obſerves, that there is no Conſtruction in theſe Words, which we render, being ſet up; therefore he would have them tranſlated after the LXX. and ſtanding, let him be beat upon it; whipp'd, as we ſay, at a Poſt, as the Manner was among the Perſians and other Nations. Only among the Jews they that were beaten did not ſtand, but lay down, Deut. xxv. 2. But if a greater Puniſhment be here meant, then he makes the firſt Words refer to the Wood, and the latter to the Man, in this Manner, and from above, let it fall upon him. That is, the Stake being lifted up, ſhall be ſtruck into his Body, and come out at his Fundament; which was a cruel Puniſhment among the Eaſtern People, and ſtill continued there.

And let his Houſe be made a Dunghil for this.] The pulling down of a Beam from his Houſe, ſuppoſes the pulling down of the Houſe, which he orders ſhould not be built again, but the Place where it ſtood be made a Dunghil. Thus the Romans pulled down the Houſes of very wicked Men for their greater Diſgrace, of Sp. Caſſius, for Inſtance, and of Ovidius Pollio.

Ver. 12. And the God who hath cauſed his Name to dwell there, deſtroy all Kings and People that ſhall put to their Hand, to alter and to deſtroy this Houſe of God, which is at Jeruſalem:] He was touched with ſuch a Senſe of the Greatneſs of the God of the Jews, that he prays, he who had all Power in Heaven and Earth, would not only puniſh all thoſe Kings over whom he had no Power, (not being his Subjects) who went about to obſtruct this Work, but deſtroy both them and their People.

I Darius have made a Decree, let it be done with ſpeed.] He concludes as he began, that forthwith this Decree ſhould be executed, ver. 8.

Ver. 13. Then Tatnai, Governor on this Side the River, Shethar-boznai, and their Companions, according to that which Darius the King had ſent, ſo they did ſpeedily.] They were as punctual in executing his Decrees as he deſired, and that without any Delay.

Ver. 14. And the Elders of the Jews builded, and they proſpered thro' the propheſying of Haggai the Prophet, and Zechariah the Son of Iddo;] Who directed and encouraged them in their Work; repreſenting to them, it is likely, the wonderful Goodneſs of God, who had inclined the Heart of the King of Perſia to be ſo highly favourable to them.

And they builded and finiſhed it, according to the Commandment of the God of Iſrael, and according to the Commandment of Cyrus, and Darius, and Artaxerxes King of Perſia.] If this Darius was he called Hyſtaſpis, then it was Artaxerxes Longimanus his Succeſſor that is here meant; who tho' he found the Temple built, yet ſent Ezra to beautify it, and to ſee Things done there according to their Law, ch. vii. 12, 21, 27. But ſome think him to be Artaxerxes Mnemon, who reigned with his Father many Years, and lived till he was ninety four Years old. Plut.

Ver. 15. And this Houſe was finiſhed on the third Day of the Month Adar, which was in the ſixth Year of the Reign of Darius the King.] Now they did in four Years more than they had done in many Years before. For, partly by their own Poverty, and partly by the Corruption of the Courtiers of Perſia, who hindred neceſ-neceſſary Supplies; and partly by the Envy of the Samaritans, who retarded them by their falſe Accuſations, and by their Intereſt in the Governors of Syria; and partly by the Sluggiſhneſs of the Jews, and their Inclination to mind their own private Intereſt more than the publick Good, the Work went on ſo ſlowly, that not only the Prophets reprehended them for it, but God puniſh'd them ſeverely by Scarcity of Proviſion, as we read in the Prophet Haggai. But now, by the Favour of this King, and by the Zeal of God's Prophets, it went on a-pace, and was ſpeedily finiſhed.

Ver. 16. And the Children of Iſrael, the Prieſts, and the Levites, and the reſt of the Children of the Captivity, kept the Dedication of this Houſe of God with Joy,] By the Children of Iſrael are to be underſtood not only the two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin (who were the Chief) but all thoſe of other Tribes, many of which from the Time of Cyrus to the ſecond of Darius, were come to their own Country, tho' we have not a particular Account of their Names; this appears from the next Verſe. All theſe, together with the Prieſts and Levites, agreed to dedicate this Houſe with feſtival Joy: Thus the Temple at firſt was dedicated, 1 Kings viii. 2. 2 Chron. vii. 4, &c. That is, after it was built, being deſigned only for ſacred Uſes, now they ſhewed by an Example how it ſhould be uſed, which is the proper and ſimple Senſe of the Word dedicate, as Selden explains it, Lib. iii. de Synedr. Cap. xiii. Sect. 5. But the Hebrew Doctors obſerve, that by theſe Sacrifices now offered, there was no new Sanctity given to the Place, but the old only reſtored.

Ver. 17. And offered at the Dedication of this Houſe of God, an hundred Bullocks, two hundred Rams, four hundred Lambs;] An Hecatomb was the nobleſt Sacrifice among the Heathen, of which we find often mention in their Books; and with that the Jews began the Dedication of the Temple; to which they made many additional Offerings, ſome of which were Peace-offerings, on which they feaſted, as the hundred Bullocks, I ſuppoſe, were whole Burnt-offerings.

And for a Sin-offering for all Iſrael, twelve He-goats, according to the Number of the Tribes of Iſrael.] For it appears by many Places before-recited, that tho' the ten Tribes were carried captive by Salmanaſſer, yet many of them remained in their Country, and were carried away by Nebuchadnezzar, together with Judah and Benjamin, with whom they returned out of Babylon; as many others of the ten Tribes did, who were carried away at the taking of Samaria. See Chapter the Second of this Book, v. 70. and 2 Chron. xxxi. 5, 10, 11. xxxiv. 7, 9. xxxv. 3, 17. Ezra viii. 35. Acts xxvi. 7.

Ver. 18. And they ſet the Prieſts in their Diviſions, and the Levites in their Courſes, for the Service of God, which is at Jeruſalem; as it is written in the Book of Moſes.] Where Directions are given for their Service, Numb. iii. 6. viii. 9, 10.

Ver. 19. And the Children of the Captivity kept the Paſſover, upon the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month.] As was enjoined, Exodus xii. 6. The Jews had the free Exerciſe of their Religion in Babylon (as I ſhall obſerve more largely afterward) where they circumciſed their Children, and alſo made Proſelytes; but the Children of the Captivity ſignified thoſe who were come back from it, and eat the Paſſover, which they could not have done if they had not been circumciſed.

Ver. 20. For the Prieſts and the Levites were purified together, all of them were pure, and killed the Paſſover for all the Children of the Captivity, and for their Brethren the Prieſts, and for themſelves.] They had time to purify themſelves between the Day wherein the Temple was perfected, and the Day wherein this Feaſt was to be kept, there being above a Month between.

Ver. 21. And the Children of Iſrael, which were come again out of Captivity, and all ſuch as had ſeparated themſelves unto them, from the Filthineſs of the Heathen of the Land, to ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael, did eat,] That is, all Proſelytes, who had entirely made themſelves ſubject to the Law of Moſes; for others might not eat of it, but they might, Exodus xii. 48, 49. Now, as Pellicanus obſerves, there were many Proſelytes who quite forſook their heatheniſh Religion, and were brought to the Knowledge and Worſhip of the true God, by the Favour of Cyrus and Darius Kings of Perſia: They had kept the Paſſover before this, being in the Place which God choſe, and having an Altar where they might ſacrifice; but it was not a quiet and ſettled Time, and they had much Occaſion to be among the Heathen; and ſo, it is likely, could not eaſily purify themſelves to eat of it, as they did now.

Ver. 22. And kept the Feaſt of unleavened Bread ſeven Days with Joy: for the LORD had made them joyful, and turned the Heart of the King of Aſſyria unto them, to ſtrengthen their Hands in the Work of the Houſe of God, the God of Iſrael.] God filled their Hearts with Joy, by turning the Heart of the King, who now reigned over all the Kingdoms, which were formerly under the Power of the Aſſyrians, who had grievouſly oppreſſed them, as the Perſians who came in their ſtead now highly favoured them; who having conquered Babylon, were called the Kings of Aſſyria: For we find in theſe Books, the King of Perſia, after that Conqueſt, is called by the Name of the King of Babylon. See Nehemiah xiii. 6. as the ſame King of Perſia is here called the King of Aſſyria. For the Kings formerly called by theſe Names, were poſſeſſed of vaſt Dominions over many large Provinces, which the Perſian Kings enjoying, they retained the ancient Names of the former Kings. For, as Joh. Voſſius obſerves, in his Diſſertatio de IV Monarchiis, Sect. ix. the Kingdom of Babylon was not extinguiſhed by little and little, but all at once: Cyrus poſſeſſed himſelf of it intirely, ſimul & ſemel; and adding a vaſt Dominion to the ſmall one he had before, was called the King of thoſe Dominions which he conquered.

CHAP. VII.

Ver. 1. NOW after these Things, in the Reign of Artaxerxes King of Persia,] The same Artaxerxes, I suppose, mentioned in the foregoing Chapter, ver. 14. But R. Solomon, and Aben Ezra, fancy he was Darius before-named.

Ezra the Son of Seraiah, the Son of Azariah, the Son of Hilkiah,] He was descended from Seraiah, but not immediately begotten by him; for Seraiah perished when Jerusalem was taken by the Chaldeans, 2 Kings xxv. 18, 21. at which Time Ezra, it is likely, was not in being; but he was his Grandson, or great Grandson, and his Descent is mentioned from him, because he was an eminent Person, who flourished before the Destruction of the Temple, whereas his Father or Grandfather lived obscurely in their Captivity. See 1 Chron. vi. 15.

Ver. 2. The Son of Shallum, the Son of Zadok, the Son of Ahitub,

Ver. 3. The Son of Amariah, the Son of Azariah, the Son of Meraioth,] In this Genealogy there are six Generations omitted, between Azariah and Meraioth (as before there were some between Seraiah and Ezra) which are to be supplied out of 1 Chron. vi. 7, &c. Which Kimchi, as I there observed, thinks was done for Brevity Sake: For Ezra being Author of that Book which was written first, and then of this, might think it needless to repeat all that he had there said at large.

Ver. 4. The Son of Zerahiah, the Son of Uzzi, the Son of Bukki,

Ver. 5. The Son of Abishua, the Son of Phinehas, the Son of Eleazar, the Son of Aaron the chief Priest:] See 1 Chron. vi. 4, 5.

Ver. 6. This Ezra went up from Babylon,] Not only by the King's Leave, and his Commission, but with great Authority, as appears from the End of this Verse, and from v. 25.

And he was a ready Scribe in the Law of Moses, which the LORD God of Israel had given:] He calls himself a Scribe (as Buxtorf notes in his Tiberias) not from writing and describing, but from declaring and explicating those Things that are contained in the Scripture. For as Sepher signifies a Book, so Sopher signifies one skilful and learned in that Book, an Interpreter and Teacher out of it. And there being no Book comparable to the Book of the Law, therefore Sopher became a Name of great Dignity, and signified one that taught God's Law, and expounded it to his People. Thus in the New Testament Γραμματεῖς, the Scribes, were those that instructed the People. For when our Saviour is said to have taught them as one having Authority, and not as the Scribes, it plainly shews that they were Teachers, tho' not with such Authority. See Jerem. viii. 8. where the Word Scribe is thus used.

And he calls himself a ready Scribe, because he was expert in the Law, and understood it throughly, both in all Things belonging to the Priesthood, and to the Civil Power; in which he was so well versed, that he could give a ready Account of any Part of it. And it is thought by some, he gathered together the most perfect Copies of the Law, and put out an accurate Edition of it, with all the prophetical Books, and such Poems as had any sacred Authority among them, adding the History of following Times. But Josephus saith nothing of it, and therefore it is look'd upon by others as a Jewish Chimæra, who attribute many other Things to him without Ground.

And the King granted him all his Request,] Some think to rebuild Jerusalem, of which there is no mention any where; therefore he only granted him Power, as he desired, to do such Things as are mentioned below, ver. 14, 15, &c.

According to the Hand of the LORD his God upon him.] For God was so favourable to him, as to incline the King to give a gracious Answer to his Petition. And indeed, these Kings of Persia were so exceeding kind to the Jews, that in a grateful Remembrance of the Favour they shewed them, in permitting them to build the Temple again, and assisting them in it, they caused a Figure of the City and Palace of Shushan (where the Kings of Persia resided) to be made in Brass, in the East-gate of the Temple, which looked towards Persia; as we read in the Talmud, in the Treatise called Middoth.

Ver. 7. And there went up some of the Children of Israel,] Of the ten Tribes, or such Jews as remained still in Babylon, after Leave given them by Cyrus to return into their own Country.

And of the Priests, and the Levites, and the Singers, and the Porters, and the Nethinims, unto Jerusalem, in the seventh Year of Artaxerxes the King.] This was the second Company that went up to Jerusalem, consisting of such-like Persons as went up first with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and others, ch. ii. 2, 70. For hearing the Temple was rebuilt, and the Worship of God restored, we may very well think many went along with Ezra, who had not such a strong Motive to go in the first of Cyrus.

Ver. 8. And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth Month, which was in the seventh Year of the King.

Ver. 9. For upon the first Day of the first Month began he to go up from Babylon, and on the first Day of the fifth Month came he to Jerusalem,] On the first Day of the first Month they went from Babylon to the River Ahava, where they spent three Days in taking a View of the People that accompanied him, chap. viii. 15. After eight Days more, Part of which they had spent in Fasting and Prayer, they went forward, ch. viii. 21, 22, 31.

According to the good Hand of his God upon him.] He had great Reason to acknowledge the Favour of God to them in conducting them safe to Jerusalem; for it was a long Way thither, and a difficult Journey, and they had many Impediments (going with Wives and Children, Flocks, and Herds) and were not without Enemies to way-lay them, whom he boasted he did not fear, but relied on the Divine Protection, as he told the King, c. viii. 22.

Ver. 10. For Ezra had prepared his Heart to seek the Law of the LORD, and to do it, and to teach in Israel Statutes and Judgments.] He was intent upon this Buſineſs, on which he had ſet his Heart, as we ſpeak, bending his Thoughts and Studies this Way; for ſo the Hebrew Word Cun (which we tranſlate prepare) ſignifies, to eſtabliſh, confirm, and make things fixed and immoveable: And firſt, he ſet himſelf to ſeek the Law of the LORD, that is, to enquire into it, and ſearch after the Will of God therein contained, that he might underſtand it himſelf; and then, like a good Man, he ſet his Heart to do what God commanded, and put in Practice what he knew to be his Duty; whereby he was the better qualified to teach others what he knew and did himſelf, which was the next Thing which he diligently attended. This was the right Method of doing good, in which Nehemiah tells us he proceeded, chap. viii. Beginning. Some think Statutes and Judgments are the ſame Thing, comprehending all the Precepts of Moſes, but others take them to have a diſtinct Meaning; the firſt ſignifying the ceremonial Law about the Divine Worſhip; and the ſecond, the moral Precepts concerning common Honeſty and civil Life.

Ver. 11. Now this is the Copy of the Letter that the King Artaxerxes gave unto Ezra the Prieſt, the Scribe, even a Scribe of the Words of the Commandments of the LORD, and of his Statutes to Iſrael.] Here Ezra declares that he was no ordinary Doctor of the Law, but of eminent Rank among them, who had ſtudied the Law thoroughly, and was able in every Caſe to determine what was to be done. Or, (as ſome underſtand the latter Part of this Verſe) he was perfectly ſkilled in the Words or Language wherein the Law was written, (which in the Captivity many perhaps had forgotten) and in the Senſe of every Law. But this, I think, is not to be ſuppoſed, that they had forgotten their own Language.

Ver. 12. Artaxerxes King of Kings,] For he had ſeveral Kings who were ſubject to him.

Unto Ezra the Prieſt, a Scribe of the Law of the God of Heaven,] So Ezra, I ſuppoſe, was wont to be ſtyled by the Jews, who never ſpake of him, but as a Man of greater Dignity and Honour than others.

Perfect Peace, and at ſuch a Time.] On ſuch a Year and Day, as was mentioned in the Date of the Letter.

Ver. 13. I make a Decree, that all they of the People of Iſrael, and of his Prieſts, and Levites in my Realm, which are minded of their own free Will to go up to Jeruſalem, go with thee.] None might leave his Country without the King's Permiſſion, which he here gives to all the Jewiſh Nation who were ſo diſpoſed.

Ver. 14. Foraſmuch as thou art ſent of the King, and of his ſeven Counſellors,] By whoſe Advice this Decree being made, it gave it the greater Authority; for theſe were the principal Men of the Kingdom, as appears from the firſt of Eſther, ver. 14.

To enquire concerning Judah and Jeruſalem, according to the Law of thy God,] By this Commiſſion he gave him Authority to make Inquiſition in Judea, whether every Thing there was done conformably to the Law of Moſes: That is, he granted to the Jewiſh Nation an αὐτονομία, a Liberty to live by their own Laws, and to judge all Cauſes according to them; and in the Concluſion, granted them alſo an αὐτοδικία, a Power to ſentence Men according to their own Law, ver. 25, 26.

Which is in thine Hand:] He entruſted Ezra with this great Power of being ſupreme Inquiſitor and Judge, becauſe he was ſo very well ſkilled in the Law (which is meant by having it in his Hand) which he had in ſuch Readineſs, and was ſo very converſant in it, that he was able preſently to determine and judge whether it were obſerved.

Ver. 15. And to carry the Silver and the Gold, which the King and his Counſellors have freely offered unto the God of Iſrael, whoſe Habitation is in Jeruſalem.] This is an Argument that they had an high Opinion of the God of Iſrael, and deſired his Favour, tho' they did not worſhip him alone, but imagined other Gods had ſome Power, tho' not ſo great as he.

Ver. 16. And all the Silver and Gold that thou canſt find in the Province of Babylon, with the Freewill-offering of the People, and of the Prieſts offering willingly for the Houſe of their God, which is in Jeruſalem:] He gave them Leave to carry away all the Money they could procure (ſo the Word we tranſlate find is uſed in other Places) in his own Country of Babylon, as well as what the Jews, who had a Mind to ſtay ſtill there, ſhould offer for the Service of the Temple at Jeruſalem.

Ver. 17. That thou mayeſt buy ſpeedily with this Money, Bullocks, Rams, Lambs, with their Meat-offerings, and their Drink-offerings, and offer them upon the Altar of the Houſe of your God, which is in Jeruſalem.] That they might pray for the Proſperity of the King and of his Sons, as Darius ordered, ch. vi. 9, 10.

Ver. 18. And whatſoever ſhall ſeem good to thee, and to thy Brethren, to do with the reſt of the Silver and Gold, that do after the Will of your God.] He authorizes Ezra to take other Prieſts to his Aſſiſtance, in diſpoſing of the Money that was not laid out in Sacrifices; only he would have it employed to ſome ſacred Uſe.

Ver. 19. The Veſſels alſo that are given thee, for the Service of the Houſe of thy God, thoſe deliver thou before the God of Jeruſalem.] He ſpeaks of him, as if he thought him a particular God, but afterwards ſpeaks of him as the God of Heaven, as he had done before, ver. 12. which is a Sign he took him to be the moſt High God, who had a ſpecial Affection for Jeruſalem, becauſe he was there worſhipped.

Ver. 20. And whatſoever more ſhall be needful for the Houſe of thy God, which thou ſhalt have Occaſion to beſtow,] Either for the Reparation (if any was wanting) or for the Adorning of the Houſe. See ver. 27.

Beſtow it out of the Kings Treaſure-houſe.] Out of his Exchequer, as we now ſpeak.

Ver. 21. And I, even I Artaxerxes the King, do make a Decree to all the Treaſurers which are beyond the River,] All the Receivers, and other Officers employed about the King's Revenue.

That whatſoever Ezra the Prieſt, the Scribe of the Law of the God of Heaven, ſhall require of you, you, it be done ſpeedily;] This was a wonderful large Conceſſion, that he ſhould have whatſoever he deſired; and that they ſhould not make him attend upon them, and wait long for it, but furniſh him immediately.

Ver. 22. Unto an hundred Talents of Silver, and to an hundred Meaſures of Wheat, and to an hundred Baths of Wine, and to an hundred Baths of Oil, and Salt without preſcribing how much.] He limits all the other Expences, except Salt; without which no Sacrifice could be offered; and therefore ſince he would not have any Sacrifice hindred, he did not preſcribe any Meaſure of that; but left them to take as much as they found neceſſary.

Ver. 23. Whatſoever is commanded by the God of Heaven, let it be diligently done, for the Houſe of the God of Heaven:] Here Jacobus Capellus cries out in a Kind of Rapture, O verba literis aureis regum Palatiis inſcribenda, atque adeò ſtylo adamantino fidelium omnium animis inſculpenda! O Words to be written upon the Palaces of Kings in golden Letters, and engraven on the Minds of all the Faithful with a Style of Adamant! For they expreſs an exceeding great Senſe of God, and of his ſupreme Authority; and the Regard that is due from the greateſt Kings and Potentates to his moſt ſacred Commands. Hiſt. ſacra & exotica, ad A. M. 3543. The like is not eaſy to be found any where.

For why ſhould there be Wrath againſt the Realm of the King and his Sons?] As he was afraid there would be, if the Worſhip and Service of God was here neglected, thro' his Default: An Argument he was poſſeſſed with a greater Dread of God's juſt Diſpleaſure, than the Kings of Judah themſelves were generally before the Captivity: The Mention of the King and of his Sons, ſhews, that this agrees to Artaxerxes Mnemon exactly; but not to Xerxes, (who was in Greece in the ſeventh Year of his Reign) nor to Longimanus: But Artaxerxes Mnemon had then Ochus the Huſband of Eſther, who was a great Man, and ſome more: This Remark I owe to the moſt learned Dr. Alix.

Ver. 24. Alſo we certify you, that touching any of the Prieſts and Levites, Singers, Porters, Nethinims, or Miniſters of this Houſe of God, it ſhall not be lawful to impoſe Toll, Tribute, or Cuſtom upon them.] The King's Revenue aroſe out of theſe three Impoſts, as appears by ch. iv. 13. from all which Burdens, which were very great, the King freed every one of God's Miniſters, that they might the more chearfully attend his Service: And this was confirmed by ſome ſucceeding Princes, as Bertram obſerves, de Republica Jud. p. 171. which the firſt Chriſtian Kings piouſly imitated, as J. Wolphius notes, That they who watched and prayed for the publick Good, might be free from all other Cares.

Ver. 25. And thou, Ezra, after the Wiſdom of thy God, that is in thine Hand,] According as the Law of God directed, in which he was very expert, ver. 14.

Set Magiſtrates and Judges, which may judge all the People that are beyond the River,] Such as Moſes ordered, Deut. xvi. 18. Here ſeems to be the Original of the Sanhedrin, which continued but weakly till the Time of the Maccabees.

All ſuch as know the Laws of thy God; and teach ye them that know them not.] Men well acquainted with the Laws of God, who were able to inſtruct others that were ignorant. No Jewiſh King could have given more pious Inſtructions: And the ſame Jacobus Capellus in the Place above-named, thinks, that in this large Power granted to Ezra, there was comprehended ſufficient Authority to build the Walls of Jeruſalem: But as the King did not expreſly mention it, ſo the Malignity of the Jews Enemies hindred it; and Ezra being now grown old, was unable to cope with them. But this is not a good Reaſon, for he lived thirteen Years after this, able to ſtand and read the Law from ſix to twelve of the Clock.

Ver. 26. And whoſoever will not do the Law of thy God, and the Law of the King,] By the Law of the King is meant this Decree, which was now made in Favour of the Jews; giving them Authority to execute their own Laws again. As for the Imperial Laws, Ezra had nothing to do with them, nor were the Jews to be governed by them, but by their own Laws; unleſs any Matters could not be determined by the Divine Laws; in that Caſe they were to be judged by the King's Law. So Joh. Vorſtius underſtands theſe Words disjunctively (in his Diſſert. de Synedriis Hebr. Sect. 36.) that they ſhould act according to the Direction of the divine Law; or, if any thing fell out that could not be defined by that, then according to the Preſcription of the Laws of the King.

Let Judgment be executed ſpeedily upon him, whether it be unto Death,] The Romans never allowed the Jews the Power of Life and Death, which the Perſians did. So it is commonly thought; but the contrary is plain from the Acts of the Apoſtles, which ſhew, they enjoyed that Power, by their ſtoning St. Stephen.

Or to Baniſhment, or to Confiſcation of Goods, or to Impriſonment.] That Word which we tranſlate Baniſhment, ſignifies in the Chaldee (as we note in the Margin of our Bibles) rooting out; and therefore is by ſome interpreted diſinheriting, or excommunicating from their Society; ſo that he ſhould be an Out-law, as we ſpeak, the higheſt Degree of which was called Shammathah. And thus our Mr. Thorndike obſerves, that this rooting out is the ſame with that which in ch. x. 8. is called being divided or ſeparated from the Congregation of the Captivity; being indeed a Kind of Temporal Out-lawry, unto which is joined Confiſcation of Goods: And thus the greater Excommunication among Chriſtians, is every where a Temporal Puniſhment; viz. in reſpect of ſome Temporal Puniſhment attending it in Chriſtian States; which in Chriſtianity is accidental, by an Act of thoſe States; but in Judaiſm was eſſential, ſo long as thoſe Temporal Advantages, which were eſſential Conditions of the Law, were not forfeited: And this without doubt is the ſame Puniſhment that is called Putting out of the Synagogue. See Rights of the Church in a Chriſtian State, p. 28. and Review, p. 58. with Grotius de Imper. Sum. Poteſt. Cap. ix. I only add, that from ſuch Sentence it was in vain for them to appeal to any of the King's Courts; for by this Decree all Matters were to be tried and finally judged by their own Law.

Ver. 27. Bleſſed be the LORD God of our Fathers, which hath put ſuch a Thing as this in the Kings Heart, to beautify the Houſe of the LORD which is in Jeruſalem:] To be ſo liberal in his Gifts and Privileges, as is before expreſſed, ver. 15, 16, &c.

Ver. 28. And hath extended Mercy unto me,] Theſe Words plainly ſhew, Ezra wrote this Part of this Book, if not the whole.

Before the King and his Counſellors, and before all the Kings mighty Princes:] By whoſe Advice and Conſent the large Immunities before-mentioned were granted to the Jewiſh Nation.

And I was ſtrengthened as the Hand of the LORD my God was upon me, and I gathered together out of Iſrael, chief Men to go up with me.] Whoſe Names follow in the next Chapter. The marvellous Kindneſs of the King in this Grant to Ezra, gave a great Authority to him; and moved ſeveral of the greateſt Perſons among the Jews ſtill in Babylon, to reſolve to accompany him to Jeruſalem.

Theſe two laſt Verſes are evidently the Words of Ezra, acknowledging the divine Goodneſs to him, in giving him ſuch Favour with the King; whoſe Words before are in the Syriack or Chaldee Language; but theſe are in the Hebrew.

CHAP. VIII.

Ver. 1. THeſe are now the chief of their Fathers, and this is the Genealogy of them that went up with me from Babylon, in the Reign of Artaxerxes the King.] Whoſe Names he ſets down to preſerve their Memory to future Generations.

Ver. 2. Of the Sons of Phinehas; Gerſhom: Of the Sons of Ithamar; Daniel:] By the Sons, he means the Families of theſe two Perſons; two of which he particularly names, Gerſhom, and Daniel: Not Daniel the Prophet, but ſome eminent Perſon of Ithamar's Family.

Of the Sons of David; Hattuſh.] His Family was ſo noble, becauſe Chriſt was to ſpring from thence, that ſpecial Notice was taken of it.

Ver. 3. Of the Sons of Shechaniah, of the Sons of Pharoſh; Zechariah:] This Shechaniah is ſaid to be the Son of Pharoſh, to diſtinguiſh him from another Shechaniah, mentioned ver. 5.

And with him] That is, with Zechariah.

Were reckoned by Genealogy of the Males an hundred and fifty.] It is not ſaid, how many there were of the other Families; and we are not to think that none but Males went up out of this Family, and the reſt that follow; for Mention is made of their little ones, ver. 21. who had Women, no doubt, to look after them.

Ver. 4. Of the Sons of Pahath-moab; Elihoenai the Son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred Males.

Ver. 5. Of the Sons of Shechaniah; the Son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred Males.] This was a Perſon of great Note, of whoſe Family there went up almoſt twice as many as did of any other Family.

Ver. 6. Of the Sons alſo of Adin; Ebed the Son of Jonathan, and with him fifty Males.

Ver. 7. And of the Sons of Elam; Jeſhaiah the Son of Athaliah, and with him ſeventy Males.] Concerning thoſe, and the Families that follow to ver. 15. there is little to be noted; but that out of them many went up with Zerubbabel in the Reign of Cyrus, (which appears by the Account given in the ſecond Chapter) as now more went up with Ezra out of the very ſame Families.

Ver. 8. And of the Sons of Shephatiah; Zebadiah the Son of Michael, and with him fourſcore Males.

Ver. 9. Of the Sons of Joab; Obadiah the Son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen Males.

Ver. 10. And of the Sons of Shelomith; the Son of Joſiphiah, and with him an hundred and threeſcore Males.

Ver. 11. And of the Sons of Bebai; Zechariah the Son of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight Males.

Ver. 12. And of the Sons of Azgad; Johanan the Son of Hakkatan, and with him an hundred and ten Males.

Ver. 13. And of the laſt Sons of Adonikam, whoſe Names are theſe, Eliphelet, Jeiel, and Shemaiah, and with them threeſcore Males.] They are called the laſt Sons, with reſpect to the firſt of them that went up with Zerubbabel. Or, theſe were the laſt that followed Ezra: Which ſome look upon as a Blot on Adonikam, that his Family was the laſt that accompanied Ezra.

Ver. 14. Of the Sons alſo of Bigvai; Uthai, and Zabbud, and with them ſeventy Males.

Ver. 15. And I gathered them together to the River that runneth to Ahava;] This ſeems to be the Name of a River, as well as of a Town, which ſtood on the Bank of Euphrates, there where this Stream emptied itſelf into it. Some take it for Adiabene, a City ſo called from Adiava, v. 31.

And there abode we in Tents three Days:] It is likely, that in the whole Journey they lodged, not in Cities and Towns, but in Tents which they carried along with them; and could pitch where and when it was moſt commodious for them.

And I viewed the People,] Took an Account of their Number, and of what Tribe they were.

And the Prieſts, and found there were none of the Sons of Levi.] That is, none who were not Prieſts: Of whom there were ſome, ver. 2.

Ver. 16. Then ſent I for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meſhullam, chief Men;] Men of Authority among the Company; and the Heads perhaps of ſeveral Families.

Alſo for Joiarib, and for Elnathan, Men of Underſtanding.] Theſe eleven Perſons he ſent for to come to him, that he might employ them in a Meſſage to a Place, where he knew there were a great many Levites; as it follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 17. And I ſent them with Commandment unto Iddo the Chief,] Among the Levites, who dwelt at the Place next mentioned, and there had the free Exerciſe of their Religion, as this and many other Paſſages in this Book plainly enough prove. And it is very probable, they had their Synagogues (as they had afterward in their Diſperſion) or other Places, where they met for religious Worſhip. For we find the People reſorting to Ezekiel in their Captivity, and him preaching to them the Word of God, in many Places of his Book; particularly ch. xxxiii. 30, 31, &c. And Ezra in all likelihood was an Inſtructor among them, as Joarib and Elnathan alſo were, and Iddo, to whom theſe were ſent. By which means many Proſelytes were made, who left their own Country, and came with them to Jeruſalem, when they returned, ch. vi. 21.

At the Place Caſiphia,] Several are of Opinion, and particularly Stephanus Morinus lately, that this Place was in the Country of the Caſpii, a People who gave Denomination to the Caſpian Sea; where ſome of the Iſraelites were planted, who were carried captive by Salmanaſſer, and ſtill preſerved their Language and Religion. But I look upon this as unlikely, the Caſpian Sea and the Country about it being too far off for Ezra to ſend thither theſe Meſſengers; who rather went to a Place in the Province of Babylon, to which they went, and did a great deal of Buſineſs, and returned in the Space of twelve Days. The Truth is (as Dr. Alix obſerves) the Levites were not among the Ten Tribes, but in Chaldæa. And perhaps ſome of them were tranſported into Parthia; where there was a City called Caſpi, known to the old Geographers.

And I told them what they ſhould ſay unto Iddo, and to his Brethren the Nethinims, at the Place Caſiphia,] Who, it ſeems, were better diſpoſed than many of the Levites, to whom they miniſtred. But R. Solomon and others tranſlate the Words quite otherways; He told them what they ſhould ſay to Iddo and his Brethren, (or, to Achio) who were conſtituted in the Place Caſiphia. For it is plain they were not Nethinims, Iddo being called Haroſh, a Prince, or Chief, that is, among the Levites: By whoſe Authority Ezra expected ſome Levites, whom he wanted to accompany him to Jeruſalem, ſhould be ſent to him; as they were. Now this cannot be ſaid of the Nethinims; for none of them were Chiefs, or Preſidents of the Levites, but their Miniſters or Servants, as appears from ver. 20. and other Places. Therefore the Word Nethinim muſt here ſignify Men appointed to live among the Jews of that Place; or, who had their Reſidence there.

That they ſhould bring unto us Miniſters for the Houſe of our God.] That is, Levites to attend upon the Prieſts, as the Nethinims did upon the Levites.

Ver. 18. And by the good Hand of our God upon us,] God inclined their Hearts to comply with his Deſire.

They brought us a Man of Underſtanding of the Sons of Mahli, the Son of Levi, the Son of Iſrael, and Sherebiah, with his Sons and his Brethren, eighteen;] They brought a Man of Underſtanding, viz. Sherebiah, (ſo the Words, I think, ſhould be tranſlated) with his Sons and Brethren, eighteen in Number.

Ver. 19. And Haſhabiah, and with him Jeſhaiah of the Sons of Merari, his Brethren and their Sons, twenty;] Theſe were eminent Perſons alſo, tho' not equal to Sherebiah, who is noted as a Man of great Knowledge.

Ver. 20. Alſo of the Nethinims, whom David and the Princes had appointed for the Service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinims:] Every one knows, that the Gibeonites were addicted by Joſhua to be Hewers of Wood, and Drawers of Water, for the Service of God's Houſe; but a great many of them being deſtroyed by Saul, there were not enow remaining to ſerve in thoſe Miniſtries. And therefore David (as Bertram thinks, in his Book De Repub. Jud. p. 277.) appointed ſome other Perſons to the ſame Employment; and afterwards Solomon appointed more; who are called therefore Solomon's Servants. All which, both Gibeonites and thoſe who were added to them by David and Solomon, were known by the Name of Nethinims, as much as to ſay, Dedititii, or Aſcriptitii, Men given, as the Hebrew Word denotes: For as the Levites were given to the Prieſts (Numb. viii. 16, 19.) ſo were theſe given to the Levites. And this is ſaid to have been done by David and the Princes, becauſe David adviſed with the Conſiſtory about it, who are called the Princes, 2 Chron. xxx. 2. xxvi. 10, 11. See Mr. Thorndike, Rights of the Church, p. 231. But I have obſerved elſewhere, that theſe Nethinims were diſtinct from the Gibeonites, and of a higher Rank in the Service of God. See 1 Chron. ix. ver. 2.

All of them were expreſſed by Name.] I ſuppoſe Iddo ſent the Names of every one of them, tho' they are not all here mentioned.

Ver. 21. Then I proclaimed a Faſt there, at the River Ahava, that we might afflict ourſelves before our God, to ſeek of him a right Way for us, and for our little ones, and for all our Subſtance.] He being the Leader of this Colony, had Authority from the King to command whatſoever he pleaſed for the Good of it. And nothing was more neceſſary, than humbly and ſorrowfully to acknowledge their Offences againſt God, and beg his gracious Pardon; and that he would proſper them in their Journey, and direct them in the beſt Way to bring themſelves and all they had ſafe to Jeruſalem: Which was the End of this Faſt.

Ver. 22. For I was aſhamed to require of the King a Band of Soldiers and Horſemen, to help us againſt the Enemy in the Way: Becauſe we had ſpoken unto the King, ſaying, The Hand of our God is upon all them for good, that ſeek him; but his Power and his Wrath is againſt all them that forſake him.] He might have obtained from the King any thing that he deſired; but he had ſo openly declared, that he depended ſolely upon God for ſafe Conduct, that he was aſhamed to aſk a Guard of the King to ſecure them in their Paſſage, from thoſe Enemies that he knew would way-lay them, ver. 31. For the King not being much inſtructed in divine Matters, might imagine, that all were vain Boaſts which the Jews had made of the Favour of God to them, and of the Prophecies concerning their Reſtauration: Which made Ezra and others ſo confident, ſident, as only to deſire Leave to return to their own Country; and as for a ſafe Paſſage, they took no Care, but to commit themſelves to God, who would defend his own People that truſted in him. To aſk therefore Protection and Defence from the King, would look as if they diſtruſted the Power and Favour of their God, concerning whom they had ſpoken ſo magnificently. But it was highly neceſſary they ſhould beſeech that of God, which they would not aſk of the King; which they did by Faſting and Prayer.

Ver. 23. So we faſted, and beſought our God for this, and he was intreated of us.] Gave them ſome Aſſurance, that their Petitions ſhould be granted. Some think, this Faſt laſted eight Days, beginning after the three Days mentioned above, ver. 15. For they began to go out of Babylon on the firſt Day of the Month, ch. vii. 9. and they ſtaid at Ahava three Days to take a View of their Company; and went from thence on the twelfth, (ver. 31). And therefore they muſt either keep this Faſt eight Days, or elſe they were ſeven Days in coming from Babylon, and other Places, to Ahava; where a general Rendezvous, as we ſpeak, was appointed. And this I take to be moſt probable, that they came out of Babylon on the firſt Day, and expected at Ahava till all their Company was got together, which was about the ſeventh Day; and they all reſted three Days to make a compleat Muſter of the whole Number, and faſted one Day; and ſo began to take their Journey from Ahava on the twelfth.

Ver. 24. Then I ſeparated twelve of the chief of the Prieſts, Sherebiah, Haſhabiah, and ten of their Brethren with them,] With whom he might intruſt the Gifts, that had been offered for the Temple: Theſe ten Men perhaps were principal Levites, who were added to the two Prieſts to take this Charge upon them. See ver. 29.

Ver. 25. And weighed unto them the Silver, and the Gold, and the Veſſels, even the Offering of the Houſe of our God, which the King, and his Counſellors, and his Lords, and all Iſrael there preſent, had offered.] That they might have no Excuſe, if they were any way embezzelled.

Ver. 26. I even weighed into their Hand ſix hundred and fifty Talents of Silver, and ſilver Veſſels an hundred Talents, and of Gold an hundred Talents:] Or, an hundred ſilver Veſſels, according to their Talents; that is, every one a Talent.

Ver. 27. Alſo twenty Baſons of Gold, of a thouſand Drams, and two Veſſels of fine Copper, precious as Gold.] They were not worth their Weight in Gold; but they were of great Value, being ſcarce and rare; as that Metal, called Aurichalcum was; which might be the Reaſon, why there were no more than two of them.

Ver. 28. And I ſaid unto them, Ye are holy unto the LORD, the Veſſels are holy alſo,] They being Men conſecrated to God's Service, were bound above all others to be faithful in the Diſcharge of their Duty, eſpecially being intruſted with holy Things; which were therefore to be carefully delivered at Jeruſalem, juſt as they were committed to their Truſt.

And the Silver, and the Gold are a Free-will-offering unto the LORD God of your Fathers.] Which made them ſtill more ſacred.

Ver. 29. Watch ye, and keep them, until ye weigh them before the Chief of the Prieſts and the Levites, and Chief of the Fathers of Iſrael at Jeruſalem, in the Chambers of the Houſe of the LORD.] Where they were depoſited, after they had given an Account of them there, to the Perſons here mentioned; who received them by the ſame Weight, that they were delivered unto theſe that brought them.

Ver. 30. So took the Prieſts and the Levites, the Weight of the Silver and the Gold, and the Veſſels, to bring them to Jeruſalem unto the Houſe of our God.] This ſhews, that ſome of theſe twelve Men (mentioned ver. 26.) if not ten of them, were Levites, and not all Prieſts.

Ver. 31. Then we departed from the River of Ahava,] Which run by that City into Euphrates.

On the twelfth Day of the firſt Month, to go unto Jeruſalem;] To purſue their intended Journey.

And the Hand of our God was upon us,] To protect and ſtrengthen them in ſo dangerous and long a Journey.

And he delivered us from the Hand of the Enemy, and of ſuch as lay in wait by the Way.] There were not only many Enemies who hated them, and were deſirous to cut them off, but many Robbers who watched for a Booty, whom God either diverted ſome other way, or diſheartned from attempting any thing againſt them; or, perhaps, directed them (as they prayed, ver. 21.) into ſome uncommon Ways, in which People were not wont to travel, whereby they eſcaped their Enemies.

Ver. 32. And we came to Jeruſalem, and abode there three Days.] Before they did any thing: For it was neceſſary to reſt and refreſh themſelves a while, after ſo tedious a Journey, in which they ſpent above a Quarter of a Year. See ch. vii. 9. Their Friends alſo, it is likely, came to viſit them in theſe three Days Time, and welcome them to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 33. Now on the fourth Day was the Silver and the Gold, and the Veſſels weighed in the Houſe of our God, by the Hand of Meremoth the Son of Uriah the Prieſt, and with him was Eleazar the Son of Phinehas, and with them was Jozabad the Son of Jeſhua, and Noadiah the Son of Binnui, Levites:] The Names of Eleazar and Phinehas continued thro' many Generations among the Prieſts, becauſe they were two very eminent Perſons in Aaron's Family. And as there were ſome Levites charged with this Treaſure to bring it to Jeruſalem, ſo there were ſome of them who ſaw them diſcharge themſelves of their Truſt.

Ver. 34. By Number, and by Weight of every one: and all the Weight was written at that Time.] There was a publick Record made of it; and the Perſons forementioned, who brought the Money and the Veſſels, were diſcharged by a publick Inſtrument, ſigned by them that received it: Or, perhaps, the Meaning may be, that there was an Inventory taken of the Goods belonging to the Temple, which the Prieſts were charged withal, as the Stewards of a Family are wont to be, with the Goods belonging to it.

Ver. 35. Alſo the Children of thoſe that had been carried away which were come out of the Captivity,] That is, this Company who came up from Babylon with Ezra.

Offered Burnt-offerings unto the God of Iſrael,] To expreſs their Gratitude to God for their Reſtoration.

Twelve Bullocks for all Iſrael,] One for every Tribe.

Ninety and ſix Rams, ſeventy and ſeven Lambs, twelve He-goats for a Sin-offering:] For all Iſrael, whether ſtill remaining in Babylon, or returned to Jeruſalem.

All this was a Burnt-offering unto the LORD.] All the reſt (except the He-goats) were a Burnt-offering; whereby they acknowledged the LORD for their God.

Ver 36. And they delivered the King's Commiſſions unto the King's Lieutenants, and to the Governors on this Side the River:] That they might know the King's Pleaſure, and what Privileges he had granted them, which are recited in the foregoing Chapter.

And they furthered the People, and the Houſe of God.] Yielded Obedience to the King's Orders.

CHAP. IX.

Ver. 1. NOW when theſe Things were done,] When he had ſhewn his Commiſſion, and it appeared that he had Power to reform all Abuſes, and ſee the Laws of Moſes obſerved by all the Jews, ch. vii. 14.

The Princes came to me, ſaying, The People of Iſrael, and the Prieſts, and the Levites have not ſeparated themſelves from the People of the Lands,] Some of the great Men came to him with a grievous Complaint, that unlawful Marriages were practiſed among them with thoſe wicked Nations whom God had forbidden them to mingle withal: Which was the more to be lamented, becauſe not only the People, but the Prieſts themſelves and the Levites were guilty of this Sin.

Doing according to their Abominations,] This is commonly an Expreſſion, ſignifying worſhipping of Idols, which are called Abominations in Scripture; but here ſignifies only Imitation of the Heathen in promiſcuous Marriages with any Nation whatſoever, which would ſoon lead them co commit Idolatry. For theſe Words in the Hebrew run thus, have not ſeparated themſelves from the People of the Land, according to their Abominations, (the Word doing is not there) which Mr. Mede rightly interprets, according to the ſeveral Kinds of Idolaters in the Land round about them.

Even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebuſites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites.] By this is appears, that as Marriages with the ſeven Nations of Canaan were expreſsly forbidden, Deut. vii. 2, 3. ſo Ezra thought that Law extended to all other Nations, who were not proſelyted to the Jews Religion. And this is the common Opinion of the Hebrew Doctors, as Mr. Selden ſhews, Lib. v. de Jure Nat. & Gent. Cap. xii. For even before the Law of Moſes, it ſeems to be thought unlawful, after they had received the Covenant of Circumciſion, for the Seed of Abraham to marry with other Nations that were uncircumciſed, Gen. xxxiv. 14.

Ver. 2. For they have taken of their Daughters for themſelves, and for their Sons: So that the holy Seed have mingled themſelves with the People of thoſe Lands:] They are called an Holy Seed, becauſe of the Covenant of God with them, which made them a peculiar People, ſeparated from all other Nations.

Yea, the Hand of the Princes and Rulers hath been chief in this Treſpaſs.] The Caſe was the more dangerous, becauſe the great Men of the Nation were the principal Offenders (ch. x. 18, 23.) whoſe Example the People followed without Fear of Puniſhment. It is likely, thoſe Princes who informed Ezra of this enormous Practice, had endeavoured to reform them, but could not, becauſe they were oppoſed by as great Men as themſelves. But we muſt not caſt away all Hope, tho' we cannot preſently reform Mens Lives; the Time may come when it may be done.

Ver. 3. And when I heard this Thing, I rent my Garment and my Mantle,] Both his inner and upper Garment; which was a Token not only of very great Grief and Sorrow, but expreſſed his Senſe of the divine Diſpleaſure. For the Jews rent their Clothes when they apprehended God to be highly offended. See Grotius upon Matth. xxvi. 65. The Talmudiſts ſay, the High Prieſt rent his Garments otherwiſe than other Men, not above from the Shoulders to the Bottom, but below at his Feet, and the Skirts of his Garments, upward.

And pluck'd off the Hair of my Head, and of my Beard,] This was ſtill a higher Sign of exceeding great Grief; for in ordinary Sorrow they only neglected their Hair, and let it hang down ſcattered in a careleſs Manner; but this was uſed in bitter Lamentations, even among the Heathens. So Bochart obſerves out of many Authors, particularly Homer, in ſeveral Places. For Example, ſpeaking of Ulyſſes and his Companions, bewailing the Death of Elpenor, he ſaith, Odyſſ. X.

Ἑζόμενοι ᾗ ἐνθαῦτα γόῳ, τίλλοντό τε χαίτας.

Thy ſitting down there howled, and plucked off their Hairs. See Hieroz. Lib. ii. Cap. 45. To ſhave the Head or the Beard was another Thing; which the Law forbad the Jews in their mourning for the Dead, becauſe it was a Cuſtom of their idolatrous Neighbours, whoſe Manners he would not have them imitate.

And ſat down aſtonied.] With Amazement that they ſhould be ſo ungrateful to God, who had delivered them from Captivity, and with an Apprehenſion of their Danger, there being ſo open a Breach of the Divine Law, which had formerly proved their Ruin.

Ver. 4. Then were aſſembled unto me every one that trembled at the Words of the God of Iſrael,] Which it is likely he read to them, and told them the Importance of them.

Becauſe of the Tranſgreſſion of thoſe that had been carried away:] Into Babylon, but now were returned to their own Land, little or nothing amended, either by their Baniſhment, or their Reſto-

Reſtoration. He ſpeaks not of thoſe who were lately come back with him, but of thoſe who came back with Zerubbabel, and of their Children.

And I ſat aſtonied until the Evening Sacrifice.] When the People uſed to meet together to worſhip God.

Ver. 5. And at the Evening Sacrifice I aroſe up from my Heavineſs,] Wherein he had ſat ever ſince he heard of their foul Tranſgreſſion.

And having rent my Garment and my Mantle,] He mentions that again, becauſe he ſtill continued, and appeared in a mournful Condition.

I fell upon my Knees, and ſpread out my Hands unto the LORD my God,] But put himſelf now into the Poſture of an humbly Supplicant to the divine Majeſty.

Ver. 6. And ſaid, O my God, I am aſhamed, and bluſh to lift up my Face to thee, my God: for our Iniquities are increaſed over our Head, and our Treſpaſs is grown up unto the Heavens.] The Sum of his Confeſſion and Deprecation is this, which it may be uſeful to repreſent at once: That he was confounded when he thought of the Greatneſs of their Sins, which were ready to overwhelm them, and of the Boldneſs and Inſolence of them beyond all Meaſure; and that, tho' they had ſeen the divine Vengeance upon their Forefathers (from whom they derived this impious Diſpoſition) in ſo terrible a Manner, that they had not yet worn off the Marks of his Diſpleaſure (ver. 6, 7.) He had begun indeed to ſhew Favour unto them (ver. 8.) but this ſo much the more aggravated their Wickedneſs, in that not very many Years after he had been ſo gracious as to deliver a ſmall handful of them, and given them a footing again in their own Land, and in the Holy Place, and thereby had made them joyful, and given them Life, as it were, from the Dead, by reſtoring them to their Liberty, they returned to their old Provocations, and forgot both that they had been Bondmen, and that God had been ſo kind to them in that Bondage, as to make thoſe whom they ſerved to pity them, and give them Leave to go to their own Land, and build the Houſe of their God, ver. 8, 9. What ſhall any one ſay for ſuch a wretched People as this (ver. 10.) who had no Regard to their Prophets, nor to Moſes himſelf, who had charged them to have nothing to do with the People of Canaan, whom he intended to deſtroy, becauſe they had defiled that Land, but to ſeparate themſelves from them, and ſeek to root them out, which was the Way to plant themſelves firmly there for ever, ver. 11, 12. Can we expect leſs than utter Deſtruction of this ſmall Remnant, when after all the Puniſhments he hath inflicted upon us for our Sins, and his ceaſing to puniſh us, and reſcuing us in this Manner from our Captivity, we return to thoſe Sins which are ſo odious to him, becauſe ſo expreſly againſt his Commandments, ver. 13, 14. If he deal ſo with us, we muſt acknowledge the Juſtice of his Proceedings. For when we remain a Monument of his Mercy, who are reſcued (as is apparent) from our Bondage, we are notwithſtanding here before him in our Offences, ſo guilty, that we have nothing to plead for our ſelves; we are not able to ſay one Word to excuſe our deteſtable Ingratitude.

There cannot be a more pathetical Supplication than this, taken all together; ſeveral Phraſes of which it may be fit to explain.

For our Iniquities are increaſed over our Head,] A Metaphor taken from deep waters, wherein Men are drowned and ready to periſh.

And our Treſpaſs is grown up unto the Heavens.] This ſignifies, as I have expreſſed it in my Paraphraſe, the high Preſumption and Inſolence of their Wickedneſs.

Ver. 7. Since the Days of our Fathers, have we been in a great Treſpaſs unto this Day, &c.] And therefore were puniſhed unto this Day, as the Verſe concludes: For many of their Brethren were ſtill in Babylon, or other Countries, and they who returned were in danger to be undone for their continued Sins.

Vir. 8. And to give us a Nail in his holy Place.] By Nails or Pins Tents were faſtened to the Ground; therefore this ſignifies (as it is explained in the Margin) a ſettled Abode, after long Baniſhment.

Ver. 9. To give us a reviving,] For Ezekiel compares them when they were in Babylon, to the dry Bones of dead Men lying in their Graves, ch. xxxvii. 1, &c.

And to give us a Wall in Judah and in Jeruſalem.] From hence ſome infer, that the Wall of Jeruſalem, before Nehemiah came, was built as well as the Temple. But the Hebrew Word Gedar ſhould be otherwiſe tranſlated; for it doth not properly ſignify a Wall, but an Hedge or Fence, ſuch as were made for the Folds of Sheep. Whereby Ezra expreſſes (as Huetius well notes) the ſingular Care of God of them; who being the Shepherd of Iſrael, had gathered together his ſcattered Sheep, and brought them back into their ancient Folds, wherein he preſerved them ſafe, even when they had no Wall to defend them, under the powerful Protection of the King of Perſia.

Ver. 10, 11, 12. Theſe Verſes need no Explication more than I have given in the Paraphraſe upon them.

Ver. 13. Our God hath puniſhed us leſs than our Iniquities deſerve.] In the Hebrew the Words are, haſt with-held beneath our Iniquities: That is, forborn to puniſh. For, as when God will no longer forbear, he is ſaid to ariſe, and take Vengeance: So here (as Lud. de Dieu obſerves) on the contrary, he is ſaid to withhold himſelf below; that is, not to ariſe, but wait patiently for their Amendment.

Ver. 14. So that there ſhould be no remnant nor eſcaping?] Not one of ſuch a wicked Nation left remaining, but all utterly extirpated.

Ver. 15. O LORD God of Iſrael, thou art righteous, &c.] Either the Word righteous here ſignifies very merciful, which was the Reaſon they were not deſtroyed as they deſerved: Or, the next Words muſt be tranſlated, not, for we remain, but though we remain eſcaped: That is, God's Juſtice will not let us eſcape, tho' for the preſent he forbear to puniſh us.

Behold, we are before thee in our Treſpaſſes: for we cannot ſtand before thee, becauſe of this.] As this cannot be denied, ſo it cannot be defended or excuſed: But we muſt yield up our-

ſelves to bear the Puniſhment, unto which thou wilt condemn us.

Thus he concludes this admirable Repreſentation of their Condition; which is as much as if he had ſaid, Unleſs we reform, I know not how to beg for Mercy, but we muſt be undone, and that moſt juſtly. For he gives them no Hope, intending to put them into a great Terror and Affrightment, and ſee how that would work upon their Hearts. And we find in the next Chapter (ver. 2.) it had this Effect; that one ſtood up and ſpake in the Name of all the reſt, that they would renew their Covenant with God, and put away theſe Abominations (which was effectual Repentance) and then they hope God would be merciful unto them.

CHAP. X.

Ver. 1. NOW when Ezra had prayed, and when he had confeſſed, weeping and caſting himſelf down before the Houſe of God, there aſſembled unto him out of Iſrael, a very great Congregation of Men, and Women, and Children: for the People wept very ſore.] This Prayer being made at the Time of the Evening Sacrifice, (as we read before, ch. ix. 5.) when many aſſembled to worſhip God; and being uttered with great Paſſion, and the higheſt Expreſſions of Grief and Sorrow, it moved thoſe very much, who were preſent; eſpecially to ſee ſuch a Perſon as Ezra, a Prieſt of God, and a great Ruler under the King of Perſia, ſo dejected, full of Fear, Confuſion, and Aſtoniſhment: The Report of which was preſently carried thro' all Jeruſalem, and perhaps to neighbouring Places; which brought together a great Number of People of all Sorts, Men, Women, and Children; who all made great Lamentation, looking upon themſelves as under the high Diſpleaſure of the Almighty.

Ver. 2. And Shechaniah the Son of Jehiel, one of the Sons of Elam, anſwered and ſaid unto Ezra,] He ſeems to have been a good Man, not being numbered among thoſe that had treſpaſſed, tho' ſeveral of his Family were; even his own Father, Jehiel, and ſeveral of his Uncles, the Sons of his Grand-father Elam, ch. v. 26.

We have treſpaſſed againſt our God, and have taken ſtrange Wives of the People of the Land: yet now there is Hope in Iſrael concerning this Thing.] Ezra ſeemed to have given up all for gone, the more to awaken and affright them out of their Sins; and therefore this Perſon ſtands up to keep them from Deſpair, and to propound a Remedy, which he hoped would prove effectual: This he ſpake in the Name of the reſt; with the principal of which, perhaps, he had conſulted.

Ver. 3. Now therefore let us make a Covenant with our God, to put away all the Wives, and ſuch as are born of them, according to the Counſel of my Lord, and of thoſe that tremble at the Commandment of our God, and let it be done according to the Law.] That which was done contrary to the Law of God, was looked upon as null, and therefore theſe were accounted no Marriages, and their Children were no better than thoſe we call Baſtards, and were not to be a Part of the Family, but to be put away with their Mothers. St. Paul indeed allows the Corinthians to keep their Pagan Wives or Huſbands, becauſe they had them before they were Chriſtians; and there was no Law of God or Man againſt their Marriages, as there was here a very ſtrict Law of God forbidding them. It may ſeem hard indeed that the Children ſhould be put away as well as their Mothers; but they were unlawfully born, and muſt follow the Condition of their Mothers, and being educated in Superſtition, might corrupt other Children: And therefore it was unlawful hereafter to marry with the Children of theſe Women, for they were reputed unclean, though their Fathers were Iſraelites. Thus Maimonides reports the Senſe of the Law to be, A Son begot of a Gentile by an Iſraelite, is not to be accounted a Son. If a Son indeed were begot by a Gentile of an Iſraelitiſh Woman, the Child was accounted an Iſraelite, for Partus ſequitur Ventrem. But a Child was of the ſame Condition with his Mother, and no Regard was had to the Father at all. So that if a Child was begot by an Iſraelite, of a Woman that was a Slave, the Child was a Slave; but if on the contrary, a Woman of Iſrael had a Child by one that was a Slave, the Child was as free as any other Iſraelite. See Selden in the Place above-mentioned, pag. 616.

But it is likely, when they put away theſe Wives and Children, they made ſome Proviſion for them; for all was to be done according to the Counſel of Ezra, and other good Men, who feared God, and trembled to think his Commandment was broke, and therefore judged they ſhould be put away; but they preſcribed the Manner of it, how it ſhould be done; which, it is probable, was not without ſome Conſideration of them.

Ver. 4. Ariſe:] For he lay proſtrate upon the Ground, ver. 1.

For this Matter belongeth unto thee;] Who had the greateſt Skill in the Law, and a full Power from the King of Perſia, to ſee every thing done according unto it, ch. vii. 14. Now the Renewing of the Covenant, for the Obſervation of the Law, was to be done by the Authority of the Sovereign, as we ſee by the Examples of Aſa, Hezekiah, and Joſiah; and therefore it is a great Miſtake (as Mr. Thorndike obſerves) to imagine the People could renew it, or any Part of it, without the Conſent of the Sovereign. From whence we may conclude, that Ezra having ſuch a Commiſſion, as is mentioned ch. vii. was eſtabliſhed by the Sovereign Power, with an Authority to execute the Law againſt all Tranſgreſſors.

We alſo will be with thee: be of good Courage and do it.] He promiſes his Aſſiſtance, and the Aſſiſtance of the principal Perſons; which might give him Confidence of Succeſs.

Ver. 5. Then aroſe Ezra, and made the Chief Prieſts, the Levites, and all Iſrael] All that were then preſent.

To ſwear that they ſhould do according to this Word: and they ſware.] He admoniſhed them of their Duty in the Name of God, and then perſuaded them to take a ſolemn Oath (as they did) to put away their ſtrange Wives and Children. For the Commiſſion given to Ezra ſuppoſing a full Leave to the People to live according cording to the Law, enabled him to govern them by it, yea, to ſwear them to obſerve it; for he might do whatſoever he found neceſſary to keep them in Obedience.

Ver. 6. Then Ezra roſe up from before the Houſe of God,] This ſeems to ſignify, that he made them ſwear before he would riſe up; that they ſeeing his great Humiliation before God, in the moſt doleful Condition, might be moved to a more forward Compliance.

And went into the Chamber of Johanan the Son of Eliaſhib:] That he might there conſult with the Princes and Elders, (ver. 8.) how to put this Counſel in Execution. This Eliaſhib was the High-Prieſt who ſucceeded Joiakim, who ſucceeded Jeſhua; who living a long time, his Son Joiakim enjoyed the Prieſthood but a few Years: And Eliaſhib laſted not long, but ſeems to have been dead (as Dr. Alix thinks) a little after the twentieth Year of Artaxerxes Mnemon. See Nehem. xii. 10.

And when he came thither, he did eat no Bread, nor drink Water:] The Word when is not in the Hebrew; therefore it had better be tranſlated, till he came thither he had eaten nothing.

For he mourned becauſe of the Tranſgreſſion of them that had been carried away.] And in Time of Mourning and Sorrow they were wont to faſt.

Ver. 7. And they made Proclamation throughout Judah and Jeruſalem, unto all the Children of the Captivity, that they ſhould gather themſelves together unto Jeruſalem;] This Proclamation was iſſued forth by the Counſel of the Princes and Elders mentioned in the next Verſe.

Ver. 8. And that whoſoever would not come within three Days,] This was a ſhort Time; but they were reſolv'd to be ſpeedy in the Buſineſs, leſt they that propounded it, ſhould cool, or any Thing occur to hinder it.

According to the Counſel of the Princes and the Elders,] It was a great Power which the King of Perſia intruſted Ezra withal; which he managed very diſcreetly; for he would not make the following Decree by his own ſole Authority, without the Advice of the Sanhedrim; which is generally thought to be meant by the Princes and Elders, viz. the High-Court of Jeruſalem; for they that are here called Princes, are, ver. 14. called Judges.

All his Subſtance ſhould be forfeited,] In the Hebrew, devoted: Which ſignifies, that his Goods were to be ſo forfeited, as to become ſacred to God; and ſo incapable to be reſtored to the former Owner, being put into the Treaſury of God's Houſe.

And himſelf ſeparated from the Congregation of thoſe that had been carried away.] Excluded from their Society, and all the Benefits of their Religion. See chap. vii. 26. This was a Puniſhment inflicted by all Nations on thoſe who would not conform themſelves to the Laws; as Grotius obſerves, de Imperio Sum. Poteſt. circa ſacra, Cap. ix. p. 242. Edit. Hagæ; and Selden, de Synedr. Lib. i. Cap. vii. p. 146, 147, 150.

Ver. 9. Then all the Men of Judah and Benjamin gathered themſelves together unto Jeruſalem, within three Days:] And all they of other Tribes complied alſo with this Proclamation, as appears from ver. 25. but theſe are alone mentioned, becauſe they were the chief, and the others were mixed with them.

It was the ninth Month, and the twentieth Day of the Month,] About a Quarter of a Year after Ezra and his Company came to Jeruſalem.

And all the People ſat in the Street of the Houſe of God] Some take this to be the Street which led to the Temple; but it was rather the Court of the People, where they worſhipped; which lying open, and not being yet girt about with a Wall, (as we may gueſs from Nehem. ii. 8.) is called a Street.

Trembling, becauſe of this Matter,] The Offence they had committed againſt God, and the Conſequence thereof.

And for the great Rain.] Which they took as a Token of God's Anger againſt them, becauſe of their Sin.

Ver. 10. And Ezra the Prieſt ſtood up, and ſaid unto them, Ye have tranſgreſſed, and have taken ſtrange Wives to increaſe the Treſpaſs of Iſrael.] When they ſhould have been bewailing their former Sins, which caſt them out of their Land, they added new Tranſgreſſions, when they were reſtored to it.

Ver. 11. Now therefore make Confeſſion unto the LORD God of your Fathers, and do his Pleaſure:] Confeſſion of Sin alone, without Obedience to God's Will and entire Submiſſion to him, is inſufficient to Reconciliation with him.

And ſeparate yourſelves from the People of the Land, and from the ſtrange Wives.] There being no Mention here made of their Children, but only of their Wives, it hath made ſome think, that they kept their Children, and by Circumciſion dedicated them to God, teaching them to renounce the Infidelity of their Mothers: For tho' Shecaniah propounded the putting away the Children alſo, (ver. 3.) yet it may be thought, that Ezra, to whom the Matter was referred, mitigated the Severity of it; becauſe we do not read any thing of them, but only of the Wives, when he came to order what ſhould be done.

Ver. 12. Then all the Congregation anſwered, and ſaid with a loud Voice, As thou haſt ſaid, ſo muſt we do.] They ſaw no other Remedy, and therefore ſubmitted to what he required, as the Pleaſure of God.

Ver. 13. But the People are many, and it is a Time of much Rain, and we are not able to ſtand without, neither is this a Work of one Day or two: for we are many that have tranſgreſſed in this Thing.] They give very good Reaſons why for the preſent they ſhould be diſmiſſed, and more Time taken to make Inquiſition after all the Offenders, and examine them. And to ſhew they really deſired the Thing ſhould be done, they propound a Method in the next Verſe, for the Management of it.

Ver. 14. Let now our Rulers of all the Congregation ſtand, and let all them which have taken ſtrange Wives in our Cities, come at appointed Times, and with them the Elders of every City, and the Judges thereof, until the fierce Wrath of our God for this Matter be turned from us.] They would have the great Council at Jeruſalem ſettled, (for that's meant by let the Rulers of all the Congregation ſtand) and be ready to take Cognizance of this Matter; ſet Days being appointed for the Offenders in every City to be brought before them, by the Elders and Judges of thoſe Cities (that is, ſome Delegates from the Senate of that Place) who ſhould teſtify that they had ſeen the Divorces made from their ſtrange Wives; for they were beſt able to know the Circumſtances of every Perſon, and all their Actions. And this they would have to continue, as long as there remained any thing to be done in this Buſineſs; that the Anger of God might be turned away from them. So de Dieu truly renders, I think, the laſt Words of this Verſe.

How Elders and Judges differ, is a Diſpute among learned Men. Sometimes they ſignify the ſame; but when they are mentioned together, it is reaſonable to think their Powers were diſtinct. And Campegius Vitringa ſeems to me to have given a good Account of them; that by Elders are meant the ſupreme Senate in every City, who judged in all Civil Cauſes; and by Judges (as diſtinct from the other) are meant Judges of an inferior Bench, by whom all Money Matters were tried. For though the Senate might judge in all Cauſes, yet it is reaſonable to think they referred ſmall Matters to a lower Court. This he gathers out of the Scriptures, and ſhews it is conformable to the Traditions of the Talmudiſts. De Synagoga Vetere, Lib. ii. Cap. ix. p. 58. And ſee L' Empereur upon Bertram De Repub. Jud. p. 395.

Ver. 15. Only Jonathan the Son of Aſahel, and Jahaziah the Son of Tilvah, were employed about this Matter:] Theſe were two Prieſts, who were choſen to ſee all Things done according to the foregoing Reſolution: That is, to appoint the Time when the Men of each City ſhould come to bring in their Names, and to acquaint the great Council that theſe were Elders and Judges of the Cities, who had ſeen their Orders executed.

And Meſhullam, and Shabbethai the Levite helped them.] They were both of them Levites, as I take it, who were to aſſiſt the fore-named Prieſts in ſo great a Work.

Ver. 16. And the Children of the Captivity did ſo:] They who came up out of Babylon to their own Country, are conſtantly called the Children of the Captivity; to put them in mind of their Servitude, and of their Freedom from it.

And Ezra the Prieſt, with certain Chief of the Fathers, after the Houſe of their Fathers, and all of them by their Names, were ſeparated,] Sequeſtred themſelves from all other Buſineſs, to attend wholly to the Iſſue of this.

And ſat down on the firſt Day of the tenth Month to examine the Matter.] I cannot imagine what it was that they were ſet a-part to examine, unleſs it was, whether the Perſons beforenamed, did their Duty: For it is likely they brought the Names of thoſe who were found guilty, (which here follow) unto Ezra and theſe Aſſeſſors; who examined whether they found more than theſe, and of what Quality and Condition they were.

Ver. 17. And they made an End with all the Men that had taken ſtrange Wives, by the firſt Day of the firſt Month.] Three Months therefore were ſpent in this Diſquiſition; which ſhews it was very exact.

Ver. 18. And among the Sons of the Prieſts, there were found that had taken ſtrange Wives: namely, of the Sons of Jeſhua, the Son of Jozadak, and his Brethren; Maaſeiah, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah.] No wonder, the People broke the Law, when ſo many of thoſe who were ſuppoſed to underſtand it beſt (viz. the Prieſts) gave them ſuch a foul Example of Luſt and Levity (as Pellicanus ſpeaks) yea, ſome of the Sons of the High-Prieſt; which made the Example more pernicious. Which may be the Reaſon, as he conjectures, why Jeſhua, the High-Prieſt, was repreſented in a Viſion to Zechariah the Prophet in filthy Garments; becauſe his Family (Sons and Brethren) were defiled with this Impurity. For, as Cicero ſaith, out of Plato, in a Letter to Lentulus, Tales plerunque cives reliqui eſſe ſolent, quales principes in civitate fuerint viri: Such the reſt of the Citizens are wont to be, as the great Men in the City are.

Ver. 19. And they gave their Hands, that they would put away their Wives;] Solemnly engaged, by making a Covenant, or by an Oath, that they would do what was enjoined. See Ezek. xvii. 18. But it may be expounded ſimply, they put their Hand to the Buſineſs; that is, did it effectually, and actually put away their ſtrange Wives.

And being guilty, they offered a Ram of the Flock for their Treſpaſs.] More than that, they openly confeſſed their Guilt, and made an Offering for their Offence; and hereby perhaps endeavoured to make ſome amends for their Sin, by being the firſt that condemned themſelves and reformed, and offered a Treſpaſs-offering; which, ſome think, all the reſt made, after their Example.

Ver. 20. And of the Sons of Immer; Hanani, and Zebadiah.

Ver. 21. And of the Sons of Harim; Maaſeiah, and Elijah, and Shemaiah, and Jehiel, and Uzziah.

Ver. 22. And of the Sons of Paſhur; Elioenai, Maaſeiah, Iſhmael, Nethaneel, Jozabad, and Elaſah.] All theſe were Prieſts, who were very deep in this Guilt, and being publick Perſons, led others fearleſly into it.

Ver. 23. Alſo of the Levites; Jozabad, and Shimei, and Kelaiah (the ſame is Kelita) Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer.] There were not ſo many Levites, as there were Prieſts, in the Tranſgreſſion.

Ver. 24. Of the Singers alſo, Eliaſhib; and of the Porters, Shullum, and Talem, and Uri.] Theſe ſeem to have been more modeſt; there being but one Offender found among the Singers; and but three among the Porters.

Ver. 25. Moreover, of Iſrael, of the Sons of Paroſh; Ramiah, and Jeziah, and Malchiah, and Miamin, and Eleazar, and Malchijah, and Benaiah.] The Hebrews call all thoſe Iſrael, who were not Levites, or dedicated to the Service of the Temple. Whence the Court of Iſrael was that Place wherein the Men of Iſrael worſhipped, as they were diſtinguiſhed from the Prieſts and Levites, Ver. 26. And of the Sons of Elam; Mattaniah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, and Abdi, and Jeremoth, and Eliah.] This Jehiel was Shechaniah's Father, ver. 2. And yet notwithſtanding, tho' his Father and Kindred were guilty of this Crime, which Ezra bewailed, he did not ſtick to ſpeak his Mind, how it ſhould be puniſhed. An admirable Example of zealous Integrity!

Ver. 27. And of the Sons of Zattu; Elioenai, Eliaſhib, Mattaniah, and Jeremoth, and Zabad, and Aziza.] The two former, Paroſh and Elam, with this Zattu, and all that follow to ver. 32. were of the Tribe of Judah.

Ver. 28. Of the Sons alſo of Bebai. Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, and Athlai.

Ver. 29. And of the Sons of Bani; Meſhullam, Malluch, and Adaiah, Jaſhub, and Sheal, and Ramoth.

Ver. 30. And of the Sons of Pahath-moab; Adna, and Chelal, Benaiah, Maaſeiah, Mattaniah, Bezaleel, and Binnui, and Manaſſeh.

Ver. 31. Of the Sons of Harim; Eliezer, Iſhijah, Malchiah, Shemaiah, Shimeon,

Ver. 32. Benjamin, Malluch, and Shemariah.] Now follows an Account of thoſe of the other Tribe.

Ver. 33. Of the Sons of Haſhum; Mattenai, Mattathah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manaſſeh, and Shimei.

Ver. 34. Of the Sons of Bani; Maadai, Amram, and Uel,

Ver. 35. Benaiah, Bedeiah, Chelluh,

Ver. 36. Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliaſhib,

Ver. 37. Mattaniah, Mattenai, and Jaaſau,

Ver. 38. And Bani, and Binnui, Shimei,

Ver. 39. And Shelemiah, and Nathan, and Adaiah,

Ver. 40. Machnadebai, Shaſhai, Sharai,

Ver. 41. Azareel, and Shelemiah, Shemariah,

Ver. 42. Shallum, Amariah, and Joſeph.

Ver. 43. Of the Sons of Nebo; Jeiel, Mattathiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jadau, and Joel, Benaiah.] Some take Nebo for a Place, of which the following Families were Citizens. But nothing of this is worth enquiring into.

Ver. 44. All theſe had taken ſtrange Wives:] There is no great Number of them, in Compariſon with all that returned from Captivity: But they ſeem to have been eminent Perſons, who would have ſpread the Contagion, if a Stop had not been put to it.

And ſome of them had Wives, by whom they had Children.] There were ſome of them Women, that had brought them Children, as the Vulgar tranſlate it; which de Dieu ſhews, is the plaineſt Tranſlation of theſe Words. Here was a fair Occaſion to have ſpoken of the putting away their Children as well as their Wives, if that Motion had been proſecuted. But nothing being here ſaid of it, it makes me think, the Obſervation is true which I made Verſe 11. See there.

A COMMENTARY UPON THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH.

THAT Nehemiah himſelf was the Author of this Book there can be no reaſonable Doubt; for he ſaith as much in the beginning of it, and all along relates what he did in his own Perſon, for the rebuilding the Wall of Jeruſalem, and other Things. He lived in the Reign of Artaxerxes Mnemon, and came into Judæa thirteen Years after Ezra; unto whom the King of Perſia gave great Authority, as he had done to Ezra; God diſpoſing his Heart to have ſome Jews ſtill about him in his Court, for whom he had a Kindneſs. After him, we do not find that the Kings of Perſia made any Governor, but left Things, it is probable, to the Management of Jaddua the High-Prieſt, as Corn. Bertram thinks. See De Republ. Judaica, p. 168, 173, 175.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. THE Words of Nehemiah] Or, as Pellicanus tranſlates it, Geſta (for ſo the Hebrew Word often ſignifies) the Things which Nehemiah did.

The Son of Hachaliah.] We are no where told who this was, nor of what Tribe: Euſebius and others ſay of the Tribe of Judah.

And it came to paſs in the Month Chiſleu,] Which anſwers to our November, and Part of December.

In the twentieth Year,] Not of Artaxerxes, but of Nehemiah his Life. See Chap. ii. 1.

As I was in Shuſhan the Palace,] In the Region of Elymais, where the Perſian Kings kept their Court in Winter, and from its pleaſant and beautiful Situation, was called by Heathen Writers Suſa, which ſignifies a Lily; or (as Athenæus ſaith, Lib. xii.) a Roſe. Stephanus Byzantinus gives this Account of it, it was called Σῦσα, ἀπὸ τῶ κρίνων ἃ πολλὰ ἐν τῇ χώρᾳ πεφύκει ἐκεινῃ, from the Lilies that grew in Abundance in that Country. Our Dr. Hyde hath a peculiar Fancy, that the Perſians called it Sus, which ſignifies Liquorice; but the Jews, to compliment Ahaſuerus, called it in theſe Books by this Name

Name of a better Sound, which ſignifies a Lily, Hiſt. Relig. vet. Perſ. Cap. 35. p. 414.

Ver. 2. That Hanani, one of my Brethren,] And, I ſuppoſe, one of his Family.

Came, he and certain Men of Judah,] Came from Jeruſalem to Shuſhan, either about Buſineſs, or finding Things very hard with them in Judea.

And I aſked them concerning the Jews that had eſcaped, which were left of the Captivity, and concerning Jeruſalem.] He enquired of the Condition wherein they were who returned out of Babylon into Judæa, and whether Jeruſalem were again become a flouriſhing City; as it was natural for him to do, eſpecially being a Man that loved his Nation exceedingly.

Ver. 3. And they ſaid unto me, The Remnant that are left of the Captivity there in the Province,] So Judea is called, Ezra v. 8. See there.

Are in great Affliction and Reproach: the Wall of Jeruſalem alſo is broken down, and the Gates thereof are burnt with Fire.] They anſwer to both Parts of this Inquiry, that the People were in great Diſtreſs and Contempt by their inſolent Neighbours, wherewith they were ſurrounded, and Jeruſalem lay without any Walls or Gates to defend it from their Injuries. He knew very well that it was burnt by Nebuchadnezzar, and the Walls beaten down; therefore their Meaning is, that the Walls and Gates lay as the Chaldeans left them after that Devaſtation, and were not repaired, tho' the Temple was built again.

Ver. 4. And it came to paſs when I heard theſe Words, that I ſat down] Upon the Ground, as the Manner was, in great Sorrow, and perhaps in Aſhes.

And wept, and mourned certain Days, and faſted, and prayed before the God of Heaven,] With his Face toward Jeruſalem.

Ver. 5. And ſaid, I beſeech thee, O LORD God of Heaven,] In this Style they all ſpake of God (as I obſerved, Ezra i.) after the Captivity; ſignifying, as Conradus Pellicanus obſerves, his ſovereign Dominion over all Things that are contained within the Compaſs of the Heavens; the Sun, Moon, and Stars, Angels and Men, and all Creatures.

The great and terrible God,] He is called Great, not with Reſpect to thoſe petty Gods that the Heathen worſhipped, who had no Power at all, but with reſpect to all Potentates either in Heaven or in Earth; and he is call'd terrible, becauſe he is moſt humbly to be worſhipped and reverenced by them all.

That keepeth Covenant and Mercy for them that love him, and obſerve his Commandments:] Next, he celebrates his Faithfulneſs and Truth in performing his Promiſes, to thoſe that plainly declare they ſincerely love him, by keeping his Commandments. Theſe he never fails to bleſs, becauſe they are faithful to him.

Ver. 6. Let thine Ear now be attentive, and thine Eyes open, that thou mayeſt hear the Prayer of thy Servant, which I pray before thee now, Day and Night, for the Children of Iſrael thy Servants, and confeſs the Sins of the Children of Iſrael, which we have ſinned againſt thee: both I, and my Fathers Houſe have ſinned.] A deep Senſe of our own Unworthineſs, is a good Qualification for the Mercy we beg of God: This Nehemiah expreſſes very ſenſibly, both here and in the next Verſe.

Ver. 7. We have dealt very corruptly againſt thee,] Some of the Jews expound it, We have deſpiſed and contemned thee.

And have not kept the Commandments, nor the Statutes, nor the Judgments, which thou commandedſt thy Servant Moſes.] But violated every one of them, to the high Offence both of God and Man.

Ver. 8. Remember, I beſeech thee, the Word that thou commandedſt thy Servant Moſes, ſaying, If ye tranſgreſs, I will ſcatter you abroad among the Nations:] Which they had ſeen fulfilled by the Aſſyrians and Chaldeans.

Ver. 9. But if ye turn unto me, and keep my Commandments, and do them;] As he hoped ſome of them now did.

Tho' there were of you caſt out unto the uttermoſt Part of the Heaven, yet will I gather them from thence, and will bring them unto the Place that I have choſen to ſet my Name there.] This Promiſe made by Moſes he hoped God would fulfil, as he had done the Threatning. It is a very pious Obſervation of Dr. Jackſon (Book iii. Chap. 17.) that Nehemiah framed this Prayer to God, and directed his Enterprize for the Reſtoration of Jeruſalem, by the Rule of Moſes, mentioned in Deut. xxx. 1, 2, 3, 4. and he plainly found the Truth of that Prediction in the Readineſs of the King of Perſia to grant his Petition; which confirm'd his Belief of what Moſes there ſaith, altho' a Prophet by Profeſſion diſſuaded his Enterprize, as likely to prove dangerous to his Perſon, ch. vi. 10, 11.

Ver. 10. Now theſe are thy Servants, and thy People, whom thou haſt redeemed by thy great Power, and by thy ſtrong Hand.] For nothing but the over-ruling Power of God could have moved Cyrus to diſmiſs this whole Nation out of Captivity, and let them return to their own Land. Or, as ſome think, he beſeeches his Compaſſion to them, becauſe they were his peculiar People, redeemed out of the Egyptian Bondage by many Miracles.

Ver. 11. O LORD, I beſeech thee, let now thine Ear be attentive to the Prayer of thy Servant, and to the Prayer of thy Servants, who deſire to fear thy Name:] He was not alone in this Petition for Mercy, but there were many others, who would worſhip him ſincerely. So the Words are in the Hebrew, who will fear, or delight to fear thy Name.

And proſper, I pray thee, thy Servant this Day,] He prayed Night and Day, as he ſaith, ver. 6. But this was the Prayer he made on that Day when he went to wait upon the King.

And grant him Mercy in the Sight of this Man.] He means the King, unto whom he pointed as it were with his Finger, when he was going to attend upon him.

For I was the Kings Cup-bearer.] And perhaps, as he came into his Preſence, he ſecretly made this Prayer to God in his own Breaſt. Many of the Jews, by the ſingular Favour of God, obtained conſiderable Dignities in their Captivity, as Daniel and his Companions, Zerubbabel and others: Among whom was this good Man, who was advanced to this Place of Cup-bearer, when he was but a Youth, as our Rainoldus hath ſhewn, in his Cenſura Lib. Apocryph. p. 1496.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. AND it came to paſs in the Month Niſan, in the twentieth Year of Artaxerxes the King,] Which was almoſt four Months after he heard of the deſolate Condition wherein Jeruſalem lay: In all which Time, I ſuppoſe, his Turn of Waiting did not come; ſo that he wanted Opportunity to ſpeak unto the King. Or, as others will have it, he and his Friends retired all this Time, and ſpent it in Faſting and Prayer.

That Wine was before him:] He was at Dinner or Supper, and he called for Wine; which was ready for him.

And I took up the Wine, and gave it unto the King:] After the Manner that the Cup-bearer was wont to do.

Now I had not been beforetime ſad in his Preſence.] But always appeared chearful and well pleaſed, as young Men ſo advanced uſe to be; and perhaps entertained the King at Table with pleaſant Diſcourſe.

Ver. 2. Wherefore the King ſaid unto me, Why is thy Countenance ſad, ſeeing thou art not ſick?] There did not appear in his Countenance any Sign of Indiſpoſition of Body.

This is nothing elſe but Sorrow of Heart.] Some inward Trouble which grieved his Spirit.

Then I was very ſore afraid,] Leſt the King ſhould have a Suſpicion, that he had any treaſonable Deſign in his Thoughts, and intended to poiſon him, as it was eaſy for the Cup-bearer to do: Or rather, he was afraid he ſhould not prevail in his Suit; the Court, it's likely, being full of ſuch as would oppoſe it.

Ver. 3. And ſaid unto the King, Let the King live for ever:] They that think he was afraid the King ſhould be jealous of him, take the Meaning to be, Let not the King fear I mean him any Harm, but pray for his long Life. But this was a common Form, of wiſhing the King long Happineſs, as appears from ſeveral Places in Daniel, and hath no Reſpect to that now mentioned.

Why ſhould not my Countenance be ſad, when the City, the Place of my Fathers Sepulchres, lieth waſte, and the Gates thereof are conſumed with Fire?] Men naturally have a great Love to the Monuments of their Anceſtors, and are troubled to ſee the Place where they are laid deſolate. He did not ſpeak a Word of Religion, or the Divine Worſhip, (as Grotius obſerves:) For tho' Artaxerxes had a great Affection for the Jews, and had their God in Veneration, (as appears by the Edict he ſent to Ezra thirteen Years before) yet the Company about him might not be ſo well diſpos'd; but had the ſame Affection and Concern for their Country and Relations that he had, tho' they did not worſhip the ſame God.

Ver. 4. Then the King ſaid unto me, For what doſt thou make Requeſt?] This argues, the King had a great Kindneſs for him, that he ſo readily aſk'd what he would have him do for him, to eaſe him of his Trouble.

So I prayed to the God of Heaven.] In his Mind he ſilently beſeeched God to guide his Tongue, and to bow the King's Heart to grant his Requeſt.

Ver. 5. And I ſaid unto the King, If it pleaſe the King, and if thy Servant have found Favour in thy Sight,] It was a bold Requeſt he was going to make, and therefore before he mentions it, he ſubmits it to the King's Will and Pleaſure; and acknowledges he had no Merit, but depended wholly upon the King's Kindneſs; unto whom perhaps he might have performed ſome acceptable Service.

That thou wouldſt ſend me unto Judah, unto the City of my Fathers Sepulchres,] This might lead Euſebius and others to think Nehemiah was of the Tribe of Judah, becauſe his Anceſtors dwelt in Jeruſalem, and were there buried.

That I may build it.] Build the Walls of it, and make it a City again; whereas now it was but an open Town.

Ver. 6. And the King ſaid unto me (the Queen alſo ſitting by him)] Which was not uſual, as Hiſtorians ſay, but is noted here as a Thing extraordinary; becauſe it is likely ſhe favoured him, and promoted the Grant of his Requeſt.

For how long ſhall thy Journey be? and when wilt thou return?] This is another Argument of the Kindneſs he had for him; that he would not loſe his Service, nor be long without it.

So it pleaſed the King to ſend me, and I ſet him a Time.] He having told the King how long he deſired to be abſent from his Duty, the King permitted him to go. How long that was, is not certain. But it is not likely it was for twelve Years, (mentioned c. v. 14. xiii. 6.) but rather he aſked Leave for a Year, or perhaps for half ſo much; which made him ſo quick in diſpatching the building of the Wall, which he finiſhed in two and fifty Days, ch. vi. 15. After which, it is likely, he returned to Shuſhan, according to his Appointment: And the King ſent him back as his Governor for twelve Years; his Preſence being very ſerviceable, or perhaps neceſſary there, for the better ordering of that Province, to the King's Content.

Ver. 7. Moreover, I ſaid unto the King, If it pleaſe the King, let Letters be given me to the Governors beyond the River, that they may convey me over, till I come into Judah:] Give him a ſafe Conduct, and furniſh him with Neceſſaries in his Journey, thro' their ſeveral Provinces, where they had Authority.

Ver. 8. And a Letter unto Aſaph the Keeper of the Kings Foreſt,] I ſuppoſe, he means the Foreſt of Lebanon; from whence he might be furniſh'd with Materials for his Building. Here the Word Pardes ſignifies differently from what it doth in other Places where it is uſed; which are but two, beſides this, Eccleſ. ii. 5. Canticles iv. 13. where it ſignifies a moſt pleaſant Garden, planted with all Sorts of Trees: And this Foreſt, it ſeems, was ſo ſweet and pleaſant a Place, that it deſerved to be called by the ſame Name.

That he may give me Timber to make Beams for the Gates of the Palace, which appertained to the Houſe,] The vulgar Latin, by the Palace underſtands the Tower of the Houſe; and ſo Pellicanus, Portas Templi, the Gates of the Temple. For tho' the Temple itſelf was built, yet the ſeveral Courts ſeem not to have been walled about, nor the Gates to the Temple made; for that it ſhould be meant of the Gates of the King's Palace, which was near the Temple, is altogether unlikely, there being no Occaſion to build a Palace for the King of Perſia; and no other King could be intended.

And for the Wall of the City, and for the Houſe that I ſhall enter into:] He deſired Leave to build a convenient Houſe for himſelf, and for thoſe that ſhould be future Governors.

And the King granted me according to the good Hand of my God upon me.] The Hand is ſometimes taken (as Druſius obſerves) in an ill Senſe, for inflicting Puniſhments, Ruth i. 13. Jerem. xv. 17. for we ſtrike others with the Hand: And ſometimes in a good Senſe, for helping and aſſiſting others, for we extend Favours to Men with our Hand. Thus he explains Pſalm lxxxviii. 6. cut off from thy Hand, that is, fallen from thy Grace and Favour. Pindar, he obſerves, thus uſes the Hand of God, for his Help and Aid, Olymp. X. Θεῦ σὺν παλάμα, by the Hand of God; which the Scholiaſt interprets, Τῇ τοῦ Θεοῦ δυνάμει καὶ βοηθείᾳ, by the Power and Help of God, Miſcellanea, Cent. i. Cap. lxxxv. Thus Nehemiah is to be here underſtood; by the Divine Favour, which inclined the King to do what he deſired; which he calls God's good Hand.

Ver. 9. Then I came to the Governors beyond the River, and gave them the Kings Letters. (Now the King had ſent Captains of the Army, and Horſemen with me.)] This the King did over and above what he deſired, which procured him the greater Reſpect from the Governors, when they ſaw the Care the King took for the Safety of his Perſon.

Ver. 10. When Sanballat the Horonite,] He ſeems to have been a petty Prince of Moab, or ſome great Man of that Country; for Horonaim was an eminent City there, Iſaiah xv. 5. xlviii. 3, 5, 34.

And Tobiah the Servant, the Ammonite,] He had been a Slave of that Country, but now advanced to ſome Authority (perhaps, to be a Governor of a Province) in theſe Parts. The Mention of theſe two great Men, ſhews, that the Nations of Moab and Ammon were reſtored as well as the Jews, according to the Divine Oracles; and were well known, that their Deſtruction by the People of God might be the more obſervable; which was in the Time of the Maccabees, who ſubdued thoſe Nations according to the Predictions of ſeveral Prophets.

Heard of it, it grieved them exceedingly that there was come a Man to ſeek the Welfare of the Children of Iſrael.] With ſuch Authority from the King, and in ſuch Favour with him; as appeared by the Letters he brought with him, and the Guard that attended him, and the Diligence of the ſeveral Governors, thro' whoſe Provinces he paſſed, to ſerve him.

Ver. 11. So I came to Jeruſalem, and was there three Days.] In which he reſted himſelf, and received the Viſits of his Friends; as Ezra had done, chap. viii. 32.

Ver. 12. And I aroſe in the Night,] At the End of thoſe Days, it is likely, for he was reſolved to make no Delay.

I and ſome few Men with me,] In whom he moſt confided.

Neither told I any Man what my God had put in my Heart to do at Jeruſalem:] He being a Courtier, had learned to hold his Peace, and obſerve when it was a fit Time to ſpeak, and to whom; for he would not truſt to every Body, knowing there was much Falſeneſs in Mens Hearts; and Secrecy was neceſſary to keep his Deſigns from being betrayed.

Neither was there any Beaſt with me, ſave the Beaſt that I rode upon.] They all went on Foot beſides himſelf, that there might be the leſs Noiſe, and no Notice taken of what he did. What Beaſt it was, on which he rode, whether Horſe or Mule, is not worth the Inquiry; it is likely a Mule, on which great Men were wont to ride in thoſe Countries.

Ver. 13. And I went out by Night, by the Gate of the Valley,] This Valley is mentioned again, ch. iii. 13. but whereabout it was, is not remembred, but only that it lay before the Well called the Dragon-Well.

Even before the Dragon-Well,] So called, either from the ſilent ſliding of the Water (as a Serpent creeps) from the Fountain Siloam; or, from a Dragon (as Bochartus thinks) which haunted this Place ſince the City lay deſolate; for Serpents delight in ſuch Places, eſpecially near Fountains of Water.

And to the Dung-port,] Out of which Dung was wont to be carried out of Jeruſalem, when it was before inhabited.

And viewed the Walls of Jeruſalem, which were broken down, and the Gates thereof were conſumed with Fire.] Trying (as Conradus Pellicanus reaſonably conjectures) whether the Foundation was ſtill ſound, and would ſupport a new Wall laid upon it; or, whether it was rotten, and muſt be laid again.

Ver. 14. Then I went on to the Gate of the Fountain,] Either of Siloe, or of Gihon. The Wall was not ſo broken down, but ſome Part of it ſtill remained, and the Place where the Gates were was known. See ch. iv. 6, 7. vi. 1.

And to the Kings Pool:] Which is generally ſuppoſed to be that which Hezekiah made, 2 Chron. xxxii. 3, 30.

But there was no Place for the Beaſt that was under me to paſs.] Being full of Rubbiſh, or of Water.

Ver. 15. Then went I up in the Night by the Brook,] The ſame Night he went by the Brook Kidron.

And viewed the Wall, and turned back, and entred by the Gate of the Valley, and ſo returned.] He ſeems not to have gone round about the whole City; for there were ſeveral other Gates which are not here mentioned; but having ſeen in what Condition ſo many Parts of the Wall were, by which he judged of the reſt, he turned back into the City, and entred at the ſame Gate, from whence he went out, ver. 13.

Ver.

Ver. 16. And the Rulers knew not whither I went, or what I did,] Theſe Rulers (Conradus Pellicanus thinks) were Gentiles, for they are diſtinguiſhed from the Jews in the following Words, and from other Rulers among them; and therefore were the Officers of the Kings of Perſia, who had hitherto obſtructed the Work.

Neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the Prieſts, nor to the Nobles, nor to the Rulers,] To any of the People of the Jews, for he had not ſo much as acquainted the Prieſts, nor the Nobles, nor any that had Authority among them, with his Intentions.

Nor to the reſt that did the Work.] Whom he intended hereafter to employ in the Work: Or, he told none of thoſe that went with him to view the Ruins, what his Deſign was.

Ver. 17. Then ſaid I unto them, Ye ſee the Diſtreſs that we are in, how Jeruſalem lieth waſte, and the Gates thereof are burnt with Fire,] Not long after he took a fit Opportunity to repreſent to them their low Condition, and to let them underſtand what he intended, and had Power to undertake.

Come, and let us build up the Wall of Jeruſalem, that we be no more a Reproach.] Expoſed to the Scorn and Inſults of the People round about them.

Ver. 18. Then I told them of the Hand of my God, which was good upon me; as alſo the Kings Words that he had ſpoken unto me.] He acquainted them how favourable God had made the King to him, and all the Diſcourſe he had with him, and the Commiſſion which he had received from him.

And they ſaid, Let us riſe up and build. So they ſtrengthned their Hands for this good Work.] When they heard of the Favour of God, and of the King.

Ver. 19. But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the Servant the Ammonite, and Geſhem the Arabian heard it,] It is probable, Geſhem was the King's Deputy in Arabia, as the two former were in Moab and Ammon: But others take them rather to have been all three great Men among the Samaritans.

They laughed us to Scorn, and deſpiſed us,] As Men that made a vain Attempt, which they would never be able to accompliſh.

And ſaid, What is this Thing that ye do? will ye rebel againſt the King?] This was the moſt odious Calumny they could invent, that they intended to ſet up for themſelves, and be no longer the King's Subjects.

Ver. 20. Then anſwered I them, and ſaid unto them, The God of Heaven he will proſper us;] We have Authority for what we do from an higher Power than yours.

Therefore we his Servants will ariſe and build: But you have no Portion, nor Right, nor Memorial in Jeruſalem.] Do not you trouble your ſelves about this Matter, who have no Part, either in the Labour, or the Merit, or the Fame of it; for you are not of our Religion, and therefore may mind your own Buſineſs, and not meddle with ours.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. THEN Eliaſhib the High-Prieſt roſe up with his Brethren the Prieſts,] Now he ſhews, by whom, and in what Order the Wall was built; which was begun by Eliaſhib, the Grand-Child of Jeſhua the High-Prieſt, (as we read, ch. xii. 10.) who with his Brethren gave a noble Example, in being the firſt that went about the Work, and built the Gate here mentioned.

And they built the Sheep-Gate,] Which was at the South-ſide of the City, in that Part of the Valley which looked towards the City of David and the Temple. The Sheep uſed to enter in here, which were to be ſacrificed; and therefore, I ſuppoſe the Prieſts undertook this Part of the Work as moſt proper for them. Dr. Lightfoot hath taken a great deal of Pains to find in what Quarter theſe Gates were; to whom I refer the Reader in his Chorog. Century of the Land of Iſrael, Chap. xxvi.

They ſanctified it, and ſet up the Doors of it;] When they had compleated it, they bleſſed it by ſolemn Prayers, and perhaps by Sacrifices; as the firſt Fruits of this pious Work. For we do not read, that any other Part, but this which they built, was ſanctified. Some think, this was done, becauſe of the Relation that this Gate had to ſacred Uſes; but it was rather ſuch a Ceremony, as was imitated by other Nations, when they begun their Walls, which they commended to the Protection of their Gods. Some tranſlate it, they made it an excellent Structure: Others, they cleanſed it from the Rubbiſh, and the Profanation which the Babylonians had brought upon it; reſtoring it to its ancient Splendor. But our Tranſlation, I think, is beſt; for it being the Prieſts Work, it became them to bleſs and ſanctify it.

Even unto the Tower of Meah they ſanctified it, unto the Tower of Hananeel.] They ſanctified the reſt of the Wall, which they built as far as the Tower of Meah on one Side, and the Tower of Hananeel on the other. But Pellicanus thinks, that Meah is not the Name of a Tower, but ſignifies an Hundred; and makes the Senſe to be, they not only built the Sheep-Gate, but an hundred Cubits of the Wall to a Tower ſo far off from the Gate, and alſo to the Tower of Hananeel. This Sheep-Gate ſome think is the ſame with the Προβατικὴ, mentioned John v. 2. which being the firſt that was built by the Prieſts of God, and particularly commended to his Bleſſing, had that ſingular Gift beſtow'd upon the neighbouring Pool, that it ſhould miraculouſly heal thoſe that firſt entered into it every Day; and that from this Time it had this Virtue: Afterward they dedicated the whole Wall, as we read, ch. xii. 27.

Ver. 2. And next unto him builded the Men of Jericho: and next to them builded Zaccur the Son of Imri.] Whom ſome take for a principal Perſon in Jericho.

Ver. 3. But the Fiſh-Gate did the Sons of Haſſenah build,] This was a Gate which looked towards the Sea; from whence Fiſh was wont to be brought, and ſold here.

Who alſo laid the Beams thereof, and ſet up the Doors thereof, the Locks thereof, and the Bars thereof.] They made a compleat Piece of Work of this Gate; to which they gave the laſt finiſhing; which was not done univerſally till after ſome Time. See ch. vi. 1. vii. 1.

Ver. 4. And next unto them repaired Meremoth the Son of Urijah, the Son of Koz: and next unto them repaired Meſhullam the Son of Berechiah, the Son of Meſhezabeel: and next unto them repaired Zadok the Son of Baana.] Theſe repaired the Wall till they came to the old Gate; for there was no other Gate till they came there.

Ver. 5. And next unto them the Tekoites repaired;] The People of the City of Tekoa carried on the Wall with thoſe three before-named.

But their Nobles put not their Necks to the Work of their Lord.] They were either proud, and would not ſtoop to this Work; or, they were negligent, and cared not whether it were done or no. By their Lord ſome underſtand the Leader and Head of the whole Family, who was active in it; others Nehemiah; and ſome, God himſelf, whoſe Work this was; unto which therefore well-diſpoſed Perſons, tho' ever ſo great, put their Neeks; that is, laboured hard, not refuſing to carry Burdens, &c.

Ver. 6. Moreover, the old Gate repaired Jehoiada the Son of Peſeah, and Meſhullam the Son of Beſodeiah;] Some think, it was called the old Gate, becauſe there were ſome Remains of it from the Times of the Jebuſites, yea of Melchizedeck, by whom it was at firſt built.

They laid the Beams thereof, and ſet up the Doors thereof, and the Locks thereof, and the Bars thereof.] They imitated thoſe mentioned ver. 3. as ſeveral others did, ver. 13, 14, 15.

Ver. 7. And next unto them repaired Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Jadon the Meronothite, the Men of Gibeon, and of Mizpah, unto the Throne of the Governor on this Side the River.] Theſe, and they that follow in the next Verſe, repaired as far as to the Wall of the broad Street. And among theſe was a great Man, whoſe Name was Chiſſe (ſo Pellicanus tranſlates the Word we render the Throne) a petty Prince in Syria, under the King of Perſia; who being proſelyted joined in this Work.

Ver. 8. Next unto him repaired Uzziel the Son of Harhahiah, of the Goldſmiths: next unto him alſo repaired Hananiah the Son of one of the Apothecaries, and they fortified Jeruſalem unto the broad Wall.] Theſe were two eminent Perſons; one among the Goldſmiths, the other among the Perfumers; who did not build the Wall, becauſe it was very good in this Place; but only fortified it, and made it ſtrong. Near to this was the broad Street of the City, where there was a Market-place, for the ſelling of Commodities.

Ver. 9. And next unto them repaired Rephaiah the Son of Hur, the Ruler of the half Part of Jeruſalem.] There were two principal Overſeers of the Work, on the two Sides of the City: This, as ſome think, in that Part which was in the Tribe of Judah; and the other (ver. 12.) in that which was in the Tribe of Benjamin. See ch. iv. 19.

Ver. 10. And next unto them repaired Jedaiah, the Son of Harumaph, even over-againſt his Houſe: and next unto him repaired Hattuſh, the Son of Haſhabniah.] The firſt of theſe repaired againſt his Houſe; becauſe that lay moſt convenient for him to beſtow his Coſt upon it; and thereby he conſulted his own Safety together with the publick Good.

Ver. 11. Malchijah the Son of Harim, and Haſhub the Son of Pahath-moab, repaired the other Piece, and the Tower of the Furnaces.] The Words we tranſlate the other Piece, are the ſecond Meaſure. But what the firſt was, we cannot tell, and therefore are ignorant of the ſecond. Perhaps, half as much as the former had repaired. The Tower of the Furnaces is mentioned again, ch. xii. 38. as near to this Place. See there.

Ver. 12. And next unto him repaired Shallum the Son of Haloheſh, the Ruler of the half Part of Jeruſalem,] There was another Part mentioned before, ver. 9.

He and his Daughters.] Who are generally thought, either to be Heireſſes, or rich Widows; who piouſly contributed to this Work.

Ver. 13. The Valley-gate repaired Hanun and the Inhabitants of Zanoah; they built it, and ſet up the Doors thereof, the Locks thereof, and the Bars thereof, and a thouſand Cubits on the Wall unto the Dung-gate.] This was called the Valley of Jehoſhaphat, which lay between the City, and the Mount of Olives; thro' which the Brook Kidron ran, from the North to the South. The Gate which led to this was the Eaſt-gate; which was repaired, together with more of the Wall than any others repaired, by theſe Perſons here mentioned.

Ver. 14. But the Dung-gate repaired Malchiah, the Son of Rechab, the Ruler of Part of Beth-haccerem: He built it, and ſet up the Doors thereof, the Locks thereof, and the Bars thereof.] He was a great Man, who commanded Part of a City, which had its Name from the Vineyards that were there, as Pellicanus probably conjectures.

Ver. 15. But the Gate of the Fountain repaired Shallum the Son of Col-hozeh, the Ruler of Part of Mizpah: He built it, and covered it, and ſet up the Doors thereof, the Locks thereof, and the Bars thereof, and the Wall of the Pool of Siloah, by the Kings Garden,] This Man alſo was a great Benefactor, being a conſiderable Perſon, as the former was.

And unto the Stairs that go down from the City of David.] Which ſtood upon the high Hill of Sion; from whence they deſcended by Steps to Jeruſalem.

Ver. 16. After him repaired Nehemiah the Son of Azbuk] Of the ſame Name, but not of the ſame Family with the Writer of this Book.

The Ruler of the half Part of Beth-zur, unto the Place over-againſt the Sepulchres of David,] Where David had a Sepulchre for himſelf, and for his Succeſſors in the Kingdom.

And to the Pool that was made,] This is ſuppoſed to be the Place mentioned 2 Kings xx. 20.

And unto the Houſe of the Mighty.] There the King's Guard were lodged, who were all mighty Men of Valour. But we can only gueſs at the Senſe of theſe Words.

Ver. 17. After him repaired the Levites, Rehum the Son of Bani: next unto him repaired Haſhabiah the Ruler of the half Part of Keilah, in his Part.] In his Street (as Pellicanus renders it) or with the Men of his Part or Country where he was Ruler.

Ver. 18. After him repaired their Brethren,] Other Levites.

Bavai the Son of Henadad, the Ruler of the half Part of Keilah.] Of the other half of the City.

Ver. 19. And next to him repaired Ezer the Son of Jeſhua, the Ruler of Mizpah, another Piece] Or rather, one Piece; becauſe another is mentioned in the next Verſe.

Over againſt the going up to the Armoury] There is ſuch a Place mentioned in the Foreſt, Iſa. xxii. 8. which Solomon it is likely made; but this was in Jeruſalem, then well known, and one of the moſt noted Places in the City, becauſe here all warlike Proviſion was laid up.

At the turning of the Wall.] At ſome Corner, where the Wall turned another Way.

Ver. 20. After him Baruch, the Son of Zabbai, earneſtly repaired the other Piece,] With great Zeal, as if he was aſhamed the Work went on ſo ſlowly; or, that they ſhould repair only one Piece, and leave the other undone.

From the turning of the Wall] From the Place before-mentioned.

Unto the Door of the Houſe of Eliaſhib the High Prieſt.] Who had the Honour to begin this good Work, ver. 1.

Ver. 21. After him repaired Meremoth the Son of Urijah, the Son of Koz, another Piece from the Door of the Houſe of Eliaſhib, even to the End of the Houſe of Eliaſhib.] He carried on the Work from the Place where the other left off, from the Entrance of the Houſe to the End of it; which being the Houſe of a great Man, we may ſuppoſe very large.

Ver. 22. And after him repaired the Prieſts, the Men of the Plain.] Near to Jeruſalem, ch. xii. 28.

Ver. 23. After him] There was ſome eminent Prieſt, who engaged others with him, as Eliaſhib had done his Brethren, ver. 1.

Repaired Benjamin, and Haſhub, over againſt their Houſe: after him repaired Azariah the Son of Maaſeiah, the Son of Ananiah, by his Houſe.] Theſe were ſome of the Tribe of Benjamin, ſettled in Jeruſalem, who repaired over-againſt their own Doors, as far as their Houſes extended.

Ver. 24. After him repaired Binnui the Son of Henadad, another Piece, from the Houſe of Azariah, unto the turning of the Wall, even unto the Corner.] This, in all Likelihood, was another of the Tribe of Benjamin, who carried on the Wall from the Place where Azariah ended.

Ver. 25. Palal the Son of Uzai, over againſt the turning of the Wall, and the Tower which lieth out from the Kings high Houſe, that was by the Court of the Priſon: after him, Pedaiah the Son of Paroſh.] There are ſo many Turnings of the Wall mentioned, that none can now give an Account of them, nor of the King's high Houſe (which ſome take to have been an Houſe built for that Proſpect.) The Court of the Priſon is often mentioned in the Book of the Prophet Jeremiah.

Ver. 26. Moreover, the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel, unto the Place over againſt the Water-gate toward the Eaſt, and the Tower that lieth out.] Not only the Prieſts and Levites, but the meaneſt Perſons that belonged to the Houſe of God, inferior Officers, contributed to this Work. And the Water-gate, it is likely, was that at which theſe lower Miniſters brought in Water for the Uſe of the Temple: Near to which Ophel was, which ſeems to have been a great Tower, 2 Chron. xxvii. 3. The Tower which lay out I can give no Account of, but the next Verſe tells us where it was.

Ver. 27. After them the Tekoites repaired another Piece, over againſt the great Tower that lieth out, even unto the Wall of Ophel.] The People of this Place are mentioned before, ver. 5. whoſe Nobles perhaps, who at the firſt withdrew themſelves from this Work, lent their Help, now that they ſaw every Body engaged in it.

Ver. 28. From above the Horſe-gate repaired the Prieſts, every one over againſt his Houſe.] It was called the Horſe-gate, as ſome think, becauſe they went through it to water their Horſes at the Brook Kidron: Or, there was a Place for the ſtanding of Horſes.

Ver. 29. After them repaired Zadok the Son of Immer, over againſt his Houſe: alſo after him repaired alſo Shemaiah, the Son of Shechaniah, the Keeper of the Eaſt-gate.] It is uncertain whether he ſpeaks of the Eaſt-gate of the City, or of the Temple: But which ſoever it was, it ſeems to have been a principal Gate, and therefore committed to the Cuſtody of an eminent Perſon.

Ver. 30. After him repaired Hananiah the Son of Shelemiah,] Some Copies read after me, as if Nehemiah in Modeſty concealed his own Work, and only intimated that he did ſomething himſelf. But ours is the right Reading.

And Hanun the ſixth Son of Zalaph, another Piece:] He had more Zeal it is likely than his elder Brethren, and therefore is here particularly noted as a worthy Man, of leſs Eſtate, but more Virtue than the reſt of his Family.

After him repaired Meſhullam the Son of Berechiah, over againſt his Chamber.] Which he had, I ſuppoſe, in the Temple.

Ver. 31. After him repaired Malchiah, the Goldſmiths Son, unto the Place of the Nethenims, and of the Merchants, over againſt the Gate Miphkad, and to the going up of the Corner.] It ſeems the Nethinims had a Part of the City aſſigned them for their Habitation, which was among the Merchants: Near to whom there was an Houſe of Correction (as ſome think the Word Miphkad imports) where they viſited (as the Hebrews ſpeak) that is puniſhed Men for their Faults.

Ver. 32. And between the going up of the Corner unto the Sheep-gate,] There they began (ver. 1.) and there they ended: Which ſhews that they left not off till they had compaſſed the whole City with a Wall, and that it was but one (as Pellicanus obſerves) not two or three, which was ſufficient to preſerve them from the Incurſions of their Enemies.

Repaired the Goldſmiths and the Merchants.] Some will have theſe to have been their Names, taken at firſt from their Profeſſions.

No Man can think (as the ſame Pellicanus notes) that the Names of them that repaired the Walls of Jeruſalem were ſet down ſo diligently, as here they are, without ſome rational Cauſe for it. And the Reaſon was, becauſe it was a Work of great Virtue, to love and to do Honour to their Country; a Work of Piety to reſtore the Holy City; a religious Thing to defend the true Worſhippers of God, that they might ſerve him in Quietneſs and Safety; and a couragious Thing, in the midſt of ſo many Enemies, to go on with this Work in a pious Confidence of the Power of God to ſupport them. The Names therefore of ſuch Perſons deſerved to be preſerved and tranſmitted to future Generations, as a moſt noble Example to them.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. BUT it came to paſs, that when Sanballat heard that we builded the Wall, he was wroth, and took great Indignation, and mocked the Jews.] Tho' he boiled inwardly with Anger, yet he ſeemed to contemn that which he feared, and ſcoffed at the Jews.

Ver. 2. And he ſpake before his Brethren, and the Army of Samaria,] By his Brethren are meant the Commanders in Chief in thoſe Parts; who muſtered, I ſuppoſe, all their Forces in Samaria, as if they intended to invade the Jews, and hinder the Work they were about.

And ſaid, What do theſe feeble Jews?] But firſt he expoſes them to Scorn, as a People that had no Power.

Will they fortify themſelves? Will they ſacrifice? Will they make an End in a Day?] He heard there were ſo many Hands at Work, as if they meant to build the Wall, and keep a Feaſt, and dedicate it by Sacrifice, all in one Day; and ſo takes an Occaſion to laugh at their fooliſh Diligence, and the Haſte they made, as if they could begin and end at once.

Will they revive the Stones out of the Heaps of the Rubbiſh which are burnt?] He repreſents it as impoſſible they ſhould repair the Wall, unleſs they could make the broken Pieces, which were alſo mouldred, to become whole Stones again.

Ver. 3. Now Tobiah the Ammonite was by him,] One of his Brethren, mentioned in the Verſe before-going.

And he ſaid, Even that which they build, if a Fox go up, he ſhall even break down their Stone-Wall.] Foxes abounded in that Country, eſpecially about Jeruſalem, ſince its Devaſtation, Lament. v. 18. At the Wall of which Tobiah jeered, ſaying, It was ſo low that thoſe Creatures might leap over it; and ſo weak, that they might throw it down, or break through it. This Opinion, it is likely, made them neglect to interrupt them in their Building, till it was too late.

Ver. 4. Hear, O our God, for we are deſpiſed: and turn their Reproach upon their own Head,] He beſeeches God to take ſuch notice of their Scoffs, that as they now deſpiſed his People, ſo they themſelves might be laughed to Scorn, and had in Deriſion.

And give them for a Prey in the Land of Captivity:] And carry them far away from the Captives into ſome other Land.

Ver. 5. And cover not their Iniquity, and let not their Sin be blotted out from before thee:] This ſeems ſomething harſh, that he ſhould pray they might never be forgiven; but he ſpake by the Spirit of Prophecy, as David did in Pſalm cix. they being of ſuch a malicious and implacable Spirit againſt God and his People, that he foreſaw they would never be capable of his Mercy, but be utterly deſtroyed by him. And indeed there were ſeveral Oracles upon which this Prayer was grounded, and it was confirmed by the Deſtruction of theſe Nations by the Maccabees and their Succeſſors.

For they have provoked thee to Anger before the Builders.] By ſcoffing at them, and diſcouraging them in the Work, which was for God's Honour, and for the Safety of his People. And therefore it highly provoked him, that theſe Men ſhould ſet themſelves with ſuch Spite againſt it.

Ver. 6. So built we the Wall; and all the Wall was joined together unto the Half thereof:] Till it was raiſed to the Half of its Height.

For the People had a Mind to work.] Were very much ſet upon it, and went about it chearfully, notwithſtanding their Jeers and Contempt.

Ver. 7. But it came to paſs, that when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Aſhdodites,] Some of theſe People were never mentioned before; and therefore this ſhews, that Sanballat endeavoured to draw all the neighbouring Nations into a Confederacy againſt the Jews.

Heard that the Walls of Jeruſalem were made up, and that the Breaches began to be ſtopped,] It ſeems the Chaldeans had not entirely thrown down the Walls, but contented themſelves to make wide Breaches and Gaps in them.

Then they were very wroth.] So incenſed, that it moved them to take the following Reſolution.

Ver. 8. And conſpire all of them together, to come and to fight againſt Jeruſalem, and to hinder it.] The laſt Words in the Hebrew are, to make an Error in it, that is, to put them by the Work, or to make them not know which Way to turn themſelves.

Ver. 9. Nevertheleſs we made our Prayer unto our God, and ſet a Watch againſt them Day and Night, becauſe of them.] They committed themſelves to the Protection of the Almighty, whoſe Servants they were, keeping a conſtant Watch, that they might not be ſurprized; for they knew them to be very vigilant to do Miſchief.

Ver. 10. And Judah ſaid, The Strength of the Bearers of Burdens is decayed,] They had wrought ſo long and ſo hard, that ſome of the Jews told him the Labourers were quite ſpent.

And there is much Rubbiſh, ſo that we are not able to build the Wall.] There was ſtill a great deal of Rubbiſh remaining, more than they were able to remove; and therefore they muſt deſiſt, at leaſt for the preſent, from building the Wall.

Ver. 11. And our Adverſaries ſaid, They ſhall not know, neither ſee, till we come in the Midſt among them, and ſlay them, and cauſe the Work to ceaſe.] They pretended alſo to have Intelligence, that the forenamed Enemies did not intend to appear with an Army before Jeruſalem, but to march ſo ſecretly, that they ſhould have no Notice of their Approach till they ſaw them in the City, and put them to the Sword.

Ver. 12. And it came to paſs that when the Jews which dwelt by them came, they ſaid unto us ten Times,] But there were ſome Jews who were Neighbours to that People that found out their Deſigns, and came to inform them of it a great many Times: For ten Times ſignifies a great many in Scripture. See Gen. xxi. 7.

From all Places whence ye ſhall return unto us, they will be upon you.] The Words in the Hebrew are no more than theſe, from all Places whence they return unto us, (there being no Words anſwering to thoſe, they will be upon you,) if any Words be added, they ſhould be they informed us of our Danger.

Ver. 13. Therefore ſet I in the lower Places behind the Wall,] Where the Wall was not yet raiſed to its juſt Height, Ver. 6.

And on the higher Places,] Where it was compleatly finiſhed.

I even ſet the People after their Families, with their Swords, their Spears, and their Bows.] With ſuch Weapons as they were furniſhed withal.

Ver. 14. And I looked, and roſe up,] When he ſaw how they were diſpoſed, he roſe up, and made this Speech to them.

And ſaid unto the Nobles, and to the Rulers, and to the reſt of the People, Be not ye afraid of them: Remember the LORD which is great and terrible, and fight for your Brethren, your Sons and your Daughters, your Wives, and your Houſes.] All was at Stake, therefore he exhorts them to be valiant, truſting in God, who was ſtronger than all their Enemies.

Ver. 15. And it came to paſs when our Enemies heard that it was known unto us, and God had brought their Counſel to nought, that we returned all of us to the Wall, every one unto his Work.] When they heard their Plot was diſcovered, and they had no Hope to ſurprize us, but we were ready to receive them, they laid aſide their Deſigns, and we went on with ours.

Ver. 16. And it came to paſs from that Time forth, that the half of my Servants wrought in the Work, and the other half of them held both the Spears, the Shields, and the Bows, and the Habergeons;] But leſt their Enemies ſhould imagine they were ſecure, and had quite laid aſide their Arms, and ſo might reſume their Enterprize, he ordered, that while half of his own Servants wrought upon the Walls, another half ſhould ſtand by with Weapons ready to put into their Hands, if there were Occaſion.

And the Rulers were behind all the Houſe of Judah.] The reſt, I ſuppoſe, followed this Example; and the Rulers ſtood at their Backs to encourage them, and put them forward in their Work.

Ver. 17. They which builded on the Wall, and they that bare Burdens, with thoſe that laded, every one with one of his Hands wrought in the Work, and with the other Hand held a Weapon.] That is, they were well appointed for both, to build and to fight. For it is a figurative Speech, it not being poſſible for them to work if both Hands had not been at Liberty. And the next Verſe ſaith, their Swords were by their Sides.

Ver. 18. For the Builders, every one had his Sword girded by his Side, and ſo builded:] This expounds the foregoing Words.

And he that ſounded the Trumpet was by me.] To give the Alarm, if need ſhould be, and ſo call them unto him for Orders. It appears by this, that he was continually with them while they wrought.

Ver. 19. And I ſaid unto the Nobles, and to the Rulers, and to the reſt of the People, The Work is great and large, and we are ſeparated upon the Wall, one far from another.] In ſeveral Quarters of it, ſome of which were at a good Diſtance from others.

Ver. 20. In what Place therefore ye hear the Sound of the Trumpet, reſort ye thither unto us: our God ſhall fight for us.] For while they lay ſcattered they could not oppoſe their Enemies ſucceſsfully, but being united with him, and under his Direction and Conduct, he bids them not doubt of God's Protection.

Ver. 21. So we laboured in the Work; and half of them held the Spears.] For the Uſe of every Man, if there ſhould be Occaſion.

From the Riſing of the Morning till the Stars appeared.] All the Day long, from Break of Day till it was quite Night.

Ver. 22. Likewiſe at the ſame Time ſaid I unto the People, Let every one with his Servant lodge within Jeruſalem, that in the Night they may be a Guard to us, and labour in the Day.] It is likely, that many of them at Night went into the Suburbs, or neighbouring Villages, and lodged there; but he would have them all lodge in Jeruſalem, for the greater Security of the City in the Night, and that they might be more ready to work in the Morning.

Ver. 23. So neither I, nor my Brethren, nor my Servants, nor the Men of the Guard which followed me, none of us put off our Clothes.] He, and his Kindred, and Family, and Guard, gave them a noble Example; for none of them put off their Clothes when they went to Bed, but lay in them, that they might be more ready to fight if any Aſſault was made on the City.

Saving that every one put them off for waſhing.] Theſe laſt Words are variouſly expounded by Interpreters, and the feweſt approve of our Tranſlation. Rabbi Solomon repeats the Word not; They put not off their Clothes, no not for waſhing. The Hebrew Word is Water, which ſome here take for the Water of the Feet, as the Hebrews ſpeak, and make the Senſe to be, no not when they made Water. De Dieu, quite contrary, except only to make Water. But it is a more ſimple Senſe, every Man had his Sword ready when he made Water. So the Word Schicho may be rendered, as we tranſlate it in the Margin, every Man went with his Weapon for Water. But Grotius follows our Tranſlation, and takes theſe Words for an Exception to what went before: And the plain Meaning is, they put off their Garments only for thoſe Ablutions, which which the Law required, or Cuſtom had introduced.

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. AND there was a great Cry of the People, and of their Wives, againſt their Brethren the Jews.] At this Time there was a grievous Complaint of the Poor againſt their rich Brethren: For tho' they were cured of their Idolatry by their Captivity, yet they were not cured of their other Sins, but loved ſtrange Women, as we read before in the Book of Ezra; and were ſo covetous, that they oppreſſed the Poor and Needy, and this at a Time, when their Enemies threatned the Deſtruction of them all. But this was the more heinous Crime, becauſe the twentieth of Artaxerxes, wherein this was done, began about the End of a Sabbatick Year, (as Dr. Alix obſerves) which raiſed the Cry of the Poor to a greater Height againſt their Creditors, who exacted their Debts of them contrary to the Law, Deut. xv. 2. which was read to them publickly in ſuch a Year, Deut. xxxi. 12. For it was of ſuch Moment, that it moved Nehemiah to make the Jews take a ſolemn Oath that they would obſerve this Law, and releaſe all the Debts that were owing to them in this Year, c. x. of this Book, v. 31.

Ver. 2. For there were that ſaid, We, our Sons, and our Daughters are many:] They had numerous Families.

Therefore we take up Corn for them, that we may eat, and live.] They had no Way to keep them from ſtarving, but by buying Corn for them at unreaſonable Rates; which the Rich demanded, when they ſaw them in ſuch Neceſſity, that they muſt pay what they aſked, or die.

Ver. 3. Some alſo there were that ſaid, We have mortgaged our Lands, Vineyards, and Houſes, that we might buy Corn, becauſe of the Dearth.] There had been a great Scarcity for Want of Rain; which God denied, becauſe they minded building their own Houſes more than his, as we read Haggai i. 9, 10, 11. Now the Effects of ſuch Droughts cauſed among the People great Scarcity of Proviſions, in which the Rich had no Compaſſion on their poor Brethren, but forced them to ſell all they had for Bread.

Ver. 4. There were alſo that ſaid, We have borrowed Money for the Kings Tribute, and that upon our Lands and Vineyards.] They do not complain that they were conſtrained to borrow Money, but that they could not have it without taking it up on Uſury, as it appears from ver. 7. which was contrary to the Law of God, Exod. xxii. 25, &c. otherwiſe they could not have paid their Tribute to the King of Perſia, who laid it upon all his Subjects every where, Ezra iv. 13. vii. 24.

Ver. 5. Yet now our Fleſh is as the Fleſh of our Brethren, our Children as their Children:] They repreſent very pathetically that there was no Difference between them and their Brethren, but that they were poor, and the other rich; for they were all Jews of the ſame Stock, from the ſame Original, all alike circumciſed; ſo that by Nature, and by the Favour of God, they were every Way the ſame, and therefore ought to enjoy the ſame Freedom that they and their Children did.

And lo, we bring into Bondage our Sons and our Daughters, to be Servants,] In caſe of great Neceſſity this was lawful, Exod. xxi. 7. But they were very void of Compaſſion, who forced their Brethren to do a Thing ſo much againſt Nature.

And ſome of our Daughters are brought unto Bondage already,] Some of the tender Sex, who were leaſt able to endure Hardſhip, they had been already forced to part withal.

Neither is it in our Power to redeem them: for other Men have our Lands and Vineyards.] Their Condition was very lamentable, for none would lend them Money freely, and to pay their Uſury, they were forced to ſell their Children, whom they had not Power to redeem, becauſe their Lands were mortgaged to thoſe Oppreſſors; ſo that they were in a worſe Condition than when they were in Babylon, being not in ſo much Danger to be devoured by their cruel Neighbours, (who ſought their Deſtruction) as by their barbarous Friends and Neighbours.

Ver. 6. And I was very angry when I heard their Cry, and theſe Words.] It could not but move his Indignation, to hear them complain one of another, but much more when he heard the Reaſon.

Ver. 7. Then I conſulted with myſelf,] It is not ſafe to do any Thing in a Fit of Anger; but coolly to conſider and deliberate what is fit to be done.

And I rebuked the Nobles, and the Rulers,] Whom he did not fear to reprove ſeverely, when he found them in Fault.

And ſaid unto them, You exact Uſury, every one of his Brother.] And that a very heavy one, ſuch as was uſed among the Heathen, called, Centeſima, the hundredth Part, ver. 11. which was twelve per Cent.

And I ſet a great Aſſembly againſt them.] That he might put them to the greater Shame. For this great Aſſembly I take to be the whole Body of the People, with their Judges, as Bertram obſerves, De Repub. Jud. p. 171. See Ezra x. 8, 14.

Ver. 8. And I ſaid unto them, We, after our Ability,] Either he ſpeaks of himſelf in the Plural Number, as great Men are wont to do; or he means, he, with Ezra, and ſuch like Lovers of their Country, had done what follows.

Have redeemed our Brethren the Jews, who were ſold unto the Heathen;] Had done their utmoſt to deliver the Jews out of the Captivity of Babylon; whereby they were reſtored both to their own Country, and to their Liberty: And perhaps they had with their own Money procured the Freedom of ſuch as were Slaves to ſome of the Babylonians; who would not part with them, when they deſired to go to Jeruſalem, unleſs they were paid the Price of them, being their own proper Goods.

And will you even ſell your Brethren?] For that they might expect, ſince their Parents could not redeem them.

Or ſhall they be ſold unto us?] Muſt I redeem them out of your Hands, as I have helped to redeem ſome out of Babylon?

Then they held their Peace, and found nothing to answer.] There was such an express Law of God against them, Deut. xxiii. 19. that they had nothing to reply; and therefore were silent because they could neither deny the Fact, nor were able to justify it.

Ver. 9. And I said, It is not good that ye do:] This encouraged him to proceed in his Reprehension, and to tell them, that they had committed a great Sin: For that's the Meaning of, It is not good: A soft Form of Speech, used when they mean it is very bad, Prov. xvi. 29. and many other Places.

Ought ye not to walk in the Fear of our God,] Being so lately delivered by him from Oppression, and having so many Enemies about them, to observe what they did.

Because of the Reproach of the Heathen our Enemies?] Who might justly upbraid them with Inhumanity; and thereupon reproach their Religion.

Ver. 10. I likewise, and my Brethren, and my Servants, might exact of them Money and Corn:] As a Reward of their Care and Diligence in the publick Service.

I pray you let us leave off this Usury.] But what then would become of the poor People, who were too much oppressed already? And therefore he beseeches them to leave off this Usury, seeing he and his rather waved their own Right, than demanded any Thing for their Labour and Toil in the Discharge of their Offices.

Ver. 11. Restore, I pray you, to them, even this Day, their Lands, their Vineyards, their Oliveyards, and their Houses,] Tho' they had lent Money upon the Security of those Lands, &c. yet since they were the Possessions of the Poor, who were reduced to great Straits, and could not pay them, he beseeches them to restore them, and that without Delay.

Also the hundredth Part of the Money, and of the Corn, the Wine, and the Oyl, that ye exact of them.] The hundredth Part was an Usury then practised in those Countries, as afterwards among the Romans; which was the hundredth Part of what was lent every Month; so that every Year they paid the eighth Part of the Principal. Thus 'tis commonly said. But Salmasius hath observed, that in the Eastern Countries there were never any Laws to determine what Interest should be taken for Money lent for a Day, or a Week, or a Month, or a Year, (for there were all these Sorts of Usury) but every one was left to demand what he pleased; and according to what was agreed, they paid for what was borrowed. Therefore we cannot certainly tell whether this was heavy or light Usury. But among the Greeks and Romans there was a Measure set, (as he notes in his Book De Fœnore Trapezitico) and Ἑκατοστή, the hundredth Part, was among the Greeks the lowest Usury; tho' it was more or less in several Ages, as he there shews, and in his Book De Modis Usurarum; where he notes the Difference between the Greeks and Romans in this Matter, Cap. vi. p. 230, &c.

Ver. 12. Then said they, We will restore them,] They readily consented to restore their Lands, Vineyards, and Houses.

And will require nothing of them;] Demand no Interest for the Money.

So will we do as thou sayest.] They so entirely agreed to what he desired, that it made a Kind of Jubilee among the People; for, no Doubt, there was great Joy when this was done.

Then I called the Priests, and took an Oath of them, that they should do according to this Promise.] While they were in this good Mind, he called the Priests, and made them swear in their Presence, who were Witness to it, that they would keep their Word.

Ver. 13. Also I shook my Lap, and said, So God shake out every Man from his House, and from his Labour, that performeth not this Promise, even thus be he shaken out and emptied.] He prayed God that they might lose all they had, who did not make good his Promise; and predicted their Poverty by an external Sign, as the Manner of the Prophets was to do: For folding up the Skirts of his Garment, and then scattering them abroad, he represented how God would cast them out of their Possessions, and the Fruit of their Labours, who did not observe this Oath.

And all the Congregation said, Amen, and praised the LORD.] God so wrought upon the People's Hearts, that even they who had been guilty of taking Usury, consented to this Imprecation, and wished the same Mischief to themselves, if they did not do as he required: And which was more, they praised God, who had given them such a Governor, and put into them this good Mind, to submit unto him.

And the People did according to this Promise.] Made an immediate Restitution of what had been mortgaged to them, and released them of their Obligation for Money.

Ver. 14. Moreover, from the Time that I was appointed to be their Governor in the Land of Judah, from the twentieth Year, even unto the two and thirtieth Year of Artaxerxes the King, that is, twelve Years,] All which Time he was not in Judea; but he ordered him, who was his Deputy, in his Absence, to do as he did.

I and my Brethren] He and his Domesticks; or, those, who, as I said, he deputed in his Room.

Have not eaten the Bread of the Governor.] Taken the Allowances which were made to the Governors, appointed by the Kings of Persia, to provide them a Table: Which it was but reasonable they should have; that they who did the publick Business should be maintained at the publick Charge. But he would not do that which was lawful, when he saw it would be burdensome to his Countrymen, and therefore lived upon his own Estate which he had in Judea, and upon the Salary which he had as Cupbearer to the King of Persia, in whose Service, it is likely, he had enriched himself before he came to Jerusalem.

Ver. 15. But the former Governors that had been before me, were chargeable unto the People, and had taken of them Bread and Wine, beside forty Shekels of Silver,] Who these were, he doth not say, but spares their Names; it being sufficient to declare he did not imitate them, whosoever they were. Nor doth he relate how much much Bread and Wine they exacted, but only that they had beſides, forty Shekels of Silver every Day, I ſuppoſe, to make Proviſion of other Things for their Table. But from theſe Words Scaliger concludes, that before Nehemiah and Ezra there had been other Governors placed over them by the Kings of Perſia. And if we may believe the Jewiſh Annals, compil'd by the Author of Seder Olam Zuta, the firſt Governor, Zerubbabel, returning from Jeruſalem to Babylon, died there, and was ſucceeded in his Government of Judea by his Son Meſhullum, and after him by his Grandſon Chananiah.

Yea, even their Servants bare Rule over the People:] They connived at the Exactions of their Servants, who demanded what they pleaſed.

But ſo did not I, becauſe of the Fear of God.] It was not Vain-glory that made him thus generous, but his Love to God, and to his Country: For he loved Religion better than Riches, and took not his own Due, that the People might ſerve God more chearfully.

Ver. 16. Yea, alſo I continued in the Work of this Wall.] And all this while he took as much Pains as any of them, in building the Wall of Jeruſalem.

Neither bought we any Land:] Which they might have done of the Poor at an eaſy Price, if they had deſired Wealth; but they would not make any Advantage to themſelves of other Mens Neceſſities.

And all my Servants were gathered thither unto the Work.] They were conſtantly employed alſo in the ſame Work, and received no Pay for their Labour, tho' it could not be done without Neglect of his private Buſineſs.

Ver. 17. Moreover, there were at my Table an hundred and fifty of the Jews and Rulers, beſides thoſe that came unto us from among the Heathen that are about us.] This was the greater Expence, becauſe they were not inferior People that were entertained at his Table, but Perſons of Quality among the Jews, and Strangers who came about Buſineſs, and, perhaps, brought him Intelligence concerning the State of the neighbouring Heathen, and of their Deſigns.

Ver. 18. Now that which was prepared for me daily, was one Ox, and ſix choice Sheep; alſo Fowls were prepared for me, and once in ten Days, Store of all Sorts of Wine:] This ſhews that he kept a noble Houſe, as we ſpeak; and, indeed, it was very becoming a great Man to entertain great Perſons, both of his own Country and Strangers, with Magnificence.

Yet for all this required I not the Bread of the Governor, becauſe the Bondage was heavy upon this People.] They could not without great Hardſhip maintain themſelves.

Ver. 19. Think upon me, my God, for Good, according to all that I have done for this People.] He expected his Reward only from God, who he hoped would ſhew him the ſame Kindneſs that he had done for his People. There is no Reaſon to think he ſpeaks too much of himſelf, and his own worthy Acts; for it was no more than was neceſſary in ſuch a State of Things, that Poſterity might be furniſhed with an excellent Example of extraordinary Virtue; and no more than St. Paul was conſtrained to ſpeak of himſelf in his Epiſtle to the Corinthians; of whom he would take nothing, that he might ſtop the Mouths of falſe Apoſtles, and covetous People. See chap. xiii. 22.

CHAP. VI.

Ver. 1. NOW it came to paſs, when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and Geſhem the Arabian, and the reſt of our Enemies] Mentioned, chap. iv. 7.

Heard that I had builded the Wall, and that there was no Breach left therein; (though at that Time I had not ſet up the Doors upon the Gates)] Not upon all of them, tho' ſome had been ſet up at the Charge of particular Perſons, ch. iii. 3, 6, 13, &c.

Ver. 2. That Sanballat and Geſhem ſent unto me, ſaying, Come, let us meet together] Either to conſult about the common Good of their ſeveral Provinces, wherein they governed, (of which perhaps they pretended they were to give an Account to their Maſter) or to eſtabliſh a Friendſhip and good Correſpondence one with another, or ſome ſuch Purpoſe.

In ſome one of the Villages in the Plain of Ono:] A Place in the Tribe of Benjamin, chap. xi. 35. and 2 Chron. viii. 12. ſee there.

But they thought to do me Miſchief.] He would not truſt them, ſuſpecting they intended to kill him; of which, perhaps, he had received ſome private Intelligence.

Ver. 3. And I ſent Meſſengers unto them, ſaying,] He ſhewed ſo much Reſpect to them, as not to return an Anſwer by thoſe whom they ſent to him, but diſpatched a Meſſenger of his own to them.

I am doing a great Work, ſo that I cannot come down: Why ſhould the Work ceaſe whilſt I leave it, and come down to you?] He did not know any Buſineſs they could have with him of ſuch great Concernment, as that which he had in Hand, and therefore he would not put a Stop to it, to confer with them: This was one Reaſon, but not the only one for his Refuſal.

Ver. 4. Yet they ſent unto me four Times after this Sort;] They were reſtleſly bent upon his Deſtruction, and therefore importuned him often to give them a Meeting: For they thought, I ſuppoſe, if they did not take this Opportunity to overthrow what he had done, before he ſet up the Doors upon the Gates, they ſhould never be able to enter the City afterwards.

And I anſwered them after the ſame Manner.] He ſtill perſiſted conſtantly to give no other Anſwer; whereby they might underſtand he was reſolved to finiſh the Work.

Ver. 5. Then ſent Sanballat his Servant unto me in like Manner, the fifth Time,] There is no Mention of Tobiah in all the foregoing Negotiation, and now Geſhem is left out, and Sanballat alone ſent him a Meſſage, pretending, it is likely, ſpecial Reſpect and Kindneſs unto him, in informing him what was laid to his Charge: Certain it is, he was the great Contriver and Manager of all the Miſchief intended againſt him.

With an open Letter in his Hand:] Before, the Meſſage was delivered by Word of Mouth, but but now by Letter; yet open, that every one might ſee of what he was accuſed.

Ver. 6. Wherein was written; It is reported among the Heathen,] The Report was ſpread among the Nations thereabout.

And Gaſhmu] The ſame, I ſuppoſe, with Geſhem, mentioned, ver. 1.

Saith it,] Undertakes to prove it.

That thou and the Jews think to rebel: for which Cauſe thou buildeſt the Wall, that thou mayeſt be their King, according to theſe Words.] That he might eſtabliſh his Authority, and reign over them, according to the common Report.

Ver. 7. And thou haſt alſo appointed Prophets to preach of thee at Jeruſalem, ſaying, There is a King in Judah:] This was cunningly ſuggeſted, that he might not think there was any Prophet on his Side; as indeed there was, for he had corrupted Shemaiah, as it preſently follows.

And now ſhall it be reported to the King, according to theſe Words: Come now therefore, and let us take Counſel together.] How they ſhould wipe off this Suſpicion, if it ſhould be put into the King's Mind, as he told him it certainly would.

Ver. 8. Then I ſent unto him, ſaying,] In an open Letter, I ſuppoſe, that every Body might ſee it.

There are no ſuch Things done as thou ſayeſt,] Nothing done to give a Jealouſy of a Rebellion, nor any Prophet that encouraged it.

But thou feigneſt them out of thine own Heart.] He had invented this Report, to defame Nehemiah, without any Ground for it.

Ver. 9. For they all made us afraid, ſaying, Their Hands ſhall be weakened from the Work, that it be not done: now therefore, O God, ſtrengthen my Hands.] Their Buſineſs was to contrive falſe Stories, to put the Jews in Fear; being confident they would be diſcouraged by ſuch Reports, as ſome were: Therefore he beſeeches God to ſtrengthen him that he might ſupport others.

Ver. 10. Afterward I came unto the Houſe of Shemaiah the Son of Delaiah, the Son of Mehetabeel,] Who was a Prophet, (it appears from ver. 12.) whom, it is likely, Nehemiah took to be his Friend, and therefore went to conſult and adviſe with him at his Houſe.

Who was ſhut up;] Out of Fear, he pretended; and by this Action would have had Nehemiah to underſtand what he himſelf ſhould do for his own Security; for it was the Manner of the Prophets to inſtruct the People by Actions and Signs, as well as by Words. But others think he ſhut himſelf up, that is, retired, as an holy Man from the Affairs of the World, to ſpend his Time in Meditation and Prayer, in ſome of the Chambers of the Temple; whither he adviſed Nehemiah to retire, and to take Sanctuary there, from the great Dangers to which he was expoſed.

And he ſaid, Let us meet together in the Houſe of God, within the Temple, and let us ſhut the Doors of the Temple; for they will come to ſlay thee,] By the Temple he means the outward Court of it, where he had a Chamber; whither, as a Friend in whom Nehemiah confided, he prayed him to come, that they might meet and conſult together how to preſerve Jeruſalem, and where he might be ſafe himſelf from his Enemies; who could not eaſily enter in there, it being a ſtrong Place, and beſides privileged by its Holineſs; unto which even Heathens, perhaps, might have ſuch Regard, as not to violate it; whereas the Gates of Jeruſalem were not yet in ſuch a Condition, as to keep them out: By this Means he hoped Nehemiah would become contemptible, when the People ſaw his Cowardice, and the Jews would be diſheartned, as much as their Enemies took Courage. And, perhaps, he intended, with ſome Prieſts, his Confederates, to ſeize on him, and deliver him into the Hands of Sanballat. At leaſt, it would give ſome Countenance to the Calumny he had raiſed, of his affecting to be King; becauſe he fled from his Work, and durſt not ſtand upon his Integrity. Shemaiah alſo might think hereby to draw him in to offend God, by coming into that Court where the Prieſts only might come, and where it is ſuppoſed this Prophet now was.

Yea, in the Night will they come to ſlay thee.] I take the Meaning to be, even this very Night will they fall upon thee; therefore conſult thy Safety, by fleeing hither.

Ver. 11. And I ſaid, Should ſuch a Man as I flee?] Who am a Governor, and ought to give a good Example of undaunted Courage; and have profeſſed to put great Confidence in God; and hitherto been marvellouſly preſerved by him, and aſſiſted in his Undertaking.

And who is there, that being as I am, would go into the Temple to ſave his Life? I will not go in.] There might have been Colour for this Advice, if Jeruſalem had been an open Place, without any Walls, without armed Men in it, or that had no Courage to defend it; but they had appeared on the Walls to defend it, (ch. iv. 13.) and being ſo well appointed, he was reſolved till to rely on God, and on their Fidelity and Valour; and not be ſo baſe as to deſert them, till they deſerted him; which they might well do, if they ſaw him flee from them for Fear.

Ver. 12. And, lo, I perceived that God had not ſent him, but that he pronounced this Prophecy againſt me:] Not to ſecure him, but to betray him; as he plainly diſcovered in a little Time; which ſhewed, there was no ſuch Danger, as this falſe Prophet pretended.

For Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.] Tobiah was not idle all this Time, but it's likely invented this Plot, to bribe this Man to be a falſe Prophet: Which perhaps was diſcovered to Nehemiah by ſome undoubted Prophets of God, who were on their Side.

Ver. 13. Therefore was he hired, that I ſhould be afraid, and do ſo, and ſin,] That they might draw him to offend God, by diſtruſting his Care of him; and diſhonour himſelf by baſe Cowardice.

And that they might have Matter for an evil Report, that they might reproach me.] As a Man guilty of what they accuſed him.

Ver. 14. My God, think thou upon Tobiah and Sanballat, according to theſe their Works,] Their Calumnies, and malicious Contrivances, and foul Practices, which he hoped God would take a Time to puniſh.

And on the Propheteſs Noadiah, and the reſt of the Prophets that would have put me in fear.] The wicked Temper of this People is very wonderful, who had already got falſe Prophets among them, both Men and Women, whom Nehemiah did not think fit as a Judge to puniſh, but left them to the Judgment of God. Nor do we read that he informed the King of Perſia of the foul Dealings of theſe Men, (which certainly he would have puniſhed,) but prayed God to reward them after their Deeds: For he would have all know that he depended wholly upon the Power of God to enable him to perfect this Work, and not upon the Help of human Force.

Ver. 15. So the Wall was finiſhed in the twenty and fifth Day of the Month Elul, in fifty and two Days.] Which may ſeem incredible to thoſe who do not reflect what a great Number of People (who were not hired, but voluntarily) engaged in this Work, and how full they were of Zeal, and that the Foundation of the Wall was not raiſed by the Chaldeans, nay, there were ſome Pieces of it ſtanding, only great Gaps being made in it. And other Hiſtories acquaint us with the like Diligence; particularly Arrianus and Curtius relate, that Alexander the Great built the Walls of Alexandria (which was ſeven Miles in Compaſs) in the Space of twenty Days.

Ver. 16. And it came to paſs that when all our Enemies heard thereof, and all the Heathen that were about us ſaw theſe Things,] When they heard how all the Deſigns of their Enemies were diſappointed, and ſaw Jeruſalem was built and flouriſhed.

They were much caſt down in their own Eyes; for they perceived that this Work was wrought of our God.] Being finiſhed in ſo ſhort a Time, beyond all Expectation, and in the Midſt of great Fears and ſad Apprehenſions.

Ver. 17. Moreover, in thoſe Days the Nobles of Judah ſent many Letters unto Tobiah, and the Letters of Tobiah came unto them.] To add to all the other Wickedneſs of this Nation, that were falſe Brethren among their great Men, who held a Correſpondence with their moſt peſtilent Enemies againſt Nehemiah.

Ver. 18. For there were many in Judah ſworn unto him,] Againſt the Intereſt of their Country, and of their Religion; to ſuch a Height of Impiety were many arrived.

Becauſe he was the Son-in-law of Shechaniah the Son of Arah; and his Son Johanan had taken the Daughter of Meſhullam the Son of Berechiah.] So dangerous were Marriages with Foreigners, which Ezra therefore had great Reaſon to make void; for by theſe Alliances they were engaged in wicked Deſigns againſt their Country.

Ver. 19. Alſo they reported his good Deeds before me,] To ſuch an Impudence were they arrived, that they highly commended him as a very worthy Man in the Preſence of Nehemiah, who knew ſo much of his Wickedneſs.

And uttered my Words to him:] Or informed him of all that Nehemiah did. For ſo we tranſlate in the Margin, Matters, not Words.

And Tobiah ſent Letters to put me in fear.] Still continued ſuch Practices as are mentioned, Ver. 6. that if it were poſſible they might put him into ſuch Fear, as would move him to do ſomething to diſgrace himſelf.

CHAP. VII.

Ver. 1. NOW it came to paſs when the Wall was built, and I had ſet up the Doors, and the Porters, and the Singers, and the Levites were appointed,] The Porters were to attend the Gates; but what the Levites and the Singers had to do there, is not eaſily reſolved. Perhaps they were to be ready againſt the Time that the Wall ſhould be dedicated, which is mentioned Chap. xii.

Ver. 2. That I gave my Brother Hanani,] Who was the Man that came from Jeruſalem to Shuſhan, to acquaint him with the deplorable Condition of the City, and implore his Help, Chap. i. 2.

And Hananiah the Ruler of the Palace,] So the Houſe where Nehemiah dwelt is called, becauſe he was Governor for the King, and a Kind of Viceroy, who did all the King's Buſineſs, and here gave Audience to all People, as the King was wont to do in his Palace.

Charge over Jeruſalem:] He made Hanani, I ſuppoſe, principal Governor over Jeruſalem, and Hananiah was his Aſſiſtant and Deputy.

(For he was a faithful Man, and feared God above many.)] He ſaith nothing of Hanani, who was well known to be zealous for God and for his Country, by the Journey he took to Shuſhan, (which I before mentioned,) but he gives the Reaſon why he joined Hananiah with him, becauſe he knew he might be truſted, being a Man of Conſcience, who acted out of religious Principles, which a great many in thoſe Days did not. The Reaſon why he took this Care for the City, it is likely, was, becauſe he himſelf was returning to Shuſhan, to give the King an Account of the State of Affairs in Judea, and therefore placed ſuch Men in Jeruſalem, as he knew would faithfully ſecure it in his Abſence.

Ver. 3. And I ſaid unto them, Let not the Gates of Jeruſalem be opened, until the Sun be hot;] Till it had been riſen a good while, that they might ſee clearly round about them, and that all the People might be ready in caſe of any Danger.

And while they ſtand by, let them ſhut the Doors, and bar them:] And at Night he charges them to ſtand by and ſee the Gates ſhut and barred in their Preſence. Or, as ſome expound it, they ſhould not ſuffer any Man to ſtir till they ſhut the Gates, leſt thro' Careleſſneſs they ſhould chance to be left open. So De Dieu renders the Words, While the Standers-by ſhut the Gates, hold them faſt; that is, he gave them Power to keep all there preſent, and not let them go away till this was done.

And appoint Watches of the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem, every one in his Watch, and every one to be over-againſt his Houſe.] The Gates being ſhut, he charges them to ſet the Watch in proper Places; every one keeping Watch in that Part which was next to his own Houſe.

Ver. 4. Now the City was large and great:] And therefore required many Watches.

But

But the People were few therein,] In Compariſon with the Bigneſs of the City.

And the Houſes were not builded.] That is, not all that had been in former Times, but a great deal of Ground ſtill lay waſte.

Ver. 5. And my God put into mine Heart, to gather together the Nobles, and the Rulers, and the People,] Whatſoever good Motion came into his Mind, he aſcribed it to God, and not to his own prudent Conſideration; though that was employed in this Buſineſs. For without God we can do nothing, who ought therefore to be in all our Thoughts.

That they might be reckoned by Genealogy:] That by knowing of what Family they were, and where they formerly dwelt, he might recal thoſe of them whoſe Habitations had heretofore been in Jeruſalem, to come and ſettle there again, now that the Wall was built, and they might dwell there in Safety.

And I found a Regiſter of the Genealogy of them which came up at the firſt, and found written therein,] The Words following.

Ver. 6. Theſe are the Children of the Province that went up out of the Captivity, of thoſe that had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon had carried away, and came again to Jeruſalem, and to Judah, every one unto his City;] Theſe are the very Words which we read in the ſecond Chapter of Ezra, Ver. 1, &c. from whence he ſeems to have tranſcribed them, and added ſomething to them.

Ver. 7. Who came with Zerubbabel: Jeſhua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilſhan, Miſpereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah; the Number, I ſay, of the Men of the People of Iſrael, was this;] He that is here called Azariah, is called there Saraiah; and there are ſome other ſmall Differences in the Names, but all the ſame, only here Nahamani is added.

Ver. 8. The Children of Paroſh, two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two.] I ſhall not tranſcribe all this Genealogy, concerning which I have nothing to obſerve, but that in ſome few Things it differs from that in Ezra. See my Annotations on Ezra ii. 5. There are alſo ſome Families named here which are not in Ezra, as in Ver. 22. and Ver. 48, 49, 51, 52. which are all omitted in Ezra. For it muſt be conſidered, that one of theſe Accounts was taken by Ezra in Babylon, the other by Nehemiah in Judea. And therefore it is no Wonder that a greater Number are ſometimes mentioned in Nehemiah than in Ezra; for in the firſt Account that was taken of them, many were ignorant of their Genealogy; but before the laſt, the Book of their Genealogy was found, and yet in the whole Number the two Accounts agree, though in the particular Sums they vary. Compare Ver. 66. of this Chapter with the ſecond of Ezra, Ver. 64. of which Dr. Lightfoot gives this Account in his Chronicle of the Times of the Old Teſtament, p. 146. The Matter is to be conceived and apprehended thus; That Nehemiah found that Liſt and Catalogue of thoſe that came up in the firſt of Cyrus, as it was taken then; and that he called over the Names of the Families as they lay in Order there: He obſerved the Order of that Liſt in calling and liſting them; but he took the Number of them, as they were now when he numbred them. And ſome Families were now more in Number than they were when that firſt was made, and ſome were leſs; and ſome that were in that Liſt, were not to be found now. For ſome had more of the ſame Stock come out of Babel ſince the firſt Numbering; and ſome that had come up at firſt, and were then numbred, were now gone back. And ſo he obſerved by comparing that Liſt, and the preſent Number, how the Plantation in Judea had gone forward or backward, increaſed or decayed ſince the firſt Return.

Ver. 65. And the Tirſhatha ſaid unto them, that they ſhould not eat of the moſt holy Things till there ſtood up a Prieſt with Urim and Thummim.] It is the Opinion of Jacobus Capellus, that Zerubbabel is here meant by the Tirſhatha in Ezra ii. 63. Whoſoever he was, he expreſſes his Hope that God might in Time reſtore the Urim and Thummim, (as he had done the Nation,) and ſo give Anſwer about obſcure and difficult Matters, as he had done in former Ages. But till then theſe Prieſts were not admitted to partake of the moſt holy Things, becauſe it did not appear by good Proof, that they were of the Family of the Prieſts; and not to appear, and not to be, are the ſame Thing in Law. But the Talmudiſts, as the ſame Perſon obſerves, interpret theſe Words as if it had been ſaid, Till the Dead riſe, or till the Meſſiah come. For after the firſt Temple was deſtroyed, the Cities of the Levites, with their Suburbs, were wanting; and ſo were Urim and Thummim, and the Kings of the Houſe of Judah. See his Hiſtoria Exot. & Sacra, ad A. M. 3557.

Ver. 70. And ſome of the Chief of the Fathers gave unto the Work: The Tirſhatha gave to the Treaſure a thouſand Drams of Gold, fifty Baſons, five hundred and thirty Prieſts Garments.

Ver. 71. And ſome of the Chief of the Fathers gave to the Treaſure of the Work twenty thouſand Drams of Gold, and two thouſand and two hundred Pounds of Silver.

Ver. 72. And that which the reſt of the People gave was twenty thouſand Drams of Gold, and two thouſand Pounds of Silver, and threeſcore and ſeven Prieſts Garments.] The Offering mentioned in theſe three Verſes, was made by different Perſons from thoſe who are ſaid to have offered in Ezra ii. 68, 69. and therefore no wonder the Gold and Silver, and other Things offered, were different.

Ver. 73. So the Prieſts and the Levites, and the Porters and the Singers, and ſome of the People, and the Nethinims, and all Iſrael dwelt in their Cities;] Theſe are the very ſame Words with thoſe in the ſecond Chapter of Ezra, and the laſt Verſe; and in both Places it is ſaid, All Iſrael dwelt in their Cities. Which though it be chiefly to be underſtood of Judah and Benjamin, yet it is evident ſome of the ten Tribes did return with them, according to thoſe Prophecies, Jer. l. 4. Zech. viii. 13. And indeed there were many of the Iſraelites, that did live in the Tribe of Judah before the Captivity, 2 Chron. x. 17. xi. 16.

And when the ſeventh Month came, the Children of Iſrael were in their Cities.] When all the Buſineſs before named was over, the People were ſent back, by Nehemiah's Direction, to their ſeveral Cities, unto which they belonged: where where they remained till the ſeventh Month came; which was five Days after the Wall was finiſhed, on the twenty fifth Day of the ſixth Month, Chap. vi. 15.

CHAP. VIII.

Ver. 1. AND all the People gathered themſelves together as one Man,] In this Month was the firſt great Feaſt that fell out after the building of the Wall; as it was juſt after their firſt Company returned to Jeruſalem from Babylon, Ezra iii. 1.

Into the Street that was before the Water-gate,] Which Gate is mentioned before, Chap. iii. 26. the Street before which being very capacious, they all might meet there; for the Court of the Temple was not large enough to contain ſuch a Multitude.

And they ſpake unto Ezra the Scribe] This, no doubt, is the ſame Perſon mentioned in the foregoing Book; who had been at Babylon, it is thought, ſince his firſt coming into Judea, and was now returned; beholding with great Joy the Wall of Jeruſalem built, as before he had ſeen the Temple.

To bring the Book of the Law of Moſes, which the LORD had commanded to Iſrael.] They called to Mind that Place in Deuteronomy, (Chap. xxxi. 10, 11, &c.) where God requires the Law to be read publickly every ſeventh Year in the Feaſt of Tabernacles, which was appointed to be kept in this Month. This, no doubt, Ezra was ready to perform; but ſuch was the forward Zeal of the People at this Time, that they prevented him by their pious Intreaties, that he would obſerve that Law.

Ver. 2. And Ezra the Prieſt] So he is called, as before the Scribe; both of theſe Titles being put together in the foregoing Book.

Brought the Law before the Congregation, both of Men and Women,] For the City being reſtored and re-inhabited, the next Thing that was proper to be done, was to inſtruct them in thoſe Laws whereby they were to live.

And all that could hear with Underſtanding,] That were not mere Children.

Upon the firſt Day of the ſeventh Month.] Which was not the Feaſt wherein the Law was to be read; but, as Pellicanus well obſerves, all this Month was in a Manner holy, ſo that they continued employed in theſe holy Exerciſes till the End of the two and twentieth Day, which was the Concluſion of the Feaſt of Tabernacles.

Ver. 3. And he read therein before the Street that was before the Water-gate, from the Morning until Mid-day,] In the Hebrew the Words are, from the Light, that is, from the Break of Day, (as we ſpeak,) or the Sun-riſing, until Noon. Then, I ſuppoſe, they went to take ſome Repaſt, it being a Feſtival, and a Day of great Rejoicing, a Memorial of blowing with Trumpets, Levit. xxiii. 24. on which he thought good to begin the Reading of the Law, that he might do more than they deſired, if they ſpake to him of reading it on the Feaſt of Tabernacles.

Before the Men and the Women, and thoſe that could underſtand; and the Ears of all the People were attentive unto the Book of the Law.] This is a general Account of what he did: The Particulars follow.

Ver. 4. And Ezra the Scribe ſtood upon a Pulpit of Wood, which they had made for the Purpoſe,] To raiſe him higher than the People, that he might be the better ſeen and heard by them all; whence, in the Hebrew, it is called a Tower of Wood: But was not like our Pulpits, which contain no more than one Perſon; but large and long, that many Perſons might ſtand in it, as appears by what follows. Vitringa hath lately deſcribed it largely in his Book De Synagoga Veteri, p. 184, &c.

And beſide him ſtood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Anaiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maaſeiah, on his right Hand; and on his left Hand, Pedaiah, and Miſhael, and Malchiah, and Haſhum, and Haſhbadana, Zechariah, and Meſhullam.] It is evident by theſe Words, that ſix Perſons ſtood on his Right Hand, and ſeven on his Left, in the ſame Pulpit; being in all fourteen.

Ver. 5. And Ezra opened the Book in the Sight of all the People, (for he was above all the People)] He being in the very Middle of the Pulpit, and the fore-named Perſons on each Side of him.

And when he opened it, all the People ſtood up:] Out of Reverence to the holy Word of God. See Judges iii. 20.

Ver. 6. And Ezra bleſſed the LORD the great God, and all the People anſwered, Amen, Amen,] He ſeems to have uſed the Words, wherein David ordered them to bleſs, 1 Chron. xvi. 36. where all the People anſwered, Amen; as they do here with great Affection. But the Jewiſh Doctors pretend, that in the Temple the People never anſwered Amen, but ſaid, Bleſſed be the Name of his glorious Kingdom, for ever and ever. So Vitringa notes in his Book De Synagoga Veteri, p. 1096. And our Mr. Thorndike obſerved the ſame long before, in his Religious Aſſemblies, p. 230.

With lifting up their Hands; and they bowed their Heads, and worſhipped the LORD with their Faces to the Ground.] Which were all Poſtures in Prayer, and in thankful Acknowledgments to God.

Ver. 7. Alſo Jeſhua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaſeiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites, cauſed the People to underſtand the Law:] It is thought by ſome, that theſe Perſons expounded to the People what had been read to them; for the ſame Perſons did not read, they imagine, and make them underſtand what was read. But Stephanus Morinus hath obſerved very well, that it is not likely that Ezra was a mere Reader, and Levites the Doctors and Expoſitors of the Law before Ezra and Nehemiah. It is far more likely, that Ezra began to read; and that when he was weary, ſome of thoſe who ſtood by him on each Side went on where he left off; for it was too much for one Man to read from Morning to Mid-day. And he alſo inſtructed theſe Levites, if there was any Difficulty, to make the People underſtand what was read.

And the People ſtood in their Place.] Liſtening both to what was read, and what was delivered as the Explication of it.

Ver. 8. So they read in the Book,] That is, Ezra and his Aſſiſtants read not all the Book of the Law, but only Deuteronomy, as they do at this Day.

In the Law of God diſtinctly,] With a clear Voice and diſtinct Pronunciation.

And gave the Senſe, and cauſed them to underſtand the Reading.] Ezra, and the other Perſons directed by him, gave the Senſe, and made them underſtand what was read. So the laſt Words are commonly expounded. But Iſaac Caſaubon, in an Epiſtle of his to Suffridus Caligñon, (Epiſt. DCX.) diſputes at large, that all the Jews take the Meaning to be, That the People in their Captivity having diſuſed the Hebrew Tongue, and been accuſtomed to the Chaldee, Ezra and his Companions rendered the Hebrew Words exactly into the Chaldee Language. And to put all out of doubt, that this is their Senſe, he obſerves, That the Jews at this Day retain this Cuſtom (which they received from Ezra) in their Synagogues, to read the ſame Portion of Scripture firſt in Hebrew, and then in Chaldee; as he himſelf was Witneſs at Frankfort. And he juſtifies thoſe who take theſe Words [cauſed them to underſtand the Reading,] to ſignify expounded the Scripture. Though the Word Micra be no where ſo uſed in the Bible, to ſignify the Scripture, neither doth it ſignify Reading. And another learned Man thinks the Hebrew Words may be more exactly tranſlated, Dabant intelligentiam per ipſam ſcripturam, They gave the Senſe by the Scripture itſelf. But there is not good Warrant to aſſert this. And the Diſcourſe of Caſaubon is grounded on a Tradition of the Jews, which hath no better Foundation than this, That they had forgot their Language in Chaldea, and therefore they read the Law in that Tongue which they underſtood better than their own. But if this were true, why did the Prophets write in Hebrew after their Return from Captivity? And this very Book ſhews the contrary, Chap. xiii. 23, 24. where the Jews Language appears to have been ſpoken by the People. Nor is the Cuſtom of Reading the Targum after the Law very ancient, nor generally uſed in their Synagogues.

Ver. 9. And Nehemiah, which is the Tirſhatha, and Ezra the Prieſt, the Scribe and the Levites, that taught the People,] Who had inſtructed them in their Duty out of the Law that had been read to them.

Said unto all the People, This Day is holy unto the LORD your God; mourn not, nor weep: For all the People wept, when they heard the Words of the Law.] They bewailed the Ignorance wherein they had lived; and the many Violations of the Law, whereof they had been guilty. Juſt as Joſiah did when he heard the Words of the Law read out of a Book found unexpectedly, 2 Chron. xxii.

Ver. 10. Then he ſaid] That is, the Tirſhatha gave this Command, who was the principal Perſon among thoſe forenamed, having the ſame Authority that Zerubbabel had. See Chap. vii. 65.

Go your Way,] Now that it was Noon, it was Time for them to refreſh themſelves.

Eat the Fat, and drink the Sweet,] Make a Feaſt, and provide as good Cheer as you are able, according to the Manner upon their Feſtival Days.

And ſend Portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared:] It did not become religious People only to make much of themſelves; but he would have them out of their Fulneſs to feaſt their poor Brethren, that they might rejoice with them.

For this Day is holy unto our LORD:] Being the firſt New-Moon in the Year, and the Feaſt of blowing with Trumpets, (Levit. xxiii. 24.) And nothing was more unſuitable to ſuch Feſtivals than Mourning and Lamentation; for they were appointed to be Solemnities for Mirth and Gladneſs; and are therefore called the Days of your Gladneſs, in Numb. x. 10. And in Pſal. xcii. 4. for the Sabbath, the Pſalmiſt ſaith, Thou LORD haſt made me glad through thy Works; I will triumph in the Works of thy Hands: Expreſſing the Subject of his Gladneſs, the Remembrance of the Creation of the World, upon that Day celebrated.

Neither be you ſorry,] Inwardly grieved.

For the Joy of the LORD is your Strength.] Joy in the Lord for the great Things he had done for them, in reſtoring them to their own Land, building the Temple, and the Walls of Jeruſalem, was never more becoming than upon a Feſtival Day, which afforded other Matter of Joy. And beſide, it would make them cheerfully perform the reſt of their Duty, and fortify them againſt Troubles and Adverſities; nay, it was the Way to remove them, or to keep them off; for when the Service of God was their Delight, he promiſed to keep off thoſe Plagues which were threatned in the Law againſt Tranſgreſſors, and to give them all the Bleſſings they could deſire.

Ver. 11. So the Levites ſtilled all the People, ſaying, Hold your Peace, for the Day is holy, neither be ye grieved.] What Nehemiah had ſaid to as many as could hear him, the Levites ſaid to the reſt of the People; going about, and perſuading them to lay aſide their Heavineſs, and make it a good Day.

Ver. 12. And all the People went their Way to eat and to drink, and to ſend Portions, and to make great Mirth,] As all Nations were wont to do upon their Feſtival Days: There being very few among the Greeks, wherein they made Lamentations; but they rather exceeded all Bounds of Decency in their Jollity upon ſacred Solemnities, being wont, beſides Muſick and Dancing, (which were very proper,) to entertain one another with Jeſts and Scoffs, and unbecoming Laughter; as the illuſtrious Spanhemius ſhews, in his Obſervations upon Callymachus his Hymn, in Lavacrum Palladis, ad Verſum 324.

Becauſe they had underſtood the Words that were declared unto them.] This was an extraordinary Reaſon for their Mirth, that they were illuminated in divine Knowledge, and underſtood the Will of God better than they did before.

Ver. 13. And on the ſecond Day were gathered together the Chief of the Fathers of all the People, the Prieſts and the Levites, unto Ezra the Scribe, even to underſtand the Words of the Law.] This was no Feſtival Day, but ſo deſirous were they to be acquainted with the Law, (of the Knowledge of which he had given them a Taſte,) that they came again this Day to beg further Inſtruction. Which, it is evident from hence, Ezra gave them, not the Prieſts and the Levites, who came to be inſtructed by him as well as the People.

Ver. 14. And they found written in the Law which the LORD had commanded by Moſes, that the Children of Iſrael ſhould dwell in Booths, in the Feaſt of the ſeventh Month:] It is probable that he read to them particularly the Duties belonging to this Month, wherein they were aſſembled, in which they found the Feaſt of Tabernacles was to be obſerved; and therefore they came to him for Direction how it was to be kept, that they might obey the Precept. And firſt he informed them that they muſt dwell in Booths: Which Maimonides ſhews how it is to be underſtood in his Seder Zeraim, where he explains the Tradition of the Ancients, who believed that when God gave a Precept he alſo gave the Expoſition of it, which he pretends was preſerved by their wiſe Men; which is a vain Fancy of the Jews, to ſupport the Credit of their Traditions. But the Book Coſri thinks theſe Words [they found it written] are to be underſtood of the common People; for the better Sort underſtood well enough that ſuch Feſtivals were to be obſerved, and had not forgotten any of the Precepts, Pars III. Sect. 63.

Ver. 15. And that they ſhould publiſh and proclaim in all their Cities, and in Jeruſalem, ſaying,] Then he tells them that Proclamation ſhould be made in all their Cities, beginning in Jeruſalem, that this Feaſt ought to be obſerved on ſuch a Day, Levit. xxiii. 4, 34.

Go forth unto the Mount, and fetch Olive Branches, and Pine Branches, and Myrtle Branches, and Palm Branches, and Branches of thick Trees, to make Booths, as it is written.] The neareſt Mount to Jeruſalem was the Mount of Olives, where it is likely all theſe Trees grew. But the Word Shaman which we tranſlate Olive Branches, our famous Dr. Caſtell thinks ſignifies Citrons; which is not material, they being ſuch Branches as the Mount afforded.

Ver. 16. So the People went forth, and brought them, and made themſelves Booths, every one upon the Roof of his Houſe,] Which by the Law was to be built flat, Deut. xxii. 8.

And in their Courts, and in the Courts of the Houſe of God, and in the Street of the Water-gate, and in the Street of the Gate of Ephraim.] They durſt not make them without the Walls of the City, for fear of their Enemies.

Ver. 17. And all the Congregation of them that were come again out of the Captivity made Booths, and ſat under the Booths:] They not only made them, but left their Houſes, and dwelt in them all the Days of the Feaſt.

For ſince the Days of Joſhua the Son of Nun, unto that Day, had not the Children of Iſrael done ſo; and there was very great Gladneſs.] This is ſcarce credible, as Mr. Mede ſpeaks, that for a thouſand Years none of the good Kings in Iſrael ſhould obſerve this Feſtival, at leaſt in this main Circumſtance of dwelling in Booths. But ſo he thinks it was, and that this horrible Omiſſion of this Feaſt alone fore-ſignify'd the Jews would not acknowledge Chriſt, whom this ſignified to be Emmanuel, God dwelling in our Fleſh. See Book I. Diſcourſe xlv. p. 354. But I think this is not the Meaning, that this Feſtival had never been obſerved ſince Joſhua's Time; for we read in the foregoing Book, that it was kept at their firſt Return from Babylon. But the Meaning is, that the Joy had never been ſo great as it was now ſince that Time. For which there was a ſpecial Reaſon, as the Jews obſerve in Seder Olam Rabba, Cap. 30. for they rejoiced in the Days of Joſhua, that they had got Poſſeſſion of the Land of Canaan; and now they rejoiced that they were reſtored to it, and quietly ſettled in it, after they had been caſt out of it.

Ver. 18. Alſo Day by Day, from the firſt Day unto the laſt Day, he read in the Book of the Law of God; and they kept the Feaſt ſeven Days, and on the eighth Day was a ſolemn Aſſembly, according unto the Manner.] There was a Command that the Law ſhould be read on this Feaſt, as I obſerved above, Deut. xxxi. 10, 11, 12. but not that it ſhould be read every Day. This was the Effect of their great Zeal to be inſtructed in the Law of God, which made them deſire to hear it on the ſecond Day of this Month, which was a Feſtival, Ver. 13. And perhaps the eighth Day, on which a ſolemn Aſſembly was appointed (Levit. xxiii. 26.) they continued the ſame holy Exerciſe. But that ſeems contrary to this Verſe, which ſpeaks only of ſeven Days.

CHAP. IX.

Ver. 1. NOW in the twenty and fourth Day of this Month, the Children of Iſrael were aſſembled with Faſting, and with Sackcloths, and Earth upon them.] The Feaſt being over, which ended upon the twenty ſecond Day (all which Time Mourning was forbidden, as contrary to the Nature of the Feaſt, which was to be kept with Joy,) they now return to that which they were about before, (Chap. viii. 9, 12.) and ſpent this whole Day in humbling themſelves before God for their Sins. The Reaſon why they did not immediately after the Feaſt of Tabernacles keep this Faſt, was (as Joſephus Scaliger conjectures) becauſe the twenty third Day was another Feſtival, made by the Conſtitution of the Elders, by the ſame Authority wherewith afterward they appointed the Feaſt of Purim, mentioned in the Book of Eſther. It was called the Feſtival of the Law, ſtill obſerved by the Jews on the twenty third Day of this Month, becauſe then they make an end of Reading the Law, which they begin again every Year the next Sabbath after. Now this being a Day of Joy, as other Feſtivals were, on which they were forbidden to mourn, they deferred their Mourning till this Solemnity alſo was paſt, and then they fell to weeping again, as they did when they firſt heard the Law read.

Ver. 2. And the Seed of Iſrael ſeparated themſelves from all Strangers, and ſtood, and confeſſed their Sins, and the Iniquities of their Fathers.] Who had been guilty of taking ſtrange Women to be their Wives; for which Ezra had ſeverely cenſured them, and conſtrained them to put them away. But ſo depraved were ſome among them, that it ſeems they tranſgreſſed again in this Matter, as they did in other Things, who confeſſed their own Guilt, and the Guilt of thoſe that were before them, and as a Token of their true Repentance ſeparated themſelves from theſe Strangers. Which they did in ſuch a Manner, that they ſtood at a Diſtance from them, to ſhew that they renounced them. For ſo the Word ſtood is to be taken in this Place, not for a Poſture of Prayer, wherein they confeſſed their Sins; for appearing in Sackcloth, and with Earth on their Heads, it is more likely they lay down and bewailed themſelves, as the Manner was in ſuch Caſes. And accordingly the Levites called upon them (Ver. 5.) to ſtand up; which ſuppoſes that they lay on the Ground, or fell on their Knees, and were not ſtanding when they ſpake unto them.

Ver. 3. And they ſtood up in their Place, and read in the Book of the Law of the LORD their God,] That is, 'the Levites ſtood up in a Place built for them, like that whereon Ezra ſtood, Chap. viii. 4. For otherwiſe they could not have been heard when they read.

One fourth Part of the Day; and another fourth Part they confeſſed, and worſhipped the LORD their God.] They read the Law and confeſſed (that is, praiſed God, Ver. 5.) interchangeably. For in one fourth Part of the Day, that is, from the firſt Hour to the third, they did the one, and from thence to the ſixth Hour, (that is, till twelve a-Clock,) they did the other. Then they began the former again till the ninth Hour, and from thence till the Evening they ſpent their Time in the other.

Ver. 4. Then ſtood up upon the Stairs of the Levites,] Or upon the Scaffold (as the Margin tranſlates it,) which raiſed them above the People, that they might all ſee and hear.

Jeſhua and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cried with a loud Voice unto the LORD their God.] They moſt earneſtly beſeeched him to be merciful to them.

Ver. 5. Then the Levites, Jeſhua and Kadmiel, Bani, Haſhabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah ſaid, Stand up and bleſs the LORD your God for ever and ever:] After the Levites before named had cried to God for Mercy (the People, I ſuppoſe, begging it on their Knees,) another Company of Levites bad the People ſtand up, and praiſe the LORD, and give him Thanks as long as they had any Being.

And bleſſed be thy glorious Name, which is exalted above all Bleſſing and Praiſe.] The Levites, it is likely, praiſed him in theſe Words, acknowledging that the nobleſt Creatures could not reach his ſuper-excellent Perfections; and all the People repeated the ſame Words after them.

Ver. 6. Thou, even thou art LORD alone; thou haſt made Heaven, the Heaven of Heavens, with all their Hoſt, the Earth and all Things that are therein, the Seas and all that is therein, and thou preſerveſt them all,] As they confeſs the LORD to be the only God, ſo they attribute two Things to him; That he is the Creator and the Conſervator of the Univerſe; for having made it, no doubt he takes care of every Part thereof.

And the Hoſt of Heaven worſhippeth thee.] Sometimes the Stars, and ſometimes the Angels, are called the Hoſt of Heaven. The latter ſeems to be here meant; for the other are mentioned before, when he ſaith the Heavens with all their Hoſt. Concerning the Heaven of Heavens, ſee in Solomon's Prayer, 1 Kings viii. 27.

Ver. 7. Thou art the LORD the God, who didſt chuſe Abram, and broughteſt him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, and gaveſt him the Name of Abraham:] Here follows a compendious Hiſtory of the Affairs of the Hebrew Nation in this Confeſſion of God's Benefits, and their Ingratitude. Which Nehemiah and Ezra, it is likely, compoſed in the Form of a Prayer, and delivered it to the Levites, whom they ordered to ſpeak it diſtinctly before the whole Congregation from their ſeveral Scaffolds, which were conveniently placed in ſeveral Parts of the Aſſembly, that they might be heard.

Ver. 8. And foundeſt his Heart faithful before thee,] In many Inſtances, eſpecially in that great Trial of his Faith and Obedience, when he required him to offer up his only Son to him, Gen. xxii. and ſee alſo Gen. xv. 6. xvii. 5, &c.

And madeſt a Covenant with him, to give the Land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebuſites, and the Girgaſhites, to give it, I ſay, to his Seed, and haſt performed thy Words, for thou art righteous:] True to his Word in faithfully fulfilling his Promiſes. See Gen. xv. 7, 18. xvii. 2, 4, 7, &c.

Ver. 9. And didſt ſee the Affliction of our Fathers in Egypt, and heardeſt their Cry by the Red Sea:] They paſs by all God's Providences over Iſaac and Jacob, to come to that which God had done for them ſince they were a Nation; that is, ſince he had made good his Covenant with Abraham, to multiply his Seed as the Stars of Heaven; at which Time he foretold him of the grievous Affliction of his Seed in Egypt, Gen. xv. 5, 13. from which he graciouſly delivered them, they here acknowledge, and compleated their Deliverance at the Red Sea.

Ver. 10. And ſhewed Signs and Wonders upon Pharaoh, and on all his Servants, and on all the People of his Land:] Which are recorded in the Book of Exodus, Chap. vii, viii, &c.

For thou kneweſt that they dealt proudly againſt them:] Intending to make them their Slaves for ever, as, for the preſent, they treated them with the utmoſt Contempt and Cruelty, Exod. v. 17, 18.

So didſt thou get thee a Name, as it is this Day:] See Exod. ix. 16.

Ver. 11. And thou didſt divide the Sea before them, ſo that they went through the midſt of the Sea, on the dry Land,] Exod. xiv. 21, 22.

And their Perſecutors thou threweſt into the Deeps, as a Stone into the mighty Waters.] So that they ſunk down, and roſe up no more to perſecute them. The Hebrew Word ſignifies, the ſtrong or rough Waters. And ſo Bochartus obſerves out of many Greek Authors, that that Sea is called, and ſaid, in ſhort, to be κατὰ πάντα φοβερὸν, φοβερὸν, in all regards formidable or terrible. In his Canaan, Lib. I. Cap. 13.

Ver. 12. Moreover thou leadeſt them in the Day by a cloudy Pillar, and in the Night by a Pillar of Fire, to give them Light in the Way wherein they ſhould go.] Concerning which ſee Exod. xiii. 21.

Ver. 13. Thou cameſt down alſo upon Mount Sinai, and ſpakeſt with them from Heaven, and gaveſt them right Judgments, and true Laws, good Statutes and Commandments:] This ſeems to relate, in the Beginning of the Verſe, to the ten Commandments, ſpoken by the Mouth of God himſelf; but the latter Part comprehends all the Law delivered by him to Moſes in the Mount, Chap. xxi, xxii, xxiii.

Ver. 14. And madeſt known unto them thy holy Sabbath,] The Scripture mentions the Sabbath as a ſingular Gift beſtowed upon the Jewiſh Nation, Exod. xvi. 29. It being a Sign between him and them, that he was their God who ſanctified, that is, ſeparated them out of all other People to be his peculiar People; that is, the Worſhippers of the Creator of the World, whom they acknowledged to be the LORD their God, while the Heathen worſhipped the Sun, Moon, and Stars, and other Creatures as their Gods, Exod. xxxi. 13. and Ezekiel xx. 12, 20. In which the Prophet tells us, that God intended by this to ſhew that he had choſen Iſrael, as I ſaid, to be his peculiar People above all other Nations, and that they had no other God.

And commandedſt them Precepts, Statutes, and Laws, by the Hand of Moſes thy Servant:] Which are thoſe before mentioned, which were not ſpoken by God himſelf, but delivered by him to Moſes in the Mount, who was his faithful Servant, and delivered nothing but what he received from God's own Mouth. The Obſervation of which is often preſſed upon them as an Acknowledgment of him to be their Creator, who brought them out of the Land of Egypt.

Ver. 15. And gaveſt them Bread from Heaven for their Hunger, and broughteſt forth Water for them out of the Rock for their Thirſt,] See Exod. xvi. 14, 15. xvii. 6.

And promiſedſt them that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs the Land which thou hadſt ſworn to give them.] Which he ſet before them, and bad them go and poſſeſs it, as Moſes tells them, Deut. i. 8.

Ver. 16. But they and our Fathers dealt proudly, and hardned their Necks, and hearkened not to thy Commandments,] A famous Inſtance of this there was when they refuſed to go up and poſſeſs the Land, to the Borders of which he had brought them, Numb. xiv. 1, 2, &c. And afterwards more inſolently rebelled againſt Moſes and Aaron, who had been their Conductors through the Wilderneſs, Numb. xvi. 3.

Ver. 17. And refuſed to obey, neither were mindful of thy Wonders that thou didſt among them, but hardened their Necks,] Their Ingratitude was the greater, becauſe theſe Wonders were not done among other Nations, but were peculiar to them; which our Saviour makes a very high Aggravation of the Sins of their Poſterity, Matth. xi. 21.

And in their Rebellion appointed a Captain to return to their Bondage:] See Numb. xiv. 4. where they conſulted about it, and it ſeems came to this Reſolution, that they agreed upon a Captain to lead them back to Egypt. Or their reſolving to do it, was the ſame with the actual Appointment of a Captain, as it was in the Caſe of Abraham's offering his Son.

But thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, ſlow to Anger, and of great Kindneſs, and forſookeſt them not.] This was the Character God gave of himſelf to Moſes, Exod. xxxiv. 6, 7. which he made good to all Generations. See Pſalm cxlv. 8.

Ver. 18. Yea, when they had made them a molten Calf, and ſaid, This is thy God that brought thee up out of Egypt, and had wrought great Provocations:] This was the higheſt Provocation, conſidering how lately he had ſpoken to them from Heaven not to make a graven Image, and how many Cautions he had afterwards given them againſt it.

Ver. 19. Yet thou in thy manifold Mercies forſookeſt them not in the Wilderneſs:] But gave them an early Inſtance of his Clemency.

The Pillar of the Cloud departed not from them by Day, to lead them in the Way, neither the Pillar of Fire by Night, to ſhew them Light, and the Way wherein they ſhould go.] Which teſtified, that notwithſtanding their Provocation, God was ſtill among them, and continued his gracious Preſence with them; of which this was a glorious Token, as Moſes told them, Numb. xiv. 14.

Ver. 20. Thou gaveſt alſo thy good Spirit to inſtruct them,] The Spirit of Prophecy, which was upon Moſes, God imparted to ſeventy other Perſons, that the People might be better governed, Numb. xi. 16, 17.

And withheldeſt not thy Manna from their Mouth,] But continued it till they came to Canaan; or elſe they might have been ſtarved. See Joſh. v. 12.

And gaveſt them Water for their Thirſt.] When the whole Congregation deſerved to periſh, according to their own Wiſh, that they had died when their Brethren died before the LORD, Numb. xx. 3.

Ver. 21. Yea, forty Years didſt thou ſuſtain them in the Wilderneſs, ſo that they lacked nothing; their Clothes waxed not old, and their Feet ſwelled not.] See Deut. viii. 4.

Ver. 22. Moreover thou gaveſt them Kingdoms and Nations, and didſt divide them into Corners:] Some tranſlate the laſt Words, Thou didſt divide them by Angels, that is, he parted thoſe Kingdoms among them as by a Line. But others underſtand it of the People diſpoſſeſſed by the Jews, whom he drove into Corners.

So they poſſeſſed the Land of Sihon, and the Land of the King of Heſhbon, and the Land of Og King of Baſhan.] Moſt of the Inhabitants of which he deſtroyed, and the reſt fled and hid themſelves in Corners. But it muſt be obſerved, that Heſhbon being the City of Sihon (Numb. xxi. 26.) the firſt Words ſhould be rendered, the Land of Sihon, even the Land of the King of Heſhbon.

Ver. 23. Their Children alſo multipliedſt thou as the Stars of Heaven, and broughteſt them into the Land, concerning which thou haſt promiſed to their their Fathers, that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs it.] See Gen. xv. 5.

Ver. 24. So the Children went in and poſſeſſed the Land; and thou ſubduedſt before them the Inhabitants of the Land, the Canaanites, and gaveſt them into their Hands, with their Kings, and the People of the Land, that they might do with them as they would.] Theſe Words expreſs the eaſy Conqueſt they made of the whole Country.

Ver. 25. And they took ſtrong Cities,] The Walls of Jericho falling down flat before them.

And a fat Land,] A fruitful Country flowing with Milk and Honey.

And poſſeſſed Houſes full of all Goods, Wells digged, Vineyards, and Oliveyards, and Fruit-Trees in Abundance:] They were inriched with the Eſtates of the People whom they deſtroyed, having Houſes ready built, and well furniſhed, together with all Sorts of Trees planted to their Hands.

So they did eat, and were filled, and became fat,] They wanted nothing, but rather had Superfluity of all worldly Bleſſings.

And delighted themſelves in thy great Goodneſs.] Their higheſt Pleaſure indeed ought to have been in their Thoughts how good God was unto them; but the Meaning of theſe Words is no more than this, That God had beſtowed ſo many Bleſſings upon them, that they took great Pleaſure in the Enjoyment of them.

Ver. 26. Nevertheleſs, they were diſobedient, and rebelled againſt thee, and caſt thy Law behind their Backs,] The pleaſant Life they led in the good Land God gave them, made them wanton, and forgetful of God and of his Laws, which they regarded not at all.

And ſlew the Prophets which teſtified againſt them, to turn them to thee,] We read of many Prophets ſlain by Jezabel, 1 Kings xviii. 4. xix. 10.

And they wrought great Provocations.] By abominable Idolatries.

Ver. 27. Therefore thou deliveredſt them into the Hand of their Enemies, who vexed them; and in the Time of their Trouble, when they cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from Heaven; and according to thy manifold Mercies, thou gaveſt them Saviours, who ſaved them out of the Hand of their Enemies.] The whole Book of Judges verifies this, that God delivered them for their Sins unto the Moabites, the Canaanites, and divers other Enemies, who grievouſly domineered over them; but when they cried to God for Help, he was ſo gracious as to ſend ſuch great Men as Barak, Gideon, and others to be their Saviours, that is, Deliverers from their Tyranny.

Ver. 28. But after they had Reſt, they did evil again before thee:] No ſooner did they begin to proſper, and the Judge that ſaved them was dead, but they revolted from God, who had been ſo good to them.

Therefore lefteſt thou them in the Hand of their Enemies, ſo that they had the Dominion over them:] God ſo abandoned them, that he let the Philiſtines rule over them forty Years, Judges xiii. 1. unto which perhaps this Paſſage relates.

Yet when they returned, and cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from Heaven, and many times didſt thou deliver them, according to thy Mercies:] For nothing elſe could move him to it; they being through all Generations unconſtant, and unſteadfaſt in their Obedience.

Ver. 29. And teſtifiedſt againſt them, that thou mighteſt bring them again unto thy Law:] By many remarkable Puniſhments he teſtified how highly he was diſpleaſed with them, that he might reform them.

Yet they dealt proudly,] Which one would have expected ſhould have humbled them; but they grew more bold and obſtinate in their Sins.

And hearkened not unto thy Commandments, but ſinned againſt thy Judgments, (which if a Man do, he ſhall live in them,)] That is, be a happy Man.

And withdrew the Shoulder, and hardened their Neck, and would not hear.] Withdrawing the Shoulder is a Metaphor (I have obſerved before) taken from refractory Oxen that draw back, and will not ſubmit to the Yoke.

Ver. 30. Yet many Years didſt thou forbear them,] Before he ſuffered them to be carried Captive out of their own Land.

And teſtifiedſt againſt them by thy Spirit in thy Prophets:] Whom he raiſed up (I have obſerved elſewhere) in every Age, in every King's Reign, to tell them their Duty, and reprove them for their Sins.

Yet would they not give ear; therefore gaveſt thou them into the Hands of the People of the Lands.] At laſt he delivered them into the Hands of the Chaldeans, as we read, 2 Chron. xxxvi. 15, 16. who are called the People of the Lands, becauſe they had got Poſſeſſion of all the Countries thereabout, which God put under their Power, as he had done other Countries beyond Euphrates.

Ver. 31. Nevertheleſs, for thy great Mercies ſake, thou didſt not utterly conſume them, nor forſake them,] But left them a Remnant of the poorer Sort in the Land, and ſhewed Favour to the Captives in the Land of Babylon.

For thou art a gracious and merciful God.] To which alone they owed their Preſervation from utter Deſtruction.

Ver. 32. Now therefore, our God, the great, the mighty, and the terrible God, who keepeſt Covenant and Mercy;] Thus he began his Addreſs to God before he came from Shuſhan. See Chap. i. Ver. 5.

Let not all the Trouble ſeem little before thee, that hath come upon us, on our Kings, on our Princes, and on our Prieſts, and on our Prophets, and on our Fathers, and on all thy People, ſince the Time of the Kings of Aſſyria, unto this Day.] For thoſe Kings firſt began to invade their Country, and carried away the ten Tribes, 2 Kings xv. 19. xvii. 3, 5, &c. After which, Calamities came upon Judah, their good King Joſiah being ſlain, Manaſſeh carried to Babylon before the great Captivity.

Ver. 33. Howbeit, thou art juſt in all that is brought upon us; for thou haſt done right, but we have done wickedly.

Ver. 34. Neither have our Kings, our Princes, our Prieſts, nor our Fathers, kept thy Law, nor hearkened unto thy Commandments, and the Teſtimonies wherewith thou didſt teſtify againſt them.

Ver. 35. For they have not ſerved thee in their Kingdom, and in thy great Goodneſs that thou gaveſt them, and in the large and fat Land which thou gaveſt before them, neither turned they from their wicked Works.] In theſe three Verſes they acknowledge the Juſtice of God, in all the Puniſhments he had inflicted on them, though heavy, and of long Continuance. For from the higheſt to the loweſt they had done all wickedly, and would not be reclaimed.

Ver. 36. Behold we are Servants this Day, and for the Land that thou gaveſt unto our Fathers, to eat the Fruit thereof, and the Good thereof, behold, we are Servants in it.] God had indeed marvellouſly reſtored them to their own Country; yet the Marks of his Diſpleaſure for their Sins ſtill remained very viſible: For they were but Servants unto others, not Owners and Proprietors of the Land which God had given to their Fathers; out of which they had been caſt for their Wickedneſs, and had not yet perfectly recovered it, but laboured for their Lords and Maſters.

Ver. 37. And it yielded much Increaſe unto the Kings whom thou haſt ſet over us, becauſe of our Sins:] For their Land paid a great Tribute to the Kings of Perſia, out of the Profit of it, Ezra vi. 8. vii. 24. and in this Book, Chap. v. 4.

Alſo they have Dominion over our Bodies, and over our Cattle, at their Pleaſure,] For their Bodies were liable to be preſſed to ſerve in the King's Wars, or in his Works; and their Cattle ſubject to them, when they had Occaſion to ſend Poſt about the King's Buſineſs.

And we are in great Diſtreſs.] Though they were permitted to live by their own Laws, (as we read in the Book of Ezra,) which was a great Privilege, yet they lay under thoſe publick Burdens, and were compelled to bear them. By which we may learn how vain their proud Boaſts were in John viii. 33. that they were never in Bondage to any Man; when they had long been Slaves in Egypt, and lately in Babylon, and after they came from thence, as they here complain; and even then they paid Tribute to the Romans, when they made thoſe Brags to our Saviour.

Ver. 38. And becauſe of all this, we make a ſure Covenant and write it; and our Princes, Levites, and Prieſts ſeal unto it.] In Conſideration of which they reſolved to renew their Covenant with God of better Obedience; which they promiſed under their Hands and Seals, as the only Remedy to procure perfect Deliverance. And to make it more effectual, they ſeem to declare this in the Preſence of God, at the Concluſion of the foregoing Confeſſion and Prayer.

It ſignified little indeed, as Pellicanus obſerves, what ſuch an untoward People promiſed; for what Regard would they have to their own Hand-Writing, who regarded not the Ten Commandments, written on Tables of Stone by the Finger of God? But it was very uſeful that there ſhould be a publick Inſtrument to convince them of their Impiety, and that they might be publickly confounded when they proved perfidious Deſerters, by ſhewing them their Engagements under their own Hands to future Fidelity.

CHAP. X.

Ver. 1. NOW thoſe that ſealed, were Nehemiah the Tirſhatha, the Son of Hachaliah, and Zidkijah,] Nehemiah was the Governor of the Country under the King of Perſia, and therefore the principal Prince among them, who led the Way to the reſt; who are not mentioned, unleſs we ſuppoſe Zidkijah to have been a Prince; for they that followed were Prieſts.

Ver. 2. Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah,] I need not tranſcribe the reſt of the Names to the eighth Verſe, at the End of which it is ſaid theſe were the Prieſts, that is, the Chief of them, for there are but twenty and one of them in all; and there is no Mention of Ezra the Prieſt among them; of which it is hard to give an Account, unleſs we ſuppoſe him to be now gone to Babylon: Which muſt be very lately; for he was at Jeruſalem in the Beginning of the ſeventh Month, Chap. viii. 2. Though on the twenty fourth Day of it, when they faſted and prayed, we do not find him named throughout the whole ninth Chapter; yet at the Feaſt of the Dedication he was come to Jeruſalem again, Chap. xii. 36. Some therefore think, he was now hindred by Sickneſs from being preſent at this Sealing.

Ver. 9. And the Levites, both Jeſhua the Son of Azaniah, Binnui of the Sons of Henadad, Kadmiel;

Ver. 10. And their Brethren, &c.] There are fourteen, Levites mentioned in theſe and the following Verſes, to Ver. 14. which perhaps were all the Levites that were then preſent; or, rather were the principal Levites, who were not Prieſts: For ſome of theſe are mentioned before, as choſen to expound the Law to the People, and to make publick Prayers to God, Chap. viii. 7. ix. 4, 5.

Ver. 14. The Chief of the People; Paroſh, &c.] It had been tedious to make all the People ſubſcribe and ſeal the Writing; therefore the principal Perſons did it in the Name of the reſt, whoſe Names, in Number forty and three, are here recorded till Ver. 28.

Ver. 28. And the reſt of the People, the Prieſts, the Levites, the Porters, the Singers, the Nethinims, and all they that had ſeparated themſelves from the People of the Lands unto the Law of God, their Wives, their Sons, and their Daughters, every one having Knowledge, and having Underſtanding:] All that did not ſubſcribe and ſeal, becauſe they were too many, yet gave their Conſent to what the forenamed Perſons did. And not only the Men, but their Wives, and their Children, who were arrived at Years of Diſcretion, engaged themſelves, as follows in the next Verſe.

Ver. 29. They clave to their Brethren, their Nobles,] They declared, they were of the ſame Mind with thoſe that had ſealed; and owned by Word of Mouth what they had ſet their Hands unto; and ſaid, it was their Act and Deed, as much as their Nobles and Brethren, from whom they would not depart.

And entred into a Curſe, and into an Oath, to walk in God's Law, which was given by Moſes, the the Servant of God, and to obſerve and do all the Commandments of the LORD our God, and his Judgments, and his Statutes:] And more than that, they added an Oath, whereby they obliged themſelves to obſerve the Law; and an Imprecation upon themſelves, wiſhing all the Curſes written in the Law might fall upon them, if they did not do as the Law required in all Things.

Ver. 30. And that we would not give our Daughters unto the People of the Land, nor take their Daughters for our Sons:] Beſides their general Promiſe, they ſpecify thoſe Things that were moſt difficult; as not marrying with Strangers, obſerving the Sabbath, bringing Oblations for the Uſe of the Temple, &c. The firſt Thing here ſpecified was of great Importance; and they ſolemnly engaged to perform it; for though both Ezra and Nehemiah had found them guilty of breaking this Law, yet they were ſo prone to offend in this Thing, that it ſeems, notwithſtanding all they could do, ſome continued to violate it.

Ver. 31. And if the People of the Land] That is, their Heathen Neighbours.

Bring Ware, or any Victuals on the Sabbath-Day, to ſell, that we would not buy it of them on the Sabbath,] We do not find any expreſs Law forbidding them to buy what was offered to be ſold on the Sabbath-Day; but they obliged themſelves not to do it, that the Reſt might be better obſerved. For none would come to ſell, when there were no Chapmen for their Commodities.

Or on the Holy-Day:] That is, on all Days of Reſt from their Labours; ſuch as the Paſſover, the Feaſt of Tabernacles, and others.

And that we would leave the ſeventh Year,] That is, let their Land reſt every ſeventh Year, and leave the Fruit of it, which grew up of itſelf, for the Poor, as the Law required, Levit. xxv. 4, &c.

And the Exaction of every Debt.] That is, remit in that Year the Debts which the Poor owed them, Deut. xv. 2, 4, &c.

Ver. 32. Alſo we made Ordinances for us, to charge ourſelves yearly with the third Part of a Shekel, for the Service of the Houſe of our God;] We do not find this enjoined any where by an expreſs Law; but Reaſon required it at this Time; and therefore they obliged themſelves to it by an Ordinance of the Elders, that the Service of God at the Temple might be maintained by this ſmall Duty, which was laid upon every one.

Ver. 33. For the Shew-Bread, and for the continual Meat-Offering, and for the continual Burnt-Offering, of the Sabbaths, of the New-Moons; for the ſet Feaſts, and for the holy Things; and for the Sin-Offerings, to make an Atonement for Iſrael; and for all the Work of the Houſe of our God.] There was a Treaſury formerly in the Houſe of God, out of which all theſe Things were ſupplied: And when it was exhauſted by the many great Sums which were ſent out of it to foreign Princes in the Days of Hezekiah, that Prince maintained the Burnt-Offerings at his own Charge, 2 Chron. xxxi. 3. But both theſe failing for the preſent, there was this Oblation made to furniſh all the Things here mentioned, and every Thing elſe that was neceſſary for the Service of God. And no doubt, many good People dedicated Things to the ſame Uſe; whereby the Expences were well maintained.

Ver. 34. And we caſt the Lots among the Prieſts, the Levites, and the People, for the Wood-Offering, to bring it into the Houſe of our God, after the Houſes of our Fathers, at Times appointed, Year by Year, to burn upon the Altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the Law:] They determined by caſting of Lots, how much Wood every one ſhould bring in for their Share, to maintain their Fire continually upon the Altar to burn the Sacrifices; and in what Order it ſhould be brought, (what Family, that is, ſhould begin firſt, and what ſhould follow next,) and at what Times of the Year. For there was another ſolemn Feaſt, (beſide thoſe I mentioned before,) called the Feaſt of the Wood-Offering, which took its Original from hence; and, as Scaliger obſerves, was kept on the twenty ſecond Day of the Month Ab. But Mr. Thorndike obſerves, out of the Miſchnah, (in his Religious Aſſemblies, p. 269.) that it was held nine Days in ſeveral Months, whereof a great Part fell in that Month; and is meant by theſe Words, at Times appointed, Year by Year. The Talmudiſts alſo ſay, that every Family, on the Day when they brought in the Wood, ſacrificed a voluntary Burnt-Offering, called the Korban of Wood, as Petrus Cunæus obſerves in his Book De Republica Hebræorum, Lib. II. Cap. 13. Where he notes alſo, that herein Joſephus differs from the Talmudiſts; that he mentions but one Day of the Feaſts, which he calls ξυλοφορεία: which was ſuch a ſolemn Feſtival, (as Maimonides ſaith, in his Furniture of the Temple, Cap. 6.) that none might mourn on this Day, nor faſt, nor do any Work.

Ver. 35. And to bring the Firſt-Fruits of our Ground, and the Firſt-Fruits of all Fruit of all Trees, Year by Year, unto the Houſe of the LORD:] According to the Command, Exod. xxiii. 19. Levit. xix. 23. See below, Ver. 39.

Ver. 36. Alſo the Firſt-born of our Sons and of our Cattle, (as it is written in the Law,) and the Firſtlings of our Herds, and of our Flocks, to bring to the Houſe of our God, unto the Prieſts that miniſter in the Houſe of our God:] The Law which gave all the Firſtlings to God, is in Exod. xiii. the Beginning, and Ver. 11, 12. and God gave them all to Aaron the Prieſt, in Numb. xviii. 15, 16.

Ver. 37. And that we ſhould bring the Firſt-Fruits of our Dough, and our Offerings,] See Levit. xxiii. 17. and Numb. xv. 19, 20. It was to be ſo large, that it is called a Gift, in Deut. xviii. 4.

And the Fruit of all manner of Trees, of Wine, and of Oil, unto the Prieſts, to the Chambers of the Houſe of our God,] See Numb. xviii. 12, &c.

And the Tithes of our Ground unto the Levites, that the ſame Levites might have the Tithes in all the Cities of our Tillage.] See Levit. xxvii. 30. Numb. xviii. 21.

Ver. 38. And the Prieſt the Son of Aaron, ſhall be with the Levites, when the Levites take Tithes; and the Levites ſhall bring up the Tithe of the Tithes unto the Houſe of our God, to the Chambers, bers, into the Treaſure-Houſe.] As the People gave the Tithe of their Land to the Levites, ſo the Levites gave a Tithe to the Prieſts. And when the People brought them to the Levites, one of the Prieſts was appointed to be preſent to inſpect them, and to ſee that without Fraud they tithed the Tithes, that is, ſet out the tenth Part of the Tithes they had received for the Prieſt, which were brought to the Chambers, wherein they were depoſited for the Prieſts in God's Houſe.

Ver. 39. For the Children of Iſrael, and the Children of Levi, ſhall bring the Offering of the Corn, of the new Wine, and the Oil,] See Deut. xii. 6, 11.

Unto the Chambers, where are the Veſſels of the Sanctuary, and the Prieſts that miniſter, and the Porters, and the Singers:] Where other holy Things were kept, and where God's Miniſters attended, for whoſe Uſe they were deſigned, and were to be brought thither at their own Charge. Theſe Chambers were in the Court of the Prieſts: But L'Empereur thinks the Court of the People likewiſe might have ſuch Places in it, wherein theſe Things were beſtowed, being more than the other could contain. For (as the Jews obſerve) though the Prieſts had a Court proper to themſelves, into which none might come but they alone, yet they were not excluded from the Court of Iſrael; and if there was not Room enough to receive all the Things fore-mentioned, there were Receptacles under Ground, beſides the Upper-Room mentioned Jerem. xxxv. 4.

And we will not forſake the Houſe of our God.] They promiſe, according to their Covenant and Oath, to be no more ſo negligent in theſe Matters, as they had been; and accordingly they did fulfil this Promiſe, as we read Chap. xii. 44, 45. unto the End.

CHAP. XI.

Ver. 1. AND the Rulers of the People dwelt at Jeruſalem:] Their Neighbours were ſo inraged to ſee the Walls at Jeruſalem built again, and were ſo reſtleſs in their Deſigns to keep this City from riſing to its former Splendor, that it terrified many of the Jews from coming to dwell there, thinking themſelves more ſafe in the Country, where their Enemies had no Pretence to diſturb them. The Rulers therefore of the People came and ſettled themſelves at Jeruſalem, that they might invite and encourage others to come and inhabit it; and ſeveral Perſons, as the next Verſe intimates, did come and offer themſelves freely to dwell with them there.

The reſt of the People alſo caſt Lots to bring one of Ten to dwell in Jeruſalem the holy City, and nine Parts to dwell in other Cities.] But though the Rulers were ſettled here, and ſome followed their Example, and all that formerly belonged to Jeruſalem were ordered to return, (Chap. vii. 4, 5.) yet ſtill there was Room for more Citizens; and the City, conſidering how large it was, being very empty, they conſulted to make it populous, by compelling every tenth Man in Judah and Benjamin to quit their preſent Habitations in the Country, and come and dwell there; leaving the reſt to dwell where they pleaſed. For which End they caſt Lots, that among ten Men it might be known whom God choſe to come thither; and the Lot falling by a divine Appointment upon ſuch a Perſon, rather than another, no doubt, he removed the more contentedly to this City.

Ver. 2. And the People bleſſed all the Men that willingly offered themſelves to dwell at Jeruſalem.] Beſide thoſe who were choſen by Lot, it ſeems there were ſome that voluntarily choſe to go and live there; whom the People highly commended and praiſed, beſeeching God to bleſs and proſper them: For indeed they were worthy to be honoured as Men that ſought the Welfare of their Country, the Glory of God, the Reſtoring of their Nation, the Defence of their City, and had a Zeal for the Divine Service performed there.

Ver. 3. Now theſe are the Chief of the Province,] Of thoſe Jews that came from Babylon into the Province of Judea.

That dwelt in Jeruſalem:] Whoſe Names are mentioned Ver. 4, &c.

But in the Cities of Judah dwelt every one in his Poſſeſſion in their Cities, to wit, Iſrael, the Prieſts, and the Levites, and the Nethinims, and the Children of Solomon's Servants.] But thoſe that dwelt in the other Cities of Judah, he would not reckon in this Catalogue; whom he comprehends under the Name of Iſrael, the Prieſts, the Levites, the Nethinims, and Solomon's Servants. By Iſrael he means all the People of the ten Tribes, as well as Judah and Benjamin, who were the Chief; but he calls them Iſrael, becauſe thoſe of Judah and Benjamin dwelt at Jeruſalem; the reſt of Iſrael were in the other Cities of Judah.

Ver. 4. And at Jeruſalem dwelt certain of the Children of Judah, and of the Children of Benjamin:] For theſe were the Tribes that anciently poſſeſſed Jeruſalem; which ſtood partly in the one, partly in the other Tribe. Therefore in ſome Places of Scripture, Jeruſalem is reckoned as belonging to the Children of Judah, (ſee Joſh. xv. 63. Judges i. 8.) and ſometimes in the ſame Words to the Children of Benjamin, (Judges xviii. 20. xxi. 28.) and here to both. But what Part of the City belonged to the one, and what to the other, is not agreed among learned Men. Pineda hath repreſented the ſeveral Opinions about it at large, in his Book De Rebus Solomonis, Lib. V. Cap. 5.

Of the Children of Judah; Athaiah the Son of Uzziah, the Son of Zechariah, the Son of Amariah, the Son of Shephatiah, the Son of Mahalaleel, of the Children of Perez;] Theſe were all of that Family of Pharez, the Son of Judah. If the Names of theſe Perſons mentioned in this Chapter, be compared with the Names of thoſe who came back with Zerubbabel, it will appear, that they were the fourth, fifth, and ſixth Generation from Zerubbabel; which is a Demonſtration, that Nehemiah did not come to Jeruſalem in the Time of Artaxerxes Longimanus, but of Artaxerxes Mnemon. For this Obſervation I am beholden to my worthy Friend Dr. Alix.

Ver. 5. And Maaſeiah the Son of Baruch, the Son of Colhozeh, the Son of Hazaiah, the Son of Adaiah, the Son of Joiarib, the Son of Zechariah, the Son of Shiloni.] Theſe were all of the ſame Family, as the next Verſe informs us.

Ver. 6. All the Sons of Perez that dwelt at Jeruſalem, were four hundred threeſcore and eight valiant Men.] Who ſeem to me to have offered themſelves to dwell at Jeruſalem, and help to defend it by their Valour, whoſe Chiefs were Attaiah and Maaſeiah.

Ver. 7. And theſe are the Sons of Benjamin; Sallu the Son of Meſhullam, the Son of Joed, the Son of Pedaiah, the Son of Kolaiah, the Son of Maaſeiah, the Son of Ithiel, the Son of Jeſaiah.

Ver. 8. And after him Gabbai, Sallai,] Theſe two, and Sallu (before named) were the chief Men among them.

Nine hundred twenty and eight.] There were almoſt as many more of Benjamin, as of Judah, (who were but four hundred ſixty and eight;) for though Mount Sion was in the Tribe of Judah, yet the City of Jeruſalem was in the Tribe of Benjamin; which made them have a great Deſire to ſee it inhabited, and inflamed the Minds of the moſt Valiant, who were beſt able to defend it, to come and live there.

Ver. 9. And Joel the Son of Zichri was their Overſeer, and Judah the Son of Senuah was Second over the City.] The former of theſe was the Governor of the City; and the other was his Deputy; who is called Secondary, becauſe he was next to him in the Diſcharge of that Office. Who is he, as Bertram thinks, that is called in the ſecond Book of Maccabees, iii. 4. προεσάτης τῦ ἱερῦ, the Prefect of the Temple; and by Joſephus, Antiq. xiv. 11. ὑποστρατηγὸς ἐν Ἱεροσολύμοις, the Under-Governor in Jeruſalem. See his Repub. Jud. p. 163.

Ver. 10. Of the Prieſts, Jedaiah the Son of Joiarib, Jachin.] Now he comes to ſpeak of the Tribe of Levi; many of which it was neceſſary ſhould dwell there, to attend the Houſe of God. And firſt he begins with the Prieſts, who were his chief Miniſters.

Ver. 11. Seraiah the Son of Hilkiah, the Son of Meſhullam, the Son of Zadok, the Son of Meraioth, the Son of Ahitub, was the Ruler of the Houſe of God.] This Seraiah was ſuch a chief Man among the Prieſts, as he that is mentioned in 2 Chron. xix. 11. ſee there. Some take him to be the ſame with him that is called in the New Teſtament στρατηγὸς τῦ ἱερῦ, which we tranſlate, the Captain of the Temple.

Ver. 12. And their Brethren that did the Work of the Houſe, were eight hundred twenty and two:] Who diſcharged all the Offices of the Prieſts in the Temple.

And Adaiah the Son of Jeroham, the Son of Pelaliah, the Son of Amzi, the Son of Zechariah, the Son of Paſhur, the Son of Malchiah.

Ver. 13. And his Brethren, Chief of the Fathers, two hundred forty and two; and Amaſhai, the Son of Azareel, the Son Ahaſai, the Son of Meſhillemoth, the Son of Immer.

Ver. 14. And their Brethren, mighty Men of Valour, an hundred twenty and eight:] Some of the Prieſts were noted to be Men of great Courage, who, when there was Occaſion, fought for their Country, eſpecially to defend the Houſe of God.

And their Overſeer was Zabdiel, the Son of one of the great Men.] Or, as the Margin, the Son of Haggedolim, was ſet over theſe valiant Men; being deſcended (it is ſuppoſed by ſome) from ſome of the great Men among the Prieſts; as the Word Haggedolim imports.

Ver. 15. Alſo of the Levites, Shemaiah the Son of Haſhub, the Son of Azrikam, the Son of Haſhabiah, the Son of Bunni.] After the Prieſts he gives an Account of the Levites; among whom this Perſon, and the two other mentioned in the next Verſes, were the Chief.

Ver. 16. And Shabbethai, and Jozabad, of the Chief of the Levites, had the Overſight of the outward Buſineſs of the Houſe of God.] There were a great many Things to be done, without the Temple, as well as within, to prepare for the Service of it; particularly, to gather the third Part of a Shekel, which every one was to give to make Proviſion for it, Chap. x. 32. which Work was committed to theſe Men. Though Bertram (de Republica Judaica, p. 160, 363.) thinks, this may be the Meaning, That they were Judges and Officers in the Country, where their Preſence was neceſſary, when there were but few to diſcharge ſuch outward Buſineſs in Iſrael, as it is called in 1 Chron. xxvi. 29.

Ver. 17. And Mattaniah the Son of Micha, the Son of Zabdi, the Son of Aſaph, was the Principal to begin the Thankſgiving in Prayer:] He was the Precentor (as we call him in our Choirs) who begun to ſing the Hymn at Morning and Evening Sacrifice; which ſeems to be that in 1 Chron. xvi. 7, 8, &c. in the latter Part of which they pray to God, as in the former they give Thanks.

And Bakbukiah the Second among his Brethren, and Abda the Son of Shammua, the Son of Galel, the Son of Jeduthun.] The firſt of theſe ſeems to have ſupplied the Place of Mattathiah, when he was abſent.

Ver. 18. All the Levites in the holy City, were two hundred fourſcore and four.] Who certainly attended there; unleſs we ſuppoſe, with Bertram, that they went forth ſome Time about ſome outward Buſineſs, which they were required to diſpatch.

Ver. 19. Moreover, the Porters, Akkub, Talmon, and their Brethren that kept the Gates, were an hundred ſeventy and two.] Who had the Cuſtody of the Gates of the Temple.

Ver. 20. And the Reſidue of Iſrael, of the Prieſts and the Levites, were in all the Cities of Judah, every one in his Inheritance.] He had ſaid before, that the reſt of Iſrael dwelt in their own Cities, (Ver. 3.) and now he ſaith, that ſo did the reſt of the Prieſts and the Levites dwell in the Cities anciently appointed for them.

Ver. 21. But the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel:] Which was a Place upon the Wall of Jeruſalem, or a Tower near it. See iii. 26. 2 Chron. xxvii. 3.

And Zia and Giſpa were over the Nethinims.] Two Perſons of their own Body, I ſuppoſe, who were appointed to ſee them do their Duty.

Ver. 22. The Overſeer alſo of the Levites at Jeruſalem, was Uzzi the Son of Bani, the Son of Haſhabiah, the Son of Mattaniah, the Son of Micha:] He was ſet over the Levites, to govern them, and ſee them diſcharge their Offices in an orderly Manner. The LXX tranſlate it Ἐπίσκοπος, and ſo doth the Vulgar; for he was Superviſor of thoſe below him.

Of the Sons of Aſaph, the Singers were over the Buſineſs of the Houſe of God.] They were ordered to look after the Reparation of the Temple; for which they had the more Leiſure; both becauſe they did not come in their Courſes to Jeruſalem, as others did, but were ſettled there; and were to attend at the Temple only at certain Hours, after which they might look after other Buſineſs.

Ver. 23. For it was the King's Commandment concerning them, that a certain Portion ſhould be for the Singers, due for every Day.] Beſide the fore-named Reaſons, they had great Encouragement from the King, who ordered them a certain Portion for their Maintenance every Day. Some are of Opinion, that this was King David, who firſt appointed them to attend in a ſettled Courſe; but it is more likely, it was the King of Perſia, who out of his Munificence made them a daily Allowance for their better Support; they that ſung Hymns to their Gods being Perſons much valued in all Countries: And if David made any Proviſion for them, it being loſt, moſt likely was not yet reſtored.

Ver. 24. And Pethahiah, the Son of Meſhezabeel, of the Children of Zerah, the Son of Judah,] We had the Children of Pharez named before, who ſettled at Jeruſalem, (Ver. 6.) and now it appears that ſome of the Poſterity of his Brother did the ſame; for here is one Man mentioned who was of great Authority under the King of Perſia, as it here follows.

Was at the King's Hand in all Matters concerning the People,] The King appointed him to receive all Petitions from the People, and by him returned them Anſwers. This ſeems the plain Senſe, according to our Tranſlation. But ſome tranſlate it not at the King's Hand, but on the King's Part, that is, he heard all Cauſes in Civil Matters between the King and the People; as about his Tribute, or any Grievance of which they complained. And Bertram thinks it appears by the very Context, that he was appointed by the King (ſo at his Hand, or by his Hand may be underſtood) to ſee all Things ſupplied which the People were bound to furniſh for the Temple: Or rather, as Pellicanus thinks, to ſee that what the King allowed for publick Sacrifices to be made for him, and for his Family (Ezra vi. 10.) were duly paid out of the Treaſury of the Province.

Ver. 25. And for the Villages with their Fields, ſome of the Children of Judah dwelt at Kirjatharba and in the Villages thereof, and at Dibon and in the Villages thereof, and at Jekabzeel and in the Villages thereof,] He gives no Account of the Families that dwelt in the Country, as he doth of thoſe that ſettled in Jeruſalem, but only mentions the Towns wherein they dwelt, which formerly had been walled Cities, but now open Villages, wherein Houſes were built, but not their Walls.

Ver. 26. And at Jeſhua, and at Moladah, and at Bethphelet,] In this and in the following Verſes, unto Ver. 31. he mentions the other Towns wherein the Children of Judah dwelt, who did not come to inhabit at Jeruſalem.

Ver. 27. And at Hazar-ſhual, and at Beer-ſheba and in the Villages thereof.

Ver. 28. And at Ziklag, and at Mekonah and in the Villages thereof.

Ver. 29. And at En-rimmon, and at Zareah, and at Jarmuth,

Ver. 30. Zanoah, Adullam, and in their Villages, at Lachiſh and the Fields thereof, at Azekah and in the Villages thereof. And they dwelt from Beerſheba unto the Valley of Hinnom.] It appears by this Account that ſome of theſe great Towns or Cities without Walls, had little Villages about them, but others had only Fields, and no Villages in them, the Country being as yet but thinly peopled.

Ver. 31. The Children alſo of Benjamin, from Geba, dwelt in Michmaſh, and Aija, and Bethel, and in their Villages,] Geba had formerly been an eminent Place in this Tribe, and ſo was Bethel.

Ver. 32. And at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,

Ver. 33. Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,

Ver. 34. Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat,

Ver. 35. Lod and Ono, the Valley of Craftſmen.] We read of Lod and Ono before in the firſt Book of Chronicles. See Chap. viii. Ver. 12.

Ver. 36. And of the Levites, were Diviſions in Judah, and in Benjamin.] The reſt of the Levites who were not ſettled at Jeruſalem, were diſtributed among the People of Judah and Benjamin, who dwelt in the forenamed Towns, whom they taught and inſtructed in Religion and good Manners.

We read alſo, 1 Chron. ix. 3. that ſome of the Children of Ephraim and Manaſſeh dwelt at Jeruſalem; but, I ſuppoſe, they were ſo few, that they are not here remembred; or, perhaps, they removed to ſome other Place when Jeruſalem continued without Walls.

CHAP. XII.

Ver. 1. NOW theſe are the Prieſts and the Levites that went up with Zerubbabel the Son of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua:] The Chief of the Prieſts, as they are called, Ver. 7. whom he thought fit to mention here, becauſe he intended to deſcribe the Dedication and Conſecration of the City, where the Miniſtry of the Prieſts and Levites was to be employed.

Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra,] If this was the ſame Ezra that wrote the foregoing Book, or Part of it, then he went back to Babylon after his coming up to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel, and came again inſtructed with a large Power in the ſeventh Year of Artaxerxes: But there are many Reaſons to prove he was not the ſame.

Ver. 2. Amariah, Malluch, Hattuſh,] He that is here called Malluch, is called Melicu, Ver. 14. And ſuch Differences are in ſome of the followidg Names, which are repeated, Ver. 15, 16, &c. It being common among the Jews (as I have noted upon the Book of Chronicles) to vary in the Pronunciation of Names, and ſometimes to give two Names.

Ver. 3. Shechaniah, Rehum, Meremoth,] The firſt of theſe is called Shebaniah, Ver. 14. and the other two, in Ver. 15. are called Harim and Meraioth.

Ver. 4. Iddo, Gennetho, Abijah,] The ſecond of theſe is called Ginnethon, Ver. 16. which is a ſmall Difference. And Abijah was the Head of the Courſe of Prieſts from whom Zechariah, the Father of John Baptiſt ſprung, as Bertram thinks, de Rep. Jud. Cap. xviii. p. 311.

Ver. 5. Miamin, Maadiah, Bilgah,] The firſt of theſe is called Miniamin, and the next Moadiah, Ver. 17. which are likewiſe very ſmall Variations.

Ver. 6. Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah,

Ver. 7. Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah:] The firſt of theſe is called Salai, Ver. 20.

Theſe were the Chief of the Prieſts,] Heads of the Courſes of the Prieſts which David inſtituted, and were reſtored after their Return from Captivity, though as yet not ſo many as they had been before. See Ezra, vi. 18.

And of their Brethren in the Days of Jeſhua.] Who was the High Prieſt at the Return from Captivity. The Meaning ſeems to be, that they were not only Heads of all thoſe who were under them, but the Chief of the Heads who were properly their Brethren.

Ver. 8. Moreover the Levites; Jeſhua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, which was over the Thankſgiving, he and his Brethren.] They were appointed to ſee the Pſalm of Thankſgiving ſung every Morning and Evening at the Burnt-Sacrifice.

Ver. 9. Alſo Bakbukiah, and Unni, their Brethren, were over againſt them in the Watches.] That is, theſe miniſter'd in their Courſes as the others did, and kept their Stations over againſt them in their Turns of Attendance, which are called their Watches or Wards. See Ver. 24.

Ver. 10. And Jeſhua begat Joiakim, Joiakim alſo begat Eliaſhib, and Eliaſhib begat Joiada.

Ver. 11. And Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jaddua.] In theſe two Verſes is an Account of the Succeſſion of the High Prieſts, from the Return of the Captivity, till the Time that they began to bear the greateſt Sway in the Jewiſh Nation. For this Jaddua is commonly thought to be that Jaddus the High Prieſt who went to meet Alexander the Great in his pontifical Habit, as he came from the Conqueſt of Tyre and Gaza, and procured great Privileges for the Jewiſh Nation. Now this being granted, the Scripture Hiſtory ends, as Grotius obſerves, where the very Light of Times, (as he ſpeaks,) that is, the Affairs of Alexander begins: From which Time all Things in Hiſtory are clear, the Affairs of the Jews being recorded by many Greek Writers, (ſeveral of which are now periſhed,) as appears by St. Hierom upon Daniel.

Ver. 12. And in the Days of Joiakim were Prieſts, the Chief of the Fathers; of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah.

Ver. 13. Of Ezra, Meſhullam, &c.] As he had mentioned thoſe who were Chief of the Prieſts in the Days of Jeſhua, ſo now he thinks fit to mention the Sons of every one of them who officiated in the Days of Joiakim the Son of Jeſhua, either as Aſſiſtants to their Fathers, or ſucceeding them when they were dead. He begins with thoſe three named, Ver. 1. and ſo proceeds in order to give an Account of the reſt which reaches to Ver. 22. and need not be tranſcribed.

Ver. 22. The Levites in the Days of Eliaſhib, Joiada, and Johanan, (called Jonathan, Ver. 11.) and Jaddua, were recorded Chief of the Fathers; alſo the Prieſts, to the Reign of Darius the Perſian.] This is thought by many to be that Darius whom Alexander conquered, till whoſe Time there were Records kept of the principal Families of the Levites, in the Days of thoſe four High Prieſts, as well as of the Prieſts already mentioned.

Ver. 23. The Sons of Levi, the Chief of the Fathers, were written in the Book of the Chronicles, even until the Days of Johanan the Son of Eliaſhib.] As there had been a Regiſter of them in the publick Records before that Time from Jeſhua to Johanan. Some think this refers to 1 Chron. ix. 14, &c.

Ver. 24. And the Chief of the Levites; Haſhabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeſhua the Son of Kadmiel, with their Brethren over againſt them, to praiſe, and to give Thanks, according to the Commandment of David the Man of God,] Theſe were particularly appointed for this Office, which was of great Importance.

Ward over againſt Ward.] In their Turns, one coming on when another went out, to attend in their Courſes, which are called Wards.

Ver. 25. Mattaniah, and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meſhullam, Talmon, Akkub, were Porters, keeping the Ward at the Threſholds of the Gates.] Of the Houſe of God, where they attended and performed their Office; or, as ſome will have it, at the Treaſuries, as in the Margin of our Bibles.

Ver. 26. Theſe were in the Days of Jehoiakim, the Son of Jeſhua, the Son of Jozadak, and in the Days of Nehemiah the Governour, and of Ezra the Prieſt, the Scribe.] It is impoſſible to give a certain Account why theſe are ſo particularly regiſter'd in this Book; but we may be ſure there was ſome great Reaſon for it in thoſe Days: Perhaps, that it might demonſtrate their Care to employ the beſt Men in all Offices for which they were fit; and that they took ſpecial Care to preſerve a faithful Record of thoſe who were to ſerve God as his Miniſters, as long as they were a Nation; which they have not a long Time been, and ſo all Diſtinctions among them are confounded.

Ver. 27. And at the Dedication of the Wall of Jeruſalem, they ſought the Levites out of all their Places, to bring them to Jeruſalem, to keep the Dedication with Gladneſs, both with Thankſgivings, and with ſinging with Cymbals, Pſalteries, and with Harps.] As Solomon and all the Children of Iſrael dedicated the Houſe of the LORD when it was built, (of which ſee 1 Kings viii. 2 Chron. vii.) ſo now Nehemiah, having ſet Things in good Order, thought it meet to dedicate the City, whoſe Wall was built, and Gates ſet up (Ver. 30.) as a Place in which God had choſen to dwell, by ſettling his Houſe here. And therefore they aſſembled to beſeech his Bleſſing and Protection upon this City; which being made ſtrong, and well defended, they hoped to ſerve God in his Houſe there with greater Quietneſs and Security.

The Jewiſh Doctors are of Opinion, that the Oracle being wanting in the Temple, this Dedication gave no new Sanctity, but only reſtored it to the old; for it was ſtill the holy City, as it is called twice in the foregoing Chapter of this Book, Chap. xi. 1, 18. See Selden, Lib. III. De Synedriis, Cap. 13. Sect. 6. where he obſerves, that it being ſaid here it was dedicated with a Song (for ſo it is in the Hebrew) there was ſome parti-particular Song of Dedication, which had been formerly uſed, which was now ſung upon this Occaſion. And ſome think, that ever after this Time they made a yearly Commemoration of this Dedication, as they conceive there was of Solomon's Dedication of the Temple. For the Heathen, who imitated the Jews (whoſe Temple Solomon built two hundred and ſixty three Years before Rome was built,) were wont ſo to do. But Selden thinks Hoſpinianus rightly judges, that the Maccabees kept the firſt Anniverſary Dedication, Cap. 14. Sect. 7. and upon another Account.

Ver. 28. And the Sons of the Singers gathered themſelves together, both out of the plain Country round about Jeruſalem, and from the Villages of Netophathi.

Ver. 29. Alſo from the Houſe of Gilgal, and out of the Fields of Geba and Azmaveth:] Theſe were the Places where they had ſettled their Habitations; from whence, upon Nehemiah's Summons, they came to be preſent and aſſiſt at this Solemnity.

For the Singers had builded them Villages round about Jeruſalem.] That they might be the more ready to attend the Service of God when there ſhould be Occaſion.

Ver. 30. And the Prieſts and the Levites purified themſelves,] With certain Ablutions and Expiations, that eſpecially which is mentioned in Numb. xix. where a Water of Separation is preſcribed to purify all Uncleanneſs, Ver. 9, &c. which is called the Water of Purifying, Numb. viii. 7.

And purified the People, and the Gates, and the Wall.] By ſprinkling, I ſuppoſe, the ſame Water upon them, and by Prayers and Sacrifices.

Ver. 31. Then I brought up the Princes of Judah upon the Wall, and appointed two great Companies of them that gave Thanks,] So the LXX tranſlate the Hebrew Words, Shethe tothoth godoloth, δύο περὶ αἰνέσεως μεγάλης, two great for Praiſe, that is, two great Choirs, as the Vulgar tranſlate it, which moſt Verſions follow. But our great Selden thinks the Words ſhould be tranſlated, two Euchariſtical Sacrifices, prepared for the Altars, which was proper to the preſent Buſineſs. The Spaniſh Jews tranſlate the Words, two grand Proceſſions, Lib. III. de Syned. Cap. 13. Sect. 6. p. 210. And ſee Dr. Hammond upon Pſalm xxiv. Annot. p. 139.

Whereof one went on the Right Hand upon the Wall toward the Dung-Gate:] We add thoſe Words, whereof the one, becauſe of the other mentioned, Ver. 38. but in the Hebrew the Words are, going on the Right, &c.

Ver. 32. And after them went Hoſhaiah, and Half of the Princes of Judah.

Ver. 33. And Azariah, Ezra, and Meſhullam,] Not Ezra the Scribe, who was in a more honourable Place, Ver. 36.

Ver. 34. Judah, and Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah.

Ver. 35. And certain of the Prieſts Sons with Trumpets, namely, Zechariah the Son of Jonathan, the Son of Shemaiah, the Son of Mattaniah, the Son of Michaiah, the Son of Zaccur, the Son of Aſaph.

Ver. 36. And his Brethren Shemaiah, and Azarael, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with the muſical Inſtruments of David, the Man of God, and Ezra the Scribe before them.] They in this Verſe and the former were Prieſts; and therefore Ezra, who was an eminent Prieſt, led them up at the Head of them.

Ver. 37. And at the Fountain-Gate, which was over againſt them, they went up by the Stairs of the City of David,] See Chap. iii. 15.

At the going up of the Wall, above the Houſe of David, even unto the Water-Gate Eaſtward.

Ver. 38. And the other Company of them that gave Thanks, went over againſt them, and I after them, and the Half of the People upon the Wall, from beyond the Tower of the Furnaces, even unto the broad Wall.

Ver. 39. And from above the Gate of Ephraim, and above the old Gate, and above the Fiſh-Gate, and the Tower of Hananeel, and the Tower of Meah, even unto the Sheep-Gate; and they ſtood ſtill in the Priſon-Gate.

Ver. 40. So ſtood the two Companies of them that gave Thanks in the Houſe of God, and I, and the Half of the Rulers with me:] The great Man before mentioned tranſlates the firſt Words, So ſtood the two Euchariſtical Sacrifices in the Houſe of God.

The Order wherein they thus marched in a pompous Manner round about the City, now ſeems a little obſcure: But the Senſe of the whole Deſcription is this; That they being met together in the ſame Place, Half of the Rulers went upon the Wall on the Right Hand, accompanied with ſeveral Prieſts and Levites, and Ezra the Scribe at the Head of them (Ver. 36.) and the other Half took the Left Hand, and walked upon the Wall in the ſame Order, accompanied with Nehemiah, who brought up the Rear of them, (Ver. 38.) And at length both Parts of this Chorus met in the Temple; and there they ſtood ſtill, and compleated their Praiſes and Thankſgivings, and offered Sacrifices, as it here follows. Where all the People walked, it is not certain, but only that half of them went with Nehemiah upon the Wall; the reſt, it is likely, walking below, becauſe the Wall could not contain them.

Ver. 41. And the Prieſts, Eliakim, Maaſeiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah, with Trumpets.

Ver. 42. And Maaſeiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elam, and Ezer; and the Singers ſang loud with Jezrahiah their Overſeer.] It doth not appear that they ſounded the Trnmpets or ſung while they were in the Proceſſion, but the Song and the Muſick began when they came to the Houſe of God.

Ver. 43. Alſo that Day they offered great Sacrifices, and rejoiced;] Feaſting, I ſuppoſe, upon the Euchariſtical Sacrifices which were then offered.

For God had made them rejoice with great Joy;] By reſtoring the holy City to ſuch a ſecure Condition, that they praiſed the LORD there without Fear of Diſturbance.

The Wives alſo and the Children rejoiced:] It was an univerſal Joy.

So that the Joy of Jeruſalem was heard even afar off.] The Singers ſung with ſuch loud Voices, Voices, and had ſo many loud Inſtruments, the Women and Children alſo ſhouting, that they might be heard at a great Diſtance. Or, the Meaning may be, that the Report of it was ſpread into far diſtant Countries.

Ver. 44. And at that Time were ſome appointed over the Chambers for the Treaſures, for the Offerings, for the Firſt-Fruits, and for the Tithes, to gather into them out of the Fields of the Cities the Portions of the Law for the Prieſts and Levites:] By the Treaſures, he means thoſe Places where the Oblations, Firſt-Fruits, Tithes (which they had promiſed to pay duly, Chap. x. 31, &c.) were laid up, and preſerved for the Uſe of the Prieſts and Levites: Of which that they might not be defrauded, a certain Officer was at this Time appointed, to ſee they were brought in according to the Law, and to take care that every one had his Portion.

For Judah rejoiced for the Prieſts, and for the Levites that waited.] They were ſo glad to ſee ſuch a great Concourſe of them (Ver. 27, &c.) and that they performed their Duty upon this Occaſion to the general Satisfaction of all that were preſent, that their Hearts were enlarged in Love to them, which moved them to take care they ſhould never want the Proviſion appointed by God for them.

Ver. 45. And both the Singers and the Porters kept the Ward of their God, and the Ward of the Purification,] Theſe and other Miniſters (who alſo were Levites) did their Duty ſo carefully, that they were much in the People's Favour. For the Singers kept the Ward of their God, that is, ſung orderly in their Courſes, and praiſed God; and the Porters kept the Ward of Purification, that is, duly obſerved the Orders about Purification, in not ſuffering any unclean Perſon or unclean Thing to come into the Houſe of God.

According to the Commandment of David, and of Solomon his Son.] Who had regulated all Things belonging to the Duty of theſe Perſons. See 1 Chron. xxv. xxvi.

Ver. 46. For in the Days of David and Aſaph, of old, there was Chief of the Singers, and Songs of Praiſe and Thankſgiving unto God.] There were other famous Men joined with Aſaph, viz. Heman and Jeduthun; but he was the principal Perſon whom David employed in this Regulation. And this Verſe gives the Reaſon why the Levites and the Singers performed their Duty ſo accurately; becauſe from the Time of David, who conſtituted their Orders and Offices, there were ſome great Men who preſided over them, and were careful both to inſtruct them in their Duty, and keep them to it.

Ver. 47. And all Iſrael in the Days of Zerubbabel, and in the Days of Nehemiah, gave the Portions of the Singers, and the Porters, every Day his Portion:] Thoſe Men that were appointed to look after the Treaſures, mentioned Ver. 44. did their Duty ſo well, that theſe inferior Officers, much leſs the reſt of the Levites and Prieſts, never wanted what was due unto them, but had it every Day while Zerubbabel and Nehemiah governed.

And they ſanctified holy Things unto the Levites, and the Levites ſanctified them unto the Children of Aaron.] The People ſeparated and ſet apart the tenth Part of their Crop for the Uſe of the Levites; and the Levites ſeparated from their Tithes, the tenth Part of them for the Prieſts. For the People had no Right to the tenth Part, but it was holy, that is, to be ſeparated from the reſt for God's Miniſters the Levites; and the Levites had no Right to the tenth Part of their Tithe which they had received from the People, but it was to be ſet apart (which is called ſanctified) for the Children of Aaron, that is, the Prieſts.

CHAP. XIII.

Ver. 1. ON that Day they read in the Book of Moſes in the Audience of the People; and therein was found written, that the Ammonite, and the Moabite, ſhould not come into the Congregation of God for ever;] This was not done upon the Day of the Dedication of the Wall of the City, but upon ſome Day after Nehemiah was returned to Jeruſalem from Perſia, whither he went to wait upon the King, (Ver. 6.) For it is not likely that the People, who were ſo well affected to the Miniſters of God, as we read in the foregoing Chapter, ſhould ſo ſoon forget and neglect them; or that thoſe who were appointed to look after their Concerns (Chap. xii. 44.) ſhould be turned out of their Office immediately, or lay aſide all Care of them: For it is apparent, from Ver. 10. of this Chapter, their Dues were not paid them when Nehemiah was not there to look after them. But when he was returned, all this was amended, and other Abuſes corrected: He continuing the publick Reading of the Law at ſtated Times, probably on the great Feſtivals, when all the People met together (ſuch as thoſe mentioned Chap. viii.) upon ſome Day of which that Portion of Scripture was read, in Deut. xxiii. 3. which forbids the Admiſſion of the Ammonites and Moabites into the Congregation of the LORD; the Meaning whereof ſee in my Annotations there. I will only add here, that they who by the Congregation of God in this Place, underſtand the publick Aſſemblies for divine Worſhip, are very much miſtaken: For no Man of any Nation was forbidden to come and pray to God at the Temple, but Men of every Nation, who would become Proſelytes, were admitted into their Communion; and if they would be circumciſed, had like Privileges with all other Iſraelites, even to eat the Paſſover, Exod. xii. 48, 49. They therefore that think the Meaning is, they ſhould be excluded from all publick Offices, interpret it better: But that is not the Truth neither; for it is to be underſtood of marrying with them, as I have ſhewn in the Explication of that Law.

Ver. 2. Becauſe they met not the Children of Iſrael with Bread and with Water, but hired Balaam againſt them, that he ſhould curſe them; howbeit, our God turned the Curſe into a Bleſſing.] See upon Deut. xxiii. 4, 5.

Ver. 3. Now it came to paſs when they heard the Law, that they ſeparated from Iſrael all the mixed Multitude.] Who were born of Strangers, whom the Law would not allow to partake of the Rights of Marriage with Iſraelites.

Ver. 4. And before this,] That is, before this Separation was made.

Eliaſhib the Prieſt,] There were ſeveral of this Name in thoſe Times, and ſome of them Prieſts, Ezra x. 6, 24, 26, 37. But this ſeems to have been the High Prieſt, mentioned Chap. iii. 1. for his Family was much corrupted, as appears from Ver. 28. of this Chapter.

Having the Overſight of the Chamber of the Houſe of our God,] Here the ſingular Number is uſed for the plural; for he had not the Overſight of one Chamber only, but of all the Chambers, as the following Ver. 5, 9. ſhew. But this may ſeem to indicate, that Eliaſhib was not High Prieſt, it being below him to be ſet over the Chamber, (as the Phraſe is in the Hebrew,) though the High Prieſt, no doubt, had an Inſpection over them all.

Was allied unto Tobiah:] An Ammonite, as he is often called in this Book; with whom he ought to have contracted no Affinity by ſuffering his Grandſon to marry with Sanballat's Daughter; who was the faſt Friend of Tobiah, and the great Enemy of the Jews. We read alſo in Ezra x. 18. that ſeveral of the Prieſts had married ſtrange Wives; and among the reſt, ſome of the Sons of the High Prieſt are there mentioned.

Ver. 5. And he had prepared for him a great Chamber,] By breaking down the Partitions, it is likely, between ſeveral little Chambers, where holy Things were laid, he prepared one great Room for his Reception.

Where aforetime they laid the Meat-Offerings, the Frankincenſe, and the Veſſels, and the Tithes of the Corn, the new Wine, and the Oil, (which was commanded to be given to the Levites, and the Singers, and the Porters,) and the Offerings of the Prieſts.] All the Offerings that belonged to the Miniſters of God, (and the Veſſels wherewith they miniſtered,) which there had been great Care taken ſhould be brought into theſe Chambers, (the latter End of Chap. x.) were now all profanely thrown out to make Room for this Man.

Ver. 6. But in all this Time was not I at Jeruſalem:] They took this Boldneſs in Nehemiah's Abſence; and were the more audacious, becauſe many of the Nobles of Judah (it is likely) favoured this Tobiah, and were his Friends, as they had been heretofore, Chap. vi. 17, 18.

For in the two and thirtieth Year of Artaxerxes King of Babylon, came I unto the King,] He was Governor twelve Years in this Province; but did not continue all that Time in Judea: For he ſometimes ſtept to Babylon, to give an Account of his Management to the King; who, it is likely, (as I before obſerved,) would not diſpenſe with ſo long an Abſence from his Attendance to his Office at Court. See upon Chap. ii. 6. v. 41.

And after certain Days,] In the Hebrew the Words are at the End of Days, that is, at the End of the Year. For ſo the Word Jamim [Days] often ſignifies in Scripture. Exod. xiii. 10. Levit. xxv. 29. See below, Ver. 15.

Obtained I Leave of the King:] To return to Jeruſalem: From whence, it is probable, he heard of the fore-named Diſorders, and therefore once more begged Leave to go thither, that he might redreſs them.

Ver. 7. And I came to Jeruſalem, and underſtood of the Evil that Eliaſhib did for Tobiah,] He was fully informed what Evil had been committed, before he went about to reform it.

In preparing him a Chamber in the Courts of the Houſe of God.] In the Court of the Iſraelites, which was a ſacred Place, into which no Stranger might enter.

Ver. 8. And it grieved me ſore; therefore I caſt forth all the Houſhold-Stuff of Tobiah out of the Chamber.] His Indignation was raiſed, as well as his Sorrow, to ſee ſuch a Profanation: Firſt, in bringing a Stranger into the Place where only Iſraelites were to come; and he an Ammonite, one of the worſt of the ſtrange Nations, and a greater Enemy of the Jews, than many of the Ammonites; for whoſe ſake he had removed the holy Things, and put Tobiah in their Place, who brought his Houſhold-Stuff along with him; and all this done by the High Prieſt, who ought to have oppoſed ſuch an Attempt, and, indeed, was the only Man that could have hindred it, till Nehemiah came, whoſe Authority, as Governor under the King of Perſia, was ſuperior to his; by which he threw all his Goods out of the Chamber, and forced him alſo to depart. Here is no Mention of his reprehending Eliaſhib; which is an Argument, that he died after Nehemiah went from Jeruſalem.

Ver. 9. Then I commanded, and they cleanſed the Chambers; and thither brought I again the Veſſels of the Houſe of God, with the Meat-Offering and the Frankincenſe.] He gave Order, that the Chambers, which had been thus profaned, ſhould be reſtored to their former Sanctity by the Water of Purification, mentioned in the nineteenth of Numbers; whereby Things, as well as Perſons, were cleanſed from their Impurities. And when the Chambers were thus prepared, he brought in again all the Veſſels, and other Things, (mentioned Ver. 5.) which had been thrown out to make Room for Tobiah.

Ver. 10. And I perceived, that the Portions of the Levites had not been given them:] For either the People did not pay them well, when they ſaw they were not laid up for their proper Uſe in the Place appointed, or Eliaſhib employed them for the Entertainment of Tobiah; which he might as well do, as bring him into the ſacred Place. Into which when they were not brought, the People not knowing what became of them, might keep them to themſelves. See Biſhop Montague of Tithes, p. 347.

For the Levites and the Singers that did the Work, were fled every one to his Field.] This made thoſe that attended the Service at Jeruſalem forſake the City, and betake themſelves to their Country Concerns; where they might make Proviſion for the Suſtenance of their Families. And, indeed, it is a great Artifice of the Devil, as Wolphius here obſerves, by his Inſtruments to defraud the Miniſters of Religion of their neceſſary Maintenance, that he may thereby aboliſh Religion itſelf.

Ver. 11. Then contended I with the Rulers, and ſaid,] ſaid,] He earneſtly expoſtulated with them, and reproved them.

Why is the Houſe of God forſaken?] There was no Account to be given of it, but the Negligence of the Magiſtrates; whom he awakens to their Duty, by repreſenting to them, that God himſelf was highly affronted, by having none of his Servants to attend him at his Houſe.

And I gathered them together,] He recalled the Levites to Jeruſalem out of the Country; whither they were fled, to look after their own Eſtates.

And ſet them in their Place.] Every one to his proper Work and Buſineſs.

Ver. 12. Then brought all Judah the Tithe of the Corn and the new Wine, and the Oil, unto the Treaſuries.] When they ſaw theſe Things were likely to go the right Way, and be imployed to their proper Uſes, they brought them to their proper Place. For the People (as Conradus Pellicanus here notes) readily obey, if the Magiſtrates and the Prieſts be not remiſs in their Duty.

Ver. 13. And I made Treaſurers over the Treaſuries, Shelemiah the Prieſt, and Zadock the Scribe, and, of the Levites, Pedaiah; and next to them was Hanan the Son of Zaccur, the Son of Mattaniah; for they were counted faithful, and their Office was to diſtribute unto their Brethren.] There had been ſome appointed heretofore unto this Office, (Chap. x. 44, &c.) but they not performing their Truſt, Nehemiah ſought out ſome Perſons, here mentioned, who had the general Reputation of being Men of Integrity; whoſe Buſineſs it was to give every one of their Brethren their Portion.

Ver. 14. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and wipe not out my good Deeds that I have done for the Houſe of my God, and for the Offices thereof.] It is very natural here to obſerve, that to make Proviſion for the Maintenance of God's Miniſters, and of his Worſhip and Service, is a Work of high Eſteem with God. For theſe are the good Deeds (as appears by the foregoing Verſes) for which Nehemiah recommends himſelf to the Divine Favour and Remembrance. And therefore what ſhall we think of the Times wherein we live; when Men account them the moſt Religious to God-ward, who would unfurniſh the Houſe of God moſt, and who moſt rob his Prieſts? This is the Reflection, which Mr. Mede made upon theſe Words of Nehemiah, Book I. Diſcourſe 34.

Ver. 15. In thoſe Days ſaw I in Judah ſome treading Wine-Preſſes on the Sabbath, and bringing in Sheaves, and lading Aſſes; as alſo Wine, Grapes, and Figs, and all Manner of Burdens, which they brought into Jeruſalem on the Sabbath-Day:] The treading Wine-Preſſes, ſhews that he came back in the latter End of the Year, (as I have explained in the End of Days, Ver. 6.) when he found them carrying in Sheaves and Wine, and all Manner of Burdens, (that is, doing all Manner of Work,) on the Sabbath, as if it had been a common Day.

And I teſtified againſt them in the Day wherein they ſold Victuals.] Or, as Pellicanus tranſlates it, I conteſted with them, that they ſhould ſell Proviſions on ſuch Days as they might be ſold, and not on the Sabbath.

Ver. 16. There dwelt Men of Tyre alſo therein, which brought Fiſh, and all Manner of Ware,] The City of Tyre was a Place of great Trade, and, lying on the Sea, abounded with Fiſh, which they brought from thence to Joppa, and ſo to Jeruſalem. Tyre was nigh to Sidon, which had its Name (as Juſtin ſaith, Lib. xviii.) ab Ubertate Piſcium, from Plenty of Fiſh.

And ſold on the Sabbath unto the Children of Judah, and in Jeruſalem.] Not only in the Country, but in the holy City, as Jeruſalem was called; where holy Aſſemblies were to be held, and God worſhipped ſolemnly on the Sabbath.

Ver. 17. Then I contended with the Nobles of Judah,] As I had done before, Ver. 11. for they who did not correct Abuſes when it was in their Power, were more in fault than they that committed them.

And ſaid unto them, What evil Thing is this that ye do, and profane the Sabbath-Day?] For if they had exerciſed their Authority, the People durſt not have done as they did.

Ver. 18. Did not your Fathers thus? and did not our God bring all this Evil upon us, and upon this City?] He bids them reflect and conſider, that this was one of the Crimes of which their Fathers were guilty; for which God ſuffered them to be carried Captive out of their Land, and their City to be deſtroyed. See Jerem. xvii. 19, 20, 21, &c.

Yet ye bring more Wrath upon Iſrael, by prophaning the Sabbath.] This aggravated their Guilt, that they would not beware of thoſe Sins which had been their Ruin; and would bring greater Judgments upon them, becauſe they were not amended by what they had ſuffered.

Ver. 19. And it came to paſs, that when the Gates of Jeruſalem began to be dark,] That is, when they who ſat there could not ſee to do any Thing, which was about Sun-ſetting; the Mountains about Jeruſalem intercepting the Light there ſooner than in other Places.

Before the Sabbath,] In the Evening of that Day.

I commanded, that the Gates ſhould be ſhut, and charged, that they ſhould not be opened till after the Sabbath; and ſome of my Servants ſet I at the Gates, that there ſhould no Burden be brought in on the Sabbath-Day.] It ſeems, he could not truſt to the common Porters of the Gates; and therefore appointed ſome of his own Family, who he knew would neither be careleſs, nor corrupted, to ſee the Gates were kept ſhut, and all Traffick hindred.

Ver. 20. So the Merchants and Sellers of all kind of Ware,] Who came from Tyre and other Places, Ver. 16.

Lodged without Jeruſalem once or twice.] In the open Fields, (as appears by the next Verſe,) where perhaps they pitched their Tents, and opened their Packs, hoping to ſell their Wares on the Sabbath to the Country People, though they could not get Admittance into Jeruſalem.

Ver. 21. Then I teſtified againſt them, and ſaid unto them, Why lodge ye about the Wall?]

He ſolemnly declared to them, and called God to witneſs, that he would not ſuffer them to lodge there any more.

If ye do ſo again, I will lay Hands on you.] Seize their Perſons and their Goods, and puniſh them as Offenders.

From that Time forth came they no more on the Sabbath.] Such Power have good Magiſtrates; eſpecially, when they are reſolute. And it is very obſervable, that theſe being Men of other Nations, were not bound by the Law of the Sabbath, and did not tranſgreſs in breaking it; yet he would not permit them to make the Jews, who were under the Obligation of the Law, to break it; and thereby trouble the Commonwealth of Iſrael, by drawing the People into Sin. It is alſo obſervable, that tho' Buying and Selling was not a ſervile Work, yet he thought this comprehended in thoſe Words, Thou ſhalt do no Manner of Work.

Ver. 22. And I commanded the Levites, that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves, and that they ſhould come and keep the Gates, to ſanctify the Sabbath-Day.] He thought the Levites would be more reverenced than his Servants; and therefore appointed them to this Office of keeping the Gates on the Sabbath-Day, that it might not fail to be ſanctified as it ought to be: And they being alſo on that Day to attend upon other Offices which were holy, he commanded them alſo to cleanſe themſelves by ſome known Purification, which might procure them the greater Reverence. There was another Reaſon why he joined the Levites with his Servants, to look after the Gates on the Sabbath-Day, becauſe he would have this Watch continued, when he and his Servants were gone from Jeruſalem, till this evil Cuſtom was quite broken.

Remember me, O my God, concerning this alſo, and ſpare me according to the Greatneſs of thy Mercy.] He had beſeeched God to remember his good Deeds, ver. 14. but to ſhew that he did not think there was any proper Merit or Worthineſs in them, which required a Reward, as a Debt in Juſtice due unto them, he here explains himſelf, and deſires to be rewarded, or rather pardoned out of God's free Goodneſs, according to the Greatneſs or the Multitude of his Mercies.

Ver. 23. In thoſe Days alſo ſaw I Jews that had married Wives of Aſhdod, of Ammon, and of Moab:] They had at this very Time married Strangers, as Pellicanus thinks; and by what Nehemiah did for their Correction, one would think ſome were again revolted into that Sin, which they had moſt ſolemnly renounced both before him and before Ezra, ch. x. 30. Ezra x. So hard it is to root out Tares, which will be continually ſprouting up again.

Ver. 24. And their Children ſpake half in the Speech of Aſhdod, and could not ſpeak in the Jews Language, but according to the Language of each People.] Whom they had married. For their Mothers, with whom they were bred, ſpake to them in the Language of their own Country, and not in the Language of the Jews; which it ſeems by this was very different from that of Aſhdod, tho' they were Neighbours to the Philiſtines. And ſo was the Language of the Egyptians, and other Countries thereabout, very different, as Bochartus obſerves in his Canaan, Lib. ii. Cap. 1. See Scaliger, de Emend. Temp. Lib. vi. p. 580. But there doth not ſeem to have been ſuch Difference between the Language of the Canaanites and the Hebrews in the Time of Abraham; for he made Uſe of no Interpreters, that we read of, in his Converſation with them: Yet it is probable, that by Length of Time theſe People had altered their Language very much, which was preſerved pure among the Jews.

Ver. 25. And I contended with them, and curſed them,] He expoſtulated with them, and denounced God's Judgment againſt them; or, as Aben Ezra thinks, he excommunicated them, and caſt them out of the Society of God's People. But that was in uſe only when they could not puniſh Offenders according to their Law, which now they had Power to do; and accordingly it follows, that he did inflict Puniſhments upon them.

And ſmote certain of them,] Ordered the Officers to beat ſome of the moſt notorious Offenders, either with Rods, or with Scourges, according to Deut. xxv. 2.

And pluck'd off their Hair,] Which was a great Diſgrace in thoſe Eaſtern Countries. See Iſa. l. 6. Jerem. xlviii. 37. the Hair being eſteemed a great Ornament, and a Token one was a Freeman: Therefore plucking off the Hair was a putting them to Shame, and making them look like vile Slaves.

And made them ſwear by God, ſaying, Ye ſhall not give your Daughters unto their Sons, nor take their Daughters unto your Sons, or for yourſelves.] He alſo took an Oath of them that they would reform: But this he had done before, chap. x. 29, 30. and therefore ſince the moſt ſacred Promiſes of Amendment did not keep them faſt to God, he alſo ſeverely chaſtiſed them in the Manner before related, that nothing might be wanting to make them better.

Ver. 26. Did not Solomon King of Iſrael ſin by theſe Things?] He argued alſo with them, and perſuaded them to amend, from the Example of the greateſt Men, who had been undone by ſuch Marriages, particularly King Solomon.

Yet among many Nations was there no King like him, who was beloved of his God, and God made him King over all Iſrael: nevertheleſs, even him did outlandiſh Women cauſe to ſin.] As much as to ſay, If ſuch a Man as he, who excelled all Men in Wiſdom, and was ſo highly in God's Favour, that he preferred him before all his Brethren, to be King over all Iſrael, was not ſafe from Seducement by ſtrange Women, how ſhall ye be able to preſerve yourſelves from their Inticements?

Ver. 27. Shall we then hearken unto you to do all this great Evil, to tranſgreſs againſt our God, in marrying ſtrange Wives?] That is, would you have me connive at this Wickedneſs, and ſo bring Guilt upon my ſelf, and Ruin upon you?

Ver. 28. And one of the Sons of Joiada, the Son of Eliaſhib the High Prieſt,] It is ſuppoſed that Eliaſhib died before Nehemiah returned from Perſia, and Joiada his Son ſucceeded him, one of whoſe Sons had offended in this Matter, He was his Grandſon.

Was the Son-in-Law to Sanballat the Horonite:] He is ſaid by Joſephus to be that Manaſſeh, who by Sanballat's Intereſt procured Leave to build a Temple in Mount Gerizim, to which all the Jews that had married ſtrange Wives reſorted, (Lib. xi. Cap. 8.) and as Solomon Virga ſaith, in Schebet Judah, he made Proclamation in all the Countries round about, that whoſoever would come to his Temple, they ſhould pay neither Firſt-Fruits nor Tithes, but only make voluntary Offerings; by which he gained many of the poor Sort to him. See Selden, Lib. ii. de Synedr. Cap. 15. p. 623.

Therefore I chaſed him from me.] That he ſhould not ſerve at the Altar; which Joſephus will have to be decreed by the great Sanhedrim, who, if he would have before them renounced that unlawful Wife, and put her away, offered to continue him in the Exerciſe of his Prieſthood. See Selden, de Succeſſion. in Pontif. Lib. ii. Cap. 6. and Lib. ii. de Synedr. Cap. 15. p. 649. where he obſerves, that Solomon Virga ſaith, he was put out of his Miniſtry at the Temple by an Aſſembly of all the Prieſts, who met together and expelled him. But there was no Need of their Authority, for Nehemiah himſelf chaſed him from him, that is, baniſhed him from Judea, as Bertram expounds this Phraſe, in his de Repub. Jud. Cap. 13. p. 165, &c.

Ver. 29. Remember them, O my God,] To puniſh them, (that is, according to their Deſerts) as he deſired God to remember him by rewarding him for the Good he had done. But Raſi takes it for a Prayer to God, to reform them, and render them Good for Evil.

Becauſe they have defiled the Prieſthood,] God required greater Purity in the Prieſts than in other Iſraelites, and in the High Prieſts eſpecially, who might marry none but a Virgin of his own People. See Leviticus xxi. 6, 7. unto ver. 16.

And the Covenant of the Prieſthood, and of the Levites.] There was a Covenant made with Phineas (Numb. xxv.) of an everlaſting Prieſthood, which they had violated, becauſe the Covenant was mutual, binding them to obſerve the Laws of the Prieſthood, as God engaged himſelf to preſerve them in their Office. What Covenant was made with the Levites I do not find; but I ſuppoſe the Meaning is, they diſhonoured the whole Tribe of Levi, who were ſet apart for divine Miniſtries: For it is likely, ſome of the Levites had tranſgreſſed in this Matter, by the bad Example of the Prieſts: This great Corruption of the Prieſts ſeems to have been the Occaſion of God's ſending Malachi, the laſt of the Prophets, to correct it, after Ezra and Nehemiah had not been able to root out this Corruption. And the Covenant here mentioned, was that made in the twentieth of Artaxerxes, wherein they engaged to put away their ſtrange Wives. Thus Dr. Alix, whoſe Judgment I prefer to my own, in this Point.

Ver. 30. Thus cleanſed I them from all Strangers,] That is, both Prieſts and Levites were ſeparated from their ſtrange Wives.

And appointed the Wards of the Prieſts and the Levites, every one in his Buſineſs:] To obſerve their Courſes of Attendance at the Houſe of God, and every one to perform there that Buſineſs which was proper to him.

Ver. 31. And for the Wood-offering, at Times appointed, and for the Firſt-fruits.] He commanded them to obſerve the Decrees which had been paſſed ſome Time ago, chap. x. 34, 35. Maimonides, in his Treatiſe of the Manner of offering Sacrifices, Cap. 14. gathers from theſe Words, that it was lawful for any Man, freely to vow either Wine, or Frankincenſe, or Oil, or Wood, to burn on the Altar: For this, ſaith he, was a Kind of Sacrifice or Offering, as Nehemiah here informs us.

Remember me, O my God, for Good.] He concludes his Book with a ſhort Prayer to God, wherein he commends himſelf, and all he had done, unto God's gracious Acceptance: As it becomes all Men, eſpecially thoſe who are employed in Divine Things, if they have done any Thing that is good, to remember it was by God's Help and Aſſiſtance, not by their own Power; beſeeching the Father of Mercies, by his only-begotten Son, to make it ſerviceable to his Church, and his own Good. Thus Joh. Wolphius concludes his Commentary upon this Book.

A

ESTHER.

THERE is a great Variety of Opinions concerning the Author of this Book, whom a great Number of late Interpreters, and ſome of the Hebrew Doctors, take to have been Mordecai; which is the common Opinion of the Latins, and of Clemens Alexandrinus among the Greeks; which, they think, is ſufficiently warranted by thoſe Words in the Ninth Chapter, ver. 20, &c. where it is ſaid, Mordecai wrote all theſe Things, and ſent Letters unto the Jews, &c. This, they think, relates to this whole Hiſtory, which he wrote as it is recorded in this Book: But thoſe Words plainly relate only to the Decree of obſerving the Feaſt of Purim perpetually; which ſuppoſes they had been acquainted with the Occaſion and Ground of it, before thoſe Letters came, as Huetius obſerves; who therefore is of the ſame Opinion with the Talmudiſts in Baba Bathra, that this Book was written by the Men of the great Synagogue: Which Opinion he the rather embraces, (tho' I ſee no Ground at all for it,) becauſe it comprehends theirs who think Mordecai was the Author, and theirs who aſcribe it to Ezra, and theirs who think it was Joachim the Son of Jeſhua the High-Prieſt; for all theſe might well have been in that Synagogue. Whoever was the Author, Maimonides ſaith (in his More Nevochim, Par. II. Cap. 45.) their wiſe Men openly declare, the Book of Eſther was dictated by the Holy Ghoſt, that is, as he explains it, by a Motion or Impulſe (as he calls it) from the Spirit of God, who excited him to write this Hiſtory; as by the ſame Motion others indited Pſalms, and gave wholeſome Precepts, to regulate the Lives of Men. See Chap. x. 3.

And that this Hiſtory fell out after the Captivity of Babylon was ended, and after the Time of Darius the Mede, is very evident: For Shuſhan was not the Royal City of the Medes, but of the Perſians. Nor had the Medes ſo large a Dominion, as from India to Ethiopia. But in what Reign of the Perſian King theſe Things fell out, is hard to determine. See the laſt Verſe of this Book.

CHAP. I.

Ver. 1. NOW it came to paſs in the Days of Ahaſuerus] This was a Perſian, but which of them, is a great Doubt; for learned Men think ſeveral of them had this Name. There are, I think, eight ſeveral Opinions about him here mentioned. Our great Primate Uſher takes him to have been Darius Hyſtaſpis; but he married the Daughter of the Great Cyrus, to confirm himſelf in his Kingdom, and would not have ſo eaſily parted with her as Ahaſuerus did with Vaſhti. The great Scaliger therefore thinks him to have been his Succeſſor Xerxes; whoſe Wife's Name being Amyſtris, he takes her for Eſther, this Name being in the Perſian Language Ham-Eſther. But this hath been confuted by many learned Men, particularly by Jacobus Capellus; who obſerves, that this Amyſtris was the Daughter of a powerful Man among the Perſians, whom Herodotus calls Otanes. Several other Reaſons he gives againſt this in his Hiſtoria ſacra & exotica, ad A. M. 3640, and 3650. Where by good Arguments he proves it was not Artaxerxes Longimanus, nor Darius Nothus, nor Artaxerxes Mnemon, but concludes, that it was the next King, Ochus, which agrees well with his Prſian Name, which was Achaſch, to which Veroſch being added as his Sirname, he was called by the Perſians Achaſch-Veroſh, which the Greeks tranſlated Ahaſuerus.

(This is Ahaſuerus which reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, over an hundred and ſeven and twenty Provinces)] We are told by Herodotus, that Darius conquered India, (Lib. IV. Cap. 44.) And there might well be ſo many Provinces between that and Ethiopia, whether we underſtand thereby the Country beyond Egypt, or that near Arabia. Herodotus ſeems to direct us to the former, when he ſaith, That Darius found by his Conqueſts, that Aſia, in the Eaſtern Part of the World, was like to Libya.

Ver. 2. That in thoſe Days, when the King Ahaſuerus ſat on the Throne of his Kingdom,] Enjoying Peace and Quietneſs throughout his large Dominions. Some think, this Phraſe, when he ſat on the Throne of his Kingdom, ſignifies when he began to reign. But this is confuted by Ver. 3. which ſaith, in the third Year of his Reign he did what follows.

Which was in Shuſhan the Palace,] This was a noble City, which Strabo calls Πόλιν ἀξιολογοτάτην, a moſt famous and highly-to-be-praiſed City; where Cyrus and the Perſian Kings, after the Conqueſt of the Medes, (whoſe Country was remote,) ſettled their Royal Seat, that they might not be far from Babylon. The Country about it alſo was wonderful fruitful, producing an hundred, and ſometimes two hundred fold, as he writes, Lib. XV. p. 727 and 731. It was built, as Pliny ſaith, by Darius, Lib. VI. Cap. 27. Or rather enlarged, by building there a moſt magnificent Palace, as Ælian explains it, Lib. XIII. de Animal. Cap. 59. which Ariſtotle in his Book de Mundo calls Θαυμαστὸν βασίλειον οἶκον, a wonderful Royal Palace, ſhining with Gold, and Amber, and Ivory.

Ver. 3. In the third Year of his Reign he made a Feaſt unto all his Princes and his Servants;] By his Servants are meant his Subjects; who were called Servants in the Eaſtern Countries. And it was the Manner of the Roman Emperors ſometimes to feaſt all the People of Rome, as well as the Senate.

The Power of Perſia and Media,] And firſt he ſpeaks of the Feaſt made for the great Men, whom he calls the Power of Media and Perſia, Men in Power, as we now ſpeak.

The Nobles and Princes of the Provinces being before him.] He explains who they were; the Governors of Provinces, and other noble Perſons, who were all then at his Court. The Word Parthemim, which we tranſlate Nobles, ſome would have to be the Corruption of the Greek Word παρατιμος, honourable Perſons; and Junius, with others, deduce it from the Greek Word πρῶτος. But the Greeks were not yet got among them; and therefore it is a Perſian Word, ſignifying Governors, as R. Solomon expounds it: And Joſeph Kimchi thinks they were ſuch great Men as governed that Tract of Land that lay upon the River Phrath, that is, Euphrates. But Hottinger will have it to be a compound Word from Par, which ſignifies High, and Ram, which ſignifies Spirit; as much as to ſay High-ſpirited, or Heroick Perſons: Which ſeems to me to be but an ingenious Conceit.

What the Occaſion of this Feaſt was, is variouſly conjectured. Some think, it was begun on his Birth-day. The Targum ſaith, a great Rebellion had been lately ſuppreſſed, which filled him with Joy. But the next Words ſeem to inform us, that it was to ſhew his magnificent Greatneſs to all his Subjects. For in thoſe Countries they delighted much in making great Feaſts; as we read afterward, that Alexander (when he was there,) entertained τετρακοσίους ἡγεμόνας, four hundred Captains, or great Commanders, who all ſat in Silver Chairs, &c. as Duris tells us in Athenæus, Lib. I. Deipnoſoph. Cap. 14.

Ver. 4. When he ſhewed the Riches of his glorious Kingdom, and the Honour of his excellent Majeſty many Days, even an hundred and fourſcore Days.] Which was for the Space of ſix Months; from the Vernal to the Autumnal Æquinox; which is an hundred fourſcore and ſeven Days. For Vaſhti kept a Feaſt of ſeven Days, at the End of his Feaſt, for the Women of Suſa, as Ochus did for the Men, Ver. 7, 10. Thus Jacobus Capellus. Some indeed will have it, that he was thus long in making Preparation for this ſplendid Entertainment, which did not laſt many Days. But this Cuſtom is continued ſtill to this Day, of keeping an Annual Feſtival an hundred and eighty Days, if we may give Credit to Dr. Fryar, who lived lately in this Country, and gives us an Account of it in his Travels, Letter V. Cap. 12. p. 348.

Ver.

Ver. 5. And when theſe Days were expired, the King made a Feaſt unto all the People that were preſent in Shuſhan the Palace, both unto great and ſmall, ſeven Days,] Not only to the Inhabitants of Shuſhan, but to all that were preſent in the City, out of all Parts of his Dominions, the Iſraelites not excepted, as the Targum ſaith.

In the Court of the Garden of the Kings Palace,] In the Entrance of the Royal Palace; which was very ſpacious, and planted with all Sorts of Fruit-Trees, and Aromaticks, as the Targum explains it.

Ver. 6. Where were white, green, and blue Hangings, faſtened with Cords of fine Linen and Purple to Silver Rings, and Pillars of Marble:] How the Targum came to fancy that theſe Hangings, being ſpread from one Tree to another, were tied to them with ſilken Purple Strings, I know not; for the Text ſaith expreſly, they were hanged on Pillars of Marble, ſet up, no doubt, for that Purpoſe.

The Beds were of Gold and Silver,] On which they ſat, or rather lay at their Meat. The Beds themſelves were of Melitim, (as Jonathan expreſſes it,) of the ſofteſt Wool, that is, the Mileſian, which is the beſt in the World, as Bochartus hath obſerved out of many Authors, in his Phaleg, Lib. I. Cap. 8. But the Bedſteds were of Gold and Silver, that is, ſtudded with Gold and Silver, or overlaid with Plates of them, as the Manner was, Dietericus ſhews in his Antiq. Biblicæ, p. 388.

Upon a Pavement of red, and blue, and white, and black Marble.] In the Hebrew, upon a Pavement of Bahat, and Ses, and Dar, and Sochereth; which ſignify ſeveral Sorts of Stones, as Bochartus hath proved beyond Contradiction: But what Stones are here meant is not eaſy to reſolve, nor is it of much Moment to know. He hath ſpent a large Chapter to prove that Dar ſignifies a Pearl; which, though very precious, it is not incredible was uſed in this Perſian Luxury, among other Stones, to adorn this Pavement: Which he juſtifies by many good Arguments; and ſhews, there are Examples of ſuch Profuſeneſs in other Hiſtories, Hierozoicon, Par. II. Lib. V. Cap. 8. Druſius alſo hath ſaid a great deal about Sochereth, to which I refer the learned Reader, Miſcellanea, Cent. I. Cap. 74.

Ver. 7. And they gave them Drink in Veſſels of Gold, (the Veſſels being diverſe one from another,) and Royal Wine in Abundance, according to the State of the King.] There was great Variety of Wines, it is likely, as well as great Plenty; and great Variety of Veſſels to drink in, different from all that they had ſeen. So Druſius tranſlates thoſe Words in the Parentheſis, Variantia diverſa Vaſa, as the Jews are ſaid, Chap. iii. 8. to have Laws different from all other People, where there is the ſame Word: Miſcellanea, Cent. I. Cap. 16. Strabo ſaith, theſe Princes were ſo luxurious, that they had their Wine from Syria, called Chalybomium; and the Water they drank with it, from Eulæus, it being πάντων ἐλαφρότατον the lighteſt of all other Waters.

Ver. 8. And the Drinking was according to the Law, none did compel:] The plaineſt Tranſlation ſeems to be, the Drinking according to Cuſtom, none did compel. It was cuſtomary to compel Men to drink more than they had a mind to do; but this Prince left every Man to his Liberty, that no Man ſhould incur any Diſpleaſure, if he did not drink what others would impoſe upon him. But Druſius thinks the Word Dath never ſignifies a Cuſtom.

For ſo the King had appointed to all the Officers of his Houſe, that they ſhould do according to every Man's Pleaſure.] Which made the Feaſt moſt acceptable, when every one drank for his own Pleaſure, and not for other Mens. And ſuch had been the Cuſtom of the ancient Perſians, who (as Xenophon tells us) were very ſparing in eating and drinking, though in his Time they were grown extreamly riotous. But nothing was more barbarous, than their preſſing Men to drink beyond their Inclinations; which the Son of Syrach expreſſes by the Word βιάζεσθαι, Eccluſ. xxxi. 37. it being no leſs inhuman to force a Man to drink when he is not thirſty, than to deny him Drink when he is ready to periſh with Thirſt: According to an ancient Saying of Sophocles in Athenæus, Lib. X. Τὸ πρὸς βίαν πίνειν, ἴσον κακὸν τὸ δι᾽ ψᾶν βίᾳ. To compel a Man to drink by Force, is as bad as to compel him to endure Thirſt for want of Drink.

Ver. 9. Alſo Vaſhti the Queen made a Feaſt for the Women,] I have before ſaid it is not likely (as Primate Uſher thinks) that this was Atoſſa the Daughter of Cyrus, whom Darius Hyſtaſpis married: For the Reaſon of that Match being to ſtrengthen himſelf in the Kingdom, he would not have ſo lightly parted with her. Jacobus Capellus thinks, by the Addition of the Word PAR to her Name ſhe was called by the Perſians Par-Vaſhti, which by the Greeks is pronounced Paryſatis, the Mother of Artaxerxes Mnemon. But ſhe could not be the Wife of Ochus, who was his Son.

In the Royal Houſe, which belonged to King Ahaſuerus.] Where ſhe entertained the Wives of the Princes, and other Women; not in the open Air, as the Men were, but more privately, as was fit for Women, who were not wont to eat together with Men.

Ver. 10. On the ſeventh Day,] Which was in the Concluſion of this Feaſt.

When the Heart of the King was merry with Wine,] Which made him a little forget himſelf, and not conſider what became both his own State and that of the Queen.

He commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Herbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the ſeven Chamberlains that ſerved in the Preſence of Ahaſuerus the King,] Theſe Eunuchs (as the Word is tranſlated in the Margin,) were Men of principal Authority in the Court; where they had great Offices about the King. And therefore he did her Honour enough, in ſending ſo many of them to wait upon her, and let her know his Pleaſure.

Ver. 11. To bring Vaſhti the Queen before the King, with the Crown Royal, to ſhew the People and the Princes her Beauty: for ſhe was fair to look on.] It is a very abſurd Conceit of the former Targum, who ſaith, he commanded her to be brought quite naked, that her comely Proportions might be ſeen, as well as her Face. And yet in Pirke Elieſer they are ſo bold as to ſay, it was the Cuſtom of the Perſian Kings to have their Wives publickly dance before them naked. It was too much, ſhe thought, that he ſhould expoſe her Countenance to be beheld, eſpecially by all the People: Which was contrary to the Cuſtom of that Country; where they kept their Wives very cloſe, from the Sight of all Men, but themſelves.

to

Ver. 12. But the Queen Vaſhti refuſed to come at the Kings Commandment by his Chamberlains:] Which ſhe might do out of Modeſty, not Pride: Becauſe, as I ſaid, it was contrary to the Cuſtom; and the great Men, inflamed with Wine, might be provoked by her Beauty (as Jacobus Capellus ſpeaks) to luſt after her.

Therefore was the King very wroth, and his Anger burned in him.] It was the more immoderate, becauſe his Blood was heated with Wine; which made his Paſſion too ſtrong for his Reaſon: Otherwiſe he would not have thought it decent for the Queen, nor ſafe for himſelf, to have her Beauty (which was very great) expoſed in this unuſual Manner. Joſephus ſaith, he was the more enraged, becauſe he ſent more than once to her, but ſtill ſhe refuſed to come: Which is not probable; for though it would have become him to ſend again to know her Reaſon for refuſing, yet he perſiſting in his Command, one would think ſhe would have yielded Obedience.

Ver. 13. Then the King ſaid to the wiſe Men which knew the Times] What had been done in former Days; or, what was fit to be done on all Occaſions: Men well verſed in ancient Hiſtories, (as Vitringa explains it,) and in the Laws and Cuſtoms of their Countries; who were able to give Coûnſel in all dubious and perplexed Caſes, ſuch as this was, which rarely happened. De Synag. Veteri, Par. II. Lib. I. Cap. 8.

(For ſo was the Kings Manner towards all that knew Law and Judgment:] It was his conſtant Practice; and he did not forget this laudable Cuſtom, even in his Drink, to conſult with his Counſellers before he reſolved any Thing; who were ſkilled in the Laws of their Country, and could judge what Advice was to be given in all Caſes.

Ver. 14. And the next unto him was Carſhena, Sether, Admatha, Tarſhiſh, Meres, Marſena, and Memucan, the ſeven Princes of Perſia and Media,] Theſe are called the Kings ſeven Counſellers, in Ezra vii. 14. who took their Original from Daniel, who being in great Power under Darius the Mede, and having a great Hand in framing the Government of that State, cauſed the Perſian Court (as Mr. Mede conjectures) to reſemble that of Heaven, ordaining ſeven chief Princes to ſtand before the King, as ſeven great Angels are ſaid in Scripture to ſtand before the Throne of God. See Book I. Diſcourſe 10.

Which ſaw the Kings Face,] Who were his principal Miniſters, and admitted into his Preſence; which was not allowed to every one, but only to the great Men of the Kingdom. See Grotius upon Matth. xviii. 10.

And which ſat the firſt in the Kingdom.)] Next to the King; being his Royal Judges, who determined what was right among the Perſians, and were the Interpreters of the Laws of the Country. Of whom Herodotus makes mention, Lib. III. Cap. 14, 31. and Plutarch in Artaxerxes, as Primate Uſher obſerves.

Ver. 15. What ſhall we do unto the Queen Vaſhti, according to the Law, becauſe ſhe hath not performed the Commandment of King Ahaſuerus by the Chamberlains?] Theſe Words make it plain, that the forenamed great Perſons were the ſupreme Judges what was Law; and that the King did not govern arbitrarily, by his own Will and Pleaſure, but by the Laws of the Kingdom.

Ver. 16. And Memucan anſwered before the King and the Princes,] He is the laſt of the ſeven Princes, mentioned ver. 14. which inclines me to think, that the Puny Judge, as we now ſpake, delivered his Opinion firſt, (as they do here,) and ſo they ſpake in Order till they came to the firſt. And thus I find the latter Targum takes it, He was the leaſt of them, and therefore gave his Opinion firſt. But others take it quite contrary, that Memucan was the Preſident of the Council, or the King aſked him firſt, what he thought of the Matter.

Vaſhti the Queen hath not done wrong to the King only, but alſo to all the Princes, and to all the People that are in all the Provinces of the King Ahaſuerus.] He declared it to be a Crime of ſuch a dangerous Nature, that it would have a miſchievous Influence upon the whole Kingdom, if it were not ſeverely puniſhed.

Ver. 17. For this Deed of the Queen ſhall come abroad unto all Women,] This Tranſgreſſion of the King's Commandment (as Maimonides explains it, in More Nevoch. Par. I. Cap. 23.) will be known every where; for it could not be concealed, being a publick Affront to his Majeſty.

So that they ſhall deſpiſe their Huſbands in their Eyes, when it ſhall be reported, the King Ahaſuerus commanded Vaſhti the Queen to be brought in before him, but ſhe came not.] His Opinion was, that then they would take upon them to diſobey their Huſbands, and ſlight their Commands, when they heard what Vaſhti had done, and was not puniſhed for it.

Ver. 18. Likèwiſe ſhall the Ladies of Perſia and Media ſay this Day unto all the Kings Princes, which have heard of the Deed of the Queen.] He repeats it again, that it would have this Effect immediately, eſpecially on the great Women, who from this Time forward would take Example by the Queen, and ſay to their Lords, Are you more honourable than Ahaſuerus the King, whoſe Wife would not come when ſhe was ſent for? So the latter Targum.

Thus ſhall there ariſe too much Contempt and Wrath.] Contempt in the Wives, and Wrath in their Huſbands; which would make great Brawlings and Contentions in all Families.

Ver. 19. If it pleaſe the King, let there go a Royal Commandment from him, and let it be written among the Laws of the Perſians and the Medes,] He would not have a mere Order given, but a Law made, which, as it follows, ſhould ſtand inviolable. The ſame Targum ſaith, that Memucan had married a Wife, who being richer than himſelf, was very proud, and would not ſpeak to him but in her own Language; and now he took this Opportunity to be revenged of her, and make her do whatever he pleaſed.

That it be not altered,] This was cunningly done, ſaith the ſame Targum; for if ſhe had recovered the King's Favour, when his Anger was over, this Counſel might have coſt him his Head: But what made Laws unalterable among them, is uncertain. The Targum ſaith, becauſe the King confirmed it by an Oath, and then it became immutable. Or, it was ſealed, not only by the King, but by all the Princes, as one would gueſs from Dan. vi. 8, 12, 15.

That Vaſhti come no more before King Ahaſuerus, and let the King give her Royal Eſtate unto another that is better than ſhe.] This was a very rigorous Decree. But Druſius obſerves, that the Perſians were inclined to be ſevere to their Wives.

Ver. 20. And when the Kings Decree which he ſhall make, ſhall be publiſhed throughout all his Empire (for it is great) all the Wives ſhall give to their Huſbands Honour, both to Great and Small.] For none would dare to diſobey, when they heard that the Greatneſs of the Queen could not preſerve her from ſuch an heavy Puniſhment.

Ver. 21. And the Saying pleaſed the King and the Princes; and the King did according to the Word of Memucan:] With whom all the other ſix Judges concurred in their Opinion.

Ver. 22. For he ſent Letters into all the Kings Provinces, into every Province according to the Writing thereof, and to every People after their Language,] The Meaning ſeems to be, that this Decree was publiſhed in every Province, after the Manner that ſuch Things uſed to be proclaimed, and in their own Tongue, that every one, Women as well as Men, might underſtand it.

That every Man ſhould bear Rule in his own Houſe, and that it ſhould be publiſhed according to the Language of every People.] The Decree runs thus in the Hebrew, That every Man ſhould bear Rule in his own Houſe, and ſpeak in the Language of his People. It ſeems the Perſians had yielded ſo much to their Wives, that when they had married a Stranger, they ſuffered her to bring her own Language into the Family. But this Decree altered that Cuſtom, and allowed no other Language to be ſpoken in the Family but that of the Man, and of the People among whom he lived. See de Dieu. And thus the former Targum, Every Man ſhall rule in his own Houſe, and compel his Wife to ſpeak in the Language of her Huſband, and in the Language of his People: Which indeed was a Token of Dominion; all Conquerors endeavouring to bring in their own Language into the Country which they have conquered. The latter Targum hath only theſe Words, that, Every Man ſhall be honoured in his own Houſe, and ſpeak according to the Language of his People; that is, give his Commands in his own Language, which every one was bound to learn.

CHAP. II.

Ver. 1. After theſe Things, when the Wrath of King Ahaſuerus was appeaſed, he remembred Vaſhti, and what ſhe had done, and what was decreed againſt her.] When his Anger was abated, and the Wine gone out of his Head, his ancient Love began to revive to Vaſhti, whoſe Beauty was exceeding charming; but then he remembred withal her undutiful Behaviour, and the Decree he had paſſed againſt her, which was irrevocable, ſo that he was in a great Strait. Yet the latter Targum ſaith he called for the ſeven Princes, who had given him the forenamed Counſel, and ſaid unto them; I am no longer angry at Vaſhti, but at you, who, from what I ſaid in my Drink, took Occaſion to deſtroy her; and thereupon commanded them all to be ſlain: For which there is no Ground; but by what follows it appears to be a Fable.

Ver. 2. Then ſaid the Kings Servants, that miniſtred unto him, Let there be fair young Virgins ſought for the King.] The ſame Servants, in all Likelihood, mentioned, ver. 14. of the foregoing Chapter, who continually attended him. And when they ſaw him afflicted, contrived by a new Love to blot out the Remembrance of the old.

Ver. 3. And let the King appoint Officers in all the Provinces of his Kingdom, that they may gather together all the fair young Virgins unto Shuſhan the Palace,] The better to divert him, they propound that a great Number of the moſt beautiful Virgins that could be found, ſhould be brought from all Parts to Shuſhan, that out of them he might take his Choice, which of them he would make his Queen.

To the Houſe of the Women,] Or, rather of the Virgins; for the Houſe of thoſe who were Women or Wives, was different from this, and under another Governor, ver. 14.

Unto the Cuſtody of Hege the Kings Chamberlain, Keeper of the Women,] Of the Virgins, as Shaaſhgaz was of the Women or Concubines, ver. 14.

And let their Things for Purification be given them:] In this Houſe, ſaith the former Targum, there was a Place for Bathing, and they were furniſhed with Ointments and Perfumes, and all other Things neceſſary either for Ornament or Cleanlineſs; for the Hebrew Word ſignifies both.

Ver. 4. And let the Maiden which pleaſeth the King, be Queen in Stead of Vaſhti. And the the Thing pleaſed the King, and he did ſo.] He approved of the Advice, and gave Order about it.

Ver. 5. Now in Shuſhan the Palace, there was a certain Jew, whoſe Name was Mordecai,] Who is thought by ſome to have come to Jeruſalem with Zerubbabel, (becauſe one of that Name is mentioned in his Company,) but returned back again to Babylon, being one of the King's Servants; for he was one of his Guard, or Keeper of the Door, or, as we tranſlate it, he ſat in the King's Gate, ver. 19, 21. But this was another Mordecai, as appears from the Time wherein he lived, in the latter End of the Perſian Empire.

The Son of Jair, the Son of Shimei, the Son of Kiſh, a Benjamite:] The latter Targum here gives his Pedigree down from Benjamin, the Son of Jacob; but mixed with ſuch Fables, that no Credit can be given to it.

Ver. 6. Who had been carried away from Jeruſalem, with the Captivity which had been carried away with Jeconiah King of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the King of Babylon had carried away.] Mordecai was not then carried away, but Kiſh, who is mentioned juſt before, from whom Mordecai was deſcended. See our Rainoldus, Cenſ. Lib. Apocryph. Prælect. cxlvi. And Bonfrerius alſo hath well obſerved (in his Appendix to his Præloquium to his Commentaries on the Scripture, Cap. 7.) if he himſelf was then brought from Jeruſalem, he muſt be at leaſt an hundred and ten Years old (ſuppoſing this Hiſtory to have fallen out in the Time of Darius Hyſtaſpis) when he came into the Place of Haman; for from the Captivity of Jeconiah, till their Deliverance from Captivity, was eighty one Years; and from thence to the Reign of Darius Hyſtaſpis, was almoſt twenty Years, as Euſebius ſaith; and Haman was hanged in the twelfth Year of this King; ſo here are an hundred and ten Years: But it is not credible, that a Man of ſuch a great Age ſhould be advanced to ſuch Authority as he had; and more incredible that Eſther, who was his Couſin German, ſhould be beloved of Ahaſuerus when ſhe was an old Maid, as ſhe muſt have been, if Mordecai was of theſe Years.

Ver. 7. And he brought up Hadaſſah, (that is Eſther) his Uncles Daughter,] Her Jewiſh Name was Hadaſſah, ſignifying in Chaldee, a Myrtle, as the former Targum ſaith; but her Perſian Name was Eſther, which he fancies was from the Greek Word Ἀστὴρ, a Star. But the other Targum derives it from Satar, which ſignifies hidden, becauſe ſhe was hidden in Mordecai's Houſe a long Time, and no Man ſaw her but he; or rather, becauſe her Nation was concealed, and not known. Primate Uſher thinks, that as Vaſhti was Atoſſa, ſo Eſther was ſhe whom the Heathens called Artyſtona; who, as Herodotus ſaith, was the Wife Darius loved above all other, and had her Statue made of pure Gold, Lib. iii. Cap. 88. and Lib. vii. Cap. 69. He ſaith, indeed, that ſhe alſo was another Daughter of Cyrus, and Siſter to Atoſſa; but he was either ignorant (as that great Man thinks) of the Perſian Genealogies, or out of Envy concealed their Original: It is more likely he gives a true Account of her Deſcent, as he doth of other Things, and ſhe was not Eſther.

For ſhe had neither Father nor Mother,] Her Father died, ſaith the former Targum, when her Mother was big with Child of her, and her Mother died as ſoon as ſhe was brought to Bed.

And the Maid was fair and beautiful, whom Mordecai (when her Father and Mother were dead) took for his own Daughter.] The Vulgar tranſlates it, adopted her for his Daughter: Which doth not ſignify ſuch an Adoption as among the Romans, (as Mr. Selden obſerves) but only paternal Love and Care to bring up a Child who had loſt her Parents; for the Hebrew Doctors are ſo far from acknowledging any Adoption, that they ſay he took her to make her his Wife. So Jarchi, by Bat [Daughter,] underſtands Beth an Houſe; which the LXX follow, he educated her εἰς γυναῖκα, to be his Wife, Lib. de Succeſſ. Cap. 4. p. 18.

Ver. 8. So it came to paſs, when the Kings Commandment, and his Decree was heard, and when many Maidens were gathered together unto Shuſhan the Palace, to the Cuſtody of Hegai, that Eſther was brought alſo unto the Kings Houſe, to the Cuſtody of Hegai, Keeper of the Women.] The Words which we tranſlate was brought, may be tranſlated was taken, and that by Force, as the Word ſometimes ſignifies, and as the former Targum here explains it, ſhe was brought by Violence. The latter Targum tells the Manner of it at large, That Mordecai hearing of this Order, hid his Couſin in a private Place where the Officers could not find her. But when the Virgins were gathered together, and Eſther was miſſing, whom all the Neighbours knew to be a very great Beauty, they procured an Order from the King to Mordecai, that upon Pain of Death he ſhould produce her; which he did. But perhaps I take too much Notice of theſe Jewiſh Fables.

Ver. 9. And the Maiden pleaſed him, and ſhe obtained Kindneſs of him,] That is, Hegai, who was much taken with her Countenance, and her Mien, and her ſweet Diſpoſition, (it is likely) and all other Things which he thought would make her acceptable to the King.

And he ſpeedily gave her her Things for Purification,] That ſhe might be fit before the uſual Time to go in unto the King, that is, in a Year's Time, as ſome underſtand it, v. 12, 16.

With ſuch Things as belong to her,] For her Clothes and Diet, which the former Targum makes to be very ſumptuous.

And ſeven Maidens,] One for every Day of the Week, ſaith the ſame Targum, whoſe Names he gives us, and the Days of the Week on which they waited.

Which were meet to be given her, out of the Kings Houſe,] Perſons of Quality, fit to attend her.

And he preferred her and her Maids unto the beſt Place of the Houſe of the Women.] And did her ſo much Honour, that he aſſigned her and her Maids the beſt Apartment in the Houſe of the Virgins.

Ver. 10. Eſther had not ſhewed her People nor her Kindred, for Mordecai had charged her that ſhe ſhould not ſhew it.] Leſt ſhe ſhould be contemned, and looked upon as no better than a Slave.

Ver. 11. And Mordecai walked every Day before the Court of the Womens Houſe, to know how Eſther did, and what ſhould become of her.] He might walk there without being ſuſpected, becauſe he belonged to the Court, and was a Man of Condition; for thoſe that were carried away in Jeconiah's Captivity (as his Anceſtors were,) were of the better Sort, 2 Kings xxiv. 14, &c. Dan. i. 4. And Eſther might find Means by ſome of thoſe that attended her, to let him know the State of her Health, and of her Affairs.

Ver. 12. Now when every Maid's Turn was come, to go in to King Ahaſuerus, after that ſhe had been twelve Months,] They were kept cloſe ſo long, that the King might be ſure he ſhould not be impoſed upon by a Child begotten by another Man. And beſides, it was ſuitable to the State of the King to have them wait a great while, before they were brought into his Company. And another Reaſon here follows. Herodotus explains the firſt Words, Lib. III. Cap. 69. where he ſaith, the Perſian Women go in to their Huſbands ἐν περιτροπῇ, in a Circle, by Turns.

For ſo were the Days of their Purification accompliſh'd, to wit, ſix Months with Oil of Myrrh, and ſix Months with ſweet Odours,] It is obſerved by Pliny, Lib. XIII. Cap. 1. that Ointments were firſt invented by the Perſians: Which were very neceſſary in ſo hot a Country, where Men and Women are apt to ſweat much, and ſo ſmell rankly, without great Care to keep themſelves clean and ſweet. For which Purpoſe the Oil of Myrrh was much uſed, being very fragrant, and apt alſo to make the Skin ſoft and ſmooth, and to cleanſe it from Scurf. The ſweet Odour ſerved to the ſame Uſe, to take away all ill Scents, and, as ſome think, to make the Body more vigorous.

There are many Authors (as Fortunatus Scacchus obſerves) who take the Word Mor to ſignify not Myrrh, but that fragant Herb which we call Marum, or, as ſome think, Marjoram, from which excellent Oils were drawn, Lib. I. Myrothecium, Cap. 50. But he takes it, as we do, for Myrrh; from whence not only a noble Oil was drawn, but being beat to a Powder, ſuch a Fumigation was made with it, as was offered unto their Gods. Whence Athenæus blames Alexander's Arrogance, for ſuffering Σμύρνα, καὶ τὰ ἄλλα θυμιάματα, Myrrh and other ſweet Odours to be offered to him, Lib. XII. Cap. 8.

Six Months] This was a long Time, which was ſet (firſt with that Oil, and as many more with ſweet Odours) for their Purification: Or rather for their Abſterſion or Cleanſing, as the ſame Scacchus obſerves: For there were no ſuch Purifications here uſed, as were among the Jews; but it is a known Thing, that as Women in all Countries were wont to ſpend a great deal of Time in their dreſſing, and trimming up of themſelves, that they might appear well abroad; ſo much more in this Country, and when they were to go to the Bed of a great King. A Year indeed was a long Time; but Athenæus ſaith, that among the Sybarites (who were a delicate luxurious People) there was a Sanction, That the Women, when they were called to the publick Sacrifices at great Feſtivals, πρὸ ἐνιαυτὸν τὴν παρασκευὴν ποιεῖσθαι, were to make Preparation for it a Year before.

And with other Things for the Purifying of the Women.] Whatſoever was proper for this Purpoſe, was uſed in their Preparations for the King's Bed.

Ver. 13. Then thus came every Maiden unto the King; whatſoever ſhe deſired was given her, to go with her out of the Houſe of the Women, unto the King's Houſe.] Whatſoever Ornaments or Attendants ſhe deſired.

Ver. 14. In the Evening ſhe went, and on the Morrow ſhe returned into the ſecond Houſe of the Women, to the Cuſtody of Shaaſhgaz, the King's Chamberlain, which kept the Concubines:] She returned no more into the former Houſe, having loſt her Virginity; but was treated in another Houſe, as one of the King's Wives: For ſo Concubines were, of a ſecondary Sort, as I have often noted.

She came in unto the King no more, except the King delighted in her, and that ſhe were called by Name.] For every one's Name was regiſter'd, as the Targum ſaith, and the Night, I ſuppoſe, when ſhe went in unto the King.

Ver. 15. Now when the Turn of Eſther, the Daughter of Abihail, the Uncle of Mordecai (who had taken her for his Daughter) was come to go in unto the King, ſhe required nothing,] But was contented with her own natural Beauty, and deſired nothing of Art to recommend her.

But what Hegai the King's Chamberlain, the Keeper of the Women appointed:] Yet ſhe did not refuſe what he, who had been ſo kind to her, ordered for her.

And Eſther obtained Favour in the Sight of all them that looked upon her.] All that beheld her, as ſhe paſſed from the Houſe of the Women to the King's Houſe, admired her Beauty, which needed no Ornament; for the greateſt Ornaments of Virgins are Modeſty, (as Pellicanus ſpeaks,) Silence, well-diſciplined Eyes, a ſerene Countenance without Levity, an Horror of all Wantonneſs; which meeting all in her, made her acceptable to every one that ſaw her.

Ver. 16. So Eſther was taken unto King Ahaſuerus, into his Houſe Royal,] She was not ſent back in the Morning unto the ſecond Houſe of the Women, as the reſt were; but the King kept her in his own Houſe, intending to make her more than a Concubine.

In the tenth Month (which is the Month Tebeth) in the ſeventh Year of his Reign.] He made the great Feaſt we read of in the foregoing Chapter, in the third Year of his Reign, in the End of which Vaſhti was ſent away. How it came to paſs that it was ſo long before Eſther was advanced to ſucceed her, ſeems difficult to reſolve: But we are to conſider, that a great deal of Time was ſpent in gathering the Virgins together, and that ſhe was a Year in preparing herſelf for Admiſſion to the King; and ſeveral, it is likely, went in before her, who had alſo their Time of Preparation; and took ſome Time, it is likely, to try how he liked her Wit, Humour, and Converſation.

Ver. 17. And the King loved Eſther above all the Women, and ſhe obtained Grace and Favour in his Sight more than all the Virgins; ſo that he ſet the Royal Crown upon her Head, and made her Queen in the ſtead of Vaſhti.] She being at this Time, as Jacobus Capellus computes, twenty Years old, ad A. M. 3645. But ſome make a Queſtion whether ſhe did not commit a great Sin to come at this Dignity, not conſidering the Cuſtom of thoſe Times, and Countries. For thoſe Perſons whom the King took into his Bed after the Manner before mentioned, were not Harlots, but became his Wives of a lower Sort; for whom he provided ever after, and they were no longer chargeable to their Parents or Friends; nor might any other Man marry them. Such an one Eſther would have been, if he had not liked her ſo well as to do more for her. Which no doubt was ordered by a ſpecial Providence of God, who thus rewarded her Virtue, and alſo preſerved the whole Nation of the Jews from periſhing.

Ver. 18. Then the King made a great Feaſt unto all his Princes and his Servants, even Eſther's Feaſt,] So it was called, becauſe it was made in Honour of her, and, if we may believe Joſephus, laſted a whole Month.

And he made a Releaſe to the Provinces,] At this Feaſt he gave the People ſome Eaſe in their Impoſts, and forgave them ſome of the Duties they were bound to pay him. Some have affirmed, that this is reported by Herodotus to have been a Cuſtom of the Perſian Kings at their Marriages. But I can find no more than this in him, that ὁ κατισάμενος Βασιλεὺς, &c. when he was made King, he remitted the Tribute that was due to him from all the Cities, Lib. VI. Cap. 59.

And gave Gifts according to the State of the King.] He made great Preſents to the Queen, as the Manner of the Perſian Kings was; who gave to their Queen at their Marriage ſuch a City to buy them Cloaths, ſuch an one for their Hair, another for their Necklaces, and other Ornaments, and ſo for the reſt of their Expences. Here the latter Targum tells an idle Tale, how the King deſired Eſther to tell him what Country ſhe was of, and who were her Anceſtors from whom ſhe deſcended. To which ſhe anſwered, that her Parents dying when ſhe was an Infant, ſhe did not know who were her Forefathers: Which the King hearing, he releaſed all Men of their Taxes, and gave them Gifts, ſaying, I will be kind to all People of all Nations, becauſe I will be ſure to be kind to the People of Eſther, who are among ſome of them.

Ver. 19. And when the Virgins were gathered together the ſecond Time, when Mordecai ſat in the King's Gate.] This doth not ſignify that there was another Inquiſition for Virgins after Eſther was married, but to join this Hiſtory with what follows, he repeats what was ſaid before, Ver 2. that at the Time when this ſecond Collection of Virgins was made for the Choice of a new Wife, as there had been once before when Vaſhti was married, then Mordecai was in Attendance at the Gate of the Palace; and ſo proceeds to ſhew how he diſcovered a Plot againſt the Life of the King.

Ver. 20. Eſther had not yet ſhewed her Kindred, nor her People, as Mordecai had charged her:] Which he would not have her to diſcover, leſt ſhe ſhould be hated for her Nation's ſake, or her Nation be envied for her good Fortune.

For Eſther did the Commandment of Mordecai, like as when ſhe was brought up with him.] A rare Example of Virtue, that ſhe ſhould be ſo obſervant of him when ſhe was a Queen; for moſt forget what they were, when they are unexpectedly grown very great.

Ver. 21. In thoſe Days (while Mordecai ſat in the King's Gate) two of the King's Chamberlains, Bigthan and Tereſh, of thoſe which kept the Door, were wroth, and ſought to lay Hand on the King Ahaſuerus.] Theſe were two great Men, who perhaps kept the Door of the King's Bed-Chamber, and were incenſed at the Divorce of Vaſhti, (whoſe Creatures they were,) or at the Advancement of Eſther, knowing her to be related to Mordecai, who they were afraid would be raiſed to greater Power than themſelves. Thus the former Targum writes, Doth not the Queen by her Power with the King intend to turn us out of our Places, and put in Mordecai? Therefore they reſolved to poiſon him, as both that and the latter Targum underſtand it.

Ver. 22. And the Thing was known to Mordecai, who told it unto Eſther the Queen, and Eſther certified the King thereof in Mordecai's Name.] One of their Servants, whoſe Name (as Joſephus ſaith) was Barnabazus, diſcovered the Conſpiracy to Mordecai, who found Means to inform Eſther of it, and ſhe acquainted the King with it from Mordecai.

Ver 23. And when Inquiſition was made of the Matter, it was found out;] His Information which he gave to the King appeared to be true, upon a due Enquiry into the Matter.

Therefore they were both hanged on a Tree: and it was written in the Book of the Chronicles before the King.] In the Day-Book, wherein all memorable Things were recorded, to be read (as the Targum obſerves) before the King, when he required. Here we may ſee the Infelicity and the Danger of the moſt potent Perſons: The Life of a great King depending upon the Fidelity of one ſingle Perſon, whoſe Service was neglected by the Court, though a Memorial was made of it. Thus all Maſters of Families are obnoxious to the Perfidiouſneſs of their Servants that wait upon them. They are the Words of Conradus Pellicanus.

CHAP. III.

Ver. 1. AFTER theſe Things] About five Years after, as appears from Ver. 7.

Did King Ahaſuerus promote Haman the Son of Hammedatha the Agagite,] He was deſcended from the Royal Race of the Amalekite Kings, and grown into great Favour in this Court, as Daniel and his Companions, who were of noble Blood alſo, Dan. i. 3. The latter Targum hath given us the Pedigree of Haman, up to Eliphaz the eldeſt Son of Eſau.

And advanced him, and ſet his Seat above all the Princes that were with him.] Either of his own, or other Nations. For it is likely the Perſian Kings, as the Chaldee before them, had many Kings and Princes, whom they had conquered, with them, who had the Honour ſometimes, to ſit on Royal Seats before them, 2 Kings xxv. 28.

Ver. 2. And all the King's Servants that were in the King's Gate, bowed and reverenced Haman; for the King had ſo commanded concerning him:] To bow the Knee or the Body to all great Perſons, was a common Reſpect; for which there needed not a particular Command to require this of every Body with reſpect to Haman, ſince no doubt they did it to all Princes, and would much more do it to him, who took Place of them all, and was the Prince's Favourite. There was therefore ſome kind of divine Honour intended in this; ſuch as was paid to the Perſian Kings themſelves, to whom the Greeks would not pay this ſort of Reſpect, becauſe it was accounted divine. And the Word Reverence imports ſomething beyond Bowing, which was falling flat upon their Faces to the Ground. Such Proſtrations the Kings of Perſia expected: And Ahaſuerus, to expreſs his great Affection to Haman, would have it paid to him. The former Targum I believe thought of this, when he ſaith, They in the King's Gate bowed down to his Image which he had ſet up, and worſhipped Haman.

But Mordecai bowed not, nor did him Reverence.] Becauſe he was of a Nation, devoted by God to Deſtruction, with whom therefore the Jews would have no Friendſhip, nor ſhew them any Kindneſs, but remember the Injuries they had done them, Deut. xxv. 18, 19. But this doth not ſeem a Reaſon weighty enough, why he ſhould not pay him civil Reſpect, which was given to all Men in great Place, eſpecially ſince by denying it he might expoſe his whole Nation to Danger. This is an Argument that there was ſomething more intended: And accordingly the Author of the Apocryphal Additions to this Book underſtood it, who repreſents Mordecai praying after this Manner: Thou knoweſt, O LORD, that it is not Contumacy, nor Pride, nor Deſire of Vainglory, that makes me not worſhip Haman; for I would willingly kiſs his Feet, for the Safety of Iſrael: But I do it, that I may not prefer the Glory of a Man to the Glory of God; nor adore any one but thee my LORD alone.

Ver. 3. Then the King's Servants which were in the King's Gate ſaid unto Mordecai, Why tranſgreſſeſt thou the King's Commandment?] I ſuppoſe it ſeemed ſtrange to them, that one ſingle Perſon ſhould refuſe to do what every Body did, eſpecially ſince thereby he diſobeyed the King: Therefore they expoſtulated with him, to make him ſenſible of his Duty and his Danger.

Ver. 4. Now it came to paſs, when they ſpake daily unto him, and he hearkened not unto them,] Seemed not to regard what they ſaid, and perhaps gave them no Anſwer.

That they told Haman, to ſee whether Mordecai his Matters would ſtand;] Whether he would perſiſt in his Stiffneſs, and what would be the Iſſue of it.

For he had told them he was a Jew.] Being much preſſed by them, he confeſſes the Reaſon why he could not do as they did. For that they might not think it was Pride or Sullenneſs that made him not comply with the King's Order, he acquaints them plainly of what Religion and what Nation he was; who might not ſhew any Reſpect to an Amalekite, (as ſome take it,) or worſhip any but God alone, as I take the Meaning to be. And thus the latter Targum here explains it: When they asked him why he did not obey the King he anſwered, What is the Son of Man, that he ſhould exalt himſelf? What is he that is born of a Woman, who comes lamenting into the World, and is of few Days, and then returns to his Earth, that I ſhould worſhip him? No, I worſhip God, the living God, who endures for ever, &c. And ſo he goes on, deſcribing very well the glorious Majeſty of God, the LORD of Heaven and Earth, and thus concludes, He is to be praiſed by us, and before him we ought to bow down our ſelves.

Ver. 5. And when Haman ſaw that Mordecai bowed not, nor did him Reverence, then was Haman full of Wrath.] It is likely he did not mind what every one did that was in the King's Gate, (where there was a great Crowd,) till he was told of Mordecai's Neglect; and then he marked him when he next paſſed by, and was highly enraged at him.

Ver. 6. And he thought ſcorn to lay Hands on Mordecai alone; for they had ſhewed him the People of Mordecai: Wherefore Haman ſought to deſtroy all the Jews that were throughout the whole Kingdom of King Ahaſuerus, even the People of Mordecai.] He diſdained to take ſo poor a Revenge, as to rid himſelf of one Man alone, but reſolved to make the whole Nation ſuffer, who he knew were Enemies to that Nation from whence he ſprung.

Ver. 7. In the firſt Month (that is, the Month Niſan) in the twelfth Year of King Ahaſuerus, they caſt Pur, that is, the Lot, before Haman, from Day to Day, and from Month to Month, to the twelfth Month, that is the Month Adar.] It was the Manner of the Eaſtern Country, by caſting Lots into an Urn, to enquire what Days would be fortunate, and what not, to undertake any Buſineſs in: According to which Superſtition Haman endeavoured to find what Time in the Year was moſt favourable to the Jews, and what moſt unlucky. And firſt he enquired what Month was moſt unfortunate, and found the Month Adar, which was the laſt Month in the Year, anſwerable to our February. For, as Guil. Schickard obſerves, there was no Feſtival Solemnity in this Month, nor was it ſanctified by any peculiar Rites. And then he enquired the Day, and found the thirteenth Day was not auſpicious to them, Ver. 13. Some think there were as many Lots, as there were Days in the Year, and for every Day he drew a Lot; but found none to his Mind, till he came to the laſt Month of all, and to the Middle Middle of it. See Hottinger's Smegma Orientale, p. 75. Now this whole Buſineſs was governed by a wonderful Providence of God; by whom theſe Lots were directed, and not by the Perſian Gods, to fall in the laſt Month of the Year; whereby almoſt a whole Year intervened between the Deſign and its Execution, and gave Time for Mordecai to acquaint Eſther with it, and for her to intercede with the King, for the revoking or ſuſpending his Decree, and diſappointing the Conſpiracy.

Ver. 8. And Haman ſaid unto King Ahaſuerus,] Or rather, had ſaid: For it is not likely he would caſt his Lots till he knew his Mind, for Fear he ſhould loſe his Labour.

There is a certain People ſcattered abroad, and diſperſed among the People in all the Provinces of thy Kingdom,] For a great Number of them, being well ſettled in the Land of their Captivity, would not return to Judea when Cyrus gave them Leave; whom Haman repreſents as a deſpicable People, or Vagrants and Stragglers (as the latter Targum underſtands it) diſperſed here and there up and down in his Dominions.

And their Laws are diverſe from all People, neither keep they the King's Laws;] A proud high-ſpirited People, (as the ſame Targum repreſents the Senſe,) who live by Laws of their own, and will obſerve none of the King's; for they will neither eat of our Meat, nor drink of our Wine, nor keep our Feſtivals; but have ſeveral of their own, on which they will not work, nor do the King's Buſineſs. All which he ſets forth at large in that Paraphraſe.

Therefore it is not for the King's Profit to ſuffer them.] The former Targum thus gloſſes upon theſe Words, The King gets nothing by them, while they live in this Kingdom; but what will he not get if he deſtroys them all? The other Targum makes him repreſent them as griping Uſurers; which was to the Damage of the King's People.

Ver. 9. If it pleaſe the King, let it be written that they may be deſtroyed:] He deſires not only a verbal Command, but an Order in Writing, for their utter Extirpation as a peſtilent People.

And I will pay ten thouſand Talents of Silver,] He promiſes to compenſate the Loſs of the Tribute which they paid yearly by a vaſt Sum of Money, which he would pay immediately. But he intended not to pay one Farthing of it himſelf, it being eaſy to raiſe it out of the Spoil of the Jews Goods, Ver. 13.

To the Hands of thoſe that have the Charge of the Buſineſs,] Not of thoſe who had the Charge to kill them, but of thoſe that received the King's Money; as appears by the next Words, to bring it into the King's Treaſuries. And ſo the ſame Targum, I will pay it into the Hands of thoſe who coin the King's Money, that is, into the Mint, as we now ſpeak.

Ver. 10. And the King took his Ring from his Hand, and gave it unto Haman the Son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the Jews Enemy.] Without any Examination into the Condition of the People, he conſented to their Deſtruction. So loth are Men that love their Pleaſure, to take any Pains to diſtinguiſh between Truth and Falſhood.

Ver. 11. And the King ſaid unto Haman, The Silver is given unto thee, the People alſo, to do with them as it ſeemeth good to thee.] He gave him Power to draw up what Decree he pleaſed, and ſeal it with his own Ring; but as for the Money, he loved him ſo much, he would have none of it.

Ver. 12. Then were the King's Scribes called,] As there were ſacred Scribes among the Jews, who were Men learned in the Law, ſo there were political both among them and other Nations, as L'Empereur obſerves upon Bertram De Repub. Jud. p. 381. And there were two ſorts of them; one of which was employed in writing publick Letters or Contracts, and other Acts that were to be ſigned by Authority, the more honourable and higheſt of which were ſuch as are called here the King's Scribes, whom the Chaldee calls the King's Notaries, and we now call Secretaries of State.

On the thirteenth Day of the firſt Month,] This was not wiſely projected, to let his Deſign be known ſo long before it was to take Effect; for the King's Mind might alter, or the Jews might find ſome Way to deliver themſelves, or might ſteal out of the Kingdom.

And there was written according to all that Haman had commanded unto the King's Lieutenants, and to the Governors that were over every Province, and to the Rulers of every People of every Province, according to the Writing thereof, and to every People after their Language; in the Name of King Ahaſuerus was it written, and ſealed with the King's Ring.] He himſelf indited the Decree by the Royal Authority, and made it, no doubt, as ſtrict as it was poſſible; and perhaps commanded it to be executed under great Penalties, by all Manner of Officers, who were required to take care to ſee it done. And that none might be ignorant, it was written in the Language of every People, and in the Character they could read.

Ver. 13. And the Letters were ſent by Poſts into all the King's Provinces,] Concerning theſe Poſts which were in Uſe among the Perſians, ſee Herodotus, Lib. VIII. Cap. 98. where deſcribing the Diſpatches which were ſent into Perſia to carry the News of Xerxes's Overthrow, he ſaith, Τετέων δὲ τῶν Ἀγγέλων ὠκύτερον ἐόν Θᾶσσον, ὅτι παρεγίνεται Θνητὸν ἔον, &c. There is nothing upon Earth ſwifter than theſe Meſſengers, whom neither Snow, nor Rain, nor Heat, nor Night can hinder from finiſhing their Courſe ſpeedily: The Manner of which he there ſets down, which the Perſians, he ſaith, call Ἀγγαρήιον.

To deſtroy, to kill, and to cauſe to periſh all Jews, both young and old, little Children and Women, in one Day, even upon the thirteenth Day of the twelfth Month, and to take the Spoil of them for a Prey.] This was a ſtrong Motive to ſuch a bloody Execution, that they who killed them ſhould enrich themſelves by their Spoil.

Ver.

Ver. 14. The Copy of the Writing for a Commandment to be given in every Province, was publiſhed unto all People, that they ſhould be ready againſt that Day.] Copies of this original Decree of the King were ſent into every Province, and there ordered to be publiſhed, requiring them to be ready againſt that Day.

Ver. 15. The Poſts went out, being haſtened by the King's Commandment, and the Decree was given in Shuſhan the Palace:] He procured a new Commandment from the King, requiring their ſpeedy Delivery of this Decree, that the People might not want Time to prepare for its Execution; and he alſo got it ſigned by the King's Council; for that ſeems to be meant by its being given in Shuſhan.

And the King and Haman ſat down to drink,] It is likely Haman made an Entertainment for the King, to thank him for his great Kindneſs to him in this Grant.

But the City Shuſhan was perplexed.] The Jews that lived there, who were very numerous, knew not what to do: And it is probable other People in the City were very fearful what would become of them; not knowing but that they might alſo ſuffer in ſuch a Maſſacre: And perhaps ſome of them were related to the Jews, or had made Friendſhip with them, and therefore were much concerned at this horrid Decree.

CHAP. IV.

Ver. 1. WHEN Mordecai perceived all that was done,] Which it is likely he heard by ſome Friend before it was publickly known, but did not expreſs his Grief till the Edict was hung up.

Mordecai rent his Cloaths,] Both before and behind, ſaith the latter Targum.

And put on Sackcloth with Aſhes,] As the Manner was, in great Sorrow.

And went out into the Midſt of the City, and cried with a loud and a bitter Cry:] Saying, as the ſame Targum expreſſes it, What an heavy Decree is this which the King and Haman have paſſed upon us? Not againſt a Part of us, but upon us all, to root us out of the Earth: Whereupon all the Jews flock'd about him, and he cauſed the Book of the Law to be brought to the Gate of Shuſhan, covered with Sackcloth; and therein he read thoſe Words of Moſes in Deut. iv. 30, 31. When thou art in Tribulation, and all theſe Things are come upon thee, in the latter Days, if thou turn to the LORD thy God, and ſhalt be obedient to his Voice: (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God,) he will not forſake thee, nor deſtroy thee, nor forget the Covenant of thy Fathers, which he ſware unto them. After which he exhorted them to Faſting, Humiliation, and Repentance, according to the Example of the Ninevites.

Ver. 2. And came even before the King's Gate,] That his Cry might come to the Ears of Eſther.

For none might enter into the King's Gate clothed with Sackcloth.] But he durſt not take his Place in the Gate, becauſe none that were in Mourning might come there. So careful they were, not in the leaſt to diſturb the King in his Pleaſures. By this it appears, as from many other Places, that in the Gate they made their Court, as we ſpeak, and diſpatched all publick Affairs, (as I have noted often before;) which was here practiſed more than in other Places, becauſe the Perſian Monarchs lived more retired than other Princes, few but thoſe who attended them, being admitted into their Palace.

Ver. 3. And in every Province whitherſoever the King's Commandment and his Decree came, there was great Mourning among the Jews, and Faſting, and Weeping, and Wailing, and many lay in Sackcloth and Aſhes.] All Day long they faſted, and wept, and lamented themſelves; and in the Night many lay, not in their Beds, but on the Ground in Sackcloth and Aſhes.

Ver. 4. So Eſther's Maids and her Chamberlains came and told it her:] As a Piece of News, or perhaps they underſtood there was ſome Relation between them.

Then was the Queen exceedingly grieved,] Imagining ſome Miſchief had befallen him, and not knowing what it was.

And ſhe ſent Raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his Sackcloth from him:] That he might come to Court, and take his Place in the Gate.

But he received it not.] This, no doubt, very much increaſed her Grief.

Ver. 5. Then called Eſther for Hatach, one of the King's Chamberlains, whom he had appointed to attend upon her,] In whom the King had a great Confidence, and whom ſhe could intruſt with ſuch a Meſſage.

And gave him a Commandment to Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.] What was the Cauſe of his Weeping and Wailing, and why he would not accept of the Garments which ſhe ſent him; as the latter Targum very well explains it.

Ver. 6. So Hatach went forth to Mordecai, unto the Street of the City, which was before the King's Gate.] Where, it is like, he ſtill continued lamenting their miſerable Condition.

Ver. 7. And Mordecai told him of all that had happened unto him,] How he had refuſed to worſhip Haman, (as the former Targum explains it,) and how this had incenſed him againſt the whole Nation.

And of the Sum of the Money that Haman had promiſed to pay to the King's Treaſuries for the Jews, to deſtroy them.] The ten thouſand Talents he had offered, to procure the King's Conſent to their Deſtruction.

Some of the Jews here add another marvellous Thing, which had happened to Mordecai the very Night before Hatach came to him, which he deſired Eſther might be acquainted withal: Whether it be true or falſe, I think fit here to remember it, (it ſeeming to be ſo piouſly deſigned,) as I had it near threeſcore Years ago from a great Man in the Jewiſh Learning, who quotes for it R. Moſes Almoſnino in a Book called Jede Moſeh, (the Hands of Moſes,) where he ſays, That Mordecai going home in great Heavineſs, reflecting on the Danger his whole Nation was in, met three Boys coming coming from School, whom he examined what they had learned that Day; one of them told him his Leſſon had been in Prov. iii. 25, 26. Be not afraid of ſudden Fear, nor of the Deſolation of the Wicked when it cometh: For the LORD ſhall be thy Confidence, &c. Then Mordecai cried out, I am confident this Deſolation ſhall not be ſo ſpeedy. Then the ſecond Child told him he had learned that Day Iſaiah viii. 10. Take Counſel together, it ſhall come to nought; ſpeak the Word, (or pronounce the Decree,) it ſhall not ſtand; for God is with us: O the wonderful Goodneſs of God, ſaid Mordecai, that thus out of the Mouth of Babes and Sucklings ordaineth Strength! And what have you learned, ſaid he to the third Child? who anſwered, Iſaiah xlvi. 4. Even to your old Age I am he, (that is, the God,) unto hoary Hairs I will carry you; I have made, and I will bear, even I will carry, and will deliver you: Now bleſſed be God (cried Mordecai) that hath not left us comfortleſs; his Hand ſhall be with us as in former Ages, &c. But another great Man in this Learning hath lately admoniſhed me this Rabbin is but of Yeſterday, and deſigned to elude the Prophecy of Pſalm viii. quoted in the Goſpel, and therefore unworthy to be mentioned in this Place.

Ver. 8. Alſo he gave him the Copy of the Writing of the Decree that was given at Shuſhan to deſtroy them, to ſhew it unto Eſther,] That ſhe might be fully ſatisfied what was intended.

And to charge her that ſhe ſhould go in unto the King, to make Supplication unto him, and to make Requeſt before him for her People.] He charged her, I ſuppoſe, in the Name of God, or as ſhe loved her Nation, to go and earneſtly to beſeech the King to be merciful to the Jews, as the Targum expounds it.

Ver. 9. And Hatach came, and told Eſther the Words of Mordecai.

Ver. 10. Again Eſther ſpake unto Hatach, and gave him Commandment unto Mordecai.

Ver. 11. All the King's Servants, and the People of the King's Provinces do know,] That is, no Body either in the Court or in the whole Kingdom was ignorant.

That whoſoever, whether Man or Woman, ſhall come unto the King into the inner Court, who is not called,] Here the King kept retired from all Company, but ſuch as he called for, or was pleaſed to admit.

There is one Law of his to put him to Death,] Let him be of ever ſuch Quality, there was no Exception; but one Law reached all that were ſo preſumptuous. This ſeems to have been an ancient Law in that Country, mentioned by Herodotus, Lib. I. and Athenæus, Lib. XII. But the former Targum will have it, that it was procured by Haman, that none might come into the King's Preſence unleſs he introduced them.

Except ſuch to whom the King ſhall hold out the golden Sceptre, that he may live:] Which, I ſuppoſe was ſo ſeldom done, that few would venture to ſtand in need of a Pardon. A Sceptre was the Enſign of the higheſt and moſt abſolute Authority; ſo that, as Wagenſeil obſerves, when Mordecai was advanced to the greateſt Dignity next to the King, having Royal Apparel, and a great Crown on his Head (viii. 15.) yet he had no Sceptre; for that was proper and peculiar to the King.

But I have not been called to come in unto the King theſe thirty Days.] Which might juſtly make her fear his Love was cooled to her, and then her Perſon and Petition might not be acceptable to him.

Ver. 12. And they told to Mordecai Eſther's Words.] There ſeems to have been more than one Perſon that went with this Meſſage, to confirm the Truth of what ſhe ſaid.

Ver. 13. Then Mordecai commanded to anſwer Eſther, Think not with thy ſelf that thou ſhalt eſcape in the King's Houſe, more than all the Jews.] He would not have her flatter herſelf with a vain Imagination, that becauſe ſhe was Queen ſhe ſhould be ſpared, for ſhe would find no more Privilege in the King's Houſe than the reſt of the Jews did abroad.

Ver. 14. For if thou altogether holdeſt thy Peace at this Time, then ſhall their Enlargement and Deliverance ariſe to the Jews from another Place,] He did not know whence, but he confided in God, that by ſome Means or other he would preſerve them from utter Deſtruction.

But thou and thy Father's Houſe ſhall be deſtroyed:] He would have her believe that God would cut off her and her Family for Self-love, and want of Zeal to preſerve her Nation.

And who knoweth, whether thou art come to the Kingdom for ſuch a Time as this?] Rather than refuſe to intercede for her People, he would have her think (though there was Danger in it) that God had raiſed her up to the Dignity in which ſhe was, on purpoſe that ſhe might be the Deliverer of her People, and therefore go courageouſly about it.

Ver. 15. Then Eſther bad them to return Mordecai this Anſwer.

Ver. 16. Go gather together all the Jews that are preſent in Shuſhan,] Not all into one publick Congregation; for that might have given Suſpicion of an intended Inſurrection, but in ſeveral private Aſſemblies.

And faſt ye for me, neither eat or drink three Days, Night or Day,] None, or very few could keep a Faſt for three Days and Nights, without taſting any Meat or Drink: The Meaning therefore is, that they ſhould make no ſet Meal in their Families, neither Dinner nor Supper, but only eat and drink ſo much at Night as would ſupport them in Prayer to God for a Bleſſing upon her Undertaking; or, as Joſephus underſtands it, they ſhould abſtain from all Delicacies, and be content with hard and coarſe Fare. But Druſius thinks this Faſt was only one whole Day and two Nights, according as it is ſaid of our Saviour, that he lay three Days and three Nights in the Grave; and then they might faſt ſo long without taking any Refreſhment; and in thoſe hot Countries, we read of Monks that faſted four or five Days.

I alſo and my Maidens will faſt likewiſe,] It is not likely her Maidens were Jews; yet notwithſtanding they might be diſpoſed to faſt with her; which was not unuſual with the Gentiles in Time of great Diſtreſs, as appears by the Story of the Nenevites, whoſe Faſt the Targum thinks Mordecai imitated, making the Cattle, Oxen, and Sheep to abſtain, as well as Men and Women.

And ſo will I go in unto the King, which is not according to the Law;] Being thus recommended to God, ſhe reſolved not ſo much to regard the Law, as the Preſervation of her People; for there are in ſome Caſes ſuch violent Circumſtances, that to obſerve the Law, as Grotius notes, would be to offend againſt the chiefeſt Law. Whither Puffendorf refers, what we read in Valerius Maximus, Lib. III. Cap. 7. n. 1. and Cap. 8. n. 6.

And if I periſh, I periſh.] This is not a Speech of Deſpondence, but of Courage and Reſolution; being as much as to ſay, I am content to periſh in ſo good a Cauſe; and if I periſh for it in this World, (as the Targum gloſſes,) I ſhall have my Portion in the World to come.

Ver. 17. So Mordecai went his Way, and did according to all that Eſther had commanded him.] Betook himſelf to Faſting and Prayer (unto which he called all the Jews) as long as Eſther required, omitting the Joys of the paſchal Feaſt, and turning it into a Faſt, if we may believe the former Targum: For that Paraphraſt thinks that Haman laying his Plot in the Month of Niſan, (ii. 7.) and Mordecai preſently applying himſelf to defeat it, theſe Things muſt fall out about the Paſſover, which was in this Month. But in Memory of this the Jews keep a Faſt on the thirteenth of Adar, which they call Eſther's Faſt.

CHAP. V.

Ver. 1. NOW it came to paſs on the third Day,] In the Concluſion of the Faſt, or, as the former Targum, on the third Day of the Paſſover.

That Eſther put on her royal Apparel, and ſtood in the inner Court of the King's Houſe, over againſt the King's Houſe:] But firſt, ſaith the latter Targum, ſhe made a ſolemn Prayer to God with many Tears, as ſoon as ſhe was dreſſed, ſaying, Thou art the great God, the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, the God of my Father Benjamin; As thou didſt deliver Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah out of the fiery Furnace, and Daniel from the Lion's Den, ſo deliver me now out of the Hand of the King, and give me Grace and Favour in his Eyes, &c. And ſo he goes on in a very long Prayer.

And the King ſat upon his Royal Throne in the Royal Houſe, over againſt the Gate of the Houſe.] So that he could ſee every one that came into the Court.

Ver. 2. And it was ſo, when the King ſaw Eſther the Queen ſtanding in the Court, that ſhe obtained Favour in his Sight:] He was much moved, ſaith the former Targum, to ſee Trouble in her Countenance, and her Eyes full of Tears; and ſo immediately comforted her in the Manner following.

And the King held out to Eſther the golden Scepter that was in his Hand:] In token of his Favour, and inviting her Approach. But the other Targum ſays, that the Officers about him, as ſoon as ſhe entred, ran to apprehend her, that ſhe might be put to Death. But the King ſtopp'd them, by his ſhewing ſhe was acceptable to him. So true is that of Solomon, The King's Heart is in the Hand of the LORD; as the Rivers of Water, he turneth it whitherſoever he will, Prov. xxi. 1.

So Eſther drew near, and touched the Top of the Scepter.] Kiſſed it, ſaith the Vulgar, or put her Hand under it, ſaith Grotius, in Token of her Subjection and Thankfulneſs for his Favour.

Ver. 3. Then ſaid the King unto her, What wilt thou, Queen Eſther? And what is thy Requeſt? It ſhall be even given thee to the Half of the Kingdom.] This is an uſual Form of Speech among Kings, when their Hearts are enlarged, and they overflow with Affection to others, or when they give them the freeſt Liberty to demand what they pleaſe, as Grotius explains it upon St. Matth. xiv. 7. It is a fooliſh Addition, which the latter Targum here makes, that he excepted one Thing, which was the Building the Houſe of the Sanctuary at Jeruſalem, which he would not grant, becauſe he promiſed Geſhem, Sanballat, and Tobiah, it ſhould not be built, leſt the Jews ſhould rebel.

Ver. 4. And Eſther anſwered, If it ſeem good unto the King, let the King and Haman come this Day unto the Banquet that I have prepared for him.] It was very prudent not to open her Mind preſently, but firſt to endear his Affection by Feaſting, Muſick, Dancing, and whatſoever might pleaſe him. And it was no ſmall Pleaſure, it is likely, that ſhe invited his Favourite to come to her Entertainment together with him. There was alſo a ſingular Providence of God in this Matter, which ſo diſpoſed her Mind, that the high Honour the King beſtowed on Mordecai the next Day might fall out between this and that, and make Way for her Petition.

Ver. 5. And the King ſaid, Cauſe Haman to make Haſte, that he may do as Eſther hath ſaid.] Get himſelf ready with all Speed.

So the King and Haman came to the Banquet that Eſther had prepared.

Ver. 6. And the King ſaid unto Eſther at the Banquet of Wine,] At the Concluſion of the Entertainment: For they did not drink Wine, but Water, at the Beginning of their Feaſts.

What is thy Petition? And it ſhall be granted unto thee: And what is thy Requeſt? Even to the Half of the Kingdom it ſhall be performed.] This ſhews it was not a ſudden Paſſion of Love that made him ſpeak ſo kindly to her before, but he had a ſettled Affection for her, which diſpoſed him to be very bountiful, and ſhewed he was much pleaſed with her Entertainment.

Ver. 7. Then anſwered Eſther, and ſaid, My Petition and my Requeſt is;

Ver. 8. If I have found Favour in the Sight of the King, and if it pleaſe the King to grant my Petition, and to perform my Requeſt, let the King and Haman come to the Banquet that I ſhall prepare for them, and I will do to morrow as the King hath ſaid.] That is, make her Requeſt to him: Which ſhe thought would be more ſeaſonable, when ſhe had won his Heart by freſh Expreſſions of her Deſire to pleaſe him, and obtained obtained alſo a new Promiſe from him, that he would deny her nothing: For there was need of a great Preparation, to diſpoſe him to do ſo great a Thing for her, as to revoke or ſuſpend his own Decree. The latter Targum, after his Faſhion, gives ſeveral frivolous Reaſons why ſhe invited Haman to the Banquet twice, but the laſt of them is tolerable. The Iſraelites were in great Expectation of the Iſſue of this Feaſting, and hoped to ſee Haman preſently cut off; but ſhe was reſolved to turn their Thoughts the right Way, that is, from her unto God, looking for Mercy from their heavenly Father.

Ver. 9. Then went Haman forth that Day joyful, and with a glad Heart:] To think he was in ſuch Favour with the Queen, as well as with the King.

But when Haman ſaw Mordecai in the King's Gate, that he ſtood not up, nor moved for him, he was full of Indignation againſt Mordecai.] The Targum ſtill repeats it, that he ſaw Mordecai would not riſe up before his Image.

Ver. 10. Nevertheleſs Haman refrained himſelf,] From taking any ſudden Revenge.

And when he came home, he ſent and called for his Friends, and Zereſh his Wife.] The Daughter of Totni (ſaith the latter Targum) one of the King of Perſia's Governors beyond the River.

Ver. 11. And Haman told them of the Glory of his Riches,] How ſplendidly he lived.

And the Multitude of his Children,] It was a Glory in this Country, as Druſius obſerves, to have Abundance of Children; but the Targum had no Shame, when he affirms he had two hundred and fourſcore, beſides thoſe ten that were Princes in the Provinces, and beſides Shimſtæus the King's Secretary.

And all the Things wherein the King had promoted him,] What Offices and Dignities he had conferred upon him.

And how he had advanced him above the Princes and Servants of the King.] So that he took Place of the greateſt Princes who were Natives of the Country; and of all the Officers in the Court.

Ver. 12. Haman ſaid moreover, Yea, Eſther the Queen did let no Man come in with the King unto the Banquet that ſhe had prepared but my ſelf; and to Morrow am I invited unto her alſo with the King.] He did not fail to relate the peculiar Honour the Queen had done him, which he could not but look upon as a Token that he was eſtabliſhed in the Favour of the Court.

Ver. 13. Yet all this availeth me nothing, ſo long as I ſee Mordecai the Jew ſitting at the King's Gate.] How ſmall a Matter will ſpoil all the Satisfaction of thoſe who are arrived at the Top of human Felicity! Immenſe Riches, Glory and Honour, gave not Haman ſo much Pleaſure, as he felt Pain from one Man's Diſreſpect unto him: And yet he might have given himſelf Eaſe before this, by ſpeaking one Word to the King to diſplace Mordecai, or put him to Death, if his Pride and Paſſion would have let him be contented, without the Deſtruction of a whole Nation.

Ver. 14. Then ſaid Zereſh his Wife, and all his Friends unto him, Let a Gallows be made of fifty Cubits high,] That Men might ſee him that was hanged on it afar off, and be ſtruck with the greater Terror by that Spectacle, of giving any Diſguſt to Haman.

And to Morrow ſpeak thou unto the King, that Mordecai may be hanged thereon:] They adviſed him not to wait till the general Slaughter of all the Jews, but to rid him preſently of Mordecai; for which he had now a fair Opportunity, being to attend on the King to Morrow unto the Banquet.

Then go thou in merrily with the King unto the Banquet.] When his Heart was eaſed of this Trouble; the Diſpatch of his Enemy, and the Banquet, giving him a double Pleaſure.

And the Thing pleaſed Haman, and he cauſed the Gallows to be made.] And ſet up before the Door of Mordecai's Houſe, ſaith the former Targum, againſt the plain Words of this Hiſtory, vii. 9. where it is ſaid, they ſtood in Haman's Houſe; from whence, it is poſſible, he intended to remove them to the Door of Mordecai: That Targum hath a great deal of frivolous Stuff about this Conſultation which Haman's Friends had, how to deſtroy Mordecai; ſome adviſing one Way, and ſome another, but none approved of till this was propounded. The Reaſon given for it is fooliſh; but at laſt he concludes piouſly, That the Jews were extreamly troubled at the Sight of theſe Gallows, and all cried to God in the Words of the Pſalmiſt, cxxiii. 2. Behold, as the Eyes of Servants look unto the Hand of their Maſters, and as the Eyes of a Maiden unto the Hand of her Miſtreſs; ſo our Eyes wait upon the LORD our God, until that he have Mercy upon us.

CHAP. VI.

Ver. 1. ON that Night could not the King ſleep,] Now follows a wonderful Turn of Affairs: God ſo diſpoſing it, that the King could take no Reſt in the Night, and inſtead of Muſick and Singing, and diverting himſelf with his Wives and Concubines, he called for the Records of the Kingdom to be read to him.

And he commanded to bring the Book of Records of the Chronicles; and they were read before the King.] Theſe were Diaries wherein were ſet down what paſſed every Day, which we now call Journals, (as I obſerved, ii. 13.) And in them it was the Manner of the Perſians to ſet down the Names of thoſe who had done the King any eminent Service; as Grotius notes out of Herodotus, Thucydides, and Procopius.

Ver. 2. And it was found written, that Mordecai had told of Bigthana and Tereſh, two of the King's Chamberlains, the Keepers of the Door, who ſought to lay Hand on the King Ahaſuerus.] It was a ſingular Providence of God, that they ſhould read in that very Part of the Book, wherein the Service of Mordecai was recorded. And the latter Targum, to increaſe the Wonder, ſaith, that Shimſtæus, who brought the Book, and opened it at this Place, ſeeing this which was written of Mordecai, turned over the Leaves, and would have read in another Part of the Book; but the Leaves flew back again to the ſame Place where he opened it, and he was forced to read the Story to the King.

Ver. 3. And the King ſaid, What Honour and Dignity hath been done to Mordecai for this? Then ſaid the King's Servants that miniſtred unto him, There is nothing done for him.] Great Men ſometimes are unmindful of the higheſt Services that are done them, and take no Care to reward them. Though ſome think the King ordered him a Reward, of which, by the Artifice of thoſe in the Court, who hated the Jews, he was deprived. But there was a ſpecial Providence in it, that he went without a Reward then, which procured it for him moſt opportunely at this Time. It is not improbable, that, as Joſephus ſaith, the Hiſtory of ſome of his Anceſtors was read before they came to his Reign; wherein was ſet down what Services Men had done, and what Preferment or Gifts had been beſtowed upon them; which moved the King to ask, when they came to this Story of Mordecai, what had been done for him?

Ver. 4. And the King ſaid, Who is in the Court?] For he was reſolved immediately to ſhew how ſenſible he was of his Service.

(Now Haman was come into the outward Court of the King's Houſe, to ſpeak unto the King, to hang Mordecai on the Gallows that he had prepared for him)] He was come very early to Court that he might gratify his Revenge, and go with more Pleaſure to the Banquet. This was another Part of God's Providence, to bring him ſo ſoon to Court, when the King was thus diſpoſed.

Ver. 5. And the King's Servants ſaid unto him, Behold, Haman ſtandeth in the Court. And the King ſaid, Let him come in.] Which he durſt not do, as great as he was, without Leave.

Ver. 6. So Haman came in: and the King ſaid unto him, What ſhall be done unto the Man whom the King delighteth to honour?] The King in all Probability would not have asked this Queſtion, but ordered himſelf what he thought fit, if God had not intended that Mordecai ſhould have the greateſt Honour done him, and that by the Judgment of his greateſt Enemy.

(Now Haman thought in his Heart, to whom would the King delight to do Honour more than to my ſelf?)] He had Reaſon to think ſo, becauſe he had already heaped ſo many Favours upon him, and was now invited by the Queen to keep him Company at her Banquet.

Ver. 7. And Haman anſwered the King, For the Man whom the King delighteth to honour,

Ver. 8. Let the Royal Apparel be brought which the King uſeth to wear,] When he went abroad, and appeared publickly among his People; which ſhould rather be tranſlated, the Royal Robe, an external Garment, or Stole coming down to his Feet, which none wore but himſelf.

And the Horſe that the King rideth upon,] I ſuppoſe it was a Horſe which none might ride upon but himſelf; like the Mule among the Kings of Iſrael, which was peculiarly appointed to their own Uſe, as I have noted on 1 Kings i. 33. Herodotus, Lib. 1. mentions ſuch a generous and moſt noble Horſe belonging to the King of Perſia.

And the Crown Royal which is ſet upon his Head:] That is, upon the Horſe's Head, upon which there was a Royal Ornament; as there is now at Rome, called a Fiocco. For Keter is a very large Word, ſignifying any Ornament about the Head or the Neck. And that this refers to the Horſe, not to the King, is plain in the Hebrew, and from the next Verſe, and Ver. 10, 11. where there is no more Mention of this Keter; but only of the Robe, and of the Horſe, to which this Royal Ornament upon his Head belonged. See Ludovicus de Dieu.

Ver. 9. And let this Apparel and Horſe be delivered to the Hand of one of the King's moſt noble Princes, that they may aray the Man withal whom the King delighteth to honour, and bring him on Horſeback through the Street of the City, and proclaim before him, Thus ſhall it be done to the Man whom the King delighteth to honour.] This Proclamation, in all likelihood, was made by ſome publick Officer.

Ver. 10. Then the King ſaid to Haman, Make haſte, and take the Apparel and the Horſe, as thou haſt ſaid, and do even ſo to Mordecai the Jew, that ſitteth at the King's Gate.] It is very likely theſe Words aſtoniſhed Haman, and made as great Commotions in him, as the Targum here deſcribes: But he durſt not diſpute the King's Command, nor ask him what Mordecai he meant (there being many of that Name) when the King had plainly told him, on whom it was he intended to beſtow this Honour. But if he made any Difficulty to obey this Command, or deſired to be excuſed, the King bid him ſay no more, but go (as the Verſe includes) and let nothing fail of all that he had ſpoken.

Ver. 11. Then took Haman the Apparel, and the Horſe, and arayed Mordecai, and brought him on Horſeback through the Street of the City, and proclaimed before him, Thus ſhall it be done unto the Man whom the King delighteth to honour.] At which Sight (ſaith the latter Targum) Eſther praiſed God in the Words of the Pſalmiſt, cxiii. 7, 8. He raiſeth up the Poor out of the Duſt, and lifteth the Needy out of the Dunghil: That he may ſet him with Princes, even with the Princes of his People. And Mordecai ſaid thoſe Words, Pſal. xxx. 11, 12. Thou haſt turned for me my Mourning into Dancing: Thou haſt put off my Sackcloth, and girded me with Gladneſs: I will praiſe thee, O LORD God my Redeemer, that thou haſt not let mine Enemy triumph over me.

Ver. 12. And Mordecai came again to the King's Gate:] Returned to his Duty, clothed not in Sackcloth, as the Targum repreſents him (for then he might not have come there) but in his own Raiment; ſhewing he was not puffed up with the Honour that had been done him; but foreſeeing, no doubt, the happy Event which followed.

But Haman haſted to his Houſe, mourning, and having his Head covered.] Which was a Token of Sadneſs and Dejection.

Ver. 13. And Haman told Zereſh his Wife, and all his Friends,] Who were waiting to hear what was become of Mordecai, whom they adviſed to get hanged on the Gallows.

Every thing that had befallen him.] How croſs every thing had fallen out to him that Morning.

Then ſaid his wiſe Men, and Zereſh his Wife,] They whoſe Counſel he had uſed in his Divination by Lots, now changed their Mind; and his Wife concurred in Opinion with them, that theſe were bad Omens.

If Mordecai be of the Seed of the Jews, before whom thou haſt begun to fall, thou ſhalt not prevail againſt him, but ſhalt ſurely fall before him.] They had obſerved, it is likely, how the Jews had been wonderfully raiſed from under great Oppreſſions, ſince the Time of Cyrus, and thence conclude there was a particular Providence that took Care of them. And it is poſſible they had heard ſomething of the Oracle againſt the Amalekites, that they ſhould periſh by the Hands of the Jews. And as Dr. Jackſon excellently notes (Book 1. on the Creed, Chap. 21.) Thoſe Plots which would have cruſhed other Nations, did often turn to their Advancement, and the Fall of their Enemies. Whence both their Riſing and Falling, and conſequently the Succeſs of ſuch as oppoſed them, was in the Apprehenſion of wiſe Men of other Nations merely fatal; altogether incorrigible by worldly Policy. Whence theſe wiſe Men of Chaldæa (as he calls them) upon the firſt Notice of the Wind's turning for them, read Haman's Deſtiny. And accordingly Achior's Speech to Holofernes, Judith v. 17, &c. (whether truly uttered, or feigned by the Pen-Man of the Hiſtory) was framed according to the known Experience of thoſe Times, and contained ſuch Advices as a faithful Counſellor, well acquainted with the Eſtate of the Jews, ſhould have given to his Lord, who did not ſo well underſtand it.

Ver. 14. And while they were yet talking with him, came the King's Chamberlains, and haſted to bring Haman unto the Banquet that Eſther had prepared.] He hearing their Opinion, that theſe Things boded ſome Evil to him, was very ſlow, we may well ſuppoſe, in his Motion; and could have been content, perhaps, not to have gone to the Banquet. Or he was muſing what to do for his Preſervation, which made him ſtay longer than he ſhould have done, before he waited on the King to it.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe. 1. SO the King and Haman came to banquet with Eſther the Queen.

Ver. 2. And the King ſaid again to Eſther on the ſecond Day, at the Banquet of Wine,] When his Heart was merry, and highly delighted with his Entertainment.

What is thy Petition, Queen Eſther? and it ſhall be granted thee: And what is thy Requeſt? and it ſhall be performed even to the Half of the Kingdom.] This Promiſe renewed the third Time, gave her Courage to preſent her Suit to him.

Ver. 3. Then Eſther the Queen] Lifting up her Eyes to Heaven, as the Targum enlarges it.

Anſwered and ſaid, If I have found Favour in thy Sight, O King, and if it pleaſe the King,] Thus ſhe prefaced to her Requeſt, when ſhe only beſeeched him to accept of a Banquet from her.

Let my Life be given me at my Petition, and my People at my Requeſt.] That is, the Life of her People.

Ver. 4. For we are ſold, I and my People, to be deſtroyed, to be ſlain, and to periſh:] For Haman had offered a great Sum of Money to purchaſe their Deſtruction. She uſes ſo many Words, that ſhe might expreſs the outragious Miſchief intended againſt them; which was no leſs than their Extermination.

But if we had been ſold for Bond-Men and Bond-Women, I had held my Tongue,] For that might have turned to the King's Profit, and they might, at one Time or other, have recovered their Liberty.

Although the Enemy could not countervail the King's Damage.] The King would not have gained ſo much as he would have loſt by it. But there is another Interpretation, which Aben Ezra mentions; who takes the Hebrew Word Hatzar not to ſignify an Enemy, but Diſtreſs Miſery and Trouble. Which makes this Senſe, If they had ſold us for Slaves, I had not troubled the King with my Petition, becauſe that Miſery of ours would not have been ſo much to the King's Damage. See de Dieu.

Ver. 5. Then the King Ahaſuerus anſwered and ſaid unto Eſther the Queen, Who is he? and where is he that durſt preſume in his Heart to do ſo?] It ſeemed incredible that any Man ſhould entertain ſuch a Thought (for the King, I ſuppoſe, had forgot the Decree Haman had obtained from him) to cut off a whole Nation. In the Hebrew the Words are, Who is he whoſe Heart hath filled him to do ſo? A Speech like that in the New Teſtament, Acts v. 3. Why hath Satan filled thine Heart? Made thee ſo daring and preſumptuous. The like, Eccleſ. viii. 11.

Ver. 6. And Eſther ſaid, The Adverſary and Enemy is this wicked Haman.] She found now that ſhe need not fear to ſpeak plainly.

Then Haman was afraid before the King and the Queen.] For he could not but ſee the Danger he was in to loſe his Greatneſs and his Life. And his Fear was the greater now he knew the Queen was one of that Nation whom he had conſpired to deſtroy.

Ver. 7. And the King riſing from the Banquet of Wine in his Wrath, went into the Palace-Garden;] To take Breath and cool himſelf; being in a great Commotion, by Variety of Paſſions boiling and ſtruggling in him. For as he loved the Queen, ſo he loved Haman; and yet was full of Indignation that he ſhould engage him in ſuch an odious Deſign.

And Haman ſtood up to make Requeſt for his Life to Eſther the Queen:] Who he thought might have ſo much Tenderneſs, as to take Compaſſion upon him, and forgive him.

For he ſaw that there was Evil determined againſt him by the King.] Which he diſcerned by the King's Countenance, and by his going out of the Room in a great Fume, and violent Paſſion; which, it is likely, broke out into threatning Words.

Ver.

Ver. 8. Then the King returned out of the Palace-Garden, into the Place of the Banquet of Wine; and Haman was fallen upon the Bed whereon Eſther was.] They ſate, or rather lay upon Beds, as they eat and drank: And Haman fell down as a Supplicant at the Feet of Eſther, laying his Hand upon her Knees, and beſeeching her to take Pity upon him. I have not read any where that this was the Manner among the Perſians; but it was among the Greeks and Romans, to embrace the Knees of thoſe whom they petitioned to be favourable to them. Inſomuch that it was a Rite in their religious Worſhip to touch the Knees of their Gods. See Pliny, Lib. 11. Cap. 45. And thus Sulpitius Severus takes it to have been done here, Deinde regreſſus Rex, vidit Aman Reginæ genua amplexum.

Then ſaid the King, Will he force the Queen alſo before me in the Houſe?] The King finding him in this Poſture, interpreted it, as if he were ſo impudent as before the King's Face, and in his own Palace, to offer Violence to the Queen's Chaſtity. Not that he believed this was his Intention; but in his furious Paſſion, he turned every Thing to the worſt Senſe, and made uſe of it to aggravate his Crime.

As the Word went out of the King's Mouth, they covered Haman's Face.] That he might not ſee the Face of the King any more. Or rather, as a Man condemned, this told him his Doom: For it is likely the King, when he ſaw him in that Poſture, made a Sign what they ſhould do with him, which immediately was performed. Though Aben Ezra ſaith, this was always done to thoſe with whom the King was angry, though they were not put to Death; to ſhew them what they deſerved, never to ſee the King more.

Ver. 9. And Harbonah, one of the Chamberlains, ſaid before the King,] The latter Targum ſaith, that this Harbonah was one of Haman's Counſel, who adviſed him to ſet up the Gallows to hang Mordecai; but ſeeing this ſtrange Turn of Affairs, incenſed the King, by telling him what Haman deſigned againſt him who had ſaved the King's Life.

Behold alſo the Gallows fifty Cubits high, which Haman had made for Mordecai, who had ſpoken good for the King, ſtandeth in the Houſe of Haman.] Upon which he intended to make Mordecai an Example to all thoſe that ſhould preſume to offend him.

Then the King ſaid, Hang him thereon.] But whether dead or alive is not ſaid, as Salmaſius obſerves; who ſhews by many Inſtances (in his Book De Cruce, p. 494.) that it was the Manner of the Perſians firſt to cut off the Heads of Malefactors, and then to hang them on a Gibbet. Joſephus indeed ſaith, that he commanded Haman ἐκ ξυλου κρεμαθῆναι ἀποθανεῖν, to be put to Death hanging on a Croſs: But Crucifying was not a Perſian Puniſhment; nor did the Romans let the Bodies of Malefactors die on the Croſs of themſelves; but they extinguiſhed them ſome other Way.

Ver. 10. So they hanged Haman on the Gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then was the King's Wrath pacified.] The latter Targum here adds a great deal of frivolous Stuff, how the King ſent for Mordecai, and charged him to ſee the Execution done upon Haman; and how he begged of Mordecai to ſpare his Life, at leaſt not hang him, who had been ſo great, like a Varlet, &c. but he concludes very well, that now was verified the Obſervation of Solomon, Prov. xi. 8. The Righteous is delivered out of Trouble, and the Wicked cometh in his ſtead.

I cannot think fit to end this Chapter without taking Notice of a Reflection, which a great Man of our own Church made long ago upon it: That in this wonderful Deliverance of the Jewiſh Nation, there was no extraordinary Manifeſtation of God's Power, no particular Cauſe or Agent, that was in its working advanced above the ordinary Pitch of Nature; and yet the Contrivance, or Suiting of thoſe ordinary Agents appointed by God, is more admirable than if the ſame End had been effected by Means truly miraculous. That a King ſhould not ſleep is not unuſual, nor that he ſhould ſolace his waking Thoughts by hearing the Annals of his own Kingdom, or the Journals of his own Reign read to him, &c. But that he ſhould lie awake at that Time eſpecially, when Haman was watching to deſtroy the Jews; and that in the Chronicles of the Kingdom, they ſhould light on that Place where Mordecai's unrewarded Services were recorded; and that he ſhould reſolve forthwith to do him Honour; and Haman come in at that very nick of Time when the King was ſo diſpoſed; and ſhould ignorantly determine what Honour ſhould be done him, and be made the Inſtrument of it: This was from the Keeper of Iſrael, who neither ſlumbers nor ſleeps, and was truly marvellous in his People's Sight, as Dr. Jackſon ſpeaks in his ſecond Sermon upon 2 Chron. vi. 39, 40. where he obſerves, that Miracles are in their Nature more apt to affect the Senſe; but ſuch ſecret Contrivances of God's Wiſdom and Providence do more affect the Underſtanding. The one works Aſtoniſhment, the other Admiration. For which Reaſon Miracles were more frequent in the Infancy of our Religion, to enforce Unbelievers to give ear to the Words of Life, and to take God's Promiſes (which otherwiſe they might have ſlighted) into ſerious Conſideration: But now the Ways of God's Wiſdom, or ſecret Diſpoſitions of his Providence, are more apt to cheriſh the Seed of Life, ſown in the Hearts of Believers. Miracles by continual Frequency would ceaſe to be Miracles, and not be wondered at; whereas the unſearchable Ways of God's Wiſdom in contriving extraordinary Succeſſes by Means ordinarily, will inceſſantly breed in us Matter of Admiration. And his wiſe Contrivances are ſtill in one kind or other moſt viſible; but we want Eyes or Hearts to obſerve or contemplate them.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe. 1. ON that Day did the King Ahaſuerus give the Houſe of Haman the Jews Enemy, unto Eſther the Queen:] That is, he beſtowed on her the whole Eſtate belonging to his Family (for this is meant by his Houſe) his Lands, his Goods, his Servants, his Cattle, all the Money he had treaſured up. For by his Crime all was forfeited to the King; who could not more fitly diſpoſe of it, than to her who would have been the greateſt Sufferer by him.

And Mordecai came before the King;] By Eſther's Interceſſion.

For Eſther had told what he was unto her.] Which was not known at Court till now; though two Eunuchs, who were her Confidents, knew ſomething of it, ii. 21. and he perhaps who carried Meſſages between them, iv. 5, 13.

Ver. 2. And the King took off his Ring which he had taken from Haman,] Which he had formerly given him, iii. 10. but now had reſumed.

And gave it unto Mordecai.] In Token that he put the ſame Confidence in him, to be the Keeper of his Signet.

And Eſther ſet Mordecai over the Houſe of Haman.] Not over his Family, for that was deſtroyed; but over his Lands and Goods which the King had given to Eſther: Of which ſhe made Mordecai her Steward, that he might manage that vaſt Eſtate, which Haman no doubt had heaped up, for her Advantage.

Ver. 3. And Eſther ſpake yet again before the King, and fell down at his Feet and beſought him with Tears,] The Danger was not yet over, and therefore ſhe renews her Petition in the moſt humble and moſt moving Manner; for Tears flowing from ſo great a Perſon, have a great Power to move Compaſſion. But ſhe had not yet delivered her Petition, theſe Words only expreſſing what ſhe intended and was prepared to do.

To put away the Miſchief of Haman the Agagite, and his Device that he had deviſed againſt the Jews.] By repealing that bloody Decree, which he had obtained from the King, iii. 13.

Ver. 4. Then the King held out the Golden Sceptre toward Eſther.] Who it ſeems had adventured to preſs into the King's Preſence once more, without being called: Which he did not take ill, but graciouſly invited her to come to him by this Token.

So Eſther aroſe and ſtood before the King,] She roſe from her Knees, and ſtood before him to make her Requeſt.

Ver. 5. And ſaid, If it pleaſe the King, and I have found Favour in his Sight, and the Thing ſeem right before the King, and I be pleaſing in his Eyes;] She uſes ſuch Variety of Expreſſions for the ſame Thing, to inſinuate her ſelf into the King's Favour, by an entire Submiſſion to his Pleaſure. For ſhe knew what an unuſual Thing it was that ſhe was about to deſire.

Let it be written to reverſe the Letters deviſed by Haman the Son of Hammedatha the Agagite, which he wrote to deſtroy the Jews which are in all the King's Provinces:] This Edict which Haman procured, ſome think was not made in ſuch a Manner as to become immutable, like that, i. 19. but might be revoked by another Edict more peremptory. But this I think is a Miſtake, for it was ſealed with the King's Ring, which he himſelf ſaith, Ver. 8. no Man may reverſe.

Ver. 6. For how can I endure to ſee the Evil that ſhall come unto my People? or how can I endure to ſee the Deſtruction of my Kindred?] If ſhe herſelf ſhould be ſpared, ſhe repreſents to him that it would break her Heart to ſee all her Kindred, nay, her whole Nation deſtroyed.

Ver. 7. Then the King Ahaſuerus ſaid unto Eſther the Queen, and to Mordecai the Jew,] Who, I ſuppoſe, was ſent for to hear the King's Anſwer to her Petition.

Behold, I have given Eſther the Houſe of Haman, and him they have hanged upon the Gallows, becauſe he laid his Hand upon the Jews.] That is, intended to deſtroy them all. By what the King had done to ſhew his Reſentment againſt Haman, they might eaſily believe he would deny them nothing that was neceſſary for their Preſervation.

Ver. 8. Write ye alſo for the Jews,] As Haman had done againſt them.

As it liketh you,] In as full Words as you can deſire for your Safety.

In the King's Name, and ſeal it with the King's Ring:] To give it the ſame Authority which the former Writing had.

For the Writing which is written in the King's Name, and ſealed with the King's Ring, may no Man reverſe.] This ſeems to me to ſignify, that the King could not do what Eſther deſired, Ver. 5. for it was contrary to the Law of the Medes and Perſians to reverſe any Decree. But he promiſes to do what he was able, to make that Decree ineffectual, by giving them Power to defend themſelves againſt all that ſhould aſſault them. And for that End he bid them draw up a Letter, in Words as ſtrong as they could deviſe, which would hinder the former Decree from being executed, though he could not annul it. And accordingly we find by what follows, that there is not a Word ſaid of revoking Haman's Decree; but only that they ſhould ſtand for their Lives and deſtroy all, little and great, that ſhould attempt to execute the Decree ſent by Haman. Thus he choſe to fill his Realm with Blood, rather than revoke a raſh Decree; which was agreeable enough to the Temper of Ochus, who is repreſented by Valerius Maximus as very cruel. So Jacobus Capellus obſerves, ad A. M. 3650. where he ſaith he doth not remember any Heathen Writer who mentions ſuch an abſurd Law as this of the Medes and Perſians; though Ælian mentions one, not much leſs unreaſonable.

Ver. 9. Then were the King's Scribes called at that Time] As they had been before by Haman to write his Decree, iii. 12. The Author of the Apocryphal Additions to this Book, hath forged a Copy of this Letter; wherein the King tells his Subjects, that it was not Levity which made him change his Mind, and contradict the former Decree; but he found he had been deceived by the falſe Suggeſtions of thoſe whom he highly honoured; as many other great Kings had been before him. Which Letter diſcovers the Ignorance of him that wrote it, in that he calls Haman a Macedonian, who intended to dethrone him and take away his Life.

In the third Month (that is in the Month Sivan) on the three and twentieth Day thereof,] A little more than two Months, after the former Decree.

And it was written (according to all that Mordecai commanded) unto the Jews,] That they might prepare themſelves for their Defence, the beſt they could; and let all Men know what Power the King had given them.

And to the Lieutenants, and the Deputies and Rulers of the Provinces] Who were commanded (as they were in Haman's Decree, iii. 12.) to be aſſiſtant to them, and furniſh them with Means to defend themſelves.

Which are from India unto Ethiopia, an hundred twenty and ſeven Provinces, unto every Province according to the Writing thereof, and unto every People after their Language, and to the Jews according to their Writing, and according to their Language.] This doth not prove that there were ſo many diſtinct Languages ſpoken in his Dominions, and many different Ways of Writing; but, as Bochartus obſerves, whatſoever any People ſpake, or what Character ſoever they uſed (which might be the very ſame in ſome Provinces) there were Letters wrote to them in that Language, and in that Character, Lib. 1. Phaleg, Cap. 16.

Ver. 10. And he wrote in the King Ahaſuerus his Name, and ſealed it with the King's Ring, and ſent Letters by Poſts on Horſeback, and Riders on Mules, Camels, and young Dromedaries:] It is very difficult to render this Verſe Word by Word, though the Senſe be very plain. For the firſt Words Bejad haratzim ſeem to me to ſignify by the Hand of Couriers, as we now ſpeak; for Ratzim ſignifies Runners or Racers. And the next Baſuſim, undoubtedly ſignifies, on Horſes: The former Targum ſaith, of Horſes whoſe Spleen were cut out, and their Hoofs pared; which Bochartus ſhews was ſometimes practiſed, in his Hierozoicon, P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 11. Then here follows Rocheve harecheſ, Riders on a ſwift Beaſt, called Reches. But what Animal that was is very uncertain. Many ſay a Dromedary; with which Druſius is unſatisfied, but leaves it in Doubt, Miſcellan. Cent. 2. Cap. 73. Bochartus thinks it is a Word added to explain what went before, ſignifying that he ſent the Poſts upon the ſwifteſt Horſes; for Reches was a kind of Horſe. See 1 Kings iv. 28. Our Tranſlation takes it for Mules, which Ælian ſaith, were ἄγαν δρομάιους, exceeding ſwift Runners, and therefore uſed in the Olympick Races, as Bochartus obſerves, Hieroz. P. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 21. Then the next Word, Ahaſhteranim (which we tranſlate Camels) he takes to be a Perſian Word, for there is a Word at this Day in that Language of the ſame Sound and Signification, viz. Aſthera. See his Phaleg, Lib. 1. Cap. 15. Then follows Bene haramachim, which we tranſlate young Dromedaries; and the latter Targum, the Foals of Mares. And ſo Bochartus ſhews that Ramec doth ſignify a Mare; from whence he thinks the Word Marc among the ancient Gauls was derived, which Pauſanias tells us ſignified a Horſe: For there was ſuch a Tranſpoſition of Letters as is in the Word forma, which comes from μορφὴ. In his Canaan, Lib. 1. Cap. 42. There is extant a Work of a very learned young Man of our own (now with God) who, after that he had obſerved that neither the latter nor the ancient Jews, nor the Gemariſts themſelves knew what to make of this Word, hath made a long Diſcourſe about it. See Guil. Guiſius in his Anontations upon that Title in the Miſchnah, called Kelaim.

The Senſe of the whole is, that he ſent Men on Horſeback (naked, as the firſt Targum will have it, that they might be lighter) and upon other Creatures as ſwift as Horſes, and upon Mules both old and young, according as the Places were nearer or farther off. So he ordered the Letters to be ſent with great Speed by the Poſt, which carried them from Stage to Stage, till they came to the Place whither they were directed.

Ver. 11. Wherein the King granted the Jews, which were in every City, to gather themſelves together,] Notwithſtanding that former Decree ſent by Haman.

And to ſtand for their Life, to deſtroy, to ſlay, and to cauſe to periſh all the Power of the People, and Province, that would aſſault them, both little ones, and Women, and to take the Spoil of them for a Prey:] It muſt be preſumed that ſome would obey the former Order, out of their Hatred to the Jews; therefore this gives them Authority, if any Attempt was made upon them, either in great Bodies or ſmall Parties, not only to defend themſelves and repel them, but to make as great a Slaughter of them as they were able (for he uſes many Words to expreſs the Liberty he gave them to deſtroy their Enemies) not ſparing Children and Women; and to poſſeſs themſelves of their Goods, as Men uſed to do in War, and as Haman had procured them Licenſe to take the Goods of the Jews, iii. 13.

Ver. 12. Upon one Day, in all the Provinces of King Ahaſuerus, namely, upon the thirteenth Day of the twelfth Month, which is the Month Adar.] Which Day was choſen and appointed by Haman for their Deſtruction.

Ver. 13. The Copy of the Writing for a Commandment to be given in every Province] To warrant them to do what was therein commanded.

Was publiſhed unto all People, and that the Jews ſhould be ready againſt that Day, to avenge themſelves on their Enemies.] Furniſh themſelves with Arms, and all Things neceſſary for their Defence, and to annoy their Enemies on that Day. The latter Targum makes bold to inſert a Copy of this Letter, which imports, that the King was deceived by Haman, who perſuaded him to write the former Letter; but now he had hanged him, becauſe he found the Jews to be an innocent People, worthy of his Protection: And eſpecially commended Eſther and Mordecai, whom he had taken into his Favour. And therefore ſent this new Signification of his Will and Pleaſure to them in the Behalf of the Jews. There are many Expreſſions in it, which, no doubt, he never uſed; but the Senſe of it is good.

Ver.

Ver. 14. So the Poſts which rode upon Mules and Camels, went out,] Here are two of the ſame Words uſed again, Reches and Haaſhteranim; the latter of which is tranſlated Camels, as it was before; which, though they be not a ſwift Creature, yet are very fit to travel through dry Countries better than Horſes, being very patient of Thirſt and Labour.

Being haſtened and preſſed on by the King's Commandment;] Who gave them a ſtrict Charge to make all the Speed poſſible to diſperſe this new Order.

And the Decree was given at Shuſhan the Palace.] As that ſent by Haman was, iii. 15. and, as I there obſerved, ſigned, it is probable, by the King's Counſellors.

Ver. 15. And Mordecai went out from the Preſence of the King, in royal Apparel of blue and white,] In ſuch Robes as the Princes of Perſia were wont to wear.

And with a great Crown of Gold,] Not like that of the Kings; but ſuch a Coronet as was uſed by the greateſt Peers of the Realm.

And with a Garment of fine Linen, and Purple;] This was his inner Garment, as the former was the outward. The former Targum hath made an extravagant Deſcription of the Riches of the Habit, wherein Mordecai appeared; his Tunick coſting four hundred and twenty Talents of Gold; and many ſuch Things which he ſaith about his Sword, and the Chain of Gold about his Neck, which it would be a Vanity to mention. But one Thing he ſaith, which is pious, if it were truly related, That Eſther looking out of her Window, ſaw him walk in this State. And he ſpying her, ſaid thoſe Words of the Pſalmiſt, cxxiv. 6. Bleſſed be the LORD, who hath not given me a Prey unto their Teeth. To which ſhe replied in the Words of Pſalm cxxii. 7. Our Help ſtandeth in the LORD, who hath made Heaven and Earth.

And the City of Shuſhan rejoiced and was glad:] At his Advancement, and at the Fall of Haman, who deſigned the Ruin of ſuch an excellent Perſon.

Ver. 16. The Jews had Light and Gladneſs, and Joy,] All theſe Words ſignify the ſame Thing, expreſſing the higheſt Joy and Satisfaction.

And Honour.] They were much reſpected by the People.

Ver. 17. And in every Province, and in every City, whitherſoever the King's Commandment and his Decree came,] His Commandment was, that the Decree ſhould be publiſhed with all Speed; and both of them were known together; what Decree the King had made, and how he preſſed the Delivery of it, ver. 14.

The Jews had Joy and Gladneſs, a Feaſt and a good Day:] Not only in Shuſhan, but every where elſe, they entertained one another, and their Neighbours with good Cheer, being full of Joy at this unexpected Alteration of their Affairs. For they doubted not this new Decree of the King's would be obſerved by his People; and they were reſolved to defend themſelves againſt thoſe that did not obſerve it, and deſtroy them.

And many of the People of the Land became Jews;] Many of the Perſians became Proſelytes to the Jewiſh Religion, as both the Targums explain it; but that they were circumciſed is not probable. Such Perſons there were in all Times, eſpecially in the Days of David and Solomon, when the Affairs of the Jews were very proſperous. But the Jews ſay they did not admit them preſently, till the Court of Judgment approved them as ſincere Converts. See Selden De Jure Nat. & Gent. Lib. 2. Cap. 2. & 4. where he obſerves, that ſuch Perſons ever after went by the Name of Jews (as Dio himſelf takes notice) and were not reckoned Gentiles if they fell to Idolatry, but called Apoſtates. See p. 149, 150, &c. 160.

For the Fear of the Jews fell upon them.] The Liberty granted rhem by the King's Edict, and the Power of the Queen and Mordecai, made the Perſians ſtand in awe of them and of their God, who had ſo marvellouſly diſpoſed Things in their Favour. See the next Chapter, ver. 2, 3.

But this hath made ſome admire that ſuch a marvellous and memorable Thing ſhould not be related, nor ſo much as touched by any exotick Writer whatſoever. Of which Jacobus Capellus hath given a plain Reaſon, that the Hiſtory of Ochus is deſcribed by no Writer, but only Diodorus Siculus; and he meddles with the Affais of Perſia no further than as they cohere with the Affairs of Greece.

CHAP. IX.

Verſe 1. NOW in the twelfth Month (that is the Month Adar) on the thirteenth Day of the ſame, when the King's Commandment and his Decree drew near to be put in execution, in the Day that the Enemies of the Jews hoped to have Power over them] As they often boaſted (it is likely) and threatned, ſince the Decree, which Haman ſent, came to them; for that had gotten ſtart of the other and put the Jews into great Terror and Confuſion, and their Enemies into high Expectation of their Ruin.

(Though it was turned to the contrary, that the Jews had Rule over them that hated them)] As it appeared preſently when the Time was come for the executing both the Decrees.

Ver 2. The Jews gathered themſelves together in their Cities throughout all the Provinces of the King Ahaſuerus, to lay Hand on ſuch as ſought their Hurt;] As ſome did, being poſſeſſed with Hatred to them, and being combined, it is likely, upon the Receipt of Haman's Decree, to endeavour to deſtroy them. It cannot be imagined, that when Haman periſhed, all his Friends and Potentates periſhed with him; but he had a great Party every where, ſome of which were ſo furiouſly enraged at his Fall, that they could not contain themſelves from ſhewing their Indignation at thoſe who were the Occaſion of it.

And

And no Man could withſtand them:] But they fled before them.

For the Fear of them fell upon all People.] When they heard that Haman had loſt all his Authority and his Life, and that his Family was deſtroyed, and how Mordecai was in great Power (as it here follows) and the Queen herſelf was a Jew, no doubt it daunted all thoſe who were diſpoſed to execute the firſt Decree. And though ſome were ſo deſperately envenomed againſt the Jews, that they did riſe up to aſſault them, yet they had not ſuch Courage as the Jews had to oppoſe them.

Ver. 3. And all the Rulers of the Provinces, and the Lieutenants, and the Deputies, and Officers of the King, helped the Jews:] Which was a great Advantage to them, and diſheartened their Enemies, who hoped for their Aſſiſtance.

Becauſe the Fear of Mordecai fell upon them.] They were Men of the Times (as we ſpeak) and would have been as ready to execute Haman's Decree, if he had continued in Power, as to aid the Jews in this: Which it was their Intereſt to do, being afraid to be turned out of their Places by Mordecai, who was the chief Miniſter, if they did otherwiſe.

Ver. 4. For Mordecai was great in the King's Houſe,] Having the Management of all the Queen's Affairs in the Court, where ſhe was beloved of the King; who alſo (it appears by the foregoing Chapter, Ver. 15.) gave him the higheſt Authority in the Kingdom.

And his Fame went out throughout all the Provinces:] It is ſoon known every where, who is the Favourite at Court, which makes all Addreſſes to be paid to him.

For this Man Mordecai waxed greater and greater.] In the Eſteem of the People, who not only ſtood in Awe of his Power, but highly applauded his Wiſdom and Juſtice in the Management of all Affairs: For one cannot but think he was very eminent in thoſe noble Qualities.

Ver. 5. Thus the Jews ſmote all their Enemies with the Stroke of the Sword, and Slaughter, and Deſtruction,] That is, they that had no Swords ſlew them with Clubs and Staves, and ſuch like Weapons as they could procure; as the former Targum underſtands it.

And did what they would unto thoſe that hated them.] Had them perfectly at their Mercy.

Ver. 6. And in Shuſhan the Palace] That is, in the City where the King's Palace was.

The Jews ſlew and deſtroyed five hundred Men.] It is commonly thought that theſe and the reſt mentioned, Ver. 15, 16, were ſuch as they knew were confederate with Haman, and perhaps Amalekites (as the latter Targum ſaith) for Mordecai, they think it is likely, required them to kill none but thoſe who declared themſelves forward to execute Haman's Decree. But I ſee no Ground for this: If Men were quiet, and did not riſe up againſt them, they had no Authority to hurt them, much leſs to kill them. Therefore theſe five hundred, and the reſt killed in other Places, were Men who could not conceal their wicked Inclinations, but openly aſſaulted them; and ſuch Ahaſuerus gave them Power to deſtroy, viii. 11. And Dr. Alix thinks the Conjecture of the Targum is right, that theſe five hundred Men were Amalekites, who followed the Fortune of Haman: And by their Slaughter were accompliſhed the Prophecies againſt Amalek. Some others, it is likely, joined with them; but they were the moſt enraged againſt the Jews, and the readieſt to attempt their Deſtruction.

Ver. 7. And Parſhandatha, and Dalphon, and Aſpatha,

Ver. 8. And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

Ver. 9. And Parmaſhta, and Ariſai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha,] It is too curious an Obſervation of ſome of the Jews, that the Letter Vau before the laſt of theſe Names is larger than ordinary, to ſhew, that though this was the youngeſt Son of Haman, yet he was the moſt violent againſt the Jews of all the reſt. Or, as others will have it (for ſuch Conceits are endleſs) this being the Numeral Letter for the Number Six, it ſignifies this was the ſixth Son of Haman, but placed laſt, out of Contempt, as the vileſt of them all.

Ver. 10. The ten Sons of Haman the Son of Hammedatha, the Enemy of the Jews, ſlew they;] It is likely they were in the Head of the reſt, who were ſo bold as to attempt the Deſtruction of the Jews in this City; being mad with Rage, and reſolved to revenge their Father's Death; and rather periſh than not execute his Deſign as far as they were able.

But on the Spoil laid they not their Hand.] The King had granted them Leave to make it, vii. 11. but they would not meddle with it, that they might not ſeem to deſire any thing but their own Safety, and that the King might have the greater Kindneſs for them, into whoſe Exchequer theſe Goods were to come, if he pleaſed.

Ver. 11. On that Day the Number of thoſe that were ſlain in Shuſhan the Palace, was brought before the King.] Who required an Account, that he might know how People ſtood affected towards the Jews.

Ver. 12. And the King ſaid unto Eſther the Queen, The Jews have ſlain and deſtroyed five hundred Men in Shuſhan the Palace, and the ten Sons of Haman; what have they done in the reſt of the King's Provinces?] That was not yet known, but he thought in all likelihood they muſt have killed a great many more.

Now what is thy Petition? and it ſhall be granted thee: Or what is thy Requeſt further? and it ſhall be done.] If this did not ſatisfy her, he asks her what ſhe had to deſire further, and he would not deny her.

Ver. 13. Then ſaid Eſther, If it pleaſe the King, let it be granted to the Jews which are in Shuſhan, to do to Morrow alſo according unto this Day's Decree,] That is, kill as many of their Enemies as they could find; for ſome that appeared againſt them, perhaps eſcaped their Hands, whom they might meet withal the next Day.

And let Haman's ten Sons be hanged upon the Gallows.] By their Father, I ſuppoſe.

Ver.

Ver. 14. And the King commanded it ſo to be done; and the Decree was given at Shuſhan,] That both her Petition and Requeſt ſhould be granted. This was a new Decree, authorizing them to do on the fourteenth Day as they had on the thirteenth.

And they hanged Haman's ten Sons.] For their greater Infamy, that they might be expoſed to publick Reproach, and their Bodies remain unburied, being left to rot upon the Gallows, or to be devoured by Crows and Vultures, and ſuch like ravenous Creatures. For, though the Jews ſuffered none to hang on a Tree (ſo they called a Gallows) longer than till the Evening of the Day, whereon they were hanged; yet other Nations let them hang till they were there conſumed; as appears from the Story of the Gibeonites, 2 Sam. xxi. 9, 10. and from the vulgar Saying among the Romans, Paſcere in Cruce Corvos, to feed Ravens on a Gibbet.

Ver. 15. For the Jews that were in Shuſhan, gathered themſelves together on the fourteenth Day alſo of the Month Adar, and ſlew three hundred Men at Shuſhan; but on the Prey they laid not their Hand.] The former Targum ſaith ſtill, theſe three hundred Men were of the Family of Amalek. But whoſoever they were, I take them to have been ſuch as the Day before roſe up againſt them, but in the Conflict eſcaped by Flight, and now were found out and killed.

Ver. 16. But the other Jews that were in the King's Provinces, gathered themſelves together, and ſtood for their Lives,] This they did upon the thirteenth Day, when they defended themſelves from thoſe that roſe up againſt them to deſtroy them.

And had Reſt from their Enemies,] Who could not ſtand before them; but ceaſed to moleſt them.

And ſlew of their Foes ſeventy and five thouſand;] There is ſome Reaſon to think theſe were Amalekites, as the former Targum ſaith: For, it is likely, many of that Nation might be diſperſed throughout the King's Provinces as well as the Jews; and being the old Enemies of the Jews, might be very forward to help to deſtroy them. But whoſoever they were, the Jews prevailed againſt them, and ſlew ſo many thouſands, that thereby we may judge what a great Number of Jews ſtill remained in other Countries, and did not return to their own.

But they laid not their Hands on the Prey.] It is likely Mordecai, in his Letters, had charged them not to make Uſe of the Liberty the King had given them to take the Spoil (viii. 11.) becauſe they univerſally avoided it.

Ver. 17. On the thirteenth Day of the Month Adar,] This is to be referred to the foregoing Words; the Slaughter was made in the Provinces on the thirteenth Day of this Month, when they ſhould have been deſtroyed themſelves.

And on the fourteenth Day of the ſame, reſted they, and made it a Day of Feaſting and Gladneſs.] And ſo the Jews in the Provinces made the next Day a Feſtival of Rejoicing for their great Deliverance. For there never was any Day of Joy and Gladneſs for any Bleſſing, without Feaſting and liberal Entertainment of each other, and of the Poor.

Ver. 18. But the Jews that were at Shuſhan, aſſembled together on the thirteenth Day thereof, and on the fourteenth thereof; and on the fifteenth Day of the ſame they reſted, and made it a Day of Feaſting and Gladneſs.] The Jews indeed in the City of Shuſhan made the fifteenth Day a Feſtival, becauſe they had Liberty to avenge themſelves of their Enemies, not only on the thirteenth, but on the fourteenth, which were both Days of Slaughter; and therefore they reſted not till the fifteenth Day.

Ver. 19. Therefore the Jews of the Villages, that dwelt in the unwalled Towns, made the fourteenth Day of the Month Adar, a Day of Gladneſs and Feaſting, and a good Day, and of ſending Portions one to another.] This Verſe gives an Account of the Reaſon of the different Obſervation of the Feſtival in Shuſhan, and in the Country Towns throughout the King's Provinces. There they had Leave only on one Day to ſlay their Enemies, which was the thirteenth of Adar; therefore the fourteenth was a Day of Gladneſs to them: Whereas in Shuſhan the fifteenth was the Day of Gladneſs, the fourteenth being by the King's Leave made like the thirteenth, another Day of Slaughter. But this was at the firſt done thus, only of their own free Accord; afterwards the Law eſtabliſhed it otherwiſe.

A Day of Gladneſs and Feaſting, and a good Day.] A Day of Thankſgiving and Praiſe to God, as well as of Feaſting one with another, and of ſending Portions to their Neighbours out of their good Cheer, that the meaner Sort might feaſt and rejoice alſo. And as to add to their Joy, they ſent them Meat from their Tables; ſo the Jews have made a Conſtitution, that they ſhould make a Collection of Money to ſend to the Poor at this Time of the Year, that they may provide themſelves Things neceſſary to make a Feaſt. Which Money it is unlawful (as Guilielmus Schickardus obſerves) to apply to any other Uſe, but only the making themſelves merry at this Time. See Nehem. viii. 10.

Ver. 20. And Mordecai wrote theſe Things, and ſent Letters unto all the Jews that were in all the Provinces of the King Ahaſuerus, both nigh and far,] That which they had done at the firſt voluntarily, he thought good to turn into a Law; and ſent it into the whole Realm.

Ver. 21. To ſtabliſh this among them, that they ſhould keep the fourteenth Day of the Month Adar, and the fifteenth Day of the ſame yearly:] But to make theſe more ſolemn Times, they now keep a Faſt before the Feaſt (after the Example of Eſther) on the thirteenth Day of the Month Adar.

Ver. 22. As the Days wherein the Jews reſted from their Enemies, and the Month which was turned unto them from Sorrow to Joy, and from Mourning into a good Day: That they ſhould make them Days of Feaſting and Joy, and of ſending Portions one to another, and Gifts to the Poor.]

For in the Provinces they had done their Work before the fourteenth Day, and then reſted and rejoiced; but in Shuſhan not before the fifteenth, and then they rejoiced there.

Ver. 23. And the Jews undertook to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them.] That is, to keep theſe Days as Feſtivals every where, throughout all Generations.

Ver. 24. Becauſe Haman the Son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the Enemy of all the Jews, had deviſed againſt the Jews to deſtroy them, and had caſt Pur (that is, the Lot) to conſume them, and to deſtroy them:

Ver. 25. But when Eſther came before the King, he commanded by Letters, that his wicked Device which he deviſed againſt the Jews, ſhould return upon his own Head, and that he and his Sons ſhould be hanged on the Gallows.] Theſe two Verſes give an Account why this Feſtival was ordained, which they took Care ſhould be underſtood by all Poſterity, who obſerve it at this Day, and tell us it conſiſts in theſe three Things; in Reading, in Reſt from Labour, and in Feaſting. The Reading begins in the Evening, as ſoon as the Stars appear, when the Hiſtory of Haman is read from the Beginning to the End, out of a Hebrew Manuſcript written on Parchment; for it is not lawful to read it out of a printed Bible, no more than they do the Law itſelf, as Shickard obſerves out of their Writers, who ſay, three Prayers go before this Reading: In the Firſt of which, they praiſe God for counting them worthy to attend this divine Service. In the Second, they thank him for the miraculous Preſervation of their Anceſtors; and in the Third, that they have lived to obſerve another Feſtival in Memory of it. After this they go to Supper upon Spoon-Meats, and next Morning to the Synagogue, where the Hiſtory is read over again with the ſame Ceremonies. After which they have done with Religion and Piety, and ſpend the two Days in Idleneſs, and Eating and Drinking. Surenhuſius hath given a full Account of this Reading, and the Benedictions, in his Notes upon the Megillah, p. 387. And for their Reſt and Feaſting, they ſay in their Books, that the firſt is kept ſo ſacredly, that they will not ſo much as ſet, or ſow any Thing in their Garden on theſe Days; but play at Cheſs, and ſuch like Games, or ſpend the Time in Muſick and Dancing, till it be Time to feaſt; and then they indulge themſelves ſo far, that they think it not unlawful to drink ſo much, as not to be able to diſtinguiſh between the Bleſſing of Mordecai and the Curſe of Haman, as they themſelves ſpeak. Inſomuch that our learned Primate Uſher calls this Feaſt, The Bacchanals of the Jews.

Ver. 26. Wherefore they called theſe Days Purim, after the Name of Pur:] A Perſian Word, ſignifying a Lot.

Therefore for all the Words of this Letter, and of that which they had ſeen concerning this Matter, and which had come unto them,] This ſeems to refer to the foregoing Words; wherefore they called theſe Days Purim, becauſe of what was contained in the Letters of Mordecai; and becauſe of what they had ſeen when theſe things fell out, and what they heard reported of them in the Places where they could not ſee them; but we take them to be the Reaſon of what follows, viz. of the keeping theſe Days.

Ver. 27. The Jews ordained, and took upon them, and upon their Seed, and upon all ſuch as joined themſelves unto them,] All that ſhould become Proſelytes to their Religion.

So as it ſhould not fail that they would keep theſe two Days according to their Writing, and according to their appointed Time every Year:] According as Mordecai had written, ſo they engaged without fail to keep theſe two Days, in the Time appointed; viz. on the fourteenth Day they kept the Feſtival in the Country all over the King's Dominions, and on the fifteenth they kept it in Shuſhan. The former of theſe the Jews now call in their Calendar the leſſer Feaſt of Purim, and the latter the greater Feaſt.

Ver. 28. And that theſe Days ſhould be remembred, and kept throughout every Generation, every Family, every Province, and every City;] Accordingly at this Day they keep this Feſtival, as they did in more ancient Times; for in the ſecond Book of Maccabees xv. 37. we find, that Judas having obtained a great Victory over Nicanor, they ordained it ſhould be commemorated upon the thirteenth of Adar, the Day before the Feaſt of Mordecai, which was this of Purim. This ſhews, that in thoſe Days they kept this Deliverance in Memory by celebrating this Feaſt, and that the thirteenth of Adar was not then a Faſt.

And that theſe Days of Purim ſhould not fail from among the Jews, nor the Memorial of them periſh from their Seed.] This is but a Repetition of what was ſaid before, to make them more ſeriouſly attend to their Obligation, which was laid upon them all throughout all Generations. Accordingly now, as they tell us in their Books, the little Children, the Women, they that are baſe born, and Servants, &c. are bound to keep this Feaſt.

Ver. 29. Then Eſther the Queen, the Daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, wrote with all Authority, to confirm this ſecond Letter of Purim.] Theſe Days were firſt recommended to their Obſervation by the Authority of Mordecai, v. 20. But either they were neglected, or ſometime intermitted, or were thought not to be ſufficiently eſtabliſhed; therefore the firſt Order was confirmed and ratified by a ſecond, which was backed by the Authority of the Queen. And the Opinion of Maimonides is not improbable, that this was alſo an Ordinance of the Prophets, viz. Haggai, Zachariah, and others that lived in the Days of Eſther. But this cannot be true, for they were dead long before this Time.

Ver. 30. And he ſent the Letters unto all the Jews, to the hundred twenty and ſeven Provinces of the Kingdom of Ahaſuerus,] And conſequently as far as Jeruſalem; for Syria and Judæa were among his Provinces, and the Jews ſhould have been killed there, as well as in the reſt of his Dominions; and were bound to thank God for their Preſervation throughout all Ages, for otherwiſe they had not been any longer a People.

With Words of Peace and Truth:] Full of ſincere Love and affectionate Deſires of their Happineſs. Verbis amicis & ſinceris. Or, as others will have it, wiſhing their Proſperity, and exhorting them to live in Love and Peace, and to be faithful in their Religion; and particularly in keeping their Promiſe of obſerving theſe Days. But after all, Conradus Pellicanus ſeems to me to have gueſſed the beſt at the Meaning of theſe Words, Peace and Truth; which he thinks were the Salutation on the Top of the Letter.

Ver. 31. To confirm theſe Days of Purim in their Times appointed, according as Mordecai the Jew, and Eſther the Queen had enjoined them, and as they had decreed for themſelves and for their Seed, the Matters of the Faſtings and their Cry.] Some learned Men underſtand theſe Words as if they meant, that theſe Days of Purim were therefore appointed, that they might be a Memorial of that Deliverance, which was obtained of God, by Faſtings and Prayers unto him; which, if it be admitted, gives no Ground to conclude from thence, that they obſerved a Faſt upon this Occaſion, as well as a Feaſt. The Jews indeed think quite otherwiſe; and if we may believe their Calendar, have ever ſince kept a Faſt on the thirteenth of Adar, which was the Day appointed for their Extirpation. Upon the Hearing of which Decree, all Places were filled with doleful Lamentations, there being no Help for them if God did not deliver them; unto whom therefore they cried with Faſting and Prayer. In Memory of which they undertook to keep a yearly Faſt, as well as Days of Feaſting and Gladneſs, which immediately enſued. But their Calendar is a new Piece, and of no Credit at all, nor do we find the leaſt Indication that Eſther, or Mordecai enjoined any Thing but a Feaſt, no mention being made of a Faſt in their Decree. And therefore it was voluntarily undertaken by the Jews themſelves in After-Ages, as this Verſe ſeems to import. Which the former Targum thus paraphraſes (and the latter to the ſame Purpoſe) To confirm theſe Days of Purim, as Mordecai the Jew, and Eſther the Queen appointed concerning them: And as the Jews ordained for themſelves, and for their Poſterity, to keep in Memory the Matter of their Faſtings and their Prayers.

Ver. 32. And the Decree of Eſther confirmed theſe Matters of Purim, and it was written in the Book.] Either ſhe made a new Decree by her ſole Authority to inforce the former; or the Meaning is, that ſhe commanded the forementioned Decree, which confirmed the Days of Purim, to be recorded and made a publick Act, in a Book where perhaps this whole Hiſtory was contained: Which Record teſtified in Time to come, what paſſed in her Days; viz. their Danger, and their wonderful Deliverance, and the Decree of Eſther concerning the Obſervation of theſe Days.

CHAP. X.

Ver. 1. AND the King Ahaſuerus laid a Tribute upon the Land, and upon the Iſles of the Sea.] Having great Occaſion for Money, he laid a new Tax upon all his Provinces, both in the Continent (as we ſpeak) and in the Iſles of the Sea, belonging to his Dominions. Some think, that the Impoſts which he releaſed to his People at the Marriage of Eſther (ii. 18.) which continued for ſome Years, were now revived, and that this is all which is meant by theſe Words. But this doth not well agree with this Phraſe, of laying a Tribute on them. Our Primate Uſher underſtands by the Iſles here mentioned, thoſe in the Ægean Sea, which were conquered by Darius Hyſtaſpis, who was the firſt that laid a Tribute on his Subjects; for Cyrus and Cambyſes before him laid none; but being begun, they continued it to the Reign of this King, ad Annum Per. Julian. 4219. Strabo ſaith (Lib. xv. p. 735.) that the Tribute exacted on the Sea-coaſt was paid in Silver; but that from the Land, in ſuch Commodities as every Country afforded, in Wool, Drugs, Cattle, &c.

Ver. 2. And all the Acts of his Power, and of his Might,] Which was ſo great, that the Egyptians in their Hieroglyphicks repreſented Ochus by a Sword. And Plutarch (as Jacobus Capellus obſerves) calls him the moſt terrible of all the Perſian Kings.

And the Declaration of the Greatneſs of Mordecai, whereunto the King advanced him, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Media and Perſia?] Theſe Words ſignify, that as this King did great Things, ſo they were to be aſcribed very much to the Management of Mordecai, after he was advanced to the higheſt Authority in the Kingdom. But it was not the Deſign of the Author of this Hiſtory, to relate ſuch Things; for which he refers to the publick Records of the Kingdom, which were kept in ſome Part of the King's Houſe (it appears from vi. 1.) and were extant in thoſe Days, when this Book was written.

Ver. 3. For Mordecai the Jew was next unto King Ahaſuerus,] I cannot but obſerve here, in the Concluſion of this Book, that Mordecai is ſo often called the Jew by this Author (ſee ix. 29, 31.) that it hath inclined me to think it was not written by one of that Nation, but by ſome Proſelyte of Perſia who was converted, as many were at this Time (viii. 17.) to the Jewiſh Religion. Some of which might be in theſe Times divinely inſpired, as Nicholas a Proſelyte of Antioch was in the Apoſtles Days, Acts vi. 5. But I have no Authority for this, which I mention as a meer Conjecture.

And great among the Jews, and accepted of the Multitude of his Brethren,] His Greatneſs did not make him forget his Brethren; by whom he was highly eſteemed, and much honoured by every one of them.

Seeking

Seeking the Wealth of his People,] And no Wonder he was ſo acceptable, for his Study was how to do them good.

And ſpeaking Peace to all his Seed.] Adviſing and promoting whatſoever was for their Advantage; and ſpeaking ſtill to the King for that which might tend to the Happineſs and Proſperity of his Nation, which he advanced to the utmoſt of his Power. Unto which a moſt earneſt Deſire of the Coming of the MESSIAH contributed exceedingly, and the ſerious Study of the Law, which he recommended to them, as the only Means of living happily. Thus Conradus Pellicanus concludes his Commentary on this Book; but where he found this I cannot tell. It is only highly probable, that ſo good a Man as Mordecai, was very ſolicitous they ſhould be obedient to the Law of Moſes (as Malachi was) and live in Expectation of the MESSIAH, concerning whom Moſes propheſied. For as Epiphanius, and Seder Olam, and others obſerve, this Book of Eſther is the laſt Canonical Book of the Old Teſtament; and the nearer they approached to the Coming of Chriſt, the more deſirous holy Men were to ſee him. Others indeed think Malachi is the laſt divine Writer; but on the other Side, it ſeems probable, that he having taken no Notice of the Deliverance under Eſther, propheſied ſome Time before it.
